ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

The way the spectators at the opening performance at the Palace theatre behaved was something frightful. "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," the Universal production, had them howling with joy one moment as its delicious comedy reigned, then when drama and pathos followed the house was perfectly silent, only to be plunged into laughter again when another comedy bit was flashed on the screen.

As the fiery Irishman J. Farrel MacDonald has given one of the performances of rare skill for which he is noted. Comedy and not a little real acting fall to him during the picture.

William Beaudine, the director, was careful that the picture should at no time approach slapstick, and there is no hint of that type of humor. Rather the story is a serious heart drama with a goodly dose of comedy thrown in by the clever acting and the intelligent directing—so much comedy, in fact, that the picture is labeled as a comedy-drama.

Vera Gordon rose to feature heights through her performance in the first "Cohens and Kellys," which was one of the most successful comedy-dramas ever released. "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris" proves that she is also gifted with the ability to tinge her acting with subtle comedy touches.

An exceptionally appealing father is played by George Sidney, while Kate Price does her best comedy work as the wife of the Irish partner.

Gertrude Astor is a dizzy French model and Sue Carol is good to look at.

Charles Delaney accounts handsomely for the role of young Kelly, an art student in love with Miss Cohen.

The story concerns an Irish and a Jewish family who are partners in business. Frequent fights between them result in a feud which carried both families to Paris on the same boat to stop the wedding of Miss Cohen to young Mr. Kelly.

That's where the fun begins and it would detract from the pleasure of witnessing the picture to tell the whole plot. The story can't be beat and the cast was well chosen.

"The Cohens and Kellys in Paris" will be at the Palace theatre today and tomorrow.

Strand Theatre.

Harry Langdon, First National comedy king, just tramps in "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," his new feature comedy. The picture is now showing at the Strand. The theme of the photoplay is a cross-country walking race. Harry enters it to lift the mortgage from the house and also to win the hand of a very beautiful girl. In the course of the hike, Harry meets with all the misfortunes that a cross-country walker can possibly be afflicted with. In the supporting cast are Joan Crawford, Edward Davis, Alec Francis, Tom Murray and Brooks Benedict.

"The Iron Fist," is the title of a new romantic western melodrama just released through Rayart pictures. The star of the picture is Bob Reeves, who fulfills the part of "Curious" Collins, a hard-riding cowboy. Jules Cowles, a reliable villain, is conspicuous among those present in the role of a successful cowman and unscrupulous politician. Alex Murrel has the leading feminine role. Don't miss seeing this crashing western melodrama.

Breed Theatre

To those carping critics and that portion of the public who assert that there is nothing new in the movies there is a direct and defiant answer.

That answer is "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," First National Pictures' liberal screen version of John Erskine's great novel. The local engagement of the picture opened last night at the Breed theatre. This reviewer cannot conceive of your not enjoying "The Private Life of Helen of Troy."

The picture contains brilliant comedy and sly satire. It makes its characters human and at times ridiculous. The most beautiful woman of all time—Helen of Troy—is not a perfect wife. She is not even a perfect sweetheart, as Paris speedily discovered. Paris, on the other hand, is human, too, and Menelaos has all the attributes of the tired business man.

There is no point in attempting to convey to you what the picture contains, because it is futile. It has everything.

The settings, designed by Horace Jackson, stand by themselves as does the picture. There is nothing with which to compare them. Beautiful, stately, slightly impressionistic and always in the mood of the scene, they reflect genuine artistry and great imagination. Max Ree, who costumed the production, and Lee Garmes and Eugene Hickox, who photographed it, are also deserving of mention.

Maria Corda, an Hungarian actress brought to this country for the role, takes her place immediately among the foremost screen luminaries, and Lewis Stone, as Menelaos, adds another feather to a cap already well stocked with them. Ricardo Cortes, as Paris; George Fawcett, as Prioneus and Alice White as Adraste, to say nothing of numerous other players, give performances of smoothness and understanding.

Use PERTUSSIN for COUGHS it clears the throat!

POETRY

Had I But Known.

Had I but known how brief the hour,
How soon the sun would vanish—
Oh, I had used my strength and power
To help and heal, to banish
The lines of care, the print of pain,
And made some mortal glad again!

Had I but known how keen the word
I aimed with careless laughter,
That stabbed an absent friend, and stirred
A heart to hate, long after—
Oh, I had left the bow unstrung
That sped the arrow from my tongue!
Had I but known the weary load
My fallen brother carried,
I had not stooped to pip the goad,
I had not scorned nor harried;
But I had bent to lift, to guide,
And held him safely by my side.
—Fay F. A. Dellosset in The Living Church.

A Vermont Potterer.

There used to be in every place
Some pretty nice old feller,
With good-sized feet and small-sized face,
And manners mild and meller;
He'd make a fancy parsnip bed,
Or wooden stamp for butter—
He liked to do just little jobs,
He lived to kinder putter.

He had no hold and deep designs,
No Cesear Borgia flavor;
He worked along his little lines
Belike a steel engraver;
You never heard him rip or tear,
Or mumble, growl, or mutter,
For thriftness never got so black
He couldn't poke and putter.

He didn't have no wish to cling
To goods that wasn't hisen;
He never did the smallest thing
'Twould send a fly to prison;
But he could trim a gooseberry bush,
Or fix a leaky gutter—
He liked the fussiest work the best,
Jest anyway to putter.

Most everything he ever did,
He took a day to do it,
Like fitting on a firkin lid
And tacking tack nails through it;
He'd have a dozen tools around
And make a first-class clutter,
But there for that was he ordained,
His soul was born to putter.

If he had worn a woman's dress,
I believe I'm right in saying
He'd been a "case," and nothing less,
To tat and do crocheting;
His hook, it would have set bazars
And Floral Halls a-flutter—
He would have make a corking wife
The man who lived to putter.
—Daniel L. Cady, in "Rhymes of Vermont Rural Life."

NEW LONDON POLICE QUERIED ABOUT JOSEPH YOUNG, DISPENSER OF DRUGS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 19.—Joseph Young, colored, formerly of New London, is under arrest at New Rochelle, N. Y., charged with violation of the narcotic act and the police of this city have been requested to furnish the New Rochelle authorities Young's police record. This has been done. Young has not been in New London since 1922. At that time he was residing at 28 Hill street and was known to be distributing drugs among addicts. The police had been keeping a watch on the movements of Young andwhen they received information that Young had obtained a fresh supply of drugs, Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman William Babcock went to the Hill street house. Young was arrested, but he succeeded in partially destroying the evidence of his acts for when the police reached the house Young threw the can containing the drug into a snow bank, the drug being practically destroyed. The box containing a very small quantity of the drug, was recovered, however. Young was bound over to the May term of the superior court. He was unable to supply a bond for his appearance and was taken to jail. While awaiting trial, Young attacked Turnkey William A. Gilbert in the jail cellroom. Gilbert was given a severe beating by the negro and was rescued by other prisoners and by Jailer Winder Reed. When court convened Young was not tried for the violation of the drug act, but was presented on a charge of assault with intent to kill, for his attack upon the turnkey. Young was sentenced to not less than two, nor more than four years in state prison. Since his discharge from jail Young has not been in New London.

TRIANGULAR SCRAP FROM SATURDAY BOOZING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 19.—Edward Devine, 31, 198 Connecticut avenue, a seaman; Cornelius Murphy, 32, of 8 Grand street, a freight handler and George F. Kelly, 24, of 40 West Colt street, a plumber, were arrested at 1.30 o'clock this morning charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. All were released upon furnishing a surety on their respective bonds of $35 for appearance in the police court Monday. Devine and Murphy met Kelly on Howard street, near Hamilton street, about 1 o'clock. The three had been drinking. An altercation started and resulted in a three-cornered fight. While the fight was in progress the police were informed of the battle and Patrolman John Sullivan and Frank Philopeno were sent to end it. In the meantime, Patrolman George Laboe and Braxton Hill had been informed of the battle and arrived in advance of the other officers. Devine, Murphy and Kelly were locked up and this morning they were released when bail was furnished.

BREATH TEST CONVICTS POQUONOC BRIDGE DRIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 19.—Lionel Wentworth, of Poquonoc Bridge, will be in Groton town court Monday, charged with violation of the state automobile law, in driving his car while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested Friday night after his automobile had struck a motionless automobile owned by the Groton state police. Wentworth had been in New London and had had liquor. When he started to drive to his home, Wentworth was in no condition to operate the car, but he managed to guide it through traffic until he reached Thames street, Groton. When the auto was just south of Ferry street it crashed against the state police auto, which was parked beside the curb. The crash caused Wentworth's auto to overturn and he was caught a prisoner in it. His cries for help attracted the attention of pedestrians and after the car had been righted it was discovered that Wentworth was uninjured and it was also revealed that he was intoxicated. He was arrested. To make sure of Wentworth's condition he was taken to the office of a physician, who examined Wentworth and pronounced him to be under the influence of liquor.

Fifty-two members of the class of '27 at Connecticut college held a most enjoyable dinner reunion last evening at Light House Inn. The tables were very attractive and the feast high-grade. The dinner preceded a program of delightful exercises for which those at the reunion returned to the college.

Fred Beloflowsky, 29, a window cleaner residing at 55 North Bank street, was arrested shortly after last midnight charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He was released this morning when he obtained a surety on his bond of $35 and will be in the police court Monday. Beloflowsky went to his home about midnight and quarreled with his wife. Beloflowsky created such a disturbance that his wife went to police headquarters and made a complaint against her husband.—Acting Sergeant William Graham went to the Beloflowsky residence and arrested the window cleaner.

Frank Wyrod, proprietor of a market corner of Bank and Colman streets, made complaint to the police Friday night that boys had stolen a basket of tomatoes that had been displayed at the entrance to the store.

S. J. Dreyfus, 23, claiming to be a resident of New London, was a member of the crew of the American tanker, Chuky, on which an explosion occurred Friday while en route from San Pedro, Cal., to Yokohama. He is reported to have been rescued. Dreyfus is not known in New London, for an attempt was made to identify him along the water front. Neither does his name appear in the city directory.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Vescovi is survived by two sons, Andrew and Leon Vescovi and by two daughters, Misses Lucy and Lena Vescovi.

Justina Sienkowski has sold a house and lot on Huntington street to Guiseppi A. Perrone.

John Denig, 318 Central avenue, was in the police court Saturday, charged with non-support. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended and Denig furnished a bond of $300 to assure the court that he would contribute a specified amount of money for his wife's support. The only other cases heard were for intoxication and train-riding. In the matter of the former fines of $5 were imposed, but execution suspended. In the case of the train-riders, Robert Benson and John McCarthy, soldiers and stationed aboard the mine planter Henry, who were arrested by Special Agent Swanson of the New Haven railroad Friday night a nolle was entered.

A public service automobile driven by Charles Parmlee skidded on Bank street Saturday night and before the driver could get the car under control it struck an electric light pole. The impact caused the globe on the light to be demolished and the auto was damaged, but not bad.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sylvania celebrated the tenth anniversary of their marriage last evening at their residence, 100 Ocean avenue. Mr. Sylvia is a member of the New London police department and because of that fact members of the department were included among those who went to the Sylvia residence and rendered congratulations to the hosts.

The continued case of William Falvey, 261 Huntington street, charged with indecent assault, will be tried in the police court Monday. Falvey who was arrested last Thursday, is in jail, he having been unable to provide a surety on his bail of $2000 for his court appearance. Falvey hired a room at 54 Golden street. Harold Staplins, 19, of 64 Vauxhall street has made the complaint against Falvey, who was arrested by Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Clarence Wells. It is understood that Falvey will make a complete denial of the allegation and so far as it is known, Staplins has no witnesses to corroborate his statements. Staplins has been a prisoner at the county jail since the arrest of Falvey, being held as a witness, for it was believed that if Staplins was allowed his liberty he would not be on hand when the case was called.

Members of Niagara Engine company enjoyed several hours socially Saturday night at the quarters of the company, Bank street. During the evening an old-fashioned clam chowder was served.

BANK STREET ONE-WAY UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb 19.—Bank street became a one-way street between State and Tilley streets today when traffic das directed in but one direction, northerly from the point where the street will be widened and new highway constructed to its termination, State street. All traffic, both automobile and trolley cars was in that direction and will continue, indefinitely, or at least until after the street has been widened and the new highway constructed and this will occupy several weeks. The one-way traffic was started as soon as the traffic officers went on duty. As a result in the change there was more or ess confusion as was anticipated there would be. Trolley cars from Ocean beach to the State street terminal proceeded as usual, but from State street to the beach all cars went by way of State, Washington, Colt and Truman streets to Montauk avenue. A trolley car of the smaller type provided a shuttle line over the Post Hill route. Because of the confusion and in order to compel the drivers of automobiles to adhere strictly to the new traffic ruling, officers were stationed throughout the day at the intersecting streets, Golden, Pearl and Tilley streets where all cars were ordered driven in a northerly direction only. Where the drivers desired to go south they were compelled to return to a route which would allow them to reach Bank street through an intersecting street, south of Tilley street. Tomorrow a force of city employes will begin the task of widening the street. Work will be started reducing the sidewalks on the east and west side of the street two feet and with this accomplished the work of constructing a permanent pavement will be started. It is anticipated that the work will not be completed before May and whether a return to the two-way traffic will occur at that time has not been determined.

New London experienced its first real test of winter weather Saturday night and today. With a light snow prevailing after a hail and mist storm in the early hours of Saturday, a steady fall of snow followed in the afternoon and evening and freezing weather accompanying the snow treacherous highways and sidewalks resulted. Today, more on the sidewalks than in the highway, walking was dangerous excepting where city employes had sprinkled sand or property owners had caused ashes to be scattered over the surface.

John F. Murphy, 47 Pacific street, made complaint to the police tonight that since yesterday his son's sled had been stolen from the yard of the Murphy residence.

Continued improvement is reported in the condition of John Stanners of Ocean avenue, former chief of the New London fire department, who recently underwent an operation at Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

The annual automobile show of the New London Automobile association, which was in progress four days, was brought to a conclusion in the state armory Saturday night. The show proved one of the most successful that the association has conducted.

The annual banquet of the Catholic Women's club is to be held at Garde's, Feb. 1 at 7.30.

POETRY FOR THE WIDEAWAKES

White Peacocks

The Old Rail Fence in the shadows
Where hung the leaves with their dew,
Where peaped the stars o'er the hay-stack
The hours of the long night through!
The Old Rail Fence with its lichens
In splashes of silver and red,
Oh, it was a rock and a shelter
For many a courtly head!

White trains there were in the twilight,
As white as the bloom of May;
Ah, trains in the blush of the clover
At the close of a summer day!
They seemed like the ripple of water
When it breaks to spangles of foam;
A cascade sweeping in beauty
Past lamps that flicker and gloam!

The Old Rail Fence in the shadows,
It knew in slumber and rest.
Those sleepers there in the watches
As the moon swung down to the West!
The Old Rail Fence in its vigil
Through mist and moonlight and rain;
Oh, on through the years it has loved them,
The ones of tiara and train!

—Leslie Clare Manchester.

To the Leader of the Migrating Wild Geese

Strange guide o that strange V-shaped caravan
A-pointing north, of winged travelers
Against a cold gray sky, who carry your Most prized poesession—wold, sweet life—not
Another clime: We envy you your matchless
Leadership. Your compass no one knows.
We only know there is no compass made
By man that's half so true! Your course is sure;
Your only fear lest the marauder, man,
O'ertake your caravan upon the way
And rob you of your priceless jewel—life.
The sweet, wild call came wafted on the winds;
You took the sporting chance. I cast aside
The cold, hard fact that life must ever be Sustained by sacrifice of life, and wish
You safe arrival at your journey's end.

—Agnes Joynes.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDEAWAKES

We have often heard it said that goats eat tin cans, and some people really believe it. Of course, goats don't eat tin cans; they can't eat tin any more than we can. What the goat is after is the taste of the paste that holds the labels on the cans. The goat is really one of the very cleanest feeders of the livestock family. The goat will not eat hay or straw that has been trampled on nor will it eat kitchen scraps that have been tainted the least bit.

The goat's choicest food is delicate foliage. However, when they are hungry they will eat most any kind of brush. Goats prefer green trees and shrubs, and they will stand on their hind legs while eating. In this way they can reach foliage six feet or more from the ground. If it can't it will vary its diet a great deal.

Goats require drinking water only at intervals of two or three days. People who keep goats usually water them only two or three times a week, seldom oftener than every other day. The animals like warm and dry shelters. Dampness and exposure to cold rains will seriously affect their health.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

The Saint Bernard Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide-wakes. In this letter I will describe the Saint Bernard dog. This dog belongs to a breed of large dogs developed by the monks of the monastery of Saint Bernard, in the Swiss Alps. This monastery is near a dangerous pass, and the monks train their dogs to go out in the storms, bringing nourishment to travelers lost in snow and ice, and leading them back to safety.

The Saint Bernards are the largest of domestic dogs. Some are three feet high and weigh 150 pounds. They are tall and strong, erect and muscular, with splendid head and intelligent expression. Some are smooth coated and others very shaggy coated. The coat is usually white with patches of black or tawny.

Every day these dogs are sent out to test the passageways over dangerous chasms and glaciers. They carry a small flask of brandy for the half-frozen travelers and either lead in the traveler or call for help by loud barking. The Saint Bernard is the hero of many stories.

Picking Violets

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. One day in summer my sisters, brothers and I went picking violets a little distance from an apple tree. As we were picking violets my sister saw something moving near her hand. And what do you suppose it was? It was a snake! She told us and we all ran home as fast as we could. The next day we went again, but the snake wasn't there.

Baltic, Box 383.

The Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: The dog is a noble animal among quadrupeds. It belongs to the same tribe as the fox, but not so fierce.

The dog is larger than a cat. His body is long and round. Some have coats of white and black hairs, a bushy tail, long head, long ears, which stand up, smooth tongue, very strong and sharp teeth, pointed nose, padded feet and strong claws, but they are blunt. It cannot draw them like puss does, so they make more noise in walking.

The dog feeds on meat and bones, but will also eat bread and vegetables.

The dog is a very faithful companion to a man. He knows his master's voice as well as his steps and can find him in the dark. It can track his master along a crowded street for many miles by the smell along the tracks. The young dogs are called puppies when they are born. And when they are ten days old they open their eyes.

The dog is a very useful animal, for it guards the house, minds the sheep, and will not allow anyone to harm his master.

The Squirrel

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you.

One bright Sunday morning I happened to look outdoors. I saw a red squirrel. I was watching it about half an hour. I enjoyed myself watching him running up and down the trees. All of a sudden it got out of my sight. I was looking into the tree to see if I could see him, but it never came back.

My Trip to Canada

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you, and I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy my story. The title is My Trip to Canad.

Three years ago I went to Canada on my vacation with my mother, sister and brother. I went to my uncle's house on a farm. I had never been on a farm before. I enjoyed it very much. I would go to see my uncle milk the cows and feed the chickens. Sometimes I would go for a buggy ride, and on the way I would stop to pick berries. I enjoyed my vacation very much.

An Adventure of a Day

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I hope you will like my story.

One day Helen and I went huckleberrying. I took a five quart pail and she took three. So we started out. We went so far away in the woods that we didn't know the way out. So Helen sat down and began to cry, but I tried to soothe her saying somebody might come and help us out. Just as I was telling her that I heard a slight noise in back of me, and what do you think I saw? A man with torn trousers and long beard and hair all tangled up. We were so frightened we didn't know what to do or say. But the man spoke kindly and asked what we were doing, so we told him we were lost and didn't know the way out. When we came home my mother was frightened and my brothers were looking for me but when she saw us she was glad that we came home and she told us she wouldn't let us go alone huckleberrying again. So that was an adventure of a day.

A Surprise

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the surprise my sister made for me. Last week when I came home from school my sister told me to go up stairs and get her dress. When I got there I saw a box on the bed. I looked into it and saw a pink silk dress and a card which said "To Anna. Wishing you a happy birthday." Then I knew it was my birthday, so I took the dress and tried it. I was so glad I got it because I always wanted a pink silk dress.

Yellowstone Park

Dear Uncle Jed: It has been quite a little while since I have written to you and the Wide-Awake Circle, so I thought I would tell you about the Yellowstone park, because I have found it very interesting.

In the Yellowstone park, the government reservation in Wyoming, is the Yellowstone canyon, thought by many to be the most beautiful scene in the world. The river leaps over a perfect fall more than 300 feet high, then it sweeps along over a series of rapids. When you look at it on the sides it looks like a mass of molten silver. The canyon is a great depth. The sides are mineral colored, of delicate hues of pink, yellow, red and blue. The colors are especially beautiful in the shadow of sunset or the silver light of the moon.

The Yellowstone park has many other attractions besides the fall and canyon. The principal of these is the geysers. These are natural springs whose water are forced upward like a fountain. "Old Faithful" is the best known. When the water gets heated it goes up about 150 feet in the air. Some of the hot springs are steady in their flow and carry much mineral matter in solution.

There are pools of water, steaming hot at one and while quite cool at the other end. There are people who bathe in this pool and gradually approach the hot part until their flesh turns red.

The Yellowstone park is the paradise of wild animals, as shooting is forbidden within its limits. Buffaloes are kept in the park. Elk, bear, mountain goats and all mild animals of the region may live there.

The park is visited by many sightseers.

The Big Flood

Dear Uncle Jed: I know you must have heard about the flood in Vermont. My father had to go up there to rebuild the railroad bridges that were washed away. He said that it was a terrible sight. There were bodies floating down the streams. The lower floors of one house were full of water. The owner made a raft out of some doors and floated down the street. Doesn't it seem terrible to think of such things? But these people lost their lives, just the same. I hope that nothing like that happens in Connecticut, don't you?

The American Purple Finch

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to the Wide-Awakes and I hope it will please you. The bird which I am about to describe is called "The American Purple Finch."

Finch is a general name applied to the largest family of birds, the seed-eaters, to which family about one-seventh of all birds belong. Many of them are beautiful songsters, and some are brilliantly colored. The chief feature of this family is a sharp conical bill, made strong for crushing seeds. There are about 550 species of finch, and they are found in all parts of the world except Australia. The American purple finch is found in eastern North America, especially in the mountains of Pennsylvania. It is described as "a sparrow dipped in deep red dye, after which some brown and gray colors remain."

It has been called "a crimson flash." Its head is a dull rose color, its back a brownish red, edged with grayish white and brown. Its breast is crimson and underneath it is grayish white. It often is seen remaining in the north in December and February, having a nest in cone-bearing trees. Its song is very pleasing.

My Trip to Pittsburgh

Dear Uncle Jed: As this is my first letter to you, I thought I would tell you about my trip to Pittsburgh last summer with my mother and daddy.

We left New London about 5 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon and got there after 9 o'clock the next morning. My cousin was there to meet us with his car and we ha dto ride to the north side, where they live away up on a hill.

I went all around Pitts school and Carnegie library, and saw the big ball field. One day we took a trip down to Wheeling, West Virginia.

Another day two machine loads of us started for Cleveland, Ohio. It was a lovely trip. We slept in a tent there all night. Then we started for home. After having such a nice time for ten days, we hated to leave, but we hope to go again and visit my aunt and uncle who gave us such a nice time.

My Pet

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I will tell you about my pet kitten. I named him Tossy. I got him last Sunday from my aunt. He has bright blue eyes, his color is white. He is very pretty. I tied a blue ribbon around his neck.

Every time we eat supper he comes to me and wants something to eat. I give him his breakfast at 8 o'clock, his dinner at 12 and supper at 5. I am very fond of him. Every time I come from school I play with him. I have fun with him.

Chased by a Bull

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you will like my story. This is the first time I have written to you.

One day Ruth came down to my house and asked me if I wanted to go huckleberrying. I asked my mother if I could go and she said "Yes." I took some lunch with me and so did Ruth. We started about 9 o'clock in the morning. I took a pail which held five quarts and Ruth took a pail which held eight quarts. We started to pick huckleberries as soon as we got there. We picked until it was 12 o'clock. We knew what time it was by hearing the whistle. Then we ate our lunch. We picked until we got our pails filled. Just as soon as we started to go we heard a noise. It sounded like someone saying "Se!" "sss!" "ss!" We knew right off that it was a snake. Then it came right by our feet, a black flat snake. It had a flat head. Then we ran until we got out in the road. We were half way on the road when we heard another noise. We looked in back and instead of seeing a snake there was a bull running after us. Ruth told me to hide in back of a fence so the bull wouldn't see us. So we hid. Then I peeked out and the bull was gone. So we both went home together. We did not spill very many huckleberries, only about a half a quart.

At the Farm

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my second letter to you. I am going to tell you about "A Farm." Father and I decided to take a trip to my grandfather's farm. We started early in the morning and walked till we came to the farm, two miles from Colchester. When we got there we saw how they milk the cows. I tried to milk a cow, but I could not. After milking, I let out the cows, and then chased them into the woods and came back. Then I went with my uncle to take the milk to the station. When we came back my uncle took the horses and went to cultivate the potatoes and I led the horses. My uncle held the plow. After we got through it got dark and we had to go back home. My uncle took us home and I drove the horse. I enjoyed myself very much.

BENIE ADLER, Age 11.

George Washington

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my second letter to the Wide-Awakes and I hope you will enjoy my story. All Americans honor the name of George Washington. He was born in Virginia Feb. 22, 1732. As a boy he went to school in a log schoolhouse. When he was 16 years old he learned to be a surveyor. A surveyor is a man who measures land.

This country at that time belonged to England. England did not treat the Americans justly, so war broke out between the two countries. The Americans chose Washington for their leader, and for seve years he led their army against England. England was defeated and the United States became a separate country. On each Fourth of July we have a holiday to celebrate our becoming a free people.

When the Americans had set up their own government they elected Washington to be their leader. They made him the first president of the United States. He served his country faithfully in peace and in war. As long as this country shall last, his memory will be dear to those who live here.

Our School Club

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you.

One day our principal sent for us to come into her room. She said we were going to have a club. We called it "The School Welfare Club." We pay five cents a week dues. We have now most nine dollars. We are going to have a play and I hope to have a part in it. It is a good club, and we hope to do good.

ARNOLD SHEFER.

My Lost Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you will like my story of my lost cat. It was a pretty cat. It was a pure black coon cat. My father sent it to me from the Maine lumber camps. We had a big bird dog and that cat must have got jealous or afraid of him, because he wouldn't stay in the room with him, so one day while I was at school he got out and I never saw him again. Everybody liked him because he was such a nice color, black, and he had a nice bushy tail. I was very sorry to lose him.

LORENZO HATHAWAY, Age 13.

Our Safety Council

Dear Uncle Jed: We have a Safety Council in school. Every two weeks we have a meeting. We bring two cents for dues every two weeks. We choose patrol leaders who keep their eyes open for lawbreakers who we punish. We have a president, treasurer and secretary. I think it keeps children off of thin ice and playing in the streets.

WILLIAM FREEMAN, Age 12.
Plainfield.

The Pointer

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you, and hope you will appreciate my description about the "Pointer."

This dog belongs to the hound family, that is, the breed of dog which tracks its prey by scent. It is trained to stop when game is near and point towards it with the nose. In a general way the pointer resembles other members of the hound group of dogs. Its coat is smooth and short, the coloring being generally black or brown and white, though some of the best pointers are entirely black.

The pointer's trick of showing the position of game birds is the result of a long course of training. It has a wonderfully keen sense of smell and can track its prey rapidly and without mistake.

GRAIN COMPANY OFFICIALS WILL PLAN FOR BUSINESS AFTER FIRE

The Norwich Grain company's three story wooden building at No. 41 Water street was totally destroyed by flames which swept through it Saturday. Two other buildings adjoininig, No. 31, formerly occupied by the L. A. Gallup company and, No. 45, occupied by Bishop and Bidwell company were also damaged. The total loss is placed at $60,000 or more. The fire, starting from an undetermined cause, gained headway with such rapidity that it was impossible to save the building from destruction.

The first word of the fire received at the central station was by telephone, at 10.07 o'clock and almost at the same moment box 161 was pulled in. Arriving at the scene Chief Howard L. Stanton found the building a mass of flames, and immediately sent in a second alarm. The firemen did remarkably fine work in largely confining the flames to the three story frame building. So rapidly had the flames, fed by bales of hay and other highly combustible material, spread through the building that when the department arrived the place was a roaring furnace. The second alarm brought all of the city's apparatus to the scene and later the Yantic company was called out. Lines were hooked onto all available hydrants in the vicinity and Engines 1, 3, 5, and 6 were set to work pumping water from the Thames river. The Yantic company which arrived at 11.10 was also pressed into service pumping from the river. Thousands of gallons of water were poured into the building from both the front and rear sides.

Volumes of dense smoke practically hid the building from view for some time. Fearing that the blaze would break through into the adjoininig buildings hose lines were run into both the Gallup and Bishop and Bidwell buildings and water was played into the grain building from upper story windows.

Shortly after 11 o'clock the flames broke through the roof of the grain elevator, shooting into the air for nearly 50 feet. Several tons of grain poured through holes in the sides of the elevator and accumulated in piles on the ground at the rear of the building. A few minutes later the grain elevator caved in. A three inch line attached to the 75 foot aerial ladder poured water onto the Bishop and Bidwell building, as the flames began to creep along the roof of that building.

The fire was fairly well under control by noon and at 2:34 o'clock the recall was sounded. Three firemen were hurt and deputy chief H. R. Taft's car was damaged when the windshield was smashed and the top torn off. Richard Barwell, a member of the Greeneville company, was thrown to the ground when the ladder he was standing on fell. He sustained a wrenched ankle and a broken blood vessel. Firemen John Nolan and Stanley Vounce of Engine No. 3 were knocked down when a hose line they were carrying from one of the pumpers to the front of the building got away from them.

The firemen were on the side of Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft's machine, carrying the hose, when the nozzle got away from them, smashed the windshield and crushed the top of his car. Mr. Nolan received a broken bone in his wrist and Mr. Vounce was cut about the hand.

The value of the grain building, which is owned by The Cutler Co., of Wilbraham, Mass., was given as $35,000 and the value of the machinery and stock in the building as $15,000. The L. A. Gallup building is owned by Theodore Blakeley of New Haven and their loss is covered by insurance. The Bishop-Bidwell company suffered considerable damage from smoke and water. Large quantities of goods stored in the building suffered from smoke damage. All floors of the building were filled with smoke even at a late hour Saturday night.

Engine No. 6 burned out a bearing while pumping from the river and was put out of commission. It was towed to the central fire station by a truck owned by the William Ryan Sand Co. The Yantic company was sent back to its station during the early afternoon. The Backus hospital ambulance was kept at the scene of the fire for several hours but its services were not needed. Because of hose lines stretched across Washington square trolley traffic in Main street was transferred at that place.

Although the recall was sounded at 2.34 o'clock in the afternoon a number of the firemen remained at the building, drenching the burning bales of hay and pouring water into the smoking ruins until a late hour Saturday night. Firemen were also on duty at the ruins practically all day Sunday.

Officer Joseph Gendron was stationed at the scene of the fire all night. About 1.15 o'clock Sunday morning the ruins started to blaze up again and Officer Gendron sent in a call to the central station, and firemen were sent back to the building to squelch the blaze.

Hundreds of people watched the blazing structure throughout Saturday afternoon and evening. Shortly after noon the firemen were served hot coffee and doughnuts through the kindness of James L. Case and officials of the Norwich Grain Co., of which G. C. Bell is the local manager.

Temporary Office Opened

C. G. Bell, local manager for the grain company has made arrangements to open up a temporary office at the store on Water street, occupied by Frederick G. Crowell. Officials of the grain company are expected to arrive in Norwich this (Monday) morning to look over the situation and to discuss plans for the continuance of the business.

Just what caused the fire had not been determined up to Sunday night. It is said however, that an employe of the grain company discovered the fire in the grain elevator towards the rear of the building and started to look for a pail of water to throw on it. It is understood that another employe, who noticed him hurrying around, asked him what the matter was and that he answered by saying that there was a fire in the elevator. The telephone call to the fire department was then sent in and was quickly followed by the bell alarm.

DIES IN HIS AUTOMOBILE THAT MIRED IN MUD

Allen M. Sayles, 67, of Ekonk (Sterling), died suddenly from heart disease Saturday morning while seated in his automobile where the machine had become mired in the mud beside the Ekonk-Oneco highway a short distance from his home.

Mr. Sayles, accompanied by his son, had left home in his automobile shortly after 9 o'clock and was on his way to Oneco for the purpose of delivering eggs and buying groceries at a store there. Driving off the highway a short distance from his home the car became stuck in the mud and after several unsuccessful attempts to get it back onto the highway Mr. Sayles sent his boy home to get a pair of horses, with which to pull the auto out of the mud. On returning from the house with the horses, the boy found his father dead seated behind the wheel of the automobile.

Mr. Sayles was a farmer and was well and favorably known in the town, where he was born Aug. 27, 1861, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sayles. Besides his wife he is survived by three daughters and two sons. A son was killed in the World war and another met his death a number of years ago at the Oneco railroad crossing.

FIRST BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED BY JUNIOR HADASSAH

The junior chapter of Hadassah celebrated its first birthday with a meeting last Friday at the Hebrew Institute and the Misses Esther Raydin and Ann Bess Romansky speakers from Hartford. A year ago Miss Raydin, with the aid of Miss Ann Sadinsky, organized the chapter.

Miss Romansky gave a very interesting report of the activities of the junior chapter throughout the country, and the recording secretary, Miss Ida Turetzsky, told of the events that had taken place during the year.

Miss Mildred Solomon, hostess for the evening, assisted by the Misses Frances Krum, Mildred Charron, Mollie Markoff, Ruth Sadinsky, and Shirley Tempchin, planned and carried out a very enjoyable social hour. Miss Raydin was proud to learn that the order here had had such a successful season and extended her best wishes for the year to come.

GROTON REGISTRAR AND MINISTER ARE CENSURED

The registrar of Groton, who issued a marriage license for a minor female without having the required written consent from parent or guardian, and the minister who married the 13 year old girl, are both censured by Judge C. L. Avery of the superior court in handing down a decision annulling the marriage of Olivia Woods Andrews of New London to Anthony Andrews, formerly of New London, now of parts unknown. Andrews deserted his child-wife a few weeks after they were married and has never been heard from since then.

In his memorandum of decision, Judge Avery says:

The plaintiff, Olivia Woods, was born in New London on Sept. 8, 1909. On July 8, 1922, a regularly ordained clergyman performed a marriage ceremony between the plaintiff and Anthony Andrews. The marriage was solemnized in an adjoining town to New London, pursuant to a marriage license issued by the registrar of births, marriages and deaths in the town where the ceremony was performed. The plaintiff at the time of the marriage was 13 years old, was small and undeveloped physically and mentally, had attended school in New London and had attained the fifth grade. Her parents were in the south, and she was living with her grandmother, and the marriage was evidently engineered by the grandmother to be rid of the care and support of the child.

After the marriage the parties lived together for a few weeks, when she was abandoned by her husband, who has never been heard from since. Undoubtedly the plaintiff was coerced into this marriage at that time by her grandmother, and had no appreciation of the responsibility or duties of that status.

The plaintiff is still very small and youthful in appearance, and the clergyman who performed the ceremony ought to have seen that she was a minor, entirely too young to get married unless exceptional reasons existed therefor. The license to marry was procured by the groom, who falsely swore that the age of the proposed bride was 16 years. If, however, the registrar of births, marriages and deaths had observed the provisions of our statutes in regard to the issuing of licenses to marry, he would not have issued a license in the present case. At the time of this marriage the matter of marriage licenses was regulated by chap. 260 of the public acts of 1921, which provides as follows:

"No such certificate shall be issued if either of the parties is a minor until a parent or guardian having control of such minor shall give to the registrar his written consent, nor to parties either of whom is less than 16 years of age unless one of the selectmen, or a person having the authority of a selectman, of the town or city in which the marriage ceremony is to be performed, shall indorse on the license his written consent."

The application for the license in this case did not contain a written consent of any selectman of the town in which the ceremony was to be performed, not with the written consent of any parent or guardian given to the registrar of births, marriages and deaths, for the issuance of the license. As far as appeared, the parents of the female resided in the United States, and the registrar should not have issued the license certificate until the provisions of this section of the statute were complied with. Moreover, the clergyman who performed the ceremony could not have failed to observe the exceedingly youthful appearance of the bride, and should have refused to perform the ceremony until satisfied that every provision of the law safeguarding the rights of a minor party to a marriage had been complied with. It is the duty of clergymen and officials having to do with the marriage of minors to see that all provisions of the law designed to safeguard their rights have been fully complied with before taking any part in the solemnization of such a marriage.

Judgment may be entered annulling the marriage between the plaintiff and defendant, and changing the name of the plaintiff to Olive Woods.

MAY BE THE LAST LENT FOR MANY, SAYS PRIEST

"Each must meet death—how? when? where?" asked the rector of St. Patrick's church, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, preaching at the 7:30 mass Sunday morning. "The present is yours the past is gone—the future rests with God. Make the most of the present; now is the acceptable time." Monsignor May was commenting on the regulations for the observance of Lent sent out by Rt. Rev. Bishop Nilan, which he had just read. He had also finished reading the gospel for the Sunday, Luke 18: 31-43, the miracle of the restoration of sight to the blind beggar of Jericho.

He directed attention to the season of Lent as the time set apart for penance and preparation for the triumphant resurrection of Christ at Easter. If we work out our reparation for evil-doing during Lent we will be in a state to share in this victory over sin and hell. The Church, aware of the spiritual diseases of her children, leads them to the altar as this penitential period begins, places symbolical ashes on their foreheads and warns each, "Remember, man, that dust thou art and unto dust thou shalt return."

The season inspires a fear of death for the reason that, as every Catholic recognizes, back of the gate of death stands the throne of God's judgment. The human fear of death is due to the consciousness of sin—the knowledge of the judgment of an impartial God. Some, beguiled by the ways of the world, forget their obligation to work out their salvation; but even these are never deserted by Mother Church, which seeks them especially during Lent, offering graces, helps, blessings to all her children away from her in the byways of sin. Such help comes through a good confession, to effect reconciliation with God. Not even the greatest sinner need despair, since the God of justice is also a God of infinite mercy. Contrition, repentance, will regain the favor of God, though one's sins be as the sands of the sea.

Monsignor May then turned his brief sermon into a personal plea to all his people to make of the season beginning Wednesday the period in which to save their immortal souls. As their pastor, he said, he was responsible to God for their spiritual welfare; hence he expressed the hope that in his final accounting he might have the saved souls of all to present as an evidence of his worthy shepherding. "Spend Lent," he besought them," in the service of Jesus Christ, in repentance, charity, self-denial;" and he announced that the daily parish mass during Lent would be advanced a half hour, from 7:30 to 8, while for those desirous of continuing the practice of daily holy communion the Eucharist will be administered at 6:55 each week day morning.

Ash Wednesday, the holy ashes will be blessed and imposed at the 8 o'clock mass. That evening at 7:30 there will be the recitation of the rosary, and again the imposition of the ashes. Every Friday evening at 7:30 there will be the Stations of the Cross. The Sunday evening sermons throughout Lent will be delivered by priests of the Passionist Order from the monastery at West Springfield, Mass., writers, teachers and missionaries whose years of experience and training have given them expert knowledge of the needs, cravings and questionings of the soul.

Following the sermon of the rector Sunday he was assisted in administering Holy communion by Rev. John J. Reilly, a good representation of the Rosary society leading the communicants to the altar.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS SENTENCED TO 16,401 DAYS IN JAIL

Courts of the state sentenced persons convicted of operating motor vehicles while under the influence of liquor to spend 16,401 days in jail during 1927 and then modified the punishment by suspending operation of more than one-fourth of the penalties, or 4,490 days, according to reports made to the state motor vehicle department. This leniency was offset, however, by the cases of other offenders prosecuted on the same charge who were forced to serve 10,290 days because they could not pay imposed fines.

Fines in all such cases amounted to $149,800.54 during the year, and the costs of court, reached $24,152.51. Of the fines, $17,992, or about 12 per cent., was remitted.

Only sixty-two operators among the 1,729 before the courts charged with driving while intoxicated were found not guilty. Ninety-four cases were nolled unconditionally for various reasons, eight were nolled on payment of court costs and judgment was suspended in nine cases. Fines were imposed or sentences passed in 1,556 cases, or 90 per cent. of all such cases tried in court.

Fifty-eight of those found guilty and ordered sent to jail appealed to higher courts from the sentences and fifty-two appeals in cases where fines were imposed. In 634 cases fines only were imposed, amounting to $67,095, while in 201 cases jail sentences totaling 8,490 days and fines of $11,715 were included in the penalties. Seventeen persons were sent to jail though part of their fines were remitted and 102 were made to serve when they did not pay fines. One driver was sent to the state reformatory, eight were bound over to higher courts on serious charges and fourteen forfeited bonds amounting to more than $2,000. Fines were remitted in 299 cases and jail sentences suspended in 168.

Operating under the influence of liquor increased during the year in every county in the state except Windham, according to the addresses of the persons on the departmental list of suspensions which automatically follow court convictions for this offense. In Windham county the decrease from the previous year was only seven cases, or from sixty-three suspensions in 1926 to fifty-six in 1927.

Increases in other counties brought the state total of suspensions for driving while intoxicated to 1,615 for the year, 259 more than in 1926. Suspensions of Hartford county operators increased from 538 to 591 during the period; New Haven from 293 to 326; New London from 96 to 111; Fairfield from 233 to 342; Litchfield from 71 to 85; Middlesex from 33 to 63 and Tolland from 28 to 41.

TWO UNDER ARREST AFTER CRASH IN SNOWSTORM

Following a collision between a sedan operated by Clayton W. Avery of the Lakes Pond district, Waterford and a car operated by Miss Praxedes M. Redmond, 28 Colorado avenue, Bridgeport, on the Norwich road at Quaker Hill, Friday night at 11.40 o'clock, both drivers were arrested charged with failing to grant the right of way. The arrests were made by State Policeman Donald Brown and Frederick Johnson of the Groton barracks who investigated the crash.

Miss Redmond and Avery were ordered to appear in Waterford town court next Friday.

Neither driver was able to account for the crash which occurred while the night's snow storm was at its height. The Avery car was proceeding in a southerly direction and the other car was traveling in the opposite direction when they came together. Both vehicles were damaged extensively but none of the occupants were injured.

The suit rose over a collision between the two boats.

NORWICH TOWN

THE LATE MRS. JOHN W. AYER IS MOURNED BY MANY

Having been called to Norwich Town recently, by the sudden death of their mother, Mrs. John W. Ayer, of Elm avenue, Hiram J. Ayer has returned to Detroit, Mich., and Captain Ernest Clifford Ayer, 5th United States Infantry, U. S. A., has returned to his post at Fort McKinley, Portland, Maine. While in Norwich Town they were guests of their sister, Miss Mary L. Ayer, with whom the mother resided. A son-in-law of Mrs. Ayer, Charles F. Kendall of Springfield, Mass., was also in town to attend her funeral. Mrs. Ayer, for many years before locating in Norwich Town, resided on the Franklin road, just out of Yantic. In that community as well as where she passed her declining years, she was highly respected. A loyal mother, true friend and kind neighbor, she always lived up to the principles she professed, exemplified in her beautiful Christian life.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Methodist church held a successful supper Saturday from 6 to 7 at Buckingham Memorial, Norwich, under the general supervision of Mrs. Arthur Fulton, chairman, and Mrs. William Weaver. The assistants were Mrs. Everett Rogers, Mrs. George Manning, Miss Florence M. Bennett, Miss Beulah Rogers, Clayton Ross and A. D. Zabriskie. The menu consisted of baked beans, potato salad, cabbage salad, pickles, rolls, cake and coffee. The waitresses were Misses Effie Ladd, president of the society; Doris Estelle Rose, Muriel Blanche Rose, Roberta Kinney, Virginia Ward, Florence Gimbel and Norma Rose. William Burdick of Huntington Green, loaned his automobile to collect the food and deliver it at the Buckingham. There was a very good attendance, considering the stormy night.

"Religion and Education" was the theme of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey's sermon at Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church. The text was St. Matthew V, 1-3: "And seeing the multitudes, He went up into a mountain and when He was set, His disciples came unto Him; and He opened His mouth, and taught them."

Announcement was made that the Drop-in class of the Sunday school plans to hold a food sale.

The mid-week prayer service of the Congregational church is to be held this week at the home of Miss Jennie G. Bonney, Harland road. The topic assigned for this week's lesson is "The Beginning of Lent." Matthew 6:16-18. The Forgiveness of Sin. John 8:1-11. Jesus' Attitude Toward Evil and Sin. How Can We Know that Our Sin Is Forgiven? The theme for last week's lesson was "The Function of Worship." Alternate topic, "The Disciple Matthew."

Due to weather conditions and illness, the Junior C. E. society of the Congregational church, postponed its service Sunday afternoon.

For the Young People's C. E. meeting Sunday morning, the theme was, "Are the Teachings of Jesus Up to Date?" Matthew 7:24-29, was the Scripture reference. The leader was Ralph H. Marsh.

After a visit of several weeks with Norwich relatives, much of the time with his mother, Mrs. Mary Durr, and sister, on Town street, John Durr, expects to return today (Monday) to his home in Bellefourche, South Dakota. During his absence, Mrs. Durr and their two children, have been passing the time in California.

DEPOSITION GIVES WOEFUL PICTURE OF KU KLUX KLAN

Sensational Narrative by Hugh F. Emmons, a Former Klan Cyclops—Told of Klan Stuffing Ballot Boxes in Indiana and Using Whiskey to Win Elections—Declared That Not One Dime of Klan Finances, So Far as He Ever Heard of, Was Spent For Charitable Purposes—Spoke of Lavish Expenditures of Money by Prominent Klan Leaders and Orgies at Road Houses—Stated That the Klan Had a Membership in Indiana in 1923 of 178,000, But That the Total Now Was Less Than 4,000 Paid Up.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 20—(AP)—A sensational tale of alleged political intrigue, involving the Ku Klux Klan, horse thief detective associations, gun-toting preachers and the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, was unfolded here today by Hugh F. (Apt) Emmons, a former klan cyclops, in a deposition given to Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom.

The attorney general will use it in connection with a suit he brought recently to oust the klan from Indiana.

Emmons, who between 1923 and 1926, inclusive, said he was associated with Valley Klan Number 53 of South Bend and St. Joseph county, declared he had been told by W. Lee Smith, Indianapolis, until recently grand dragon, that the secret order was formed for the purpose of getting political control of the United States.

For eight hours, Emmons unravelled the story of how, he said, the klan stuffed ballot boxes, used whiskey to win elections, raided men "in bed" with the organization, and boycotted Catholics and Jews who were in business.

"It was a kind of double crossing proposition," he said after alleging that men were brought into the klan on one set of principles and given another set to follow when they had taken their oaths.

Joe Huffington, of Evansville, present grand dragon, was described by Emmons by W. Lee Smith as "the fastest man with a gun that had ever been brought into Indiana." Emmons said he and Charles J. Orbison, Indianapolis attorney, helped Huffington in the Evansville city election in 1925 and that later Huffington told him (Emmons) that "it took a lot of whisky and money and some stuffing of the ballot boxes to put that election over."

Orbison, an attorney for the klan and former superior court judge, represented that organization at the deposition taking, frequently objecting to the questions that Gilliom put to the witness.

Lavish expenditures of money by prominent klan leaders, orgies at road houses, hate inspiring speeches, boycott of business establishments and the attempted boycott of at least one newspaper in Indiana, were charged by the witness. He said the Valley Klan Number 53 finally lost its charter when it no longer would give money to the state and national organization.

On one occasion, Emmons said, Hiram Wesley Evans, imperial wizard of the klan, told him that if the situation at Herrin, Ills., did not improve, he would send gunmen down there "to clean things up." The conversation with Evans occurred in Chicago, just after Emmons had returned from Herrin from the funeral of S. Glenn Young, the witness said.

Emmons, as exalted cyclops of St. Joseph county was advised by a representative of the imperial office, that the way to get members was to "beat up somebody" and use some tar and feathers. He said a man named Sirman declared the South Bend Klan needed a little more southern spirit and that "if they took some one out in this Catholic city and gave them a good beating and tarred and feathered somebody, membership would increase by hundreds," Emmons said Sirman told him.

Not one dime, the witness added, of klan finances as far as he ever heard of, was spent for charitable purpose, Emmons continued.

The name of Dr. E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, was linked with the klan's work by the witness. He said Dr. Shumaker at a South Bend meeting in 1924 had said the klan, the horse thief detective associations, Indiana Anti-Saloon league and all Protestants must work together. Dr. Shumaker, the witness continued, declared "we should go down the line for Arthur Robinson," (Arthur R. Robinson, Indiana's junior United States senator.)

Emmons told of having been introduced to Senator Robinson who he said gave the klan handclasp.

Charges Emmons made during the eight hour interview included the following:

That W. Lee Smith when grand dragon told him if the klan wanted to put over any sort of a program "we had to do it with politics," and that "a lot of money is being spent that we don't dare to show."

That the general program was to get control of first the county, then the state and the country.

That Sunday school publications were used to carry klan political slates.

That the klan had a state membership in Indiana in 1923 of 178,000 but that the total now was less than 4,000 paid up.

That Imperial Wizard Evans told him that it took a lot of money to pay expenses of Albert Zunnbrunn, Washington attorney for the klan —a man who "wined and dined United States senators."

MYERS CLASHED WITH BORAH AND WALSH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—(AP)—For more than two hours today, Abram F. Myers, federal trade commissioner, waged battle with a Senate judiciary sub-committee single-handed in defense of his activities as an assistant attorney general in the bread merger case.

Not content with his heated and repeated denials of any misconduct on his own part, he counter-attacked with charges that the committee itself had been unfair to him. That unfairness, he said, was evidenced both in the majority report signed by Senators Borah, of Idaho, and Walsh of Montana, and dealing with the bakery case, and in the more recent use by Senator Borah of the words "lying and forgery" in connection with Myers' previous testimony.

As Myers completed his statement the Idaho senator, chairman of the sub-committee, told him that candidly "your statement is not convincing to me."

"I can't convince a man against his will," Myers retorted.

"It is not against his will but against his reason," Borah said.

Myers not only assailed the sub-committee but also its methods of investigation. He was particularly emphatic in his strictures on Senator Walsh, telling him that there was "no fairness" in him when it came to conducting an inquiry.

Later he sought to have these remarks expunged from the record.

"Does that include your insolence to me?" the Montanan inquired.

"Well—yes," Myers replied.

Senator Walsh then said he did not object to any irrevelant material being stricken from the record, but he would insist on the inclusion of Myers' comments concerning his "misconduct" of the investigation.

NEW ORLEANS MARDI GRAS CELEBRATION

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 20—(AP)—Proteus, God of the Sea, came forth tonight from his legendary cave beneath the ocean and, sitting atop a gorgeous float, headed a parade in his honor as part of the annual Mardi Gras celebration.

The pageant was the same used last year because the monarch of the sea was forced to abbreviate his journey at that time through the city because of a heavy rain. Thousands of persons who failed to see the spectable requested that it be presented again.

Heroes and heroines of history and legend were borne on highly decorated floats through New Orleans as the feature event of Mardi Gras.

Masking will be permitted tomorrow, which is Mardi Gras day.

NEW YORK TO HAVE A NEW $30,000,000 SKYSCRAPER

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—A $30,000,000 building as high as the Woolworth tower is planned for a site opposite the Grand Central terminal on 42nd street, the third skyscraper of more than 50 stories to be announced for the Grand Central district in the past few months.

The new building will be just west of the Belmont hotel on property purchased by a syndicate.

SENATOR REED, MISSOURI, CAMPAIGNING IN TEXAS

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 20—(AP)—Democratic party principles were put above individual candidacies "including my own" by the militant Senator James A. Reed of Missouri as he visited today with Texas political leaders, newspapermen and old friends.

Opening a speaking tour through the west, the veteran campaigner put in a busy day from his arrival early in the morning; making two speeches and holding open house meanwhile in his hotel room. On the outside of the building hung a sign: "Reed for President Headquarters."

At the outset he informed newspapermen that he would not discuss candidacies and "care more for the principles of the democratic party." Asked about Gov. Al Smith of New York, he reiterated that he would "not discuss Mr. Smith."

Throughout the day in his room with Texas democrats he followed that course. With their prize of forty votes in the democratic convention, the party leaders touched lightly on politics and if they did, the Missourian led the conversation into other channels. Many wore large buttons with the sign "Reed is Right."

MEASURE WOULD COMPEL LOBBYISTS TO REGISTER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—(AP)—Compulsory registration of lobbyists was recommended to the senate today by its judiciary committee, which approved the Caraway bill making such provision.

A proposal of the same kind but reaching its result through amendment of the senate rules and carrying no penalty clause, was thrown into the hopper during the recent debate on the Walsh-Power resolution which was marked by charges of intensive lobby activities.

Under the Caraway bill lobbyists who failed to place their names and connection with the senate secretary and the house clerk would upon conviction be fined not less than $100 nor more than $1,000, and imprisoned in a common jail.

Besides registering, lobbyists would be required to file monthly statements of expenses, showing to whom money was paid and the purpose of such payment and also the names of persons they may have entertained as lobbyists and the cost of such entertainment.

CLOSING ARGUMENTS IN THE SINCLAIR-BURNS TRIAL

It is anticipated that the end will be reached and the verdict of the court announced before nightfall tomorrow.

The arguments are expected to be finished tomorrow and counsel anticipate that Justice Frederick L. Siddons, who presided at the Teapot Dome mistrial and is sitting in the contempt proceedings, will hand down his decision at once.

Adjournment of Pan-American Congress

Delegates Generally Express Satisfaction With the Results of Their Labors.

[illegible], Feb. 20—(AP)—The sixth [illegible]onal conference of American [illegible] known also as the Pan-American congress, adjourned today and is [illegible]ding to the governments of 21 republics of the new world a heavy batch of resolutions and conventions for ratification.

The delegates generally express satisfaction with the results of their labors in Havana. They point out that in this most dramatic Pan-American conference ever held the policies and opinions of all the countries were stated so candidly and forcefully that even if the differences among the nations were more clearly marked than the points of contact, still many illusions and misunderstandings which are so harmful to the materialization of Pan-Americanism, were swept away.

The text of the final proceedings of the conference, including all motions, agreements, resolutions and conventions concluded here, was signed this morning by all the delegations, excepting Paraquay, whose representative was absent from the plenary session at which the ceremony occurred.

Although this morning's signatures pledge approval of all the delegations to the agreements concluded, all the draft conventions will require a separate signature, which is fixed for tomorrow.

The ceremony was very simple, all the farewell exercises and speeches having been reserved for the afternoon session, where Dr. Bustamente, president of the conference, in the name of the Cuban government, bade godspeed to the delegates.

Gratifying progress has been made in the codification of international law, a sensible procedure has been established with respect to the perfecting of plans of conciliation and arbitration, which promises more for progress in this important field than any action heretofore taken in this hemisphere.

"Numerous resolutions have been adopted on subjects affording welcome opportunities for Pan-American cooperation, above all, the delegates have been associated for weeks in fraternal contacts, and warm friendships have been formed.

"The delegates will return to their countries with clearer views of the conditions of successful collaboration, and the understanding and godo-will which are of the essence of Pan-Americanism have been promoted in notable degrees."

New England Air Transport Service

Project Advocated by Gov. Trumbull at Luncheon of Promoters in New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—Governors of Connecticut, Vermont, and New York today approved establishment of one strong organization to handle New York-New England air transport service.

John H. Trumbull, Connecticut's flying governor, and Governor John E. Weeks of Vermont, speakers at a luncheon given by Major General John F. O'Ryan, president of the Colonial System of Airways, supported General O'Ryan's plan for a unified service in the six New England states and New York. A well-organized company, General O'Ryan said, could accomplish much more than the scattered efforts of several smaller companies.

Governor Trumbull pointed out the establishment of a dependable transport line would need the help of progressive business men until it could operate on a sound basis.

Governor Weeks, expressing approval of the O'Ryan plan, said that during the recent flood in his state, airplanes "built history and Vermont is waiting this expansion with open arms."

A letter from Governor Smith, who was unable to attend, suggested combined support for an organized service rather than division of "energies among diverse and uncoordinated projects."

The Colonial Airways, General O'Ryan explained, already operates air mail routes between New York and Boston and Albany and Cleveland, and is planning service between New York and Montreal and between Boston and Portland, Me.

Death of C. L. Torrey, a Leading Member of Windham County Bar

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 20—Attorney Charles L. Torrey, 65, one of the most prominent members of the Windham county bar, died at his home here tonight after a short illness of pneumonia, the announcement of his death coming as a distinct shock to the community. He was the second well known lawyer of Putnam to die within a fortnight and his death was unexpected.

Mr. Torrey had figured prominently in a heavy percentage of the important legal cases developing in this section of eastern Connecticut in the last 30 years and had been counsel in some of the most celebrated cases tried here within that period.

Mr. Torrey who had been public defender in Windham county for the past decade was the eldest of five children of Charles and Martha W. Warren Torrey and was born in Putnam Dec. 14, 1862. After studying in the public schools in Putnam, Killingly and Sprague, this state, he entered the high school in his native town to complete a preparatory course by graduation with the class of 1883 and immediately took his examinations for entrance at Yale university. He was graduated from Yale in the class of 1887 and for a year following he was engaged in teaching in Putnam.

Meanwhile he devoted his leisure hours to the study of law under the tutelage of Judge Edgar M. Warner and after three years of preliminary study he was admitted a member of the bar of the state of Cannecticut in Jan., 1891. At once he opened a law office in Putnam and almost immediately through his genius for legal things practiced a large clientele. He had very special abilities in solving intricate problems and this was quickly recognized by the public.

Within a few years Mr. Torrey became one of the foremost attorneys in this part of the state and his practice grew with the years. In 1907 Mr. Torrey was a member of the state legislature from Putnam, serving on the judiciary committee.

Being a classical scholar of first rank he was always interested in educational matters and eventually, nearly a decade ago, this was recognized by his appointment as a member of the state board of education on which he has served with distinction. He was a member of the Putnam town school committee for a long term of years and his influence was largely instrumental in the establishment of the state trade school in this city.

Oct. 23, 1897, Mr. Torrey was united in marriage with Miss Helen Martha Porter of Hebron, Conn. They have no children. Mr. Torrey's death was one of the most distinct shocks that Putnam has sustained in a very long time.

The federal radio commission ordered an extension until April 1 of all existing broadcasting licensee.

LINDBERGH MADE FLIGHT WITH MAIL OVER HIS OLD ROUTE ST. LOUIS-CHICAGO

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 20—(AP)—Lindbergh flew the air mail again today.

Fresh from the most brilliant flying conquests in aeronautical history, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh went back, for two days, to his old job as mail pilot on the St. Louis-Chicago route, for the purpose of advertising and dramatizing the air mail service.

Approximately 100,000 pieces of mail were dispatched here on the Lindbergh flight. This shattered all records. The volume was so great that five planes were required to carry it. A sixth mail plane carried movie men.

Lindbergh took as his passenger Frank H. Robertson, president of the Robertson Aircraft corporation, holder of the air mail contract. Love took Harry H. Perkins, secretary-treasurer of the company. Lindbergh and copilots will make the return flight from Chicago tomorrow.

The official count of pieces mailed here was 92,300. They weighed about 1,950 pouds. The envelopes carried a special cancellation stamp, a horseshoe with the words, "Lindbergh again flies the air mail." Most of the envelopes will be treasured by their recipients as souvenirs of the return of the great flyer to his old service, which he left a year ago to prepare for his trans-Atlantic flight.

COVERED 286 MILE ROUTE IN 2 HOURS 53 MINUTES

CHICAGO, Feb. 20—(AP)—After a year's absence, Col. Charles Lindbergh returned to the air mail tonight, flying his old route between St. Louis and Chicago.

He landed in Chicago at 7:46 tonight, covering the 286 mile route in 2 hours and 53 minutes of flying time without incident except for unusual delays at the stopping points, caused by heavy volume of mail, virtually 100,000 pieces being distributed between the five mail planes.

A crowd of more than 6,000 persons awaited the flyer at the Chicago municipal airport, but turned away disappointed when Lindbergh landed unannounced and climbed into a truck and was away without anyone of the crowd catching a glimpse of him.

So methodically did he move that it was not until 16 minutes after he landed was it known he had reached Chicago. At 8 o'clock airport officials made known Lindbergh had arrived but had departed at once to an unannounced destination.

SENATE HAS PASSED THE HOUSE ALIEN PROPERTY BILL

Action Was Taken Without a Record Vote—Measure Now Goes to Conference For Adjustment of Minor Differences—Provides For the Return of Property Seized During the War and the Settlement of German, Austrian and Hungarian War Claims—Calls For Immediate Return of 80 Per Cent of German Owned Property and the Payment to Germany of Not to Exceed $100,000,000 For Seized Ships.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—(AP)—Loaded down with amendments which promised it a long stay in conference, the house alien property return bill went through the senate today without a record vote.

It provides for the liquidation of all counter war claims between the United States and Germany over a period estimated at eighty years and for the payment of awards to American claimants by the join claims commission within a forty year period.

In addition the bill clears the way for the return of the property seized from Austrian and Hungarian nationals upon deposit by those governments with the federal treasury of sums sufficient to settle outstanding American war claims against them.

Although virtually rewriting the house bill, the senate retained the main features of that measure, which provides for an immediate return of eighty per cent of seized German private property and the payment to Germany of not to exceed $100,000,000 for seized ships, the Bayville, L. I., radio station and patents, the value of the ships to be determined by an arbiter to be appointed by the president and approved by the senate.

In a series of amendments offered and defeated today, Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, sought to exclude from privileged status those awards to American nationals based purely upon profit. He charged that under the bill as revised by the senate finance committee payment of American claims was to be made by confiscation of funds properly due German owners or by direct appropriations from the federal treasury.

Later Senator King, democrat, Utah, was successful in putting through his previously defeated amendment under which interest at 5 per cent would be paid on $25,000,000 in accumulated interest on German property now held by the alien property custodian and which would be used under the senate plan as a part of the fund for liquidation of American private claims.

Without his amendment, Senator King said there would be a confiscation of approximately $17,000,000 from the German property owners due to denial of interest on this accumulated interest over the years that will elapse before they can realize upon their certificates of participation.

14 MEN ENTOMBED BY EXPLOSION IN MINE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Fourteen men were entombed when an explosion wrecked the interior of the Kinlock mine of the Valley Coal company at New Kensington, near here tonight. Members of the United States bureau of mines crew here were preparing to take charge of the rescue work at the diggings.

A report from officials of the mine to the bureau of mines said that fire followed the blast and was spreading through the diggings. George S. McCaa, fire fighting expert of the mines bureau, assembled a group of rescue workers and left here for the mine in a rescue truck.

The appeal for aid came from officials of the mine. They also said heavy smoke was pouring from the entrance to the shaft and all efforts to enter the levels at that time proved futile.

Fire fighting apparatus and men employed at the mine were fighting the blaze from the surface. They were aided by volunteer firemen from nearby towns.

JURY SELECTED FOR THE HICKMAN MURDER TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20—(AP)—After three and one half days of legal maneuvering to pick 12 persons to hear the murder trial of William Edward Hickman and Welby Hunt, charged with shooting to death C. Ivy Thoms, a druggist, during a holdup, a jury of six men and six women were selected and sworn in today.

Before the final make-up of the jury had been determined, 101 talesmen were called to the jury box and summarily dismissed for various reasons they advanced. The defense used 24 of their peremptory challenges, while the prosecution used nine.

Hickman and Hunt, who was 17 years old today, sitting beside their attorneys, appeared glad that the ordeal of choosing a jury was over, and they relaxed somewhat when they understood that only an alternate juror remained to be selected before the taking of testimony was to begin.

Occupying her usual seat in court was Mrs. Thoms, widow of the slain man, whom the two youthful bandits are alleged to have shot to death on Christmas eve, 1926.

SHOOTING IN THE MAIN STREET IN CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—T. Leroy Springs, wealthy cotton manufacturer of Lancaster, S. C., was shot in the cheek here today by Eldred Griffith, a cotton buyer and former employe of Springs. A business misunderstanding is thought to have caused the shooting which occurred on the main business street of the city.

The wife of the injured man is democratic national committee woman for South Carolina and was placed in nomination for vice president at the Madison Square Garden convention in 1924. Elliott White Spring, his son, was a captain in the United States air forces during the war and is a widely known writer of war aviation stories.

Authorities at the hospital where Springs was treated said that the shot had entered his right cheek, shattering the bone, and flattened against the skull. They said the cotton manufacturer would be entirely recovered within a few weeks.

ELABORATE PLANS FOR WILLIMANTIC SPRING OPENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 20—A big parade with automobiles bearing live models, myriads of lights, special window and street decorations and a galaxy of added attractions, are some of the outstanding features that are now being planned by a committee of the Merchants' association for the big first annual Springtime Opening of Willimantic stores on Thursday and Friday, March 22 and 23. The meeting of the association held in the chamber of commerce rooms this morning was presided over by President Robert T. Newton. James B. Fullerton was appointed chairman of the general committee. It is expected that the colorful affair will spread wide attraction to the business center. The first night will be devoted entirely to welcoming visitors and assisting in a public inspection of the new spring merchandise. No effort will be made to effect sales. The stores are to be divided into groups with first, second and third prizes of ribbons offered. The special window trimmings in the contest will be judged by experienced metropolitan business men. One of the rules of the window trimming contest will be that only local decorators may be employed. A sub-committee is to arrange with the police department for adequate traffic regulation and parking and to offer protection. The stores will be open the first night, for inspection only. The second night, they will be closed but the windows will be brightly illuminated to give an opportunity of viewing the special decorations. Band concerts will be rendered throughout the central business district on the opening night. The committee chairmen appointed to date are: James B. Fullerton, general chairman and chairman of the committee on judges and rules; H. W. Standish, chairman committee on group divisions of merchants; Nelson A. Daniels, chairman committee on finance; William B. Sweeney, chairman of advertising and poster committee; Joseph M. Berard, chairman of parade and music committee; publicity chairman, Earl J. Automobiles owned respectively by Dr. W. P. S. Keating of 12 Potter street, this city and James W. Maher, state highway superintendent, of Pomfret Center, were put out of commission in a collision about 11 o'clock this forenoon at the junction of Main and Bridge streets. Dr. Keating was driving out of Bridge street and was turning to go westerly on Main street when Maher's machine approached from the westerly direction on Main street. Maher tried to clear the rear of Dr. Keating's car but in doing so his machine skidded on the snow and the left gear wheels of both cars collided. The transmissions on both machines were damaged so that they had to be towed from the scene. Other damage consisted of bent fenders. In reporting the mishap to Police Chief Thomas F. Grady, Maher admitted that the local man had the right of way and said that he would arrange for a settlement through his insurance.

The new concrete bridge replacing the old twin bridges over the Fenton river at Mansfield Center was officially opened for travel today, serving as a new and important link of the Mansfield-Willimantic highway and the major portion of the extensive town of Ashford. The new span is of attractive design and is laid on a new angle eliminating the sharp and treacherous curves which served as approaches to the ancient wooden bridges that have been in service for many years and have been the scene of several bad accidents despite light travel. The concrete bridge is part of a road building program which includes the construction of three and one-half miles of state highway from Mansfield Center to meet with the surfaced road leading out of Warrenville. The balance of the work is to start early this spring. There is prediction that the coming years will witness a tremendous increase of traffic over this new section of road which intersects at Warrenville the new highway being constructed from Mansfield Four Corners to Phoenixville as an important "short-cut" from the Stafford Springs highway to the Putnam road. While considerable commercial use of this newly linked road will be made it will also be a decided appeal to motorists seeking one of the most beautiful country drives offered in this section of New England.

Tax Collector A. L. Gelinas stated today that the business of collecting personal taxes on the enrollment of 1927 has been slow to date and unless a last minute rush is on the forecast it is feared that many delinquents will suffer the imposition of an extra dollar, a "fine" required by law unless the tax is paid by March 1. Attention is called to the fact that there remain but eight days for the payment. Collector Gelinas was in North Windham today making collections from that part of the town.

NOANK

Basketball fans witnessed one of the fastest and hardest fought battles in the village hall Saturday evening, when the Whaling city sent over the Emeralds team. At 8:30 the fighting Crescents got in position with their rivals. Referee Fitzpatrick gave Noank the west goal and New London the east side. Dash Patterson got a clean shot for the first basket for the Crescents. The pass work on both sides was fast and snappy and when the first half was over the score was Crescents 23, Emeralds 19. Coach Bill Crane told the fans that Philips of Pennsylvania had a bad cold and a stiff neck and could not play; he is a fast floor man and his absence was a set-back for the fighting Crescents; but Capt. Latty Patterson said "set in and fight to the finish!" The cod-chasers of the village made the visitors work all the time and the scorer blew the whistle and gave Sure Shot Morgan a sleigh ride for making four fouls after putting up a great game. The fans cheered him as he left the floor. His place was taken by Flash McDonald. The game ended Emeralds 41, Crescents 34, and the crowd went home after getting their money's worth on a snowy night. Dash Patterson made 11 field goals and 2 fouls, making 24 points for Noank. The outstanding star of the evening, Hamakt got 7 field goals for New London. Timer, J. Brasci; scorer, H. Brasci; referee, Fitzpatrick.

Hope No. 3, S. D. A. M., the American Mechanics lodge from Wakefield, Stonington and Westerly came with 75 strong to Mechanics hall Saturday, where a meeting was held with the Mechanics of Noank. After the game they returned to the hall on Front street where Steward O. W. Beebe made one of his famous north dock fish chowders and the Crescents team had a special table as guests. Coffee with cookies followed. Later dancing was enjoyed. Halstead Brown was at the piano as John Bentley did the soft shoe dance and a song was given by the best tenor in the hall, Byrand Davis, "5,000 Years Ago." Walking on the swords was a stunt by Sam Fish with bare feet. Fish claims he can walk over a box of broken glass. Cigars were passed around and as the hall was being filled with smoke circles, Walter Wolverston told about his trip on a schooner loaded with lumber which took 30 days to reach France.

Raymond Sistare has returned after a visit in New York.

Eddie Morgan is called the village weather man. Last Friday when he was after a ball of coal at his home he saw something crawling on the ground enjoying the warm sun; it was a black snake 4 feet long and it took Eddie over five minutes before he could kill the snake. At the waiting room, as a crowd of young fellows were sitting around, the weather man told about killing the black snake and said a bad snow storm was coming the next day. They sang "Little Birdie," also gave him the horse laugh. But the next day the village was buried under the first real storm of the winter, 4 inches deep. The weather man did not tell a lie; the snake that was put away to dreamland was a sure sign.

You Meet Septics in the Movies!

There is a certain fastidiousness which habits of cleanliness cannot achieve alone. The person you sometimes suspect of carelessness may have bathed within the hour.

If you are a septic, soap and water will not solve the difficulty. Nor will any refreshant neutralize unpleasant vaporings of the body, or the breath for any length of time.

Nobody is septic by nature. It is a condition anyone can correct. Just a few days are sufficient to take the taint out of perspiration, and render one's breath as pure as can be; and this perfect personal cleanliness made permanent. Ask any doctor—or nurse—about calcium.

You may not know whether you are a septic. Try some calcium wafers, and see! If there is any stagnant matter in the system, everything will speedily be sweet and clean. Your skin will be less acrid; color improved; calcium correction even brightens eyes and whitens teeth! And you will never need another harsh cathartic from the time you have learned to prevent even semi-constipation by just occasionally taking a tiny calcium tablet.

In only five days you may feel and look like a different person, and a box of calcium wafers will be sent you FREE for this demonstration that has fairly astounded men and women who thought they were in perfect condition! Write the Stuart Co., Dept. 8-17 Marshall, Mich., or get pocket size now for 10c at any drug store; or the 60c family size.

DANIELSON

STOOL PIGEON LANDS FOUR FOR BOOTLEGGING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 20—As in many other lines of endeavor, women are coming to the front in the bootlegging industry—in Killingly, as witness the appearance of three of the sex before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning to answer to a similar charge.

Mrs. Aldia Lacombe, resident in the Evans block here in Danielson, pleaded guilty to an actual sale and was given a sentence of 10 days in jail, execution of it being suspended. Mrs. Lacombe, a widow with a family to support, presents something of a problem for officials of the town to deal with. Today's was her second court appearance for violation of the liquor laws. If she is sent to jail, the town must support her children. If she is heavily fined, she cannot pay, so the alternative again is jail to work out the penalty. It appears that her bootlegging operations are on such a picayune scale that they never pile up any reserve capital. All the circumstances considered, the case is a hard one to deal with satisfactorily in an official manner.

Mrs. Eva Stasiciewicz of Goodyear came to court to tell through an interpreter, as she wept, of her difficult position in life. Mother of nine children, one of them a cripple, the family finds existence hard in the extreme. There is a $1,000 hospital bill hanging over the sorely tried family, and the sale of liquor with which she was charged points to one means adopted to help out the revenue. Again in this case the court imposed a 10 day suspended jail sentence.

Yvonne Gomes of Goodyear was the third of the group of women to be tried this morning. She was fined $10 and costs for having made an actual sale, at her home.

Hearing of the women's cases brought forth statements as to the methods used by a stool pigeon in obtaining the liquor, to be used as evidence. The buyer came crying that he needed the liquor for a sick person. While there may be difference of opinion as to value of present day liquor for a patient, there is also the point that if it were for a well person there might in due time be still another patient. The explanation is of interest only in revealing, as it does, just how these women came to be before the court.

Miseal LaParle, who represented Attawaugan, in the hearing of the grist of liquor cases in the court this morning didn't fare so well, as to penalties, as did his sister bootleggers. He was assessed $100 and costs, for an actual sale of liquor and after court was arranging to borrow the money with which to pay. It seems that the bootlegging industry is now so highly competitive that no fortunes are being made from it, not hereabouts, at any rate.

The cases were in each instance brought to court by state officers stationed here.

A brighter business section at night is one of the matters that likely will be discussed at the March meeting of the chamber of commerce. Prior to the meeting Manager William Sangster of the Danielson division of the Eastern Connecticut Power company will prepare certain date showing what can be done with certain lighting equipment and also, in all probability, some optional propositions. The suggestion has been heard that the better lighting begin near the public library building and continue southward to Water street, and that consideration be given to increasing the illumination in Center street and in that section about the railroad station. There are types of lights that would easily make this possible.

A death this morning at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam was that of Mrs. Ruth Berthiaume, 35, wife of Charles Berthiaume of Attawaugan. Mrs. Berthiaume was for years a resident of Danielson and has several brothers and sisters resident in this town. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy.

The February monthly church family night at the Westfield Congregational church is scheduled for Thursday. These events have been held throughout the winter and have been of unusual interest. This Thursday evening the assembly will be at 6.30, and following supper there is to be a period for stories, games, music and sociability. A stereoptican lecture, Beyond the Pyrenees, is to follow and then there is to be a period for devotion.

Both rivers flowing through Danielson—the Quinebaug and the Assawaga—are open at Danielson, only their shores fringed with ice. Observers of these streams over many years assert that this is a very unusual condition for February. It is claimed that the rivers are seldom open until March 10 and it is not infrequent to have the ice remain until March 15 before breaking up. Chief John McFarland, who has lived in the Riverview section the past 17 years, says he never knew the river to be open in February as it has this year.

Attorney Claude R. Branch, Providence, whose marriage at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York Sunday to Miss Hope Cary, actress of much fame, was mentioned in press despatches this morning, is a nephew of Mrs. A. Thoughtful people have this week resumed the feeding of birds, which has been necessary on very few occasions this winter. It so happens that no provision at all has been necessary during the winter to provide feed for protected game birds. They have been able to forage much as they do at other seasons of the year, but it is a bit difficult for them just now.

Motorists traveling the Danielson-Providence route are warned to watch out for the point where bridge construction work is being done nine miles east of here near Hopkins crossing. One rather serious accident occurred at this point the past week. The bridge across the state highway was damaged in the flood of last November and repairs have not as yet been completed. The road at that point is narrowed down so that only one-way traffic is possible.

PUTNAM

THREE IN HOSPITAL AS RESULT OF AUTO CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 20—A Ford coupe, driven by James Barnes of Water street, collided with a large car driven by William Michon of Grove street, Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, on the town line between Putnam and Thompson. The car driven by Michon skidded and threw the smaller car off the road and then slid into a fence on the side of the highway. Michon was suffering from a broken kneecap and minor cuts about the face. James Barnes had a scalp wound and was cut badly about the face. Mrs. Barnes, who was riding with her husband, was badly shaken up from the accident, but a physical examination revealed no serious injury.

The car was driven by Michon and was registered in New York state and it was found that the driver did not have an operator's license. Both cars were badly damaged as the result of the collision. All three victims remain patients at the Day Kimball hospital.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

ANTI INTERVENTIONISTS BALKED

Although it had been supposed that the question of intervention before the Pan-American conference at Havana had been disposed of by delaying it for consideration at the next conference five years hence, it was unexpectedly brought up again by the Salvadorean delegate in the hope that by a last minute move it could be put through.

Dr. Guerrero has been a leader in the effort to have the conference declare that no state has the right to intervene in the affairs of others. Such was recognized as a general policy but it is evident that there are times when intervention is not only justified but necessary. There are times when the lives and property of nationals must be protected when the governments which should provide the protection have failed in their duty. Inability to get an agreement upon this matter either as to the declaration that there should be no intervention or concerning intervention under certain circumstances resulted in the plan to refer the matter to the next conference.

When it became apparent that this was not going to be done and pleas were made for the adoption of straight non-intervention, Charles E. Hughes rose to the situation and addressed the conference in straight forward terms. He told what the conditions are that are responsible for intervention and pointed out that the trouble was internal not external. In pointing to the facts he got right down to brass tacks and asked, in case there was a break down in a government, "Are we going to stand by and see them (American citizens) killed because a government in circumstances which it cannot control and for which it may not be responsible, can no longer afford reasonable protection?"

He insisted that it was the right of this country under international law to protect its people and that cannot be set aside by any declaration which a Pan-American conference might make. It was a clear-cut, forceful presentation of the situation and it certainly carried conviction. It overbalanced whatever influence Dr. Guerrero may have exerted or expected to exert and it certainly spiked the effort which has been underway throughout the conference against intervention.

DETOURING CITIES

The idea of providing modern highways that will take through traffic outside of big centers has not only been advocated but it has been studied to such an extent that plans have already been made for putting it into effect. There are cities where such a plan has been given attention for the purpose of relieving the traffic congestion in their busy streets but commissions which are studying traffic conditions on a much larger scale are so well impressed with the idea that they have made plans for diverting traffic around cities in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware and construction on some of the routes is already underway.

There is always a large number traveling from points in the north to Florida. Others are returning from southern points so that if they can be guided around cities by modern roads they will be happy to make use of them and the cities will not be obliged to deal with the added congestion which they would cause.

It is not solely those going to Florida or coming back who would be accommodated by such a plan for there are always those who are covering long distances and are bothered by the restrictions of city traffic. For the most part they will welcome any scheme that will overcome the delay and confusion. They are desirous of being speeded on their way and that is what the advocates of such detours are aiming at. Even though their chief concern is to divert traffic the solution is one that meets the interests of all.

Of course such detours would have no influence upon those who desire to stop in the cities. There will be nothing compulsory about their use, but the very fact that they exist and will serve so admirably the purpose of so many motor parties will mean the accomplishment of the very thing that is being sought. As it is there are many who are always anxious to find a route skirting a city in preference to trying to cross a city by getting into the slow and bothersome traffic. Real detours will save time, mean a greater safety and decrease the traffic problem.

PORTO RICO'S PLEA

Efforts which are being made in Porto Rico for greater control of their own affairs indicate a sentiment which has existed in the island for a considerable time. It doesn't seem probable that the object sought will be attained at the present time but there is an opportunity for the Porto Ricans to so direct their efforts and activities that they will be able in time to impress congress with the wisdom of their claims.

At the present time the people of the island have obtained citizenship in this country, for which they are not ungrateful. They cannot fail to appreciate the advantages which have been gained for it by this country, but when the demand is made that full control of their affairs be placed in their hands they should realize the importance of being able to show that they are entitled to it, and ready to assume the responsibilities involved.

This country has established a system of education in Porto Rico which has not only been a great benefit but will continue to be for years to come. It should have the effect upon future generations of making them real Americans. That is in fact a goal for which the islanders should be aiming. Their efforts should be so strongly bent in that direction that there would be no question of the results when the plea for statehood was presented.

It is statehood rather than independence which Porto Rico really wants. The islanders have indicated a desire for the latter but they always accompany it with a plea for the opportunity to continue to send their goods into this country duty free. Porto Rico in seeking statehood or independence adds weight to the demand which is being made by the people of the District of Columbia that an amendment be made to the Constitution whereby it will be possible for congress to provide for representation for the district in congress, something which does not exist at the present time. The need of this action seems clear and it can hardly be expected that such rights will be extended to Porto Rico before it is done for the District of Columbia.

LET IT PREVAIL

Because the subject of arbitration treaties has been brought up at the gathering of the security commission of the league of nations at Geneva doesn't necessarily mean that the plan will be adopted of settling disputes between nations, but it does indicate that there is a growing recognition of the merits of the idea and it is possible to point with telling effect to the accomplishments.

This was done by the British delegate, Baron Cushendun, when he directed attention to the fact that disputes between the United States and Great Britain have been adjusted over a period of more than 100 years by just such a method. If that is possible between these two countries it is also possible between others. France is another country with which this country has long been at peace and between which there exists a treaty of arbitration. During the Pan-American conference at Havana there has just been adopted the idea of compulsory arbitration and it should have a far reaching effect ni the years that are to come for countries of the western hemisphere.

As to the desirability of a series of arbitration treaties which would cause nations to get down to an adjustment of their difficulties on a basis of facts there can be no question. It is the preferable way. Why shouldn't we throw overboard that old idea that because nations differ they must resort to bloodshed to settle their difference. Strength may be the factor that has determined right in many instances but it doesn't always mean that it is a just settlement of the cause of the trouble. It will be well if the spirit of arbitration makes appreciable headway at Geneva. Some of the countries that need it most are without it.

BIG AID TO POLICE

Attention is being called to the manner in which the police stations in some of the largest cities have been equipped with automatic printers which carry the news by telegraph from one typewriting machine in a police station to all the police stations in the city, or if a circuit is so arranged to all the poice stations in a state.

The advantage of this is that it puts the whole police system of a city or a state in immediate touch with what is going on in the way of police news. It gives information about a theft, a break, a hold-up, a stolen car, in fact anything which transpires which it is desirable to communicate to other points in the interest of catching criminals or fighting crime.

This telegraph printer system, such as probably will include Connecticut some day on one or two circuits is already in operation in certain cities. It has been put to a careful test and there are numerous instances which go to show that it accomplishes that close contact between police stations of a city or a state that is of the greatest value in capturing criminals.

Such a system does for the stations or cities involved what might be accomplished if it were possible for every station to broadcast by radio, with the exception that its news is restricted to those eyes for whom it is intended. It means getting into instant touch with the authorities elsewhere, without experiencing some of the annoying delays which often occur and it gives information to many who might not otherwise be regarded as being in a position to give assistance though there is never any telling when such information can be put to immediate use.

These are the infant days of the telegraph printer for police stations but rapid development is indicated.

THE BEST POLICY

"Well," said Miss Nangle, "it certainly never does rain but it pours, as I say to Bertha. Wasn't I just telling you about a romance entwined in a string of pearls no longer ago than when you had your manicure, and here you are back for a curl and trim on the very day after another dream looks like it's coming true due to honesty being the best policy.

"Say, you look good today! Not so tired around the eyes. Lay back, now, and relax yourself.

"There are some people their carelessness is something dreadful. As I say to Bertha, take care of the pennies and the bank balance will surely increase. Like when I was a kid one time I wanted a new ribbon for my dress and my mother says to take $5 that's laying in her top drawer and go buy it. And then she observed where I deposited the bill in my locket pocket and she objects and requires I should place the same in my purse. But with wilful youth I went my way. At the store I went to purchase the ribbon and you can illustrate the horror when my pocket was empty. I will say no more except that if you or any interested would cast a glance on the income tax receipt that I and Bertha file it would be demonstrated the one and only $5 bill I ever lost.

"And that is why I could feel for Mrs. Sibley Carter that comes in here on Thursdays when she was feeling so bad last week where she had sent her husband's and son's suits out to be pressed, and her gon admitted his month's allowance of $100 that they give him for his education in college left in the suit. Of course, as I said to Bertha, $100 is nothing here and there to the Sibley (Carter's); it's the principle of the thing.

"Well, so yesterday was Mrs. Sibley Carter's day and bubbling, as I said to Bertha, with the milk of human kindness. The suit of her son's had come back and while they had scolded him something terrible, still the denouement of finding the bills in the suit, wrapped in a paper and signed Jason Herd as the presser was so far beyond expectancy as to practicaly reduce them speechless.

"But the point is not entirely speechless; for before you could say Jack Robinson, as I said to Bertha, Mrs. Sibley Carter and Mr. Sibley Carter both had the idea to immediately telephone the cleaner's and locate this Jason Herd. It proved a young man working his way through college and shabby but clean so that Mrs. Sibley Carter indulged in hyperbole and so on and asked him how could they help him along. Which being so unexpected was a shock to the system of not alone Jason Herd, but the Sibley Carters when he responded all he desired was more work as he was engaged to be married, for that they considered unpractical to the degree, considering both youthful parties and no prospects.

"So then Mr. Sibley Carter and Mrs. Sibley Carter they argued with this Jason Herd both pro and con, that some of these ideas like you can live as cheap for two as one, is now exploded, and rents not coming down despite rumors, and he listens respectful but insists all he wants is work and love will find a way.

"Just a mo now, while I rub away the tired out of your eyes.

"So it seems that Mrs. Sibley Carter is one to constantly give away to fads and so on, and one of them is phonographs with records imported from Europe and France and places like that, and will not revert down to radio because a faithful devotion to the invention of the wizard, as I call him to Bertha, of being both the great inventor of New Jersey, and the pal of Henry Ford, alluding, of course, to Edison.

"And not alone does Mrs. Sibley Carter indulge herself and circle of hearing high-hat pieces composed by dead persons mostly but some living as well, which will run to both sides of a record or even to several records, but has both the urge and the instinct to musically uplift what I and Bertha call the masses as well.

"With result of personally affecting the life and good fortune of this honorable and equally delightful Jason Herd by the proposal how would he care to be made a manager of a music store to inculcate true lovers of music into phonograph ownership as well as artful appreciation, which, as I say to Bertha, is at once killing a bird with two stones, and will eventuate the rapid approaching marriage of two hearts that beat in tune.

"Well, now, you look good. Thank you. See you some more!"—Chicago News.

INCOME TAX TIPS

While all net income up to $5,000, whether actually earned or not, is considered as earned net income for the purpose of computing the 25 per cent. credit, hundreds of returns are received showing net income in excess of $5,000, part of which was earned income and part of which was not earned. Following is an example of how to compute correctly the tax due on such a return:

A taxpayer, married and with no dependents, received in 1927 a salary of $4,000 and from a real estate transaction made a net profit of $4,000. His personal exemption is $3,500. The tax rate is 1 1-2 per cent. on the first $4,000, in excess of such exemption, and 3 per cent. on the remainder:

Net income	$8,000
Less personal exemption	3,500
Balance, taxable income	4,500
1 1-2 per cent. on first $4,000	60
3 percent. on the remaining $500	15
Total tax	75

But of the $8,000 net income $5,000 is considered as earned net income. Of this $5,000, therefore, is deducted the personal exemption of $3,500, the tax on the remaining $1,500, at 1 1-2 per cent., amounting to $22.50. Deduct one-fourth of $22.50, or $5.63, from $75, leaving payable a tax of $69.37.

Right on the Job.

Mr. Editor: I wish to correct the impression that some people have, that the Thamesville fire department is slow. Five minutes after the telephone call came in, they were at the house, and concluding the fire hadn't paid its rent, they promptly put it out. They not only put the fire out but nearly everything else, for when we arrived on the scene, the piano was floating out the attic window, and a few days later Mr. Ryan found his 200-pound anvil nearly half a mile from the house—washed there by the force from that mighty hose. And the next day the ducks were wearing umbrellas around the yard—they were taking no chances. And that fire was certainly put out. We saw it going over Trading Cove hill, like a dog with its tail between its legs. If that fire ever meets any of those boys again, either singly or en masse, it will promptly leave without any coercion.

Fort Ned Via Nipmuck Path.

Mr. Editor: If your readers want to fully appreciate "Fort Ned, via Nipmuck Path," by Johnny Cake, in The Social Corner of last Saturday, (which, by the way, is a prize), they should get out their old wall maps of Windham county, published in 1855, and with its aid travel over the road in imagination—and then about next June take their autos and go over it in reality.

The doorway of the Hooey house is worth going miles to see.

California and Prohibition.

Mr. Editor: When we were working for prohibition there rose a great hue and cry in California against it, because they believed it would ruin the grape industry. It was accepted as natural in the one American commonwealth in which grapes and wine represented a huge property investment and munificent annual income. The wettest of the wet counties were the grape counties. Truly "the old order changeth," for since 1922 the state has voted dry on every test and leading at the polls have been the grape counties. Why? Because prohibition has crowned California with great prosperity to at least one of her great industries, the cultivation of grapes.

Before prohibition, California's wealth in grapes was 15th or 16th in the list of the state's crops. Grapes now rate second. Reflecting the satisfactory rate of operations in the raisin industry, the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers' association reports that net income for the first eight months of the year was more than 14 times interest requirements on the funded debt. This period covers the slack season in the first four months of the year and the first part of the new crop. In the period between April 30 and August 31, income was more than 20 times the same charges. The vine acreage has doubled in last eight years. The state sings praises to prohibition. Doubtless other states could show equally as beneficial results. All praise to California for its fine spirit of doing justice to prohibition! I am wondering if its marvelous scenic beauty has a refining influence upon its inhabitants.

What a blessed change to turn from producing a drink that was injurious to the human race, to producing an article that has become a very valuable asset to the diet! Sun-dried raisins are very rich in iron and delicious to the taste. They are especially wholesome for children. The voters of California appreciate the worth of prohibition and will not accept a wet candidate for our next president. The women of both parties are on the job.

YOUR HEALTH

The Tonsils of Childhood

By Albert H. Roler, M. D., Evanston

The general health, physical development, and to a certain extent even the mental development of a growing child is vitally influenced by the condition of the tonsils and to the extent they may have become infected or germ-laden by previous illness common to early childhood.

Repeated attacks of tonsillitis, various inflammatory conditions of the throat or its surrounding tissues, frequent colds, especially those of the mild influenzal type, all leave the tonsils more or less enlarged and in diseased condition. This is particularly true after attacks of the various eruptive fevers such as measles, chickenpox, scarlet fever, etc., which predispose the child to other serious diseases of an acute or chronic type.

During the earlier months of infancy, the child is usually well protected from the commoner sources of infection and too close association with other people, but sooner or later, with change of environment it acquires one or more of the so-called children's diseases to which all children are exposed.

Almost every known disease germ, including that of tuberculosis, has been found to exist on the surface of the tonsil or imbedded within its tissues, and from chronically infected tonsils of this type many diseases of a local or general nature may have their beginning.

Repeated attacks of tonsillitis, with its frequent complications affecting other parts of the throat, the ears, nose sinuses, and glands of the neck, may also be the commencement of bronchitis, pneumonia, rheumatism, St. Vitus' Dance, heart disease, and even various forms of kidney troubles.

Nevertheless, the tonsils have a definite function to perform, and during the first two years of life are not by any means useless appendages. During this time particularly they form an effective barrier against diseases and ward off infections to the infant's bronchial tubes, lungs, and deeper structures of the body. They are supposed to produce an internal secretion of their own which undoubtedly assists in their protection.

When should a child's tonsils, therefore, be considered sufficiently diseased to warrant removal, and what is the earliest age this may be done? These questions must be decided in each individual case. Authorities differ somewhat as between the ages of two and four years, though removal of the tonsils of a child considerably under the age of two years may be distinctly advisable. Removal of the tonsils, therefore, becomes an important factor in the prevention of disease during childhood.

Stories That Recall Others

Movie Star.

Five-year-old Ethel had never attended a picture show but had heard her brothers and sisters talk a great deal about the "movie stars." One evening Ethel was out riding with her parents after dark. It was a new experience for Ethel to be out driving late enough to see the stars, and she was very much interested in watching them. One bright star in particular attracted her attention and as the machine moved Ethel thought the star was moving, and said, "Mamma, that must be a movie star."

Not a Kidnaper.

Three girls were walking down the street one morning when they saw a suspicious looking man coming toward them. The girls, having heard and read the many stories about kidnaping, were much alarmed and started across the street to avoid the man. On looking back they saw that the man was running after them and calling out. The girls then ran into a nearby store for protection. The man followed and, stepping up to one of the terror-stricken girls, said: "I've been trying to catch up with you for some time. You've dropped your scarf."

Former Norwich Leaders

Bishop Benj. H. Paddock.

(From Norwich Bulletin, March 10, 1891.)

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Benjamin Henry Paddock, who died in Boston Monday, March 9th, at the age of 63 years, was born in Norwich, Feb. 29th, 1828 and was the son of Rev. Seth B. Paddock, who was rector of Christ church in this city for twenty-two years. He was graduated at Trinity college in 1848, and afterwards became an assistant teacher in the Episcopal academy at Cheshire, Conn.

He entered the New York general theological seminary, where he was graduated in 1852. He was made a deacon June 29th, 1852, and a priest in Trinity church in this city Sept. 27th, 1853, by Bishop Williams. While in deacon's orders he served as assistant minister in the church of the Epiphany in New York city. Shortly after he became rector of St. Luke's church, Portland, Me., but found the climate too severe for him, and returned to Norwich the same year and became rector of Trinity church, his father's former parish.

In 1860 he accepted the rectorship of Christ church, Detroit. In 1869 he was nominated missionary bishop of Oregon and Washington territory, but declined and in 1872 removed to Brooklyn, where he took charge of Grace church. He was elected bishop of Massachusetts and consecrated in Grace church, Brooklyn, Sept. 17th, 1873.

In 1887 he received from Trinity college in Hartford the degree of S. T. D. Dr. Paddock has written extensively for reviews and periodicals, canonical digests and sermons, among them being "Ten Years in the Episcopate," "The First Century of the Diocese of Massachusetts," and "The Federal Relation."

Bishop Paddock is a brother of Dr. L. S. Paddock of this city and the Rev. John Adams Paddock, S. T. D., bishop of Washington. Bishop Paddock was married to Caroline H. Cooke of Wallingford, Conn., May 19th, 1853.

His wife died in 1860, and in 1863 he was again married to Anna L., daughter of Henry K. and Caroline (Prentiss) Slanger of Detroit, Mich.

Broadway Sets New Hair Vogue

"So many girls in my crowd are talking about the new way they're doing their hair, I just had to try it," says Miss Dorothy Connor, 737 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, attractive secretary for a prominent New York City business man. "You've no idea how silky and gleaming it makes your hair. And I don't have to shampoo mine more than once a month, now. Danderine keeps it so clean. All you do is put a few dashes of it on your brush every time you use it. It makes your scalp feel just grand. Your hair is lots easier to dress, and it stays in place wonderfully."

You won't wonder at the overwhelming way millions of girls are showing their approval of Danderine, when you use it. It quickly removes that oily film from your hair, brings out its glorious color, gives it lustre. It stimulates your scalp. All drug stores have the big 35c bottles. A fragrant necessity for the well-groomed girl.

GIVES LENTEN SUGGESTION AT SHOP MEETING TALK

Under Y. M. C. A. auspices another noon meeting was held at the plant of the Richmond Radiator company on Monday.

Rev. C. H. Ricketts was the speaker as usual, and he spoke from the topic, "The Value of Special Observances." Mr. Ricketts spoke in part as follows: The normal trend of life is to follow routine, and in following this it tends to monotonous. We must have systems but in following system it becomes monotonous. Here you have been working to a plan, day after day, week after week, and year after year; this is necessary, but monotony is the result. As the world advances we must have order and system. Long ago cloth was made by hand, and there was possibly a greater variety, but the process was so very slow. Now we turn out 1,000 yards where formerly we turned out one yard.

What wonderful machinery we have; man just feeds, and the machine does the work; this lessens man's work, but it increases the monotony.

We are glad to note a tendency of the human mind to break away from monotony. For many centuries man was satisfied to sail by the wind, but someone introduced steam, and it has worked marvels. We needed to go faster. When my father came from England it took him six weeks, but years later I made it in six days. We would not want to travel now by the stage coach; it would be a distinct burden, but now we travel by the express train and the travel is a pleasure. The railroad had much to do with making America, but even with the railroad there is considerable of monotony; they have the schedule that must be followed. We broke away from the monotony when the bicycle came, and then the auto and now the flying machine. I may not live to see aviation perfected, but some of you will, for it is surely coming. We are breaking away from monotony in other realms, why not in religion. We are at the beginning of Lent. The 40 days of Lent commemorate the most eventful 40 days of the world's history; there was more done in those 40 days than any other like number of days.

We should at this season break away from our routine. Let us think of what the Lenten season means; let us recall the crucifixion when the disciples believed that everything was gone; that the bottom had dropped out, but the marvelous thing happened; Jesus did not stay in the grave, but He arose. Others had been raised from the dead, but they died again; not so with Jesus. And then let us think of Pentacost when they were endued with the Holy Spirit. Why should we not receive this power; we can if we meet the conditions.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER DURING LENTEN SEASON

The daily devotional articles of "The Fellowship of Prayer" for the Lenten season beginnuing Ash Wednesday, Feb. 22, and continuing until Easter Sunday, April 8, will be published by this newspaper.

"The Fellowship of Prayer" is issued annually for Lent by the commission on evangelism and devotional life of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. The author this year is Rev. Jay T. Stocking, D. D., pastor of Pilgrim Congregational church, St. Louis.

Use of the "Fellowship" by individuals and families, and at services, large and small, everywhere, is urged upon the federal council's constituency, comprising twenty-eight denominations with a membership of more than twenty million.

The general theme of the "Fellowship" this year is "The Fruits of Religion." The separate weekly themes are: "The Forgiveness of Sin;" "Religion and Health;" "Religion and the Joyous Life;" "Religion and the Productive Life;" "Religion and Character;" "Religion and Power;" "Religion and Hope."

"The aim of 'The Fellowship of Prayer' this year," Dr. Stocking states, "is to make religion a greater factor in our work-a-day lives.

SHOT BY POLICE IN HARTFORD AFTER BREAKING SAFE AT PALACE THEATER

Theft of $261.45 from the safe of the Palace theatre was discovered Monday morning about 8 o'clock shortly after the janitor, George Kyle, had opened the place in order to do his regular cleaning up. The safe had been opened by breaking off the combination in a way similar to the burglaries committed at four Norwich automobile salesrooms a week ago Saturday.

While the police were still at work in their investigation, word was received at police headquarters from the Hartford police that a man named George F. Bersig, 17, had been shot there while trying to escape from the officers and that rolls of money done up in wrappers with the Palace theatre name on them had been found in his automobile, a LaSalle coupe, to which the attention of Officer Daniel Hurley had been attracted because it had only one number plate, registration 10,019.

Bersig, who was formerly a grocery store keeper in Hartford, was reported to be likely to die. In the hope that Norwich officers might be able to identify the man, Chief George Linton had Capt. Thomas Murphy and Sergeant Matthew Delaney go to Hartford Monday afternoon to see the wounded man in the hospital.

They made the trip in Sergeant Delaney's automobile but it was fruitless as far as any identification went for when they reached there his condition was too critical for him to be seen by the officers. However, before they left Hartford they were told the doctors held out some hope that Bersig would recover.

The police are satisfied that Bersig was the burglar at the Palace theatre and believe that all the indications point to him as the operator in the burglaries a week ago in the automobile salesrooms in this city.

Burglars Tools in Automobile

Tools found in his automobile included a heavy hammer, punches, chisels, an acetylene torch burner, and a bottle of glycerine. There was also an old cap and coat that could be used as partial disguises and he had one Massachusetts number plate 322,488. Bersig's name in the Hartford directory gave his occupation as a steeplejack, it was stated by the Hartford police.

One of the chisels found in Bersig's automobile bore the same trade name as a chisel that was left behind by the burglar at the Palace theatre, and in the money was a silver dollar which, it is claimed, came from the theatre.

Burglary Discovered

Janitor Kyle discovered there had been a burglary at the theatre when he opened the office door and saw papers, check books, bank books and other articles scattered on the floor. The dial of the safe had been knocked off, the safe door opened and the small drawers inside the safe pried open with a pair of scissors. A chisel left on top of the safe and a flashlight nearby were the only tools left by the burglar.

The police were notified of the burglary and they got in touch with the theatre manager, Mr. Maxfield, through Miss Fairclough, ticket seller at the theatre. Mr. Maxfield was able to tell the amount of money that was missing, stating that it was what is usually kept on hand for change, but the Saturday and Sunday night receipts, amounting to something like $1,500, had been deposited at the Thames National bank by means of the rotary deposit slot which is provided at the bank for that purpose.

Probably Hid in Theatre

Nothing could be found to show how the burglar got into the theatre building, but it is believed he must have hidden himself after the Sunday night performance. He went out by a door on the side of the building next to the railroad tracks, leaving near this door the small drawers which he had pried out of the safe with a pair of scissors.

The police made a thorough canvass of all the garages in the city Monday night to inquire if the LaSalle coupe which Bersig used had been left in any of them overnight, but none had any record of such a machine in the past month.

It was reported that a LaSalle coupe was observed parked in Rose alley Sunday night in front of the Palace theatre.

Janitor Kyle said Monday that he had found the outer door to the boiler room open Saturday and Sunday mornings and he believed some one had been trying to get into the theatre that way.

Hartford Police Report

According to the story told by Captain Frank Santoro of the detective bureau of Hartford, Bersig, after parking his car on Front street, opposite Temple, entered the second-hand clothing store of Myer Goldberg at No. 484 Front street. Officer Hurley, when Detective Sergeant Sheren had joined him, entered the store and began questioning Bersig, who had just bought a jacket and an overcoat and was about to leave the store to go to a barber shop. Hurley asked the young man where he lived, and Bersig answered that he lived in Willimantic. Hurley placed the man under arrest, but as they were leaving the store Bersig broke away from him and ran across to the west side of Front street, to an alley between Nos. 473-475 Front street. This alley is divided by a fence running down through the center.

Shot Vaulting Fence

Bersig ran down the side of the alley next to the building at No. 473 pursued by Hurley. An ell of this building forms a wall at the end of that side of the alley, and Bersig, realizing his mistake, was vaulting the fence to the other half of the alley when shot by Hurley. Hurley fired four shots, but only one struck its mark.

Meanwhile Sheren, who had remained sitting in the parked La Salle, had joined the chase when he saw Bersig break away from Hurley, and ran down the other side of the alley. Bersig did not drop when shot, but kept on running a short distance until captured by Hurley and Sheren.

The man was rushed to the detective bureau, and was then taken into the police emergency hospital, where he was examined by Police Surgeons John D. Greenberg and Robert B. Garland, who pronounced him in a dying condition and ordered him removed to St. Francis hospital. At the hospital his condition was reported as critical. The bullet pierced his right lung.

Refuses to Give Name.

The man refused to give his name either to the police or to the hospital authorities. A letter found on his person was addressed to George F. Bersig, and through the engine numbers it was learned that the car he parked on Front street was bought at Brown-Thomson and company's, and paid for by Bersig. Bersig at one time owned a grocery store at No. 871 New Britain avenue in Hartford, and his last known address was at the Ambassador, on Farmington avenue. Later, at the hospital, he was identified as Bersig by the man to whom he had sold the New Britain avenue store.

Traded Property With Moe Roy.

A search of Bersig's clothes at the hospital disclosed $350 in cash on his person. The patient explained his possession of that money as due to a bill he was to have paid Monday to Moe Roy of No. 34 Charter Oak place. Bersig told the police $300 of this money represented the final sum due to Roy as the result of an exchange of property between the two several months ago. Bersig traded his New Britain avenue store and meat market, valued at $2,000, for Roy's two-family frame house at No. 2 Clarenden street, in which there was an equity of $3,500. Bersig had agreed to pay Roy $500 and Roy was to take a mortgage of $1,000 on the property. Bersig paid Roy $200 out of the $500 and the remaining $300 was due Monday. Roy confirmed Bersig's explanation in a statement to the police Monday afternoon.

Police Guard Assigned.

Policemen James Carey, Harold J. Collier and Axel H. Gustapson were assigned to guard Bersig at the hospital, their duties to be divided into three shifts so that the patient will be under police observation at all times. Bersig's family is believed to live in Providence, R. I., but according to his story to the police, he had lived at the Bondmore hotel in Hartford during the past week. Bersig was suffering from internal hemorrhages when taken to the hospital.

In the car the police found two flashlights and an ounce bottle of glycerine, and on the man's person a bank book showing he had $403.56 in the City Bank and Trust company. Bersig was unarmed when caught.

A man suspected of being Bersig's pal was taken to the police headquarters by Detective Sergeant Thomas Hickey for questioning Monday afternoon.

PREACHES AGAINST TENDENCY TO DISCARD OLD CREEDS

In a sermon at Park Congregational church this month, Rev. Dr. E. H. Howe, pastor, spoke from the text Jude 3. Content earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints, and made his message an appeal not to desert creeds of the church of 20 centuries in favor of new knowledge of the present day age.

He spoke in part as follows:

We live in a time of creed decrement. We hear on every hand that doctrine and dogmas have gone to the discard. We are unbound by creedal chains and can be freelances. Sometimes the creedal revolt is of some older Bible interpretations, and we agree, for we read our Bibles by some new canons of interpretations. We are not literalists, reading history and poetry, parable and racial legend as some of our fathers did. But it is a good thing to raise the question of how much or how little of the content and substantive basis of a divine revelation has been superceded.

1. Take the doctrine of God. Modern science has immensely expanded the physical universe. We cannot grasp the conception of an infinitely extended universe and we find it difficult to girdle the infinite force which created all this, and many are laying down the task. Our new knowledge has immeasurably expanded and enlarged the stature of man. He is greater than all material creation, too great for a physical universe to satisfy. Carlyle said if you gave a bootblack a sidereal system he would not be content with so small a toy. If our conception of God has grown, our capacity to follow Him in all His work has correspondingly increased.

2. This decrial of creeds sometimes relates to the redemptive ideas of the New Testament. Sometimes it is the incarnation that is regarded as a discarded dogma. That God should break out on His hidden secrecy and appear on the fields of history is regarded as incredible. We must break with all this supernatural illusion, we are told. To be liberal we must rule out all that is above the level of the natural. That God should cross the diameter of the universe and appear on our planet on a redemptive mission is regarded as unbelievable. But that beings like ourselves should in all lands and all ages be here reaching out imploring adoring hands toward their Maker with a great hunger for God which they express in temples and shrines of worship and God never move out on the fields of history to greet and satisfy that hunger would be the one supremely incredible dogma, impossible of credence. Would a human parent be deaf to the cry of his child? Seeing him a great way off he ran to meet him, fell on his neck, kissed him and ordered the royal robes for his arrayal.

3. Take the doctrine of mediation, so much decried by the incredulous. We want no mediation or mediator, Emerson tells us. Epicletetus said we are so self-complete that we can stand in our own right. But we are in reality at the heart of a vast system of mediation. Through how many hands the common blessings of life come to us. Why should a mediative office be taken from the Supreme Teacher and Guide of souls? He is at the heart of a great system of mediation that is as wide as the universe itself. He came to minister, not to be ministered unto.

4. Coming to the level of our experience, here is the doctrine of the new birth or regeneration. It, too, is discarded by many who cannot be persuaded that their lives are imperfect and in need of repair, who are too good to be remade and cast into new moulds. They can pass the sentries as they are and need no help for their remaking. Christ's doctrine of a new birth and Paul's of a new creation are not for them. But what if we all need new orientations, new God-frontages, new tastes, new aptitudes for, and new interests in things divine, new beginnings and some very needful departures from old standards? Have you never seen men rise up out of old ideals and standards and strike out for new goals, and take on new activities and new raptures, which sinning men never know, till you must confess they are new creatures in Jesus Christ? If you have not seen such transfigurations we can find them—millions of them—who will tell you all life has taken on a new glory, and who testify to the reality of new experience that has been epochal in their moral existence.

Ought we not to be grateful that God should give us a new chance, a new start for fresh beginnings? This change and chance we have been believing for two thousand years and calling regeneration, a new birth, a new start, a clean page, a second chance. Why should we be anxious to throw this tremendously welcome truth to the rubbish heap, to which the riotous creed decriers would consign it?

5. Take the doctrine of purification, upon which Paul rings the changes, and which Luther calls the article of a standing or a falling Christ. What is this but finding in and through the gospel firm footing in the moral universe? We certainly need what will give us safety, a firm foundation for a soul that is to find its life in a law-governed universe, which no man can get through by his own merit. We want a place unchallenged in our Father's vast household, and this we get through faith in One who died on a cross in our behalf, and not for himself. We would rather be wrong with the redeemed multitudes than be right with the creed deniers.

6. And there is the discarded dogma of sanctification. But what is this doctrine, thrown into the waste basket, but the simple fact that the soul can grow in goodness, that our existence is not static, that we can be better men than the sinning life can make us.

7. There is the discarded doctrine of providence, of supervision, of foreplanning for us which goes under such terms as election and predestination. We have the fact thrust upon us that some one has cast a horoscope for us. For some reason unaccountable our lot seems to have been assigned by a will outside our own that determined our life, placing it in other than the Dark Ages of dark continents, or in the haunts of outlawry. That we have for some unknown reason been set in places with a goodly heritage, instead of in evil environments and blind alleys, out of which we could not break. You may discard the generalizations of human reason about the dogmas of the catechist, but plain fact stares us in the face that some one, or something else, other than ourselves has been determinative of the where and the whence and the whither bound of our great chance to live. No one can cast these cold steel facts into satisfactory formula, and yet the facts are with us however insoluble. A great American preacher said he was a predestinarian "in spots." Perhaps all of us are in his company.

8. Then there is the doctrine of immortality. Some people are casting this to the discard. They have had enough of life, they say, and so are picking the locks or going out of life by the postern door. But we have the option on this, the scientific men are telling us. It can be won or lost on the open field, they assure us. St. John's words are ominous where he tells us that he that hath the son hath life and he that hath not the son hath not life. We must avail ourselves of the redemptive forces, without which there may be no certainty. We are learning that all reasoned arguments for a future life worth having, apart from revelation, go astray. Philosophers have never proved it. They can only throw half spans across the dangerous river, but a mightier Hand must fling out the connecting links which complete the bridge. We had better risk our faith with Him who brought life and immortality to light by the gospel, over which the redeemer have been passing.

Before we throw the creed content of the New Testament over our shoulder we had better ask the question to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life. The creeds of the church of 20 centuries may be more creditable than the stark nescience of the present age and time.

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS GET DECISION OVER DUDLEYS BY SCORE OF 32 TO 25

The glory of cleaning up the two basketball teams of Webster and, incidentally, two good ones, went to the Taftville Crescents last night when they trimmed the Dudley A. C. of that city at Parish hall, by the score of 32 to 25. It was expected that the Massachusetts boys would bring along several of the players from the St. Joseph team which gave the Crescents such a spectacular game last week. But there was only one man from that team, and consequently the fans didn't see the game that they saw last week. At that, it was a good game, with Taftville taking the lead after Murphy shot a foul to tie and Leonard made the first field goal.

Webster Scores First.

Webster led off with a foul goal by Twardzyk. But the Taftville boys, after Murphy's foul goal and playing from the Dudley end of the floor, carried the ball through the Webster boys' opposition and Leonard took the honor of dropping it in. Harris came through with a foul and after Grwyk made a field for Dudley, Leonard again made a field by reaching up and tapping in a missed foul by Normandin.

The Dudley lads were fast on the floor individually, but seemed to lack the team work which was so apparent in the other Webster team. They were also minus the sharp-shooting faculty of the St. Joseph boys. But they played the game every minute and played it in a mighty clean fashion. They missed several long shots, but Grwyk managed to drop in another field and Twardzyk made the two fouls to give the visitors their six score for the first half. Harris made a field. Leonard got another and to put the first half on ice, Normandin came across with one of his famous overhand shots for Taftville's ten.

Harris Scores.

Harris started the second half off with a pretty basket, pushed in while in the air, as only a six-footer could do it. Kurjawski made a field, followed closely by another to threaten the Taftville team. But Murphy made a field and then Normandin, to surge ahead, never again to be threatened. Belleville, Dudley's fast left guard, took the honors in the second half, getting two fields and a foul goal. Kurjawski was next high man with three fields, while Iglowski got two and Grzwyk one. Normandin was high scorer for the Crescents in the second 20 minutes, getting four fields. Rollo Harris, the Crescents' inimitable center, two, Gauthier, Murphy and Leonard each one, and one for Eccleston, replacing Gautier at left forward.

The big crowd present was well satisfied with one more good game and the management is looking forward to lots of excitement and a big crowd when they start their series off with Danielson next Tuesday night.

FIRST SQUAD OF A'S EN ROUTE TO CAMP

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20—(AP)—The first squad of Connie Mack's Athletics left here tonight for their baseball training grounds at Fort Myers, Fla. Mack is already in the southland golfing, and the squad, which numbered fourteen persons was in charge of Kid Gleason, veteran coach.

Six pitchers were in the party, Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg, Howard Ehmke, Joe Bush, John Lyons and Jimmy Blake, the last two being local sandlot hurlers who will try to break into big time ball. The three catchers in the group were Mickey Cochrane, Cy Perkins and Jeff Emerson. Ed Rommel and Ike Powers, pitchers, and Jimmy Foxx, catcher, were expected to board the train at Baltimore.

Others of the Athletics' outfit, including Captain Eddie Collins and Tris Speaker, will head for the training camp during the next few days.

ACADEMY IN STIFF WORKOUTS THIS WEEK

The Academy is holding lengthy and strenuous drills in preparation for the three games to come this week. The locals were sent through a long drill that included plenty of scrimmage Monday afternoon at the Y and today will probably find the Red and White getting work of much the same nature.

In Stonington and Bacon academy, their opponents in the three games, the latter being met twice, the local schoolboys are meeting no set-ups and they can be expected to furnish real opposition all the way. True, the Academy showed improved form Saturday but there is always the chance of a let-down and even a trifle of faltering against these opponents may result disastrously.

Y EMPS CLAIM E. CONN. JUNIOR COURT TITLE

The Y Emps of this city are laying claim to the junior basketball title of eastern Connecticut for the year. With a total of 30 victories and but 2 defeats in the past two years, the Emps feel that they have a valid right to this much coveted honor. This is the second straight year that the Emps have put in their hand for this title. In 1926-27 they won 20 games and lost none. This year they have won 8 and lost 2, those to the New Britain Phantoms, so that they are still undefeated in the two seasons in eastern Connecticut.

The Phantoms had an advantage in age that helped considerably, according to the local team, several of their players being, it is said, close to the 21 year old mark, while the locals are but 16-18 years of age. The second team has been used considerably by Coach Conklin, which probably accounts for the fact that the Emps have not run up enormous scores.

The Emps' record for this season follows:

Emps 32, Willimantic Emps 18.
Emps 20, New London Rotary Boys 4.
Emps 19, Willimantic Emps 15.
Emps 25, Kappa club 15.
Emps 20, New Britain Phantoms 29.
Emps 26, Stonington All-Stars 13.
Emps 27, New Britain Phantoms 39.
Emps 30, Fitchville Rovers 19.
Emps 35, Norwich Shamrocks 5.
Emps 38, New London Orioles 15.
Emps 29, Noank Jrs. 9.
Recapitulation: Won 8, lost 2; points 291, opponents' points 191.

C. F. C. WIN OVER MERCURY FIVE, 28 TO 24

The C. F. C. won from the Mercury team of New London Monday night at the Y gym, 28 to 24, in a slow game. Neither team had a commanding lead at any time with the locals finally spurting slightly to gain the verdict.

Hutchinson and Edwards of the visitors were high scorres while Brown of the locals was right behind with nine points. In the preliminary the 4-H club beat the Gammas 14 to 13, in a Senior Church league game.

QUINN EQUALS WORLD'S MARK TO TAKE NEW YORK A. C. 60 YD.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 20—(AP)—Forty-eight hours after his sensational defeated by Ray Conger at Kansas City, Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. A., returned to the boards tonight and jogged to a holow victory in the Baxter mile, feature of the Newk York club indoor carnival, for the fourth time in five years.

After equalling the world's indoor record in a trial heat, J. F. Quinn, crack Holy Cross sprinter, completed his conquest over a stellar field of dash men by capturing the final of the 60-yard event from Karl Wildermuth of Georgetown, the national champion.

Sabin Carr, of Yale, narrowly missed in three attempts to shatter his own world indoor pole vault record of 13 feet 9 1-4 inches. After clearing 13 feet 6 inches, to win the event, Carr bumped off the bar three times at 13 feet, 10 inches. Twice he soared over the bar only to knock it off with his arm.

JACK DELANEY STARTS HEAVY WORK FOR HEENEY

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 20—(AP)—Jack Delaney, who meets Tom Heeney of New Zealand in the first of Tex Rickard's heavyweight eliminations on March 1, today refused to shift his training quarters to New York, and commenced heavy training in his rickety little gym here.

The Rapier of the north went through 12 rounds of work, four of which consisted of rapid-fire fighting with Pietro Corri, of Belgium. Two rounds each were spent on the light and heavy bags, three on rope skipping and one on calisthenics. The former light heavyweight champion weighed slightly more than 185 pounds when he completed the drill and was breathing normally.

'BOUT SPORTS

Bobby Mays of New London stands out today as the man to practically ruin Kid Kaplan's chances, for a time, at least, for recognition as a lightweight contender. True, the decision may have been unpopular but there must have been some cause or room for doubt to have such a favorite get away without the decision against a boy little heard of outside Connecticut.

Taftville and Danielson get at it again in basketball within the next week or so. They opened this series in December, and each took a game. Now, these third and fourth games, and, if necessary, a fifth, ought to prove interesting and pull in the crowds. Somehow, or other, Taftville and Danielson, in providing the finishing touches to the basketball season, seem to bang away in real rapid-fire exhibitions.

BASEBALL NEWS

PIRATES, 19 STRONG, ARRIVE AT PASO ROBLES

PASO ROBLES, Calif., Feb. 20—(AP)—The vanguard of the Pittsburg Pirates, including 15 pitchers and four catchers, arrived at the spring training camp today to prepare for baseball's 1928 pennant race.

Manager Donie Bush and Treasurer Sam W. Dreyfuss headed the party, and the manager incidentally expressed the belief that his club this year would repeat its sensational performance of last year in the National league. The Chicago and New York clubs will be the only ones to fear, he said.

Other members of the Pirate team are scheduled to report next week. Manager Bush said he would work his men hard to get them in shape for exhibition games to be played in California.

40 REPORT TO COACH JOE WOOD AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 20—(AP)—Yale baseball play got under way today with the reporting of 40 men to Coach Joe Wood at the Coxe Memorial field gym.

Bruce Caldwell, who was declared ineligible for football reported and was assigned to first base. His ineligibility does not include baseball. This year will be his last to represent Yale as he graduates in June.

Captain Dick Vaughn did not report for practice as he is also captain of the hockey team and will continue with them until the hockey season ends.

Although the battery men have been working out for the past week the entire squad was given a light workout consisting of tossing the ball around and bunting practice.

Harvard Out

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 20—(AP)—Harvard baseball got under way today when 30 odd battery candidates reported to Coach Fred Mitchell in new Briggs cage on Soldiers field. The new cage will permit regular infield play when the rest of the squad is called out two weeks hence.

LOCKHART FALLS SHORT IN RECORD TRY AT DAYTONA

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20—(AP)—Frank Lockhart, noted Indianapolis race car driver, late today sent his tiny Stutz Black Hawk special roaring over the sands of Daytona Beach at an officially timed speed of 206.22246 miles an hour against the wind in an assault on the world's speed record.

Carburetor trouble earlier in the afternoon had interrupted his preliminary run on the beach, and his official drive took place so late that the rapidly rising tide prevented his return with the wind, for a combined average, as required in the American Automobile association test. His better than 220 mile an hour showing today will have no bearing on any future attempt, as the run in both directions must be accomplished within 30 minutes of each other.

253 Per Hour

J. M. White of Philadelphia, also in quest of the laurels which went to Captain Malcolm Campbell of England with his world's record run of 206.956 miles an hour Sunday, declared tonight that his big triplex racer had attained a speed of more than 253 miles an hour, just before it entered the mile stretch in a test run today which was interrupted by a minor accident.

Ray Keech, 27 year old Philadelphia driver for J. M. White, suffered minor burns about his right leg and hip when a water pipe connection on the forward motor of his machine loosened and allowed steam and boiling water to spray over his clothing. He was taken to a hospital where attendants said he was not seriously hurt.

The accident occurred just before Keech crossed the mile mark on an unofficial trial run in White's huge 36 cylindered Triplex machine, while traveling at an estimated speed of 186 miles an hour. Keech, however, was able to keep the racer under control and bring it to a stop after running four miles down the beach. He walked to an ambulance unassisted while the giant car later was towed from the course.

Wade Morton, of Indianapolis, established a new world's record for stock cars when he drove his Auburn special over the mile course for an average two-way speed of 104.347 miles an hour. His average elapsed time for the mile was 34.5 seconds and his fastest time was 108.466 miles an hour.

PLAINFIELD BUDDIES CHALLENGE C. F. C. AGAIN

The Plainfield Buddies are again challenging the C. F. C. of this city for a game. The C. F. C. beat this team twice early in the season, by one point each time and the Community Housers were not satisfied as to the local's superiority either time.

Now the Buddies are so anxious for the tilt that they offer to play the local boys under amateur rules at Plainfield.

Interscholastic Sports

Buck LaCroix is sure working havoc with opposing forwards these days. Buck is playing as strong a guard game as there is in this region nowadays.

The Academy's showing Saturday night was a big pleasant surprise to those who hadn't seen them since the dark days in the early part of the season.

Now fans are beginning to think seriously that Windham can be beaten in the second game, a week from Friday, at Willimantic.

Incidentally Windham's Yale tourney aspirations received an awful jolt from the Torrington defeat.

Stonington is dropping them fast and furious, although the team is not lacking in fight. South Kingstown and Harding were the winners over O'Brien's machine last week. However, that is no sign at all that the Academy is going to have it easy or even win Wednesday night, for, playing on her home floor she will have a big advantage over the Academy.

BOBBY MAYS HOLDS KID KAPLAN TO DRAW IN TEN ROUNDS AT NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Louis "Kid" Kaplan, of Meriden, former featherweight champion of the world, fought a 10-round draw with Bobby Mays, of New London, here tonight.

Kaplan weighed 134; Mays 133½.

Decision Unpopular.

The decision was an unpopular one with the crowd and ringside observers seemed to think that Kaplan had a wide margin in most of the rounds.

A capacity crowd of 6,000 fans attended the fight in the Arena.

Throughout the fight, Mays led cautiously, and then tied up the Meriden "buzz saw." Kaplan pounded Mays under the heart continuously during the clinches which were so numerous as to have the crowd booing several times.

In the middle of the last round, the crowd began to make its surge towards the exits. When the final bell rang the referee held one hand of each fighter in the air signifying a draw. The crowd seemed astounded.

Mike Esposito, of Stamford, bantamweight champion of Connecticut, won the decision over Art De Champlain, of Wallingford in the eight-round semi-final. The bout was a fast one and the men seemed well-matched. Esposito maintaining an edge on De Champlain throughout the fight.

Battalino Wins.

In the preliminaries, all of which were full of action, Bat Battalino, 128, Hartford, won the decision from Johnny Ciccone, 127, of New Haven, six rounds. Frankie O'Brien, 158, Hartford, won the decision from Georgie Walker, 158, New Haven, six rounds. Baby Doll, 135, Waterbury, won the decision from Tommy Jarrett, 137, New Haven.

LOMSKI WALLOPS KID FRANCIS EXTENSIVELY

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20—(AP)—Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen assassin, lived up to his name ton nit, his fight with Jimmy Francis, of Jersey City, being stopped in the middle of the third round by the referee to save Francis from further punishment. The Washington battler weighed 170, Francis 164.

Benny Schwartz, Baltimore, 118, won the verdict over Pinkey May, Savannah, 120, in the ten round semi-final.

In one of the preliminaries, a six rounder, Arthur Flynn, 161, Boston, won the decision over Charley Miller, 162, Philadelphia.

Garcia in Draw.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 20—(AP)—Billy Grimes, of Australia, and Bobby Garcia, Baltimore, junior lightweights, fought a 12-round draw tonight in the Olympia club. Grimes weighed 228, and Garcia 130 1-4.

ST. GODDARD LEADS IN INTERNATIONAL DERBY

QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Emile St. Goddard, youthful ace from the Pas, Man., drove a carefully calculated race today and emerged the leader after the first lap of the sixth annual international dog derby had been completed.

Racing fans are asking if he can maintain the terrific pace he set today when he beat his own record of last year, for the first heat, by exactly ten minutes. His greyhound huskie dogs finished the race somewhat tired but otherwise in fercet condition and tonight St. Goddard was confident that he would increase his lead tomorrow.

St. Goddard is determined to defeat Leonard Seppala, of Nome, Alas., who outclassed him in winning the New England point to point race a week ago, but that his task will be difficult was shown by today's result.

SPORTING NOTES

In ancient Greece there was no betting on the Olympic Games.

Key West, Fla., possesses the distinction of having the southernmost golf course in the United States.

Many athletes are training at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, in preparation for the Olympic tryouts soon to be held.

College athletes from all parts of the East have entered for the thirteenth annual indoor meet of the Meadowbrook A. C. of Philadelphia to be held Feb. 21.

Jim Galloway, now president of the Beaumont club, has the distinction of being the only Texas League player with a six-season batting average of .300 or better.

Temple University, which flashed like a comet across the football horizon in the early part of the season, expects to have a new stadium completed by the early Fall.

"Big Chief" Bender, the great Indian pitcher of former years, is getting the United States Navel Academy ball team in good shape for the coming season.

April 19 will be a red letter day in Pueblo, for it will see the first organized baseball there in 17 years. The Colorado city, after a hard fight, has broke into the Western League.

Austin, (Texas) college believes it has the tallest basketball player of any college in the country in the person of Joe Ballar, who stands 7 feet 3 inches high and weigh 220 pounds.

Those familiar with the crouch getaway in track wonder just how long it will be before the major league baseball teams are trying it out for their runners on third base when a ball is hit to the out field.

When the midwinter meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen is held next month it is said that the selection of the Schuykill River, Philadelphia, for the Olympic rowingtrial, races may be taken up for reconsideration. Some of the colleges are said to have advanced objections to the Schuykill course on the ground that it is too narrow.

During the coming summer Denmark is to celebrate the centenary of the inclusion of gymnastics in the regular curriculum of the Danish national schools. One of the chief features of the program will be a sports gathering to be held at the Copenhagen Stadium, the football grounds of the Sports Park, and the Hellgoland swimming establishement. It is expected that schools and colleges in every section of the country will take part.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION OF COMPLICITY IN MURDER

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP)—An oiler and two stowaways were arrested, on suspicion of complicity in a robbery and the murder of a Texas City, Texas, policeman when the Standard Oil tanker A. C. Bedford arrived tonight from Galveston City, Texas.

William Curtis, 24, of New Brighton, N. Y., the oiler, was held on request of the sheriff of Galveston county, who had sent a copy of an indictment charging Curtis with murder. The two stowaways, John Lis, 23, of Manchester, Conn., and Albert Zajone, 24, of Brooklyn, were held as possible accessories, pending receipt of further information from Texas authorities. All three denied any connection with the murder and robbery.

Eventual entrance of Canada into the Pan-American union was predicted yesterday by John Barrett, former director of the organization, in a telegram sent to the president of the conference now in progress at Havana.

Glimpses of Sports of Other Days

BITGOOD BROTHERS, VOLUNTOWN'S GIANTS

(The Bitgood brothers, Voluntown's giants, is the subject of the second of a series of articles presented on doings in the sport world of days gone by).

The Bitgood brothers, Elmer and Doane, at that time claimed to be the strongest men in the world, and their lifting stunts, which were really remarkable, was the talk of the state, their exhibitions always attracting a large gallery. Their training quarters, so-called, were located on a farm three miles east of Voluntown, and a number of years ago visitors were seen frequently about the grounds and sheds, viewing the apparatus used by the giants, who are still living.

The article, from the account in The Norwich Bulletin of May 7, 1909, is as follows:

"You can find Bitgoods a-plenty in Voluntown, and all men of might and muscle, but if you ask for the real strong men of the town, everyone, from the oldest inhabitant to the latest native born, will send you out about three miles east of the village to the farm of Elmer Bitgood and his brother Doane, whose pictures are shown above, with the apparatus that they use to support their claim to being the strongest men in the world.

"None of your trick lifts, you understand, but a straight back lift of putting up a weight with your hands, says Elmer, and Doane backed up his brother, who is the older of the two and the star performer at the lifting game. The Bitgood boys had heard there were some weight lifters, the Apollo Bros., at the Broadway theatre, and had dressed up in their store clothes to come to town to see what the Apollo Bros. had to show. These two rugged specimens of Voluntown's manhood, with black hair, attracted considerable attention Wednesday on the streets as they lingered around waiting for the evening performance. They had been up to the theatre in the afternoon but had not tried the sack lift, Doane declaring that the weight was nothing but a plaything for him, but he couldn't be induced to go on, thought he might break up the show for the rest of the week if he walked off with the sack.

"While he wouldn't try Apollo's lifting game, he foxily invited the strong man at the theatre to come out for a trial at the Bitgood game. This is done with the apparatus shown in the picture, the table being weighted with five stones weighing 2,200 pounds. Elmer then gets underneath, puts his hands on the small stool and raises the table three or four inches with his shoulders, lowering it gently back to place. Then, if the visitor wants to see something more, he has a stone as big as a small automobile, weighing 2,040 pounds, which they roll upon the table, and that is hoisted in the same way. All this for a very moderate consideration. Then he has two stone oar bells, the heaviest 225 pounds, which he will put up over his head, one at a time, and finish up with a one-handed feat in which he holds at arm's length a stone weighing 150 pounds, and will also lift it with his little finger put through a ring in the stone.

"All the weights lifted are guaranteed, Doane says, by a committee of his townsmen, who weighed them on a pair of new scales and marked the weight, so that there can be no mistake. Elmer, who is about 25, weighs from 290 to 300 pounds, when feeling just right. Doane, who is about 23, comes near his father's weight, which was 225, size and strength having always been a family trait. They have numerous other startling feats to perform and can interest a visitor at any time at their Voluntown farm."

WORCESTER TEAM FOR DUWELL AMATEURS

The feature attraction of the opening indoor amateur boxing show of the Duwell A. A. to be presented under the auspices of the Combat Train at the state armory Friday night will be a six man team from Worcester, Mass. This announcement was made last night shortly after the final arrangements clinching the Worcester team were completed by the Duwell authorities. Included in the Massachusetts roster are several of New England's most prominent amateurs, especially Harry Devine featherweight champ and Eero Peterson, junior New England bantamweight champ. Other members of the outfit are Vernon Cormier 112, George Newman 116, Jimmy Dixon 116, John Yogpan 118, Harry Golder 110, Lon Patrons 124, Einar Hermans 130, Leo Ducharme 133, Ollie Koski 140, Art Brusso 144, and Brush Lavigne 160.

Although the team will not be accompanied by Devine who is out with a bad eye, there will be plenty of headliners among the six picked to make the trip to Norwich. Lavigne, Koskie and Brusso each a sensation at the Providence tournament on February 3, will surely appear here, while the other three will be selected at a later date.

Westerly to Furnish Opposition

To oppose the Worcester men there will be a number of boxers from Westerly including Joe Russel Young Spasato, and Frankie Bruno, and Young Chape. The appearance of the Westerly boxers at the Duwell show will mark their return to Connecticut rings after having been barred from the state for an infraction of A. A. U. rules. Since last appearing here Spasato has captured the welterweight championship of Rhode Island and is picked as a contender for national honors at Boston next spring. "Big Boy" Burlap big colored heavyweight who has never been defeated in Norwich, having disposed of at least five men by knockouts will be among the visiting Westerly boxers. An opponent for Burlap has not been selected as yet, but every effort will be made to line him up with some promising heavy.

All local pugilists that expect to fight Friday are requested to register early so that A. A. U. cards may be secured for them. No boxer will be allowed to perform unless he has his card with him.

JEWETT CITY

SAYLES FAMILY PROSTRATED BY THIRD TRAGIC DEATH

The third terrible grief in the suddenness which has befallen the Sayles family of Ekonk brings forth many words of sympathy for them. Two brothers were killed, one in the World war, the other on the Oneco railroad crossing. Now their father was found dead, sitting in his automobile Saturday morning. Miss Julia Sayles is a member of the Ashland Cotton company office force here, Miss Ruth Sayles is with the Jewett City Trust company and Mrs. Bertha Mitchell of Norwich is bookkeeper with the Jewett City Automobile Sales company on North Main street. There are two brothers, John of Glasgo and Fred of Ekonk. Another sister, Lena, lives at home. The family are prostrated by this last blow. The mother, who was so brave all through the sorrow caused by the death of her sons, is utterly crushed by this blow. Ruth and the son, Fred, who found his father dead, are ill in bed, and Lena cannot walk, all suffering from the shock.

Raymond Wheeler, a 15-year-old boy, killed a woodchuck in an open lot near his home at Dorrville Friday. Whether Mr. Chuck had been out since ground hog day, or, Friday being fine, had ventured from his burrow for a bit of spring prospecting, is not decided.

Mrs. Della Kennedy spent the week-end with her sister, Miss Anna St. John, R. N., in Springfield.

The topic of leading interest in the borough is the narrow margin by which a bad fire was conquered on the morning of Feb. 12. At the next meeting of the board of borough government, March 5, the matter will come up for consideration and the warden and burgesses will take a tion relative to the calling of a freeman's meeting. Warden E. J. Jodoin said Monday, that he had heard many favorable opinions expressed relative to the purchase of a pumper.

Fire Marshal G. H. Prior has a sensible line of argument which he will present, explaining why Jewett City needs a pumper.

Burgesses E. L. French, Thomas McBroome, John McDermott and H. E. Olsen, all said that they were in favor of the matter being discussed at the March meeting of the board.

Again the fickle weather man has pulled the lever the other way, when hopes were raised Saturday and Sunday, that an ice crop would be harvested. The change came during the night Sunday, causing a lift in temperature from 12 degrees at 5 a. m. Sunday to 46 degrees Monday noon. Straightway, the five-inch snow blanket felt its influence and was on the move, with slushy sidewalks and watery streets. Investigation, today, of records connected with the ice business, show that there have been two years when no harvest was secured. One of these summers the late I. F. Lewis got ice from Maine, and the other, Shea Bros., bought by the carload from an ice company of Worcester.

W. I. JOHNSON, PACHAUG, DIED SUDDENLY MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 20—Walter I. Johnson, 60, died suddenly late this afternoon at his home in Pachaug. He had been ailing for some time, but Monday morning was about as usual and he accommodated a neighbor by cutting the latter's hair. Late in the afternoon he went into the cellar to attend to the furnace. Not returning for some time, his nephew went to the cellar and found his uncle lying dead on the floor. Medical Examiner G. H. Jennings was called and gave heart disease as the cause of death. Mr. Johnson was a native of Jewett City, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Johnson. He was a carpenter and had been employed on many house building contracts in this vicinity, being classed as a skilled workman. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Jennie Spicer, and a son, Raymond of Hartford, a sister, Mrs. Everett Salisbury of Jewett City and by two brothers, Justin and Samuel, living in New London.

The newly completed Aspinock chimney is one of the finest in New England. It is built of selected red brick, yet it has the appearance of being made of white brick, for it shows from base to rim, a clean shaft of white, due to the action of lime in the material of construction.

The Saturday snow storm wrought havoc with the roads in several of the outlying districts. First Selectman D. F. Finn was notified of the condition of the highway near Charles Armstrong's place, the report saying that the road was full for over a thousand feet. At the point in question the wall had been removed on one side, giving the northeast gale of Saturday afternoon and early evening full sweep. Sunday, all day, Mr. Finn, with a gang of men, worked with the big tower scraper. Now and then, a layer of frozen sleet had come to reinforce the "blown-in" snow, with the result that all day teams that passed that way had to detour through the lots. Later Sunday, Mr. Finn sent men with shovels over the 26-mile R. F. D. route, that it might be clear for Monday's delivery. Only one place was found, however, that needed their attention.

A man in the south part of the town telephoned in Monday to say that he saw sparrows carrying straws from his barn, across to the eaves of a nearby shed, with evidence that several pairs had already selected the site for their summer nests.

With the installation of new radio sets handled by a local man, the number of radios in town increases by three or four each week. Sunday, much difference in reception was reported from varying sections. Parts of the same street were clear, while others, as one owner said, "couldn't get a thing."

The alarm on the fire whistle for station 41 at 4:30 Monday afternoon called the firemen to a blaze in a rubbish pile in the basement of Noyle's store on North Main street. The blaze was extinguished with pails of water with little damage. The family had been burning paper in the furnace.

Rev. J. J. McCabe entertained the choirs and church workers at a turkey supper at the rectory Monday evening. Forty-two were present and enjoyed the delicious supper prepared by Miss Nellie Connell.

The postoffice will be closed after 9 o'clock Wednesday. The schools, banks and library will close.

Brides in Ten Cities Tell Housekeeping Plans

NEW YORK, N. Y.—A thousand brides in ten large cities disclosed their household plans in a recent survey.

On one point all these brides agreed. Their homes are to be run with skill, but they will not sacrifice a bit of good looks or charm. For instance, nearly all have decided how they will keep nice hands in spite of housework.

Many had noticed in beauty parlors that pure Lux suds are used in manicuring, to soften and whiten the fingers. Others had noticed how nice their hands looked after washing fine things with Lux. So, of 1,118 brides, 1,084, or 97%, plan to wash dishes with Lux.

"It's so easy never to let your hands get red and coarse-looking," they said. "Many soaps make the skin harsh, but pure Lux suds are so soothing and gentle! And Lux for dishes is inexpensive, too, because the big package of Lux washes 6 weeks' dishes."

INTERMITTENT RALLIES FAILED TO HALT LIQUIDATION IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—Further liquidation developed in today's stock market which lost ground for the third successive day. Sporadic rallies developed in various sections of the list but many of them fell flat. A sprinkling of issues closed 2 to 4 points net higher. While selling pressure was particularly severe against some of the specialties, the offerings did not approach in magnitude those which accompanied the decline last week. The day's sales ran just over 2,500,000 shares.

Although it was generally conceded that the selling movement was inspired by conditions within, rather than without the market, a few outside developments contributed to the prevailing bearish sentiment. These included the publication of the state unemployment survey, the reduction in dividends on LaClede Gas and White Motors and unconfirmed rumors of a further tightening of collateral requirements by banks.

Call money remained in plentiful supply all day at the renewal figure of 4 1-4 per cent., with concessions in the rate reported in the outside market. There was no change in time money, commercial paper or acceptance rates.

U. S. Steel common dipped to 133 1-2 and was followed into new low ground for the year by a number of other leading industrials, rallying later to 139 1-4, off 3-4 net. General Motors closed unchanged at 134, after selling between 133 1-2 and 135 1-4.

Selling was most effective against such issues as Abitibi Power, American Agricultural Chemical preferred, A. M. Byers, Gold Dust, International Business Machines, International Nickel, Purity Baking B, Reynolds Tobacco B, Stromberg Carburetor and United Drug, all of which showed net declines of 3 points or more. Montgomery-Ward sagged to 131 1-2, as against a recent high of 149 1-4, and then rallied to 132 5-8, off 2 5-8 net.

Renewed demand for the express shares was in reflection of the recent proposal of railroad executives that control of those companies be acquired by the railroads. American Railway Express showed an extreme gain of 4 1-2 points at 138, a new high record. Cigar stocks moved forward under the leadership of Bayuk and Congress. Strong recuperative tendencies also were shown by American Zinc & Lead preferred, Freeport Texas, Greene Cananea Copper, Vanadium and Vick Chemical, all up 2 points or more at the close.

A brisk rise in sterling exchange which sent cables on London up to $4.87 11-16 featured the firmer foreign exchange market. Most of the continental currencies were quoted a point or two higher.

Commodity markets also pointed upward. Cotton advanced 11 to 16 points on buying influenced by reports of a better mill demand and dry weather in the southwest. The rise in wheat, which ran to more than a cent a bushel in May futures, was influenced by reports of a food shortage in Russia. Coffee quotations rallied 4 to 13 points and sugar prices held steady.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—Present earnings of the Southern Pacific are running somewhat below last year, but business is expected to pick up the rest of the year, so that net earnings at least should equal those for 1927, says A. D. MacDonald, vice president.

The Erie railroad reports a deficit of $463,567 for January after charges. Gross revenues were $6,955,140 against $8,218,931 in January last year.

The price of zinc is at a new low, prime western being quoted at 5.50 cents a pound, East St. Louis. The low for 1927 was 5.60 cents.

Net income of Consolidated Gas Co. of New York for 1927 rose to $42,273,120 from $35,066,892 in 1926, equal to $8.73 a share on the common against $9.60 a share on a smaller amount of stock outstanding the year before.

Hartman corporation earned $2.28 a share on the "B" stock in 1927 after dividends on the "A" stock, against $3.51 a share on the "B" in 1926. Net income fell to $1,042,832 from $1,414,050.

Four major influences are cited by the Union Trust company, Cleveland, as pointing definitely toward a general improvement of business, the price and credit situation, farmer purchasing power, expansion in iron and steel and increased automobile production. While these factors may be responsible for a decided increase in business, the bank points out that in certain fields such as oil, coal, textiles, retail trade and others, there are problems that might require a considerable lapse of time to solve.

Unfilled orders of John Warre Watson Co., of Feb. 15, were 14% per cent ahead of the volume on Feb. 28, 1927, the company reports and January shipments, in units, were 64 per cent ahead of January last year.

Commonwealth Power corporation earned $4.45 a share on the common, after preferred dividends, in the year ended January 31, against $3.44 a share the year before.

Net income of Cuyamel Fruit Co. for 1927 jumped to $1,869,290 equal to $6.23 a share, from $612,169 the year before or $2.04 a share.

Paraffine company declared an extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly of 75 cents on the common stock, payable March 27 to holders of record March 17. An extra of 50 cents was paid in the preceding quarter.

An additional issue of 90,000 shares of no par value first preferred stock of American Superpower Corp. of Delaware is being marketed at $102.50 a share by Benbright & Co. to yield 6.88 per cent.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—Liquidation of semi-speculative issues was the principal development in today's bond market in which high grade investment securities showed only minor price changes. Transactions were in limited volume, as many trader were disposed to wait until after the holiday before committing themselves to new transactions. There was no appreciable change in the money situation.

Weakness of convertible and other semi-speculative bonds had a direct relationship on the decline on the "big board." Some of those not directly affected by sinking stock prices presumably were sold to obtain funds to reinforce weakened margin accounts. Brooklyn Union Gas 5 1-2s fell back 4 1-2 points on a single sale, and losses of a point or more were registered by Andes Copper 7s, Botany Mills 6 1-2s, Hudson Coal 5s, Liquid Carbonic 6s, and a few others.

There were some buying of railroad mortgages which are not ordinarily active. Burlington (Illinois Division) 4s and Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis 4 1-2s were outstanding among such issues. Seaboard liens were again heavy, although the refunding 4s at one time showed a gain of 2 points, most of which later was relinquished.

Irregularity characterized the foreign list, some of the German industrials displaying a firm tendency, while few other groups followed any definite trend.

United States government bonds were comparatively inactive, with an active undertone.

Prompt oversubscription was reported of the $16,000,000 issue of first mortgage 4s of the Nashville Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway.

Public offering will be made tomorrow, priced to yield about 6.55 per cent, of $10,000,000 Rhine-Ruhr Water Service Union external gold debenture 6s. Of the total $2,500,000 will be withdrawn for offering abroad.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Nancy is Convinced at Last

So great the joy we sometimes gain
That it is hardly less than pain.
—Nanny Meadow Mouse.

Straight home ran Nanny Meadow Mouse as fast as her little legs could take her. Straight home and into her house, which, you know, was built of grass, she ran. She was frightened. She was the most upset little mouse that ever did run. All the time, you know, she was down under the snow that covered the Green Meadows. Behind her, calling to her and chasing her, was a Meadow Mouse who was exactly like Danny Meadow Mouse. She knew it wasn't Danny Meadow Mouse, because didn't she know that Danny was caught by Roughleg the Hawk? This stranger had called her by name, but that made no difference. She wished he would go away and yet she wished he would stay. Wasn't that a terrible state of mind to be in?

Nanny crouched in the darkest corner of her little home. Would this stranger try to come in? "I'll bite him if he does," thought Nanny. "Yes, sir, I'll bite him if he dares to poke his nose in here." Yet all the time she knew that she would be dreadfully disappointed if he didn't poke his nose in there.

The other mouse stopped just outside. Nanny Meadow Mouse," squeaked a familiar voice, "what do you mean by running away from me like that?"

"I don't know you!" squeaked Nanny.

For just a second there was no reply. Then a blust little head was thrust inside the doorway. "What are you talking about?" squeaked an indignant voice. "What do you mean by saying you don't know me?"

"I don't!" protested Nanny.

"You're crazy! That's what you are, crazy, Nanny Meadow Mouse!" declared that same familiar squeaky voice. "Just as if I hadn't been through enough without coming home and having you act in this manner!"

"You're not Danny Meadow Mouse!" protested Nanny.

"Well, if I'm not Danny Meadow Mouse, then there isn't any Danny Meadow Mouse," was the prompt reply.

"There isn't," said Nanny. "He was caught by Roughleg the Hawk. I saw him."

"Well, if you saw him you ought to know, but I was there so I know better," replied Danny Meadow Mouse, for, of course, it was Danny all the time.

"Nanny Meadow Mouse!" squeaked a familiar voice.

"Then if you are Danny Meadow Mouse where have you been all this time? Why haven't you been home? What did you mean by allowing me to stay here and worry?" squeaked Nanny and her voice grew squeakier and squeakier, for she was trying to work herself into a rage.

It was Danny's turn to be indignant, and Danny was indignant. When he thought of all he had been through and how hard he had worked to dig that long tunnel under the snow so as to get home he felt that he was a very much abused Meadow Mouse. He told Nanny so. He told her so very emphatically. He told her so emphatically that Nanny became very meek. She became very meek indeed.

But down inside she was just running over with happiness. It was her Danny, and she knew it. It was her very own Danny. When at last Danny had told her fully all that happened she could understand, and then she felt lot better. You know, we always feel better when we understand things. She could see where she had made her mistake. She had seen Roughleg the Hawk swoop down at Danny. She had seen him fly up at once and there was no Danny there. She hadn't been able to see the little hole down which Dahny had dived, so she was sure that Danny had been carried away.

"Oh, Danny!" she squeaked, "I'm so glad he didn't get you."

"So am I," said Danny.

Palace Theatre.

"The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," which will be shown for the last time today at the Palace theatre, is life jammed with wholesome human touches of pathos and comedy. It is a beautiful painting from the delicate brush of the great artist, William Beaudine, director of "Little Annie Rooney," "Sparrows" and "Mike That Lion."

Each member of the all-star cast is admirably chosen.

It is not a farce comedy, but it is drama of the relations between the Irishman and the Jew told with an eye always on the comic possibilities of the tale.

George Sidney, who was featured in the role of Cohen in the first "Cohens and Kellys" headlines in the screamingly funny adventures of the Irish and Jewish families in Paris. J. Farrel MacDonald is co-featured as Kelly and gives an inimitable portrayal. Vera Gordon and Kate Price are back again in their original roles of Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Kelly, louder and funnier than ever.

Tomorrow the Palace will present a double feature bill, Bare Knees, and the year's snappiest screen play, with Virginia Lee Corbin and Johnny Walker will be the main feature, while Tom Tyler and his pals will star in the co-feature "Red Hot Hoofs," a drama of the west, packed with romance and teeming with humor, thrills and suspense.

Wednesday night will be "Gift Night" and twenty-five dollars in gold and the useful and valuable presents will be given away free.

STOECKEL GIVES ADVICE TO PROSPECTIVE BUYERS

Speed, brakes, "get-away," lighting, appearance, and other automobile selling points usually stressed by salesmen, have become minimum factors of worry to car purchasers says Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel in the February bulletin of the state motor vehicle department, which contains much advice for prospective buyers. Competition, safety engineering and enforcement, he finds have forced excellence of manufacture and design in practically all types of motor vehicles until selection is mostly a matter of taste and ability to pay.

It is desirable that everybody who can should get a new car, he says if only from the standpoint of enforcement and safety. New cars replace those that are worn out, their mechanisms are better, and they have the advantage of invention, ingenuity and experience which the car builder has been able to put into his product.

The commissioner finds, however, that it is of much more importance for the car owner to keep safety appliances properly adjusted and maintained. The manufacturer cannot guarantee maintenance against unreasonable use and lack of proper care, he says. "A good car, in fairness and justice, not only to those who ride in it but to those who made it and those who enter into its daily life, should at all times be kept right in appearance and in its mechanisms."

Appearance and beauty sell more cars than any other factor the commissioner says. "Because of this fact, long recognized by manufacturers, there is no single commodity in the American market which offers to the discriminating buyer so much variety combined with so much utility, strength, and finish, as the modern automobile."

The question of speed, a major part of the "sales talk" of every car salesman, is no longer important in the opinion of Commissioner Stoeckel because every car on the highway will go fast enough for anybody except a very specialized driver using it for specialized purposes. "We all recognize," he says that no car ought to go faster than the average speed, provided that average speed can be maintained at a reasonable rate. The effort of the modern traffic handler is bound to be for the fastest possible movement consistent with safety."

Commissioner Stoeckel says that the "importance of the 'get-away' is exaggerated somewhat in sales arguments, although it is pleasant to have a car which doesn't hesitate, sputter and halt, but starts in the proper gear whenever called upon and from whatever place the start is made. Some get away faster than others but in general the get-away, and especially the ability to climb a hill with the engine performing well, is a characteristic of every modern make of car. The demand has been for those characteristics and such characteristics have been developed to supply the need."

Regarding safety features and accessories of cars, such as lights, brakes, steering apparatus, oiling systems and ignition systems, the commissioner says that generally all these things can be accepted as good. "While it may be a fact that some cars are better than others with respect to some safety factors, yet the manufacturer knows and his engineers meet the question of safety construction as anybody else does and embodies a sufficient safety factor in every part of the car. Every attribute of the car, just as in the case with every other mechanism in the world for which there is any large demand, is being constantly changed and adapted, and many of these attributes include difficult scientific determination.

"There is a decided emphasis on brakes, but there again the argument that competition and demand have forced the very best and safest braking systems to be evolved takes care of the main question. The selection of a car as to its safety mechanisms, its lights and its brakes is a matter of assurance of the standardization by the manufacturer to the customer, and is a tacit agreement to use the mechanism right in order to get the best results from it, to take care of it and to see from day to day that it is properly adjusted and maintained.

POETRY

Long Ago.

I once knew all the birds that came
And nested in our orchard trees,
For every newer bird a name—
My friends were woodchucks, toads and bees!
I knew where thrived in yonder glen
What plants would soothe a stone-bruised toe—
Oh, I was very learn-ed then,
But that was very long ago.

I knew the spot upon the hill
Where checkerberries could be found,
I knew the rushes near the mill
Where pickerel lay that weighed a pound!
I knew the woods—the very tree
Where lived the poaching, saucy crow,
And all the woods and crows knew me—
But that was very long ago.

And plains for the joys of youth,
I tread the old familiar spot
Only to learn this solemn truth:
I have forgotten, am forgot.
Yet here's this youngster at my knee
Knows all the things I used to know;
To think I once was wise as he!—
But that was very long ago.

I know it's folly to complain
Of whatsoe'er the fates decree,
Yet, were not wishes all in vain,
I tell you what my wish should be
I'd wish to be a boy again,
Back with the friends I used to know
For I was, oh, so happy then—
But that was very long ago!

—Eugene Field.

The Pie and Doughnut Belt.

Now isn't the rest of the country
Just making its ignorance felt
By calling New England, in spirit of jest,
"The Pie and the Doughnut Belt"?

They laugh at our love of the cruller—
The soft, spicy dough that we fry
To a rich golden brown and then eat it,
All crispy and sugary. My!

They jeer at the short, flaky pastry
Filled with mincemeat, or apple, or squash,
Or cranberry, blueberry, any old thing,
That makes PIE to us Yankees—oh, gosh!

Our Boston baked beans they make fun of,
With hot brown bread disks on the side,
And a bit of home-made piccalilli,
It's a dish that they never have tried.

If the jesters will just come and sample them,
We know they'll be filled with surprise,
For what other foods in the world can compare
With our doughnuts, our beans, and our pies?

—Kathleen Stanley in Boston Globe.

KALEIDOSCOPE

A comely young woman distributing feed to pigeons from a sack over her shoulders is a common sight along busy Michigan avenue in Chicago. She emerges from one of the big office buildings nearly every day about noontime and prefers to follow her hobby unknown and unannounced.

A decreasing rate of illiteracy in Palestine has permitted the use of electric moving signs for the first time. Tel Aviv is the first town in which the devices were used, the signs appearing in English, Arabic and Hebrew, in order to present an appeal to the races using different languages. American and European products are advertised, and illustrations are employed to reach those who still cannot read.

A trading area having a population of more than 60,000,00 persons will be served by the 25 air mail routes using 79 stations within a short time, the department of commerce estimates. Fifteen routes now in operation cover 7,997 miles, but with the expansion the daily airplane mileage will be greater, even with only one plane a day each way, than the circumference of the globe.

A Strafford (N. H.) hunter saw his dog drive a coon into a crevice in a hill. He reached his hand into the aperture a short distance and came into contact with something which he drew out with some difficulty. It was the body of a dog that had followed a coon and become wedged so tightly that it could not get out, and so died. The hunter dug open the crevice, killed the coon he was after and got the coon that the dog had followed. This coon was also dead, as it had not had the courage to pass over the body of the dead dog.

HEALED HIS VARICOSE VEINS NO OPERATION

"For many years I suffered from varicose veins and to such an extent that in order to keep on my feet at all I had to have my legs continually bandaged. Doctors advised an operation as the only relief. About a year ago I heard of Rabalm. Although without faith in it at that time or any hope of help from any such source, I tried it, and has used it only a short time when I was relieved of the intense pain, and the bunches of knotted veins were almost entirely reduced. Today, one year after use of Rabalm, there has been no recurrence of varicose veins, although I am on my feet continually about my store. I am pleased to offer this testimonial that others who are suffering from varicose veins may know of this wonderful Rabalm." Mr. Henry A. Mayer, Green 374 Washington Street, Gloucester, Mass.

Two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing 2 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Don't miss "The Private Life of Helen of Troy."

Get the price of a ticket, and don't fail to see the most unusual picture that Hollywood has turned out in many a day.

"The Private Life of Helen of Troy," which closes its engagement of three days at the Breed theatre tonight, stands by itself as a motion picture because there is no production with which it is comparable.

It has comedy in generous quantities, it is statirical, sly, subtle, broad, humerous, whimsical and daring by turn. It is richly costumed and displays sets breath-taking in their magnitude and striking in their originality of design and pictorial effects.

"The Private Life of Helen of Troy," as did John Erskine's novel on which it is based, takes the mythology of ancient Greece as its foundation, with particular attention paid to the abduction of Helen by Paris and the Trojan war, with its famous wooden horse, which followed the elopement.

But it takes these legends, and these heroic figures, and cleaves through the misty mythology and makes them human, comic and whole affair concerning the elopement and the war which followed, is made intensely human and commonplace and quite funny.

Maria Corda, foreign actress, imported for the role, leaves nothing to be desired, either in her beauty and grace or her interpretation of the role. Lewis Stone, surpassing even his own fine performances of the past, plays the role of Menelaos with a smoothness and understanding; and a new and infinitely greater Ricardo Cortes appears as Paris.

"The Private Life of Helen of Troy" is an achievement of which those who had a hand in its making may well be proud.

Strand Theatre.

Harry Langdon, First National comedy king, engages in a trans-continental walking race sponsored by a prominent shoe manufacturer in order to lift the mortgage from his father's home. The real reason, however, is to win the hand of the manufacturer's daughter with whose picture he has fallen in love. After a series of harrowing experiences Harry crosses the line a winner. The next thing he does is to lift the mortgage and marry the beautiful girl. In the supporting cast are Joan Crawford, Tom Murray, Brooks Benedict and Alec Francis.

"The Iron Fist" is a crashing western melodrama, full of pep and action. The star is Bob Reeves who plays the part of "Curious" Collins, a fearless fighter with an iron fist. He decides to investigate the lawlessness of Palomar county and the action resulting is exciting. Alys Murrel is the girl whom he falls in love with and Jules Cowles plays the role of the black hearted villain. Another important character is that of "Limpy" Blake, the villain's right hand man, and is successfully portrayed by Mack V. Wright. Cecil B. Kellogg is the brother of Reeve's sweetheart and at first hands Bob some pretty rough treatment.

MADELINE LABONNE BECOMES BRIDE OF WILFRED DUPREY AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 20—At 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, Miss Madeline LaBonne, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry LaBonne of Norwich and Jewett City, became the bride of Wilfred Duprey of 37 Bristol street, New London. Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, D. D. solemnized the marriage. The bride wore a gown of blue de Lyon chiffon trimmed with French flowers. She wore a hat of pearl felt combined with blue and gold. Her bouquet was of butterfly roses and a shower of sweet peas. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Beatrice LaBonne, who wore bridal rose chiffon with a hat of rose and blue. She carried an arm bouquet of roses. Leo Duprey of Webster, Mass., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. After the ceremony a breakfast and reception were given by Miss Ermina J. Banfield in the parlors of the Mohican hotel, which were decorated with palms, ferns and pink roses. There were 50 guests from Webster, New York, Boston, Washington, Elizabeth, N. J., and New London. Shortly after the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Duprey left for a honeymoon to be spent in Washington, D. C., and Florida. Upon their return they will reside at their new home 30 Vauxhall street. Going away the bride wore an ensemble of gray cloth trimmed, with fur with hat to match. The bride received numerous beautiful gifts. Mr. Duprey is in the employ of the New Haven railroad.

Edward Devine, 101 Connecticut avenue, Cornelius Murphy, of Grand street and George Kelly, 46 West Colt street, were in the police court today charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. All were fined $10 and costs for they admitted engaging in a fight, although they related conflicting stories of just what had occurred that precipitated the fracas. Both Devine and Murphy said that they were endeavoring to act as peace-maker, but Murphy especially showed unmistakable proof of engaging in combat. The three men met on Howard street, corner of Hamton street about 1 o'clock Sunday morning and within a few minutes they engaged in a quarrel, which brought about a three-cornered fight. While the fight was at its height residents of the vicinity informed the police, resulting in Patrolmen John Sullivan, Braxton Hill, George Labonc and Frank Philopena being rushed there. When the officers arrived Devine and Kelly were still arguing and ready for combat, Murphy having started along Howard street. He was quickly overtaken and arrested.

Fred Beloflosky, 55 North Bank street, was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, but because of the circumstances connected with the trouble Beloflosky was discharged. He went to his home Saturday midnight and had been drinking. He quarreled with his wife, creating such a disturbance that Mrs. Beloflosky went to police headquarters and made complaint against her husband. Acting Sergeant William Graham went to the Beloflosky home and arrested him.

Two cases of intoxication were disposed of, judgment in one being suspended and in the other the prisoner was discharged.

Roy B. Sours, 73 West street, a truck driver, was arrested today by Patrolman William Riordan charged with violation of the state automobile law in driving a truck that carried improper markers. Fred King, 5 Starr street, was arrested by Dog Warden John Sweeny charged with violation of the automobile law for the young man was detected driving a truck without having a license to do so. Both Sours and King will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning.

Frank L. Hale, 69, former well known photographer of New London and Groton, was found dead at his home Saturday afternoon. Hale, a bachelor, lived in a home on the Eastern Point road, Groton. After his death was discovered, Raymond E. Cash who lives in the second story of the house occupied by Hale, stated that Friday night he heard a crash, as of a body falling on the floor. He did not investigate at the time as the noise was not repeated he thought but little of it. However the following afternoon, not seeing Hale around, he became suspicious, and went upstairs to see if everything was all right. After making an entrance to Hales apartment he discovered his body lying on the floor of the kitchen. A doctor was summoned and upon examination death was pronounced due to heart trouble.

Hale was born in East Hartford. He was well known around New London. For many years he conducted a photo studio on State street, and a few years ago he opened one in Groton. He was twice married and is survived by four children, Mrs. William Saunders of Elkhart, Ind., and Miss Bessie Hale, of Hartford, Mrs. Leslie Kline of Sturgis, Mich., and Wells L. Hale, of Groton.

COUNCIL VOTES $46,300 FOR WIDENING BANK STREET

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 20—At the session of the council here tonight the city expressed the intention to widen Bank street from State to Tilley streets, at a cost of $46,300, of which amount the Street Railway company is to pay $4,144. Benefits and damages to property owners are not to be paid by the city, as it is considered that the owners of property are to be benefited from this improvement. The council passed a resolution stating its purpose to resurface and alter Williams street, from Main street to Mohegan avenue, at a cost of $66,130. Benefits and damage to property owners will be $3,300.

Other matters considered included the granting of 33 applications for building construction, repairs and remodeling, etc., awarding the contract for the removal of Colt Street school building, damaged by fire, in the sum of $348 and awarding bids for tile pipes to the extent of $1,600. As the city of New London owns stock and securities in the Ship & Engine company, the city manager and director of finance were authorized to attend a meeting of the stockholders of the company Feb. 21, to either sell or make other disposition of the stock. This action was taken due to the fact that the Ship & Engine company is to merge with the Electric Boat company.

The council voted to pay a bill of $88 for damage to the house of Mrs. Robert B. Chappell on Huntington street, the damage being occasioned by the falling of a tree on it. A sewer was voted in Converse place. A proposal that the city appropriate a part of $2,500 to procure the Atlantic Deeper Waterways convention here was opposed by Mayor May at the start. He claimed that the citizens ought to supply the money if they wanted the convention held here. The matter was referred to a committee. The Lions' club was given permission to hold a concert on the 8th of March, the proceeds of which are to be given to the state blind, for welfare work.

BOY DEAD IN FREIGHT CAR WAS FRANK FAVERSHAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 20—The body of the negro youth found in a New Haven railroad freight car at New Haven a few days ago, was identified tonight as that of Frank Faversham, 15, of 28 Douglass street, this city. The identification of the boy was made possible when Mrs. Grace Fauntleroy, who has been providing a home for the boy, reported to the police that the youth was missing and that the description of the boy which she had read in the newspapers tallied with that of the missing youth, whom she described as about five feet in height and having a prominent mole on his right ear. He wore black shoes, tan stockings and a union suit. When Mrs. Fauntleroy provided the police with a description of the boy, the New Haven police were communicated with and a short time afterwards, Inspector White telephoned the New London police that there was not the slightest doubt but the body is that of the New London youth. The body is at an undertaking establishment, No. 1207 Chapel street, New Haven. The boy disappeared last week and no trace of him was found until the police started an inquiry tonight. The youth undoubtedly went to Norwich after leaving his home or he might have boarded the freight train as it passed through New London, but it is more probable that he secreted himself in the car at Norwich. The car contained railroad ties and when the car door was opened in the railroad yard at New Haven and the ties were being removed, the form of the youth was observed lying among the heavy timbers. When the workmen made a close inspection it was discovered that the body was lifeless. It is believed that the boy died of exposure. The boy had run away from home before, for several months ago he was picked up by the Centerbrook state police at Saybrook. What disposition will be made of the body is not known. The boy's mother, Mrs. Georgie Singleton, resides at Bellaire, Fla., where she is employed at a hotel.

ROSE WOODS FOUND DEAD ON BARGE IN THE HARBOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 20—Pending an investigation being made into the death of Rose Woods, about 40, following the finding of her lifeless body aboard the barge, Blue Smoke, in the harbor late this afternoon, the police and Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman are making a united effort to ascertain the cause of the woman's death or whether Charles Betz, master of the barge, is in any way criminally responsible for the same. Betz is a prisoner at police headquarters tonight, he having been arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray, charged with no crime, but being held as a witness pending the investigation. He was not able to obtain a surety on his bond of $1,000. An autopsy will be held at the undertaking rooms of James N. Kelley, 62 Washington street, tomorrow, that the cause of the woman's death can be determined. However, it is not believed that the woman died from other than natural causes, but the fact remains that she had been ill aboard the barge since last Tuesday and the boat has been in port since Friday without Betz having obtained medical treatment for her. The barge is owned by the James McWilliams line, 1 Broadway, New York.

Betz went to police headquarters at 5:35 o'clock this afternoon and reported that he went ashore during the middle of the afternoon and that when he returned to the barge he went to the woman's bunk and discovered that she had expired during his absence. Officer Ray and Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman, accompanied by Betz, went aboard the barge and after Betz was interrogated, he was arrested. Betz said that the woman went aboard the barge at New Haven and that from that time she had been ill, remaining in bed practically all the time. Her condition had not improved when the barge reached port, still Betz did not summon a physician or arrange for her being taken to a hospital. The woman's mother, Mrs. Thomas Morley, resides at 663 Eagle avenue, Bronx, New York, and she has been advised of her daughter's death.

James E. Woodhall, of Chicago, and Miss Alice H. Kelsey, of this city, were married Saturday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Caulkins, 30 Dell avenue, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Chester H. Howe pastor of the First Baptist church. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rogers.

Elmer Dahlenberg, United States Coast Guard, state pier, entered a demurrer when presented in the Groton town court today charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving while under the influence of liquor. The demurrer was overruled and Dahlenberg was fined $100 and costs. Dahlenberg was arrested a week ago when the automobile he was driving collided with an auto driven by William Milne, superintendent of the Plant estate, Eastern Point.

The funeral of William Henry Harrison Chappell, was held at his residence at Lake's Pond, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. E. E. Knapp, pastor of Jordan Baptist church. The bearers were Frederick Sweet, Roy Ames, Griswold Lamb, Strong Gardner, George Keeney, Frank B. Rose, Irving Saunders and Denton Weeks. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Joseph P. Griffin, of 31 Willetts avenue, died Sunday at St. Michael's hospital, Newark, N. J., where he had been a patient but a few days. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Harry LaValle, of Newark, N. J., and five sons, William, John and Thomas Griffin, of this city; Joseph, Griffin of Springfield, Mass., and Edward Griffin, New York. Mr. Griffin was formerly employed as engineer at the old Pequot house and of late years conducted a steam heating establishment at 31 Willetts avenue, where he resided. He went to Newark last November and was visiting his daughter when he was taken ill. As his condition did not improve he was taken to the hospital.

Frank Broun, 77, of 14 Spring street, died Saturday night at Norwich state hospital, Preston, where he had been a patient but about two weeks. He is survived by a son, George Broun and two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Hayes and Mrs. Anna Biglin, of this city. A brother, Antone Broun of this city and a granddaughter, Mrs. George Fahey, of Norwich, also survive. Mr. Broun was born in the Azore Islands, but had resided in New London many years.

William Falvey, of 261 Huntington street, was in the police court this morning charged with indecent assault. Through counsel, he entered a demurrer, which was overruled and the accused was held for trial at the next term of the superior court. Falvey could not provide a surety on his bond of $2,000 and was remanded to jail. For some time Falvey has rented a room at 64 Golden street and last Wednesday night he shared it with Harold Staplins, 19, of 64 Vauxhall street, who made the complaint to the police. Staplins, who had been detained since the alleged commission of the crime, being held as a witness, was released after the session of court today.

Care of Babies

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good. And it is so pleasant to take. Taste it yourself, and you'll know why "Children Cry for It."

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely at first sign of colic; or when you even suspect the approach of constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. See how quickly all fretfulness or wakefulness will cease!

Only one word of warning: the above advice is true of genuine Castoria. The kind called Fletcher's, bearing Fletcher's signature is genuine—and does not contain opiates or any other drug that can harm your baby. Other preparations may be just as free from harm; the writer does not know as to that, but does know one family whose children will never make the experiment!

SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

Thursday night the City Polo league will play the second game. The contest will be between the Mohicans and Thunderbolts, the winners of last week's game. Roller skating is a very healthful exercise and college heads are adopting skating in their gymnasiums. Medical authorities state that roller skating is a very beneficial exercise if not overdone.

Chesterfield Cigarettes.

From seven billion smoked in 1922 to 38 billion smoked in 1927—sales doubled and redoubled at within five years. These are startling figures announced by the Liggett and Myers Tobacco company for their ever-popular Chesterfield cigarette. This amazing growth, representing a gain of 300 per cent, signalizes not only the universal preference for the cigarette as the smokers' choice, but the acceptance of this one particular brand as the popular favorite. It is conservatively estimated that Chesterfield has acquired at least a million new users in a little over a year—certainly convincing proof that finer quality and better taste is substantially recognized by the cigarette smoking public. This genuine testimonial for good tobaccos and good blending is based largely on Chesterfield's particular pleasing flavor and taste. As it is stated in the advertisements, Chesterfields are "mild and yet they satisfy;" in other words, the flavor has been so skillfully balanced as to eliminate any suggestion of harshness or bite, and yet leave enough richness and body to "let a smoker know he's smoking." Not is Chesterfield's rapid growth limited to the boundaries of the United States. Sales reports have revealed that this brand is world-wide in its acceptance, as shown by the fact that in practically all the principal cities of the world it is found to be among the leading sellers. In fact, Chesterfield's world-wide recognition has given rise to another new advertising slogan which truthfully asserts that "the sun never sets on Chesterfield's popularity" — with the added distinction that "Such popularity must be reserved" because of a taste and quality which won smokers the world over and will continue to win them because it is what they want. In current advertising, Liggett and Myers is making strong use of their oft-repeated "platform," in which they declare over their signature that it is their honest belief "that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of the finest quality and house of much better taste than in any other cigarette at the price."

Swan Island, Me., with its population of 800, five miles from the mainland, has raised $2,000 a year for a physician, and a Bangor doctor has accepted the position. He is entitled to the usual fees for services besides the bonus.

ESTIMATE $10,000 DAMAGE IN FIRE IN DOLLAR STORE ON MAIN STREET

The Norwich Dollar store, No. 121 Main street, near Market street, was almost totally wrecked by a basement fire which broke out a few minutes after 7 o'clock Monday night. The fire was discovered from both the Main and Water street sides of the two story brick building at almost the same moment by Officer Albert Lamphere who was walking through Main street to his beat at the West Side and a Bulletin reporter who was driving through Water street. Smoke was seen seeping through the basement windows. Officer Lamphere pulled in box 16, corner of Main and Market streets, and The Bulletin man was about to pull box 4, Main and Shetucket street, when he learned that the other box had just been pulled.

The building was filled with dense smoke from the basement to the top floor and when windows were smashed to let the smoke escape it shot clear across Main street, completely enveloping the firemen and spectators who had started to gather.

So dense was the smoke that it was impossible for the firemen to go into the building, for some time. They were forced to fight the blaze from the sidewalks by directing a half dozen streams of water into the basement through the small windows there and through a hole chopped in the building just beneath one of the large plate glass show windows.

Fought Fire on Two Sides

The fire was fought from both the Main and Water street sides of the building and as soon as the smoke in the building had thinned out somewhat the firemen carried lines into the building. It was one of the toughest fires to fight that the department has experienced in some time.

No blaze could be seen from the street. At times the building could not be seen at all, owing to the dense smoke which filled the streets. Spectators on the opposite sidewalks on both streets were enveloped in the choking smoke at times and many were forced to leave the vicinity of the building in order to get a breath of fresh air.

Called Additional Help

Fire lines were erected on Main and Water streets to keep the surging crowd of spectators from the center of the street and to give the firemen space in which to work. As soon as Chief Howard L. Stanton arrived on the scene he called out additional help, Engine Co. No. 3, from the Joseph Perkins road station, responding. Chief Stanton directed the firemen on the Main street side of the building and Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft directed the men on the Water street side.

Estimate $10,000 Loss

The exact loss was not determined but it will without doubt be at least $10,000 and possibly more. The fire will throw a dozen or fifteen salesgirls out of work.

This is the third bad fire the business district of the city has suffered in less than 70 hours time. Shortly after 12.15 o'clock Friday night a fire was discovered on the top floor of the Water street building occupied by the Eldredge Hardware store, resulting in a loss of about $10,000. About 10 hours later a disastrous fire broke out in the building on Water street occupied by the Norwich Grain company, with a resulting fire and water loss of about $60,000 to that building and to two other buildings, the L. A. Gallup building and the building occupied by the Bishop and Bidwell Co. Monday night's loss will boost the total fire and water loss in the city this month to around $80,000.

February is bearing out its reputation as the hoodoo month for fire losses in this city.

Main Floor Sagged

When the firemen attempted to carry a hose line into the basement from the main floor, they had to force open the door leading to the basement. Shortly before 9.45 o'clock a large section of the flooring on the main floor started to sag and dropped about three feet. Counters and stock were toppled over into a confused pile of wreckage and there were large gaping holes in the flooring. When the floor sagged a number of the firemen were in the basement, directly beneath it. They were ordered out temporarily as it was feared that the floor would cave in and drop into the basement on top of them. The section of flooring that caved in was in the center of the store.

Police Guard Over Night

As soon as the firemen gained entrance into the smoke filled basement, the fire was quickly checked and shortly afterwards was extinguished. The recall was sounded at 9.20 o'clock. However it was close to 11 o'clock before the final company had left the scene. Two police officers were detailed to guard the building for the night, one being stationed at each side.

About 11 o'clock carpenters arrived on the scene and the work of boarding up the windows and entrances was started.

Trolley traffic on the Norwich-New London line was delayed for about two hours and a half, passengers being transferred around the fire. Traffic on both Water street and Main street was tied up until about 9:30 o'clock. Automobile traffic was routed by the police through Market and Shetucket streets.

Sergt. Matthew Delaney of the local police department, who had just arrived in this city from Hartford, went to the scene and directed the handling of the large crowd of spectators. Several supernumerary officers also joined the half dozen regulars on duty at the fire.

Smoke Damage In Adjoining Stores

Smoke worked its way into the Lee and Osgood company's wholesale and retail stores. The Eaton Chase store and some even found its way into the Plaut-Cadden store. Just what smoke damage in those stores will amount to could not be determined Monday night.

Caused Not Determined

The cause of the fire was not known last night. It is thought that it started in the easterly end of the basement from where it rapidly spread through the pine board partitions, and to the basement ceiling. Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft stated after the fire that it started from an undetermined cause.

Manager O'Gorman of Providence, and the local manager, Mrs. Hattie Fowler, closed the store for the night at 6 o'clock or shortly after 6, it is understood. At the time they left there was no sign of fire. It is said that the janitor went into the building between that time and 6.30 o'clock and that when he left everything was apparently all right, although this statement could not be verified Monday night.

Fireman's Hand Cut

One fireman, Lieut. Robert Woodmansee, was slightly cut on the hand by falling glass. Several firemen were nearly overcome by the smoke. Considering the nature of the fire and the dense smoke which greatly handicapped the firemen in reaching the seat of the blaze, the department did commendable work in keeping the fire largely confined to the basement and from preventing it from spreading to adjoining buildings. Had it spread to adjoining business houses the loss would have been appalling as, with a fairly strong breeze to fan the flames, the entire Main street business section would have been threatened.

JAIL SENTENCE IMPOSED FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

Found guilty of violation of the liquor law in keeping liquor with intent to sell, Walter Lejkowsky of Allyn avenue was sent to jail for 30 days when his case came up in the city court Monday morning. Lejkowsky was arrested Saturday night by State Policemen Webber and Whitmarsh after the police had seized two jugs containing alleged liquor.

TAFTVILLE

A number of local men enjoyed a Taftville Old Timers' frolic and banquet at the Morton House, Niantic, Saturday evening, and in spite of the stormy weather, a large gathering sat down to the delicious repast. Some of the guests came from various points about the state, and having at one time lived in Taftville, the affair took on the form of a reunion. An old Pinochle club degree by "the team" of the Old Taftville Pinochle club had to be omitted from the program because of lack of time, but a first-class entertainment was given by Tom Mulgrew's troupe of singers, dancers and story-tellers of Providence, R. I. Music for the affair was furnished by Kell Patch and his orchestra.

DISCOUNT WILL SAVE $15,000 TO USERS OF ELECTRICITY

The board of gas and electrical commissioners, at a meeting held Monday, passed the following resolution:

Owing to the low operating costs that have been obtained during the past year and the increasing use of our service the department's business shows a most satisfactory condition, be it resolved:

That all commercial, residential and power consumers, whose bills for electricity are not in arrears on April 1st, 1928, shall be entitled to a customer's dividend, in the form of a per cent discount for the bills rendered during the month of April, if paid in full on or before May 15th, 1928. This discount will be shown on each bill entitled to the dividend discount, due the gas and electrical department and payable on or before May 15, 1928.

This applies to schedules "A", "AA", "D" and "E". In no case will the bill for the month be less than the contract minimum.

SINCLAIR, BURNS AND THEIR ASSOCIATES FOUND GUILTY

In the District of Columbia Supreme Court Judge Siddons Found All Four Defendants Guilty of Criminal Contempt For Shadowing the Fall-Sinclair Conspiracy Trial Jury—Sentences: Sinclair Six Months in Jail, the Elder Burns 15 Days and Henry M. Day, a Business Associate of Sinclair, Four Months—The Younger Burns Was Let Off With $1,000 Fine—Counsel For Defense Filed Notice For Appeal—The Convicted Men Were Released Under Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—Jail sentences were meted out today to Harry F. Sinclair, wealthy oil operator and sportsman; W. J. Burns, widely known detective, and Henry Mason Day, of New York, for their part in the shadowing last fall of the Fall-Sinclair trial jury. W. Sherman Burns, the other defendant, was let off with a fine.

After a criminal contempt hearing that continued for weeks, Justice Siddons sentenced Sinclair to serve six months in the District of Columbia jail. He already was under sentence to spend three months there because of his refusal to testify in the senate Teapot Dome inquiry.

Justice Siddons levied a four-month jail sentence on Day, who is a confidential business associate of Sinclair. As such he hired Burns detectives to shadow the jury which was to determine the fate of Sinclair and Albert B. Fall on charges of defrauding the government in connection with the leasing of the Teapot Dome Naval oil reserve.

W. J. Burns, who steadfastly contended that he had no direct connection with the jury surveillance, was given a 15-day jail sentence. His son, who is active head of the Burns Detective agency, was fined $1,000.

Previously Justice Siddons, who during the hearing in the District of Columbia supreme court, had dismissed the criminal contempt charges pending against Sheldon Clark vice-president of the Sinclair Refining company, and C. L. Veitsch, head of the Burns agency's Baltimore office.

Justice Siddons, who declared the mistrial, and presided at the contempt hearing terminated today, laid down for the first time the broad principle that shadowing an "unsuspected jury" was unlawful, that it tended to obstruct justice and therefore was contempt of court.

"A disastrous thing happened here," he said. "Break down in a criminal trial, a break down that was clearly due to the action of the respondents. It broke down because there was surveillance of the jury."

As each of the four men found guilty by the court was called up for sentence he was asked by the justice whether he had anything to say for himself. W. Sherman Burns, the first to be sentenced, refused to ask mercy for himself but told the court that if there was mercy to be meted out he hoped the court would give it to his father, founder of the Burns International Detective agency, who several years ago was head of the department of justice's bureau of investigation.

The court said he was imposing a lenient fine on young Burns because he had aided the district attorney in investigating the shadowing of the Fall-Sinclair jury.

Justice Siddons told Day who hired the Burns men for Sinclair, that he had "showed loyalty to a friend (Sinclair) greater than loyalty to the land" but that he had violated the law. That loyalty, he added, made a stern duty unpleasant but in sentencing him he was taking it into consideration with a degree of admiration.

Justice Siddons did not review the evidence in the case to any great extent, but he declared that it had convinced him that the two oil men and two detectives had violated the law and had acted in contempt of court in shadowing the oil jury.

After the last sentence, that of Sinclair, had been pronounced, counsel for the defense filed notice of appeal. Justice Siddons fixed Sinclair's bond at $5,000, Day's at $3,000 and that of each of the Burns at $1,000.

From the courtroom the four, with their attorneys went to the office of the clerk where the bonds were prepared and signed. The respondents were released on personal recognizance tonight with an assurance that the bonds would be furnished by a bonding company in the morning.

MAYOR WALKER ENJOYING NEW ORLEANS MARDI GRAS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21—(AP)—The mayor of New York, given a sample of New Orleans' Mardi Gras on his arrival last night, saw the real article in bulk today.

Starting at noon, he reviewed parades of Rex, Lord of Misrule and king of the carnival, the Druids, and the Zulu king in a parade made up of Negroes and furnishing a side-splitting parody on the dignified procession headed by Rex.

The mayor for the second time showed a fine pair of hands in catching souvenirs thrown from the two score floats in the parades of Rex and the Druids. In his first carnival workout last night he did not miss a toss and although he was not so fortunate today when he was struck on the nose by a string of beads he had a good excuse. The masker proved to be a left hander and the mayor was watching only the right arm.

Mayor Walker led the applause when Miss Dorothy O'Keefe, daughter of Arthur J. O'Keefe, mayor of New Orleans, presented the freedom of the city to Rex. A moment before another daughter of the New Orleans mayor had appeared before the stand with a party of maskers. She was presented by her father to the visiting mayor.

"He's a smart mayor" said Mr. Walker. "It takes the wisest of fathers to recognize his own daughter masked."

His father was communicated with and at his request the police placed the boy aboard a New York train.

WOMAN HANGED HERSELF IN A Y. W. C. A. BUILDING

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—A cryptic note addressed to "dear Elizabeth" and signed "Elizabeth" was the slim lead the police had to follow today to learn the identity of a woman who had hanged herself from a steam pipe in a Y. W. C. A. building in Lexington avenue.

Two girls living at the institution discovered the body at the top of a stairway leading to the roof. She had been dead about 24 hours.

ESCH DEFENDS ACTION IN LAKE CARGO COAL CASE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—A reiteration today by John J. Esch of Wisconsin, that his judgment was uninfluenced by political considerations in the lake cargo coal case brought to an end a three day grilling he had undergone before a senate committee in connection with his renomination to the interstate commerce commission.

"No politics influenced my judgment in this case," Esch said. "If it did, I am not worthy to sit on the commission. But it had no such influence."

"I have been in public life for thirty years and got nothing out of it but my reputation. I have been in thirteen congressional fights and one senate fight and never has my character or integrity been questioned.

"It remained for this occasion to call into question my judicial integrity, one case in a thousand."

As he finished his brief statement, the commissioner leaned forward in his chair at the committee table with hands covering his eyes, plainly showing the stress of the ordeal that had ended.

WORKING FOR RESCUE OF MISSING MINERS

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 21—(AP)—Rescue squads were tonight hacking and cutting at a barrier of debris in the warkend passages of the main workings of the Valley Camp Coal company Kinlock mine at Parnassus, near here, in an effort to ascertain the fate of seven miners unaccounted for following an explosion which took a known death toll of six.

Rescue crew leaders had lost practically all hope of finding the men alive but the effort put forth under ground was not diminished because of this belief.

Four of the dead workers lost their lives at the time of the blast and the other two succumbed when overcome by fumes created by the explosion when they went to work, hours after the accident, in a section of the mine several miles from the main entrance. They had entered the workings from another opening and were unaware of the disaster.

PROTESTS OPPRESSIVE INJUNCTION PROCESSES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—Protection of union workmen from oppressive injunction processes of federal courts was urged today before a senate judiciary subcommittee by A. J. Grosbeck, former governor of Michigan, who was counsel for the workers in the recent Indianapolis Street Railway strike injunction proceedings.

Groesbeck told the committee, however, that in his opinion the pending Shipstead anti-injunction bill would not attain the ends sought. He suggested instead an amendment of the Clayton act so as to make that statute clearer by exempting from injunction processes not only the workers, but their agents and associates.

Gen. Pershing Spent An Hour in Senate

Both Houses of Congress Will Today Pay Tribute to George Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—With the decks cleared, congress was ready today for the traditional tribute to the father of his country which will be the only business before either house tomorrow. Again Washington's birthday address will be read, just as sure, presumably, that some member goes unadvised as to the fact the first president had to die.

By way of celebration, the house lumbered along all day with general debate on the District of Columbia appropriation bill while the senate struck a two hour snag on agreeing to the conference report of the $272,000,000 interior department supply bill. Once this was out of the way, it went into the long deferred Muscle Shoals debate, revolving today around the Norris resolution for government operation.

Washington

Prodigious memory of heroic days,
Warrior for freedom and the rights of men,
Untyrannized by awe of potentates
And all the trappings of archaic thrones,
He towers across the years. Statesman and guide
Careless of self and fortune, patient, wise,
The resolute sculptor of a nation's dream
Scornful alone of lesser minds that seek
By trampling principle to clutch at power
And make ambition goal of their desire.

* * *

Great architect of thy Republic's soul,
Lover and friend of all things excellent,
Washington! let thy spirit wake today,
And give us counsel in the paths we tread.
For cynic greed is vocal with commands,
And bitless power would blot the memory
Of knightly honor from a people's heart.
Waken the deep rebellion in thy sons
To combat these perversions of the faith
Which gave thee nurture in precarious day
And nerved thy spirit against all defeat.
Kindle again the flame that gutters low:
The resolute justice of a people, proud
To hold their heritage of liberty
Above all barter for the coin of chance;
Too fine to squander through indifference,
Too precious to deny to those less strong.

James H. Powers.

On the house side, the naval committee tackled for the first time the task of trying to agree on a building program after weeks of open hearings while administration wheel horses began mobilizing support for the engineer corps flood control plan endorsed by President Coolidge. A counter mobilization by Mississippi water shed representatives, including republicans and democrats, to oppose the administration scheme also got going. The day was enlivened by seemingly well founded reports that a new administration proposal was in the making.

The senate committee weighing the reappointment of John J. Esch to the interstate commerce commission, finally wound up its three day quiz of his connection with the lake cargo coal cases, but took no action. The patents committee heard more about radio patents and charges of monopoly, but deferred further action to March 7 to await opponents of the Dill cancellation bill. The judiciary committee heard more opposition to the Shipstead anti-injunction bill, with still more to come.

As a relief from all these crowding cares, however, the senate entertained informally a very distinguished guest in the person of General Pershing who spent an hour on the floor, shaking hands all 'round. He sat for a time beside his father-in-law, veteran of the senate and of the army, Warren, of Wyoming.

The bull escaped from a truck while being transported to the Brighton stock yards and was being pursued by six policemen when it ran into the beauty parlor.

The woman's body was brought to the Somerset county hospital where an autopsy was ordered in an attempt to ascertain whether the victim had been slain or had taken her own life.

Report on Sinking of Submarine S-4

Responsibility Placed Jointly on the Commanders of the Two Vessels in Collision.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—Responsibility for the collision of the submarine S-4 and the coast guard destroyer Paulding was placed jointly on the commanders of the two vessels by the navy court of inquiry.

In its findings, the court recommended the detachment of Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby, who was in charge of the salvage operations over the sunken submarine, from the command of the control force, which includes submarines in the Atlantic fleet. Brumby failed, the court held, to "contribute that superior and intelligent guidance, force and sound judgment expected from an officer of his length of service, experience and position," in the rescue work.

Devoting much of its report to a review of the efforts to rescue the crew of the S-4 and to raise the submersible, which have been the subject of criticism from some quarters the court declared that "no known devices or equipment not employed in the rescue operations, either in the navy or owned by commercial organizations, could have saved the lives of those on board the S-4."

"The navy department assembled at Provincetown in the shortest time possible all officers and men in the navy best qualified in deep-sea rescue and salvage operations," the court reported, adding that the operations to rescue the S-4's crew were "logical, sound and the most promising of early success."

"Everything was done to save the lives of those on board the S-4 that could have been done under the weather conditions that existed," it was added, "but rescue under those conditions was beyond human power."

The collision, which resulted in the death of forty officers and men, aboard the S-4 in the court's opinion, was caused by the submarine's failure to take proper action to clear the Paulding and the coast guard vessel's failure to sight and recognize the summersible and clear her.

The late Lieutenant Commander R. K. Jones commanded the submarine when she cut across the bow of the Paulding off Provincetown, Mass., Dec. 17, as she was emerging from a standardization trial. Lieutenant Commander John H. Baylis was in command of the Paulding.

"Serious blame was incurred by them," the court said in fixing the responsibility.

TWO WAY RADIO PHONE TALK BETWEEN U. S. AND ENGLAND

First Time in the History of Radio Broadcasting—Listeners Clearly Heard the Speech of the British as Well as the American Participant—The Weather in England Was Foggy, While Conditions Here Were Favorable to Good Reception.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Feb. 21—(AP)—For the first time in the history of radio broadcasting the listeners in were given an opportunity today to hear a two way radio ph enoocervnHS hear a two way radio phone conversation between the United States and England. The conversation was carried on by announcers of the General Electric company station WGY of Schenectady and 5SW, a station of the British Marconi company at Chelmsford, England.

Radio engineers considered the experiment a success. The broadcast listeners clearly heard the speech of the British as wel as the American participant. While the weather was foggy in England, conditions here, clear, cold atmosphere, were favorable to good reception.

By way of variety, a phonographic reproduction of Myddleton's "Down South" was radiocast across the Atlantic to Chelmsford, picked up there and rebroadcast back across to Schenectady, where it was rebroadcast a second time for the benefit of the American listeners. One-thirtieth of a second after the signal was put on the air here it was reproduced again in the American loud speakers, having crossed the ocean twice by the ether route, a distance in excess of 6,000 miles. The reception of the phonograph music after its round trip across the ocean was poor compared with the broadcasting of the telephone conversation but the listeners were not for a moment in doubt as to the identification of the selection.

DEFENSE LOSES ROUND IN BUCKLEY MURDER CASE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 21—(AP)—The defense in the case of Joseph Foster Buckley of Weston, on trial for the murder of his sweetheart, Grace Mills, of Waltham, lost a round today when two statements said to have been made by the defendant while under treatment for self-inflicted wounds at the Waltham hospital, were admitted in evidence.

Buckley's defense is that the girl attempted suicide by shooting while the two were riding in an automobile on November 15, and that a second and fatal wound was inflicted when the pistol was discharged accidentally as he endeavored to wrest it from her hand. In the statements, which the Waltham police said were made on November 16 and November 19, when Buckley was believed to be dying, the defendant is alleged to have said that he fired a second bullet in Miss Mills' body to end her suffering from the wound she herself had inflicted.

CRISIS IN COTTON TRADE CONTINUES IN ENGLAND

MANCHESTER, England, Feb. 20—(AP)—The crisis in the cotton trade continues, the joint conference suggested by the employers with the operatives unions was held today, and the situation was discussed for three hours. No decision was reached and adjournment was taken until Monday.

The workers' unions proposed a legislative commission, to be appointed by the government, as the best means of eliciting all the facts in the cotton industry. The employers disapproved of this, and suggested instead a conference of twelve representatives from each side. Whereupon the union representatives asked for an adjournment to consult their executive committee.

The employers are reported to be insisting upon a reduction of wages by 12 1-2 per cent. and an increase of working hours from 48 to 52.

HICKMAN AND HUNT IDENTIFIED AS ROBBERS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21—(AP)—William E. Hickman and his youthful pal in crime, Welby Hunt, were identified at their murder trial today by Mrs. Ivy Thoms as the robbers who entered the Thoms drug store here a year ago Christmas eve and fled after a spray of bullets brought death to the proprietor.

The 20 year old Hickman, who is under death sentence for the killing of Marian Parker, did not seem perturbed as the widow her eyes filled with tears and her voice shaking with emotion, testified in low tones.

Defense and state attorneys today agreed to accept certain parts of testimony introduced during Hickman's recent sanity trial in the Parker case.

Court adjourned until Thursday.

SEVEN OF CREW AND THREE PASSENGERS DROWNED

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 21—(AP)—Seven of the crew and three passengers of the mail steamer Norge lost their lives, reports received here say, when the steamer sank on the trip from Oslo to Bergen today.

The helmsman, who was saved, says the disaster occurred partly through mistaking land for a fog bank and partly in avoiding a collision with a motorboat in the narrow fairway. The Norge ran on the rocks with a terrific impact, which threw the captain and helmsman from the bridge to the deck of the vessel, then slid off the rocks in less than three minutes, and now lies with only her forepart above water.

The passengers and crew were for the most part Norwegian.

CHARGE OF "JEALOUSY" MADE FOR RADIO CORPORATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—The senate committee on patents was informed today by attorneys for the Radio Corporation of America that the corporation owns only two of 700 broadcasting stations in the United States and that charges of "a monopoly of the air" made against it recently before the committee were the result of "jealousy."

The committee was holding hearings on the Dill bill which provides for forfeiture of patent rights on conviction under the anti-trust laws.

SENTENCED FOR ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO KILL

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 21—(AP)—Justice moved swiftly and severely in the case of John N. Lawson, 42, of Westport, in criminal superior court today. Lawson a former newspaper publisher, was sentenced to from 17 to 25 years in state's prison by Judge Newell Jennings, when he pleaded guilty to assault with intent to murder Frank Adams, of New York city.

The original sentence meted out by the judge was 17 to 30 years, thereby embracing the maximum that the judge could have given Lawson on the charge against him. Later in the afternoon after conference with State's Attorney William H. Comley and Attorney Harry R. Sherwood, of Westport, the judge reduced the maximum of the term by five years.

Dazed by the severity of the penalty imposed upon him, Lawson was led back to the prisoners' pen where he sat with head leaned back against the wall.

On December 18, 1927, Lawson's home on Imperial avenue, Westport, was almost totally destroyed by fire. Investigation by insurance adjusters and state police led to the belief that the fire was incendiary. This belief was further strengthened when the probers discovered an empty kerosene can on the premises. In the fire Adams narrowly escaped with his life, and is now crippled as a result of the burns he received. Adams has been held at the county jail as a material witness against Lawson.

SENATOR REED CONDEMNS PROTECTIVE TARIFF LAW

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 21—(AP)—The republican protective tariff law was blamed for the ill of the farmers by Senator Reed of Missouri tonight in the second prepared address of his western democratic presidential campaign.

"If the farmer could buy on the same price level upon which he must sell" Senator Reed declared, "he would have an even chance in the race of life. But the manufacturers, chiefly of the east, were determined to deny him that natural right." Renewing the war on "corruption in government" which he declared last night in Texas, the Missourian insisted the present tariff act was enacted in response to "the vast sums of money put up by these manufacturers to elect the republican ticket."

Because of the tariff he argued that the farmer was compeled to sell upon the European level "and then to buy upon a level which had been artificially bosted by a tariff law and by combinations back of that law."

The militant Missourian found a fertile field here to preach the gospel of party harmony to which he pledged his campaign in the west. He took cognizance of factional difficulties in this state but said he knew "nothing of the merits of those controversies."

"We all hope" he said, "to see the Oklahoma democrats fall in line, right dress and eyes front, advance against the common foe."

ORAL ARGUMENTS ON WIRE TAPPING APPEAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—Members of the supreme court showed keen interest today in oral arguments on three appeals from Seattle, Wash., challenging the validity of evidence in prohibition cases obtained by tapping telephone lines and listening to conversations.

Counsel on both sides of the controversy were closely questioned by members of the court, Justices Brandeis and Stone indicating by their questions that they took the view that evidence so obtained was as objectionable and invalid as evidence obtained by government agents in visiting the rooms of the defendants and making photographs of papers or of committing to memory documents exposed to their view.

MAN LEAPED TO DEATH IN FRONT OF A TRAIN

BOSTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—While the platforms of the Park street subway station were thronged at the rush hour tonight, a man believed to be Alfred Gangi, of Brooklyn, N. Y., leaped in the path of Cambridge train and was killed instantly. Traffic on the line was held up while the car was jacked up to permit removal of the body.

Walter Grant, also of Brooklyn, N. Y., fell from the platform of the Dover street elevated station tonight and a train passed over his body. He had fallen between the rails and escaped without serious injury.

STOCK PRICES RISE IN A BUYING MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—The stock market turned "bullish" today, buying support forcing up prices, particularly of the specialty issues. Advances of $5 to $7 a share were rather common and in one or two cases there were gains of $15 and $16 the rise being inspired largely by reduced rates for cal money, improved position of the market and rumors of mergers.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 21—The Willimantic Rotary club observed the 23rd anniversary of Rotary International and the seventh birthday of the club with an appropriate program at its weekly meeting in the Nathan Hale hotel this noon. Chairman Louis H. Arnold presided over a series of 12 talks. The first was an introductory by President Richard E. Dodge who also presented the Rotary Code of Ethics to the two new members, Joseph B. Riordan and Wilfred A. Gagnon. A review of the 11 codes of ethics as expounded by Rotary was made by the following speakers: Ronald M. Cooke, Harry W. Standish, Attorney Harry S. Gaucher, James B. Fulleton, Justice George E. Hinman, Raymond A. Parker, James P. Mustard, J. E. Sullivan, Dr. R. Bullock Jones, Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock and Albert B. Smith. Several guests were present. Earl J. Arnold, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce was introduced by Albert B. POLICE TRY TO LINK BERSIG WITH LOCAL BREAKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 21—County Detective William E. Jackson and Police Chief Thomas F. Grady have joined with the Hartford police in an endeavor to identify George E. Bersig, 37, of Hartford as the thief who broke into the Jordan Buick company garage and the Gem theater here some ten days ago, securing $300 in cash and jewelry valued at about $300 from the former place. The method used by Bersig in breaking into the Palace theatre in Norwich led the local officials to suspicion that he was also responsible for the local breaks. Bersig, who was shot by a police officer in an attempted escape in Hartford, refuses to talk, it is understood. County Detective Jackson and Chief Grady have other clues, however, which they are using in their efforts to associate Bersig with the burglaries here. While the investigation has just been launched, confidence was expressed that Bersig was the man wanted. A comparison of the breaks made recently and others perpetrated in this city during the past year and a half indicate a similarity and in the event that the present investigation brings the blame to the wounded man it is possible that he may face charges involving several breaks.

There will be but partial observance of Washington's birthday here Wednesday. Stores and manufacturing plants will continue operation and the schools will remain open. The banks however, will close for the day and holiday hours will be the schedule at the postoffice. Rural and city deliveries will be suspended and the money order and registry departments will be closed. The general delivery and stamp windows will be open from 7:30 to 10 a. m. Postmaster Frank M. Smith will be in Waterbury to attend the postmaster's convention, having left for that city this afternoon. While in Waterbury he is to be guest of Postmaster Albert M. Colgrove, former resident of this city.

A copy of The Windham Herald, the first newspaper to be published in Windham, is being displayed in a window of the Wilson Drug company. The issue is dated February 9, 1810, volume 19 and No. 983. It contains four pages of well preserved reading matter with a front page flash on foreign news and the doings of congress. The advertising is of special interest owing to its quaintness. One of the "spreads" tells the public of the "prime rum" sold by John Burgess for seven shillings and six pence per gallon. In an advertisement James Howard of Hampton offers for sale tracts of land of 30 and 60 acres in Windham and Mansfield. The paper is the property of Owen D. Leach, of Brickton, who found it while rummaging in his attic recently.

Mrs. Julia Carter Woodworth, 72, widow of the late Frank Woodworth, died late Monday at her home 117 Union street after several months of illness. She leaves one daughter, Miss Nellie Woodworth and three sons, Fred, Frank and Harry Woodworth, all of this city.

Barrows and Clarence G. Palmer. Other letter carriers who will attend the convention include. Dennis F. Haggerty, John N. Smith and Norman C. Pultz.

Mayor Charles A. Gates, Chairman William E. Jackson and other members of the police committee of the common council have been in conference to devise ways and means of making extensive and needed alterations and improvements to the cell quarters at the police station. The need of improvements in the cell rooms was recently brought to the foreground by an Exchange club committee headed by Attorney Arthur T. Kelley. It is believed that a new cell for women should be constructed and additional comforts made in the men's cells. The present cell room is almost of the dungeon type, allowing but limited entrance of sunshine and fresh air. Other than the proverbial pine board which is at once a seat and bed, the cells boast of no other furnishings. The women's cell is equipped with a bed and is somewhat separated from the remainder of the room but the officials believe that its location in a dark corner makes it unsanitary. Chairman Jackson stated today that no definite action could be taken for the time-being owing to the limited amount of the police appropriation out of which the cost of these repairs would come unless a special appropriation was made.

A small sedan owned and operated by Joseph Phillips of Windham and a machine driven by Nicholas Piesz of Brickton were damaged in a collision at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon, a short distance from the Horseshoe bridge on Brickton Road, near the Piesz home. Both cars were traveling easterly and Piesz, who was ahead, put out his hand to indicate his intention of turning into his driveway. Phillips claims that he did not see the signal in time and the front of his car struck the left front end of the Piesz machine. The damage to the Piesz car consisted of demolished running board and fender and possibly damaged axle. Phillips' car suffered a broken spring and steering wheel. The Windham man agreed to settle. The accident was investigated by Officer Albert Montie of the police department.

Mr. Marrott rushed the girls to a physician where it was found that the Fairbanks child had suffered a broken arm and the Hanna girl sustained a knee injury. Witnesses to the accident said that but for Mr. Marrott's presence of mind and expert driving the children would have been more severely hurt if not fatally so. Marrott turned his car quickly to one side and brought it to an immediate stop. The sled was smashed. As a result of this accident Police Committee Chairman William E Jackson indicated that a police action would be taken to curb the constant menace of that sect on caused by children sleighing in the road. It is estimated that there are about 150 small children in that neighborhood and their habit of playing in the street has been ever a source of danger.

Deputy Sheriff J. T. Dolan, saw two boys of 9 or 10 tampering with some of the cimbinations recently. He said today that there might be a report made to the postal authorities.

It is to be said that the men on duty in the distribution department, are not expected to give attention to the ordinary access to these boxes by the regular holders. Each box has a duplex tumbler lock, which it is impossible to open unless the letter combination is known.

Rev. Nicholas Caron was a recent caller at the home of the writers of this column, at which time he became much interested in the display of 50 beautiful calendars, being especially attracted by the three issues by the railroad companies with their great locomotives.

The visitor told of a friend he had while in Hartford who could tell with unerring precision the number of an approaching unseen engine by the sound of its bell.

A local man hearing the story recalled that some years ago there were boys here who could tell the number of a dozen locomotives when they heard the driver blow for the Tadpole crossing, a mile above the town. Back in the days when Cooper, Pat Fitzgerald, Tom O'Neil and John Cobleigh ran the "Boat" train, some of these boys could tell with never a miss not only the number of the engine, but just as certainly which one of the four drivers was at the throttle. It is a well known fact among local railroad men, that each engine driver has a distinctive style when he pulls the whistle valve.

With the boys of one time here, the two long and two short all linked together in a sort of siren style of Cooper, was never to be confused with the short staccato blasts of Thomas O'Neil as he sailed down through the pond viaduct at a mile a minute clip. Neither were the four toots, all the same length, by Pat Fitz, ever confused with was worn in coronet style held with the length of the four strung out, lower and lower, until it ended in a peculiar shriek, that no other driver ever accomplished.

A Doctor Talks About Cascara

It is unfortunate that many people judge the thoroughness of a laxative by its violence. The salts that rush through the system may not even penetrate the film of poisonous matter that has coated the colon. A long list of drugs will "loosen the bowels" but what is the best way to CLEANSE them?

The world's best laxative is one that Mother Nature makes in her own laboratory. It is the bark of a tree, called CASCARA. The Indians used to chew this bark—and reach old age without a sick day. It is the best thing there is today, for any system; best for the blood. The most beneficial in its action on the bowels, of anything yet disclosed. For many reasons:

First of all, there is no HABIT formed from cascara. The bowels are not weakened, but strengthened by its occasional use. The occasions when one needs this aid grow less and less. Its influence is long-felt. You don't find yourself worse bound-up the day following. You do find the bowels more inclined to move of their own volition. The candy cascaret that every drug store always has in stock is the ideal form of cascara.

DANIELSON

W. S. HUNTER APPOINTED SECRETARY OF CHAMBER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 21—William S. Hunter of Goodyear is to be the new secretary of the Danielson chamber of commerce, it was announced today, succeeding Walter Anderson, who resigned at the February meeting of the organization because of the pressure of his business affairs.

Mr. Hunter is regarded as an excellent choice for the place which he is to fill. He is very capable, alert and active and has some special attributes that should make him a very valuable secretary. The fact that he is a resident of Goodyear, where he is connected with the Goodyear Mills, Inc., is another point that makes his selection desirable. It is evidence that the Danielson chamber of commerce is, after all, a town more than a borough organization, and has the welfare of every section of Killingly in mind. Mr. Hunter was one of the representatives from Killingly at the last session of the legislature. He is to assume the duties of his new office at once, it was said this afternoon.

Charles F. Ennis, 68, died this afternoon at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. Mr. Ennis was taken to the institution last Sunday to undergo an operation for appendicitis. His age and general state of health were factors that are regarded as having figured against his chances of recovery. The body was brought here late this afternoon in charge of Undertaker A. F. Wood.

Mr. Ennis was a resident of the town of Brooklyn and for many years has operated a farm that is about two miles west of Danielson, the home being close to the Brooklyn- Danielson state highway. He was a native of Richmond, R. I., but had been resident hereabouts from his early years. Practically all the years of his active life he has been successfully engaged in farming.

Mr. Ennis leaves his wife and two sons, Alchie G., and Floyd, both of Brooklyn. There are also two sisters, both resident in Pomfret—Mrs. Ida Hildreth and Mrs. Minnie Lowry.

There is a happy outlook in Danielson as the winter draws to a close for men engaged in the building trades for the spring season of 1928. At the present time there is nearly $200,000 of building operations in prospect. The major building project is that involving the construction of the new Brooklyn Savings bank. Then there is the Blumenthal building. One hears that a considerable number of persons are planning the construction of homes, and there always is, to add to the general good outlook, such alterations, repairs and other changes as to give promise of many busy months of work for all of those who are concerned with the construction of new buildings or the reconditioning of older ones. This good prospect for men concerned in important artisan lines reflects in a general way the good fortune of Danielson as to business activities.

There are those who are so optimistic as to predict that the building programs for the town of Killingly will come nearer to reaching $300,000, than they will to surpass the $200,000 mark in 1928. Few will quarrel with that viewpoint. It is a pleasant prospect to contemplate.

Start early this year to get together a general fund for band concerts, is an idea now in a formative period. Likely something will be done to make the concert plans a reality. A start was made last summer—very late in the season. The business interests of Danielson are alive to the fact that anything that brings a large number of people into town is very likely to react to the benefit of the community, aside from the pleasurable entertainment it provides. With that in mind, something is to be done to arrange a series of public band concerts.

Last evening at a meeting of William H. Hamilton camp, United Spanish War Veterans, at the state armory, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Commander, Carl Anderson; senior vice-commander, George Popple; junior vice commander, Henry Kozmsler; adjutant, Frank Young; quartermaster, W. Clarence Bacon; historian, Charles Stoddard Francis; officer of the day, C. A. Hamilton; officer of the guard, Hosea Greene.

Following the election the officers were installed by a trio of Willimantic men—Robert O. Snow, past department adjutant; Fred E. Flagg and William E. Jackson, past commanders; Frank Teevan, past commander; Joseph D. Gallivan, commander of Tyler camp. A repast was later served to all attending the meeting at the Attawaugan hotel.

It was 30 years ago the coming spring that the men who now make up the membership of the local post of the United Spanish war veterans were preparing to leave for war. They were a very youthful aggregation in those days, filled with patriotic ardor and anxious for service against the Spanish forces in Cuba or Porto Rico. The majority of the members of the local camp were in F Company of the Old Third Connecticut infantry.

Many a tribute was paid here today to the memory of the Attorney Charles L. Torrey of Putnam whose death caused such surprise when it became generally known about this morning. Attorney Torrey was almost as well known in this town as in his native Putnam. In his early years he had been a school teacher in this town and on numerous occasions had practised in the local court.

Attorney Torrey had a special affection for Killingly. Many of his ancestors lived here and his intimate friends and acquaintances within this town run into the hundreds. He was fond of talking about things pertaining to this town, of outstanding things in its history and of its people, especially of those he came to know in his early years. He lived in Dayville for a time, and he was rather proud of asserting that there was a time when he was acquainted with about every soul in that community. Years never dimmed his interest in all of these friends. With with kindliness and democracy that was characteristic of him he would often seek out, wherever he was known, the most humble of his friends and relish the hour they might spend together in talking over the things of other days. There is deep-seated and widespread regret in Killingly that the life of Attorney Torrey has come to such an untimely close. His passing is one of the things that really hurt.

Selectmen of the town of Killingly are to meet Wednesday afternoon to do further work on the preparation of the budget for the current year. This will be the second meeting of this week to give attention to this matter, another having been held yesterday afternoon. The many items that the budget contains are getting careful consideration, that the total may be no larger than is absolutely necessary. It is anticipated that the budget in its final form will be ready within a few days. Ample time for the citizens to make a study of it will be given before the adjourned annual town meeting passes upon it in March.

Reports of officers will feature the meeting of Quinebaug Pomona grange, No. 2, which is to meet with Putnam grange Saturday of this week. Secretary Susie G. Williams of Brooklyn has announced. The reports are to be made at the morning session. Following the lunch hour there is to be an afternoon session, with musical numbers and other features. A number of members of Killingly grange are to attend the meeting.

John C. Jamieson of Springfield was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

The fact that the opening of the trout fishing season is just a little less than six weeks away, has fishermen speculating on how generous the state fish and game commission is going to be in the very early days of spring in making releases of adult trout in brooks hereabouts, as was done last year.

Construction of the footbridge across the Quinebaug river to Priest's Island, south of Putnam, that a state park may be opened to the public, will be undertaken in the early spring, it has been announced here.

An unfortunate error in this column this morning had to do with announcement that Miss Martha Duckworth was at the Day Kimball hospital for observation after having been injured in a fall. Miss Duckworth's name appeared instead of that of Miss Alice Bugbee, who was hurt in a fall a few days ago and is now at the hospital.

Refreshments were served by Miss Mary Baldwin, Mrs. Winfred Gardner and Mrs. John C. Kingsley. In spite of the cold night, there was a good attendance.

The friends and playmates of little Miss Doris Phillips were grieved to learn that she had injured herself while at school last Friday afternoon. While at work helping her teacher of the third grade of the Palmer Memorial school, in reaching toward the blackboards, she slipped, hitting and cutting her forehead, so that it was necessary for Dr. Morton E. Fox to take stitches.

In spite of the severe snow fall of Saturday, there were 40 in attendance at the social and dance sponsored by the Montville Pinochle club in the Montville Community house Saturday evening. PUTNAM, Feb. 21—A military funeral was held for Frank Champeau, Jr., Tuesday morning, by the members of the Albert J. Breault post of Veterans of Foreign Wars of this city. Mr. Champeau died Friday evening in the New York Memorial hospital in Brooklyn, New York. The body was brought to St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock, escorted by the members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The flag-draped casket was met at the entrance of the church by Rev. U. O. Bellefonce, who escorted it to the sanctuary. A solemn high mass of requiem was sung, with Father Bellerose, celebrant; Rev. J. D. Casey, deacon, and Rev. W. A. Routhier, subdeacon. Special music by the choir was sung from Dion's funeral mass. During the mass, the members of the firing squad stood as a guard of honor over their deceased comrade.

The funeral cortege was led by the Veterans of Foreign Wars to St. Mary's cemetery, with Ernest Durand, commander of the Albert J. Breault post, commanding. At the cemetery, there were committal exercises and prayers by Father Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's. The firing squad was Theodore Lucier, Arthur Roscoe, Wesley Waters, Alfred Williams, Charles O'Brien, Joseph Benoit, Napoleon Yates and Arthur Coutemarche. The squad was commanded by Fred Durand of the local post of V. F. W. They fired a three-round volley at the grave. As the body was being lowered into the grave, two buglers sounded double Taps.

The color bearers were, Frank Mayo, Joseph Hughes, representing the V. F. W., and the colors of the American Legion were carried by Commander M. B. Robertson, of the Analem Mayotte post. The color guards were, Leon Talbot and Joseph Martineau.

The bearers were Omer Rochaille, Antonio Forcier, Ovila Auger, James Charron, Ernest Bradier and Frank LeClair. Nearly every member of the Albert J. Breault post of Veterans of Foreign Wars was present in the line of march and the funeral was in charge of the post.

The flag that draped the casket was presented to Mr. Champeau, father of Frank Champeau, by Commander Ernest Durand, of the post of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mr. Champeau is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Champeau, three sisters and a brother, all of Putnam.

C. L. TORREY WAS LEADING FIGURE IN CIVIC LIFE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 21—Within a fortnight of the death of Attorney John F. Carpenter, Putnam lost another one of its most able lawyers and prominent citizens, by the death of Attorney Charles L. Torrey, Monday evening. Since he was admitted to the Connecticut bar in 1890, he has been very active in state and city affairs. In addition to the many public offices that were mentioned in yesterday's Bulletin, Mr. Torrey has been corporation counsel for the city of Putnam since 1913 and has proved himself valuable to the city in that position. During the late war, Mr. Torrey was a legal member of the selective service board, covering the district for Putnam. In this capacity Mr. Torrey rendered the government valuable work, withouth pay. Mr. Torrey was much interested in the welfare of boys, he using much of his influence to establish the state trade school in this city. He was an active member of the troop committee of the Putnam troop of Boy Scouts. He was a member of the state board of education holding office on that board for many years. Mr. Torrey was for many years a member of the town school committee, and at the time of his death was secretary of the board.

Mr. Torrey was a well-educated man, he being a graduate of Putnam High school, a graduate of Yale Law school in the class of 1887. He was a well-read man and was well versed in the Romance languages.

At regular weekly card tournament between the Elks and the Masons, played at the Masonic club Monday evening, the Masonic brothers received another set-back at the hands of the Elks. At the end of the games the score again showed another victory for the Elks, it being 10 to 7 in their favor. The total score for the season widened its margin in the Elks favor. After the games were played, the Masons were hosts to their conquerors with a buffet lunch. The summary is given with the names of the Elks first. In bridge, Milnt and Lewis won from Johnson and Padgett. Champlain and Wheelock lost to Dean and Simpson, Girard and Wheelock won from Prince and Duffy. Murray and Cotter won from Geissler and Morse. E. Gagne and Rafferty lost to Brousseau and Minor. Phillips and McIntyre lost to Holden and Miron. Duvert and Gagne lost to Jenkins and Wheaton. Freeman and Mansfield won from Combs and Kerr.

Bid whist, Miller and Brousseau won from Thurston and Arnold, Migneault and Bulger won from Merriam and Baldwin, Berth and Cavanaugh won from Schoonover and Shaw, Gallant and Watson won from Seward and Baker, Talbot and Chapdelaine lost to Tourtellotte and King, Wheatly and Bougerois won from Alling and Thayer, Richard and Berthiaume won from Diamond and Moss. In cribbage, the Elks were winners, Tetreault and Lizotte won from Richards and King, Welch and Rafferty lost to DeCoudres and Marcy, Wheaton and Warren won from Wheaton and Thayer. The next tournament will be played on next Monday evening in the Elks club. After the long series of defeats, the Masons are looking forward to a victory over the invincible Elks.

Frank R. Stanton and William P. Warren are in Boston, competing in the New England checker championship meet. Last year, Mr. Stanton won first prize in class "C." Mahlon H. Geissler was to attend also, but his presence there was made impossible by the death of his partner, Attorney Charles L. Torrey. Both Putnam entrants hope to bring home another victory this year.

The headquarters company of the 43rd division met for the first time in their new Armory on Harriss street tonight. Although the building is not entirely completed, the men were allowed to inspect their new quarters. The new building is an appropriate place for an armory, it having a large drill hall, to allow the full company to drill without crowding. The hall will afford a beautiful ballroom and will also make a good indoor sports room. It is equipped with shower-baths and lavatories. Capt. McGarry is expecting to be able to hold company drills in the new armory within a week as all equipment has been moved from the old armory on Livery street to the company's new quarters on Harriss street.

NOANK

ANCIENT AX DUG UP—MAY BE INDIAN RELIC

George McGuigan is having new posts set under his house at Groton Long Point by a force of men. While digging the holes, Charles G. Welch's shovel hit something and bringing it to the top of the ground he found it was a piece of an Indian ax. It looked as though it had been in the earth many years. Hiram Latham says he can remember his grandfather telling him about the Indians camping near Groton Long Point, when they were fighting around this section. And one of the Redskins probably dropped it there while out on the trail. The ax-blade was rusty and it might have been around 100 years old. Charles will keep it with the rest of his collections.

Mrs. Durr said "I know it is there," and made him go out again. Still no Jersey cow fluid was on the doorstep. Going to work without milk in his coffee made him mad. The thief's tracks in the snow were seen for a long way—and he had big feet. Mr. Durr told his associate workmen at the paint shop about how the milk was gone and it was reported then that sixteen quarts of milk had been taken.

At whist prizes, the men found the women know a thing or two about a pack of cards, for Mrs. Pare won first prize while her partner, Mr. Crandell left the rest of the men far in the rear, getting first honors. THE WASTE FROM FIRES

Thus early in the year attention has been called to the tremendous amount of destruction that is caused every 12 months because of fire. We are awed by it when we stop to give consideration to figures which are presented and yet by the time another year rolls around the losses are not materially reduced. They may vary from year to year but it is too often the case that whatever the reduction may be this year, is more than offset by the large increase in the next. Although we may be staggered by the losses that doesn't seem to bring about as great an improvement from the lessons they teach as one has reason to expect.

According to statistics of fire losses for the month of January there was the impressive total of $43,260,800. There is no regularity about such things, no telling when the big ones or the little ones are going to occur, but that represented a gain of more than $5,000,000 over the same months a year ago and a gain of more than two million over January 1926.

This tells its own story when we stop to think that in view of all the admonitions in behalf of fire prevention, the vast amount of work that is done in that direction and the waste involved there ought to be a reduction in fire losses instead of increases from year to year. The fact that January can be rated as a month when weather conditions are the most severe seems to have played no part this year. January conditions in this part of the country at least were not severe and yet Connecticut contributed seven fires averaging losses of more than $75,000 each, while New England had 50 which averaged more than $50,000.

But the January losses while big do not seem to have created greater alarm in behalf of fire prevention for February is bounding along at a merry rate and even though it has fewer days may yet outdo January's total and gives promise of exceeding many previous Februaries. The big Fall River fire will be a big contribution and it is to be remembered that that is one of the many fires which should have been prevented. The others make a very long list and Norwich is adding more than a mite.

WINDSHIELD STICKERS

Inasmuch as it is required that auto drivers should have a clear view of the highway in whatever direction they may be looking the practice of putting stickers of various kinds on the windshields of automobiles or the rear windows has been prohibited in Connecticut. This is done for the purpose of protection and safety. It doesn't take much to shut off the vision of a driver at a critical time and anyone who has driven a car knows what it means when he is denied the opportunity to get a full view of the road ahead and the traffic in the opposite direction. He likewise should have an unobstructed view out of the rear window.

The action taken by Connecticut gets the endorsement of Pennsylvania which state has barred the windshield sticker. It is maintained that the windshield of a car is no place for advertising or the display of decoration.

Unless there is a halt call to the practice of placing all kinds of decorations and all sorts of stickers for advertising purposes upon the windshields it may be anticipated that competition and rivalry will lead to such a complete coverage that only a couple of holes like those in a mask will be allowed for the drivers to see through.

There are enough accidents without encouraging an increase in the number through the toleration of restricted vision by the driver. It will be noted that the prohibition of the stickers deals only with those parts of the auto which are glass. It doesn't undertake to say that the car owner cannot paint or paste whatever he wants upon other parts of his machine, as many already do. He can make it a traveling billboard if he so likes, for it is not the appearance or the character of the decorations that the law is concerned with but the safety of the highway and on that point there cannot be too much emphasis laid in these days of constantly increasing autos and a too large increase in the number of accidents and deaths. Those who stop to think of the possible consequences will not decrease their window space whether there is a law against it or not.

STOPPING IMPOSITIONS

Whether the move that is now being made in congress to prohibit sending through the mail all unsolicited merchandise will be considered necessary, there seems to be little question but what it will have the effect of awakening many people to the fact that even though they are deluged with such goods they are under no obligations to pay for them or to furnish the postage to send them back.

The fact of the matter is that if those who are engaged in that business did not make a good thing out of it they would not keep at it. They find many who jump at the offer in the belief that they are getting a wonderful bargain. There are others who yield to the plea out of sympathy while others pay because it seems to be the easiest way. All of this is known to those who are mailing the goods about the country to persons who are asked to buy, whereas if 99 per cent. of those solicited turned the proposition down cold there would be little trouble from them in the future.

There is an appeal involved in some instances which reaches the tender-hearted, those who demand no proof because they are honest themselves and believe everyone else is, and through such all kinds of goods are sold to those who would not be indulging under ordinary circumstances, or who if they wanted such things would go where they could pick from a large variety and purchase from those who can be relied upon to handle first class goods and who are ready to exchange those which might need it.

For the protection of those who use the mail there are various kinds of protection. In the legislation sought there would be protection for the person to whom merchandise is mailed indiscriminately and without being ordered. Inasmuch as there is no obligation resting upon those pestered to pay any attention to the goods it may be considered that no legislation is required, but when it is realized that this method of solicitation has grown from the practice of sending holiday cards and neckties to rainscoats, traveling bags and jewelry there will be much sympathy with the effort to have the practice legislated out of existence.

THE NATIONAL GRAND JURY

In connection with the investigation fever which has prevailed in the senate for some time Senator Bingham of this state undoubtedly sensed public sentiment to a large degree the other day when, during the debate in the senate on the resolution authorizing the interstate commerce committee to make an investigation of the conditions in the coal fields of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, he sought, not to block such an investigation, but to have it conducted by other than members of the senate.

Connecticut's junior senator took the position that instead of the senate taking further steps to have that body, or members of it, continue as a national grand jury it should place such a matter in the hands of a competent commission or department of the government and keep its members free to carry on the work of the national law making body.

It is to be regretted that there was not greater support given to the point which the senator made. The senate gave recognition to this very suggestion in connection with the investigation which was authorized in regard to the public utilities by referring that investigation to the federal trade commission instead of placing it in the hands of a senate committee.

However much investigations may be needed and however much there is a desire for the ascertainment of the facts, it is to be realized that there are duties for the senate to perform which are not performed when it devotes its attention to grand jury service and allows the law making work to go by the board.

GROWING TREES

In the matter of reforestation and the encouragement of tree growing the United States government is not only a strong advocate but a fine example setter. For the past four years it has been engaged in the purchase of about 3,000,000 acres of land in the east and south which are being devoted to the growing of trees. The work has made such a good impression that the law under which the purchase was made has been so amended that it will be possible to buy 2,500,000 more acres in the states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, 3,000,000 more in the highlands of the east and 2,500,000 more in the pine districts of the south for the same purpose. The house has voted for it and now it remains to be seen whether the senate can be gotten to vote upon it before the date for adjournment or before there is a legislative jam that will block everything.

This is a session when big demands are being made for appropriations. There is even a disposition to run away from the amounts sought for various projects and plunge into large expenditures. What effect this may have upon the amendment for the acquisition of additional land for tree growing by the government is uncertain for it can be easily said that this is a matter that can be delayed without harm.

For this outlay the sum of $40,000,000 is asked to be spent over a period of eight years, or a little more than twice the amount that has already been spent for this purpose in the past four years.

The idea of converting waste land into forest land and getting private capital interested in doing the same thing is well worth encouraging. There is not only need for such reforestation but it promises good returns.

VERY LIKE A WHALE

"Men are all alike," declared the vice president of the Lake Front Woman's club during the social hour following the Tuesday meeting.

"Every mother's son of them wants variety to spice his life and he wants that variety slim and young," said the club secretary cynically. Being a widow, she made no reservations, mentally or audibly.

"I notice they all want stenographers that are easy to look at," volunteered the unmarried member.

"Yes, and no matter how fat and bald a man may be, he feels perfectly confident that if, and when, he pleases he can prove simply irresistible to the second fair sex generation," further contributed the secretary.

"What always astonishes me," said the vice president, "is that a man thinks it entirely normal for him to put on flesh himself and to otherwise show his age but just let his wife do likewise and he seems to feel that life has played him a mean trick."

Martha Jennings said nothing, but—the germ of suspicion lodged snugly within her heart.

As she stepped into her car after the meeting she was disturbed by a number of disagreeable thoughts. First came the realization that of late she had a decided disinclination for walking even short distances; then, too, she knew that the gown she was wearing for the first time that afternoon made her look unseemly slump; also, Tom had telephoned that he might not be home for dinner; also Miss Jackson, Tom's new stenographer, appeared to be a remarkably slim, pretty girl.

Reaching home, Marcia stood in front of the long, oval mirror in her room and gazed unhappily at the good-looking matronly figure which seemed to her ponderous and unwieldly. "Clumsy as a whale," she said out loud, while in her mind's eye she pictured Tom admiring his pretty stenographer.

"What's the matter, dear," asked Tom, who had, after all, been able to get home for dinner, "is your stomach bothering you again? I'd eat less if I were you. More people die of overeating than of starvation, you know." Whereupon he proceeded to help himself to another juicy slice of roast beef.

Marcia's heart sank still lower. It was true then. Tom thought her fat and, no doubt, his admiration for Miss Jackson's slender, boyish figure made here seem actually grotesque. The maid removed her untouched plate.

When Marcia put her mind to a thing she did it thoroughly, so when she decided to get thin, not even her own justly famed strawberry shortcake, with its buttery, nutmeggy flavor, its crushed strawberries oozing red juices and its mountain of whipped cream on top, could break down her Spartan resolution to reduce. But—although she grew somewhat pale and seemed to feel tired most of the time, the scales, hidden in her closet, registered only a discouraging small loss in weight.

Several weeks passed and Tom, although really concerned over Marcia's pallor and depression, thought it merely due to indigestion and frequently reiterated that overeating was the cause of most of the physical ills of mankind. And Marcia, still suffering from the ravages of the suspicion germ, writhed inwardly.

"Marcia," said Tom's sister, on a visit, "why in the world don't you diet? Really, my dear, you've gained pounds since I saw you last. Look at me! I've lost twenty pounds in three months. One simply must be slender in this angular age." She whirled about girlishly to show the straight lines of her once rounded figure. Marcia, in utter despair, said nothing about her own fruitless efforts to get thin.

"Funny about Alice," said Tom one night at dinner after his sister had left. "She used to be a darned good-looking girl before she began to try to commit suicide via the diet method. Good gosh! Wouldn't you think a woman would know that after 40 her bones need cushioning same as a man's do? I never'd like skinny women anyway. Take that little Jackson girl in my office: why, the kid looks half starved. Thank heaven, Marcia, you're never contracted the diet disease. I told Alice I couldn't understand how Bob was able to watch her fade out in the midst of plenty." As quickly as nerves react to a stimulant, Marcia pressed the bell under the table with her foot.

"Bring me a large piece of strawberry shortcake, Mary," she ordered, "and be sure to put plenty of whipped cream on top."—Chicago News.

Woman's Sphere

Mr. Editor: St. Paul the most prolific of writers, also the most widely quoted, in his epistle to Timothy puts woman in her proper sphere, and admonishes her to keep silence in the affairs of men. Yet we have today a body of women, chair warming crusaders of the class that neither toil nor spin, advocating and dictating to congress and the nation the need of a larger army, larger navy, more bombing air planes and submarines. These two latter have the peculiar properties of doing in time of peace that intended for time of war, bringing down upon the heads of an already overburdened people, increased taxation. Why do they not enter the province of Christ, who said on entering an assemblage or addressing a multitude, peace be with you. To the raging billows of the sea of Galilee he said peace be still. At once a calm prevailed. At his birth angels sang peace on earth, good will to men. All ages have had their counterpart. Adam had his Eve through whom came sin and death to the whole world. Ahab had his Jezebel, a very wicked woman. Samson had his Delilah. In those days there were many notable women, too well known to be mentioned here. In the day of Christ there was a Salome. After ages had a Borgia, a Medici, a Pope Joan, an Isabella of Spain, a Pompadour of France. In more modern times a Josie Mansfield and many of her type. In spite of the foregoing and the misery entailed, woman still persists in having a large share in the affairs of men. Why not act the role of peacemakers, instead of disturbers thereof? Annent stone throwing—many of the pharisaical saints of the day, from behind walls or church, throw stones with impunity, hitting many less guilty than themselves—then came forth and posed before the people as exponents of all law, religion and morals. Mr. Babson the statistician has aptly said, that the church is more a refuge for saints than a hospital for sinners. Mrs. Dawley in your issue of Monday the 20th sets the meaning of Christ relating to stone throwing quite clearly before the people, and needs no further quibbling.

INCOME TAX TIPS

In computing the tax on earned net income, consideration is given the taxpayer engaged in a trade or business in which both capital and personal service are material income-producing factors. "A reasonable allowance as compensation for personal services" is considered as earned income. Such allowance is not to exceed 20 per cent of the taxpayer's share of the net profits of such trade or business. For example, a taxpayer received in 1927 from a business in which both personal services and capital are material income-producing factors a net profit of $30,000. The 25 per cent credit is computed on 20 per cent of $30,000, or $6,000. The amount payable is the tax on $30,000, less 25 per cent of the tax on $6,000.

The earned income credit is allowed members of a partnership, such credit applying to the share of the net income belonging to each which consists of earned income. As in the case of an individual taxpayer, if capital and personal service are both material income-producing factors, the 20 per cent limitation still applies. In such cases the salaries paid to the members of a partnership should be added to their distributive shares to determine the "reasonable allowance for personal services." For example, the "A" partnership, consisting of two members, made in 1927 a net income of $40,000. Each partner drew during the year a salary of $7,000. These salaries should be added to the net income, making a total of $54,000. Hence $27,000 is the distributive share of each partner. Each partner, therefore, is allowed 20 per cent of $27,000, or $5,400, as earned net income, although his salary was $7,000.

YOUR HEALTH

PREVENTION OF HEART DISEASE

By Walter J. Wilson, Jr., M. D., Detroit—Member Gorgas Memorial.

Heart disease is not so disastrous as many think. Like other diseases it may be mild, moderately severe, or dangerous. Depending upon proper or improper care, a case may change from one class to another. Prevention of heart disease should be concentrated chiefly on the period when infectious diseases of childhood, such as tonsilitis, St. Vitus' dance, rheumatism, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and measles are usually contracted, ordinarily not later than 16 years of age. At this time, even with mild cases, treatment should be very carefully carried out. No one with temperature elevation should be allowed out of bed and, following the active period of the disease, weekly check-up visits to the doctor should be made for at least a month and monthly visits for a while. In this way, early development of heart lesions will be noticed and steps to combat this condition will usually meet with favorable bodily response.

In early adult life, venereal diseases sow seeds for what may prove a large and expensive crop in the way of a serious heart condition. As exposure to these diseases is unnecessary in the vast majority of cases, exercise of common sense is the best preventive. If, however, such diseases are contracted, very energetic treatment should follow and frequent blood examinations should be made even in milder cases where no blood disease may ordinarily be suspected.

For the degenerative type of heart disease, beginning usually about 40 years of age, good hygiene will assist in warding off the evil day. By this is meant particularly physical exercise, by means of which the food taken into the body is more thoroughly assimilated and oxidized, so as to leave no dangerous waste products. The diet should be such as corresponds to the amount of activity of the person. Eating should not be indulged in merely to satisfy the appetite. Thorough elimination, which has much to do with proper diet and exercise, is also very important. The amount of sleep should be at least eight hours, the remaining time to be spent in pleasing forms of exercise and proper forms of intellectual diversion.

These are the general principles which underlie the living of a long, useful and happy life. The details in the physical conduct of your life should be taken up with your family physician, whom no person over 40 years of age should fail to see at least once a year for complete physical examination. While, especially necessary at this period, from what has gone before the desirability of doing so at all ages, is apparent.

Stories That Recall Others

Beats Zero

A teacher tells of a boy in her class who, seeing his average monthly grade of 57 per cent, exclaimed: "Miss X—is that my average!"

When informed that it was he cried out, "Whoopee, that sure beats zero."

So He Could Not

Heard on a street car:

"Hello, John."

The person addressed looked surprised and said, "Well, hello, but I'm not John."

"That's funny. You look just like a friend of mine, named John. Your hat is like his; your overcoat is like his; your coat is like his, your scarf is like his, and even your attempted mustache is like his."

"I feel sorry for the gentleman if he resembles me."

"Well, my conclusion is that you were in a crap game with him last night and won all his clothes."

"Even so, I couldn't very well have appropriated his mustache."

Fellowship of Prayer

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

"The Sense of Sin."

Scripture—Memory Verse—"If we confess our sins He is faithful and righteous to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." (I John 1.19).

Read—Isaiah 6.1-7.

Meditation—The sense of personal fault is part of the Christian consciousness. For Christianity confronts a man with the ideal. The Christian religion emphasizes the dignity and the accountability of the individual. Whatever be the circumstances, each one's deed in the last analysis is one's own. We enter today on the commemoration of Jesus' period of temptation. His complete victory over subtle temptations should remind us of our frequent defeats and compromises. It is wholesome for us frankly to confess our sins. Confession, if only to oneself, is a cleansing thing.

Prayer—Almighty God, the Spirit of purity, of sincerity and of truth, grant unto us the holy gift of a fearless and honest mind that we may behold ourselves as we are truly confessing our sins and failures. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

IN DAY'S NEWS

Kwantung.

"The single Chinese province of Kwantung, of which Canton is capital, is motherland to a majority of the sixty thousand Chinese now resident in the United States," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "Canton was first Chinese seaport to come in contact with the outside world. Her people in the earliest times became sailors, traders and adventurers, so it is natural that from this southern city should have started that Chinese exodus which has populated the shores of the Pacific.

From this same region some 85,000 Chinese have gone to the Philippines, about 25,000 to Hawaii, and more than a million each in Java, Siam, Formosa and Singapore. For most of these emigrants Canton was port of departure on their great adventure, and most of them came from the surrounding district.

"Arabs traded extensively by sea with Canton in the middle ages. Portuguese traders arrived at the mouth of the river during the first quarter of the sixteenth century, bringing, it is said, a cargo of pepper. English ships and traders did not come upon the scene till more than a hundred years later, but from that time until after the Opium War Treaty of 1842 Canton was the only Chinese port permitting foreign trade. It is said that the Manchu dynasty favored this arrangement since Canton was the farthest great seaport from their capital.

"Thus, for more than 300 years Canton alone of Chinese cities came in touch with western lands. Her people grew accustomed to foreigners and their methods and were the first to emigrate in large numbers.

"Chinese emigration to America began with the discovery of gold in California in 1848 and Chinese labor was in further demand on the transcontinental railroads. By 1880 there were 105,465 Chinese in the United States. Then came the first of the exclusion measures in 1882. Since that time America's Chinese population has decreased some forty per cent. More than half of American Chinese live on the Pacific coast. In all the United States there are fewer than eight thousand Chinese women.

"Coming from the neighborhood of Canton, American Chinese largely use the Canton dialect, which so differs from the spoken language of the rest of China as to be totally unintelligible to a native of Peking. Cantonese speech has a range of eight tones while in Peking but four tones are used. Written symbols are, however, the same and can be readily comprehended in any part of China, as the same musical score can be played in Italy and Russia. The American sojourner in China, who, as a rule, learns the Peking or Mandarin dialect finds upon his return to the United States that he cannot converse with the Cantonese laundryman or restaurant waiter, but if he has learned to write Chinese characters communication can be carried on in this medium.

"According to the census of 1920, of the forty-two races and nationalities in this country the Chinese population is twenty-eighth. There are about one-half as many Chinese as Japanese in the United States. Although mining first attracted the Chinese to America only 150 Chinese miners exist here today. Some twelve thousand Chinese, one-fifth of the total population in America are in the laundry business. About the same number are restaurant keepers, waiters and servants. On the Pacific coast are many Chinese truck gardeners, small farmers, and nurserymen. San Francisco, New York and other large cities contain Chinese merchant and banking firms which carry on extensive business operations.

"Some of these importing and exporting houses have a steady trade in such staple products as silk, tea, porcelain, dried eggs, bristles, and wood oil. Other Chinese products, such as hair nets and Ma Jong sets follow the whims of fashion. Chinese rugs, embroideries, and objects of art have increased greatly in Western demand during the last decade.

"There are 6,000 Chinese students of all ages and both sexes in American institutions of learning. Some six hundred of these are government students supported through the Boxer Indemnity Fund which was returned by the United States. These government students come not only from Canton but from all parts of China. Since the World War many high class Chinese business men have come to the United States. While the Chinese population of America is today less than it was fifty years ago, prosperity and new emigration have produced a more solid and representative community than coolie laborers of the Gold Rush days, many of whom nevertheless founded family fortunes that still endure."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Roughleg Causes a Sudden Fright

Be not too eager to believe;
Appearances sometimes deceive.
—Old Mother Nature.

Roughleg the Hawk, big and black and broad of wing, seldom left the Green Meadows for his hunting. Mice are his favorite food and it is on the Meadows that he can most easily find these little furry folk. So Roughleg seldom leaves the Green Meadows during his winter stay.

But once in a while he takes a longer flight and flies over the Old Orchard or perhaps along the edge of the Green Forest. He did this early one morning while the feathered folk were getting their breakfast at the food trays Farmer Brown's Boy always keeps supplied. Tommy Tit the Chickadee was there. Yank Yank the Nuthatch was there. So were Downy and Hairy, the Woodpeckers. Sammy Jay and Speckles the Starling were there. Dolly the Tree Sparrow, Slaty the Junco and Soap Soap the Brown Creeper were also there. They were all so busy at the different feeding stations and it was so long since they had been frightened by an enemy that they were not keeping their usual sharp lookout. In fact, all were a wee bit careless. Yes, sir, all were a wee bit careless. It is a bad thing for any one to be careless, but it is especially bad for little feathered folk to be careless.

Suddenly a shadow swept over that part of the Old Orchard. Such a hurrying scurrying as there was then! You would have been surprised to see how quickly all those little people got out of sight. One moment there they were, all busily eating breakfast and twittering happily and the next minute they had disappeared. Coming along just then you wouldn't have known that there was a bird in the Old Orchard.

Now, that moving shadow was the shadow of Roughleg the Hawk. He chuckled inside when he saw the sudden disappearance of all those feathered folk. It amused him to see how he had frightened them. You see, he was looking for mice, not for birds, for his next meal. "They ought to know better than to be afraid of me," said Roughleg to himself. "They ought to know that if I wanted to catch one of them I wouldn't come flying along in any such easy way as this. Yes, sir, they ought to know this! When I am very hungry and food is scarce I may take a bird, but when I do this it is not from choice. I would much rather have a fat meadow mouse. I wouldn't object to Chatterer the Red Squirrel or Striped Chipmunk. But, all in all, I prefer mice."

Meanwhile Tommy Tit the Chickadee, peeping out from the little house into which he had popped, discovered who it was who had given him this fright and popped out of his little house as suddenly as he had popped into it. "Dee, Dee, Dee, Chickadee!" said he. "Why didn't somebody tell me who it was? I'm not afraid of that fellow. No, sir, I'm not afraid of that fellow. He has never bothered me and I don't believe he ever will." With this Tommy flew back to his favorite feeding place and once more began to stuff himself.

One by one the others appeared. They were all a little nervous and they were constantly looking over their shoulders. You see, that fright had been so sudden it had upset them. It had made them jump. If they were careless before they were quite the reverse now. It is likely to be that way. They really were very much more watchful than they needed to be. That is, all were but Tommy Tit. He basked about and snapped his little bright eyes and was seemingly as carefree as ever.

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often than Men

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed.

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin it is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. It's mild and gentle in its action and does not cause griping and strain. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly.

Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home—where many times five someone is sure to need it quickly.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

BERSIG KEEPS MUM BEFORE HARTFORD POLICE

That George F. Bersig, 27, who was shot in Hartford Monday by Policeman Daniel Hurley when he attempted to escape arrest on Front street, has been concerned in a series of theater and automobile show room burglaries throughout the state, was the theory of the police there Tuesday, as they resumed their investigation of his activities. It was also the belief of the authorities that Bersig has a "pal" who worked on various jobs with him. A young man who is known to have been in Bersig's company frequently was taken into custody by Detective Sergeant Patrick J. Sheren.

Evidence tending to link Bersig with a recent robbery in Willimantic was discovered Tuesday in Massachusetts automobile markers found in Bersig's LaSalle. These numbers are the same as those on the plates of the LaSalle which eluded the Willimantic police at the time of the theft in that city.

The police are also working on a theory that it was Bersig who committed a series of robberies in automobile houses in East Hartford during the winter.

While the police are convinced that Bersig was responsible for the "break" at the Palace theater in Norwich Sunday night, since the bar of money taken from his parked auto on the east side here and other information in possession of the police point to Bersig's presence in that city the night of the crime, the wounded man, who is in a serious condition at St. Francis hospital, has refused to talk when questioned by detectives. Bersig was reported to be near death when he was admitted to the hospital Monday, but it was said Tuesday that he was a man of very strong physique and that he has a fighting chance to recover from the wound. The bullet entered his lung and has not yet been removed.

Deputy Sheriff Joseph J. Panelli went to St. Francis hospital Monday afternoon and served papers on Bersig, in an attachment in the amount of $400 made in favor of the Armory garage. Bersig is alleged to have contracted a repair job with the garage, which is now secured by an attachment on his automobile.

RAILROAD STATION SMITTED BY EARLY MORNING FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 22—The railroad station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company, located off Railroad street and abutting the railroad tracks was badly damaged by fire here late tonight, the main damage being in the telegraph and ticket offices. Leslie McCollum, night operator, was nearly trapped in the ticket office, when he was thrown from his bench by the tremendous shower of sparks from the crossing of two high tension wires and only with difficulty was able to gain his freedom. Damage could not be definitely estimated, but was considered to be between $3,000 and $5,000.

The fire was discovered at 11.45 o'clock and a telephone and a bell alarm from Box 43 brought out all of the apparatus of Engine Co., No. 1 with permanent call members. The fire spread quickly from the telegraph office, where it started to the upper rooms of the central portion of the station and gutted the trainmen's quarters. Several lines of hose were played on the blaze and at 12.35 o'clock the roof over the central portion caved in, nearly gutting that section of the station, which houses the trainmen's quarters, and the dispatch telegraph office.

Station Agent Harry A. Blanchette directed firemen and police to break into the ticket office, where they saved several hundred thousand dollars worth of tickets and other valuables. This action was taken when the fire began to creep to that section of the building and into a blind attic in the waiting room. The firemen were hampered in fighting the flames in the blind attic, which they could not reach because of the slate roofing. At 1.10 o'clock the recall had not sounded, but the fire appeared to have been virtually checked at that hour. Smoke damage was done to the Railroad restaurant, the contents of which were removed to a place of safety.

Traffic on two lines was held up during the fire, delaying freight service for about two hours. Dispatching will be done from the crossing shanty at Bridge street. Trouble crews and officials from Hartford were expected to arrive in Willimantic at 1.30 tomorrow morning to repair the wiring. The burning out of the switch board caused all service out of Willimantic to be extinct.

The station was built about 50 years ago and is owned by the New Haven Railroad company.

HAHN TURNS IN FASTEST INDOOR MILE THIS SEASON AT MEADOWBROOK GAMES

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21—(AP)—Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A. star, and Ray Conger, Illinois A. C. middle distance ace, showed their heels to classy fields in the two feature events of the annual Meadowbrook club indoor track and field meet at the 103rd Cavalry armory tonight.

Hahn walked off with the Rodman Wanamaker trophy in winning the Overton Memorial mile event. His time, 4:17 1-5, was the fastest mile of the current indoor season and clipped three-fifths of a second off the previous mark for the event set by Joie Ray.

Conger, who recently conquered Hahn in Kansas City, won the Meadowbrook "660" beating out Pincus Sober, metropolitan champion who finished second, in a thrilling race. Conger's time was 1:23.

Georgetown university won the two mile intercollegiate special relay race, nosing out Boston college, chiefly through the great anchor running of Dussaut. The time was 8:02 1-5.

Al Stratton, University of Pennsylvania was the only double winner of the evening, capturing two field events with the aid of handicaps. In the pole vault he surprised the experts by clearing 12 feet, which, with his handicap, gave him the edge over Barney Berlinger, Penn freshman, who cleared 12 feet 6 inches aided by a 4 1-2 inch handicap. Stratton was returned the winner in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet 1 1-2 inches.

The only other field event on the program was the shot put which fell to Charles Smith, N. Y. U., although Harold Lamberg, Brooklyn, holder of the intercollegiate title made the best heave of the night as scratch performer to get third place.

The two-mile race provided the closest finish of the night, with Russell Payne, former Penn runner and holder of the intercollegiate title, just nosing out Johnny Romig, the former Penn State and Olympic runner, after the two had battled step for step through the last half of the race.

New York university, with Phil Edwards running anchor, ran away from the field in the medley race for middle Atlantic states colleges. Union college was second. The winner's time was 7:47 3-5.

HIGH WINDS AND ENGINE TROUBLE STOP RECORD TRIES

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21—(AP)—High winds and minor mechanical trouble prevented two intended attempts today on the world's automobile speed record of 296 miles an hour.

Captain Malcolm Campbell of England, who established the international speed mark here Sunday was unable because of a stiff breeze to carry out his announced plan to better his own record this afternoon, and Frank Lockhart of Indianapolis who also hoped to have a try at the Britisher's mark during the day, was forced to forego his plan because of necessary clutch adjustments on his Stutz Black Hawk special racer.

Lockhart said he hoped to get into action tomorrow as did J. M. White, Philadelphia manufacturer and third entrant in the speed tests, who devoted the day to installation of a transmission on his 36 cylindered Triplex to conform to American Automobile association standards.

Captain Campbell was doubtful tonight whether he would essay another race against time unless Lockhart or White better his mark. In that event he has announced he would try to outdo them in turn.

Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis made two preliminary tests during the day for an attempt to break the world's record of 141.7 miles per hour for four cylinder machines set here in 1912 by Bob Burman. Driving a Whippet, his motor developed spark plug trouble on the first run, but he negotiated the measured mile in 33.73 seconds for a speed of 106.57 miles per hour on the second, with his motor still missing badly.

AVERAGE HOCKEY PLAYER HAS ROUGH, SHORT TIME OF IT

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—The average playing life of a "big league" hockey star is only five years, the Madison Square Garden corporation, controlling the New York Rangers in the National Hockey league, has decided.

Annually, the corporation writes off 20 per cent on the cost of its player contracts, the same amount allowed for all equipment. As an asset, according to these figures, players cease to exist theoretically after five years.

Insurance companies class puck chasers with sky-writers, airplane wing-walkers, and trans-Atlantic fliers, refusing in some case to insure them at all, hockey authorities reveal. Because of the high depreciation, the Garden, in effect, carries its own insurance.

Statistics show that hockey ice is delivered the teams at the Garden for just half price. The other half of the cost of the $130,000 refrigerating plant in the arena is charged to keeping the Garden cool for summer events. Attendance at hockey matches here this season is 60 per cent higher than last year.

LEWIS PROMISES TO MEET WORTHY CHALLENGERS

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21—(AP)—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, jubilant today in his triumph last night over Joe Stecher, pledged himself to meet any outstanding challenger for the heavyweight wrestling title, anywhere, any time a suitable offer was forthcoming.

Billy Sandow, his manager, received numerous offers, one of $20,000 from Chicago, for a match with Hans Steinke, the ponderous German. Steinke is recognized as the world's heavyweight champion by the New York Athletic commission and has been seeking a match with Lewis ever since he became a threat in the heavyweight ranks.

DANIELSON AND TAFTVILLE TO OPEN NEW COURT SERIES

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 21.—The Danielson Town team will open a three game series with the Taftville Crescents here Thursday night at Town hall. These teams played twice earlier in the season, each getting a decision.

Both teams expect to have their strongest lineups. The locals will have Burke and Bitgood, who performed so well last week. Bitgood is freshman coach at Conn. Aggies while Burke formerly with Dean Academy is taking the injured Bill Armington's place at center. Bill Schefield will also be on hand.

The Taftville will probably use Brown and Normandin at the forwards, Harris at center and Leonard and Eccleston at guards.

The second game of this series comes next Tuesday at Danielson.

AMATEUR BOXING TEAM FORMED AT DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 21— George (Young) Deforest, bantamweight fighter himself and who has been seen often in eastern Connecticut pro rings, is training a team of five men for the amateur bouts in eastern Connecticut. This team will be known as Deforest's Service Battery Team, every one of the punchers being a member of the Service Battery, 192, Art. C. N. G. The boys are training hard at the state armory as they wish to compete in the state tournament at New Haven in April.

The following are the boys and their weights: Jack Bouley, 124; Francis Socquet, 133; Peter Klocek, 155; Henry Stoddard, 150 and Joe Bishop, 115. Any promoter wishing to book these boys should write to George (Young) Deforest, 58 North street, Danielson, Conn.

DELANEY TRAINS IN B'PORT STREETS FOR HEENEY BOUT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 21—(AP)—The extremely cold weather and heavy winds forced Jack Delaney to do his road work on the streets of Bridgeport today. He started his daily jaunt at Seaside park, but after traveling a short distance he was forced into more protected territory and he ran more than five miles to start off his second day of heavy training for his coming bout with Tom Heeney.

Delaney completed 12 rounds of gym work, four of which consisted of boxing with Pietro Corri, the Belgian heavyweight. Jack also punched the heavy bag for three rounds, skipped rope for one, worked on the weights for two more and tapered off with two rounds of calisthenics.

In all departments of his work, Delaney stressed the timing of his punches. Especially on the bags and in the ring with Corri, he gauged his distance carefully. His left hand was also given plenty of work, Jack figuring that he will need both hands if he is to beat Heeney next Thursday.

Two new sparring partners are due here tomorrow to aid Delaney in his workouts.

SATRE FAMILY IN FRONT PLACES AT LAKE PLACID

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 21—(AP)—With one brother close on his heels, and another following in third place, Magnus Satre of Norway, today outdistanced a field of 27 of the best skiers of the United States and Canada in the ten-mile race here and annexed the eastern cross country ski championship.

Olav Satre finished in second place, two-fifths of a second behind Magnus, whose time was 1 hour 16 minutes 45 seconds. Johna, the third brother, placed third, nearly two minutes behind them.

Maroons Beat Americans

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Two goals by Nelson Stewart with less than three minutes to play gave the Montreal Maroons a 5-3 victory over the New York Americans and raised them to second place of the international group of the National Hockey league here tonight.

Hahn in Record Try Saturday

BOSTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—Lloyd Hahn, of the Boston A. A., will have a chance to crack his own 1,000-yard indoor record and Ray Conger's new one here next Saturday when two track carnivals and five New England A. A. A. U. championship events are crammed into a busy afternoon and evening at the Boston Arena.

'BOUT SPORTS

It won't be long now before the All-Stars teams, championship squabbles, etc., that usher out a season are with us for basketball is fast slipping away. So far for eastern Connecticut, as a whole, it has been successful. There has not been as much of it, probably, this year as in 1926-27, but what there has been was of a high class. All up through Plainfield, Danielson and Putnam the season is successful. The Plainfield Pros have drawn larger crowds this year than ever before while Danielson has broken previous attendance records a couple of times this year. In Putnam the Quinebaug Valley league has operated with fast basketball. Putnam High is in a most successful season. As we swipe over to Willimantic we find her only real representative Windham drawing capacity houses and campaigning with the unified support of the community at large. Aside from a let-up or so Windham's year can be classed a successful one and she is fairly certain of entering the Yale tourney.

Down in New London the City league has been enjoying success. The Coast Guards have also shown a good brand of ball, even though being off-color once or twice. Chapman Tech has played on and off basketball but drawn fairly good houses while Bulkeley, lacking an official representative, set about to equip itself with a club known as the Bulkeley Ravens and this team has drawn plenty of interest and is now pointing to a return game with the Academy that should pack them in.

In Norwich, the C. F. C.-Academy and Taftville Crescents will show success for their efforts when the season ends. The C. F. C. although they hit a bit of a slump last week, still rank with the leaders in the amateurs in eastern Connecticut and the state and in their objective game next Monday, against the Hartford Central Baptists, here they stand a good chance of winning. The Academy, while getting off to a poor start, still has drawn packed audiences at every local appearance and with the improvement shown of late they should not only continue with these large turnous but also show more victories before the curtain rings down. The Taftville Crescents have had phenominal success on their home floor, losing but once this year, that their opening tilt in December. The Y Emps, we mustn't forget them, have won nine and lost two this year, which with 20 victories last year and no defeats, continues quite a record. The Emps are claiming the Eastern Connecticut junior title for the second straight year.

So that, all in all, King Basketball can get ready to notch up another one on the Book of Time.

Harold Talbert is busy preparing for his coming bout with Farmer Steve at the next Pastime card, March 2. The local favorite is training with Bobby Mays down in New London and is earnest in his efforts to get a clean cut verdict this time.

While mentioning Mays, it might not be amiss to put in here that local fans who journeyed to New Haven on Monday night thought that neither Mays or Kaplan were anything to get on the house-tops and cheer about. Kaplan may have been frowned upon by Santa Claus (to use a new coined expression) but from reports by some of the native fans who know their fights Kaplan was nowhere the Kaplan of old.

GAMMAS WIN FROM CENTRAL BAPTISTS IN CHURCH LEAGUE

The Gamma club of the Greek Orthodox church defeated the Central Baptists in a fast senior church league game Tuesday night at the Y gym, 33 to 6. The Gammas swept the Centrals off their feet in the first quarter, leading by a score of 15 to 2 at its end, but the Centrals staged a rally in the second half, coming within three points of tying the count. The Gammas, however, pulled themselves together in the last quarter to make safe their margin. Economous was high scorer with 18 points for the winners.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The Plainfield Pros are taking tonight's game with Millville as a crucial affair. This team has become somewhat of a bother to Eastern Connecticut outfits this year and the Pros are determined to clean them up, this time.

The Danielson-Taftville series gets underway Thursday. That's enough.

The winner, of course, will meet the Plainfield Pros.

The Fitchville Rovers will meet a Taftville club Sunday afternoon at Fitchville.

The Academy starts in a busy week's work tonight and chances are strong for a win.

The Y Intermediates challenge the Taftville Whirlwinds for a game at the Y court on Saturday, Feb. 25 at 1:30 p. m. This game will be played under amateur rules, and an answer is asked for through this paper before Friday.

The Sacred Heart school team of Taftville won a close game from the Norwich Eagles the other day by 46 to 41. Durr with 20 points, led the winners in scoring while Kirker of the losers led them all with 24 points.

EIGHT MAJOR LEAGUE OUTFITS ON SCENE AT SOUTHERN TRAINING CAMPS

ATLANTA, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Baseball's battalions were entrenched in Dixie today, with eight major league squads pitching tents in Florida while the Cleveland Indians prepared to start work at New Orleans, and the Detroit Tigers were ready to assemble at San Antonio.

John McGraw had his Giant battalion working at Hot Springs, Ark., preparatory to leaving for Augusta, Ga., within a few days where the entire squad will train.

Four From Each League

Four National league squads and a like number from the American league already are on the scene in Florida with another from each circuit to arrive later in the week.

Of the American campaigners, the Washington Senators were first on the firing range, unlimbering at Tampa for the second day in succession. The Harris men somewhat extended their activities today while volley ball was added for limbering exercises. Coach Clyde Milan and Trainer Mike Martin are in charge of the squad of 20 with Manager Harris and the first string players due to arrive March 1.

Hornsby In Braves Uniform

The Boston Braves, with an old star in a new setting—Rogers Hornsby—led the Nationals to the training front, matching Washington's zealous activities with similar gestures at St. Petersburg. Hornsby was not in uniform yesterday, but today was about the park in his baseball togs, throwing the ball around with mates who seemed inspired by the presence of the former Cardinal and Giant star.

The St. Louis Brown's went through their first real workout today at West Palm Beach, a new camp. Manager Dan Howley and Coaches Bill Killefer and Jimmy Austin have a full squad on hand, 31 of the St. Louis squad having reported Monday.

The Philadelphia Athletics and the Boston Red Sox will get to work tomorrow, Mack's men to be again at Fort Myers and the Boston Americans at Bradenton. Coaches Kid Gleason and Ira Thomas will hand over 14 early arrivals to the White Elephant chieftan, Tris Speaker being included in the number. Mack also has announced he is seeking Ty Cobb for his outfield again.

Major Gordon Knowles of Bradenton will head a group of citizens of that town with a brass band tomorrow to greet the Red Sox who are shifting their camp to Florida for the first time in years. Bob Quinn, Sox owner, and Manager Bill Carrigan will have battery men, two infielders and coaches for the star.

Yanks Arrive at Week-End

The Yankees will arrive at St. Petersburg Friday or Saturday to open their campaign for defense of their world title.

Burt Shotten, new pilot of the Philadelphia Nationals, had his squad at Winter Haven today. A brief battery workout was engaged.

The St. Louis Cardinals have arrived at Avon Park and received greetings from Grover Cleveland Alexander, who has been golfing there for some time. The Cards start training tomorrow.

Cincinnati's Reds were due at Orlando Saturday. The Brooklyn Robins will arrive at Clearwater Saturday, being the last of the Florida contingent to get down to drill.

HAL CUTBILL RETURNS TO WARS AT N. Y. TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—After four years of enforced idleness, the Rev. Harold Cutbill, the "flying Parson" of Boston, will return to foot-racing competition in the Masonic benefit meet at the 102nd Engineers armory tomorrow night. Cutbill was declared ineligible in 1923, and has recently been restored to good standing.

Cutbill is entered in the 300-metre race for the Campbell trophy. He has been training for his come-back for some time and hopes to show some of the speed that made him one of the fastest runners in the country in 1922. In the same races are Pinkie Sober, of the Holy Name club, former C. C. N. Y. star; Francis McCloskey, Boston A. A., and Clarence Dussault, of Georgetown university.

SEPPALA GAINS ON ST. GODDARD IN QUEBEC DERBY

QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 21—(AP)—Leonhard Seppala, 50-year-old dog mushing wizard of Nome, Alaska, clipped eight minutes and 48 seconds today from the lead youthful Emile St. Goddard of the Pas, Manitoba, had established in the first race of the Quebec International Dog derby yesterday.

As a result, St. Goddard will start the final day tomorrow with an advantage of but one minute, 20 seconds. Seppala's splendid performance today set the stage for what may turn out to be the greatest test of dog driving skill in the history of the game.

PELOQUIN IN FEATURE ON DUWELL CARD

What should be one of the feature attractions of the Duwell amateur show at the armory Friday night is the proposed bout between Rene Peloquin, Danielson flash, and Ero Peterson a member of the visiting Worcester team, the present junior bantamweight champion of New England. Peterson the winner of 34 consecutive victories has met Peloquin on a previous occasion and won a close decision after being extended an extra round. The Peloquin supporters no doubt will be pleased to see their idol in a return match with the champ, as there has always been considerable doubt in their minds about the first match between the pair.

The supporters of Peloquin are not confined to Danielson alone, as he has a good number of admirers right here in Norwich. Last summer the little fellow took part in practically every one of the Duwell outdoor shows and on each occasion fought his way into the hearts of the local fans. He will have a big following pulling for him to beat the New England champ Friday night.

Several other boys including a middleweight and a welterweight will come down from Danielson with Peloquin.

Stonington will be heard from for the first time Friday with the appearance of a seven man team composed of Manuel Rose 168, George Anderson 160, Walter Main 153, John Troy 147, R. Grills 132, Anthony Moretti 118, and Howard Buckley 118.

Judging from the way that the entries are coming in at least half of the ten bout card will be fought in the welterweight and middleweight classes, a sure sign of some healthy socking.

The Westerly entry was boosted to seven men last night with the filing of the names of Tommy Viaglio 120, and Patsy Luzzi 112. The others of the Westerly contigent are Bruno, Spasato, Chape, Burlap and Main. Big Boy Burlap, the big colored boy, extends a challenge to any amateur heavyweight in Connecticut, especially Young Turello of New London. Both Burlap and Spasato (Russo) cleaned up at Taunton, Monday night. Spasato won three bouts two by knock-outs, and Burlap flattened his man in one round.

THREE WATCHES GET CONGER AT RECORD TIME

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 21—(AP)—Three of five stop watches used in the Kansas City A. C. meet here Saturday night caught the flat time of 2.11 on Ray Conger, Illinois A. C. flash when he defeated Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A. star in a special 1,000 yard race and lifted one of Hahn's world records, Reedy Campbell, head timer, announced today. A fourth watch recorded 2.11 1-10. A fifth watch was a second slower but this one was inaccurate, said Mr. Campbell, asserting there was no question in his mind as to the correctness of Conger's new record time.

The old record of 2.12 4-5 was set by Hahn last year in New York. Amazed at Conger's phenomenal time, Campbell said the watches were checked at once, three of them checking to the split second.

THREE MONTH REST FOR TOMMY LOUGHRAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—The crown that Tommy Loughran captured from Mike McTigue and promised to defend once a month if possible against the best of the light-heavyweights is going into mothballs for three months—but it's not Tommy's fault.

Lack of a suitable opponent and a date that doesn't conflict with either a welterweight championship match or one of the heavyweight extravaganzas in Tex Rickard's elimination "finals" has forced Loughran into enforced inactivity, the 175-pound titleholder declared on his return today to New York after a month's cruise through the Caribbean.

Lomski-Sekyra Bout

Decision to side track Tommy for the time being will permit a match between Leo Lomski, who already has failed to lift the champion's mantle, and Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, latest sensation in the light-heavyweight ranks. The match probably will be made for late in March with the winner meeting Loughran in a title test in April or May. An injury to Jimmy Slattery's hand has forced the Buffalo challenger from the lists temporarily.

Ace Hudkins, who trounced Sammy Baker in a vicious "rubber" match at Madison Square Garden last Friday night, took his challenge of Joe Dundee to the New York State Athletic commission today, but was given little encouragement. The welterweight champion is under suspension here as a result of charges brought against him in California for failure to go through with a title match against Hudkins in Los Angeles.

Hudkins-Dundee Bout In March

Although no contracts can be made with Dundee while the Baltimore Italian is under suspension, a welterweight championship "shot" has been assured Hudkins on March 23 at the Garden. Dundee has been under contract for the bout since last November.

The commission reinstated Frenchy Belanger, of Toronto, former National Boxing association flyweight champion, with an explanation that his notice to appear before the board recently went astray. Belanger was set down indefinitely for failure to appear. The Canadian originally was charged with fouling Frisco Grande in a match at Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 16.

Sharkey Posts Forfeit.

Jack Sharkey posted a $5,000 check with the commission to guarantee appearance for his match with Johnny Risko here March 12. Jack Delaney and Tom Heeney already have posted similar forfeits for the first half of the heavyweight elimination finals on March 1.

Notice that indefinite suspension would be plastered on Madison Square Garden itself if immediate action was not taken to stop smoking during bouts, brought a promise of a special "smoke" squad employed by the Garden to carry out the commission ruling. After one warning, offenders in the future will be ejected and their admission fee returned. The "ejection" total is expected to be high whenever the Garden fight cards fail to meet patrons' approval.

ACADEMY STARTS BUSY WEEK TONIGHT

The Academy meets Stonington tonight at the Stonington Community house in an important league game, although neither has a chance at the title. This game opens a stiff week's work for the Red and White, who tomorrow night tackle Bacon Academy at Colchester on a court that will give the home town a real advantage and then returning here Saturday to meet Bacon again.

The Academy will be still handicapped tonight by the absence of Les Pingree and the three other ineligibles while Stonington will miss Bobby Cragan, captain, who is laid up with injuries. The locals have accustomed themselves to the capable center's absence, although his return is being looked for shortly, and tonight they should give the Stonington outfit a real battle all the way.

Stonington will of course have the advantage of the home floor but if the locals show their form of last Saturday night then they stand a strong chance of winning.

The Academy will probably lineup with Lloyd Jarvis and Dave Tigar at the forwards, Joe Viau at center and Captain Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix at the guards.

AGGIES MEET HOLY CROSS AT STORRS THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 21—What promises to be one of the fastest basketball games of the year on the local court will be played tomorrow night when the crack Holy Cross five meets the Connecticut Aggies in a return game. The contest is scheduled to get under way at 8 p. m.

Holy Cross defeated the Aggies earlier in the season at Worcester, playing on the small, home court of the Crusaders. Even in that contest, however, the Aggies gave the Worcester outfit a nip and tuck battle all the way, and followers of the State college quintet believe their team has an even chance to win tomorrow night. Playing on the spacious Hawley armory court, the Aggies will have a distinct advantage.

JIMMIE ROSSI WINS ON T. KAYO AT BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 21—(AP)—Johnnie Scalzi, 125 pounds, of Bridgeport, won the decision over Jim Bones, 128, Bridgeport, after eight gruelling rounds in their fight at the armory here tonight.

In the semi-finals Steve Culver, of Bridgeport, outpointed Harry Gerrin, of New York city, eight rounds, 135. Kid Rash, New York city, won decision over Izzy Cohen, New Canaan, six.

Jimmie Rossi, Westerly, R. I., won technical knockout from Johnnie Balco, Stamford, fourth round of their scheduled eight round bout.

Willie Hussey, Bridgeport, knocked out Billie Coe, New Haven, in first round of scheduled eight round battle.

NAUGATUCK AND COLLEGIATE IN PENN COURT TOURNEY

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21—(AP)—Fifty three teams will complete in the annual interscholastic basketball tournament, under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania, it was announced today.

Play begins next Saturday morning, when the first of that day's 20 matches are to be played, and the final round is scheduled for the afternoon of March 2.

BOSTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—Clarence C. Pell, defending his title as American racquets champion, had no difficulty today in disposing of Cyril Simpson, English champion, in the semi-finals at the Tennis and Racquet club. The scores were 15-12, 15-5, 15-10.

The Plainfield Pros tangle with the Millville, Mass., Town team tonight at the Plainfield Community house for the second time this season. Millville won the first game by 28 to 18 but the Community Housers are determined to even things up on this occasion.

Millville to date holds three wins over eastern Connecticut clubs, winning twice from Danielson in addition to that decision at Plainfield. This team is composed of some of the fastest players in New England and is a strong contender for the New England championship, having already beaten the Boston Whirlwinds twice this season.

They come to Plainfield with an exceptional record, gained through tours of northern New England, in addition to these excursions into the southern part.

Both teams will have their strongest lineup and plans for a capacity house have been made.

In the preliminary, the Plainfield Buddies will meet the Wauregan team.

RECOVERY IN STOCK MARKET AFTER THREE DAYS OF DECLINING PRICES

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Stock prices made impressive recovery in today's market after three days of declining prices. Many of the standard industrials and rails moved up 1 to 3 points, and a sprinkling of specialties soared 6 to 16 points on urgent short coverings and a revival of pool operations. The rally, which embraced most of the list, was generally described as a correction of a temperary over-sold condition with speculative opinion still sharply divided, however, as to its extent and duration. Trading started off at a brisk pace, but quickly died down, the day's sales running well below 2,000,000 shares.

Outside the stock market, chief speculative interest centered in the further break of 2 1-2 to 3 cents a pound in rubber, which is now selling at the lowest prices since 1924, and the brisk rally of about 2 cents a bushel in corn. Arrival of $5,000,000 in Russian Soviet gold also attracted considerable attention. Call money dropped from a renewal rate of 4 1-4 to 4 per cent. and other monetary accommodations continued unchanged.

The day's business news was mixed in character. Downward revision of heavy crude oil prices was offset by higher prices for the lighter grades. The weekly steel trade reviews reported that production was holding its recent gains, and that prices were steady. B. F. more than doubled its 1926 earnings in 1927, and Borden, Timken Roller Bearing, American Home Products and Cuyamel Fruit all reported larger net income last year than the year before. Buckeye Pipe, Louisiana Oil and Vulcan Detinning earned less.

Montana Power was the sensational feature of today's market soaring nearly 16 points to 162 3-4 on unconfirmed reports that Electric Bond & Share had made an offer of two shares of its stock for one of Montana. Electric Bond & Share, which is traded in on the curb, closed 2 3-4 net higher at 88. Greene Cananea Copper, which has had the same market sponsorship as Montana Power, closed 6 points higher at 122 1-4. Net gains of 5 points or more also were recorded by Coty, Detroit Edison, DuPont, International Business Machines and Warren Bros.

Concurrent strength of Gold Dust and Standard Milling, each of which ran up about 4 points, was associated with rumors that some kind of a deal was pending to bring those companies which are controlled by the same interests, closer together. Radio and Montgomery-Ward also rallied briskly. U. S. Steel common and General Motors each moved up more than a point, closing at 140 3-4 and 135 1-4, respectively.

Express shares, which have been in the habit of moving independently of the general market, turned heavy on the traditional "selling on the good news" following the publication of an unconfirmed report that a banking group had acquired control. American Railway Express opened at a new high record at 138 3-4, climbed to 129 1-2 and closed slightly above that figure. American Express broke from 194 to 189 and rebounded to 190 1-2.

Commodity markets were mixed. Cotton eased slightly on the usual evening-up of speculative accounts before a holiday, but wheat prices advanced moderately. The advance in corn was based on a downward revision of earlier crop estimates. Rubber broke in sympathy with weaker foreign markets. Coffee prices moved up 4 to 13 points and sugar prices held steady.

Foreign exchanges displayed a firmer undertone. Sterling cables made a further advance toaround $4.87 25-32, Spanish pesetas jumped 5 points to 17.00 cents and nominal gains took place in practically all other European currencies except Portuguese which broke 10 points to 4.70 cents.

MRS. LOUIS FISHER, OF NEW LONDON, HAS DISAPPEARED FROM HER HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 21—Mrs. Gertrude Fisher, 34, wife of Louis Fisher, 578 Bank street, is missing. It is feared that she has committed suicide, for it is known that she recently made an attempt to destroy herself. In the hope that Mrs. Fisher may be roaming in the outlying sections, the police and Boy Scouts are making a search in an endeavor to find the woman. Mrs. Fisher disappeared yesterday afternoon and all trace of her movements since then have been lost.

Mrs. Fisher recently swallowed a quantity of Lysol with suicidal intent. She was taken to Home Memorial hospital and Sunday she was discharged from there. Yesterday, Mrs. Fisher was apparently in good spirits and nothing out of the ordinary was noted in her manner. Mr. Fisher went to his lunch at noon and before he returned to his work Mrs. Fisher remarked that she was going to one of the playhouses. That was the last seen of the woman by Mr. Fisher for when he returned home at night she was not there. Believing that his wife would return shortly he awaited her homecoming, but Mrs. Fisher did not return. About 7.30 o'clock Mr. Fisher instituted a search for his wife, but without success. He then went to police headquarters and requested aid. When no trace of the missing woman was obtained over night, Mr. Fisher sought the aid of the Boy Scouts in finding his wife dead or alive and this afternoon the scouts are making a search throughout the city and country-side besides covering the water front. With freezing temperature prevailing last night it is believed that if Mrs. Fisher was exposed to the weather she must have died from exposure. Mrs. Fisher is described as being about five feet four inches in height, and weighs 180 pounds. She has black hair and is of dark complexion. When she disappeared she wore a black dress and hat and a tan coat with fur collar. Mrs. Fisher conducted an electrical treatment parlor several years, but discontinued the business about two years ago.

The funeral of Frank L. Hale, former New London photographer who was found dead in his home, Thames street, Groton, Saturday, was held at 11.30 o'clock this morning at 15 Masonic street. The services were conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church. Relatives acted as bearers. The body was placed in the receiving vault in Cedar Grove cemetery to remain until it has been determined where the burial will be.

Mrs. Della F. Brown, 73, widow of John E. Brown, died last night at the dormitory of the Hotel Griswold, Eastern Point and where she had resided for several years.

FRAUD CHECK PASSER ARRESTED AT PITTSFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 21—A fraudulent check passer, who operated recently in New London, is under arrest at Pittsfield, Mass., for carrying on his scheme in that city and when his jail sentence has terminated he will be brought to New London and given a hearing in the police court. The man under arrest is Arthur Bradford, alias Fred Douglass. He was arrested in Pittsfield yesterday and today the New London police were asked for any information that they might possess regarding Bradford. It then came out that he is the man wanted in this city for passing worthless checks on the City Coal company and the Wallower Shoe store. The Pittsfield police were informed of Bradford's fraud in this city and a request was made that he be held for New London. A warrant was sent to Pittsfield this afternoon so that he can be arrested as soon as his prison term is completed. Bradford went to the office of the City Coal company and ordered a ton of coal and for delivery at an address on Franklin street. He presented a check in excess of the amount of the price of the coal and was given the balance, about $40. The Franklin street address was fictitious as was proved when an attempt at delivery was made. When a check was returned from the bank where it was represented Bradford had an account, it was revealed that the fellow was a fraud. Bradford worked the same scheme at the shoe store: he purchased a pair of shoes and tendered a check for about $40 for their payment. He was given the difference between the face amount of the check and the price of the shoes and Bradford departed with the shoes. This check also was returned from the bank. Bradford, while operating in New London used the name of "Fred Douglass." The checks were represented to have been drawn by the Connecticut Sand & Gravel company; there is no such concern in this city. Nothing was heard of Bradford from the time that he passed the fraudulent checks until inquiry was made of the police here today relative to his method of obtaining money by negotiating worthless paper.

Roy Sears of West street, was in the police court today charged with driving an automobile truck with improper markers. He was fined $10 and costs.

Fred King, 8 Starr street, was also charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law, for he was fined $10 and costs for driving an automobile truck without having a license.

Thomas Murphy and George Sheehan were charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. Murphy was fined $10 and costs, but execution of the sentence was suspended, while judgment was suspended in the case of Sheehan. Murphy and Sheehan were arrested at the Kats garage, Jefferson avenue last night where they created such a disturbance that the police were summoned. It was shown that Murphy precipitated the row and that resulted in his being dealt with more severely than was Sheehan.

The only other case presented was that of a cobbler with a long police record, principally for intoxication. He was arrested on North Bank street yesterday afternoon and today he was sent to the workhouse for 30 days, so that he could sober up and be in a condition to earn his livelihood when he is freed.

The funeral of Frank Braun was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. George Clark. The bearers were M. J. Busi, Benjamin Roberts, A. M. Cabral and John Amorel. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Venusta Vezcovi, wife of Joseph Vezcovi, of 65 Pequot avenue, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph' school, the high mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. As a waiting hymn Edward F. Murray sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." The bearers were relatives. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Eugene R. Holmes, 55, died last night at Home Memorial hospital, where he had been a patient but a few days ill with pneumonia. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Walter and Armon Holmes, both of this city. Mr. Holmes was employed by the Thames Towboat company at its plant on the Thames river.

Mrs. Henry Bates, of Norwich; Mrs. F. A. Baker, 712 Montauk avenue; Mrs. Donald Kenyon and infant son, Waterford; Mrs. S. Alvah Welt, 460 Thames street, Groton; William Hand, Mystic and Mrs. Susan Greig, Waterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Complete showay traffic on Bank street is inaugurated. Trolley cars have been re-routed to conform to the new rule. As far as it goes everything is all right. Confusion naturally has followed the enforcement of the new rule. Motorists seem puzzled when ordered away from Bank street when coming east on State. Trolleys going to Ocean beach ran a little behind schedule all day. To enforce the new rule it has been necessary to locate traffic officers at the Bank street corners of Pearl Golden and Tilley streets. Within a few days the police department is confident that everything will be running smoothly.

MOTHER'S FRIENDS TO BURY BODY OF HAVERSHAM BOY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 21—Friends of Mrs. Georgiana Singleton, mother of Frank Haversham, 15, colored youth who was found dead in a freight car of the New Haven railroad at New Haven, Feb. 17, went to police headquarters tonight and made it known that they had started arrangements whereby, it is believed the youth will be provided proper burial. Mrs. Singleton is employed at the Bellevue hotel, Bellaire Heights, Fla., one of the hotels owned by the Biltmore interests, who own the Hotel Griswold at Eastern Point and at which hotel Mrs. Singleton is employed during the summer season. Mrs. Singleton has been notified of her son's death and it is expected that she will make known her wishes regarding the disposition of her son's body. A photograph of the boy was sent to police headquarters this evening by the New Haven police. The boy was found dead in the freight car when it arrived at New Haven after having been loaded with railroad ties, at Norwich the same day that the boy ran away from home. It is believed that he went to Norwich and there entered the car, which was not sealed. When the car left Norwich the weather was cold and it is believed that the youth expired from the cold.

WOMAN DEAD ON BARGE EXPIRED FROM PNEUMONIA

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 21—Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman today performed an autopsy on the body of Rose Woods, the woman who died on the James Williams Company line barge Blue Smoke in the harbor yesterday afternoon without having been provided medical attention after she had been ill aboard the boat a week. The autopsy revealed that the woman died of pneumonia and complications. The master of the boat, Charles Betz, who is being held a prisoner at police headquarters as a witness and who reported the death of the woman, has been unable to provide a surety on his bond and he is still locked up. Medical Examiner Kaufman stated this afternoon, however, that there would not be any criminal charge made against Betz as far as he was concerned and it is not believed that Coroner J. J. Desmond will make such a charge. While it is admitted that Betz was morally bound to provide medical attention for the woman, she died from natural causes and that there is nothing to show any act of criminality on his part. No word has been received from the mother of the woman, Mrs. Thomas Morley, 669 East 156 avenue, Bronx, New York as to her wishes regarding the disposition of the body. The Woods woman was found dead on the barge when Betz returned to the boat after having been ashore about two hours. He immediately reported that fact to the police and after he had related his story he was ordered taken into custody by Medical Examiner Kaufman. All that Betz related was that the woman agreed to accompany him on the trip when the barge arrived at New Haven. She boarded the barge there and according to Betz, was ill. That was about four days before the barge reached this port. That was last Friday and although the woman had been aboard the boat three days after it entered this harbor, Betz did not summon a physician to attend her and she died during the absence of the master of the craft.

Lester Perry was arrested this afternoon by State Policeman Frank Webber, charged with the destruction of private property in Waterford. He was locked up at police headquarters and will be in the Waterford town court Friday afternoon.

Charles Curtiss of Washington, D. C., yard brakeman in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and Miss Charlotte Louret, daughter of Mrs. Florence Louret, of Washington street, were married at 8 o'clock last night at the rectory of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church by Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, P. D. They left for a trip to Miami.

Miss Marjorie E. Whiton of 357 Montauk avenue, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Charlotte Whiton, Hartford.

Daniel O'Hare, 70, of Noank, died yesterday at Home Memorial hospital where he had been a patient but a few days. He is survived by his wife. Mr. O'Hare was employed as a carpenter at the Noank shipyard until his health became such that he was compelled to abandon active labor.

Vissardo Benvenuti, 48 Warren St., a patient at Home Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

HOSPITAL EMPLOYE'S CASH STOLEN FROM DORMITORY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 21—Miss Lillian Roice, employed at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, and residing at the dormitory, 349 Ocean avenue, reported to the police this afternoon that her room had been entered and about $18 stolen. Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh went to the house and from the nature of the break it is evident that some one who was familiar with the movements and habits of the occupants of the dormitory stole the money. Entrance was undoubtedly obtained by the thief using a duplicate key, which is more than probable, because male employes in the hospital kitchen have been provided with keys. Between 11.30 in the forenoon and 1 o'clock in the afternoon there are no occupants in the house and it is presumed it was between these hours that the burglary was committed. The thief gained entrance by the use of the key and going to the room occupied by Miss Roice found it locked. The door was forced and the young woman's pocketbook containing $4 and a bank containing $11 were taken.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Chrysler Car.

Mark Twain, in his "Random Notes of an Idle Excursion," recorded the fact that when he first visited Bermuda there was only one mahogany tree on the islands. He knew there was only one, he said, because he was informed by a trustworthy native who passed it often and had counted it many times.

The genial humorist's informant would find another opportunity to exercise his mathematical talent if he could go to the strange island of Anticosti in the mouth of the St. Lawrence river and count the automobile there. He could count it as often as he wished and his total would never vary. Anticosti is a large country, 140 miles long and 40 miles wide, but it has only one automobile—a Chrysler Sedan.

The Anticosti Chrysler has several distinctions that make it unique among all the products of the automobile industry. It is probably the only car in the world that has its own private filling station. It bears no number plates. It has no driver's license. It is not registered by any government. Operating a car in Anticosti is just like operating it in your own back yard, without ever going out on the public highways.

As Anticosti is cut off from the mainland by ice in the St. Lawrence for months in the year, Manager J. Henri Valquete, of the Anticosti Corporation, who drives the Chrysler, realizes that he must have an absolutely reliable car that is always ready for use. The nearest garage is at Rimouski, 200 miles across the water and beyond reach during much of the year because of ice. The manager's car must be able to go over rough corduroy roads to any point on the island when wanted and come back without a chance of failure. It must deliver the goods every time. Conditions of this kind determined Manager Valquette's choice of a car for Anticosti and he tells visitors he made no mistake in selecting his Chrysler, as its unfailing reliability has abundantly justified its purchase.

Breed Theatre

"A Texas Steer," the famous farce by Charles Hoyt, has at last reached the screen with Will Rogers in the role of the Texas cattleman elected to congress against his wishes.

The photoplay a comedy special produced by Sam E. Rork for First National Pictures, as the outstanding laugh feature of the year, will be shown at the Breed theatre today and Thursday.

The all-star supporting cast for Mr. Rogers is headed by Louise Fazenda as "Ma" Brander, his wife; Boss, the daughter, is Ann Rork; Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is the dude sweetheart and George Marion, Sr., the original Fishback, negro politician, as minister to Dahomey, has the screen characterization. Others in featured roles are Lilyan Tashman, Mack Swain, Lucian Littlefield, William Orlamond, Arthur Hoyt, Buz Jamison.

Richard Wallace, who made "McFadden's Flats" as a comedy triumph for First National, directed "A Texas Steer."

"High School Hero," will be shown today and Thursday as an added feature.

A comedy-drama of American boys and girls that will prove a revelation to parents and a delightful entertainment for all.

Sally Phipps, titian haired beauty and 1927 Wampa star, Nick Stuart, fresh from his triumph in "Cradle Snatchers," Charles Paddock, internationally famous athlete and John Darrow are in the featured roles.

Strand Theatre.

The mystery of a desert murder, the secret of a rich ore strike in a wild Mexican canyon, life below the border, intrigue, action and romance are some of the elements that go to make up the most recent Bob Custer melodrama, "The Dead Line" now showing at the Strand. Action and thrills aplenty, with side-orders of clever comedy situations make this picture exceptionally fine entertainment. A cast that includes such players as Robert McKim, Nita Cavalerl, Gino Corrado and Marianna Moya gives splendid support.

"The Country Beyond" needs no introduction to the public. Almost everyone is familiar with the novel from the pen of James Oliver Curwood, America's noted author. Enough to say that it is a story of Broadway and the northwest, and is acted by an all star cast including Olive Borden, Ralph Graves, Gertrude Astor, J. Farrell McDonald and Fred Kohler. This picture is lavishly presented by Wm. Fox and will afford you an evening of real enjoyment.

"Aesop's Fables" is also being shown.

St. Mary's Players

"Nothing But the Truth." This play, one which had great success on Broadway, is the choice of St. Mary's Players for this year's entertainment. The public is going to enjoy it. Playgoers in this city have to come to expect something worth while from this organization and this year they will not be disappointed. A capable cast is now hard at work on this play. Success in any undertaking depends in a large measure on the time and effort a person puts into it. If St. Mary's Players work hard it is because they like to do justice to the play they present, and because they feel that the public is entitled to something good for their money. So this season you will see a fine play well handled.

Clark Bros. Teaberry Gum.

Because all kinds of people, and not selected groups, are reached through the newspapers, D. L. Clark, president of the Clark Bros. Chewing Gum Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., has decided to go into newspapers to advertise Teaberry Gum, the chewing gum with the flavor of the mountain tea shrub. During the next six months nearly five hundred newspapers in all parts of the country will carry Clark's Teaberry Gum advertising.

Mr. Clark first broke into newspaper publicity when at the age of seventeen he was employed at ten dollars a week by a candy distributor to peddle candy to dealers from Pittsburgh to Beaver Falls. During a winter snow storm his four-horse team, wagon and self slipped over a hill resulting in a bad accident and one-half column of good newspaper copy. Although this was the second time within a year the boy with corduroy suit, seal cap and boots had brought his horses and wagon to the same unhappy fate it was but another twelve months before from his savings and bank credit he had bought out the business which employed him, and in addition started a candy factory. Meantime his salary had gone up to fifteen dollars and he had only his mother and sister to support. This was in 1887 so the candy company was the parent of the Clark Bros. Chewing Gum company, which today operates one of the largest chewing gum factories in the world.

Mr. Clark further believes in a wide distribution of national newspaper advertising. In his Pittsburgh office today he said: "Every one wants fresh news about his own town or city. For that reason all classes are reached through the newspapers. In the smaller the town, the more interested the people are in their home newspapers. I know for I have lived in a small city, McKeesport, Pa. Most people in a town of that size (50,000) buy two newspapers, one from a larger city, but those who buy but one, buy the local paper—and that's the paper you need to advertise in if you want to sell your goods.

"People feel close to their local newspapers. They know the editors and reporters and the things of which they write. And when an advertiser comes into their paper he has joined the home news. He belongs. That's why we've chosen to go into newspaper advertising—to localize a national advertising program."

As president of the Clark Bros. Chewing Gum company, and of the D. L. Clark Candy manufacturers, Mr. Clark gives all his time to the advancement of these two concerns which recently put up a million dollar addition to plants which already covered more than a city block.

Palace Theatre.

An unusually entertaining double feature program will be the attraction at the Palace theatre this afternoon and evening. Donald Keith will be seen in "Bare Knees" while the co-feature "Red Hot Hoofs" will star Tom Tyler and his famous pals.

"Bare Knees" is a story with a moral and one that manages to be convincing and effective without preaching. It gives the modern flapper a fine break and exposes her as a bit of a gem in spite of her saucy setting. Billie, the heroine, steps out to night clubs, wears no stockings and otherwise shocks her small town brother-in-law who holds his modest little wife as shining exemple of womanhood. It remains for Billie to save the sister from discovery when she is on the verge of eloping with her husband's friend. After which the husband, secretly learning the truth, mends his ways and is all for the flapper.

Red Hot Hoofs opens with a whirlwind display of spectacular riding; a group of cowboys vieing with one another in daring feats and breath taking stunts. And the picture finishes with a cyclonic ride to the rescue of the girl and her brother who have been trapped in a remote cabin. The fights come in when a prize fighter decides to train on Tom's ranch and Tom decides that he will try his luck as an opponent to the possible champion.

Wednesday night is gift night and twenty-five dollars in gold and the valuable presents will be given away free.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the photoplay attraction will be "Doomsday" with Florence Vidor and Gary Cooper. The story is taken from Warwick Deeping's story which ran serially in McClure's Magazine and was later published in book form.

Five big acts of selected vaudeville will be the stage attraction.

CHAMBER DIRECTORS RECOMMEND OUTSIDE EXPERTS FOR RE-VALUATIONS

That a large majority of the members of the chamber of commerce favor revaluation by outside experts there can be no doubt, as reports presented to the board of directors at a special meeting Monday evening indicated that over two-thirds of the members have endorsed the action of the directors.

This subject was originally considered by a special committee and later by a larger informal group of public officials and citizens, meeting with the directors. At this latter meeting, the special committee was asked to bring in specific recommendations to the chamber directors which they did at a subsequent meeting.

The directors adopted the committee's recommendations and submitted the whole question to the organization, with the results as indicated above.

A special meeting Monday night was called to consider ways and means. The following report was adopted:

"After considerable investigation and study the Norwich chamber of commerce working through its tax equalization committee and its board of directors, is unanimous in its opinion that in justice to all taxpayers a revaluation ought to be made in accordance with modern methods.

"That the chamber's investigations of modern methods point to the employment of outside expert help, experienced in such work.

"That accurate maps be made of the town's area be completed so that each and every property owner's land may be appraised and the various types of acreage be classified according to statutes.

"That all buildings and taxable structures be measured and the type of construction noted in detail and such various other details observed and made record of as have any practical bearing in arriving at fair market values for taxable purposes. The data thus obtained, both as to land and buildings, including depreciation, obsolescence, location and various other factors, which should be considered in arriving at fair market values, be then assembled, tabulated and systematically recorded on cards for ready reference. These cards are designed to show the type of building and detailed information as to its construction, the size of the lot or type of acreage. This card is a permanent record for the use of the assessors.

"The basic rate per front foot in the residential sections and the basic rate for the different types of acreage are fixed by a committee of local citizens, with the assistance of the disinterested experts employed. Also the assessment of goods and other personal property of mercantile and manufacturing establishments would be supervised and fixed by modern methods employed by disinterested experts.

"The laws of the state require that a revaluation of all taxable property be made every ten years. The last revaluation completed in Norwich was in 1860. In the opinion of the chamber, after carefully studying the situation for some time, the revaluation ought to be started by April 1st and completed by Dec. 31, 1928.

"Therefore, after careful investigation of several companies and propositions, the chamber of commerce recommends the employment of The Manufacturers Appraisal Company of Philadelphia, Pa., to complete this work under definite contract.

"It further recommends that the board of selectmen of the town of Norwich be authorized to enter into a contract with The Manufacturing Appraisal Company of Philadelphia, Pa., to assist the assessors in causing a revaluation of taxable property to be made and that an appropriation of $28,000 be made to carry out the aforesaid recommendations."

Six different propositions were presented for the consideration of the directors by concerns or individuals who were interested in doing the work of valuation for the town of Norwich and it was only after much study and investigation, that the directors decided to recommend the services of the Manufacturers Appraisal Company of Philadelphia, Pa., for the completion of the work.

The bid of the Manufacturers' Appraisal company was $21,000 for the actual work of re-valuation and $7,000 for the completion of the tax maps in the 22 square miles of the town which are at present not mapped. It appears that for this territory an airplane can be used for photographing and mapping and the price quoted by this company includes both the aerial and the ground work. It was considered a much cheaper way of doing the work than by the survey method under which the present maps have been completed for the congested area covering approximately 5 square miles. If the Manufactures' Appraisal company gets the contract by April 1st, it is estimated that the entire work of re-valuation and making the tax maps will be completed by November 1 in time to use for the new grand list. The work of for the next grand list. The work of completing the tax maps alone by the present survey method would require at least two years and the lowest bid received so far amounted to $11,000.

Bids from other companies which were given consideration were from the Technical Advisory corporation of New York, Cambria, Roth and Cambria of Middletown, this state, and Municipal Service company of New Britain. There were also one or two bids from individuals who had qualified for this work.

MAD DOG EXCITEMENT IN POQUONOC BRIDGE

Several persons have been bitten, sheep, ducks and chickens have been killed, and Poquonoc Bridge is in a furore for it is feared that several dogs may have contracted rabies.

The whole trouble is now laid to a dog alleged to have been caught in the act of killing ducks, the property of Warren Chapman of Bailers' Cove. Mr. Chapman shot the animal.

Dr. George Bitgood, veterinarian has been investigating the attacks on persons and the illness of dogs in Poquonoc Bridge, and several of the dogs are now confined for observation.

The mongrel dog shot by Mr. Chapman was buried, but its body has been exhumed, its head cut off and sent to Hartford. It is believed that this dog killed several sheep, the property of John Ackley, and bit other dogs which subsequently attacked persons. Several persons are known to have been bitten, and they have been given a Pasteur treatment. The Groton health authorities were notified and an investigation started from that angle.

According to residents of Poquonoc Bridge there are many dogs, which are believed to be unlicensed, roaming about that place, and an effort is to be made to have them cleaned out. They are said to be a menace to dogs which are licensed and cared for by their owners.

Dr. Frank W. Hewes, medical examiner for Groton, said Monday that the dog shot at Baker's Cove had been found to be rabid when it was tested at Hartford. Dr. Hewes was told that the animal was owned by Antone Joseph of Poquonoc Bridge.

The dog bit Malcolm Irving, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Irving of Poquonoc Bridge. An Irish setter owned by O. K. Phinney of Poquonoc Bridge, was also bitten and it in turn bit Mr. Phinney.

CHARGED WITH SMASHING LOCK ON GAS PUMP

Trial on a charge of damaging property by smashing a lock on a gasoline filling pump, made against George Watrous, 19, of Quaker Hill, was deferred until Friday, in Waterford town court Monday afternoon, and Watrous was taken to the New London county jail, in default of bonds of $200, set by Judge Fred N. Dimmock. Watrous is alleged to have broken locks on gasoline pumps at the Enos and Perry garages in the Quaker Hill section of Waterford. With him at the time was said to be Lester Perry of Waterford, and State Policeman Webber, who arrested Watrous, was given a warrant by Prosecutor J. James Floyd, for the arrest of Perry.

Watrous has admitted breaking the lock on the Enos gasoline pump. He said that he had run out of gasoline while driving his automobile, and that he had unsuccessfully attempted to get gasoline from the pump. The lock on the pump at Brown's garage, near Perry's garage, also was broken, but Watrous denies knowledge of that.

A charge of parking her automobile without lights, on which Miss Margaret Pother of Norwich was arrested last Thursday night was thrown out, when Prosecutor Floyd found no evidence that the lights had been purposely turned off. Miss Pother told the prosecutor that a fuse in the switch had blown.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT OVER INJURY TO EYE

A settlement reported to have been for the plaintiff, Mrs. Annie Patti of New London, in the sum of $400, in her suit against the F. W. Woolworth Co., of New London was effected out of court Tuesday morning.

The case was scheduled to have been heard before Judge Christopher L. Avery and a jury in the superior court in New London.

Mrs. Pratt represented by Attorney Morris Lubchansky, claimed that on Jan. 3, 1927, while shopping in the Woolworth store, an electric light bulb dropped near her, causing a piece of flying glass to enter her eye. She sued for $2,000 damages.

Attorneys Arthur M. Brown and Charles V. James represented the defendant company.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT BROUGHT FOR SLANDER

The $5,000 slander action brought in the superior court by Valentine Podesawa, of New London, against Leon Podbielski, also of that city, has been withdrawn from the docket of the superior court, according to papers filed with Clerk George E. Parsons.

The plaintiff claims that on June 25, 1927, the defendant slandered him and in consequence he had suffered in his reputation and has lost the good will of many persons with whom he had previously associated, and to whom he was known and particularly those with whom he had affiliated in the Polish church in New London.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Benoit who have been recent visitors at the home of the latter's relatives in town have returned to their home in Bristol, Mr. Benoit having been in town to attend the Old Timers frolic and banquet at the Morton house in Niantic Saturday evening.

The preacher at the Sunday morning service of the Taftville Congregational church was Rev. Edward Ayer of Branford. Miss Elizabeth B. Houston was the leader of the meeting of the Young Peoples society of Christian Endeavor held in the vestry of the church in the evening. The topic discussed was "Are the Teachings of Jesus Up to Date?"

It has been announced that the special services for Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent to be observed at the Sacred Heart church will be the distribution of the penitential ashes at 8 a. m. and 7 p. m. The services during the lenten season will include recitation of the rosary on Wednesday evenings and stations of the cross on Friday evenings.

Alexander E. Reeves has returned to his home in Bristol after spending a short time in town this week. Mrs. Reeves visited relatives in Willimantic while Mr. Reeves, a former resident of the village, called on local friends.

One of the enjoyable pre-lenten affairs was the dance given by the Lafayette club at Ponemah hall Saturday evening. There was a good crowd in attendance, and the affair was a financial success.

Shrove Tuesday, the day before the beginning of Lent, was at one time one of the big celebrations of the town. It was customary in the old days, and not so far distant in the past either, to keep open house on Shrove Tuesday (or as it was popularly known Pancake Tuesday) for all who cared to come in for a visit. Great crowds of young people, all masked roamed the streets on this night visiting some twenty or thirty houses in various parts of the town, where they usually ate pancakes with that delicious Vermont maple syrup. In order to conform to the strict regulations of the lenten season, all sweets were supposed to be used up before Ash Wednesday, so that the maskers came in for a good share of these when they made their annual visits. There are not so many maskers roaming the village streets now, but on Tuesday night a great many attended the masquerade and social given by the Cercle Lafayette at Parish hall. The hall was prettily decorated for the event, which was most enjoyable. The proceeds are to be used for the expenses of the Franco-American convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bergeron and family of Bristol have been guests early in the week of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Lambert and family of Providence street.

Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon J. Pepin of Norwich avenue were visitors over the week end in Willimantic, where they were guests of the latter's relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Sullivan have returned from their wedding trip and are making their home on Bolduc lane.

Old Sol and the state highway department soon had the state roads about the village in such shape that automobiles could travel without skid chains.

Miss Antoinette Belanger was surprised Saturday evening when about 30 of her friends met at her home on lower Norwich avenue to celebrate her nineteenth birthday. The affair had been arranged by her friends. Miss Beatrice Bertrand and Miss Diana Gouin. Various games were played and in the donkey game, the ladies' prize went to Miss Blanche Lamoreux and the gentleman's to Fred Bertrand of Arctic, R. I. Music and singing were enjoyed, a violin selection being given by Miss Leona Belanger accompanied on the piano by her sister, Miss Dora Belanger. Other piano selections were played by Miss Loretta Ste. Onge of Norwich and Miss Rita Faucher. There was clog dancing by Nelson Lemieux and a blackbottom and Charleston exhibition by Leo Gagnon of Jewett City.

The house was prettily decorated with red and white and quantities of hearts. Later in the evening lunch was served by Mrs. Delphine Belanger, assisted by her daughters Leona and Dora and Miss Georgianna Dubois. Covers were laid for thirty. The table was prettily decorated in a red and white color scheme, and held in the center a beautiful birthday cake with nineteen candles. There was also a huge rose in the center of the table from which every guest received a valentine.

Miss Belanger was presented a beautiful white gold ring with her birthstone, an amethyst. Those present included Miss Loretta Ste. Onge of Norwich, Miss Grace Snow, Miss Anita Pepin, Miss Georgianna Dubois, Miss Dorina Bertrand, Miss Aldea Faucher, Miss Medora Dubois, Miss Blanche Lamoreaux, Miss Agnes Bertrand, Miss Diana Gouin, Miss Beatrice Bertrand, Miss Leona Belanger, Miss Dora Belanger, Miss Antoinette Belanger, Leo Gagnon, James Stafford and Thomas Barnett of Jewett City, John Silva of Versailles, Emile Raymond, William Paradis, Theodore Benoit, Nelson Lemieux, Albert Dugas, Henry Pion, Leo Caron, Gerard Snow and Fred Bertrand of Arctic, R. I. All departed after midnight happy and smiling and wishing Miss Belanger many happy returns of the day.

Eugene N. Nafie of North A street has returned from Boston, Mass. He visited the Boston Elevated power house at South Boston, the Merrimac Chemical Co., at Everett, and the plant of Bird Bros. Co., at Walpole, Mass., where he inspected pulverizing units.

Miss Doris Palmer who has been at the home of her sister, Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis of North Third avenue, has returned to her home in New Jersey.

Postmaser Edward Adams has announced that the hours for today (Wednesday), Washington's birthday, will be from 7.30 to 8.30 a. m.; 11.30 a. m. to 12 m. and 6 to 6.30 p. m.

Crown Our Washington.

Arise—'Tis the day of our Washington's glory,
The garlands uplift for our liberties won;
Forever let Youth tell the patriot's story,
Whose sword swept for freedom the fields of the sun!
Not with gold, nor with gems,
But with evergreens vernal,
And the banners of stars that the continent span,
Crown, crown we the chief of the heroes eternal,
Who lifted his sword for the birthright of man!

He gave us a nation; to make it immortal
He laid down for freedom the sword that he drew,
And his faith leads us on through the uplifting portal,
Of the glories of peace and our destinies new
Not with gold, nor with gems,
But with evergreens vernal,
And the flags that the nations of liberty span,
Crown, crown him the chief of the heroes eternal,
Who laid down his sword for the birthright of man!

Lead, Face of the Future, serene in thy beauty,
Till o'er the dead heroes the peace star shall gleam,
Till Right shall be Might in the counsels of duty,
And the service of man be life's glory supreme.
Not with gold, nor with gems,
But with evergreens vernal,
And the flags that the nations in brotherhood span,
Crown, crown we the chief of the heroes eternal,
Whose honor was gained by his service to man!

—Hezikiah Butterworth.

The Cranes of Ibycus

There was a man who watched the river flow
Past the huge town, one gray November day.
Round him in narrow high-piled streets at play
The boys made merry as they saw him go,
Murmuring half loud, with eyes upon the stream
The immortal screed he held within his hand,
For he was walking in an April land
With Faust and Helen. Shadowy as a dream
Was the prose world, the river and the town.
Wild joy possessed him; through enchanted skies
He saw the cranes of Ibycus swoop down.
He closed the page, he lifted up his eyes,
Lo, a black line of birds in wavering thread,
Bore him greetings of the deathless dead.

—Emma Lazarus.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Clarence—Dearest, can't you see my heart's on fire?

Annabel—Well, do I look like a fire extinguisher?—Pathfinder.

"Are you a psychoanalyst?" "Yes, but the fact that you consulted me prejudices your case. I am compelled to assume at the outest that you are guilty."—Washington Star.

Artist—My wife here will bear witness that I made that joke up myself.

Editor (politely)—Indeed? Madame carries her years exceedingly lightly.—Montreal Star.

Wife (with her first checking account)—Oh, John, the bank has sent me back all the checks I drew last month, so I haven't spent anything.—Boston Transcript.

"Did you hear the joke about that cinema actress?"

"No, what was it?"

"Her secretary didn't keep the records straight, and now she finds she has had two more divorces than she's had weddings."—Tit-Bits, London.

Wife—You are very late.

Husband—A fellow lost his purse in front of the theatre——

Wife—That is no reason.

Husband—I had my foot on it and had to wait until the crowd had gone.—Pages Gales, Yverdon.

Father (with new car)—Hanged if I can understand what's wrong. It went all right when I drove it down yesterday.

Bobby (remembering how it is with his toys)—Yes, but yesterday it was new, Daddy.—Boston Transcript.

"I feel as if I were going to faint!" gasped a lovely girl.

"Great Scott! Don't faint. I wouldn't know what to do!" cried the fellow in consternation.

"Oh, well," said the girl, disgustedly, "then there's no use fainting."—American Legion Monthly.

HOW CONGRESS OBSERVED WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Partisanship Was Set Aside as Both Branches Paid Tribute to the Father of His Country—Both Houses Listened to the Reading of the Farewell Address of the First President—In the Senate Former President Taft Sat to Pay His Own Tribute to Washington, While in the House Two Indian Chieftans in Full Costume Were Among the Spectators.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP)—The strident clamor of partisanship and conflicting opinion was stilled today as congress stood at pause to commune again down the long, full years with the spirit of the father of his country.

Again it observed Washington's birthday with the custom hallowed by time, listening to the farewell address of the first president that has come to have a meanin gfor Americans scarcely less significant than the declaration of independence or the constiution itself.

A single senate sub-committee, plodding along with hearings on the anti-injunction bill aimed at judicial intervention in labor strikes, was in session during the day. House and senate met separately to hear their selected members con over again the farewell address. That honor fell to the veteran, Burton of Ohio, in the house and to Shipstead of Minnesota in the senate.

And in the senate, another former president, Chief Justice Taft, sat to pay his own tribute to Washington, while in the house the brilliant coloring of the feathered head dresses of two Indian chieftains in full costume made a vivid spot among the handful of spectators.

That was the day in congress, but beyond this mid-week break in the march of legislative events lies a pathway strewn with obstacles and political embarrassments that will call into play every capacity of leadership to steer a course to the summer recess for the national conventions. Hardly a beginning has been made on the controversial subjects crowding for attention.

The house is well through its appropriation job. Only the navy and agricultural bills of the departmental supply measures remain to be brought in for action. Those already passed went through with no more than a spat now and then on a minor issue.

But still to come in both the house and senate is the battle over farm relief, flood control, tax reduction, the naval building program and Muscle Shoals as well as a number of other controversial subjects.

And in each with its contemplated vast outlay of public money and almost incalculable influence, direct and indirect, on fortunes and happiness of millions of Americans, lies a possible element of the issues to be fought out at the party conventions and later, in November, at the polls.

So congress halted this year to harken again to the wisdom of Washington; to marvel again at the depth of vision and understanding that gave his words today as much meaning and force in meeting the problems of today as they had bearing on the problems of the day in which they were uttered, and to realize anew the task it will face in the months just ahead.

DEFENSE STATEMENTS BY SINCLAIR AND ASSOCIATES

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate and his co-defendants, W. Sherman Burns and H. Mason Day, convicted of contempt of court in connection with the Teapot Dome oil scandal, today issued statements defending their right to shadow jurymen.

They based their right on the assertion that it had long been the practice of the government to shadow juries.

"It is apparent," Sinclair said in his statement, "that it is lawful for the government to use its great secret service in shadowing juries, but unlawful for the citizen to exercise the same right. Heretofore no court has held the mere act of jury shadowing to be unlawful. It is conceded that no statute forbids it, and the repeated practice both by the government and by defendants in courts all over the United States has given it the sanction of usage.

"It is impossible for me to understand why I should be held guilty of contempt, when neither I nor anyone acting for me came in contact with a single juror or did any act that produced upon the mind of a single juror the knowledge that he or she was being shadowed. Under these circumstances how could a juror be impeded in his functions as a juror? x x x I shall appeal at once from this decision."

Asking that the public suspend judgment until the upper court has had an opportunity to pass on the legality of their acts, W. Sherman Burns said in his statement:

"As for myself, I admitted shadowing the jury three months ago. I believe I had a right to do so and I still so believe. I have had the illustrious example of my government before me in that respect. The government has been shadowing juries for over 30 years that I know of."

In his statement H. Mason Day said: "Justice Siddons has decided that the mere shadowing of a jury for the purpose of being assured that they were not influenced by unlawful contact with others in contempt of court and condemns us for this and nothing more. I did only what I knew the department of justice and the United States attorneys throughout the United States had been doing for 50 years."

SURE $40,000 JEWEL THEFT WAS "AN INSIDE JOB"

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Jewels worth about $40,000 were missing today from the Park avenue home of Jonathan Bulkeley, a paper broker, and police were convinced that the theft was an "inside job."

Investigation developed that the jewels disappeared between three o'clock and 4.30 yesterday afternoon from a second floor wall safe the combination of which was known only to members of the family and one maid, Ida Kaemfer.

At three o'clock Miss Kaemfer, who police said was beyond suspicion, replaced some jewels Mrs. Bulkeley had been wearing in the safe and locked it. At half past four she went to the safe to get jewels for her mistress to wear at dinner. She found the safe unlocked and all its contents gone.

Police said that at the time the theft was discovered all the seven Bulkeley servants were in the house, as were two electricians and other mechanics doing repair work. They said that there were no signs of entry to the house having been forced, that the windows were protected by iron bars, and that therefore, they were convinced that the theft was an "inside job."

The stolen jewels included a chain of 97 diamonds valued at $26,000, a lavaliere, several diamond and emerald rings, and jewelled ear rings.

BLAZING CROSSES ON HILLS OVERLOOKING ROCKVILLE

ROCKVILLE, Feb. 22—(AP)—Opening of the three-day bazaar of the First African Baptist church here tonight, was made more colorful by the sight of three blazing crosses which burned on the three hills which overlook the whole city. Police investigation failed to disclose whether the fiery crosses were the work of a practical joker or of agents of the Ku Klux Klan, which has been active in this section in the past.

DEATH OF MAX HART OF HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX

CHICAGO, Feb. 22—(AP)—Max Hart, one of the pioneer clothing merchants of America and one of the founders of Hart, Schaffnr & Marx Clothing company, died suddenly at his home today. He was 75 years old.

Mr. Hart contracted a severe cold ten days ago which developed into pneumonia. Death came at his apartment on the South side.

Coming to Chicago in 1871, Hart and his brother started a small clothing store which grew to large proportions. At his death he was vice-president of the Hart, Schaffner & Marx organization and was active in the firm's business up to the time he was taken ill.

Hart rose from a penniless immigrant boy to founder and vice-president of one of the world's largest wholesale clothing firms.

Accompanied by his parents, Hart came to America from Germany when five years old. After a brief education, he obtained work as an errand boy in one of Chicago's leading department stores. When 19, he and his brother, Harry, with whom he has been associated in business since, started a small retail clothing store. Out of this grew the Hart, Schaffner Marx company, which was organized in 1879.

CONN. POSTMASTERS IN SESSION IN WATERBURY

WATERBURY, Feb. 22—(AP)—Fifty members of the Connecticut Association of Postmasters met here today in their annual meeting, when they elected H. E. Irwin, of New Britain, president; passed resolutions, listened to C. A. Nolan, of Boston, an official of the New England civil service commission, and decided upon the second Tuesday of April, 1929, as the next annual meeting date.

The postmasters went on record as endorsing the salary bill before congress and hope that increases will be extended to postmasters of the third and fourth class offices.

A resolution presented by Postmaster Cowles, of Kensington, urges that the classification of "village carriers" be changed to "city carriers," and that such action be urged upon the postmaster-general.

In his resolution, Mr. Cowles pointed out that village carriers are receiving $500 less than the city carriers for the same work and the same number of hours. The resolution was adopted.

COMPLETED AN AIR VOYAGE FROM ENGLAND TO AUSTRALIA

PORT DARWIN, Australia, Feb. 22—(AP)—Bert Hinkler, a native of Australia, who has just completed a wonderful air voyage from England to this place alone, is the hero of the hour.

"I feel as I imagine Lindbergh felt when he landed in France," said the aviator today.

Hinkler began his flight from Croydon, February 7 and landed at his various destinations along the way always on time. He had no engine trouble.

Congratulations have poured into Port Darwin from various parts of the world. He was the guest of honor at a dinner of the citizens tonight, and blushingly remarked that he did not deserve it when informed that the Naval and Military club of Melbourne had started a movement with the object of having the commonwealth government make him a grant of 10,000 pounds.

TRAFFIC SEMAPHORE WITH "EARS" A SUCCESS

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22—(AP)—A traffic semaphore with "ears" was pronounced a success by Inspector George R. Lurz, head of the city's traffic police, after a test in actual traffic today.

Installed at the corner of Falls road and Belvedere avenue, the signal in normal position shows a green light to traffic on Falls road, a through highway. A motorist wishing to cross the main highway, stops at a line in the road ten feet from the intersection, and sounds his horn. Microphones tuned to pick up the sound from this spot reverse the signal for 18 seconds, to allow him to pass.

The purpose is to avoid the delays caused by automatic lights at times when there is no traffic on a cross street. The new signal was invented by Charles Adler, Jr., a Baltimore electrical engineer.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT TO CURTAIL ACTIVITIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 22—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is rapidly recovering from the attack of infantile paralysis with which he was stricken some years ago, announced today that from now on he would devote a large part of his time to his duties as a general vice-president of the Fidelity & Deposit and American Bonding companies of Maryland.

In order to give his time to the affairs of the bonding companies, Mr. Roosevelt announced his resignation as a director of the International Germanic Trust company and the International Germanic company, which will be followed by his withdrawal from a number of enterprises with which he has been associated, in the near future. He will, however, retain his active partnership in the law firm of Roosevelt & O'Connor.

CONCLUDE INQUIRY INTO STRIKE INJUNCTION CASE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP)—Some temperate but positive criticism of Robert C. Baltzell, federal judge in Indiana, was voiced today by members of a senate judiciary sub-committee as they brought to a close an inquiry into the Indianapolis street railway strike injunction case.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, republican independent and chairman of the committee, declared that on the case as it was made today by W. H. Latta, counsel for the Indianapolis Street Railway company, he did not believe Judge Baltzell should have issued the injunction restraining two union organizers from advising the street railway employes to strike.

"He enjoined these men (John M. Parker and A. B. Armstrong) from advising the strikers to do what they had a legal right to do," Senator Norris said.

Lindbergh [illegible] Detroit On [illegible]ret Mission

The Colonel Has Refussed to Discuss the Purpose of His Flight From St. Louis.

DETROIT, Feb. 22. — (AP) — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh who left St. Louis in an airplane this morning accompanied by four friends for an unannounced destination, landed at Selfridge field near here at 3.55 p. m., shortly before Major Thomas G. Lanphier, commander of the army first pursuit group arrived from Buffalo, N. Y.

Col. Lindbergh made a landing at the far eastern end of the flying field where he was frisked away to the field headquarters in a waiting automobile. He declined later to state the purpose of his visit here, stating that "my visit is a personal Ione, want to drop out of public life for a while."

Accompanying Col. Lindbergh were Harold M. Bixby, president of the St. Louis chamber of commerce; William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Robertson Aircraft corporation; Harry H. Knight, president of the St. Louis Flying club and B. F. Mahoney, president of the Ryan Air Lines, Inc., makers of the famous Spirit of St. Louis.

It was unofficially reported that arrangements had been made for a conference with Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company upon aviation matters.

Col. Lindbergh's maneuver in landing at the far end of the field outwitted newspaper men and photographers who awaited his possible arrival. When the newspaper men located the famous flyer he was insistent that they not discuss his presence here and also declared he did not wish to state his future plans.

However, he is scheduled to fly to Albany, N. Y., Feb. 29 to address the state legislature on aviation matters.

Major Lanphier and his guests, after luncheon, went into a closed conference, which lasted several hours, but nothing was given out regarding the discussion.

Later Major Lanphier told The Associated Press that Lindbergh's visit was more or less of a social nature.

The major labelled as "erroneous" a report that he and Lindbergh contemplated operation of an aeronautical school.

ELECTION IN JAPAN SHOWS NARROW MARGIN FOR GOV'T.

TOKYO, Feb. 23—(Thursday)—(AP)—Election returns from all of Japan, complete with the exception of one prefecture, showed today that the first operation of the universal manhood suffrage law had given the seiyukai, or government party, a narrow margin of ten seats in the diet over its chief opposition, the minseito.

The balancee of power rests with neither of the two leading parties, however, but with the 15 independents and eight proletarians who won seats. These would constitute a bloc in the diet capable of swinging the power to either party.

RADIO USED IN TESTING OF MANUFACTURED PAPER

NEW YORK, Feb. 22—(AP)—One of the latest uses for radio is the testing of manufactured paper, it was disclosed at the annual paper and pulp convention today.

A radio apparatus on paper machines, W. D. Somerville of Bangor, Me., explained, is used in his mills to test both weight and amount of moisture in the paper.

The instrument was evolved from an accidental discovery made by a radio fan who, in using paper to throw his set out of tune, learned that the thickness of paper and the amount of moisture had varying effects on his dial.

Edict Issued by the Klan Imperial Wizard

Orders All Klansmen to Discard Masks and Become Knights of the Great Forest.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP)—Official announcement was made tonight that the Ku Klux Klan had discarded the mask as a part of its official regalia.

In a copyrighted statement issued at the organization's headquarters here, it was asserted that "in every klavern throughout the nation" Klansmen tonight "foreswore the mask and made it clear that the order has no political ambitions for itself or for its members." At the same time, the statement said that tonight's action was in preparation for "new and larger activities in our national life."

The statement quoted an edict from Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans, as follows: "That on and after midnight of February twenty second, year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, no mask or visor shall be upon the helmet of the regalia of any Klansman; it shall thereafter be unlawful for any Klansman to wear any mask or visor as part of his regalia and each Klansman who shall be unavoidably absent from the meeting of a Klan to be held throughout the invisible empire on the twenty second day of February, shall as soon thereafter as possible, attend a regular meeting of a Klan, and there become a member of the Knights of the Great Forest, that on and after the said date all Klansmen are forbidden to fraternize with, or remain in Klanish fidelity to, any who shall thereafter wear upon his helmet a mask or visor."

No further explanation of the Knights of the Great Forest was given.

MAYOR WALKER, NEW YORK, BARELY MADE HIS TRAIN

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 22—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, fatigued but still enthusiastic, barely made his train for the train trip to the metropolis late today by demonstrating to native Orleanians how badly their traffic laws can be violated.

The dash to his hotel for a hurried assembly of his extensive wardrobe and then to the railroad station was made in a driving rain. It was occasioned by a late start for the city from the Pontchartrain bridge where the mayor indulged further in the city's hospitality.

The 25-mile drive into the city was made in fast time with traffic cops waving his automobile on, even though it was reversing traffic on one-way streets.

THREE MORE ADDED AO LIST OF MISSING AIRMEN

OTTAWA, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Government officials were of the opinion today that three more names had been added to that long list of daring birdmen who have flown off into space, never to be seen again.

Though search continued, little hope was felt that Flying Officer Lewis, Flight Sgt. Terry, and the native who left the air base at Port Burwell in the Hudson Straits five days ago, could still be alive.

The last communication from the flying trio was last Friday, the same day when they flew away. They reported by wireless that they were lost in the air and were trying to make a landing. After that, silence.

Dr. Josiah H. Penniman, provost of the university, conferred the degrees. There was applause when the provost said to Mr. Mellon "You have come to be regarded as one of the soundest thinkers and greatest geniuses of our country in the construction and administration of financial policies for the nation."

COOLIDGE ATTENDED WASHINGTON CELEBRATION AT ALEXANDRIA, VA.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 22—(AP)—In the historic Virginia city where George Washington attended church, President Coolidge participated in a celebration today commemorating the birth of the father of the country.

Surrounded by officials of Virginia's government and many others from Washington, the president stood for more than an hour in historic Carlyle house shaking hands with the throng that packed into Alexandria and then reviewed a long parade of military and patriotic units.

A salute of 21 guns greeted Mr. Coolidge when he landed at the Alexandria naval torpedo station from the presidential yacht Mayflower and a considerable crowd waved to him as he ceeded along the elm lined streets where Washington once trod, on his way to Carlyle house. There fully 3,000 persons jammed around the entrance to the building and caused a monetary confusion while local officials decided who was to get in first to shake the president's hand.

Some harsh words passed between the waiting dignitaries and the official guarding the door and one member of congress, who was barred while a group which called itself Governor Byrd's aides passed in, demanded to know "if house members are going to get in or be insulted." A number of Mr. Coolidge's immediate party were in the jam, including C. Bascomb Slemp, formerly the president's private secretary and himself a Virginian, who was obliged to identify himself before he was admitted.

At the height of the confusion, Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, rushed to the doorway and used his influence in making peace.

Meanwhile Mr. Coolidge stood with Governor Byrd of Virginia and Mrs. Byrd in a hall historic for its associations with Revolutionary times, welcoming those in the halting line. Ultimately members of the national house of representatives and the Virginia state legislature were admitted and were followed by a steady stream of Virginia citizens.

The president was forced to abandon hand shaking after 1,300 had filed by in order to be at the reviewing stand in time for the parade. There he watched units of the army and navy from Washington, marines from Quantico and the state militia march by.

When the parade was nearly over, he returned to the Mayflower for the trip back to Washington, less than ten miles up the Potomac.

Accompanying Mr. Coolidge were Senator Swanson, Representative Moore and former Representative Carlin, all of Virginia, Mr. Slemp and Everett Sanders, the president's secretary. Senator Glass of Virginia was unable to go because of a slight foot infection and Mrs. Coolidge had decided to remain at the white house for fear her cold would be aggravated by the trip. Attorney General Sargent met the president at Alexandria and returned to Washington with him on the Mayflower.

The celebration today was a forerunner of the gigantic country-wide observance of Washington's 200th anniversary to be held in 1932 under government auspices.

A year ago the president opened plans for this celebration with a speech before congress.

NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER WARNS REPUBLICAN PARTY

Asserts That Signs Indicate That the Democrats Will Nominate Either Gov. Smith or Gov. Ritchie and Cautions That Republicans Must Not Underestimate Their Strength—Does Not Believe the Democrats Unaided Can Elect the Next President, But Republican Blundering Might Easily Put It Within Their Power to Do So—Advises an Open and Declared Policy on the Prohibition Question—Mr. Butler Stated That He Personally Was For the Repeal of the 18th Amendment.

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 22—(AP)—President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia university, in an address tonight before the Hudson county republican committee, said he did not believe the democrats, unaided, could elect the next president, but he warned that "republican blundering might easily put it within their power to do so."

Asserting that signs indicate that the democrats will nominate either Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York or Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, and that "we must not under-estimate" their strength, he said the republicans must name a candidate who can keep New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts in the republican ranks.

Dr. Butler, who has long been prominent in the councils of the republican party, said:

"Signs multiply that at Houston the democrats will nominate either Governor Smith or Governor Ritchie. We must not make the mistake of underestimating the strength of either man. It would be as useless as unbecoming to meet either by personal attack.

"The only way to defeat such strong candidates is by insisting on the record of the democrat party, its incompetence and lack of principle, as constantly manifested in both houses of congress and on the stump, and its array of McAdoos and Heflins and Upshaws.

"We must maintain and strengthen the record of the republican party as the friend and supporter of every just business enterprise, as the protector of labor as well as of capital, and as ready mercilessly to expose and punish corruption and incompetence in public office whether at Washington or elsewhere.

"I do not believe the democrats unaided can elect the next president, but republican blundering might easily put it within their power to do so. We must name a candidate who, whether heretofore publicly discussed or not, will keep the states of New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts in the republican column next November."

Despite the overwhelming majorities of 1920 and 1924, Dr. Butler said, the best opinion is that the November election will be very hotly contested and the result "may be very close."

"My own judgment," he said, "has been and is that the usual party alignments in the south and in the west will not be materially altered by the voting next November, but that the pivotal states will be New York and New Jersey. They are almost certain to be followed by Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Delaware and Maryland."

"The voters in these states," he continued, "will not be particularly influenced by the formal, unctuous and pussy-footing declarations of party platforms. They will much more likely ask what sort of man is your candidate and where does he stand on the things we are interested in, namely, the prohibition problem, the protection of the peace of the world, the relief on sound economic grounds of the agricultural situation, the protection of dwellers in the lower Mississippi valley against the destructive floods . . . and finally, support of those policies identified with the name of President Coolidge, of economy in the conduct of the public business and of resistance to build up a huge and highly centralized governmental bureaucracy in Washington." He added that "the political manager who does not hear and see all this is deaf and blind indeed."

Discussing the prohibition question, Dr. Butler, who is known for his liberal views on the subject, said: "No matter what may be the action or inaction of the platform makers, many millions of voters are going to make their choice between the two candidates, according as those candidates have an open and declared policy on this question." He reiterated that he personally was for repeal of the 18th amendment.

REED ADDRESSED DEM. RALLY IN TOPEKA, KAS.

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 22 (AP)—Democratic leaders who insist upon platform planks on which the party is divided were bitterly assailed tonight by Senator Reed, of Missouri, before a state-wide rally of democrats.

Without mentioning names or the issues to which he referred, the militant Missourian declared that "the man who seeks to divide the party—to force into the platform issues upon which there is great division—is the best assistant the republican party can have."

He said "the efforts to coddle and attract all sorts, classes and opinions have alienated the votes of thousands who would willingly give loyal adherence to the great principles for which we stand."

Since opening his western campaign, Senator Reed has said for the platform that he believed the party has "bigger fish to fry than prohibition," and again tonight he declared the issue, in his opinion, was "purging of the public business; the cleansing of the departments; the expulsion of the sinister lobby and the restoration of honesty and decency at the capitol."

"BURLAP WAR" BETWEEN BRITONS AND AMERICANS

NEW YORK, Feb. 22—(AP)—Racing from the far east with cargoes of jute and burlap, the freighters of the Roosevelt Steamship Co., of which Kermit Roosevelt is the head, are engaged with the British vessels in a "burlap war" between British and American interests, Basil Harris, vice president of the company, disclosed today.

Americans have been negotiating for several months, he said, for a share of the $120,000,000 burlap business controlled by Germany before the war but which since then has been largely in the hands of British companies. The Roosevelt company, operating ten shipping board vessels, obtained a share of the trade by cutting shipping rates to Brooklyn but the reduction was met by the British lines, he said, winning the race to America, he explained, means a difference of $20,000 profit per cargo to owners.

OFFICIAL OF LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS UNDER ARREST

WAYCROSS, Ga., Feb. 22—(AP)—R. E. Edrington, assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, was arrested here today on a charge of violating a temporary court order restraining him from expelling local members of the organization.

The restraining order was issued several weeks ago when Edrington came here from Cleveland in connection with the formation of a "protective committee" by the local, which brought charges against national officers of the brotherhood in a circular letter to members.

In applying for the order, local officers charged that Edrington had come here to expel members of the local and revoke its charter. An application to make the order permanent now is under consideration by Superior Judge J. D. Blalock, who held a hearing on it last week.

The warrant for Edrington's arrest charged contempt of court and was sworn out, it was alleged, after he had expelled four members of the local in violation of the order.

Edrington was released on his own recognizance to appear before Judge Blalock tomorrow to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt.

BERLIN ENTERTAINING KING OF AFGHANISTAN

BERLIN, Feb. 22—(AP)—The people of Berlin had their first experience since the revolution in entertaining real royalty today when Amanullah Khan, king of Afghanistan, exchanged courtesies with President von Hindenburg. The president towered over the small statured Afghan ruler when he welcomed him this morning at the Lehrter station as the guest of the German republican government.

Eager crowds thronged the route to the Prince Albrecht palace, which had been set aside as the temporary residence of the king and his party. There was a noticeably large contingent of mothers, who brought children too young to remember the pomp loving time of the German emperor, to see what a real king looked like. The colored gold braided uniforms of the Afghans drew many exclamations of admiration, and the queen's beauty came in for a good share of the popular interest.

While the queen rested after her journey, Amanullah Khan took tea with President von Hindenburg at the executive mansion, where tonight a great banquet was held.

Fifteen gorgeous automobiles have been placed at the disposal of the visitors by the government.

QUICK TRIP BY WILLIAM B. LEEDS TO MEET HIS WIFE

NEW YORK, Feb. 22—(AP)—The seven league boots of modern transportation enabled William B. Leeds, to meet his wife, the former Princess Xenia, at quarantine today although he was in San Francisco the day before yesterday.

The quick crossing of the continent was done by chartering a plane from the west coast to Chicago, transferring to a fast train there, and chartering a tug at the battery.

Because her husband met her at quarantine and took her aboard the tug Mrs. Leeds was spared questioning by reporters about the reputed Grand Duchess Anastasia who recently arrived from Germany and who is said to be recognized as the daughter of the late czar by the former princess.

Mrs. Leeds was returning from Bermuda on the liner California.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO ADVOCATE NEW STATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 23—A long felt need for civic improvement that has been nursed in the minds of public spirited men of the city for many years has cropped out into proposed action as the result of the partial gutting of the passenger station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad here early this morning. The cherished desire has been for a new railroad station and it is now indicated that measures will be taken, possibly through the chamber of commerce and the service clubs, to bring thisdemand before the railroad officials. Immediate response is not expected as the damaged station is already being repaired and will continue in use but it is hoped that if the demand is kept alive it will ultimately result in action. A verbal petition has already been filed by the chamber of commerce through Secretary Earl J. Arnold with Superintendent Mitchell of the railroad company and it is expected that a committee will be appointed to further the project.

(Special to The Bulletin)

The sale involves a mill 140 by 40 feet, two and one-half stories in height and machinery for the production of silk throwing and twist. The sale of the plant brings to a end its ownership for over half a century by the Washburn family. It has been operated for the past 20 years under the firm name of A. C. Washburn & Sons, Inc. Mr. Bagley has been affiliated with the silk manufacturing business for 35 years and has been associated with the Sterling Silk company of New York. The plant at South Coventry is to be known in the future as the Coventry Silk company.

Miss Elizabeth Nickerson, director of the bureau of public health instruction, a subsidiary of the state department of health, delivered an instructive address on Nutrition at a luncheon meeting of the Social Workers' council of New London and Windham counties held at the Mary Anne Tea Room, here Tuesday.

The damage caused by the fire that wrecked the central portion of the passenger station of the New Haven railroad late Tuesday night and early this morning, was estimated today to be in excess of $7,500. The railroad places its loss at about $5,000 while S. C. Johnson, general foreman for the Western Union Telegraph company said this morning that the damage for his company would amount to about $2,500. The latter company recently installed new equipment at the railroad station office and a new underground cable. The belief expressed at the time of the fire that it had originated from a crossing of a high tension wire with a telegraph wire, causing a general "blow out" of the board in the telegraph office because of the increased load of electricity, was virtually re-affirmed today. The sale of railroad tickets was transferred to the Railroad street office of the New England Transportation company. Repairs on the wiring were started after the firemen had withdrawn their hose early this morning and carpenters were on the scene during the day. It is planned to reopen the ticket office within a few days. The cupola in the central portion of the building will not be rebuilt, it being stated that the new roof will be practically on a level with the major portion of the station.

MISS ARMSTRONG WRITES OF CHRISTMAS IN CHINA

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 22—Another interesting letter from Miss Susan Armstrong of Griswold, a mission teacher in Foochow, China, tells of celebrating Christmas and New Year's days. They had a tree and a new kind of picture machine, with a talk by one of the teachers. Twenty-six women and 45 children came to see the tree. There were gifts for everyone. The women had little needlebooks with needles. Miss Armstrong had brought a few gifts from America and there were celluloid parrots with whistles besides. A tangerine, a few candies and raisins, all wrapped in red paper, were given to each child. Sunday morning, they were awakened about 3 o'clock by the nurses singing Christmas carols. A communion service was held, and in the evening, a special service for the servants of the compound, the boys of the school having charge. One of them told the story of Dickens' Christmas Carol. On Monday, the church had its Christmas for the children, and the place was filled with children. The mission had its tree, and they all drew names and provided a gift for a grown-up and a child. Bulbs were Miss Armstrong's gift. New Year's day there was a short prayer meeting, and then some games. January 3, they had commencement exercises. The juniors decorated the hall in great style. There were festoons of banyan tree twigs and bright paper ropes all around. A white cotton stork stuck on the wall under a branch of a real pine tree, and a brown deer with ferns growing at its feet were a part of the decorations. She said they were very gay, in spite of some doubt as to being able to open the school next year. With a comparatively small enrollment, the tuitions do not cover expenses, as they have before. The number of teachers must be reduced very considerably. They were also gay in spite of the fact that the night before another school building was burned at the Anglican school—their main building, and since then there has been a second building burned. Saturday, two former students were shot for sending "black hand" letters. Soldiers from the navy have been on guard on account of brigands, but most of them have gone now.

A Discussion in the Old Orchard

Discussion ne'er should be forbidden;
It often brings out facts long hidden.
—Old Mother Nature.

The breakfast hour in the Old Orchard being over, there was a lot of gossiping among the feathered folk, and this soon became a discussion. It all came about through the sudden fright Roughleg the Hawk had given the feathered folk. Speckles the Starling started it. "That was a narrow escape we had," said Speckles.

"Escape nothing!" exclaimed Tommy Tit the Chickadee. "What do you think you escaped from?"

"Why, from that big hawk, of course, stupid!" replied Speckles.

"I'm not stupid and we didn't escape from that big hawk. He wasn't looking for us" retorted Tommy Tit.

"Then what did you hide in that house for?" demanded Yank Yank the Nuthatch.

"Because I didn't know it was Roughleg," retorted Tommy promptly. "My mother taught me to hide first and investigate later. The one who stops to investigate first may never have a chance to hide."

"That's so," replied Sammy Jay, nodding his head sagely. "That's a very good rule. I am inclined to obey that rule myself. And I guess Tommy Tit is right about Roughleg. There are hawks and hawks. I don't like any of the family because of what some of the family do. But Roughleg is what I call a good hawk. He has never bothered me. I wouldn't want to sit down in front of him when he was hungry and there were no mice to be had, but just the same I have nothing against Roughleg."

"I have," squeaked a small voice. The birds all turned to see Whitefoot the Wood Mouse peeping out of a little house in which he was making his home in the Old Orchard. "There isn't any such thing as a good hawk."

Sammy Jay chuckled. "I guess that's right from your point of view, Whitefoot," said he. "I don't suppose there is a mouse who can see anything good in any member of the Hawk family or of the Owl family. But, so far as I'm concerned, there are only two or three hawks that I am afraid of. I don't know any good of Terror the Goshawk and I don't want to be around when Killer the Duck Haw comes along. I keep out of sight when that other bird hunter, Cooper's Hawk, is about. And I don't take any chances with Sharpskin. But as for the rest of the Hawk family, they are pretty good folk if you ask me."

Whitefoot shook his head violently. He shook his head so violently that Tommy Tit laughed aloud. "I'm glad I'm not a mouse," said Tommy. "Dee, dee, dee, I'm glad I'm not a mouse! I agree with Sammy Jay about the Hawk family. Of course, I don't take any chances with two or three of the smaller hawks, because once in a while they do like a dinner of small birds. But, getting back to Roughleg, I am really glad to see him. Have you ever noticed how his legs are feathered all the way down? They tell me he lives up North. I notice that armer Brown's Boy never bothers him. In fact, Farmer Brown's Boy acts as if he likes to have Roughleg about. Well, I may be little but I'm glad I'm not a hawk."

"Why?" demanded Dotty the Tree Sparrow.

"Because," replied Tommy Tit sagely. "I wouldn't want to be so misjudged. It's queer how anything bad about some folks is always believed and everything good is disbelieved. I think it is that way with most of the Hawk family and most of the Owl family. They do a lot of good in the world, yet very few believe it. No, I don't want to be a hawk and I don't want to be an owl."

DANIELSON

DANIELSON ICEMEN HURRY TO HARVEST ICE CROP

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 22—Crews of men working at top sped were engaged today in garnering Danielson's ice supply. Cutting was going on at Quinebaug lake and also at Alexander's lake, where A. A. Chase and Sons were at work stacking ice out of doors. This ice is for use in Danielson and other communities of the town served by this concern. The ice being cut at Alexander's lake was reported between 9 and 10 inches thick and of very good quality. The Chase concern had not started to cut today at the Hygeia reservoir near East Killingly, where their main supply is obtained each winter. It was understood that cutting will begin there as soon as the ice is a little heavier. During last night cutting had to be called off at Alexander's lake on account of the bitter cold.

When cutting began at Quinebaug lake today the ice varied from 7 to 7 1-2 inches in thickness. This lake is supplied almost exclusively by springs and ice is slow in forming on it.

The hundreds of tons of ice taken out by local concerns today and during last night while not near enough to last Danielson until another winter is a good start in that direction. The plans today were to rush the harvesting at top speed and to keep at it until a break in the weather forces a stop.

Extreme cold weather that set in Sunday and continued up to this morning, when the mercury dropped to zero, and at some places hereabouts a degree or two below that point, has made it possible to start a work unavoidably delayed so long. There will be no ice shortage for farmers, especially dairymen, who put up their own ice each winter. Small ponds have supplied 10 to 12 inch ice and in ample quantity to meet all needs.

The opening of Lent today found hundreds of the people of Danielson attending church and, in a great many instances, starting programs of self denial that will continue until Easter.

At St. James' church this morning there was the usual Ash Wednesday services, each of the three different masses being attended by capacity congregations. Many received communion and all went to the altar rail for the distribution of the penitential ashes, the priests marking the forehead of each person with the ashes in the sign of the cross. The ashes were from palms blessed at the Palm Sunday services of last year. This evening there was another large congregation at the service at this church.

This afternoon funeral services for Mrs. Lillian R. Swan were conducted at her home in North Sterling by Rev. George Chambers, pastor of the church at that place. Numbers of relatives and friends, including a delegation from McGregor, W. R. C., of Danielson were in attendance. Burial was in the Line Store cemetery. The bearers were all relatives of Mrs. Swan's—Herbert Smith of Putnam, Fred Smith of Malden, Mass., Henry Pray of Ballouville and Fred Swan of Wauregan. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

On Brown's hill in the town of Hampton last night a Dodge coupe owned and operated by Leonard Klemer of Wayland Manor, Providence, caught fire and was destroyed. Mr. Klemer was accompanied at the time by Russell Murphy of 531 Academy avenue, Providence. The men were returning from Willimantic to their home when the car broke into flame. They had no means of extinguishing the fire, which raged until the car was ruined. It is believed that a short circuit or some such electrical difficult caused the fire. The matter was checked up by an officer from the Danielson state police barracks.

At Monday's whist, held in the town hall and sponsored by the parishioners of St. James' church, Miss C. Cote won first honors in the Ladies' division, Miss A. Bissonnette second, Mrs. E. Berthiaume third, and Miss A. Egan fourth. In the gentlemen's division, C. Withey won first honors, A. Pelletier second, C. Mailhoux third, and A. Dumaine. Two gold pieces were awarded to Miss M. Duggan and A. Redman respectively. Four five dollar gold pieces were respectively given to Helene E. Cohn, by Mrs. J. Beausoleil, by Miss Lillian Brown, by C. Briere. The bed-puff was won by E. Perreault, the silk umbrella by Rev. I. Kost the hand-painted picture by Adrienne Chartier and the bridge lamp by W. Bitgood. Other awards went to R. L. Brouillard, A. Goulet, C. Nadeau, R. Boulaine, Mrs. D. Page, Mr. D. Page, C. Briere, J. Lowry, Mrs. J. Walsh, Mrsfl O. Bernier and Mr. A. Hercux. The committee presided over by Mrs. F. Sweet had as members Mrs. N. Millord, Miss L. Marchand, Miss Rosa Savoie, Mrs. W. Perreault, Miss B and I. McGorty, Miss M. Higgins, Miss L. Brown and Miss E. Dumaine.

It is regarded here as rather a surprising thing that so comparatively few textile operatives from other sections of New England have sought work in plants in this part of the state during the present winter, though one hears of much unemployment in various parts of New England. Of course, there are applications for work from week to week, but no general quest for a chance of employment.

There are indications, it would seem, from discussions one hears about the matter that towns in this part of the state will be banner ones as to membership in the French Republican clubs that are to be formed throughout Connecticut during the next few months. There are two important reasons for this. One of them is the heavy percentage of French population in towns up and down the Quinebaug valley, another is that this section is particularly pleased and interested because Senator Urgele LaFrance of Central Village is president of the state organization recently perfected at a meeting in Hartford.

Old Furnace park, it has been suggested, offers another opportunity, at small expense, of developing a public playground and resting place such as the state is to throw open to the public by making the beautiful spaces of Priest's island, near Putnam available for public use.

The Old Furnace area is the property of the town of Killingly. It is hardly two miles eastward from the central section of the borough on the road leading via Franklin street to South Killingly. It is very beautiful even as it is today, with its towering pines, deep-shaded nooks and its rippling waterfall. Easy of access, it would, with a very little attention and at no great expense be a great rendezvous for the people for miles around. It was a famous church picnic ground of a past generation. It is still used occasionally for outings. With a little attention it would be ideal as a resting place of a summer day, as well as particularly beautiful in the fall.

Considering fuel supplies for Danielson, it may be mentioned that the purveyors of cord wood have not had such a bad fall and winter season. Inquiry indicates that there has been a steady demand for this commodity throughout the fall and winter. It so happens that it has continued to sell at about the same prices that have prevailed since the World war gave it a big boost. The prevailing price hereabouts is $10 per cord for hard, seasoned wood. Two coal strikes of the past few years were factors in increasing the cord wood demand, and it would appear that many who started to use wood instead of coal continue to buy it at least for part of their heating needs.

A check-up of automobile drivers is a prospect of the early days of March to determine whether they have discharged the obligation of renewing operators licenses for the operating year beginning March 1. All the licenses now in force expire at midnight on February 29, which is Wednesday of next week. While ther eare many drivers who have their licenses for the twelve months beginning March 1, there is a practical certainty, it is believed in official circles, that scores of people haven ot as yet applied for them. Driving without a license is, of course, a violation of the motor vehicle laws of the state, and having the fact found out by an officer means the certainty of a court appearance.

Peter Bassett, a former Danielson man, comes into the public eye as the city chemist of New Bedford, engaged in making analysis of the contents of bottles found in the room of two suicides, a case that has shocked New Bedford.

William S. Brown scores as a weather prophet. When hope of getting ice for Danielson was near to abandonment the past week, Mr. Brown stepped right out front to say that there was some zero weather right ahead—and he wins.

Numbers of Danielson people have participated this week in feeding birds, at the homes of these people are frequently indicated by the flocks fluttering about them.

PUTNAM

FIRE IN FIRE STATION DOES LITTLE DAMAGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 22.—At five o'clock Tuesday afternoon a general alarm from box 35 brought the two fire companies from the central fire station in Union square, to extinguish a fire in the Smith street fire station. The fire started in the chimney of the building and spread to the partitions. The downtown companies arrived in time to prevent the flames from going into the inside of the building. With the aid of chemicals the firemen quickly overcame the blaze and little damage resulted.

The blaze was kept confined to the upper part of the building and no damage was done to the apparatus on the ground floor.

The local pugilistic fans will be given another treat on Friday evening when the amateur boxers from Norwich, Danielson and Putnam get swaping blows.

The bouts will be held in St. Jean's hall and are under the direction of the Connecticut state amateur associaion.

A military whist was held in the auditorium of Putnam high school on Tuesday evening. The affair was a novelty and is a new mode of card playing. Each table represented a country. One couple started out as the enemy and the other were defenders of the table. Each couple had a flag of some nation and they represented the nation. Each time a victory was won the conquerors took possession of their opponents' flag. The game was won by Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Mellor and Mr. and Mrs. Eben Holden. The losers were Mr. and Mrs. Elton Witter and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hurlburt. The novelty game was enjoyed by many people. There was a large attendance. Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock was chairman of the arrangements.

The annual Mardi Gras of the L' Union of St. Jeane Baptiste was held in St. John's hall on Providence street Tuesday evening. The event was opened with an overture by Ellison's orchestra from Danielson. Rev. U. O. Bellerose of St. Mary's church gave a short address at the opening of the affair. Father Bellerose's address was followed by a group of vocal selections by Arthur Duquette, bass, and Lionel Larocque tenor. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Henry Vadnaise. A quartet composed of Arthur Duquette, Lionel Larocque, Henry Vadnais and David Breault, assisted at the piano by Mrs. Henry Vadnaiset, presented two pleasing numbers.

Refreshments of ice cream, wafers and soda were served by the committee. After the refreshments there was dancing, with music furnished by the orchestra. Dancing continued until midnight. In future years the Mardi Gras will be held as it was in the past and the old features that have faded away will be revived again.

The committee in charge of the social were Origene Touchette, chairman, Edmond Derocher, Joseph Perrault, George Potvin, Adolphus, A. Gregoire, Cleophus Beaudreault, Ludger Marion and Joseph Neveu. The affair was a social success and promised that the Mardi Gras will be held again next year.

The Lenten season was ushered in Wednesday with services at St. Mary's church. The ashes were administered at the early masses and again at the evening devotions. The penitential season will last for 40 days and will end on Holy Saturday at noon, April 7. All regulations for Catholics during the Lenten season were read by Rev. U. O. Bellerose at all the masses on Sunday.

Tomorrow night the citizens of the city will gather at the mass meeting to listen to the debates before they cast their ballots on the water question on February 27, at the special city meeting. The mass meeting has been a local topic that has received much discussion in the last few days. The meeting will open at eight o'clock in the evening with local orators expressing their opinions of the work that should be done to improve the Putnam waterworks. A large attendance of voters is expected to be present to hear the views.

Washington's birthday was generally observed Wednesday in Putnam by the schools and the banks. The schools were closed during the day, and the employes of the banks were given a holiday. The post office carriers took a day off, as no deliveries were made. The clerks in the office had a half holiday as the post office suspended business at 11 o'clock.

Flags of the Shenandoah system were displayed from the sidewalks in front of the business houses, beautifying the appearance of the city. On Monday there were patriotic exercises in the schools in commemoration of the birthday of George Washington, "Father of his country."

People of Putnam were reminded on Wednesday of the large fire that destroyed the Donahue block on February 22, 1923. The fire started early in the morning and got out of control of the firemen and burned the large business block to the ground. The Donahue fire was the last disasterous fire that Putnam has had. The fire completely wiped out the business section of lower Main street, but on the same site there has been a more beautiful fireproof structure erected in its place by the Strombelis brothers, which helped to eliminate the fire hazard in the city. Not since the Donahue fire has the Putnam fire department had to battle with such a blaze.

Does illness keep you from your work?

A GIRL who earns her living—whether in store, office, factory or home—realizes the necessity of regular attendance at her place of employment. For this reason she works on day after day. When she becomes tired out and run-down, she feels that she must keep at her work without taking time to rest.

Thousands of girls have found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored them to a normal physical condition, and has made them fit for work. These two women testify to that fact:

HEALTHY AND STRONG

Silverton, Oregon:—"I am writing to tell you how much your medicine has helped me. I was doing cannery work, canning, sealing, etc., but had to quit work when sick as I would be so weak I could hardly walk across the room. A friend of mine told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have found relief when sick and it helps me more each time. Every one says I am a healthier and stronger girl. I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends." Julia Schmidt, 113 Willow St., Silverton, Oregon.

LOOK AS YOUNG

Fruitdale, South Dakota:—"I felt badly. It seemed like my back broke all to pieces and I couldn't stoop down to get anything from the floor. Then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I did, and it sure has helped me. I can work all day long and I feel so good. I am 38 years old and I look just as young as if I were 20. "I am glad to answer letters from any one about this medicine because it has done me good." Mrs. Francis F. Fajardo, Box 31, Fruitdale, South Dakota.

Exposure—chill—muscles knotted with pain

260 Gloucester fishermen said, "This gives quickest relief.."

NO HARDIER, heartier class of men lives than the men of the fishing fleets.

Nothing daunts them—raging gales, mountainous waves, sudden and heavy strains, the freakish accidents of the sea.

How do they manage to avoid colds, rheumatism, stiffening of the muscles when they've been facing icy seas in an open boat? How do they relieve the aching of tired muscles when they've been straining over the heavy nets? What do they do for the sprains, wrenches, bruises that are bound to occur in an adventurous life like theirs?

We asked numbers of the fishermen of the famous old fishing town of Gloucester, Mass., to answer these questions.

260 said, "We use Sloan's."

The best friend of all who face exposure and strain

It's the same story everywhere among people who have to face exposure or strain. Policemen, postmen, firemen, factory workers, farmers—they all say they rely on Sloan's Liniment to rid them of rheumatic aches, stiffness of the muscles, the pain of sprains and bruises.

Read this account of how a bad case of stiff neck was completely relieved in less than five minutes:

"I was working and got a little warm, and it turned in and rained. I got good and wet. I got a stiff neck and could not turn my head. I used Sloan's and the pain left me in less than five minutes." S. K. Smalley, 75 Union Ave., Bellevue, Pa.

Sloan's Liniment doesn't just deaden the pain. It draws new blood into the stiff muscle, the torn ligament, the rheumatic joint; and stops the pain by driving out congestion, and sweeping away germs and poisons. Get a bottle. You can never tell when it may save you hours of agony. A bottle that lasts a long time costs only 35c—at all druggists.

One of the Gloucester fishermen. They protect themselves from strain and exposure with Sloan's

A doctor who takes care of thousands of workers says: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

Use Sloan's Liniment for all kinds of muscular pain. It relieves:

Rheumatism	Lame Muscles
Sciatica	Stiff Neck
Lumbago	Colds
Neuralgia	Congestions
Sprains	Bruises

SLOAN'S Endorsed universally by those who do the world's hard work

REVALUATION RECOMMENDATION

How general is the recognized need for a revaluation of property in Norwich is interestingly disclosed by the announcement that more than two thirds of the membership of the chamber of commerce has given approval to the directors' action. This shows a strong sentiment in keeping with the movement which has been started and it is an endorsement that means much to those who have sponsored it.

When we stop to realize how long it is since Norwich has had a revaluation there can really be no surprise at the outcome of the chamber's referendum. It is a step that should have been taken long ago. A policy of negligence has been pursued for so long that it has become a habit and it is going to require more than ordinary measures to get out of the rut.

Encouraged by the interest and the support of the members, the directors of the chamber of commerce have now made definite recommendations with the idea of bringing about this revaluation within the current year. As the result of the study which has been given to the subject they not only favor such work being done by outsiders who are experts in this line and disinterested but they have made a study of the work and the bids of various concerns relative to Norwich revaluation and on the strength of that study recommend employing a Philadelphia appraisal company in addition to the completion of the tax maps by use of airplane photography.

In view of the recognized need of a revaluation of property here, to say nothing of the fact that we have delayed it so long that the state will come in and do it unless we get started, and do it at an expense which we will have to meet whether we like it or not, it appears to be time for Norwich to give serious consideration to the proposition and be prepared to authorize it when the opportunity comes as it must if the idea of getting it underway by the first of April is carried out.

Norwich has too long been struggling under a handicap which ought to be eliminated. Expressions have given recognition to the need and to the wisdom of making the corrections at once. It is now time to back up such sentiment by action.

FORESTRY CAN HELP

Whenever the question of flood control has been up for discussion, prompted as it usually is by the devastation of large areas, attention has invariably been called to the effect which the woodman's axe has had upon the quick rush of the rains to the brooks and rivers and need which exists for reforestation work in establishing a greater wooded area on these watersheds.

In this connection Colonel Greeley, chief of the government forest service, makes no exaggerated claims but he does advocate reforestation for what help it will contribute. He says, "There should be no exaggerated notions of what forestry can accomplish in controlling the behavior of streams, and there should be no unwarranted assumptions that forestry can take the place of engineering structures in protecting areas subject to overflow. It is rather, a search to find out how far forestry, along with other betterments in the use of land, can help in reducing all forms of destruction in the Mississippi basin. We know the forests usually retard the melting of snow. We know the water-storing capacity of a forest, like any reservoir, has its definite limits. The soundest attack on the greatest conservation problem (flood control) of the United States lies in the thorough planning at the outset—planning in which forestry will be fitted into its proper place in the undertaking as a whole."

Colonel Greeley doesn't attempt to say that the flood control solution rests with the amount of forestry work done. That would be a wild statement. Nevertheless there appears to be good reason for believing that forestry can and will play a part if given a chance.

It is well, also, to bear in mind that there is need for forestry work whether it is done in connection with flood control or not. If it can be so done as to accomplish the killing of two birds with a single stone there are most certainly advantages which cannot be wisely disregarded.

SPEED RECORDS

When it comes to speed there is no telling where the limit is. Years ago it had been thought it was reached. There used to be much comment about horses lowering track records by a fraction of a second, of the speed attained by bicycle riders and of the rapidity with which distance was made by trains and boats.

We haven't got past displaying interest in new records whether made by man or machine, but when it comes to fast time these days attention is being concentrated upon the airplane and the motor car.

Just now the new record which has been made by Captain Malcolm Campbell of England in his mystery car at Daytona beach outdoes anything that has been previously established. Going almost 207 miles an hour means rapid traveling, but how long it will remain unbeaten is an open question. He has beaten the previous record by just over two miles an hour, but when it is realized that he was going at the rate of 220 miles an hour as he crossed the starting line the possibilities are shown for still faster time.

There is of course the speed of the flying machine which the motor car driver can hardly expect to equal or outdo. It can be operated with less handicaps than the car which must overcome the traction resistance and as the motor car is being driven faster and faster the same outstripping of established records can be anticipated by those who fly. Speed records are here today and gone tomorrow.

NO INDUSTRIES TO LOSE

"Would you believe," asked the New England council in its news letter, "that a New England city (Norwich, Conn.) has an acute problem of providing adequate manufacturing space for one of her expanding industries?"

In being frank about it we must say we would not, and furthermore it is believed it should be said that no such situation ought to exist.

Norwich is desirous of getting more industries, but at the same time it is desirous of keeping what it has. It is of the greatest importance that the necessary attention should be given to established industries which need assistance, and particularly those which desire to expand.

If there isn't in existence a plant that will furnish the necessary floor space for the needs of the cordage plant, which wants to bring its local business and that in another city under the same roof, Norwich should take immediate steps to see that it is provided. By all means let that one roof be in Norwich.

We most certainly cannot afford to disregard the requirements of concerns which are established here and doing a good business and place our full dependence upon chasing some will o' the wisp. Norwich has had some unpleasant experiences in overlooking the needs of factories which might now be here the same large and successful establishments which they are in other cities if they had been given the necessary encouragement and the proper amount of interest had been displayed in keeping them here. Perhaps the secret of our failure to grow faster lies in this very direction.

If that has been the trouble in the past, isn't it time to apply the remedy and stop it right now?

The details of the cordage company's situation are not known, but Norwich has no industries to lose and if there is any probability of that or any other leaving town for lack of adequate accommodations or other reasons there should be a careful survey made of the cricumstances and no change be permitted until every possible effort has been made to keep it here. It is to be hoped our chamber of commerce will be able to cope with the situation effectively. By all means keep what we've got here and bring in as many more as possible.

THE S-4 REPORT

The naval court of inquiry has made its report concerning the sinking of the S-4. It was bound to ascertain facts from a disaster in which it was possible to get testimony from only one side. Those on the submarine could not speak.

The report fixes the blame upon the commanders of both the S-4 and the Paulding but when Rear Admiral Leigh of the navy bureau of navigation declares that the major responsibility rests upon the S-4 since the lookout on the submarine should have sighted the cutter, that it was the duty of the submarine under the international rules of the sea, to keep clear of the Paulding and that it was the duty of the craft to avoid surface vessels there would seem to be responsibility established for which the Paulding commander was not to blame. This is particularly true when it is declared that there were only 12 seconds in which to act after the submarine was sighted and no information on or warning had been given that submarines were in those waters.

As for the finding concerning Rear Admiral Brumby it would seem to be a contradiction. It is pointed out that the rescue operations were "logical, sound and the most promising of early success," that "everything was done to save the lives of those on board the S-4 that could have been done under the weather conditions" and yet Rear Admiral Brumby who was in charge of those operations is charged with failure to "contribute that superior and intellectual guidance, force and sound judgment expected from an officer of his length of service, experience and position" and his detachment from such operations is recommended.

Instead of clearing up the situation to report seems only to create more uncertainty.

There may always be plenty of room at the top of the ladder, but not if it is the kind the window washers use.

Some people will probably persist in talking about the possibility of a blizzard until the Fourth of July has come and gone.

Are you expecting better results from your Lenten resolutions than from those you made at the first of the year?

In the giving of two acres to Canada to straighten out a boundary error the enforcement officials are deprived of just so much responsibility.

Congressman Garner, democrat, says there will be no tax cut. There's something about it that sounds like a threat, but even so the country would gain through debt reduction what it would lose in tax reduction.

GLORIA AND THE DRAGON

"I've been shopping," explained Gloria as she handed her husband the large package. "Such fun. And I saved some money, too." Gregory shifted the bundle awkwardly and produced his ticket for the gateman to punch. "You've been trying to corner the brick market," he accused.

"They are rather heavy, aren't they? You know we've simply got to get something to give Bernadine—she'll be married next week—so I took the whole afternoon, and what do you think I found?"

"I believe we decided on an etching," remarked Gregory, "but this feels more like a tombstone."

They found seats in the waiting coach and Gloria explained eagerly.

"I know that's what we thought, but you have no idea what really decent etchings cost. Of course, we couldn't give her anything cheap, and some the size of postcards cost $5. I really couldn't find anything under $20."

"Murder! That's out of the question. What did you do?"

"I spent less and got something that looks like a good deal more," announced Gloria triumphantly. "See here." She captured the package and tore off the wrappings recklessly.

"We'll have to do it up again anyhow," she explained. "Now aren't those the most utterly gorgeous things you ever saw?"

There was no room for argument. She had purchased two weighty candlesticks of Chinese brass, fashioned after the torois-dragon, Yo-Shin-Ho.

"Don't tell me you paid less than $20," warned Gregory.

"Eighteen eighty-five," announced Gloria with pardonable pride.

"Well, we don't save anything, but it's worth it."

"Don't save anything? Since when do you turn up your nose at nearly a dollar and a quarter?"

"Far be it from me to shatter any glittering illusions, but when you get ready to ship these things to California you're going to get a shock."

"I never thought of that," admitted Gloria. "Will it be much?"

"About two dollars and a half. Just the same, they look like $30, and we wouldn't want to give anything we'd be ashamed of."

"That" agreed Gloria, "is what I've always said. Think of some of the messy things we got. It was stupid of us to get married during the Japanese print rage. I got so I loathed the sight of a flat package."

"Some of them are pretty valuable," he reminded her.

"What of it? My theory is that when you're picking out presents you should get something you'd be glad to have yourself. Now anybody would be proud of these. Think how well they'd go on our own mantelpiece!"

Gregory Spaulding, having brought home a healthy appetite from the office, wandered hopefully into the dining room of his apartment.

"Ready in a minute, dear," his wife called from the kitchen. "Would you mind making some ice water? The pitcher's on the buffet."

"Right-o. Say, what are these candlesticks doing in here?"

"I thought they looked better there than on the mantelpiece."

"I don't doubt it, but it's about time you sent them. That wedding comes off pretty soon."

"No, it doesn't. It came off yesterday."

"You ought to know," admitted Gregory, "but when I was a little boy I was taught that wedding presents were supposed to arrive before the ceremony."

"Well, it's this way," began Gloria. "I looked over our list and found out that Bernadine had only sent us a luncheon set so I didn't see any sense in giving her the dragons."

"But Ray gave us an end table. I know the groom doesn't count for much in these affairs, but he's a pretty good friend of mine."

"Oh, that's all right. I sent them the darlingest Japanese print. I'm sure he'll be mad about it."

"Mad's no word for what he'll be," admitted Gregory. "Who are you saving the jolly dragons for?"

"Well—you see—I really couldn't let them go—they somehow seem to belong here——"

Gregory laughed harshly.

"Do you know, dear, I think it will be cheaper after this if when you buy presents you get something you wouldn't have around the house on a bet."—Chicago News.

INCOME TAX TIPS

To the taxpayer whose gross or net income for 1927 was $5,000 or less, and was derived chiefly from salary or wages, the problem of correctly making out an income tax return is not difficult. Such returns are made on Form 1040 A, a single sheet. Persons, any part of whose net income, regardless of amount, was derived from a business or profession, including farming, are required to use the larger form, 1040.

The gross income of the usual business consists of the gross profits on sales, plus any income from investments and incidental or outside operations or sources. The return must show the gross sales purchases and cost of goods sold. To reflect net income correctly, inventories are necessary at the beginning and end of each taxable year.

The lawyer, doctor, dentist, author, clergyman, dentist or other professional man must include in gross income all fees, salaries and compensation for professional services.

The farmer is reuired to report as gross income all profits derived from the sale or exchange of farm products and livestock, whether produced on the farm or purchased, and resold. The fair market value of merchandise or groceries, received from the sale of farm products which were raised, must be included; also profits from renting a farm on the crop-sharing basis and the rental and sale of farm lands.

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

"The Nature of Forgiveness"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse. "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me" (Psalm 51:10).

Read: Psalm 51:1-18.

MEDITATION: Objection is made to the doctrine of the forgiveness of sins that this is a world of law and that the past cannot be erased. Every deed has its inevitable result. The Psalmist does not pray that his record shall be wiped out but that he may be freed from those wrong dispositions, ambitions and motives that occasioned his stumbling. Repentance brings forth deeds that tend to destroy or atone for the evil that one has done. Wrong has in it seeds of its own destruction. Revulsion at one's sin frequently leads to unusual endeavor for good. Turning from evil and seeking to do right, one loses the sense of separation from God that sin brings. One feels forgiven.

PRAYER: Most merciful Father who knowest the depth of our hearts, we confess unto Thee that we continually fall short of the righteousness which Thou dost require in Thy children, Give us strength to overcome the disposition that leads us into sin and help us to make our penitence a repentance unto new life. Amen.

YOUR HEALTH

The Significance of Heartburn

By L. Winfield Kohn, M. D., New York Member Gorgas Memorial.

Heartburn is a very common complaint in those suffering from indigestion, and most people think it is the result of an increase in the acidity of the contents of their stomachs. It has, however, been demonstrated by a study of the contents of the stomachs of heartburn sufferers that only a small proportion of these people have an increase in the degree of acid, whereas a considerable number may have a lowering of the acidity of the contents of their stomachs. Furthermore, it has been shown that, when amounts of hydrochloric acid of a quality approaching that ordinarily found in the human stomach were introduced into the stomachs of human beings no untoward sensations were experienced.

It is believed that the most probable cause of heartburn is a regurgitation of acid material from the stomach into the lowermost portion of the esophagus or gullet. Occasionally this acid, after it enters the gullet, is retained there for a lengthy period of time because of an associated spasm of the inlet muscle at the junction of the gullet and stomach. When the regurgitated acid material reaches a rather high level in the gullet, the burning sensation may be felt at a higher point in the chest and at times may even reach the throat.

The regurgitation of the sour food into the gullet it is now quite certain, produces the heartburn, but what cause is back of this regurgitation? Why does a backflow of this acid food into the gullet take place? This, of course, is due to a disturbance in the motor activity of the stomach proper. Instead of the stomach muscles forcing the food contents onward, some is pushed backward through its inlet into the gullet.

This motor disturbance may be purely nervous in origin or it may be an expression of disease in another organ or it may be the result of disease within the stomach itself. A purely nervous instability may result from mental irritations of varying forms and degrees, and in certain instances of affection involving the glands of internal secretion. In conditions of this kind, the nervous system that presides over the stomach and bowels may be much more responsive to stimulation than is normally the case. When the disturbance is a reflex phenomenon, some of the most common sources for its production may be gall bladder disease, appendicitis, duodenal ulcer, genito-urinary affections and eye strain. Diseases in the stomach proper would imply ulcer, catarrh, varying grades of inflammation, growths, etc.

Heartburn, just like other symptoms, if persistently present has significance and, when taken into consideration with other symptoms of which the patient may complain, leads toward a diagnosis. It is a warning sign which every physician respects, and which the patient should learn to regard properly. Unfortunately, heartburn has been taken too lightly by many folks, and, as a result, conditions which at one time were readily amenable to improvement or cure have reached a stage of intractibility where it is almost impossible to bring about marked improvement let alone a cure.

IN DAY'S NEWS

THE PORTO RICO THAT LINDBERGH SAW.

When Colonel Lindbergh flew over Porto Rico he could see practically all of the island at one time.

"Rectangular in shape, Porto Rico has an area a third less than that of Connecticut, a length of 100 miles, an average width of 30 miles," writes John Oliver LaGorce in a communication to the National Geographic Society.

"The island supports a population of 1,300,000," continues the bulletin. "The harbor of its capital, San Juan, one of the finest in the western hemisphere, has been dredged to a depth of 35 feet and will enjoy ever-increasing importance as a coaling station for the transatlantic routes to the Panama Canal.

"For a tropical land the winter climate is unusually free from excessive heat, and the abundant rainfall over most of the island gives vegetation a perennial luxuriance. Since it lies in the path of the trade winds, with its mountains in the central portion of the island, the humidity is rarely oppressive.

"The mountain scenery is wild and beautiful. The main range, known as the Cordilliera Central, runs from east to west, with slopes sweeping over a wide area toward the north and rising sharply from the south, leaving in the latter direction an alluvial plain only 10 to 15 miles wide between the peaks and the sea.

"The magnificent main highways over these mountains make the matchless scenery enjoyably accessible to the vacation motorist.

"One will find history and romance in every part of the island. San Juan itself was a settlement half a century before St. Augustine, Florida, the oldest town in the United States, came into being, and a full century before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock it began to take on the semblance of a city.

"But it is the progress of Porto Rico and the Porto Ricans since the advent of the United States, barely a quarter of a century ago, that furnishes the most engaging and inspiring chapter in the history of the island.

"Under the American regime, the amount of sugar exported has increased sevenfold; coffee exports have doubled in quantity and trebled in value, and tobacco shipments have likewise scored marvelous gains.

"When the United States took over Porto Rico the fruit industry, as such, was unknown. Today the island ships annually millions of dollar's worth of the finest pineapples, grapefruit, and similar products to distant markets.

"The drive against illiteracy and ignorance and the fight against sickness and death have been marked by triumphs that two decades ago would not have been thought possible.

"When the United States entered Porto Rico there was not a single building from San Juan to Ponce, or from Mayaguez to Punta Santiago, devoted exclusively to school work, and nine-tenths of the children of school age were without educational advantages. Today there are nearly 2,500 schools in the island, and the number of pupils has increased more than sixfold.

"When the American occupation began, the military road between San Juan and Ponce was the only highway worthy of the name in all the island. Today there is a veritable network of splendid roads, and as one travels amid an exuberant Nature that is never curbed by frost or drought, one feels that Porto Rico is, indeed, a garden spot and that it fully justifies Ponce de Leon's name for it, 'The Gate of Riches.'

"The insulare police roughly divide the masses in Porto Rico into four categories for identification—the urban dwellers who wear shoes, and three other groups that proclaim the regions from which they come by the shapes of their bare feet.

"The jibaro with a broad, float foot can usually be designated as a worker in the can lands along the coast. A naitve with short, stubby feet usually comes from the tobacco districts, where he uses them to plant his crop.

"A man with over developed great toes (helpful in climbing) probably comes from the hill country and the mountains, where the coffee plantations abound."

Former Norwich Leaders

(From Norwich Bulletin, Feb. 28, 1891)

Mr. S. R. Parlin died at 11 o'clock Friday night in the forty-sixth year of his age. He was stricken suddenly with paralysis while in Thamesville on Tuesday last and taken to his home on Church street where he has lain in an unconscious condition up to the time of his death.

Mr. Parlin was a native of Maine, but came to this city more than thirty years ago, and was for many years prominently engaged in the jewelry business. He relinquished that branch of trade a number of years ago and of late has been engaged in the insurance business in this city.

Mr. Parlin was a quiet but public-spirited citizen and was ever thorough in accord with anything which was for the advancement of the interest of Norwich. A quarter of a century ago he was prominent in military circles and for a number of years was in command of a militia company here. At the breaking out of the rebellion he took a prominent part with other patriotic citizens in furthering the aims of Gov. Buckingham in furnishing troops and money for their equipment.

He was a pioneer in the days of '49 in California, had traveled extensively and was well informed on questions pertaining to his own state and country.

He leaves a son and daughter to mourn his death.

Stories That Recall Others

Intentions Good, Memory Poor

The clerk tells of two young men who desired to buy hosiery for the sister of one of them.

"What color?" asked one of the other in reply to the clerk's question. "Now what color did she ask that we get?" And the pair grew quite perplexed.

"Oh, yes, I remember. We want the shade called buckshot."

"No, no, not buckshot, was it?" questioned the other. "Wasn't it shotgun?"

"Now," queried the clerk helpfully, "do you mean you want gunmetal?"

"Yeh, that's it. Gunmetal. Gosh, we missed it a mile, but we were on the right track anyhow," the two replied in chorus, laughing at their own mistake.

The Wandering Letters

The other day, Mrs. O, gave her son, who was going to New London, four letters to post on his way. Not till he reached his destination, however, did he recall the letters so, without looking at the addresses, he dropped them in a convenient letter box. The letters were for parties in Norwich and being in a hurry Mrs. O, had written "City." Two of the letters have been returned to date.

CHILD TRAINING

MOTHER FORGETS

Pauline Herr Thomas

"Mary, run and get mother the scissors. They are in my work basket on the dresser."

After a moment, with no move on Mary's part: "Mary, did you hear? Run and get my scissors."

Mary calmly adjusts a new dress on paper-doll Peggy, with still no move to obey.

"Mary," much annoyed, "do you hear? I asked you to get the scissors. Now, put down your dolls at once and obey mother. What makes you so slow?"

Still no response from Mary.

Mother begins to perceive something more than slowness in this new attitude.

"Mary," sharply, "what's the meaning of this? You turn round this minute! Now, you get me those scissors at once."

Half fearfully, half defiantly, Mary shakes her head in a way that denotes a firm intention to continue her purpose of refusal to obey.

"You march into the bedroom and stay there! Your daddy will 'tend to you! If ever I thought I'd have a child that would say 'no' to me!"

Poor mother! It would be difficult to say which emotion is uppermost in that outburst—anger, astonishment or grief. Certainly she is too much overwrought to think clearly. What a pity it generally is so at such times!

And poor little Mary! Hiding her tears in the bed covers, sobbing away the afternoon, waiting and wondering just how daddy will "tend" to her.

No supper and to bed! Daddy's plan is to punish Mary once and for all. There must be no more such behavior. Of course, daddy has heard only mother's story. It never occurs to him to consult Mary after hearing it. What a pity it seldom does in such cases as this!

As the hours pass mother finds it impossible to compose herself to her evening sewing. Her sympathy overcoming her, she goes tiptoeing in to Mary's bed.

"Mary, darling," she says as the little girl rouses a bit while mother tucks her in, "why did you say 'no' to mother? You never did such a thing before. It isn't like my little girl at all."

Half tearfully, but firmly, too, after much persuasion, Mary explains: "Well, mother, you didn't say 'please,' and you never do anything for me unless I say 'please' first."

And why not? Is it not natural for Mary to expect mother to remember her manners—mother, who is always reminding Mary of hers?

Of course, Mary had not the courage to remind mother at once. Had she done so, she would most likely have been punished for impertinence. We grown-ups are apt to consider it impertinence when a child calls our attention to such omissions. Mary had not meant to be rude; she was only demanding fair play.

Of course, we know mother felt sure at the time that there was some reason for such unwonted behavior on the part of Mary, and if she had had the wisdom and strength to control her anger and find out Mary's reason for disobeying instead of nursing her displeasure all the afternoon, what a lot of unhappiness might have been spared both.

So much tragedy. All because mother forgot to say "please."

Pointers For Parents

Handcraft and drama in the home are linked. Let the children "dress up" on rainy days. Keep a costume box or chest into which discarded materials and clothing of attractive colors are put. A few rolls of crepe paper of various colors, paste, scissors, feathers, tinfoil and paints are useful. Youthful ingenuity will make a few properties go a long way. Curtain rings make fearsome earrings for pirates. Macaroni may be painted and strung for Italian beads.

No two children are alike. Parents must try to cultivate in each child the capacities he possesses.

The wise parent is he who teaches his child to decide on his own line of conduct on the basis of what is fundamentally right and just and desirable.

The time comes in the life of every child when the parent will no longer be present to decide things for him, and it is never too early for him to make judgments for himself in accordance with the laws of the world in which he lives.

Training in obedience should have for its main object, not our comfort or convenience, but our children's ultimate good.

When your children grow tired of vegetable juices and broths taken in liquid form, like a soup, use a small amount of gelatin, just enough to make the liquid congeal, and it is taken much more readily. The gelatin is nutritious in itself, and it makes the same old dish much more appetizing, especially if it is congealed in attractive little molds that appeal to the child.

The home can find many ways for children to use their skill in arithmetic. The handling of personal allowances, the daily shopping errands, the checking of groger's slips, gives needed practice in the dreaded tables.

In the same way the home can help the child to improve his writing ability. There are laundry lists and telephone messages, while, of course, the best use of penmanship, spelling, punctuation and composition is in letter writing. Children should be provided with attractive stationery, a desk if possible, and urged to keep up a lively correspondence with absent friends.—CHILDREN.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Woman's Sphere

Mr. Editor: It is hard to take E. D. Balkam seriously, in his attempt to argue woman's inferiority or to prove her lower place in the scale of humanity, in this late day. Especially is it impossible to do so on biblical grounds, or by examples taken from scripture or history.

In lesser space, it would be easy to show that the dire results which followed the influences he attributes to women, from Eve, down through Jezebel and Delilah to Herodias, were the results of man's weakness, cupidity, lust, silliness and inferiority.

It would also be easy from the same scriptures and history later to give examples of acts of dire consequence, done by men where no influence of woman were present. Say for instance, Esau who sold his birthright for a mess of pottage, Judas who sold our Saviour for 30 pieces of silver. To these we might add Castlereagh, or Benedict Arnold of our own town. And history furnishes us more simple wicked and foolish kings and princes than queens and empresses—if it comes to legislators and government. But if we must find the woman's place, let us go back to the original charter, as we find it declared in Genesis V-1-2. Here we read—"This is the book of the generations of Adam, in the day that God created man; in the likeness of God made he him; male and female created he them; and blessed them, and called their name Adam; in the day when they were created." Please notice the unity in their name, as well as in their creating. It was Adam who named the woman "Eve", and he gave us his reasons; but in God's book her name was Adam—each and both, of the same bone and flesh and made in the same "likeness" of the Creator. This is the quality and the equality she possessed at the beginning—and which—even though forgotten or not recognized she retains and possesses in the 20th century and is entitled to adorn with undiminished grace, in spite of all petty pettyness that can be put up in the name of argument.

Paul, the prolific writer, has given us more than his epistles to Timothy. Let Mr. Balkam read the last chapter of Paul to the Romans, and he will see the gracious salutations with which he impresses his readers to offer to the various woman helpers and workers, he their names—and what he has to say about their worth and goodness and excellence.

Says F. M. Marble. This is Nature's Signal of Danger Ahead.

Fred M. Marble, Danielson, Conn., says in his own home paper, the Danielson Transcript: "My bladder bothered me 4 or 5 times every night. After taking Kidney Lithated Buchu a few days I saw I was improving. Now I am not troubled at all. They have also relieved my friend Elmer Martin. I will tell or write my experience to anyone."

Lithated Buchu acts on the bladder as uncom salts do on the bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and lessens excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes "Getting up nights." The tablets cost 75 cents at all drug stores. Kidney Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio, or locally at Geo. Kegler's, druggist.

Mother!

Child Gets Sick, Cross, Feverish if Constipated

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Fig Syrup" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious, "fruity laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing." Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," then see that it is made by "The California Fig Syrup Company."

MAJORITY IN FACULTY BACKS PRESIDENT MARSHALL

A poll of the professors, associate professors and assistant professors of the Connecticut college faculty, recently made by several of their own number, shows that, out of a total of 34, only two are out of harmony with President Marshall, whose resignation now awaits action by the board of trustees, to whom it was submitted a few days ago, according to Dean Irene Nye, in a written statement to a New London newspaper.

Six others, though indicating no lack of harmony with the president, preferred not to be drawn into the present controversy by signing a letter sent to the trustees on February 20, in support of President Marshall's administration. This letter, a copy of which is given below, bore 26 signatures, including those of ten professors, seven associate professors and nine assistant professors. It read as follows:

"We, the undersigned professors, associate professors and assistant professors of the Connecticut college faculty, earnestly urge that, in considering the resignation of Benjamin T. Marshall from the presidency of this college, you give due weight to the fact that, out of a total of 34 persons above the rank of instructor, the following do hereby indicate their hearty loyalty both to his personal leadership and to his educational administration."

After each signature, the number of years of that person's service in the college was indicated.

BERSIG'S AUTOMOBILE WAS SEEN IN NORWICH LAST MONDAY MORNING

There were two interesting developments revealed Wednesday, one here and one in Hartford, in the case of George Bersig who was shot while trying to escape arrest in Hartford last Monday and who is suspected of cracking the safe of the Palace theatre here Sunday night.

It was learned here that the LaSalle coupe, with registration 50,012, which Bersig was driving when he was caught in Hartford late Monday morning, was seen in this city about 8 o'clock that morning. In Hartford Bersig was identified Wednesday by the police as Stephen Hoppe, the man believed to have killed a policeman in Quincy, Mass., and for whose capture rewards totaling $1,900 are offered.

Richard Herbert, who is employed in Joe Moore's garage on Chestnut street stated Wednesday night that he saw the Bersig car in this city last Monday morning about 8 o'clock. At that time the LaSalle coupe had one number plate missing, which was what attracted Herbert's attention the same as it did the Hartford police when the car parked on a Hartford street.

Mr. Herbert said that he was on his way up Franklin street and was passing the corner of Bath street into Franklin square, he looked at the rear of the car and saw the Conecticut number plate attached there.

Apparently Bersig, or Hoppe, drove out of this city and all the way to Hartford, with the front number plate missing.

TAKE IN SET

Hoppe is wanted as an escaped convict at the state penitentiary at Thomaston, Maine, is wanted for burglary in Worcester, Mass., and is also wanted in Vermont. He is believed to be the man who staged a $600 burglary in Willimantic ten days ago, and to be responsible for the series of breaks in East Hartford automobile dealers' establishments during the fall and winter.

Still Near Death.

Bersig's identification as Hoppe was made by Thomas F. Sullivan, fingerprint expert of the Hartford police department. The man has been near death at the St. Francis hospital since Monday noon, when a bullet fired by Policeman Hurley brought him down as he was vaulting a fence at the end of a blind alley down which Hurley was chasing him. His condition Wednesday was reported as unchanged. The bullet is in his right lung, and he has a fighting chance to recover.

Girl Friend Questioned.

A young woman, described as "Bersig's girl friend," was brought to police headquarters Wednesday afternoon and questioned by Detective Sergeants Sheren, Hickey and Madigan. It was thought she might be able to shed some light on the present whereabouts of James E. Bennett, former associate of the wounded man, and give additional information as to Bersig's activities. Her name was not disclosed by the police. The woman was noticeably agitated and when escorted to the detective rooms said, "You're not going to keep me here?"

Bersig's arrest in Hartford Monday was on suspicion that he was responsible for the robbery at the Palace theatre, Norwich, Sunday night, and followed Policeman Hurley's discovery that the La Salle car Bersig had parked on Front street when he went into a second-hand clothing store contained rolls of money on which were stamped the name of the Norwich theatre.

Escaped in Maine.

The detective bureau immediately tried to identify Bersig and Wednesday morning Mr. Sullivan reported that Bersig was Stephen Hoppe, who escaped in the company of three other convicts from the Maine penitentiary on June 18, 1925. He was sentenced from Somerset county on February 9, 1925, on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny to from four to eight years and on another charge on the same date of breaking and entering and larceny to from four to six years.

Hoppe is described as being five feet six and three-quarters inches tall, weight, 147 pounds, brown hair, dark brown eyes, medium build and complexion and smooth face. He gave his wife's address as Mrs. Stephen Hoppe, No. 641 Huntington avenue, Boston.

Edward V. Arnold, 27; James E. Bennett, 27, alias Harry Butler, and Edward J. Rasmussen, escaped with Bersig. Rasmussen has since been captured.

Police are warned by the Thomaston warden that Hoppe and Bennett are dangerous men and officers should take no chances. They have a reputation for usually being armed and at stopping at nothing to get away, says the circular on file.

Rewards Offered.

There is a $300 reward for the capture of Hoppe. He is believed to have a long police record and the bureau is seeking to uncover his entire history. Examination at the hospital disclosed that Bersig had been shot in the leg on some previous occasion.

Hoppe is also wanted in Vermont and in Quincy, Mass. He is believed to be the man who shot Policeman Alfred N. Hollis of Quincy. A reward of $1,600 is offered for his capture, by that city. The police of Worcester also want Hoppe in connection with a burglary.

The Hartford police are also working on the theory that Bersig may be the man who committed a series of robberies in the automobile establishments along the East Hartford boulevard during the winter.

Employe Arrested.

Detective Sergeant Sheren with Detectives Hickey and Dooley, on Tuesday, arrested Frank T. Hickey, 19, of No. 727 Asylum avenue, on a charge of passing a fraudulent check and obtaining money under false pretenses. The youth was at one time manager of a store on New Britain avenue, owned by Hoppe, but claimed to know nothing of his employer's affairs.

It is charged that Hickey on December 28, January 9 and February 1 hired automobiles from a garage on Chapel street and gave a check for $35. The check was returned marked insufficient funds. Hickey then took a typewriter and an adding machine to the garage which he had secured from the grocery store he formerly managed. The machines belonged to an agency and were rented by the store.

In the police court Wednesday Hickey's case was continued to Thursday, March 8, under bonds of $500.

The Willimantic break which Bersig is believed responsible for was on February 12 at the Jordan Buick company, where money and jewelry to the value of $600 were stolen. The Gem theatre in Willimantic was entered on the same night, but nothing taken.

MASSACHUSETTS POLICE SAY "BERSIG" IS HOPPE

HARTFORD, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Massachusetts police tonight entered the investigation of "George F. Bersig," who was shot Monday by Policeman Daniel Hurley and who was identified today by police of Worcester, Mass., as Stephen Hoppe, of Boston, wanted in Quincy, Mass., in connection with the murder of a policeman, October 4, 1927.

Hoppe was identified by his fingerprints and also by pictures despite the fact that he had his face altered by a plastic surgeon in New York. He told authorities in Maine, where he escaped from the state prison, that the operation had cost him $500.

According to information received from Bennington, Vt., Hoppe was wounded while attempting to rob a general store in Proctorsville, Vt., in July, 1925, and the wound left a scar. When asked about this tonight, Dr. John D. Greenberg, a police surgeon, said that Hoppe's right leg had been broken and that there were marks of buckshot wounds. Hoppe's explanation of this was that he had received the injury when a shotgun was accidently discharged several years ago.

The Massachusetts police said that although they believed the identification of Hoppe was almost positive, they are not certain that he is the man who killed Policeman Alfred N. Hollis, of Quincy. Their evidence is circumstantial. Hoppe is suspected because the methods of a safe cracksman used in a Quincy robbery were similar to those said to have been used by Hoppe. Policeman Hollis was shot through the heart one night after he and another policeman had found a store open. While his brother officer guarded the front door, Hollis went to the rear. In a few minutes the policeman at the front of the store heard shots and running to the rear found Hollis dying from a bullet wound. Hollis died a short time later.

After being treated at the Rutland, Vt., hospital, for the wound received in the Proctorsville roobery, Hoppe was taken to the Vermont prison in Windsor, from which he escaped before his wound was fully healed. He climbed the wall with Edward V. Arnold, 27; James E. Bennett, 27; and Edward J. Rasmussen. Rasmussen has since been captured.

In connection with the Vermont case, there were two breaks in a building in the village of North Bennington, Vt., occupied by the post office and the First National bank two nights before the attempts at Proctorsville. The lock of the post office safe was drilled and money and stamps were taken. Business at the bank had to be suspended for several days because of the damage to the safe.

It was from fingerprints sent out by Thomas Sullivan, expert of the local department, that Hoppe was identified by Detective Frank P. Carroll, of the Worcester police. Superintendent of Detectives James J Casey, of that city believs that Hoppe was involved in the robbing last October of two safes in automobile sales rooms. Worcester police are interested in ascertaining what Hoppe knows of about 20 safe breaks there.

HAD WASHINGTON BIRTHDAY PROGRAMME FOR ROTARY

Washington's birthday was observed at a lengthy session of the Norwich Rotary club Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. The program, which was in charge of Albert E. VanWagenen, was divided into several parts with various members of the club participating. The theme of the meeting was Washington and short sketches of the outstanding events in his life were given. Judge Nelson J. Ayling read the will of Washington's mother, an historical document, which is very interesting. Benjamin Palmer spoke on the early life of Washington and he was followed by Herbert C. Adams who continued the sketch to Valley Forge. Alfred G. Bliven told of Washington at Valley Forge. Frank G. Aubrey told of Washington's home life at Mt. Vernon.

Concluding the Washington program was a brief talk by Mayor Milo R. Waters, who spoke of Washington as a human being filled with human emotions and doing the things that humans do. Mayor Waters concise remarks concerning Washington as a man summed up a pleasing program.

As it was the 23rd anniversary of Rotary there was a brief observance of this and a number of the past presidents of the club participated. They were Lucius Briggs, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, William G. Park and the present president Clarence A. Spear.

During the meeting Mrs. E. W. Higgins asked for the privilege of announcing the luncheon of the League of Women Voters on March 6th at which will be a number of speakers. Mrs. Higgins extended an invitation to the members of the Rotary club to attend the meeting.

At the business session President Spear presided and James E. Roantree was the song leader. Only routine business came before the club.

DEFENDANT'S ABSENCE IN NEVADA CAUSES POSTPONEMENT

That the $5,000 damage action brought by Amos Smith against Floyd Conklin, both of New London, as the result of an automobile accident in which the plaintiff is alleged to have ben knocked down, will not be tried by a jury in the superior court seems certain due to the fact that Attorney George Curtis Morgan, who with Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt is counse. for Conklin, has notified the court that his client is in Nevada and probably will be obliged to remain there for three months. This case was scheduled to be tried next before Judge Christopher L. Avery, and a jury in the superior court at New London, following the Vincent-Shandeor suit.

Judge Avery has allowed the case to stand with the understanding that if the plaintiff's counsel, Attorneys Perry J. Hollandersky and Foster K. Sistare, so desire the case shall be tried at some future date before the court.

Smith alleges that on Jan. 27, 1927, he was knocked down and seriously injured by an automobile owned by Conklin and driven by J. Northrop on the Poquonoc road, at a point midway between Trail's Corner and the Max Pollock mill.

NO CRIMINAL BLAME IN PATIENT'S DEATH

In the case of the death of Alfonse Zottole, 45, an inmate of the Norwich state hospital, who was accidentally drowned in the Thames river after one of the hospital attendants had allowed the man to go out into the grounds, John H. Barnes, who was acting deputy coroner while Coroner Desmond was sick, has made a finding in which he attaches no criminal blame to the hospital attendant. Zottole was found drowned in the Thames river last Friday. His home was in New Haven.

In his finding Deputy Coroner Barnes says:

It appears from the evidence before me that Zottole was admitted to the Norwich state hospital on September 15, 1927, and was confined in that institution until his death. He was suffering from encephalitis and showed the usual symptoms of that disease—trembling, slowness of speech, slowness of thought and general deterioration. The said disease being the result from one of the conditions of the brain, called brain fever. Notwithstanding his condition he was able to walk though with some difficulty and had shown no signs of any suicidal tendencies; and had no delusion noticeable by the doctor who had charge of the case. He left the hospital on the 16th day of February, 1928, at some time in the afternoon and his whereabouts were not known by the officers of the institution until his body was found in the river the next day.

Zottole had been in the care of a lady assistant who had charge of the dormitory in which he was confined since the 4th day of October, 1927, and it appeared from her testimony that the patient was allowed to go out of the institution with other patients, paroled patients, without any custodian or keeper with them and that he had been allowed to go out a number of times. On the 16th day of February, 1928, it appeared that one Richard Smith, who has been employed at the Norwich state hospital for about four months had charge of the dormitory during the absence on this day of the lady assistant. It appeared that Smith had had no previous experience prior to his going to work at the institution in question. It also appeared from the testimony of the witness Smith, that he had allowed Zottole at his request to leave the institution on the 16th day of February, 1928, for the purpose of getting a little air and exercise, and that while he, the said Smith, had been employed in the dormitory, Zottole had been allowed by the supervisor to go out several times unattended and that he had been informed by his second in charge that Zottole was a paroled patient and that by that he understood to be a patient who has the right to go out and in. All of which evidence was uncontradicted it did, however, appear that Zottole had been confined to his bed for about ten days prior to his leaving the institution but it appeared that he had on his hat and coat at the time he requested leave to out of the institution.

While it is true that there might have been an error of judgment on the part of Smith in allowing Zottole to leave the institution under the circumstances of the case, still, under all the circumstances and evidence in the case, I am unable to find any criminal act of negligence on the part of Smith, and I am constrained to find after a careful investigation of all the circumstances and a review of all the evidence and do find and am satisfied that the death of Alfonse Zottole was not caused by the criminal act, omission or negligence of any person or persons.

PLAINFIELD PROS TURN TABLES ON MILLVILLE TOWNERS, WINNING 35 TO 25

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Feb. 22.—Last night at the Plainfield Community house 300 guests with appetites hungering for excitement were treated to a real palatable game of basketball between Plainfield and the Millville town team. Plainfield won 35 to 25, which satisfied the craving of all who attended. From the initial tap in the first half to the final honk of the timekeeper's signal, the outcome as to who would come out on the long end of the score was a mere matter of conjecture.

During the first several minutes of play neither side was able to penetrate the offense of the other, and the only means of scoring to start off the game was by a foul by Bernot of Plainfield which was followed closely by a like shot by Kasper the fast traveling guard of the Millville team. Brusso, of Plainfield, was the first to fathom the defense of Millville, and by clever dribbling succeeded in bringing the ball to the home end of the floor for the first field goal of the game.

From then on the scoring was in see-sawing rotation, neither side having an advantage of over two points throughout the first half. Kasper came through with Millville's first field goal, and the Millville boys tried hard to even the score. But the team work of Plainfield kept the Massachusetts boys from catching up.

Kasper Starts Scoring.

Kasper personally conducted a slaughtering offense at the opening of the second half. His pass work and guarding and his two beautiful long shots for field goals made the spectators, for the moment, forget there were nine other players on the floor, so spectacular was his work. Running a close second to Kasper, Madden, of Plainfield, seemed to resurrect himself to be the inspiration for the rest of the team. He went to work, hand in hand with Dissenger and Bernot, and made three well earned field goals. Millville managed to keep going along, closely trailing the local boys, but the Plainfield team refused to be beaten and, after some hard playing it was apparent that the Millville boys were being worn down. Dissenger made two field and three fouls, Bernot two fields and Benson one, along with Madden's which completely overwhelmed their opponents. Kasper ended Millville's scoring with another field goal while Dessenger made Plainfield's last point. The summaries:

Launie Ross, the Bulldog's star sprinter, and three of last year's freshman track team made up the quartet that established the new time. They ran against a freshman team, making the distance in 1:33 2-5 seconds.

KAPLAN GETS VICTORY FOR MAYS BOUT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 22—(AP)—The Bridgeport Telegram will say tomorrow that Henry J. Gerrity, state referee, reversing his decision after discovering that he had made an error in adding points, today named Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion of the world, the winner of the Bobby Mays-Kid Kaplan bout at the New Haven arena last Monday.

At the close of the bout Referee Gerrity, known all over the country as "Young McAuliffe", former featherweight boxer, declared the bout a draw and today's reversal, the Telegram will say, is the first under the regime of Thomas E. Donohue, state boxing commissioner. Commissioner Donohue was informed of the decision by the Telegram prior to his leaving the city after watching Jack Delaney work out for his bout with Tom Heeney.

The official count, according to Gerrity's card, gave Kaplan 46 points as against 46 for Mays. In adding up the totals at the close of the ninth round, Referee Gerrity counted 41 for each boxer. He declared the last round a draw, giving each boxer a total of 46. The actual count however, proved to be 42 to Kaplan at the close of the ninth round and 41 for Mays. With five points added to each boxer's total, Kaplan should have won the bout by the slightest of margins.

Gerrity found his error upon returning to his home and immediately communicated with Commissioner Donohue, explaining the matter. Commissioner Donohue told him to decide as to the proper course and today Gerrity changed the decision.

"I wish to congratulate Gerrity for his manly act in reversing the decision," Commissioner Donohue said when informed of it. "Anyone can make a mistake. Those that don't have never done anything, but to come out in the open and in fact of all criticism, I believe Gerrity should be praised, and his action has my hearty backing," he said.

FRANK LOCKHARDT TURNS TURTLE AT 225 MILES PER HOUR IN RECORD TRY

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., 23—(AP)—Frank Lockhart, internationally known race driver of Indianapolis, narrowly escaped instant death late today when he lost control of his powerful Stutz Black Hawk Special during an attempt to set a new world's automobile speed record and hurtled with it into the surf while traveling at 225 miles an hour.

Pinned in Seat

He was pinned in the driver's seat of the machine by the steel frame of the side, which was stove in by the violent impact of the waves, but a fortunate circumstance landed the car right side up after it had turned a complete somersault from the beach speedway and also kept the machine from going beyond his depth.

His face and arms were lacerated and he was thought to have suffered a broken arm and possible internal injuries, but a superficial examination revealed no serious hurts.

Observers who rushed into the sea and pulled the wrecked machine back to the beach found Lockhart helpless but conscious, with water up to his neck. It was necessary for mechanics to cut away the side of the car to release him.

"I'm all right," was his only expression after he had been dragged from the water.

The racer's wife was among the crowd of several thousands persons who witnessed the accident and was one of the first to reach the water's edge. She fainted when she saw that he had been hurt and did not see him lapse into semi-consciousness as he was rushed away in an ambulance.

Lockhart's car, speeding at a terrific rate, was about to enter the measured mile—official clocking distance for the speed trial—when it was seen to careen sharply to the right, strike an incoming wave and rise into the air turning a complete flip and landing 40 or 50 feet out in the ocean on its wheels.

Visibility Poor

The visibility was extremely poor because of low hanging clouds, but Lockhart had decided late in the day to essay the race against time due to the short length of time remaining for the trials, which, to receive American Automobile association sanction, must be made before the present speed carnival ends tomorrow afternoon.

After two trips over the measured mile, up and down the beach, Lockhart was making the first run, northward. He had a start of several miles before entering the official stretch and was believed to have had his racer virtually wide open. Timers clocked him at the moment of the spill at 225 miles per hour.

To those who witnessed it, Lockhart's escape alive was considered miraculous, because of the double threat of instant death in the crash of the car and drowning. The little car was dented and revealed a definite sag in the middle of the frame, but mechanics' first estimates of damage to it ran from "total wreck" to "not badly damaged."

At the hospital, anaesthetics were administered to Lockhart in preparation for a thorough X-ray examination to determine whether an operation was necessary. He was semi-conscious and appeared to be suffering little pain, physicians said.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 persons were in the stands when the accident occurred.

Lockhart was the only American left in the running for a chance at the new record of 206.9 miles per hour set here Sunday by Captain Malcolm Campbell, of England. Since neither he nor his machine will be in a condition to race again before the A. A. A.'s time limit expires tomorrow, the new mark thus will remain for the time at least in England, where the previous record of 202.7 miles an hour also was held—by Major H. O. D. Segrave.

J. M. White, Philadelphia manufacturer, who had entered his 36 cylinder-ed Triplex Special in the speed event, was barred from competing by the American Automobile association today because an auxiliary reverse gear installed in his machine did not meet the official body's standards. This will not prevent him from making an unofficial run against time, which he has announced he probably will essay.

Lockhart had decided against the speed attempt today after an earlier trial run had convinced him that weather conditions were unfavorable, but the crowd in the stands yelled so persistently for "action" that he finally reconsidered.

Waited Hour Before Starting

Driving to the far end of the course, the 25 year old speed king waited an hour for one of the showers that had fallen intermittently throughout the day to pass. Finally the roar of his motor became audible long before a blurred streak came into view a half mile from the official starting point. The next thing the spectators knew the little machine had plunged into the ocean.

The same spectators a moment later scrambled and fought each other through the surf to be the first to reach the imprisoned driver. They were repeatedly beaten back by the waves before a firm hold was taken on the little racing car and it was dragged with its pilot to safety.

Not Seriously Hurt

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22—(AP)—A complete examination of Frank Lockhart, racing car driver who was hurt when his speeding Stutz Black Hawk Special plunged into the ocean today while he was trying for a world's speed record, showed him to be suffering principally from shock. His arm was not broken and no internal injuries were apparent, physicians said.

LOCKHART HOLDS STRING OF AUTO SPEED RECORDS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 22—(AP)—Frank Lockhart, youthful American automobile race driver, who was injured at Daytona Beach, Fla., today, while attempting to establish a new world's record, for one mile on a straight course, holds every American speed record from one to one hundred miles for circular tracks. He is 25 years old, and was born in Dayton, Ohio. He is married and maintains a home in Los Angeles.

Three years ago, virtually unknown in big league automobile racing, Lockhart came to Indianapolis to watch the stars practice for the annual 500 mile race. Another race driver's illness three days before the 1926 race provided a golden opportunity for Lockhart. He was given the mount, broke the track record in a qualifying trial and then won the race. He was a winner from there on, his monetary rewards being greater than any other pilot in America during the last two years. Last year he did not finish the 500 mile race, but won more than $12,000 in lap prizes. He was very successful on other tracks last year, establishing records at Detroit and elsewhere.

Car Cost $70,000

Lockhart began building his Stutz Black Hawk nearly five months ago for the speed trials at Daytona Beach. The tiny speedster cost more than $70,000. No one had ever driven it but Lockhart who confidently expected to hurl his car over the mile course on the Daytona Beach sands at between 225 and 240 miles an hour.

It was his ambition not only to establish the record but to prove that a scientifically constructed motor car, built to lessen wind resistance and eliminate other elements, could attain more speed with a small motor than those types of cars which carried much greater power plants. The Stutz car had a 16 cylinder engine, which developed 400 horsepower.

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 23—Some hundred members and their guests this afternoon at 2.30 attended the annual Washington's birthday observance of Phebe Green Ward chapter, D. A. R., of Westerly. The regent, Mrs. Lillian T. Freeman presided. The program in charge of the chapter flag committee, Mrs. William A. Wilcox, chairman, Miss Sylvia W. Lanphear, Mrs. William B. Livingstone, Mrs. W. It included: An address of welcome by the regent; George Washington's Prayer by the chaplain, Mrs. Frank I. Payne; Miss Bessie Cross led in the singing of America. For groups of Girl Scouts in folk dancing in costume, Miss Helen Carpenter was at the piano. The groups were in charge of Scout Leaders Mrs. Raymond H. Hiscox and Mrs. Arthur Trotman. Miss Bessie Cross sang a patriotic soprano solo, with Mrs. John N. Cranston, accompanist.

The vestry was decorated with groups of flags in the windows, with an American flag on the altar, also the Rhode Island state flag. At the rear of the platform were large framed pictures of George and Martha Washington. There were patriotic favors. Small cakes, candies, sandwiches and tea were served. Each member of the chapter was privileged to invite one or more guests.

On Washington's birthday in Westerly there was a greater showing of flags on walks, public and private buildings than on Lincoln's birthday, or Grand Army Flag day. At 12 o'clock, noon, with strong southerly wind blowing the national salute of 21 guns for the father of his country was plainly heard all about town when fired from Fort H. G. Wright, Fishers Island. The public schools and town offices were closed for the day as well as the banking houses, while the post office observed holiday hours. Manufacturing plants and retail stores remained open as usual. Travel by train and auto continued light all day. There were extra buses operated on through coach lines. Many Westerly people went to Phenix, R. I., to attend the annual meeting of the Rhode Island State Christian Endeavor convention held there. Members from Westerly and surrounding towns attended the state legislature for the special Washington program.

Mudlong Woman's Relief corps, No. 2, held a meeting Wednesday evening. At the close a Washington party was held. Members of the J. F. Trumbull W. R. C. of Stonington were the guests of the evening.

Harriet Beecher Stowe Tent, No. 2, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war met Tuesday evening in the G. A. R. room. An invitation read from Amos F. Chapman Camp to be their guests Thursday evening March 1 was accepted. A short Washington program followed the business session, all members taking part. Quartermaster Joseph Rooney of Budlong Post, G. A. R., gave a brief talk on his visit to Mount Vernon, home of George Washington.

Sparks from a chimney set fire Tuesday afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock to the roof of a house owned by the Bradford Dyeing association in Douglas park, Bradford. The fire company of the mill made a quick run and soon had the fire out, the damage amounting to less than $100.

A letter carried by Lindbergh Air Mail addressed to William H. Goodgeon of Westerly, was on exhibition in his store window Wednesday. The letter carried the horseshoe cancellation with red, white and blue stripes and was postmarked Springfield, Ill. Mr. Goodgeon also received a letter which was carried by an escorting plane. Both envelopes are on display in his show window.

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT

There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way, modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 30 years—millions of boxes of them. And everybody, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola, because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.

NOANK

William Frank'in, the human fish, takes a swim every morning the year round. Tuesday morning when the temperature was 8 above zero he was in his automobile bound for the town dock to have a short swim in his green bathing suit. A small crowd was on hand to see him do his daily dozen. It made them shiver as the human fish was swimming about turning blue with the cold. His trainer, William Crowell, said, "How was it today?" He answered, "The worst this winter—and the thin ice made it bad; but with my rub-down I will feel 10 years younger!"

Edward Mahoney has shipped as mate on the boat Dick.

Berand Steward was at Deep River Tuesday.

Noank Fire company held its meeting on Tuesday evening with Foreman Walter Palmer in the chair. Twenty-five were present. The dance committee made a report. Chief Park said that the siren drive is all ready to start and new hose is badly needed, and it would take $500 to purchase it. That matter was put over until next month. Foreman Walter Palmer told his smoke-eaters that the last time the bell rang for a fire it could not be heard down near the shipyard. George Dunn, of Boston, explained how the fires are put out in the bean town. For over 30 minutes he talked, giving a good lesson to the village fire fighters and he got a big hand. After the meeting Assistant Steward Robert Lamoy gave them hamburger sandwiches with onions and cream puffs with coffee. Then there was a boxing match between Carl Ashcraft and Lamoy for five rounds. Quick Punch Lamoy got over a hard left to the body that sent the pride of the smoke eaters for a sleep of ten seconds that won the match for Lamoy. A Spanish dance was put on by Dinty Banks and Eddie Ellis and made a hit.

Daniel O'Hara, 76, a former carpenter at the shipyard who after being ill only a few days was taken to Home Memorial hospital, New London, and died there, had lived in Noank over 30 years. CITIZENS FIGHT OVER JOKE

Blake Springs, O., February 20—A fist fight occurred at 9 o'clock this morning between Hector T. Brodie, the grocer, and Elmer S. Bone, the lawyer.

* * *

After each had knocked the other down four times, Constable Toohey stopped the melee. He suggested the combatants apologize to each other and they did. Then Mr. Bone offered Mr. Brodie an Old Gold cigarette, which was accepted. They lit up, smiled and went into the grocery store arm in arm.

* * *

"They should have smoked them Old Golds first," was the Constable's comment.

* * *

USELESS INFORMATION

Columbus never rode a bicycle or smoked an Old Gold.

* * *

General Grant, when asked why he smoked so many cigars said, "I can't wait sixty-three years for Old Golds, can I?"

ADVICE TO LOVERS

By The Great Lover, J. Angus McSlash

Q.—I am in an awful fix. I met a young man who was a dear and we fell in love at first sight. He called on me at my home last week and our dog bit him. He then left in a rage and I have not heard from him since. Did you ever hear of a similar case? GLADYS.

A.—Yes, we heard of a case just like it. The dog had been raised in a home where everybody smoked Old Golds. Consequently he had never heard a human being cough. The young man caller smoked an inferior cigarette, and, of course, coughed loudly throughout the evening. The dog thought it a challenge.

OLD GOLDS do not taint the breath. Only the most fragrant tobaccos . . . no harsh raw leaf. Good-bye, smoker's breath.

* * *

The Wild West is no more. Nowadays the cowboy who used to "roll his own" smokes Old Golds.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week inclement weather retarded the building progress to some extent and during the latter part of the week the heavy snow brought outside work to an abrupt halt. This is the first time this season that the weather has seriously interfered with the work. Excavation work and cement work was brought to a halt by the snow and will not be resumed until more favorable weather. However interior work goes on without interruption.

That there will be considerable new building in the business section is evidence by the three fires which did considerable damage during the past week. The building that housed the Norwich Grain company is a total wreck and in all probability will be rebuilt by the owners or by someone else during the present year.

At the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton and a number of building applications were received but only one or two building permits were granted. These were for small buildings and small value.

The work at the Silberman block on Main street reached the completion stage last week and the store was open for inspection on Saturday. This building is one of the most modern in the city and from the Water street side is eight stories high, the tallest building in the city.

Other buildings are waiting for more favorable weather and will be completed within a short time.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were ten sales of real estate in Norwich as compared to seven sales for the corresponding week in 1927. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $37,450 and $24,700.

There were four sales of real estate in New London during the past week a decrease of eight sales from the total sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $35,845 and $39,497.

State Building Permits

Building activity in Connecticut, as gauged by the record of building permits issued in the leading building centers, continues at a higher rate than in 1927. This condition, influenced to some extent, no doubt, by the most favorable kind of building weather, has obtained from the first of the year, and, if it continues, promises to establish a new building record in Connecticut for the first quarter. Last week the number of permits issued was 236 and the total of estimated building costs was $1,427,314.

New London

Building activity about the city and surrounding territory, as gauged by the work already under way and by the number of permits issued for new building started, or about to be started, continues at a higher rate than in 1927, and the present outlook is seen to be a new building record for the first quarter of the year, a period which is usually the lowest of the year.

Undoubetdly the situation is a result of the exceptionally fine weather which has prevailed this winter. In few, if any, instances has the weather interfered to any great extent in construction work under way, there having been but few days of the season in which work was handicapped by the weather.

Forty-nine building permits have already been issued by the council this year and there are many more now awaiting action by the council. Of this number, ten are for new dwellings, an exceptionally large number of permits for new houses at this time of year, indicating a desire on the part of the prospective builders to take advantage of the weather, and start work much sooner than would ordinarily be the case.

Plans have been prepared for a new garage to be built in the rear of 420 Bank street for Max Abrams and Ezekiel Spitz. The new building is to be 45 by 35 feet, with an ell 23 by 40 feet. The structure will be of brick and steel. The plans are now being figured and it is expected that application for permit will be granted and work started on the new structure in the near future.

Building Permits

Mohegan Dairy Co., addition, 73 Jefferson avenue, $3,000.

Peter Mros, dwelling, Whittlesey street, $7,000.

Conn. Motor Trans. Co., alterations, 9 State street, $6,000.

Dominic Castanza, alterations, 9 Grand street, $150.

J. Goldstein, veranda, 58 Jefferson avenue, $250.

John Mondelci, garage, Fuller street, $600.

Hugh Lloyd, porch, 1 Griswold court, $300.

Philip Bruner, cement block garage, 53 Summer street, $600.

Norman Reed, garage, Oneco avenue, $600.

Peter Mros, garage, Whittlesey avenue, $300.

Total number of permits issued for the week, 10; estimated cost of buildings, $18,800.

Mystic

Repairs and improvements to the Tenth district school of Mystic will be made according to resolutions passed at a recent meeting of the voters of the district. The resolutions provide for repairs to the sills, etc., new floors in the primary department and entry halls, general repairs throughout the building, installation of sanitary drinking fountains and installation of suitable modern toilet facilities. The installation of a new heating plant will also be undertaken when the contemplated repairs have been completed.

CITIES IN STATE SHOW BUILDING INCREASE

January, 1928, showed a remarkable increase in building activity over January, 1927, practically every town and city in Connecticut issuing a volume of building permits in excess of their total of the same month last year, according to figures compiled by the New Haven road through its committee on industrial development. Of the twenty-one cities from which reports were obtained by the railroad, only four fell short their totals of January, 1927, all of the others starting off the year with extraordinarily substantial increases. Stamford and Bridgeport made the most substantial gains over their building figures of last year.

As compared with their building totals for December, increases in January were recorded in Bridgeport, Danbury, Greenwich, Meriden, Stamford, Torrington and West Haven. Stamford had the high total of permits for the month, its biulding grants being valued at $622,495. Hartford was second, issuing permits valued at $581,955 and just topping the month's total of Greenwich. The comparative figures compiled by the railroad are as follows:

WINDHAM

STORM SENDS THE BIRDS TO FEEDBOX NEAR HOUSE

While bluebirds and flickers were heard last week, Windham has since experienced its first real touch of winter. It snowed Friday night and at intervals all day Saturday. Sunday and Monday were beautiful winter days. The birds appreciate the feedbox and suet tied on the bushes. Chickadees, bluejays, woodpeckers, sparrows, starlings and nuthatches visit the bush daily and since the snow storm a few juncoes have appeared. The woodpeckers rarely visit the feedbox, aparently preferring the suet.

Miss Ines Hopkins visited at Clifford Williams' in Willimantic.

William, one of the state road men, on opening a culvert, dug out two lively frogs.

Mrs. Cole of Prospect Harbor, Me., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. DeWitt Lathrop.

Word was received in town last week of the sudden death in Boston of Mr. Duncan, whose wife was a Windham girl, Mrs. Cora Moulton Duncan.

WIDOW LOSES IN CLAIM FOR WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

The workmen's compensation claim made by Mrs. Mary Bashaw of 23 Carpenter street, widow of Leroy Bashaw, who was fatally injured while driving an automobile last Thanksgiving day morning on Thames street, has been disallowed by Commissioner Albert J. Bailey who finds that the claimant is unable to sustain the burden of proof that her husband's injury arose out of and in the course of his employment at the garage. Bashaw was an employe of the Commercial garage on Shetucket street who crashed into a pole and wall on Thames street while driving the machine of a patron which he had taken out of the garage.

The commissioner finds that Bashaw was employed by the Commercial garage in this city, as a night man, from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m., and his duty being to wash automobiles brought in for that purpose.

On the morning of Nov. 24, which happened to be Thanksgivin morning at about 6 o'clock, Bashaw while driving an automobile belonging to a man by the name of Maynard, figured in an accident, receiving injuries which resulted in his death five days later without regaining consciousness.

Leroy Bashaw left surviving him, his wife and three minor children, ranging in age from 2 to 4 years, all of whom were supported by him regularly.

The sole question to be determined in this case, Commissioner Bailey says, is whether the decedent sustained his injury which resulted in his death in a manner and under circumstances which would entitle his dependents to the benefits of the workmen's compensation act; that is, did the injury arise out of and in the course of his employment?

No evidence at a hearing held on the matter was introduced by the widow of the deceased, but from the witnesses produced by the respondents, Commissioner Bailey says, it is found that the injury received at about 6 a. m. and at a place about one-quarter of a mile from the decedent's place of employment, about an hour before his time for quitting work at the garage, and that it was caused by an automobile accident, that he was riding in an auto at the time, for what purpose there is no evidence available, and that men employed as car washers at the garage in question were not allowed to take autos out of the garage, that it was not known that the decedent had left his work on the morning in question until he was missed by his employer and a telephone call came into the garage telling of the accident in which he figured.

In summing up, Commissioner Bailey says that the injured employe did not regain consciousness at any time prior to his death, and made no statement as to his accident, and the claimant, Mrs. Bashaw, is unable to sustain the burden of proof placed upon her by the act, and has no knowledge as to the intentions of the decedent at the time of his death, and no information is obtainable to explain his actions at the time, but the evidence introduced by the respondents, Commercial garage and Aetna Life Insurance company is sufficient on which to dismiss the claim, as at the time the decedent was not at the place of his employment although he was on his employer's time, he was not at a place where he was supposed to be or on any business for the employer's benefit, as they had no knowledge of his whereabouts until notified of the accident which had occurred and he was not permitted to take an auto out of the garage, had never done so previously, and had no permission to do so on this occasion.

SPECTACULAR TRADING IN ARTIFICIAL SILK SHARES ON THE LONDON MARKET

LONDON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The Old Lady of Threadneedle street, as the Bank of England is called, had a front row seat today at the most spectacular trading performance in artificial silk shares on the stock exchange which the commercial world has ever experienced. The fun began almost before the old lady had properly finished her breakfast, wiped her spectacles and opened her place of business.

The overnight announcement of a $60,000,000 bonus for shareholders of Courtauld, Ltd., artificial silk makers, was the cause of the excitement. The stock exchange is just across street from the Bank of England. The wedge-shaped quarter acre space in front of the exchange building was thronged with brokers, clerks and assistants long before nine o'clock, which is the official opening hour. There were so many excited men yelling and calling, wigwagging with hands and arms, making faces and undergoing other contortions that the stenographers, telephone girls, typists and the thousands of other young women employed in the financial district had fairly to fight their way through the crowds to their offices.

Dealing in Courtauld's stock actually started half an hour before the exchange opened. As time passed the crowd was increased by interested persons who came from all directions, and the babble of conversation, shouts and yells became more intense. The crowd swarmed like bees around new honey. Practically every broker of the financial district had clients interested in Courtauld and as soon as these clients had read the news in the morning papers they hurried to the city to consult their brokers and participate in the excitement.

The shares which closed yesterday at 7 11-16 rose today to 9 pounds and five shillings. They afterwards fell back slightly but then climbed again while the brokers scrambled, dodged and wriggled through and around the seething mass endeavoring to reach a nearer position. In a few moments after the exchange opened the shares had shot up to 9 pound—in other words, the total market value of the ordinary shares had risen more than $65,000,000 in about ten minutes. The excitement spread like wildfire and affected all other sections of th artificial silk market.

The history of Courtauld, Ltd., is one of the most dramatic industrial developments since the World war. It was estimated that the company now controls 80 per cent. of the world's artificial silk trade. It was organized in 1913 with a capital of only 2,500,000 pounds which has now grown to 32,000,000 pounds without any new subscriptions. The dividend this year was at the rate of 25 per cent.

The fact that the New York exchange was closed today in observance of Washington's birthday prevented buying and selling orders from the other side but as it was today's scenes were among the wildest in the history of the Old Lady of Threadneedle street who has been on the job in the same place for 284 years. Habitues of the exchange found a parallel only in the great Kiffir boom in the nineties.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Plans being worked out by Flint & Co., Inc., to consolidate a large group of southern yarn mills into a strictly southern corporation, are nearing completion and announcement may be made shortly of the mills to be included in the merger. About 1,700,000 spindles are being appraised by Robert & Co., and pending a final report on this work, J. Henry Smith, president of Flint & Co., was disinclined to go into details. More than 100 mills already have been appraised.

During 1927, General Motors corporation sold 193,330 cars to overseas dealers compared with 118,791 in 1926 and 109,894 in 1925. Sales in 1927 were 63.2 per cent. higher than in 1926 and 92.1 per cent. ahead of 1925.

The merger of Trumbull Steel with Republic Iron & Steel, effective May 1, is being regarded as an indication of other aggressive developments that will strengthen Republic's position in the steel industry. Excess of steel capacity is said to have handicapped Republic in the past, compared with actual output of finished products. The merger with Trumbull will remedy this condition to some extent, it is believed, as Trumbull's finishing capacity exceeds its open hearth steel production.

Reports from both artificial and natural gas divisions of Cities Service company show the sale in 1927 of 3,825 gas fired central house-heating plants. Approximately 700,000,000 cubic feet of gas will be consumed during heating seasons by these installations, Henry L. Doherty & Co., reports.

Two new issues, totaling $5,900,000 for the Inland Gas corporation will be marketed tomorrow, $4,400,000 first mortgage 4 1-2s and $1,500,000 debenture 7s. Both issues will be priced at par and interest.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT BROUGHT FOR $7,000

Suit brought against Reuben B. S. Washburn, of this city, by Jacob Slosberg, also of this city, for $7,000 has been withdrawn without costs from the docket of the superior court. The plaintiff claimed that the defendant was in his employ on Sept. 3, 1921, as manager of the lumber department of Slosberg's business and that Slosberg extended credit to the firm of Washburn & Healey, consisting of Thomas G. Washburn and Jeremiah Healey, the former being a son of Reuben Washburn. The Washburn & Healey partnership went into bankruptcy Nov. 15, 1926, and paid only about 10 per cent. Slosberg claimed that he had been induced to extend credit because of an alleged statement by Reuben Washburn that he had $5,000 or upwards in the Norwich Savings society which belonged to his son, and he sued Reuben Washburn for the balance of $5,481.91, due him from the bankrupt partnership.

Most of the allegations made by the plaintiff were denied by the defendant.

Electrical Energy—
A Basic Commodity

Intangible though it is, electrical energy has become a basic commodity.

It is probably most commonly thought of in connection with the lighting of homes and offices.

But nearly half of the electrical energy now generated in public service plants is sold directly for industrial use.

It enters into manufactured products just as truly as do iron, copper, wood and other visible materials.

Thus the first feeble electric light bulb of 1882 has grown into an industry of vast economic importance—and to that extent furnishes a basis for safe and productive investment.

Our main business for over 20 years has been to enable investors to place their money safely and advantageously in this industry. More than ever we recommend such investment.

CAN OF ALCOHOL FOUND IN BED DURING A RAID AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23—Joseph L. Jackson, colored and his wife "Jimmie" residing at 12 Richards street were arrested this afternoon by state and local police charged on two counts, selling liquor and conducting a disorderly house and conducting and promoting gambling, when the officers raided the house. Each was held in bail of $1,000. Ida Johnson and Olivia M. Woods of this city and Tessie Maynard of New Orleans, La., were also arrested charged with frequenting and were held in bail of $50 which they furnished. The man and four women will be in the police court tomorrow.

The raid was made about noon when Sergeants Nelson Smith, of New London and Patrolmen John Courtney, Elwood Bailey and George Perkins and Sergeant Henry Albright, state police, went to the house. The officers went to the rear entrance and obtained admission. A search of the house was started and a can of alcohol was found in a bed while liquor was found in the kitchen and a 25-cent slot machine was found in one of the sleeping rooms. The liquor and the gambling device were seized as evidence against Jackson and his wife. The three women, who were found in the house were arrested and at police headquarters the five were interrogated at length, each making a statement, which was not concluded until after 4 o'clock. The raid was made upon information lodged with Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin by Patrolman George Perkins, on whose beat the Jackson house is located and by Sergeant Albright, the latter stating that one or two men had been robbed of $55 at the Jackson house last Saturday night. Patrolman Perkins informed the Prosecuting attorney of what he had observed on his beat, particularly the visiting of the house by numerous white men. Sergeant Albright stated that one man claiming to have been robbed and his companion went to the Jackson house and there they purchased liquor and were entertained by women. When the entertaining part of the evening's program had been concluded one of the men discovered that he was without his money. Claiming that he had been robbed, he went to the state police barracks and made the complaint against Jackson and his wife.

Carl Lee Miles, United States Coast Guard, a member of the crew of the patrol boat Legare, stationed at the state pier, was in the police court this morning charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law, in driving while under the influence of liquor. He was fined $100 and costs. Lee was driving his car on State street early this morning and when he was stopped he was arrested by Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman John Sullivan and Frank Philopena as there was no doubt as to his being intoxicated.

The children of the Learned mission were given pleasure this afternoon when the annual patriotic social of the mission was held. About 140 children participated, playing games and giving recitations, besides enjoying a bountiful lunch.

SHIP AND ENGINE CO. BOAT NO LONGER RUNNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23—The New London Ship & Engine company has discontinued operating between New London and the Groton plant, the boat which has transported the working force residing in this city to and from their employment for several years. The working force will now go and come from their work by trolley car. The company has also caused the hours of going to work and concluding labor of employes to be changed. The same number of hours are provided. The force has been starting work at 7.30 o'clock in the morning and quitting at 4.30 o'clock, now work is started at 8 o'clock and ended at 5.

In all probability the Nelseco II, owned by the Ship & Engine company and which has plied between Norwich, New London and Block Island for several years during the summer months, will not be used for this purpose next summer, for it was stated that the boat was up for sale and if a purchaser was found the motor boat would be sold. Providing that the Nelseco II is sold, it will mean that visitors to Block Island will have to be provided with another means of transportation to the summer resort. If another boat is not maintained out of this port, the visitors to Block Island will be compelled to go to Providence and take a steamer from that port.

RELATIVES CLAIM BODY OF WOMAN DEAD ON BARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23—The body of Rose Woods, of New Haven, who died aboard a barge in the harbor on Monday afternoon after being ill a week, was claimed last night by relatives who came to this city and arranged for the forwarding of the body to New Haven that the funeral and burial might take place there. Charles Betz, master of the barge, who was held as a witness in bail of $1,000 was released from custody last night and returned to his boat. The woman met Betz in New Haven a week ago last Tuesday and consented to make a trip with the mariner, who is master of the barge "Blue Smoke," owned by the James McWilliams line, 1 Broadway, New York. Betz declares that the woman was ill when the barge was taken in town and the trip for New London began. The woman's condition had not improved when the barge came to anchor in the harbor. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman's investigation showed that death had resulted from pneumonia with complications.

The funeral of Joseph P. Griffin of No. 31 Willetts avenue, who died Sunday at a hospital in Newark, N. J., while visiting his daughter, was held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by many mourners. A high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callahan. As a waiting hymn, Edward F. Murray sang "There's a Beatulful Land On High." The bearers were Charles Maxson, David Reags, Frank DeWitt and Harry Lavelle, the latter of Newark. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

A Ford automobile which has no markers and in which registration could not be found, was taken in charge by the police today and was removed to a garage where it awaits the owner. The auto had been parked on Broad street, near Dow court over 24 hours and complaint was made to the police.

Patrolman Michael Dorsey reported at police headquarters this morning that an overflow of the cesspool on the premises, 20 Nameaug street, has caused a health menace for the contents of the cesspool has entered the highway and a nauseating stench arises. The house is owned by Mrs. Minmaking his rounds late last night discovered the entrance of the Hebrew school, corner of Blackhall and Truman street unguarded as to permit entrance by intruders or thieves. The front entrance was not locked and six of the windows were unfastened. The officer was able to secure the entrance and the windows for the balance of the night.

MRS. FISHER FOUND FROZEN NEAR POND AT QUAKER HILL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23—The body of Mrs. Gertrude Fisher, 36, wife of Louis Fisher, 579 Bank street, who probably died from swallowing poison with suicidal intent or from exposure, was found at Quaker Hill late this afternoon. The finding of the body ended a search of 48 hours for the woman by New London and state police and Boy Scouts. From the time that Mrs. Fisher was discovered missing from her home, it was anticipated that she would end her existence and because of that theory searchers used every effort in their endeavor to obtain some trace of Mrs. Fisher. Other than her husband, she has no survivors, so far as is known, although distant relatives reside in Boston, in which city Mrs. Fisher formerly resided.

The body was found about 5 o'clock when a young man spied the form of a woman on the shore of the pond at the foot of Rolles' Hill, opposite the former Robertson paper mill. Finding the woman frozen stiff, the youth went to a telephone and called up police headquarters in New London, telling of the finding of the body. An attempt was made to reach Mr. Fisher, but he could not be located. The state police of Groton, was also acquainted with the fact that a body had been found and an officer from the barracks was dispatched to Quaker Hill. Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh also went there and identification of the body was established.

The body was not in the water, excepting the feet. Her coat and hat were on the ground beside her. Because of the fact that the body was frozen, Medical Examiner Ross Black was unable to determine the cause of death, but will do so tomorrow when the body will have thawed somewhat. It is also possible that an autopsy will be performed to ascertain whether Mrs. Fisher died from poisoning.

Mrs. Fisher had apparently been suffering from a mental disorder for several weeks, although her condition was not believed to be serious because of her apparent rational condition most of the time. She prepared lunch for her husband Monday noon and as the husband partook of it Mrs. Fisher said that she intended to attend a vaudeville show that afternoon. That was the last seen of her. When her husband returned from work at night and found his wife absent he made a search for her without success. He then went to police headquarters and requested aid in finding his wife. The same request was made of the state police and yesterday when no trace of the woman was obtained the headquarters of the Boy Scouts was also asked for assistance. All day yesterday and today scouts scoured the outskirts and waterfront of the city and into Waterford.

Today a pedestrian stated that he had seen a woman answering Mrs. Fisher's description walking northward along Williams street, between Main street and Mohegan avenue, about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, along which highway she would walk to get to where the body was found. Where the body was recovered it is easy for a person to leave the highway and walk to the edge of the pond.

Anthony O'Sullivan, 71 West street, was arrested today by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in parking without markers on his car or having registration in the car. He will be in the police court tomorrow.

The annual conventions of the Connecticut Letter Carriers' association and the State Association of Mail Clerks held in New Britain today were attended by 28 clerks and carriers of the New London office. A dinner and dance brought the entertainment of the mail men to a close tonight.

Flavien J. Loiselle of Cromwell, a former resident of New London, died Sunday at Middlesex hospital, Middletown. The funeral was held at Mr. Loiselle's residence yesterday. Mr. Loiselle is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Roscoe A. Wilson, of this city and Mrs. John A. Bennet, of Cromwell. Mr. Loiselle moved to Cromwell two years ago. He was a member of the International Bible Students' association.

Mrs. Abbie A. Perry, 80, widow of Theodore L. Perry, of Waterford, died Monday at her home, at Tiverton, R. I. The body will be brought to Montville for burial in Comstock cemetery.

Mrs. Alan Rollins, of Niantic, a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

Another street improvement will be made within a short time for at a recent meeting of the planning board it was voted that the board approve the plan of improvement and widening of Main street. It is planned to have a cement highway from curb to curb laid from Main street to Mohegan avenue. The widening of the street in places will not result in the acquisition of any part of the sidewalks for that purpose.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

The comedy riot of the season, "A Texas Steer," with Will Rogers, America's cowboy-humorist and Congressman-at-large, opened its long-heralded engagement at the Breed theatre yesterday and it fully justified the advanced notices acclaiming it the outstanding comedy of the season.

Adding to the uproarous situations in the famous old Charles Hoyt stage success are Will Rogers' own titles, quite as funny as they are cracked up to be. The ex-Mayor of Beverly is surrounded by an all-star cast.

You'll see "A Texas Steer," of course. You'll roar with laughter. There's only one Will Rogers. Nobody can afford to miss him. You can't help but enjoy the splendid comedy.

Supporting Will Rogers and George Marion in this comedy sensation are Louise Fazenda, Lilyan Tashman, Ann Rork, Doug Fairbanks, Jr., Mack Swain, Lucien Littlefield, Arthur Hoyt and Bud Jamison. "A Texas Steer" will have its final showing at the Breed theatre tonight as will "A High School Hero," Fox Films release which is the co-feature on today's bill. This is a picture of youth and romance and a cast of youthful players are cast in the feature roles, including Sally Phipps, Fox Films latest discovery, Charles Paddock world famous sprinter, Nick Stuart and John Darrow.

Palace Theatre.

The Palace entertainment for Thursday, Friday and Saturday is a lively and colorful program bringing not only delightful dancing acts but some mighty humorous ones as well to the local stage. The management believes that its offering merits the attention of all who seek the best that the New York vaudeville booking offices include on their lists.

The headline act is Dorothy Ray and her eleven New York Steppers. It is not often that a city the size of Norwich has the opportunity to book an act of this caliber. It has proved an enviable knockout wherever it has appeared and it is sure to please the most critical of the local theatregoers. It's a jazzy, peppy up-to-the-minute revue with pretty girls, gorgeous costumes and wonderful dancing.

Four other big time acts make up the stage attraction. Baby Alice, the juvenile wonder, Purdy and Fair, the King and Queen of laughs, is a laugh a second. Dixon & O'Brien in a comedy skit entitled a Day in Dixie, and the four Alnoda Girls in a sensational aerial act.

The feature screen attraction for the last three days is "Doomsday," a Paramount picture, featuring Florence Vidor and Gary Cooper. "Doomsday" is taken from the novel by Warwick Deeping, the English novelist, who also wrote Sorrell & Son.

"Doomsday" is a picture with a moral, but don't let that keep you from seeing it. The moral is no sugar coated bromidic pill. It is woven in startling fashion through the fabric of a love story taken from life as it actually is. A love story that is as different from the usual one as day is from night.

Strand Theatre.

An old prospector, ambushed and dying; a desperate race down a precipitous mountain road to stop a runaway; an epic battle in a lonely cabin; a dynamited mine-shaft—these are some of the highlights of "The Dead Line," now showing at the Strand. With Bob Custer as the star, every foot of film is pulsing with action and thrilling situations, and is plentifully sprinkled with comedy touches. Robert McKim makes a convincing heavy, and Nita Cavalieri a lovely heroine. Others in the cast are Marianna Moye, Billy Franey and Gino Corrado.

"The Country Beyond" is a screen picturization of the great novel by James Oliver Curwood, America's most popular author. It is a story of Broadway and the northwest and is splendidly presented by Wm. Fox and ably acted by an all star cast including Olive Borden, Ralph Graves, Gertrude Aster, J. Farrell McDonald and Fred Kohler.

We also show Aesop's Fables, which is light and amusing.

To the Indians of old Santa Fe, December is the "month of fire and ashes."

Watch Girls Gain in Two Weeks Time!

Growing girls and boys need something only Nature can provide. It isn't found in drugs, and it can't be done by diet. Enough fruit would keep the system sweet, but what youngster will eat a quart of apple-sauce every day; or six bananas; or a pound of figs? But all children just love the daily treat of California fig syrup. A rich and fruity syrup that delights the palate, and aids digestion of anything that's eaten. And whets the appetite of children who don't eat enough. Fig syrup for that listless, sluggish, or feverish child! It invigorates a torpid liver; thoroughly cleanses the entire alimentary tract. It will solve childish ills that might otherwise end in stomach disorders or in diarrhea. Try fig syrup! In two weeks you may not recognize the boy or the girl who is now handicapped by constipation or sour bile. Three days will tell that better assimilation and elimination are established. Twenty-four hours will clear the furriest tongue and have bowels in better condition! So much better than tonics of temporary value; or harmful cathartics! Let pure fig syrup take the place of both, but see that you do get the genuine California fig syrup; say "California" when you ask for the generous, sixty-cent bottle.

UNION

The Valentine party held by Mashapaug Lake grange at the town hall Wednesday evening, Feb. 15, was a success in every way. A good number of patrons and their friends were in attendance. The entertainment committee kept things lively with games and stunts which were heartily enjoyed. The refreshment committee's table was well patronized.

Mrs. Harvey M. Lawson went to New York this week to visit her daughter, Miss Evangeline Lawson.

Miss Ina Hathaway of Stafford High school was at her home at Mashapaug for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Gaudette and little daughter Catherine were guests Sunday at the home of David Gaudette and family.

Tuesday morning, Feb. 21, the mercury was at zero or lower.

Miss Grace Robinson, teacher of Rock Meadow school, was ill with tonsilitis at her home in Worcester, so the school was closed all last week. Miss Robinson returned last Sunday afternoon and is teaching this week.

Miss Bessie Moore of Bridgeport is the guest of Mrs. Ida G. Moore and family.

POETRY

The Peaceful Hearts.

(Inspired by the establishment of the Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Lasker $1,000,000 endowment for the prolongation of life.)

We have to pay our taxes every year;
The folk we love make bother all the while;
The price of all we have to buy is dear,
And clothes we can't wear out won't stay in style!

The weather in the Winter is too cold;
The ditto in the Summer is too hot.
We doubt the larger half of what we're told,
And what we don't is false, as like as not.

We're warned we need to build a fierce navy
Or tie tails in another gory war,
Some think the cruiser-builders get the gravy,
And that's what all the agitation's for.

The whole of life is trouble, as I see it—
From the cradle to the tomb we're sore beset.
If I could stop it all, I'd so decree it;
The planet and its contents are "all wet."

Chicago has Bill Thompson and the thugs—
Could George Rex make it worse were he to come?
All murderers are designated "hugs"
And none stretch hemp—I think it is so dumb!

Then, capping all the climaxes I mention
And making universal wrong seem wronger,
This Lasker guy, with questionable intention,
Establishes a fund to make life longer!
—Strickland Gillilan in Kansas City Star.

The Inside Facts.

The legend runs that, since the world
That we are in is leap,
Unmarried gentlemen must fear
Pursuit and loss of sleep.

It is an old, familiar joke
From which we're loth to part,
Derisive of the marriage yoke,
The lonely maiden heart.

In his mind's eye one clearly sees
How it's supposed to go—
Bachelors up the tallest trees
And spinsters camped below.

Now, that's a harmless type of fun,
A clean, innocuous jest,
That makes us laugh, and I for one
Enjoy it with the rest.

But there's a plot behind the mirth
A plot to which we're blind,
Tending to make the entire earth
Subject to womankind.

The women make the thing appear
As if the men were secure
(Excepting in one certain year)
From their come-hither lure.

Thus overconfidence prevails
When leap year once is past
And innocent, unwary males
Are caught, and tethered fast!
—Stoddard King, in

WELDING
The Modern Metal Surgeon
A welded part is as strong or stronger than a new one and the cost for welding is always nominal. There is no delay. Welding requires no enforced idleness while broken or worn parts are being replaced from a long distance. Everything of metal can be repaired. Small parts are re-made while you wait. Large and heavy equipment can usually be welded in place often without dismantling the machinery.
No job is too big or too small to be economically welded.

PREST-O-LITE NOW HAS LOCAL DISTRIBUTOR

The owners and operators of motor trucks in this section of the state may consider themselves fortunate in having a progressive, dependable concern such as the Norwich Welding Co., appointed distributors for Prest-O-Lite for Norwich and vicinity, as now they are assured of first class service at all times. They are also distributors for Prest-O-Weld, Oxy-Acetylene welding and cutting equipment, manufactured by Oxweld Acetylene company, also jobbers for Linde Oxygen and Prest-O-Lite acetylene for welding.

According to Mr. Bamber, proprietor of the welding company, Prest-O-Lite is the best light for trucks, and advances the following reasons why they are the best. In the first place Prest-O-Lite is the standard with experienced truck owners and is used by practically every big fleet owner in the country. It gives a steady penetrating light which has never been excelled, yet it does not blind or dazzle. It is always in service and dependable, as the racking vibrations and jolts of hard usage over rough roads do not impair its efficiency. There is no complicated mechanism which makes it easy to install and operate.

Mr. Bamber also calls attention to the fact that when people are putting their stoves, ranges and heaters into good condition that the Norwich Welding Co. is equipped to give first class welding service to those who find any broken parts, and brings out the point that a part that is welded with the acetylene system is as good and strong as new and usually the cost of welding is far below the cost of a new part.

Among the many things that this company is called upon to weld at this time of year are stove legs, stove doors and lids, gas stove parts, furnace parts, furnace tools, andirons, copper coils, range parts, hot water boilers, pipes for water or steam.

The men employed at the Welding company's plant are experienced workmen and every job is carefully and thoroughly done, with the result that the services of this fast growing concern, located at 95 North Main street, are in great demand.

WAUREGAN COFFEE SHOP CREDIT TO THE CITY OF NORWICH

The Wauregan Coffee Shop which opened on Monday, February 13th, has met instant favor with the people of Norwich, as well as with hundreds of people who travel through the city daily. Such a place has long been needed in this city and in bringing about the change at the Wauregan Hotel the present manager, Mr. Hannigan, is coming in for considerable praise.

The Wauregan Coffee Shop, located just to the right of the Main street entrance to the hotel and with inside outlets into the hotel proper, is decorated in antique finish and presents a most pleasing atmosphere throughout.

Directly in the center of the coffee shop is the large horseshoe counter, finished in black and orange. Placed conveniently about this counter are low comfortable stools which assures every patron of the shop all the comforts of chairs.

Another feature of the coffee shop which is novel to Norwich and is the latest in style is the location of the broilers and ranges for cooking. Here may be seen the two quick order cooks, working in full view of the patrons of the shop. To one side of the range is the spacious refrigerator, always freshly stocked with food.

The shop is ventilated with the latest of ventilating systems, thus assuring patrons that no odor of cooking may escape into the shop.

On three sides of the coffee shop is the balcony. Here are tables arranged especially for those who would prefer a little more privacy while eating. Tables are also placed on two sides of the main floor.

The former lunch bar, located in the hotel proper, connects with the new coffee shop. This is now being renovated and when it is completely renovated, which will be in about two weeks, it will contain tables and booths. An entrance from the lobby of the hotel will afford patrons entrance to this room, which has been more especially designed for more private patrons.

To everyone entering the Wauregan Coffee Shop one thing is instantly fixed in the mind. That is that the shop has been designed and furnished for quick and efficient service. Quick and efficient service plus delightful and properly cooked foods at popular prices is the policy of the shop. Norwich people have learned this already and the management of the hotel invites others to visit the shop and become acquainted.

J. F. MARCH WILL FIT YOUR EYES WITH TILLYER LENS

Remarking about the history of eye-glasses J. F. March, optometrist and optician, located in the Disco building, calls attention to the famous Tillyer lenses. The story back of these lenses he relates, in the following brief outline of eyeglass history:

Years ago everybody wore flat lenses; now everybody wears toric lenses. Toric lenses were better than flat because they followed the curve of the eye.

Could there be anything better than the toric lenses, anything that, ground to your prescription, will help your eyes to give you easy, fast, clearer vision? There is a scientific creation five years newer than radio.

Tillyer lenses, these are called, named after the scientist who developed them. They do not literally rotate with your eyes when they look up and down and sidewise, but they are mathematically computed to give clearer oblique vision. The difference is definite, noticeable. And so, the next chapter of eyeglass history will say:

Up-to-date 1928 persons began wearing Tillyer lenses, for Tillyers were better than toric.

Are your eyes up-to-date? Bring them to us next time you pass — they can't come without you—and let us fit you to the modern, best —obtainable, eyeglass lens.

Optical service means more than the mere supplying and fitting of glasses. Of greatest importance is the examination, which determines the success or failure of an attempt to make your eyes more useful and comfortable.

In order that your glasses fulfill all requirements expected of them, the examination must be accomplished by an experienced optical specialist.

We are located in the Disco building, 357 Main street. Rooms 201-204, Norwich, Conn. Phone 1312.

WHY I ADVERTISE?
I believe that seven-tenths of all headaches have their origin in strained vision. I also know that correctly fitted glasses will entirely relieve the headaches by removing the cause. Scarcely a day passes but I relieve some sufferer through my knowledge of making and fitting glasses. I am anxious that all sufferers should know there is a remedy so simple. This is one reason why I advertise.

Restful Ease after Coughing

"The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar for a dreadful cough, daytime and at night, was a restful one for me," says Mrs. Anne Davison, Long Beach, Calif. The hard cough that follows bronchitis and "flu" is weakening and when it "hangs on" very debilitating. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound puts a healing, soothing coating on a rough, inflamed throat, and immediately eases the irritation that causes the hard coughs. Dependable. Ask for it.

NEW ROAD LAYOUT BELOW LAUREL HILL STRAIGHTENS TWO HILL CURVES

Since the contract was awarded for the re-building of the military highway southerly from the city line on Laurel Hill to a point at the entrance of The Pines, the Norwich division office of the state highway department has marked out the lines of the new road with a series of stakes, which indicate the changes that are to be made from the present highway. Two of the notable improvements in the new layout will be the straightening of two sharp curves on hills between the city line and the state hospital grounds by cutting through the hills.

As indicated by the stakes that have been set, the new layout follows the course of the present highway from the city line until it approaches the winding downhill curve at the Lester place. Here it veers to the east and cuts through the hill so that it comes out to meet the line of the road on the southerly side of the hill. Following the present line for a short distance, the new layout then runs out into the lots on the westerly side of the present highway, making a straight run instead of the curve which now approaches the site of the O'Neil and Lester residences.

In front of the O'Neil and Lester residences and for a short distance to the south the new layout follows the present highway until nearing the hill to the north of the state hospital grounds. Here a cut is made through the hill to the east of the present road, effecting a straight line that eliminates the present winding hill road. From there the new road makes a slight change in the line opposite the present road. Opposite the state hospital barns, the new line is nearer the barn than the present road, thus cutting out the curve opposite the Hebrew cemeteries. From this point it runs across the present road just south of the cemetery wall and cuts out the sharp corner where it meets the line of the present road through The Pines.

WASHINGTON WAS CHAMPION ATHLETE, SAYS PENNIMAN

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—(AP)—On a football team composed of such men as Hercules, Samson, Ajax, Thor, Charlemagne, Richard Coeur-De-Lion and Ulysses, George Washington would have been the triple threat backfield star, Dr. James H. Penniman said today in commenting on the athletic prowess of the first president.

Dr. Penniman, brother of the provost of the University of Pennsylvania, stands high among those who know their Washington, and today he produced well-worn books, pamphlets and his own writings to add an interesting page to the story of the father of his country.

"Not only was Washington first in peace, first in war and first in the hearts of his countrymen," said Dr. Penniman, "but also he was first in matters of physical prowess, first to stop a fight, first to start one if conditions warranted and first when any of the sporting events of his day were being staged.

"That Washington was the swiftest runner of all the boys in the neighborhood, is the contention of John Fitzhugh, a friend of his youth. He also declared Washington excelled in jumping, wrestling and pitching quoits.

"Jacob Van Braan, a Dutchman, taught the youthful Washington the art of swordsmanship, in which he was proficient. As a youth, too, he rode wild horses. He was tireless in the saddle and in the battle of Long Island he remained astride for 40 hours without rest.

"Tossing his heavy tent into a wagon as if it were a bundle of straw, aiming a musket like a pistol with one hand, squeezing the boastful Indian's hands as they tried to do the same to him upon greeting, George Washington's fame spread throughout the colonies. He stood six feet two, weighed 210 pounds and possessed muscles that stood out like a blacksmith's. His endurance was such that he could ride 60 miles a day on a horse."

Dr. Penniman graduated from Norwich Free Academy, 1880, and Yale 1884.

The challenge was quickly accepted and the club is determined to reach the goal and thus enjoy another banquet on June first.

Mr. Rodier seconded all that Mr. Case said and also agreed to assume part of the obligation that Mr. Case accepted. The meeting then adjourned to the boys' lobby, where they were entertained by Mr. Warmsley of Occum with many tricks of magic, showing how simple it is to deceive the eye by the quickness of the hand. Next on the program were four reels of movies that surely pleased everyone from start to finish.

Ash Wednesday morning at St. Patrick's church the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May read Psalm 68 before the low mass at 8 o'clock, while blessing the sacred ashes to be imposed later on the foreheads of the faithful. The three altars were bare and there was no sound from the organ. Following the mass, the members in the great congregation moved up the center aisle to the altar, where Rev. Myles P. Galvin and Rev. John J. Reilly marked the sign of the cross on the forehead of each person kneeling at the sanctuary railing, saying in Latin, "Remember, O man, that thou art dust, and into dust thou shalt return." After the adult worshipers had left the church by the side aisles, the children of the parish, who occupied pews on either side of the main aisle, under supervision of their teachers, the Sisters of Mercy, went to the altar for the ashes.

Wednesday evening at 7:30 there was the recitation of the prayers of the Rosary, Benediction and again the distribution of the ashes with the same solemn warning. A very large congregation assembled for the evening services.

ALMOST A MIRACLE PERFORMED

Julia Libby's Girl

If this happened in your family you, too, would call it a miracle.

Mrs. Julia Libby, Goodyear Ave., Melrose (Mass.), writes: "Not long ago, when my youngest daughter was 3 years old, I had occasion to use Dr. True's Elixir when she was suddenly afflicted with a twitching of the mouth. She did not improve. Finally, I happened to notice Dr. True's Elixir advertised. I gave her several doses which resulted in worms being expelled to the extent that in a remarkably short time her face returned to normal again and she has been in the best of health ever since. It is certainly a wonderful laxative and worm expeller, as it performed what seemed almost a miracle for me. I can't praise it too highly."

Signs of Worms are: Constipation, deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, offensive breath, hard and full stomach with pains, pale face, eyes heavy, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points on the tongue, starting during sleep with troublesome dreams, slow fever.

LEGAL WEB IS ENMESHING THE OIL CASE DEFENDANTS

Fact Established That H. N. Blackmer Received $750,000 of the $3,000,000 Profits Made by the Continental Company—District of Columbia Supreme Court Has Refused to Make Permanent the Writ of Habeas Corpus Granted Robert W. Stewart—Counsel Has Appealed and Stewart Was Continued at Liberty Under $5,000 Bonds—Counsel Given 20 Days in Which to Perfect His Appeal and Another 20 Days to Get the Record of the Case Before the Court of Appeals.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—While its Teapot Dome committee was getting track today of another big batch of Continental Trading company bonds, the senate won its first skirmish in the courts over its authority to punish Robert W. Stewart, oil magnate, for refusal to answer committee questions regarding the securities.

The committee at a hearing established that H. M. Blackmer, missing witness in the Fall-Sinclair criminal conspiracy case, got $750,000 of the $3,000,000 profits made by the Continental company, a Canadian corporation now extinct, in the purchase and resale of American oil. The information was supplied by Karl C. Schuyler, of Denver, attorney for Blackmer, who for months has been an exile in Europe.

Later in the day Representative Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, appeared before the committee to reiterate his denial of intimations that the democratic national committee, of which he formerly was chairman, had received some of the Continental bonds to pay off a deficit resulting from the 1920 presidential campaign. Oliver P. Newman, former assistant director of finance for the committee, backed up Hull's assertions.

In the District of Columbia supreme court, Justice Bailey refused to make permanent the writ of habeas corpus under which Stewart, who is chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, had temporarily gained his freedom after the senate ordered his arrest for contempt.

Stewart's counsel quickly noted an appeal, and he was continued at liberty under $5,000 bond. He has twenty days in which to perfect his appeal and another twenty days to get the record of the case before the District of Columbia court of appeals. After a decision in that court, he or the government, which ever is the loser, may appeal to the United States supreme court. The prospects are that it may take a year or more to get a final court ruling.

In dismissing the Stewart writ, Justice Bailey upheld the authority of the senate to arrest a witness who refuses to answer questions before one of its committees and the legality of the investigation into the Continental Trading company's operations, which has come as an offshoot of the inquiry into the leasing of Teapot Dome by Albert B. Fall to Harry F. Sinclair.

During his appearance before the senate committee, which also had before it the representatives of a number of banking houses in an effort to clear up the mystery surrounding the Continental bonds, Schuyler said Blackmer had instructed him by cable several days ago to disclose his share in the corporation's profits.

Blackmer, who formerly was chairman of the board of the Midwest Refining company and reputed to be one of the moving spirits in the organization of the Continental company, told him what he had made Schuyler testified, in Montreal in July 1926.

Declaring that Blackmer had informed him "unequivocally" that he had no knowledge that any Continental funds had been used to influence the Teapot Dome lease or for any unlawful purpose, Schuyler said: "I believed him then and I have no cause to change my mind since."

The committee was told by Schuyler that the bonds Blackmer received from the Continental company were in a safety deposit box in the Equitable Trust company in New York, and the reason given by Blackmer for his unwillingness to appear as a witness in the Teapot Dome civil trial at Cheyenne in 1925 was that he feared the government would go into his private affairs.

In addition to the court action affecting Stewart, and the testimony offered before the senate committee, there was another development here during the day in a phase of the Teapot Dome controversy. District Attorney Gordon announced that criminal contempt proceedings would be inaugurated next week against Edward J. Kidwell, Jr., alleged talkative juror of the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy trial and the fourteen Burns detectives who shadowed the jury at the direction of Harry F. Sinclair.

The detectives will face the charges on which Sinclair was sentenced Tuesday to a jail term of six months, Henry Mason Day, his confidential associate to four months, W. J. Burns to fifteen days and for which W. Sherman Burns was fined $1,000.

When Gordon filed his petition asking that Sinclair and his associates be cited for criminal contempt for shadowing the jurors he made provision for citing any others who might be found to be involved.

RECEIVED $25,000 FEE AS ADVISORY COUNSEL

BOSTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Attorney General Arthur K. Reading today admitted receiving a $25,000 fee for acting as advisory counsel for the Decimo Club, Inc. He appeared before the house committee on rules, which held a hearing on Representative Roland D. Sawyer's resolve for an investigation of the attorney general's office.

The attorney general made his admission after Representative Sawyer had addressed the committee and arraigned the Decimo club as being a "Charles Ponzi scheme dressed with ritual, signals and pass word." Sawyer said the size of the fee paid Mr. Reading made it a matter of public concern and the allegations, which had aroused public suspicions, "must be sifted to assure the public whether the incumbent of the attorney general's office maintained or fell below the standards set by the men he succeeded."

After defending his right to engage in private practice while serving as attorney general, Mr. Reading declared that his employment as advisory counsel was not during any investigation of the Decimo club by his department.

A. war worker, who is now engaged in scientific research into interatomic energy, told the magistrate he had watched Miss Rae Martella from a fifth row seat, and found her work had neither morally nor artistically. He praised burlesque and said while at the university he frequently had gone to burlesque shows, and had found many other members of the faculty who did likewise.

A detective, however, demonstrated Miss Martella's number, and the magistrate held the dancer and the manager of a Harlem theatre for further hearing.

B. OF L. OFFICIAL WAS GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE

WAYCROSS, Ga., Feb. 23—(AP)—R. E. Edrington, assistant grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was sentenced to five days in jail and fined $200 here today, when he was held in contempt of court.

The sentence was imposed after the hearing of a complaint of certain members of the Waycross division of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, that Edrington had violated the terms of a temporary injunction restraining him from expelling members of the local or revoking the Waycross Division charter.

It was charged that the assistant grand chief engineer had used his authority as a national officer to bring about the expulsion Tuesday of four local division members who had formed a "locomotive engineers' protective committee" in the disagreement between the local and national organization. This they contended was in violation of the injunction.

Edrington, it was said, was sent here by Alvaneley Johnson, chief engineer, to make full investigation of the affair, and clothed with authority to revoke the local charter. As soon as Edrington arrived he was served with the injunction.

"It was due to you, sir, and to what you so ably and generously did in your own city through the sale of 110,000 of the Stone Mountain Coins, that this great monument became an accomplished fact," Mr. Randolph said. "But for your act it would have languished and perhaps died."

Inspecting Affairs In Coal Mining Camps

Miners Present Their Side of Wage Dispute to Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 23—(AP)—The United Mine Workers of America were given the first chance to present their side of the wage dispute of nearly a year's duration between miners and bituminous operators in this field when the sub-committee of the senate interstate commerce committee today opened their inspection of conditions in mining camps.

The committee, consisting of Senators Gooding, Idaho, chairman; Pine, Oklahoma; Wagner, New York, and Wheeler, Montana, arrived in Pittsburgh today from Washington and went into action immediately. One of their first acts was to deny the request of J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal company, and Horace F. Baker, president of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal corporation, the field's two largest operating concerns, when the officials asked that officials of the United Mine Workers be prohibited from entering upon their property, which is worked on a non-union basis.

Chairman Gooding, in a statement, said the "committee could not agree to this" because it felt a full inquiry could not be made without having representatives of the union along with them.

"To keep them away would tend to defeat the purpose of the investigation," Gooding said.

When the committee set out for a tour of mining villages, Phillip Murray, international vice-president of the union, was with them, and the announcement was made that the operators would be given opportunity to present their side before the senators departed on Saturday night.

The committeemen visited barracks which house families of union members evicted from company houses and also went to mines of the Pittsburgh Coal and Pittsburgh Terminal Coal companies and questioned non-union miners.

Sanitary conditions came in for a goodly share of attention, as did the general economic situation in the camps and at the mines.

The wife of a non-union worker, who was encountered, was asked as to her husband's pay. She said he earned from $30 to $40 every two weeks and that a great portion of this was spent at the company store. A miner complained that bootleggers infested some of the camps and that the workers were not given full credit for their work.

At the first mine where the investigators stopped, at Coverdale, there was a big sign near the union barracks, "those that strike with us strike for freedom." In the barracks the senators chatted with women and children and later looked over company houses from the outside.

Bunkhouses maintained by the coal companies to take care of men new working in the mines also were inspected by the committee.

Louisiana "Dry" Agents Restricted

Cannot Search Private Homes or Dwellings Without Direct Information of Sale of Liquor.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23—(AP)—Federal prohibition agents searching private homes and dwellings on search warrants obtained without direct information of sale of liquor will not be countenanced in the future, Federal Judge Louis H. Burns of the eastern Louisiana district declared today in handing down a written decision dismissing confiscation proceedings entered against a residence where the agents claimed they found a distilling outfit.

The effect of the decision, court attaches pointed out, will be to prevent agents obtaining search warrants for private residences even though they detect alcoholic odors emanating from them, unless they established that a business is being operated on the premises or secure evidence of sale. Heretofore prohibition agents have made searches on warrants secured on what Judge Burns termed "small evidence," a practice he condemned.

The decision was handed down in confiscation proceedings entered under revenue statutes by the district attorney's office against the $10,000 suburban residence of Giuseppe Cangemi, where prohibition agents claimed they found a distilling outfit last October. The search warrant authorizing the raid on the premises, was obtained on the declaration of a prohibition agent that he detected odors of alcohol emanating from the place.

Cangemi disclaimed ownership or knowledge of the still and in arguments last month, petitioned the court to quash the search warrant, suppress evidence and dismiss the confiscation suit.

GEORGE REMUS TELLS STORY OF HIS LIFE

LIMA, Ohio, Feb. 23—(AP)—George Remus laid bare his life story today when he took the stand in the hearing on a writ of habeas corpus seeking his release from the state hospital for the criminal insane here on the grounds of faulty commitment papers.

Remus was sent here after he had been found guilty of the murder of his wife Imogene in Cincinnati on the ground of insanity.

In an even, unruffled tone Remus told how, as a young man, he purchased a drug store in Chicago, sold it and invested the money in Chicago real estate which later netted him a profit of $18,000. How he then practiced law and defended 12 murderers in one year, but gave that up and commenced defending bootleggers, finally entering the business himself.

When Walter K. Sibbald, assistant prosecutor, asked him if he believed himself sane Remus replied, "directly or indirectly there is no trace of insanity in my makeup.

"Legally I am unable to reconcile the fact that during my trial you contended I was sane, and now you turn around and insist that I am insane. I cannot understand how a public official can thus stultify himself."

Asked if he attempted to appear insane at his murder trial Remus said he had not, and that his defense was "momentary insanity" at the time he shot his wife.

ADVOCATING A COALITION CANDIDATE IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 23—(AP)—Many of the native newspapers are advocating a coalition candidate for the presidency, upon whom all factions might be able to unite, but American officials here see little chance of such a solution of the problem.

General Jose Maria Moncada already has been nominated by the liberals and has started his campaign. The conservatives have not yet selected their candidate. Americans see little likelihood of General Moncada agreeing to abandon his candidacy under any circumstances in favor of a coalition candidate. Moncada has announced his intention of pushing his campaign and has expressed his belief that American supervision of the election would insure fairness.

HOUSE NAVAL COMMITTEE CUTS WARSHIP PROGRAM

Slashes Secretary Wilbur's Recommendation For 71 New Warships to 16 Ships—One an Aircraft Carrier and the Remainder Cruisers of the 10,000 Ton Class—Committee's Program Would Cost $274,000,000, as Compared With $740,000,000 For the Administrations Plan—Action of the Committee Was "Practically Unanimous."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Slashing Secretary Wilbur's recommendation for 71 new warships the house naval committee decided today to authorize the construction of 16 ships, one of them an aircraft carrier and the remainder cruisers of the ten thousand ton class, it turned thumbs down on new submarines.

This action, taken at a protracted executive session, was described by Chairman Butler as "practically unanimous" and in line with the original American proposal to the unsuccessful Geneva arms conference.

Wilbur had urged the committee to approve a building program of 25 cruisers, 5 aircraft carriers, 9 destroyer leaders, and 21 submarines, representing the program as having the backing of President Coolidge.

Butler estimated the committee's program would cost $274,000,000 as compared with $740,000,000 for the administration's plan, both figures excluding the increase in aircraft and personnel for which the additional ships would call.

The committee in refusing to provide for submarines turned a deaf ear not only to the naval secretary but also to an emphatic protest by one of its own members, Representative McClintic, democrat, Oklahoma. Regarding destroyer leaders the committee said the navy department had not as yet requested funds for the remaining 12 of a large number of destroyers authorized under the 1916 building act.

The committee provided that the 15 cruisers should be started within 2 years and completed within 6 and that the aircraft carrier be started within two years; that each year the navy request congress for funds to carry out the construction and that a failure by congress to provide funds in any year would not cause authorization for the construction to lapse.

Representative Britten, republican, Illinois, said these provisions would insure the building of the ships and prevent them from becoming a "paper fleet."

Mr. Wilbur had requested that no specific time limit be set for completion of the ships and President Coolidge subsequently was represented as concurring in that recommendation.

The committee also adopted a provision that "in the event of an agreement for further limitation of naval armament by international conference to which the United States is a signatory power the president hereby is authorized and empowered to suspend in whole or part any of the naval construction authorized under this act."

After considerable discussion over the inclusion of two salvage ships, the committee voted to direct the naval secretary to prepare plans and costs of such ships and submit them for consideration. These ships would be of use for both submarine and other sea disasters.

Representative Vinson of Georgia, democrat leader on the committee said that the 15 cruisers would give a total tonnage in this class of 305,000 tons, or approximately the amount proposed in the original American Geneva proposal.

The aircraft carrier would be of 13,800 tons displacement as compared with 33,000 tons displacement of each of the two new carriers, Lexington and Saratoga.

Butler, Vinson and a number of other committee members predicted the 16 ship program would be approved by the house although it is uncertain when the subject will be called upon the floor.

NEWSPAPER WORKER WAS SENTENCED FOR BURGLARY

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 23—(AP)—Raymond E. Delaney, 26, newspaper worker in this city, formerly of Meriden, pleaded guilty to the charge of burglary on two counts before Judge Newell J. Jennings in the criminal superior court this afternoon, and was sentenced to state's prison for not less than five nor more than ten years on each count, sentences to run concurrently.

The accused had been sitting in the prisoner's pen in the court room all day, and occasionally was greeted by some of his friends. He made no remark as to his feelings in the matter, only to say that "It was a devilish position to be in." His wife was present in the court room from the time of the opening until after sentence was passed. She left the court chamber in tears.

The case against the accused was presented by State's Attorney William H. Comley, Jr.

"There were 19 burglaries,' said the state's attorney, "but he is only charged with two. They began last spring."

NAZARETH AMONG CITIES SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE

JERUSALEM, Feb. (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Nazareth was among the many cities which suffered from the earthquake which rocked Palestine yesterday.

Reports received by government headquarters in Jerusalem indicate that the earthquake was felt in Hebron, Haifa, Afuleh, Acre, Ludd, Jericho, Tiberias, Nazareth, Nablus, Ramleh. Everywhere many houses, including municipal and government buildings, were damaged. Telegraph and telephone communications were interrupted.

In Jerusalem the government house on the Mount of Olives which suffered in the earthquake of last July was again damaged.

The Hebrew university on Mount Scopus again suffered damages, many walls of the buildings being cracked. In many cities and villages the population passed the night in the open, afraid of a repetition of the shock.

CRAZE FOR BOYISH FIGURE RUINING HEALTH OF GIRLS

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—The craze for a boyish figure, contrived by "unwholesome dieting and sometimes actual starvation,' is the cause of many cases of tuberculosis among women and girls, Mary G. McCormick, of the state department of education, today told the third annual New York health conference.

High school girls are victims of the disease in as great numbers as ever, she said, but tuberculosis has declined among other age groups.

A nation-wide education will be conducted this month by the National Tuberculosis association, George J. Nelbach, of the State Charities Aid association, announced. It will be designed, he said, to reach a large group of people who may have tuberculosis without knowing it.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—A woman artist, seated in her lower east side studio painting a mannikin, dropped dead today before her brother and her assistant working in the same room could respond to her cry that 'I'm feeling ill."

AN ANONYMOUS LETTER FROM "TORCH-MURDERER'

BERNARDSVILLE, N. J., Feb. 23—(AP)—The torch-murderer of Miss Margaret Brown, 40 years old, New York governess, confessed today in an anonymous letter that he had burned the woman to death when she remained cold to his advances and refused to "marry a poor man."

The letter, mailed from Newark last night, convinced police that a man named Huff, whom Miss Brown frequently met in Central Park, and whom she called "Doctor" was the killer. Tonight, the man, according to his letter, has started out in his automobile to go "God knows where, to hell I suppose. When I am caught I have something with me to end it all before they can do anything.' Previously, he said he had been hiding in Newark.

Authenticity of the confession was established by the fact that one of two of the bonds for $1,000 each which were enclosed in the letter with $500 in cash, was issued to Miss Brown by the Cities Service company of New York.

The rudely printed characters of the pencilled letter told the story of the flaming crime with obvious swift strokes.

"I hit her on the head and when she fell I thought I had killed her. I took gasoline from my car and poured it over her, lighting it and then drove away."

The letter signified bitter remorse coming with an admitted drunken condition. "I had been drinking. I asked her to marry me and she said she would not marry a poor man. I told her I had studied for a doctor. I tried to take advantage of her, but she refused."

HEAVY FOG FORCED COL. LINDBERGH TO LAND

DETROIT, Feb. 23 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his friend, Major Thomas G. Lanphier of Selfridge field, met with a slight mishap today when fog forced them to land in a field ten miles from the Ford airport. Accompanied by four St. Louis business men in three other planes, the party took off from Selfridge field shortly before noon to fly to the airport.

The planes of Col. Lindbergh and Major Lanphier were brought to earth without serious damage, and late today were returned to the army air base.

The purpose of Col. Lindbergh's visit here remained as much a mystery as when he landed at the air base yesterday from St. Louis.

TWO NAVY FLIERS SAVED BY AUTOMATIC WING SLOTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Automatic wing slots, the airplane safety device recently acquired by the navy department for its planes, is credited with saving two navy fliers from death or serious injury when the motor in their plane stalled today 300 feet above capital airport field.

Lieutenant N. E. Kendell and Aviation Metalsmith G. L. Barkley, of the navy air station at Anacostia were in the plane when the engine stopped, causing the plane to fall into a tail spin. The safety apparatus automatically checked the craft's descent and enabled the fliers to regain control.

The plane was slightly damaged when rough ground on which the landing was made caused it to "nose over."

DANIELSON

OFFICERS OF 43RD DIV. ARE GUESTS OF MAJ. DARBIE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 23—At the invitation of E. L. Darbie, ranking officer, a score of officers of the special troops of the 43d division assembled at the state armory here this evening. Four of the visiting officers represented Putnam, 6 were from Providence, two from Hartford, 5 from Branford, one from Waterford and two, Major Darbie and Captain Harold Greene, from Danielson.

An officers' meeting was a feature of the gathering, but the affair was largely social and very happy in all its features. Members of the headquarters detachment stationed here were in attendance. A bountiful banquet was served. The officers attending were:

Hq. Co. 43rd Div. Putnam, Conn., Captain John J. McGarry, 1st Lt. Charles A. Woodward, 2nd Lt. Francis H. Murphy.

43rd Tank company, Branford, Conn., Capt. Leslie J. Reynolds, 1st Lt. Farrington H. Lay, 1st Lt. Edwin H. Poulton, 2nd Lt. Carrol T. Neal, 2nd Lt. Arthur W. Knapp.

43rd Signal Co., Providence, R. I., Captain William H. Powers, Providence, R. I., 1st Lt. Dexter T. Knight, Edgewood, R. I., 1st Lt. Albert H. Elliot, Jr., Bristol, R. I., 1st Lt. John M. Weekes, Providence, R. I., 2nd Lt. Howard O. Cushing, Providence, R. I., 2nd Lt. Francis A. Lennon, Edgewood, R. I.

Hq. Detachment, Sp. Tr., Danielson, Conn., 1st Lt. William C. Bushnell, supply officer, Sp. Tr., Waterford, Conn.

The ice question persists in remaining right up in the news. Where Danielson appeared to be out of the woods on the ice question yesterday it was back in the dumps today—and not far from the bottom. A rapid rise in temperature last night, a change in wind to the south and rain that set in shortly before midnight almost entirely obliterated the prospect of an early ice harvest. Today the worst enemy of ice aside from real heat—fog—cut into the picture and by sunset tonight all the gain of the week had gone by the board. Several hundreds of tons of ice were obtained at Alexander's lake and at Quinebaug lake in the early days of the week, but there remains thousands of tons shortage in the normal year's supply for Danielson. Again the average citizen is conjuring up pictures of high-priced ice for next summer. There is the chance that the weather man still will make good. If he does not, it is going to cost local people plenty for ice during the real hot weather season of next summer.

This morning the funeral of Mrs. Edith Berthiaume was held from her home in Attawaugan, with funeral services at St. Joseph's church in Dayville at 9 o'clock. Rev. Ignatius Kost, the pastor, was celebrant of the high mass of requiem, and there were many relatives and friends in attendance. The body was entombed in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were Narcisse Bourque, John Bourque, Frank Bourque, James Berthiaume, William Smith and William Plante. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Deputy Game Warden Gurden E. Withey said today that this week has brought the first arrests in Windham county of men engaged in "jack-lighting" to catch deer. This system involves the use of a powerful electric light, toward which the deer are naturally attracted and where they stand silhouetted in a brilliant and unaccustomed glare, satisfying their curiosity, as the unsportsmanlike sportsman lurks in the shadows with a high-powered rifle to knock them into Kingdom Come.

The arrests herein referred to were made in the vicinity of North Woodstock. The men involved in the affair and since fined in a justice's court were using a powerful electric light which was attached, it is understood, to the battery in the automobile they were using in cruising about Ashford and the section of the county there-abouts on a night hunt for deer. Several hundred feet of fine insulated wire that allowed of the light being taken out into the woods was part of the equipment of these violators of the hunting laws.

Jack-lighting is more or less new hereabouts, or to be more accurate in statement, little practiced in this territory. Some have tried it and escaped detection, but for the first time hereabouts arrests for the stunt, and prosecutions, are reported.

The old-time thaw that prevailed today cleared up two situations that have deservedly been the subject of local newspaper comment. This has to do with the cleaning of sidewalks of the accumulation of snow and ice that has encumbered them and made them dangerous since the storm of last Saturday and of children recklessly coasting, unrestrained in various streets where the automobile traffic is so heavy as to make the danger of a serious accident a possibility at all times.

The snow and ice was cleared from the sidewalks as it was deposited there—by natural processes. The same goes for the ruining of the coasting. It is regarded as rather an unfortunate thing that the kiddies cannot have their joyous coasting without endangering their lives or involving someone in a dreadful accident. As the winter draws to a close the oft talked of matter of setting aside a few streets during certain hours of the day for coasting again arises. The public would not deny young America of its fun. It would protect it from disaster. The majority of motorists, too would welcome such a regulation as a protection for them against figuring in injuring or killing a child, through no fault of their own.

Another side of the picture involves giving motorists such protection against accident as they rightfully should have. It's only a step around for a motorist who has to pass up a street reserved for coasting, but there, it is held, should be other streets where he can travel without the fear of killing someone recklessly riding a sled. Perhaps all of this will be worked out by another winter. In any event, such a possibility is a fond hope.

There is a deal of guessing going on as to what Killingly's tax rate is to be the current fiscal year—and for the present guessing it must be. With the board of relief practically closing its work, insofar as the opportunities for hearings are concerned, during the present week, the grand list in final form should be ready early in March. The selectmen have practically worked out their budget, to be submitted to the electors the coming month. With the known net grand list and the estimated expenses for the year—this being the budget—it will be possible to tell what the tax rate must be. Meanwhile estimates by the individual, or guesses, if one prefers, must be just these things and nothing more. There is this to be said, however. Known expenses are about certain to prohibit any material reduction from the present town tax rate, though it may be possible to shade it a bit.

The appreciation of flood sufferers of New Madrid county, Arkansas, for help extended following the Mississippi valley flood is contained in a letter received by national headquarters of the American Red Cross from the county relief committee. "We have been requested," says the letter, "by the people, merchants, bankers, farmers, professional men and laborers included, to express to the national Red Cross our deepest appreciation and sincere thanks for their assistance and cooperation. The fact is recognized and admitted by all of our people that had it not been for the timely and generous assistance of your organization our county would not have produced over half of what it has produced on the farms, a good portion of our labor would have been under a more severe strain, and extreme poverty would have been prevalent in the flooded area. The efforts of the Red Cross prevented this; and as a result has placed us in a position where there is a chance for our people to work out to a self-supporting basis."

FLOOD CONTROL

When it is reported that the president is opposed to the bill which has been reported by the flood control committee of the house it will be surprising if members of congress do not take a similar view if they are willing to get down to the bedrock of facts and put political considerations to one side.

Here we have a great problem. It is a problem in which the whole country is interested and which the federal government is expected to solve, but in the endeavor to reach and carry out this solution there is a tendency to indulge in extravagance for the sake of the political effect that is expected to result.

Because of the bigness of the job it is inevitable that there should be a division of opinion as to what should be done and how to go about it. It is a situation which calls for the resort to the advice of engineers, those who are acquainted with the handling of such problems. That was done when the army engineers were directed to make a survey of the situation and recommend a plan. This plan has the endorsement of the president. It has not gotten the approval of the committee, which has recommended another plan which would call for the expenditure of about four times as much with no greater assurance of success. It is even held by experts to be unworkable and extravagant.

The president hasn't said that he would veto the house bill if it is passed, but he has set forth some points which indicate that the committee has not given them the consideration that is needed. One reason for the committee's bill is said to be that it wants the work to be carried out by a different commission than the present Mississippi river commission because it is felt that it has not accomplished all that it should for the control of floods in that valley. Upon that point an agreement could probably be reached if the objection is well founded, but that is by no means the ground upon which the president bases his objection. He wants the job done as quickly as possible, he wants it done right and he wants it done in such a way that the most possible can be obtained for the money. This should not be a pork barrel proposition.

MAKE AN EXAMPLE OF THEM

Because it believes that there is too much indulgence in false alarms, the city of Providence is asking the legislature of Rhode Island to fix a penalty of not over $100 as a fine or imprisonment for not over 90 days for such an offense and there seems to be every reason for believing that the request will be granted.

When it is shown that there were more than 400 false fire alarms sent in in the Rhode Island capital last year more than one a day for the entire year, it is evident that something more than a slap on the wrist is needed for the treatment of those who engaged in such a practice.

A fire department isn't maintained for the purpose of entertaining those who like to see action. In dealing with fires the quicker the firemen can get to work the more effective is the fighting certain to be. Thus they respond with as much speed as conditions will permit with safety, and they do this whether there is a fire or a false alarm. Under any and all conditions there is a possibility of an accident, the chance that a fireman or someone else may be injured or killed and yet those who send in an alarm when there is no fire probably never give a thought to what they are doing or would be ready to assume the responsibility in case someone was hurt or apparatus smashed under such conditions.

There can be no sympathy for the false fire alarm ringers. It is to be regretted that more are not caught and given a liberal taste of the law. If the increasing of the penalty will help to deter such actions it should be granted but a more effective remedy might result if a few of them could be caught and an example made of them.

UNIFORM CODE FOR TRAFFIC

While there are new questions arising in connection with the handling of automobile traffic due to the increase in the number of cars, the congestion and the accidents, there are also old ones which have not been disposed of in as satisfactory a manner as might be wished.

Those who do much motoring from one state to another and one city to another fully understand the difficulty encountered in trying to determine what regulations prevail here and what prevail there. They have long been anticipating the day when there might be a much more uniform handling of traffic in all cities.

In response to such a demand efforts were started some time since by the federal department of commerce with the result that various authorities were asked to confer and draft a uniform code for use throughout the country. This committee has been at work with the result that it has brought forth a model code of rules for auto drivers, which will be submitted to traffic authorities, police departments and others for the purpose of checking up on any errors of omission or commission before being put forth as an example.

In this suggested ordinance for the purpose of getting uniformity consideration will be given to the fact that there will be certain conditions peculiar to every city which cannot be covered by any general plan. Such will have to take care of themselves, but for the most part they will bother the stranger only slightly in comparison with the much more frequent problems which are handled one way here, another way somewhere else and still differently in other places until a stranger is at a loss to know what to do and all the time is anxious to comply with requirements.

It is quite certain that it will be a long time before all cities will adopt a uniform traffic code. They will be as reluctant to get into line as they are to adopt the same kind of signals, or the same kind of street signs, but if there is to be uniformity there must first be a code that will meet the general requirements. That is what is reaching its final stages. That means that the necessary first steps are being taken and it will then rest with the various communities to do their part and fall into line.

ALIEN PROPERTY

With the passage of the alien property bill by the senate an important step has been taken in the adjustment of the claims which exist between this country, Germany and her allies as the result of the war.

In its action the senate has not adopted the bill just as it passed the house. There have been numerous alterations which mean that it must go to a conference committee that the differences may be wiped out, and it is not anticipated that there will be any insurmountable difficulties in so doing.

This will mean some compromises but it has been through compromises that the measure has been put through congress. It is nearly ten years since the war ended. At the opening of the war the United States seized much German property in this country, many ships and a radio station. Germany did likewise with the result that counter claims have been in existence ever since. There are also the claims of American citizens on which compensation has been awarded.

There are those who have advocated the holding of the seized alien property as surety for the payment of the American claims. To do this would mean waiting about 80 years, so that many would never recover their money. Others have urged the immediate return of all property held. This divergence of opinion resulted in a compromise whereby 50 per cent. of the property will be returned at once and counter claims will be adjusted, the remainder to be paid over a period of years.

This action means that the United States is maintaining its reputation for holding enemy property inviolate and inasmuch as that was to be its ultimate disposition of the property it is by all means for the best interests of all concerned that the settlements should be made now. The claimants on both sides can make good use of the money now, and much better than those who might fall heir to it 60 to 80 years from now.

FARM RELIEF

The cause of controversy in congress for a long time, the question of farm relief has not as yet been settled. There is a willingness among the legislators to adopt a farm relief measure but it hasn't been possible to get an agreement on one that is acceptable.

Great stress has been placed on the McNary-Haugen bill. It got the endorsement of both houses in the last congress but it fell under the withering attack of the president in a veto message which was not overridden. The measure was not one upon which the farmers were agreed and yet it is up again before the present congress in the hope that it can be passed. Not only is it being recommended, with certain of the features which the president pointed out as highly undesirable, but there appears to be a determination to go through the same process as was done before.

There is no more hope for the bill as it stands than there was before. The changes have not eliminated the objections. The recommendations made by the president have not been followed and yet there is a persistence in getting that or nothing even though it means a waste of time and faces similar treatment to what it got before.

Whether it will be possible to so alter it by amendments that it can be shorn of its objectionable features and yet produce a relief measure that will accomplish something depends upon the attitude of its backers. Perhaps a showdown on the attitude of the members may have some effect in bringing about a compromise but it doesn't appear likely that even a show down can be obtained at an early date. The farm bill is still a bone of contention that promises much bother, and chiefly because of the character of the provisions.

LOTTIE

"Did you have a good time up in the country?" asked one of the men in the office when Simpson appeared at his desk a little late and rather fagged looking Monday morning.

"Not good enough to rave over," returned Simpson. "There isn't so much to these week end jaunts. You know how I worked myself into a fever almost, so that I could get away on Friday afternoon. You see, Bess, the girl I want to see, had urged me not to wait until Saturday, because she had a surprise for me. Some surprise, I'll tell the world! When I hopped off the bus at the edge of the village there was Bess proudly waiting for me with a little car. At least she called it a car.

"'Let me introduce you to Lottie,' she said. 'Throw in your bag, Jack. I'm going to drive you home.' I didn't know you could manage an automobile, Bess. When did you add that to your accomplishments?' I asked.

"'Oh, I've been driving for nearly two weeks, Jack. It was just two weeks ago that Lottie came into my possession,' she beamed upon the shabby little sedan affectionately.

"'Why Lottie?' I inquired. 'A more ostentatious name wouldn't fit a modest little car like this, and I won her at a lottery of used cars, so I thought Lottie was just the right name for her. Oh, dear, I'm afraid the starter's out of order again, but never mind, we can make her go. Luckily, we're parked on top of a hill. You get out, Jack, please, and just give Lottie a push, and the engine will start, going down.'"

"What a chance for you to exhibit your manly strength," grinned Simpson's listener.

"I had plenty of chances for that, all right. Well, I pushed Lottie with all my might, but she wouldn't budge. Bess threw me some encouraging words out of the window, but what you call my manly strength didn't appear sufficient to do the trick. I was just beginning to remember that good men were scarce, and that it really wouldn't be right for me to dissolve completely into perspiration, when a young farm hand offered to lend a hand. He put all his weight against that stubborn little Lottie, and then, when she still refused to move an inch, he said: 'I'll bet that there brake is on,' and he yelled at Bess to release it, which she did. Away went the car merrily down the hill and Jack came tumbling after.

"'You observe that I obey all the rules, Jack. Here's where I stop at an arterial highway,' remarked Bess impressively as we were bowling along fairly enough, after I had regained the car. 'Oh, dear, there I've killed the engine. I'm afraid I'll have to ask you to crank her, as there's no hill to run down here!'

"I got all the exercise I'll need for a year, and then some, cranking Lottie. She certainly showed her age when it came to cranking. I began to think that I was slated to die young, every time I cranked her."

"Did you have to do it often?"

"I'll tell the world! There wasn't a hill handy every time Bess killed the engine. Bess' mother's little summer place does not boast a garage and when we discovered that after a night out in the hard rain Lottie was out of commission, I confess that I was quite resigned."

"So that ended the cranking?"

"Temporarily, but there was plenty else to do. Bess opened the hood of the car, and, announced in the most professional manner that the spark plugs were surrounded by water. She had me wipe them out, and when Lottie remained recalcitrant she had me clean those darn spark plugs. She had seen somebody do it, and she told me just how, and I'll tell you it was a dirty job.

"I'm no natural mechanic, but somehow we did get Lottie started again, worse luck, for most of the rest of the visit was passed in cranking that car. Bess insisted upon taking me to the bus yesterday afternoon, and of course Lottie balked, and I cranked. When I did catch the bus by the skin of my teeth, I was a total wreck sartorially, and my disposition, well—you can guess. I'll never accept another week-end invitation from Bess until I've heard that Lottie has passed on."

"I often think, Jack, how happy we'd be, if it weren't for our pleasures."

"I'll say so," Simpson sighed, and turned to the papers on his desk.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Mastoiditis

By H. D. Junkin, M. D., Idaho Falls, Idaho, Member Gorgas Memorial.

The ear consists of three parts, the external, the middle, and the internal ear. The external ear is that part of the anatomy all are familiar with, together with the canal which leads to the ear drum. The middle ear is that part of the ear which continues deeper into the bone of the head known as the temporal bone. It is like a drum. The ear drum separates it from the external ear, while a small membrane deeper in separates it from the internal ear. Between these two drum heads three small bones connect with each other and thus conduct sound from the external ear drum to the internal ear drum. The endings of the nerve of hearing have contact with the internal ear drum and thus convey sound to the brain. Above this drum chamber only a thin plate of bone separates this chamber from the brain. Behind the ear the bony prominence which is made up of small bony cells connects with this same chamber. From the upper part of the throat just behind the nose a tube extends on either side into each middle ear. This tube is known as the eustachian or auditory tube.

Having some idea of the structure of the ear, we learn that the middle ear is the most important from a standpoint of disease. The fact that the tissue directly behind the opening of the nose into the upper part of the throat is always a site for many germs and that the two tubes which lead into the middle ear open here makes it easy to understand how various infections can enter the middle ear.

Such diseases as adenoids, infected tonsils, ordinary colds, measles, scarlet fever, tonsilitis, etc., are frequently the cause of bacteria passing through the eustachian tube to the middle ear. This often forces pus in the middle ear. The victim has severe pain in the head and complains of earache. The infant cries and turns its head from side to side and frequently tries to put its tiny fingers into the ear canal. It is at this stage of the disease that medical aid should be sought. At this stage the bulging ear drum, as seen through a proper instrument, directs the surgeon to open the drum. This is a simple and safe procedure. The pus escapes into the external ear and recovery usually follows rapidly. However, if the pus is not drained or the ear does not rupture, the pus may be forced into the cellular bony tissue back of the ear known as the mastoid. The mastoid process is sort of a sounding board. The cellular construction tends to intensify sound. Now if pus penetrates into this area a serious problem arises. At one point above the mastoid cells the bone separating these cells from the brain is so thin that in a skull properly held light from above can be seen through this thin plate of bone. Here pus may find its way into the brain, producing brain abscess which is fatal.

Mastoiditis may be prevented by proper early examination and treatment. However, when the mastoids become infected, prompt operation is needed. Delay is just as dangerous as in appendicitis.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Appreciate Help of Norwich Men.

Mr. Editor: The committee in charge of the exhibit of Indian relics held at Hartford last week feels highly appreciative of the assistance of two of the residents of Norwich in making the affair a success. Arthur L. Peale made it possible to construct a large map of the state showing the old Indian trails with the locations of the forts and sites identified with the early Indian days. Such a map has not been published and through the valuable assistance of Mr. Peale, with his wide knowledge of the subject, it has been possible to at least make the beginning of such a map for school use.

The visit to Hartford of Chief Occum was a fitting close of the week's programme. He spoke to groups of school children at the old state house, and visited two of the largest schools where assemblies were held purposely to receive and hear him. A reception was given by the teachers for him, and in all cases he awakened a deep response to the fact that the Indian played an important part in the life of the early days through his friendliness and support of the whites.

The purpose of the exhibit was to awaken an interest in local history preliminary to the celebration of the coming anniversaries of the founding of the state. An unusually fine collection of relics of the stone age in Connecticut was shown, as well as articles of the far west, with charts, maps and pictures specially gathered, and from which material will be put in form for permanent use in the schools.

Several of the speakers at the exhibit voiced the hope that the state would take steps to study and preserve its archeological treasures and early archives. The wide-spread interest in the exhibition is a favorable sign that sufficient support exists to bring about such results.

The state department of education is interested in spreading an interest in local history, but it feels properly that the initiative should come from the local groups.

The committee in charge of last week's programme expresses its appreciation of the help of both Mr. Peale and Chief Occum.

HOWARD BRADSTREET,
Chairman education committee of Friends of Hartford.

Figures and Questions.

Mr. Editor: On account of the great many requests to me to publish further the figures which I have obtained from the Council Journal of Norwich, and the action taken at the last council meeting on the petition that was presented by me, at the request of several taxpayers, I will have to ask you for more space in your paper and ask you to publish some more figures and some more questions.

I find on searching the Council Journal for the year beginning May 15, 1923, and ending May 14, 1924, that the public works department paid for plumbing during that year, $1,258.87, which was divided up among several taxpayers, and I find also that E. A. Cruthers was street commissioner. And I find on further investigation that for the year beginning May 15, 1926, and ending May 14, 1927, the public works committee paid one (Thomas J. Donovan) for plumbing, $6,765.08, which the smallest bill during that year was $168.33, and I also find that he had a bill against the department for every month during the year, and that John C. Donovan was the street commissioner.

I find on searching the records further that Thomas J. Donovan and John C. Donovan are brothers. I find also that John C. Donovan was given permission on Aug. 15, 1925, to build a house on a lot abutting on Oak street.

I would like to ask the chairman of the public works committee to tell the taxpayers the reason for such enormous increase in the expense of plumbing in his department?

Now I will try and inform the taxpayers how much the public works department has paid Thomas J. Donovan for plumbing between Aug. 15, 1925, and midnight of May 14, 1927. They paid Thomas J. Donovan: Aug., 1925, $555.29; Sept., 1925, $961.09; Nov., 1925, $1,818.33; Dec., 1925, $200.69; Jan., 1926, $254.02; Feb., 1926, $96.2); March, 1926, $239.52; April, 1926, $209.65; plus the amount paid during the years 1926 and 1927 ($6,765.08) equals $11,099.87.

I wish to ask any reasonable taxpayer if he is surprised to find Mayor Waters and his followers in the council do not wish to have the finances of the city of Norwich be investigated by the superior court. I would like to ask Street Commissioner Donovan where the amount for plumbing has been spent or where his brother did the work for the taxpayers?

Yours respectfully,
GEORGE E. PITCHER.

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

"Jesus, the Forgiving Saviour"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Neither do I condemn thee; go and sin no more" (John 8:11).

Read: John 8:1-11.

MEDITATION: There is no lovelier portrait of Jesus to be found in the gospels than that given here. He is all grace and gentleness. The woman could not mistake His attitude for lenience toward her evil ways. There was sufficient rebuke in His modesty and in His exhortation to do this thing no more. But there was hope for her. He believed in her still. Her past did not shut the door on her future. Jesus held that door open for her; His love gave her another chance. Belief in the divineness of Jesus is belief that God is like Jesus. God never closes the door. For everyone, life is full of opportunity and of regenerating forces. We need never be imprisoned by our failure but may make it the gateway to a grander self.

PRAYER: O God, we thank thee for Thy love and mercy in which we find endless opportunity. The memory of past deeds awakens in us a longing for better things. Turn our regrets into resolutions that our very defeats may become the assurance of victory to come, through Jesus Christ our Saviour. Amen.

INCOME TAX TIPS

In determining net income there are allowed certain specified deductions from gross income such as business expenses, losses, interest paid, bad debts, depreciation, rent, contributions, etc.

Deductions for business expenses must have certain qualities to be allowed. They must relate to a business, trade, profession, or vocation in which a taxpayer has invested time and money for the purpose of a livelihood or profit. A taxpayer may conduct more than one business and claim a deduction for the business expenses of each.

Typical business expenses of a mercantile establishment which are deductible in a return of income are amounts paid for advertising, hire of clerks and other employees, rent, light, heat, water, telephone, insurance, and delivery expenses. The expenses of a manufacturing business include labor, raw materials, supplies, repairs, light and heat, power, selling costs, administration, and other similar charges.

A professional man, such as a lawyer, doctor, architect, dentist, etc., may deduct the cost of supplies used in his practice, expenses paid in the operation and repair of an automobile used in making professional calls, dues to professional societies, subscriptions to professional journals, office rent, cost of light, fuel, water and telephone used in his office, and the hire of office assistants.

The farmer may deduct all amounts paid in the production, harvesting, and marketing of crops, including labor cost of seed and fertilizer used, cost of minor repairs to farm buildings other than his dwelling, and small tools used up in the course of a year or two.

Little Talks on Thrift

Royal Road to Independence

"Is there any royal road to independence?" asks a correspondent. Yes, indeed, there is such a highway; not always easy to travel, but leading directly to that goal.

That roadway is Thrift.

Here are a few figures that show why this is true:

Five dollars a week for fifteen years at 4 1-2 per cent. compounded semi-annually will give you $5,800.

What better plan, incidentally, could be carried out for the education of one's children than this?

Save $90 a month during twenty-five years of your life at 6 per cent. compounded semi-annually and you will have $61,975.

One dollar deposited weekly in a savings bank for ten years will amount to $635.32 at 4 per cent. compound interest.

Start at the age of 20 and save $33.14 a month with interest compounded at 4 per cent. semi-annually and at 65 your accumulations will be $50,000.

Let us suppose you are 25 years old and that your earnings are sufficient to make it possible for you to save $25 a month. You go along on this basis, saving systematically for a period of five years, when your earning capacity makes possible the regular saving of $50 a month.

At 35 you increase your savings to $100 a month. When 40 you find yourself able to save $150 a month and at 45 you still further increase your monthly savings to $200.

By following this plan you will at the age of 50 have $54,946.61, providing your savings have been compounded semi-annually at 6 per cent.

Yes, there is a royal road to independence, and many persons are making a happy pilgrimage along it.—American Society for Thrift.

CREOMULSION
FOR THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Mother! Do You Know the Danger of that Cough or Cold?

Mother, if the youngsters play hard and "take cold," if for any of a dozen other reasons they get "sick with a cold," stop it as fast as you can. Don't let it hang on. Colds that stay and stay, too often lead into pneumonia or flu or chronic bronchial trouble. Too often a cold leads into a fatal complication.

If any of your youngsters develop a cough or a cold that hangs on, use sensible precautions immediately and give them Creomulsion. Help their strong, youthful bodies to fight coughs and colds with Creomulsion. It is pleasant, easy to take.

Creomulsion is an old remedy now. Millions know its merits and like it. We guarantee that it will relieve stubborn coughs and colds, if you follow directions, or we'll refund your money.

I Would Be True

I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
I would be pure, for there are those who care;
I would be strong, for there is much to suffer;
I would be brave, for there is much to dare.

I would be friend of all—the foe, the friendless;
I would be giving, and forget the gift,
I would be humble, for I know my weakness;
I would look up, and laugh, and love and lift.

VERDICT FOR $500 FOR GROTON BOY'S INJURIES

A jury in the superior court at New London Thursday morning gave a verdict for $500 for nine-year-old Harold James Vincent of New London against P. J. Shandeor of Noank. The jury was out about an hour after hearing the charge from Judge C. L. Avery, which followed arguments by Attorney Morris Lubchansky for the defendant and Attorney G. C. Morgan for the plaintiff.

The verdict was reported by Foreman Adrian Hewitt of Groton, and it was accepted by Judge Christopher L. Avery.

The youngster, through his father, Harold E. Vincent, asked for $5,000, claiming that the Shandeor truck operated by Leo Shandeor, had knocked him down and seriously injured him on Prospect hill, Noank.

A Chandler automobile driven by Lawrence E. Main, employed at the Norwich state hospital, was arrested by State Policeman Peter Busch on a charge of operating a machine while under the influence of liquor. Main was taken to the Groton police barracks and will appear before a Preston justice of the peace. Riding with Main were Frank Counter, employed at the hospital, and Elmer Avery of Ledyard. All three escaped injury. The machine was badly wrecked.

It is understood that Main was driving the machine towards this city, and that he failed to stop after colliding with a Hudson coach owned by Dorothy Wilds of Mansfield and operated by Willis T. Wilds of the same place. After colliding with the Hudson, Main's car skidded a short distance up the road and crashed into the tree. HARTFORD AUTHORITIES MAY MAKE FIRST CLAIM TO TRY STEPHEN HOPPE

Norwich courts may get no chance to try Stephen Hoppe, known in Hartford as George Bersig, for the burglary last Sunday night at the Palace theatre. It was the indication Thursday that Hartford authorities may insist on trying him there on the charge of possession of burglar tools, on which, they have an open and shut case against him, since these were found in his automobile last Monday morning when he was shot as he was attempting to escape from Officer Daniel Hurley in Front street.

Having been convicted for major offenses on at least two prior occasions, it was stated, Hoppe could likewise be tried in the Hartford county courts on the habitual criminal act, conviction for which would result in a prison sentence. The maximum penalty for violation of this state law is 30 years and the minimum three years.

EXPECT HOPPE WILL RECOVER FROM WOUND

HARTFORD, Feb. 23—(AP)—Stephen Hoppe, alias George F. Bersig, who was shot here Monday by Policeman Daniel Hurley, is expected to recover from the wound in his right lung and within a few days probably will be operated on for the removal of the bullet.

Hoppe, who is at St. Francis' hospital under police guard, faced two Massachusetts policemen today and was questioned about the murder of a Quincy, Mass., policeman in that city last October. His answers were evasive and he denied that his name was Hoppe.

At the end of their first day's investigation, the two Massachusetts officers, Michael F. Fleming, state police detective, of Norfolk county, and Lieut. George Fallon, of the Quincy police, said that they hope to find important evidence in this city which will aid them in building a case of murder against Hoppe. They are working with Detective Sergeants Sheehen, Madigan and Hickey, of the local department.

Detective Fleming said that it is practically established that Hoppe was in Quincy at the time of the murder.

Connecticut authorities have enough evidence against Hoppe to send him to prison for most of the remainder of his life, police said today. He can be tried in this city for burglary and also in Norwich and Willimantic, in connection with safe robberies there. Police said that, in all, three cases are strongly established. Burglar tools were seized in Hoppe's automobile in this city as well as rolls of money believed to have been taken from the Palace theatre in Norwich when the safe was robbed Sunday night.

The woman who lived with Hoppe in this city and whose identity is being kept secret by the police, was questioned again today in the presence of the Massachusetts policemen. She again denied all knowledge of Hoppe's past and said she knew him only as Bersig.

Hartford police learned from Montpelier, Vt., today that a warrant had been issued for Hoppe there and was to be sent to this city. It charges Hoppe with escaping from the state prison at Windsor, Vt.

This warrant will be filed against Hoppe along with the information from several other places in New England, where he is wanted on various charges of robbery and safe cracking.

Hoppe, who had his face treated by a plastic surgeon in an effort to escape the notice of the police, is willing to talk about anything except his past crimes. He referred all questions on the subjects the police are interested in to his lawyer, C. A. Moylan, of Hartford.

NORWICH TOWN ORGAN READY FOR RECITAL

The 47th organ recital of Herbert L. Yerrington that was postponed from January 1st, the usual time, will take place next Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Norwich Town Congregational church. The postponement was made necessary on account of the incomplete condition of the church organ which has been undergoing a radical change during the last six months.

The re-building of the organ was made possible through a generous offer by Mrs. Maurice Wallen (Ruth Lathrop Potter) of Hartford, formerly of Norwich Town and a member of this parish. The work has been carefully and thoroughly done and will not only be a great convenience to the organist but will also enable him to render a larger service in the worship of the church. For many years Organist Yerrington has manipulated the old traction type of mechanism and will now appreciate the easier movement of the electric organ. The whole congregation rejoices with him in this greater possibility. The church organ was originally a Hook organ and was installed in 1857.

In the summer of 1894 the instrument was rebuilt by Gilbert & Butler of East Cambridge, Mass. The old case and the pipes were retained, but the compass of the manuals was extended to five octaves and that of the pedals to thirty notes.

The action was tracker, but a Whitney water motor was installed to furnish the air.

During the past year the action has been electrified, three of the great stops (Gamba, Dulciana and 4 foot flute) have been put into a choir organ with separate chest and under a separate expression, making it a third manual. Chimes (playable from all the manuals) and all the modern cuplers, with crescendo and full organ pedals have been added, also a great to pedal reversible. The reed stops, trumpet and oboe, have all new pipes except the bass ones.

It is now an up-to-date instrument. The work has been done by William C. Earff, Jr., organ architects and builders, West Haven, Conn.

Organist Yerrington is to be assisted in his recital by Theodore Sterry a talented young violinist, who will favor with two choice selections.

WILLIMANTIC ELKS WIN IN INTER-CLUB SPORTS

Willimantic Elks defeated their Norwich brothers at the Elks home in this city Thursday night in the inter-club sports contest by 6 points to 5. A good sized delegation from New London lodge was on hand to get a line on the Willimantic boys, whom they are to meet later in the series.

The Norwich Elks met their Waterloo in duckpins, losing all three games of the match, but the home players returned the compliment in pool by making a cleanup in three matches.

J. Leirich and Beauregard put the pinochle game to the credit of Norwich by defeating E. Portelance and P. Murray of Willimantic, 4 to 1. In forty-five the Willimantic team of Haggerty and Healy took a close game, 30 to 19, from Maloney and Mandell of Norwich.

JUDGMENT IS GIVEN FOR $86.55 AND COSTS

Judgment for $86.55 and costs of $12.39 in favor of Vincenzo DeMauro was handed down Thursday by Justice of the Peace Frank N. Gardner in DeMauro's suit against John J. Callahan.

DeMauro sued on a bill for redecorating four rooms and painting them in a house located on Union street. He claimed his labor was worth $78.15 for performing 62 1-2 hours work at $1.25 per hour, besides other expenses.

Callahan had a counter-claim for $100 damages, claiming that DeMauro took longer to finish the job than was necessary, and that as a result he lost a tenant for the apartment. He also set out that the job was only worth $50, and that he had paid that amount to the plaintiff.

The counter-claim also made the claim that DeMauro in performing his services in redecorating, threw paste and waste matters into the drain with the result that he (Callahan) was forced to expend the sum of $12.71 to clean it out.

Further allegations were made that DeMauro carelessly painted the windows and window sills in the apartment, permitting and causing the paint to flow and stick between the windows and sills whereby it became necessary to have the paint work on the windows and sills redecorated, causing the defendant damage and expense.

SILK MILL FIRE BRIGADE HOLDS ANNUAL SUPPER

M. L. Bergstresser, superintendent at the Schwarzenbach-Huber silk mill on Asylum street, was the toastmaster, and Fire Chief Howard L. Stanton was the speaker of the evening Thursday, when the fire brigade of the plant held its third annual dinner, which was served in the recreation room at the mill. Swahn's orchestra played during the supper hour and Lewis Aldrich was song leader for the 31 men who were seated at the table to enjoy the following menu:

Grape Fruit
Celery — Pickles
Clam Chowder — Rolls
Boiled Ham
Apple Pie
Coffee — Cigars

Before introducing Chief Stanton, Superintendent Bergstresser spoke interestingly along the line of co-operation and loyalty and when Chief Stanton was introduced he was listened to with close attention and given enthusiastic applause as he spoke in an entertaining way of some of his experiences in Norwich years ago, referring to former manufacturing and living conditions and pointing out some of the changes that have occurred with the years. He spoke optimistically of the present and the future of Norwich and referred to the constant fire prevention work which the department is engaged in carrying on, its watchfulness over conditions that would make hazards in the city.

ASK COLLEGE TRUSTEES TO GIVE EXPLANATION

The executive board of the Connecticut College Alumnae association made public on Thursday a letter to the college trustees at New London in which the executives said they "felt that the board of trustees would desire to issue to the alumnae at this time a statement concerning the situation at the college, in view of the vital interest which the graduate body, already numbering 650," has in the matter."

The letter was drawn up at a meeting of the alumnae executives Saturday at the college. The message to the trustees was presented in resolution form. All but three of the executives were present. The absent members of the board approved the resolutions on being consulted at their homes. In the resolutions the alumnae expressed confidence in the administration of President Benjamin T. Marshall, whose resignation was announced a few weeks ago.

The resolutions declared in part:

"We, as individual members of the executive board, both as undergraduates and alumnae, have known the college under the administration of President Benjamin T. Marshall and have seen the college gain increasing recognition in the educational world under his leadership—including approval by, and admission to membership in, the American Association of Colleges and Universities and the American Association of University Women.

"We are fully conscious of the fact that an administration of the college likely to injure its standing in the educational world would also affect us, both as individuals who care for the college and its history, and as graduates, the value of whose degrees depends upon the position of the college among educational institutions;

"We hereby express our confidence in the administration of the college under President Benjamin T. Marshall, as we have known it, and our concern that conditions have arisen which called for his resignation."

The alumnae executives, all of whom approved the resolutions, are as follows: Marenda E. Prehtis, Mary P. Wheeler, Margaret E. Baxter, Janet C. How, Julia Warner, Evelyn G. Talmage, Juline W. Comstock, Agnes B. Leahy, Edith T. Clark.

COMPENSATION AWARD IN FATAL ACCIDENT CASE

According to a decision handed down by Compensation Commissioner Albert J. Bailey and filed with Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court, Mrs. Lena Magdalena Blatherwick, widow of George Blatherwick of this city, Fox Hill, will receive approximately $4,500 for the death of her husband, who was instantly killed when struck by a railroad train, at the Ninth street crossing.

The finding is made against the Davis-Warner Arms corporation of Greeneville and the Liberty Mutual Insurance company of Boston. The award made by Compensation Commissioner Bailey is from a stipulation of facts entered between counsel for Mrs. Blatherwick, and counsel for the insurance people.

It was on Aug. 5, 1927, that George Blatherwick, who had been employed at the Davis-Warner Arms corporation for two weeks, prior to his death, was killed when struck by a locomotive operated by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, at a grade crossing near the premises of the Davis-Warner corporation. Blatherwick was on his way home to dinner in his machine at the time.

The finding sets out that at the grade crossing the railroad failed to provide a flagman and that the injuries received by George Blatherwick arose out of and in the course of his employment.

Blatherwick, according to the finding, left surviving his widow and three children, Dorothy, John and Ruth, and that Mrs. Blatherwick was dependent upon her husband.

It was agreed between counsel for Mrs. Blatherick and counsel for the insurance company, upon approval by Commissioner Bailey that Blatherwick's average weekly wages amounted to $31.71, with the result that Mrs. Blatherwick with twelve dependents, at the rate of $18.71 weekly for a maximum of 415 weeks, besides $200 for burial expenses. Compensation for the period from Aug. 5, 1927, to April 6, 1928, amounting to $457.35 is given Mrs. Blatherwick in a lump sum while the balance is to be paid weekly, commencing from April 6, 1928.

There is pending in the superior court a suit by Mrs. Blatherwick against the railroad for $10,000 damages.

ROAD MAINTENANCE COST STATE NEARLY $13,000,000

Connecticut spent nearly thirteen millions of dollars during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1927, to maintain its roads, bridges and ferries, according to figures from the office of the comptroller. This is an increase in the annual total expenditures by the highway department of approximately nine and one-half millions of dollars since 1914, when the state spent $3,486,982 to carry on the work of the highway department. While the annual expenditures have quadrupled in a decade, the total of all state highway department properties, including trunk lines, state aid roads, bridges and ferries, has been increasing at the rate of about $3,500,000 a year during the last few years.

The state's expenditures for highway work during the last fiscal year totaled $12,830,616. Of this, $3,535,039 went for trunk line repairs, and $1,743,794 for new trunk line construction. Maintenance of bridges and ferries cost the state $1,035,283. Unfinished state aid road construction cost about $200,000 while state aid road improvements cost about $150,000. For the elimination of dangerous conditions on certain roads such as at underpasses or grade crossings, where straightening of the highway or the construction of an overhead bridge or a new underpass was found necessary for safety, the state spent $280,269. Repairs to state aid roads cost $128,487. The sum of $85,414 was received from the United States government for federal aid. Dredging of the channel of the Sluice river at Guilford cost $5,000.

To meet these expenditures certain receipts are set aside specifically for highway purposes. From motor vehicle fees (operators' licenses, registrations, etc), $6,502,233 was realized, all of it going for highway work. From highway department transfers and sales $1,744,509 was secured. Various amounts totaling $262,668 were made available from motor vehicle fines alone. Obligations to towns netted $73,162 more. In addition to this quarter of a million paid by the automobiling public for violations of the motor vehicle laws and the six and one-half millions from motor vehicle fees and other sources, $46,130 from the gasoline tax and other smaller receipts from various sources swelled the highway funds even more.

The value set on the highway property owned by the state or controlled through the highway department is $41,526,335 (does not include $12,000 for ferries), as of June 30, 1927, as compared with a total value of $38,642,706 for the previous year, and $36,639,570 for 1926.

At the end of the last fiscal year there were approximately 1,967 miles of graded roads (all types) in the state, 243 miles of bituminous macadam, 148 miles of bituminous concrete and 333 miles of concrete and brick highway. These figures include the eighty-seven miles of new highway added in 1926-27 of which 44.13 were of concrete.

The total valuation of the new roads, all types, built during the fiscal year was approximately $2,015,100. On the estimate that graded roads are worth $10,000 a mile, bituminous macadam $20,000 and concrete and brick roads $30,000 a mile, the total valuation of all roads in the state at the end of the fiscal year was estimated as follows: Graded roads $19,671,300; bituminous macadam $2,940,540; bituminous concrete $2,561,930 and concrete and brick $9,535,690; total $35,699,760. It is estimated that there was little if any depreciation in the value of the graded roads during the year, while the bituminous macadam depreciated 20 per cent., the bituminous concrete 15 per cent. and the concrete and brick roads five per cent.

The bridges in the state are valued at $5,814,575 as follows: Milford-Stratford $51,500; Thames river $504,000; Westport $121,125; Derby $250,000; Saybrook-Lyme $408,750; East Haddam $290,700; Portland $315,000; Mystic $250,000; miscellaneous small bridges $1,800,000; new construction, 1926-27, $380,000.

Don't dope YOUR COUGH

It is not wise to use remedies which depend upon "dope" such as narcotics, chloroform, cannabis or tar products. They may stop your cough temporarily by numbing the tissues, as most cough mixtures do, but this is not enough.

The inflamed air passages must be soothed naturally, the secretion of normal mucus hastened and modified in order to effect a lasting recovery. PERTUSSIN assists Nature to accomplish these results in a remarkably short time—and is absolutely harmless.

THE FORMULA OF A NE

FIGHTERS FROM THREE STATES ON DUWELL AMATEUR CARD THIS EVENING

First the silver toned voice of the announcer, next the referee's final instructions and then the tap of the gong and the Duwell indoor amateur boxing season will be on. A score of aspiring young pugilists selected from an entry list of 36, tonight will play the lead in the Duwell show at the state armory. Boxers from three states, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island, ranging in weight from 110 to 200 pounds will be bracketed for a card of 10 bouts. Experienced boxers bearing the scars of many battles and noices who are just starting on the pugilistic climb will be matched accordingly. A New England champ, a Rhode Island state titleholder and a flock of contenders for high honors are included in the following list of entries.

110 pound class: Vernon Cormier, Worcester; Patsy Luggie, Westerly; Sidney Nicholl, Danielson; Frankie Purite, Westerly.

115 pound class: Rene Peloquin, Danielson; Ero Peterson, Worcester; Anthony Moretti and Howard Buckley, Stonington; and Harry Madden, South Manchester.

125 pound class: Benny Salinski, Frankie Kolas, Johnny Switch, Jewett City; Thomas Visgilio, Westerly; Lou Patrone, Worcester; Al Dowd, Hartford.

135 pound class: Johnny Kop, Frankie Adams and Al Koziol of Norwich; Einor Hermans and Ollie Koski, Worcester; Happy Bontempo and Harry Golas of Jewett City; R. Grillo of Stonington and Charles Chape of Westerly.

145 pound class: Alex Socquet of Danielson, Art Brusso, Worcester; Joe Russo, Westerly; John Troy, Stonington.

150 pound class. Joe Bruno, Westerly; Walter Main, Stonington; Benny Dempski, Jewett City; Charles Miller, South Manchester.

200 pound class: Earl Champlain of Westerly.

From the above list some sweet battles should be picked, the most prominent being between Peterson of Worcester and Peloquin of Danielson, and Russo of Westerly and Brusso of Worcester. A recent announcement made relative to the possible Peloquin-Peterson bout stated that the latter took a close decision from Peloquin at Putnam a short while ago, the information coming from the Worcester boy's handlers. Since then it has been found that Peloquin was the winner of the Putnam bout and not Peterson. The Danielson boy's followers have not taken very kindly to the statement made by Peterson's boss and are coming down strong to see their native son beat the Worcester boy soundly.

The boxing which starts at 8.15 o'clock will be preceeded by a concert to be given by the Duwell orchestra.

There are seats for 1000 people and according to present prospects every one will be taken. The advance sale of tickets is reported good. In addition to the seats there is an unlimited standing space so that every one desirous of attending the bouts may feel sure of being accommodated. The officials are Frankie Busch referee, Dr. David Sussler medical examiner, Jack Carney timekeeper, and Jack Sweeney and Mike Kelly judges. All boxers are requested to be at the armory by 7 o'clock for medical examination.

SID TERRIS FACES JIMMY MLARNIN AT GARDEN TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Sid Terris, bounding pride of New York's East Side, will match his speed tomorrow night against the punching power of Jimmy McLarnin, an Irish lad from the Pacific coast, in a ten round Madison Square Garden feature that is scheduled to produce an outstanding challenger for Sammy Mandell's lightweight title.

Although Terris has been on the floor several times in his last five fights, the Ghetto Idol rates an 8 to 5 favorite.

Both boxers weighed in before representatives of the New York state athletic commission today, Terris is scaling 134 pounds and McLarnin 136 1-2. The Coast Star expressed the belief, however, that he would have no trouble making the stipulated 135 pounds on the day of the fight.

McLarnin, although not yet signed for the match, is scheduled to fight Mandell for the title in June in Chicago. Sanction will be given the bout by the National Boxing association, ruling body in 26 states, only in the event the Westerner defeats Terris.

McLarnin will make his eastern debut after compiling an impressive record in distant sectors. In recent starts, Jimmy knocked out Louis Kid Kaplan, former featherweight champion, in the eighth round of a match in Chicago, and trounced Billy Wallace, Cleveland star, in a decision bout in Detroit. Terris whipped Phil McGraw, Detroit Greek, in his last bout here.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT AT DAYTONA BEACH RACES

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—The second mishap of the motor race meet here occurred this afternoon when the Whippet automobile driven by Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, in preparation for an attempt at the four cylinder record, burst into flames and was steered into the ocean to avoid serious consequences.

The car was not badly damaged and Shaw was uninjured. Attributing the blaze to a backfiring motor, he had the tiny machine towed to a garage, unfit for further use before the meet closed officially today.

Frank Lockhart who narrowly escaped death yesterday when his Stutz Blackhawk somersaulted into the ocean, talked to newspapermen at his hospital bed today against the advice of physicians.

He was "giving it all it could take," he said, when the machine streaked into a rain squall at 235 miles an hour and he saw nothing until he stopped in the sea.

"I was feeling my way, wide open in the mist," he added, "and started instinctively pulling the car higher on the beach, away from the ocean. When I struck soft sand, I knew I was too high and pulled her down again—but too quickly. The next thing I knew I was in the water."

The young track veteran attributed his escape to the sturdy construction of the car and the quick work of men who pulled it from the surf.

Lockhart plans to rebuild his car immediately and make another attempt at the world's speed record. The only injury that worried him today was a cut on his wrist which severed several tendons. It will not affect his driving, physicians said.

Campbell Near Own Record

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—Making an exhibition run on the Ocean Speedway here late today, Capt. Malcolm Campbell of England, negotiated the measured mile stretch at an average speed of 206.79713 miles per hour in his Giant Napier Blue Bird racer. This was slightly less than his world's record of 206.9 set here last Sunday.

In one of the closing events of the meet, Gil Anderson, of Indianapolis, established a new world's record for stock cars when he drove his Stutz over an official mile course for an average two way speed of 106.52463 miles an hour.

The former record, set here last week by Wade Morton, of Auburn, Ind., was 104.34782.

Tom Rooney, of Chicago, in another Stutz also bettered the former record when he clipped off the mile in an average speed of 105.54089 miles an hour.

Ray Keech, Philadelphia, drove J. M. White's huge 36 cylinder Triplex for an unofficial average two-way speed of 203.73 miles an hour, little more than three miles an hour less than Campbell's record.

Keech was timed by newspapermen using five stop watches, as the American Automobile association had refused to enter the car in the meet because it did not conform to the association's rule, in that it was not equipped with a suitable reverse gear.

SAMMY MANDELL BEATS FIELDS ON DECISION

COLISEUM, Chicago, Feb. 23—(AP)—Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, defeated Jackie Fields, of Los Angeles, in a ten-round battle here tonight, evening the score for the coast boy's verdict scored over him in Los Angeles last May.

Mandell's title was not at stake. Fields scaled 140 pounds and Mandell tipping the beam at 137 1-2.

In ten savage rounds, Mandell gave Fields, a Chicago boy, who made his ring debut on the coast, an artistic drubbing.

Mandell won seven of the ten rounds, with Fields taking two and one being declared even, according to the verdict of the critics at the ringside.

The match drew 9,000 spectators with receipts at prices of $2 to $7 reaching $30,000.

For the first two rounds, Fields, matching Mandell's marvelous speed, gave indications he might take the Rockford boy for the second time. He more than held Mandell even in the first and in the second caused Sammy's handlers to turn white with fear. In this session he clouted Mandell's body with sharp lefts and rights, with the titleholder unable to connect solidly and wondering what it was all about.

In the third Mandell started a dizzy pace, with Fields on the receiving end.

With sharp exchanges Mandell outscored the Coast boy, cracking him on the chin with short rights and poking a stream of lefts to Fields' reddened nose, which bled profusely as early as the first round. In the seventh he was bleeding from a wicked gash over the left eye.

The action was so furious at all times that they continued to fight twice without hearing the bell.

Both were on the floor once, but not from punches. Mandell was wrestled down once and in the tenth Fields went down in Mandell's corner after missing a wild swing.

FIGHT GAME IS POPULAR IN SOUTH SEA ISLANDS

PAPEETE, Tahiti—(AP)—Radio, the ally of the move in introducing Americanism to the islands of this French South Seas possession, has contributed the popularizing of prize fighting.

When the Dempsey-Tunney fight was on the air the islands virtually dropped everything to listen in, and for some time the fight and the decision were the topics of conversation to the exclusion of everything else.

Each island now has its district champion, and the merits of each are tested from time to time by inter-island or intersectional fistic combats witnessed by enthusiastic crowds.

The most recent event was a battle for the championship of the archipelago, in which the resigning champion, a native of the Leeward islands, retained the championship belt against the challenge of an aspirant who represented the hopes of Tahiti.

University Club Wins

HALIFAX, N. S. Feb. 23.—(AP)—The Boston University Hockey club opened a two-game series here tonight with a 3 to 1 triumph over the Kentville Wildcats.

'BOUT SPORTS

Every once in a while something most unusual flashes across the sport horizon and the Academy's bad defeat by Stonington night before last was one of this sort. The Red and White, after showing the best form of any court team from the local school last Saturday in trimming Deep River, proceeded to make its worst showing in Stonington.

There is really little difference between Deep River and Stonington, in fact, if any, Deep River has the edge. But look what happened. The Academy outplays Deep River to win handily and then is made to look like grammar schoolboys against Stonington. There is another chance for the locals, a week from Saturday, March 3.

Plans for the next Pastime card a week from tonight at Olympic hall are now rapidly taking form. The principals in the Talbert-Farmer Steve bout are working hard for their second appearance, which will afford each a chance to get a clean-cut decision before the eyes of Norwich fandom. Talbert is at Joe Connelly's gym at New London working out with Bobby Mays while Steve intends to go down to Stillman's gym in New York for a slight tapering-off process. There is another feature, Gurton Tracy, wrist-turning champ from Fitchville, also slated to perform on this card. This is something new hereabouts and more will be coming about it.

McKELVIE CREEPS UP ON NIELD IN SCORING

Scotty McKelvie, Chapman Tech center is creeping up on Bill Nield his captain and forward in the scoring race among eastern Connecticut's leading high schools. Now Nield has but a 16 point margin, leading with 170 points on 71 field goals and 28 fouls as against McKelvie's 69 field goals and 16 fouls.

Les Pingree of the Academy dropped another position during the week because of his inactivity, now resting in sixth place. Eddie Heller, Windham captain passed him last week and now has 69 points as against Pingree's 66.

Joe Viau is the next Academy player after Pingree, he being quite a distance down the line with 43 points.

Among the teams Windham still has the best record although losing to Torrington. The Academy showed improvement last week in beating Deep River while Chapman Tech continued her in-and-out ways by winning and losing. Stonington dropped two games during the week.

These records include games played to Saturday night. Summaries:

FARMER STEVE NOW UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Farmer Steve has started another siege of training with his manager and trainer, Sid Shabecoff and Phil Hertz, respectively. He has two good sparring partners in these boys and each is equipped with the necessary qualities of giving the Yantic boy a real workout.

Steve is anxious to get at the well known Car-barn champ, Walter Talbert. He looked good last night at the Smoke Shop gym when he completed six rounds of gym work, two of which were with Sid and Phil. Steve also punched the bag for one round, skipped rope for one and tapered off with two rounds of calisthenics.

4,000 PERSONS BOWLING IN KANSAS CITY LEAGUES

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Interest in bowling is keen in Kansas City this winter, largely because the American Bowling congress will be held here March 5 to April 2.

One hundred bowling leagues have been formed in the city. There are 802 teams in all of the leagues, and more than 750 of them already have entered the A. B. C. event. Bowling has taken a position as one of the important winter sports, as 4,000 persons are participating in league play and many others are in the game for recreation only.

Two years ago, Kansas City had 400 teams in 56 leagues. In the winter of 1920-21 there were only three leagues with 20 teams.

MARTINS AT JEWETT CITY SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The J. B. Martin soccer team is slated to resume activity Sunday afternoon going to Jewett City to grapple with the Jewett City Favorites. The locals defeated this team a few weeks back but this time the Favorites will be strengthened and stand a good chance of winning.

BOXING JABS

The Duwells tonight.

Al Beauregard scored a neat victory over Willie Darcy Wednesday night in Holyoke. The Taftville boy had his opponent on the canvas twice during the eight round affair.

Even at this early date, the Pastime card next Friday looms as even better than anything previously. The Talbert-Steve bout looks like a real attraction.

Jack Willis, who gave Mickey Walker such a battle in the early rounds of their bout Wednesday, fought Shiek Leonard, our blonde battler, at Portland a year or so ago. The Shiek lost by a kayo.

Willimantic has her unsanctioned amateurs tonight. Bobby Mays will referee and Norwich boys are on the card.

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS HANG DEFEAT ONTO DANIELSON IN SERIES OPENER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 23—In one of those fast and roughly-played games of basketball for which Taftville and Danielson are noted, the Taftville team defeated the Danielson towners by a 35 to 22 score in the town hall tonight. The first eight minutes of play found both teams playing nip and tuck and then Taftville gradually pulled away from the Towners with the half ending 19 to 10 in their favor.

Fast Game

The second half was when the real fun commenced and it could be seen that both teams were in for a real 20 minutes of play, Taftville making 16 points in this half against Danielson's 12. Each and every man on both teams should be given a great deal of credit for the hard game of basketball they played, but special mention should be made of Normandin of Taftville with eight sensational baskets to his credit for a total of 16 points. Also of Billy Schofield, of Danielson, who was playing against the famed Dissenger of Plainfield. Schofield came through with 14 points to his credit, proving that even Dissenger could not stop him, so all Danielson's bets were realized. However, Dissenger played a fine game and made five points for Taftville. Mention should also be made of Bitgood playing for Danielson, he holding Harris, one of Taftville's high scorers, to one point. Summing up the whole affair it can be said that it was a great game of basketball with Taftville deserving of its victory.

Hartford Team Next.

CANZONERI, SCHWARTZ WIN, BUT FLOWERS LOSES

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, world's featherweight champion, received a judges' decision over Pete Passafiume in a feature four-round bout at the New Broadway Arena in Brooklyn tonight. Canzoneri weighed 129, his rival 126. The proceeds of the event were for Joe Bernstein, the old-time featherweight, who is seriously ill in a hospital.

Izzy Schwartz, 111 pounds, flyweight champion recognized by the New York state athletic commission, won from Benny Hall, St. Louis Negro, 115, in a four round semi-final. All the bouts were four rounders.

The big upset of the evening came when Eddie (Kid) Wagner of Philadelphia was given the verdict over Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle Negro, who has been one of the leading lightweight contenders. Wagner weighed 139 pounds, Flowers 137 1-2.

school. The contract is for $2,174.

OLAV SATRE TAKES LAKE PLACID SKI RACE

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Olav Satre, of the Salisbury Outing club, Salisbury, Conn., today won the twenty mile cross-country ski race here in two hours and 44 minutes. The race originally had been planned for 25 miles, but unfavorable weather and slow snow forced the lopping off of five miles of the course.

Interscholastic Sports

That Academy defeat Wednesday night by Stonington was some surprise. But those things do happen, as it were.

Windham meets Killingly tonight at Willimantic. Callaghan's team walked all over this quintet in Danielson early in the season.

Chapman Tech is getting a brief rest on its strenuous schedule.

The Academy is going up to see Conn. Aggies play Springfield next week.

It looks like Nield and McKelvie have scoring honors clinched for the season. That big schedule of Tech's is a big advantage.

Deep River is closing its season this week and to date she has 15 wins and but three losses.

Young Bicknell, Kid LaVallee and Battling Dunk will carry the hopes of the Willimantic fans while Norwich, New London, Colchester and Hartford will be well represented. Bobby Mays of New London will preside over the bouts.

HORNSBY AT SECOND IN FIRST BRAVE'S DRILL

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Spring training for seven major league clubs in Florida was more vigorous today than at any time since the conditioning campaign started, longer hours being spent on the diamond and code of "donts" making appearances in several camps.

Particularly was this the case at Avon Park where Manager Bill McKechnie served his St. Louis Cardinals training restrictions in no uncertain terms.

Night hours, "drinking," card playing and golf are all permissable for the candidates, McKechnie declared, provided they are up ready for work at 7:00 a. m., drink nothing stronger than near beer, play only anti-gambling card games and engage in golf on off days.

Rules of about the same order have been adopted in other camps.

Although work was extended slightly in the quarters of the Braves at St. Petersburg, the Phillies at Winter Haven, the Cards at Avon Park, the Senators at Tampa, the Red Sox at Bradenton, the Browns at West Palm Beach and Athletics at Fort Myers, the training still is in its preliminary stage, and casualties have been reported to date.

The actual polishing process will not begin until all squads have fully assembled around March 1.

Arrival of Eddie Farrell at the Braves' camp gave Manager Slattery a full infield to work with and a chance to be first to glance at his inner works. The first infield practice was held today, with Eddie Brown at first, Rogers Hornsby at second, Farrell at short and Gautreau at third.

The Cardinals and Braves apparently are hitting the fastest pace with the former working both morning and afternoon. The Braves already have started real baseball with patched up lineups.

Dan Howley took occasion at West Palm Beach today to comment on his St. Louis Browns:

"I think the squad is a thousand per cent better in spirit this year. Of course, I hated to see Sisler and the others go, but Lu Blue and Heinie Manush will be a big help to the team. They're great ball players."

Talk of holdouts is occupying little attention with managers loath to class players thus until March 1, the "dead line" is passed.

Meanwhile, the Indians continued idle at New Orleans on account of wet grounds.

The Giant battery men continued mountain climbing and tossing the ball at Hot Springs, Ark., prior to leaving within a few days for Augusta, Ga.

MACK MAKES DEAL WITH BRAVES FOR BOXING BOUTS

BOSTON, Feb. 23. —(AP)— Eddie Mack, matchmaker of the Argonne A. A. today completed arrangements with Judge Emil E. Fuchs, owner of the Boston Braves, for 20 outdoor boxing exhibitions at Braves field next summer.

Engineers are now working on a new seating plan that will increase the capacity of the field to 70,000 spectators for summer matches. Present plans call for an exhibition every Tuesday night with a return to last year's "penny a round" admission charge. The weekly cards will call for a 50 cent admission charge for 50 rounds of boxing, except the championship events.

The program will start May 15 with the Jim Maloney-Roberto Roberti heavyweight fracas.

DELANEY AND BRUCE CALDWELL MEET AT B'PORT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 23. —(AP)— Bruce Caldwell and Jack Delaney, two of the leading exponents of their respective athletic activities met here today at the latter's rickety little gymnasium where Delaney went through a heavy workout in preparation for his coming encounter with Tom Heeney in New York.

Caldwell was greatly impressed by Delaney's condition and marveled at his punching power. "I don't know about fighting condition, but as far as being conditioned for athletics he looks all right," Caldwell of Yale said following Jack's workout.

VAN WIE AND ORCUTT GET BY SEMI-FINALS

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Virginia Van Wie, mid-south women's golf champion, and Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., today survived the semi-final round of the Florida women's tournament.

Miss Van Wie had little trouble defeating Mrs. Charles W. McHogg, of New York, 8 and 7, the match ending after the Chicago girl had won almost every hole through exceptional work on both tees and greens.

Miss Orcutt was hard pressed to eliminate Katherine Bryant, Chicago, finally winning 3 and 1. The superior driving of the youthful New Jersey woman alone saved her from defeat as her putting was erratic.

ACADEMY PLAYS BACON HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

The Academy will return to the home court to meet Bacon Academy of Colchester at the Y gym Saturday night. In the preliminary the C. F. C. will clash with the Emeralds of New London, a collection of City league stars.

Bacon scored a win last night but on the Y gym, which is better suited for basketball than the court in Colchester the locals are expected to have a good chance of winning. Stiff practice is expected today for the Red and White.

DAVIS CONTINUE TO WIN IN HORSESHOE TOURNEY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—C. C. Davis, defending champion of Columbus, Ohio, continued his victorious march in the National horseshoe pitching tournament here today by winning five more matches, Blair Nunamaker of Cleveland falling before his excellent tossing.

By taking the five contests today and with the Clevelander dropping a pair of games after winning 17 straight Davis now is leading the field with 21 wins and one loss. Nunamaker, however clings to second position in the preliminary race with 20 victories and two defeats.

FANS MUST CULTIVATE BIKE RACE APPETITE

CHICAGO —(AP)— Six day bike races, like olives, apparently require a cultivated appetite.

Efforts to expand the bike race circuit this year are held to have borne that out. An effort was made to introduce the sport in Detroit, but the fans were apathetic. A fortnight before, the races had drawn crowded houses here.

They go big, also, in New York, and the answer is supposed to be that fans in Chicago and New York, where the races have been held for years, have cultivated a liking for them.

ACADEMY LOSES CLOSE GAME TO BACON

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, Feb. 23—Norwich Free Academy dropped an 18 to 12 decision to Bacon Academy here tonight. Behind 13 to 4 at half time the visitors outscored the locals 8 to 5 in the second half but couldn't quite close up the gap.

This was the second loss for Norwich in consecutive nights. Saturday Bacon goes to Norwich for a return game.

Dutch at center led the locals in scoring while he also showed nice floorwork on the familiar under-sized court. Although Norwich played better than against Stonington the night before still they were a bit off and this, coupled with the disadvantages of the dwarfed playing surface beat them.

We have the first snow storm for the winter. It has come and I guess to stay. The old ground hog will have to stay in his home now for a while.

Mitchell and Jennett Gray of Campbellville were through Eastern Voluntown recently selling garden seed.

Mrs. Mason Gray has a new washing machine. She says she would not know what to do without it now she has got it.

Mrs. Sabra Baker is quite feeble this winter. She is with her daughter, Mrs. Mason Gray, at Campbells mills.

Sunday visitors and callers at Mrs. George Kenyon's on Sterling hill were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Tember and two children of Moosup, Miss Mary Douglass and Elizabeth Johnson of Sterling.

Thomas Lewis of Voluntown was a caller at Mr. Lybeck's Sunday at Beach Pond.

Your correspondent was sorry to hear of the sudden death of Allen Sayles, on Ekonk hill. They have known each other ever since they were young. Mr. Sayles has many friends that will mourn his loss. Also his wife and children have the sympathy of your correspondet in their sorrow.

Your correspondent wants to know why the deer are running at large. Is it to eat up farmers' gardens and fruit orchards? Every farmer from far and near tells what the deer have done in their garden and now this winter are eating up their young orchards. Your correspondent knows one man that worked hard to get the money to buy trees to set him out an orchard and the deer have eaten it up. How do you suppose that man feels if he would shoot a deer and not tell the game warden? He would get arrested and if he did not have the money to pay would have to go to jail and if he did notify the game warden he would go and tell him to dress it. He would take what he wanted, that would be the best, and tell the man who shot it he could have the rest. Now is that right?

All a farmer has to do nowadays is work themselves to death to get something for the deer. Now will you tell what the deer are for. I would like to know. I can't see as they are any earthly good only to eat up the gardens and orchards.

The snow and the bad going don't stop the R. F. D. man.

William Bitgood and Alfred Devolve were at Beach Pond store recently trading.

THE FARM PROBLEM.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

The tendency in discussing that wretched "Farm Problem" is to consider it wholly or chiefly as one of dollars and cents; to assume that it can be settled for good by assuring the farmers better prices for their wheat, etc.

As a matter of fact, that is only one of many elements entering into the composition of the puzzle.

One of the biggest of the many rural problems is to find out why in Tophet every year sees armies and hordes of country youth of both sexes, deserting the country for the city—to find out why they do it, and how to stop them.

The country is constantly producing young people of sturdy health, of rugged stamina, of eager ambition, and of superior brains, only to have them turn their backs on the conditions which have nurtured them and carry their health, their stamina, their ambition and their brains to some city.

Go over the "Who's Who" of almost any city and you'll find that its really big men, three times out of four, are immigrants from the "rooral deestricks." They succeed in the city because they carry there with them the fundamentals of success. There is no reason to doubt that, if they had remained in the country, they would also there have attained success.

Then why don't they?

The Ohio State College of Agriculture recently undertook to find out the answer. It distributed questionnaires widely throughout the state to young people and received numerous answers; enough to warrant it, in its own belief in summarizing the following as the five things that every boy and girl seems to want:

1. A good home.
2. A chance to make as good a living in the country as in the city.
3. As good an education in the country as any place.
4. A moral community.
5. A chance to have a good time.

I've been thinking those five points over for some little time, and the more I think about them the less satisfactory I find them. Somehow, they don't all ring true.

Nor are they quite consistent with each other. One can't help feeling that the youth who answered were, at least part of the time, just parroting over trite sophisms that they had heard from others.

Consider, for instance, the first demand for "a good home."

This is sheer silliness on its face. Of course, there are bad homes in both country and city. But in the country they are exceptional and rare. There is no comparison between the "homeyness" of the average farmhouse and that of the city tenement. The kitchen may be low-ceiled and the "range" only a cook stove; the furniture may be worn and dingy; the boy's bedroom may be an attic chamber—but how does he gain a better home by exchanging them for one of those six-by-nine cells called a "hall bedroom" in a stuffy city rooming house? Or even for a "flat" of tucked-up, closet-like cubby-holes in a "modern apartment house?"

Suppose the lad's bedroom is under the bare rafters; suppose it has only a strip of "rag carpet" for a rug; at least it is airy and roomy and a haven for sound and refreshing sleep. It has space for something more than a cot bed and a trunk; there are places for his winter skates and his summer fish-pole; for his own books, if he likes that sort of thing; for real privacy, when he wants to be alone; for his personal tools, if he is mechanically-inclined; for even a gun, if he takes to hunting.

Moreover, he is generally permitted to "fix up" that attic sanctum with any such curiosities or trophies or other treasures as he may, for the moment, cherish.

Good air and plenty of it; good food, and plenty of it; wide open spaces on every side for his adventurous spirit to explore; the whole great Book of Nature—vastly more thrilling than any written volume—spread open before him to read as he runs or works or plays—and yet he puts down as one reason for leaving it all and going to town his desire for "a good home!"

I think that may be promptly classified as an excuse, not a reason.

Then he wants "as good an education in the country as any place." So he is reported as saying. Well, I happen to have in mind this minute one country boy who got his primary education in a district school beside a country lane, and his higher education in a country college, and who found that education adequate to fit him for the presidency of the United States.

My own impression is strong that, while city schools and big universities may teach more frills and fripperies, the soundest and truest education at present attainable is that to be gained from country schools and rural colleges. It is at once more practical and more vital.

Skip on to the fourth desire, but for "a moral community." This forcibly suggests a revision of the lad's answers by his Sunday school teacher. You and I know perfectly well that not one normal boy out of a hundred in his teens has any more solicitude about "morals" than he has about his liver. This does not mean that he is immoral; far from it. But he hasn't the experience or the habit of deep thinking necessary to a comprehension of the importance of good morals. He has a liver which works all right but he seldom thinks of it till he's forty. He has an ingrained sense of right and wrong, but he takes that sense as much a matter of course as he does his liver. It isn't till that liver begins to raise internal ructions that he appreciates it's there and needs some attention. It isn't till his moral sense has been shocked by the scandals of a world in which he is taking active part that he begins to think much about it.

That leaves us just two of the five alleged desires to be considered as important and sincere. He wants "a chance to make as good a living in the country as in the city," and he wants "a chance to have a good time."

In both of these expressions one instinctively recognizes the outspoken candor of "flaming youth."

The country boy wants to get as good a living, i. e., as big wages and as good clothes as the city boy doing no more if as much productive work.

Well, why shouldn't he? He thinks he ought to get as much pay for raising a bushel of potatoes as the city dealer who just passes them on. And by all the canons of equity, he has a right to as much. Yet it isn't the country which denies him that equality, but the very city to which he flees.

I have known boys to leave the old farm and "make good" in city business. I have also known boys to make equally good who staid on the farm and put the same industry and gumption and grit and shrewdness into their work as the successful city merchant has had to put into his. And I firmly believe that many more might do it, if they were willing to pay the price.

Naturally, we don't expect old heads on young shoulders. We don't expect ambitious and capable lads, without personal experience of the ways of business and the tricks of trade, to see as far ahead or as clearly as those who have become veterans of repeated conflicts. Moreover, they are apt to be misled by the fine clothes and big talk and pockets full of change exhibited by their summer visitors from the city. Because they see that their visitor, who isn't a bit brighter or wiser than they, makes a big splash in the rural pool during his two weeks' vacation, they think they can make as much of a splash in the big city puddle, all the year 'round.

It isn't always nor often done. But they don't see it that way. They are not to be blamed, but sympathized with and if possible, shown the facts in their true light. How to do that is a real and pressing problem.

Last of all, they want "a chance to have a good time."

Ah, brethren, that's where we begin to get at the real inwardness of the situation?

The average boy simply dotes on the theatre and the "movies." He likes to play pool and to have a bowling alley handy, and to be able to go to dances and ball games. Sunday school picnics and church socials and grange dinners and a day once a year at the county fair are but drops which sadly fail to fill an empty bucket. He wants a good time with "the other fellows"—and the other fellows' sisters.

Boyle O'Reilly wrote something more than a line of good poetry, he uttered an undeniable truth, when he penned—

"The world is made when a man is born."

It's all as new to the youth of today as to the Adam of a long past Eden, as new and as strange and as enticing. Nor can he see why it shouldn't be as beautiful and as rapturously happy. Anyway, he is driven by the urge to find out for himself. As a rule, his childhood has been given over to play. He doesn't see why he can't play all his life. Play is his idea of happiness. And he thinks, poor fellow, that happiness is the aim and end of life.

There is a true problem here. Not on for economists or propagandists but for philosophers and saints. Not one to be solved by any rule or formula but one to task the utmost capacities of beneficent wisdom.

It is a problem whose solution must at least start in the home. That is, it must begin with father and mother.

And father and mother must take their full share of responsibility if failure results.

Don't forget that.

THE FARMER.

SENATOR WARREN'S RECORD IN CIVIL WAR REVEALED

Something happened this week to divert attention from the wrangling and partisan harangues that have marked the week in congress and momentarily throw politics into the discard, as one thought of the man and events that, in the past safeguarded the United States and saved the nation in emergency.

Probably we have all, at one time or another, wondered of what sort of stuff heroes are made. If we want to see a war hero, we need only look down on Senator Francis E. Warner, now of Wyoming, but born and reared in New England. The story of his enlistment is dramatic.

Senator Warren is the only Civil war veteran in the senate—he is the only senator ever awarded the congressional medal of honor, the highest decoration the nation can bestow.

Senator Warren, at 84, is as sturdy, efficient and alert as the average man of half his years. He is dean of the senate, chairman of the appropriation committee, former chairman of military affairs. Yet, it was back in 1863, when he was 17 years old, that he performed in the Civil war, an act of bravery that gained him that distinctive and rare decoration.

Just think of a man born when John Tyler was president of the United States, being today the active chairman of the highest committee of the senate, while Tyler, long dead, is almost forgotten.

Francis Warren enlisted the day he became 17, which was the age of possible enlistment. He was a private in the 49th Massachusetts Infantry, became a noncommissioned officer and remained in the regiment until it was mustered out of service. Later he was captain in the state militia.

Dropping into Senator Warren's office this week, to ask a question regarding an appropriation bill, a little blue button in the lapel of his coat attracted attention. "Will you tell me how you won the congressional medal of honor"? was asked the senator. He isn't very keen on giving interviews but after a while the story of his enlistment and the medal was learned.

It runs along this line. Young Francis Warren, in the early days of the war was not old enough to enlist, but his feet tingled to respond to the beat of the drum and his country's call. The Warren family lived in Hinsdale, a little Massachusetts town. They were of fine old New England stock, but had little money. Francis, the oldest son in the family of five children, helped support the family, working for a nearby farmer. He milked the cows, made hay, churned the butter, made cheese, and "did the chores." Months went by and at last, the morning of his 17th birthday came, for that was the enlistment age.

Francis went through the days routine, milking, haying, churning and making cheese as usual, then hitched up the old horse and took the goods to market. When that was done he did not stop for supper, but hurried to the town hall to enlist. The hall was crowded with folks waiting to see who "would sign" next. Down the aisle strode young Francis Warren, when his father joined him. Francis Warren's heart skipped a beat, for being under age, he thought his father was there to prevent enlistment. Instead, his father walked by his side and said "Son, I go with you." Then the grit and calm, cold determination of the boy showed itself. "No father," said he "One of us must stay home and take care of mother and the children. I want to be the one to go, but if you go, I shall stay home and take care of mother and the family." That settled it. And 17 year old Francis Warren enlisted then and there. Within a few months he had earned the congressional medal of honor, by volunteering to take a risk so deadly that military discipline did not require it of any soldier. Warren accomplished his task though wounded.

When we realize that in the World war, only 44 congressional medals of honor were awarded individual American soldiers, and that one half of that number were posthumous, the men having died in accomplishing the work, we can get an idea of the stuff Warren and other heroes are made of.

Warren's citiation reads that it was for "great service he rendered at Port Hudson, Louisiana, on May 27, 1863 under heavy fire of the enemy, and in advance of the general assault."

Senator Warren smiled as he told how, on that day, he had fallen asleep, while not on duty, after having had a 48 hour hard march with little rest or food. Said he "I woke just in time to volunteer to be one of the two men from our company to go forward, when volunteers were called for. Something told me in my sleep that a crisis was at hand, and that it was time for me to make up. And I did."

Next to his medal of honor, and the small blue "everyday wear" button that represents it, Senator Warren values an old photograph of himself taken in his first uniform. The clothes are ill fitting and the hat has on it an eagle as big as a man's fist, but the senator is justly proud of it, for it was in that uniform he made his record, as a mere boy.

Later Senator Warren left New England for Wyoming, where his civilian and political record has kept pace with his military life. He was governor of Wyoming when it was a territory, he was its first governor by election when it became a state. He has long served it in the senate; his ranch is the largest and most noted in that section of the country, and the people of his home state and his home city of Wyoming, believe you cannot overestimate what they owe to him.

Valor and military glory run hand in hand in the Warren family, both by heritage and by acquisition, for the daughter of Senator Warren was the wife of General Pershing.

And in these days when one hears pacifists say that "one flag is as good as another," the patriotism of Senator Warren should be an inspiration to every boy living under the American flag.

STOCK MARKET CLOSED WITH RALLY AFTER RELATIVELY DULL SESSION

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—Erratic price fluctuations in today's stock market reflected the nervousness of professional traders. The rally, which set in late Monday afternoon and continued through Tuesday, was resumed at the opening of the market, but trading was relatively dull until the last hour when selling flurries swept through the market only to give way to another rally at the close. Final quotations were decidedly mixed, disclosing a number of 2 to 5 point gains, and a smaller number of 2 to 5 point declines. Trading again fell well under 4,000,000 shares.

Call money held steady at 4 1-4 per cent all day despite the calling of about $30,000,000 in bank loans. There was no change in time money, commercial paper or acceptance rates. The weekly federal reserve statement on brokers' loans, which was awaited with considerable interest in view of the sharp declines in prices late last week, showed a decline of $91,049,000, bringing the total down to $3,728,816,000 as against $3,762,154,000 on February 22, 1927.

U. S. Steel common was in rather free supply all day despite the advance in heavy steel prices over the holiday, closing 3-4 of a point lower at 140. General Motors, on the other hand, received strong support, closing fractionally higher at 135 7-8. Although the January automobile production figures of the department of commerce fell below those of the corresponding month last year, they were larger than those of any month since last September, and Wall street was inclined to place a bullish interpretation upon them. Hudson was the leader of the motor group, with a gain of nearly 3 points at 82 1-2.

Outside the stock market, chief financial interest centered in the advance in Sterling Cables to a new high record for the year above $4.88. Other foreign exchanges showed little change.

Speculative sentiment in the stock market was somewhat disturbed by the further weakness of the express stocks and the rather persistent liquidation of some of the pool specialties, particularly International Nickel which broke more than 4 points to a new low on the movement at 76 3-4. American Railways Express broke 12 points and rallied 5 and American Express slumped 7 1-3 points. Standard Plate Glass preferred broke over 40 to 25 and rallied to 27, off 8 points net, and Houston Oil and U. S. Rubber each lost more than 3 points.

Bullish activities were most pronounced in such issues as American Radiator, Baldwin Locomotive, Burroughs Adding Machine, Case Threshing, International Business Machines, International Telephone and the Vilter Talking Machine issues.

Except for sharp breaks in the Atlantic Coast Line and Seaboard Air Line shares, the rail stocks gave a good account of themselves in the face of a poor traffic report. Union Pacific ran up nearly 3 points on a revival of rumors regarding a proposed segregation of its investment holdings.

Commodity markets were mixed. Cotton ran up about 75 cents a bale in the early trading on reports of unusually dry weather in Texas, but lost most of the day's gain. Coffee futures rallied 20 to 28 points. Wheat yielded a reaction of a cent a bushel and corn futures lost a cent or so on reports of increased deliveries. Sugar prices held firm.

CARPENTER WORK OF THE GARDEN

This is a good time for the ferehandede gardener to prepare for early seed sowing on days when the temperature is favorable by attending to any glazing repairs needed for the cold frames or hot beds, painting the sash, and building new frames and seed flats. A successful early start in the garden needs considerable carpenter work which might as well be done at home.

No garden is properly furnished without its frames, either hot beds or the cold frames. Miniature frames for early seed raising are one of the most profitable garden investments even if they are not put in place until April. They are now made in half the size of the standard cold frame or hot bed sash which is 3x6 feet. The seed frames are made 1x2 or even 3x1 for convenient handling with the glass on a hinged cover.

The miniature frames which are easily made at home to fit any glass that may be handy are particularly valuable in making it easier to get bigger crops of seedlings. Seed sown in the open ground and protected by these small frames has a better chance because it is protected from the wash of early spring rains which often take heavy tolls. By their use all of the hardy annuals and many of the half hardy sorts such as salvias and zinnias may be given an early start with little trouble and without the more cumbersome and heavier standard cold frames.

They are made on the same lines with the back 1 foot in height and the front six inches. The hinged glass lid may be thrown back on favorable days and closed down on chilly days or when there are rains. It is an economy and doubles the crop of seedlings raised in the open. They are also useful for fall sowing of slow germinating seeds which need the weathering of thawing and freezing to start them into life. Under the protection of one of these small frames they are protected fro mthe wash of thaws and winter rains and sleet and can be filled with snow from time to time to give the seeds the chill they seem to demand to germinate.

LIGNIN—AN UNUTILIZED FARM WASTE HAS INDUSTRIAL VALUE

Whether or not you already know what lignin is and what it is for, you are likely to hear and learn more about it within the next few years. Lignin is a constituent of agricultural wastes such as cornstalks, cornstalks, and straw. It has been alloted entirely wasted. Several years ago the chemists of the United States Department of Agriculture undertook to salvage some of the value of these by-products of the farm, and in the course of time evolved processes for the manufacture of furfural which is now being used for many purposes. The government discontinued the furfural experiments when commercial interests took over the work.

Lignin makes up from 20 to 30 per cent of the dry material of these wastes. The chemists have succeeded in converting lignin into varnishes, dyestuffs, and various aromatic chemicals that give promise of finding their places in the industrial chemical field. "Lignin," says Doctor Browne, assistant chief of chemistry and soils, "may be called the greatest of all unutilized agricultural wastes," and he continues with the significant statement that "it occupies with respect to industrial possibilities the position held by coal tar a century ago."

OWNERS OF SMALL LOGS RECEIVE ADVICE

The upper third of the bole or trunk of a number of species of hardwood soft wood trees is covered with the whorls of large limbs that make knotty lumber. Whether to take or leave this "top log," in cutting timber on small operations or farm woodlands, consequently presents just as knotty a problem.

The results of following some 600 such top logs through a shortleaf-pine sawmill in Arkansas and tallying the lumber cut from them, says the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, indicate that it is worth while to check up carefully before decided to leave top logs in the woods. The lumber from these logs grade B and better, 1.4 per cent; C and No. 1 common, 2.2 per cent; No. 2 common, 19.5 per cent; No. 3 common, 12.7 per cent; No. 1 common dimension, 27.6 per cent; No. 2 common dimension, 24.2 per ecnt; No. 3 common dimension, 10.4 per cent. It was much better quality than was expected, since many people had asserted that the top logs contained nothing above No. 3 common.

On the average the lumber from these top logs was worth $24.14 per thousand feet. The average production cost of the lumber from these knotty logs laid down at the planers was $15.81 per thousand. This left a balance of $8.33 to cover the planer cost, and contribute to stumpage and profit.

THE MAN WITH THE HOE SAYS—

Start a compost heap this spring with the spring rakings. It is the cheapest and best fertilizer possible.

Order seed liberally. It is the cheapest commodity on the market. It is better to have too much than not enough.

Spread manure on the garden any time you can get it. The spring rains will fill the soil with fertilizer.

Set barrels over the rhubarb and bank them up to start it at the earliest possible moment. This can be done any time during the winter.

Look over the dahlia tubers in the storage basement and if they are shriveling sprinkle lightly.

Store seeds in a cool place if you order them early. They are kept in better condition than in a warm room.

Look over the hoes occasionally and grease the blades if they are growing rusty. A rusty hoe is a poor tool.

Begin collecting stakes for the garden. There will never be enough of them when you want them.

The dwarf bedding dahlias will be worth adding to your list of annuals. Sow them in the house in March for July bloom.

Send in early orders for new gladiolus bulbs. They are exhausted early with the vogue of this popular plant.

GIVE ATTENTION TO CAREFUL BREEDING

Unless careful breeding work among poultry is already being done, the purchase of a pedigreed male to mate with a few carefully selected females is an investment that will pay many times over. The males from this mating should be held for general flock use during the second year.

Perhaps the potential value of a high-producing male when used as heretofore recommended can be best shown by the following incident that recently came to the attention of the writer, where a single male bird, in his second year of breeding, was father or grandfather to over 50,000 chickens.

It is a poor rule that does not work in both directions; hence the importance of careful selection when introducing a new male bird into a flock cannot be too carefully stressed. Egg production, egg size, bird size, trueness to type, and general flock health should all be considered when making a selection.

Any male bird or breeding hens introduced into a flock should be carefully quarantined for a period of at least two weeks before being allowed to mingle with otherstock. It must be remembered that, even though the flock from which the purchase is made is a known quantity, there is a danger of picking up disease in transportation which must be guarded against.

When mating breeding pens, it is better to use fewer males and better males rather than using too many. With the heavy breeds 12 to 15 or even 16 females may be used with one good male; with the light breeds, 15 to 20 may be used with one male. In the large matings the ratio should run approximately the same.

Placing low fences or other obstructions in the breeding pen where there are several males will do much toward splitting the flock up into small groups and prevent considerable fighting and chasing. Breeding pens must be mated at least one week before hatching eggs are to be saved, and better results will be obtained if the pens have been mated three or four weeks.

If there is a choice of holding cockerels in colony houses during cold weather, or mating the breeding pens six weeks to two months ahead of season, it is better to make the matings than to hold the male birds where there will be greater danger of frosted combs or loss through fighting, due to close confinement. If range conditions are satisfactory, better results can be obtained by allowing the breeders out for an hour or so each day.

HOG FLU PREVENTED BY GOOD HOUSING

Every year for the last decade numerous outbreaks of hog flu, or infectious bronchitis, have been reported among hogs, especially in the middle west. Outbreaks commonly begin late in the fall when the weather becomes cold and stormy. Exposure is a contributing cause and hogs affected with the flu sometimes die through the development of pneumonia.

In response to requests for aid in comabting these conditions veterinarians of the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, point out that hog flu resembles in its symptoms what is known among people as colds. The application of proper hygienic measures is the most important procedure in treating the disease. Hogs that are provided with clean, dry, well-ventilated quarters, free from drafts and dust, usually recover promptly. Plenty of dry bedding, a reduced ration of easily digested feed, and a constant supply of good drinking water are likewise beneficial in hastening recovery. Prostrated herds with all the symptoms of flu sometimes recover in a few days when housing conditions have been made favorable.

Commenting on reports that some veterinary practitioners have found the aggressin treatment effective in combating hog flu, department veterinarians say the value of the aggressin treatment for this disease is not yet positively established. An aggressin is a substance produced by the growth of a micro-organism and also the organism in invading tissues. Scientifically, an aggressin should be administered, before the attack of a disease, to fortify the threatened animals against the disease produced by the type of organism from which the aggressin was prepared. In the case of hog flu the causative organism has not been determined.

It appears that the aggressin which certain practitioners have used in treating hogs affected with flu is not a true flu aggressin, but is the aggressin used for immunizing hogs against hemorrhagic septicemia; improvement noted in the condition of herds so treated may have been due to better care of the herds under treatment than to the treatment itself. Until the value of the aggressin treatment for this disease is more definitely established, hog owners are reminded that proper housing and care of their herds, especially during cold, stormy weather, is known to be a dependable, practical treatment. The use of an aggressin in the treatment of hog flu is considered still in the trial stage.

HUNT'S CONFESSION OF MURDER READ AT TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23—(AP)—The tear-filled eyes of the widow of the man they are accused of slaying brought the confession of Welby Hunt into court today at his trial with William E. Hickman, charged with the murder of C. Ivy Thoma, druggist.

From Frank Dewar, chief jailer of the county jail where the two youths have been confined for the killing on Christmas eve, 1926, the jury heard the story of how Hunt, broke down and admitted complicity in the crime when confronted with the widow.

As Dewar repeated Hunt's words, Mrs. Thoma, seated in the body of the court, burst into tears.

In his confession read by Dewar, Hunt admitted he and Hickman were the two who entered the store, but he refused to assume blame for the killing. The fatal shot was not fired from his pistol, Hunt claimed.

2 Whitefoot Goes Exploring

Some folk, it would seem, are never meant
To know the meaning of content.
—Old Mother Nature.

Wouldn't you suppose that any one who was better off than he had ever been before would be content? But some folks never are quite content. When they get what they want, or think they want, right away they think of something else to want. There are many people in this Great World just like that.

Whitefoot the Wood Mouse was, as you know, living in a little wren-house put up especially for him on the edge of the Old Orchard. He had one of the best beds he had ever had. Farmer Brown's Boy saw to it that always there was plenty of food for him. He didn't have a thing in the world to worry about so long as he was reasonably watchful. Perhaps it was because things were too easy that he began to get a bit discontented. It often is that way. Things we do not have to work for seldom are appreciated.

Anyway, Whitefoot began to go exploring. That is, each night he wandered a little farther from home, always, however, taking care to get back home before daylight. He went down along the old stonewall toward the Green Forest. He looked into every little hole between the stones. He went up the old stonewall to Farmer Brown's dooryard. There, too, he explored every little hole in the old stonewall. By the time he got through there wasn't much to know about that old wall that Whitefoot didn't know.

Now, sitting on the old wall up near Farmer Brown's dooryard, Whitefoot had discovered things he looked over along the edge of the Old Orchard, he could see some queer box-like things. He could see them in the moonlight. He just knew they wanted to be explored by a curious little Wood Mouse. Twice he started to run over to the nearest one, and twice just in time he saw a moving shadow and duckad back out of sight in the old stonewall. Just one glimpse of that moving shadow was enough for Whitefoot. He knew it was not a real shadow at all, but Spooky the Screech Owl, flying on soundless wings. But the third time Whitefoot sat trying to make up his mind to run over there he heard the voice of Spooky over on the edge of the Green Forest. That settled it. There was no danger from Spooky right then. There might be danger in getting back but it would be time enough to think about that when the time came. So, with a hasty look all around to see that no other enemy was near, Whitefoot scampered across the open snow-covered space to the nearest of those queer things that had aroused his curiosity. He felt very bold and brave.

Any way, Whitefoot began to go exploring

When he reached the first of these queer things he discovered that it was made of wood. Being made of wood, he could climb it. He climbed up to a little ledge. Opening from this little ledge was a little hole. There was a wire over it. Do what he would he couldn't get in. But no wire could keep out the warm, sweet smell that came from within. Whitefoot felt that it would be very interesting in there. Have you guessed where Whitefoot was? He was visiting one of Farmer Brown's beehives. Yes, sir, he was visiting one of Farmer Brown's beehives. He explored that hive all over on the outside. But the wire over the little doorway prevented him getting in. How he did hate that wire!

"I just know it's nice inside there," said he. "I just know it's the nicest place ever was. Hello, what's this? It's a dead bee. Well, I haven't tasted a bee for a long time."

So Whitefoot sat up and ate the bee. Then he wondered if there were any more dead bees inside.

Rain set fire to a lumber yard at Folkstone, England. A truck containing lime and lumber stood in the center of the yard. During a rainstorm the rain beat its way through a tarpaulin covering the lime. The water, combining with the lime, generated heat, which set the timber on the truck on fire. This, in turn, set part of the lumber yard ablaze.

A practical, miniature locomotive, six inches long, but exactly like the standard engine of the French state railroad, has bene built by a French mechanic, M. Melcher. He has built the engine to a scale of 1-80th of normal. It weighs twelve ounces and is made to run. Much of the work had to be done under a magnifying glass. He worked evenings on it for ten years. The boiler tubes are hardly larger than coarse hairs.

The area of the national forests was increased during the last fiscal year by 41,214 acres net, according to the United States forest service. With the separation of the Ocala national forest, formerly a division of the Florida national forest, as a distinct unit by a recent proclamation of the president, there are now 160 national forests in the country, located in thirty-two states, Alaska and Porto Rico. The total net gain in national forest area was not so large last year as in several preceding years, due partly to the fact that a considerable acreage was transferred by special acts of congress to national parks. Net reduction in area were shown in Alaska, California, Colorado, Nevada, New York and South Dakota. The largest increase was in Pennsylvania, amounting to 65,274 acres. Washington was second with 63,084 acres, and Wyoming third with 42,494.

Fire Behind Shelf In Stove.

Squad A was called out Thursday morning to extinguish a small fire which broke out behind one of the shelves in the ruins of the Norwich Dollar store. The fire was extinguished with several cans of water. A watchman at the store, which burned Monday night, saw smoke issuing from behind the shelf and deemed it advisable to notify the fire department.

NEW LONDON CITY COURT HAS TO DEAL WITH VARYING CASES OF DEPRAVITY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23.—Joseph E. Jackson, colored, was in the police court today charged on two counts of violation of the liquor law, conducting a disorderly house and conducting a gambling device. One of the liquor counts was nolled. To the other Jackson pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs and was sentenced to 10 days in jail; but the jail term was suspended on condition that Jackson discontinue the conduct of the illegal business that he has been engaged in and which resulted in his prosecution today. Jackson was also fined $100 and costs on the count of conducting a disorderly house and a fine of $50 was imposed on the charge of maintaining a gambling machine of the slot type in which coins of 25 cents denomination are deposited. The same charges against Jackson's wife, who was arrested with him yesterday when New London and state police raided the house were nolled. Oliver Woods of this city, Ida Johnson, New York and Tessie Maynard, New Orleans, who were arrested by the raiding force and charged with frequenting, were fined $25 and costs. Jackson resides at 13 Richards street, occupying the upper floor as a residence and conducting a tailoring shop on the ground floor.

Howard S. Buck, 110 Wall street, New Haven and James T. Gibbs, 1175 Chapel street, also of New Haven, were presented on charges of indecent assault. They were fined $100 and costs. Buck and Gibbs were in New London last night and about midnight they were observed to go away with O. R. Hill and R. S. Hoffman, sailors. Patrolman John Sullivan also noticed the pair as they went through State street and following the men to Williams Memorial park he watched what took place and then arrested all. Hill and Hoffman were discharged by the court.

Edgar Graves and his wife, Julia, colored, of 46 Douglass street, were charged with conducting a disorderly house and both were fined, the husband being fined $50 and costs and his wife $100 and costs. Earl and Beryl Minton, colored, husband and wife, were charged with frequenting, but their cases were nolled. Louis Racicot and Frank Schilling, sailors, who were held as witnesses in a raid upon the Graves house at 2 o'clock this morning, were discharged. The two sailors were observed by the police to enter the house and through a space between a curtain and the woodwork the officers observed a "free for all" party in progress. A raiding squad composed of Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolmen Clarence Wells, John Sullivan, Dennis Murphy and Frank Philopena was formed and the entire gang found in the house were taken to police headquarters.

The only other cases in court were those of two men charged with intoxication. Both were sentenced to 10 days in jail. Execution of the sentences was suspended.

Mrs. John Kokoski, of 29 Sixth street, Harriet Finn, Groton and Gertrude Farnell, 118 Howard street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The body of Mrs. Gertrude Fisher, wife of Louis Fisher, 578 Bank street, who ended her life on the shore of Beller' pond, Quaker Hill, Monday night will be forwarded to West Roxbury, Mass., Mrs. Fisher's former home where she has relatives. Today Medical Examiner Ross Black rendered a verdict of death by exposure, which opinion removed the theory that Mrs. Fisher had swallowed poison.

The funeral of Mrs. Delia F. Brown, of Eastern Point, widow of John E. Brown, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 15 Masonic street, the services being conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church. The bearers were L. A. and C. E. Gardner and Joseph and Harold Bosworth. Burial was in East Neck cemetery, Waterford.

The funeral of Eugene R. Holmes was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 400 Broad street, the services being conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Duck River cemetery, Lyme.

Egbert Barton, 63, died yesterday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Louis A. Anderlot, 26 Latham street, Groton. Mr. Barton had long been a sufferer from a weakened physical condition caused by his advanced years. He is survived by several children. Mr. Barton was born in Westchester, Conn., but had resided in Groton many years. He conducted a farm until his health became impaired.

Byron E. Wilkinson, 34, died last night at his residence, Richards Grove where he had been ill a week with pneumonia. He formerly resided in New London and was the son of James Wilkinson. Mr. Wilkinson is survived by his mother and one sister.

Balda Vaughan, 9, of Niantic, was struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Silva, 145 Green street, yesterday afternoon, but escaped serious injury. The girl was on the sidewalk in the vicinity of her home when she ran to the street and ran in front of the automobile. Before Silva could bring the car to a stop the girl was struck and knocked down. Silva assisted the child into the automobile and took her to Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where an examination revealed that apparently the girl was but slightly injured. Her principal hurt was a laceration on the back of the head. The girl is being detained for observation, but will probably be discharged Friday or Saturday.

Members of the Ku Klux Klan in his vicinity were active last night for crosses were burned in Groton and Waterford. The first of the crosses to be burned was at Center Groton and was a mammoth one. The reflection of the blazing cross provided a glare that was easily visible from the water front and the higher points of the city. Another cross was burned in Waterford and a third one was burned in Niantic. The burning of the crosses was to mark the abolition of the hood by the klan, a part of the costume the members have worn since the klan was organized.

Thomas S. McGinley, conservator of William J Garvey has sold two building lots on Raymond street. One lot was sold to George A. and Nettie Williams and the other was sold to George A. Williams, Jr.

The body of Frank Haversham, 15, colored youth formerly of 25 Douglass street, whose lifeless body was found in a New Haven railroad freight car at New Haven a week ago, will be brought to New London. Friends of the boy's mother who is in Florida, have arranged for a suitable burial for the youth. The boy ran away from home Feb. 3 and is believed to have gone to Norwich, for when a freight car laden with railroad ties that were shipped from that city arrived in New Haven last Friday, the body was found, the youth having died from exposure.

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Lillian Stiegal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Stiegal, of this city, and Elliott Litowitz, of Providence, Tuesday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at the White Duck Inn, North Attleboro, Mass., the Rev. Mr. Schuschein officiating under a beautiful canopy of flowers and ferns. They left shortly after the ceremony for a trip to New York. The groom is a chain store manager and the new home of the young couple will be in whatever city his employers may choose to send him.

Bank street merchants seemingly are not satisfied with the present one-way traffic rule that is being enforced on that street. Instead of having traffic flow from Tilley into State street, they are urging that it be directed from State toward Tilley. A petition has been gotten up for the purpose of urging the city fathers to make the proposed change. The argument of the merchants is that traffic coming through from Boston is much more profitable than that going in the opposite direction.

SEEK TWO YOUNG MEN WHO TOOK AUTO NUMBERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23—Mrs. Mary Rogers, 24 Ocean avenue, is confined to her home as the result of injuries sustained last night when she was struck by an automobile driven by one of the "hit-and-run" type of drivers. While Mrs. Rogers is not believed to be seriously injured, she is suffering from severe bruises upon the arm and upper part of the body. Mrs. Rogers boarded the 9:30 o'clock Jefferson avenue line trolley car on State street and upon its arrival at the corner of Jefferson avenue and Bank street she alighted. After the trolley car had started, Mrs. Rogers went to cross the street to go to Ocean avenue. As she did so an automobile in which were two young men rounded the corner from Bank street and before Mrs. Rogers could get out of the way the machine struck her, then continued through Jefferson avenue without the driver stopping to determine how seriously Mrs. Rogers was injured. It was with difficulty that she was able to reach her home. She did not have an opportunity to note the markers on the automobile, but two young men, who were standing on the corner, it is believed, did read the markers, but their identity is not known and all effort to find them has failed.

CITY MANAGER'S ORDERS TO SOLVE TRAFFIC PROBLEM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23—City Manager William A. Holt, in an endeavor to relieve congestion of automobiles and trolley cars on the streets now handling the bulk of the traffic since Bank street, between State and Tilley streets was made a one-way street due to its widening and the installing of a new pavement, today issued orders whereby it is believed there will be less congestion and a minimum chance of accident. The order calls for no parking on Green street for 40 feet south of Pearl street, west side; no parking on the east side of Washington street, for 50 feet south of State street; no parking on the east side of Washington street, between Methodist and Tilley streets; no parking on the west side of Truman street, 150 feet southwest of Belden court.

No vehicle will be allowed to park on that part of State street east of the easterly line of Bank street, for a period of more than 30 minutes in any one hour. The intention of the last mentioned order under sections 6 and 7 of the city ordinance regulating traffic, is to restrict parking within the area mentioned to 30 minutes day or night, except for public service cars and jitneys.

A deep depression in the highway on Howard street about midway between Hamilton and Woodbridge streets, was reported to the police tonight. A danger signal was set up there and tomorrow the condition of the highway will be reported at the municipal building.

The annual banquet of Groton chamber of commerce was held last night in I. O. O. F. hall, Groton, and was attended by about 200 members and guests. Commander Adolphus Andrews, of the submarine base, was the principal speaker and his address proved very interesting. A fine meal was served by Home Rebekah lodge and a musical program was a feature.

BRIDGE TOURNEY REACHES THE QUARTER-FINALS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 23—In the Westerly Elimination Bridge Whist tournament being played in the rooms of the Westerly Square and Compass club the usual large gallery of onlookers was decreased tonight, due to the fact that many of the Square and Compass club members were in Hope Valley for the evening, as guests of the Hope Valley Square club. Many other bridge fans gathered to watch the play at the five tables to which elimination had reduced the 35 tables with which the tournament started.

At the five tables there was but one out-of-town team, that of Grout and Beckwith, of New London, the other out-of-towners having fallen by the wayside. Table 5 might have been termed the Westerly Colonial club team, for the two teams, Ahern and Barber and Archie and Coy, have played among the leaders in the series of winter card bridge games played in their club rooms on High street. The surviving team at that table, Ahern and Barber, which goes into the next to semi-finals might be said to carry the Colonial club colors.

But one table will be in play on Friday night, it being table No. 3.

This, the fourth night of play, resulted as follows:

Table No. 1. Mrs. S. W. Davis and O. G. Mills, 2667, won from E. K. Parker and J. Payne, 2283; margin 384.

Table No. 2. Mrs. J. Ferguson and Mrs. H. W. Rathbun, 1622, lost to J. O. Mills and A. Mitchell, 1822; margin 199.

Table No. 3. R. Spargo and J. H. Hodgson, 2280, won from Mr. and Mrs. L. G. McLaren, 1706; margin 574.

Table No. 4. G. H. Grout and A. M. Beckwith, 1501, won from F. F. Freeman and E. E. James, 1476; margin 25.

Table No. 5. F. G. Ahern and Dr. J. D. Barber, 2139, won from A. S. Archie and E. B. Coy, 1281; margin 858.

The table and team in play on Friday night will be as follows: 2, J. O. Mills and A. Mitchell vs. R. Spargo and J. H. Hodgson.

Table No. 3 will draw a bye when F. G. Ahern and Dr. J. D. Barber will go into next evening's play bracket.

On Saturday night, G. H. Grout and A. M. Beckwith will play Mrs. S. H. Davis and O. G. Mills.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

It is not often that an entire audience agree as to the merits of a show, but last night at the Palace theatre was an exception, and on all sides could be heard exclamations of approval both for the picture and the vaudeville presentation, and it seems to be the general opinion that all in all this is the best show that Norwich theatregoers have seen in a long time.

Dorothy Ray and her eleven New York steppers is an unusually fine act, full of life, pep, melody and jazz. Baby Alice, the juvenile sensation, is a child dancer of great ability and literally stopped the show on several occasions. Purdy and Fain, the king and queen of laughs, surely live up to their names and kept the audience in a continual uproar. Dixon and O'Brien in A Day in Dixie have an amusing skit that brought forth rounds of applause, and The Four Almada Girls have an aerial act that is full of thrills and wonderful exhibitions of skill.

On the screen Florence Vidor and Gary Cooper are starred in "Doomsday," the picturization of Warwick Deeping's famous novel of the same name.

"Doomsday" is a story of strong loves and strong temptations. It portrays in vivid fashion the despair of the girl who faces a continuation of the drudgery that has made life drab and almost terrible to her. It makes one feel with almost painful intensity the severity of the struggle that a girl undergoes when faced with the alternative of accepting love with work or taking luxury without love.

Breed Theatre

Men who have lost their faith in humanity are prone to seek out-of-the-way places in which to bury themselves and their troubles. The remote corners of the earth are peopled by such disillusioned unfortunates, and "Framed," which will be shown at the Breed theatre today and Saturday, is the story of such a man.

Milton Sills is an officer in the French army during the World war and on being falsely accused and courtmartialed goes in an embittered state to the diamond mines of Brazil. There he is trapped by a modern Circe and adds all womankind to his other hates.

In the end, through the love of a pure girl, he regains his normal state of mind and all ends happily.

Thrilling scenes during a "mud rush" in the mines, examples of the toil and life in the humid jungles along the Amazon, tense drama and emotional climaxes, make this photoplay, produced by Ray Rockett and directed by Charles Brabin, one of the best that has been offered by First National Pictures in a long time.

The short feature program on this bill is made up of "Blake of Scotland Yard," an Imperial comedy, a Felix the Cat cartoon, and an up-to-the-minute news reel.

St. Mary's Players

It is admitted that the shows which St. Mary's Players have put on in the past years have all been carefully and capably done. A good play has been chosen, a clever one, and one which is bound to please. It saw great success on the professional stage, and a high royalty is being paid to get it. Let your interest then be aroused, talk about it to your friends, and be sure and come to see it. Remember the place and date, Palace Theatre.

Club Played Pinochle.

The D. Y. W. Y. E. Pinochle club met this week at the home of Mrs. F. Coles on Boswell avenue. First prize was won by Mrs. William Farrell substituting for Mrs. Susie Lillibridge, with a score of 7,500. The consolation prize went to Mrs. Mabel Amburn with 5,330 points. The club will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. Ethel Hoelck on Hadley avenue, next Monday evening.

Oakland Auto.

PONTIAC, Mich.—The highest January production in the history of the Oakland Motor Car company—19,774 Oakland and Pontiac Sixes—is being eclipsed by a record February production schedule of 22,268 cars, it is announced by W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales.

"The fact that our totals for both January and February of this year exceed by a wide margin the combined 1926 and 1927 production during those respective months is the best evidence that the Oakland Motor Car company will be an even greater factor in the automobile industry during 1928," said Mr. Tracy.

"Our schedule for the present month is not a theoretical figure; it is based upon the signed orders sent in by our dealers.

"The Oakland Motor Car company sold 191,000 Oakland and Pontiac Sixes during 1927, which represented an increase of more than 40 per cent. over the total for the preceding year. If the demand for motor cars continues at its present high level we confidently expect that in 1928 the volume of Oakland-Pontiac business again will show a 40 per cent. increase.

"The continued popularity of the Oakland All-American Six and the enthusiastic public reception accorded the new Pontiac Six, with its many improvements and new features, indicate that our hope of bettering the national position of fifth in point of sales Oakland achieved last year is in process of accomplishment."

Several of the teams have changed their training camps since last season, but the majority will return to their old grounds. Florida has by far the larger number of training camps. Texas, long a favorite state, will have but one big league team in its midst this spring. California will be the training place for two teams, Louisiana will have two and Georgia one.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre.

For smiles and chuckles and a polite gasp or two, we heartily recommend your seeing Betty Compson in "Say It With Diamonds," now showing at the Strand. You will be pleasantly shocked too, when Earle Williams in the role of the doting husband so far forgets himself as to measure a lady's ankle for a diamond anklet. Or if you are quite modern you will be surprised that a wife in this age should object to such an indulgence. Betty Compson is the objecting wife, Jocelyn Lee is the lady of the ankle and Armand Kats and Betty Baker are among the others of a capable cast.

Richard Talmadge has an endless number of thrilling feats in store for his audience in "The Merry Cavalier." This production is replete with swift action and full of gripping suspense. The agile Talmadge leaps and bounds in his customary buoyant fashion and is sparklingly radiant in his usual vivacious manner. Like a chivalrous knight of old he rescues a young lady and much humor is added to the story by the fact that the hero thinks the "rescue act" is all being staged in the spirit of jest. Charlotte Stevens is the delightful heroine.

NOANK

Rollin Rathbun holds the record as clam champion of the village. The low tide brought out over 20 clammers to Palmer cove and Plum Island. G. Sweet told the champion he would race him getting clams. Working hard for over two hours, Rathbun put up his hand to stop. The judges, Lee Harris and Flash McDonald, found that Sweet had 275 clams. He was all smiles, thinking that he was high man. But the judges soon got counting the pile of the champion and found he had 310. Everyone was going home with a big bucket of clams. It seems that the clams did not have a chance to hide on the Noankers, who, all together, dug over 1,000 in one afternoon. Plenty of clam chowders in the village this week.

William Spicer has gone for a few months' trip to Haiti.

C. Bracci was a caller in Essex Wednesday.

Wednesday in the village, Washington's birthday, was a holiday. The stores closed for a half day, also the postoffice; the ship carpenters laid away their tools and ran up Old Glory. At the shipyard the flags were flying to the breeze in honor of the first president of these United States. Many local people went out of town for the day. The only fellow in town who could not enjoy the holiday was Mail Carrier John Ashby, who never has had a vacation in 30 years.

A number from the village went to Mystic Wednesday and were guests of Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R., where a fine programme was carried out, and Miss Una Ritchie, of Norwich, sang several songs about the Kentucky hills and told about that part of the country.

Harold Brown, of Waterford, was in the village for a day this week.

John Tourjee celebrated his 24th birthday on the same date as George Washington's, Wednesday. The room had hatchets and crepe paper decorating the walls. Mr. Tourjee is owner of the night line to New York, which carries fish and, as the market was low, it gave his truck drivers a chance to help him make the night a real party. Someone wanted Raymond Sistare to sing, for he is rated the best in the gang. "All right, if Tourjee will play the piano," he said. Then the fun started. Sistare sang "Let Your Smile be Your Umbrella on a Rainy Day," but the man at the piano got it all mixed up and played "The Lost Chord." Then the truck drivers put on a short act, "Along the Line to New York." Sleepy Fred Mack as Raymond Sistare, fell asleep and hit a pole, lost off nine barrels of fish. His pardner, Sam Terry, as William Tourjee, helped him out. It was some play. Mrs. John Tourjee gave a banjo solo, stories were told about how quickly the time passes while riding to New York; a game was played, hiding the axe. The one who found it had to kiss every girl in the room. If it was a girl got it she had to sing a song. Looking all about the room for 20 minutes, Mike Carr finally found it under the stove, so he kissed all the girls. Sandwiches, down-east marble cake with tea, were the lunch. Dancing was enjoyed. Mr. Tourjee received a pair of driver's gloves from his men; also many other useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Marsey are in Hartford, visiting for a few weeks with relatives.

On Chesebro's pond the ice is five and one-half inches thick and on Bergman's pond only four inches. Gabe McGaw says that four years ago, in March, 16-inch ice was cut. It has been a mild winter, but no one can tell what March will bring.

Clarence Spink of Taunton, Mass., is home for a short visit.

Clifford Phelps has returned from Putnam.

TAFTVILLE

A group of local hunters held a meeting Wednesday evening and organized under the name of the Taftville Skeet club. Skeet is the new fascinating all-season sport for shot gun lovers and wing shooters that has taken the entire country by storm. Experienced skeet shooters claim that there is a thrill in skeet shooting, an element of uncertainty and a sporting risk that exists for the "champ" as well as the beginner, and that the difference between a veteran and a "dub" is less noticeable than in any other form of clay pigeon shooting. Skeet shooting is simply a matter of picking off your birds from a gun-down position flying every possible angle known in a duck blind or in the field, and it has so much the taste of the field about it, that a man can almost hear the whistle of the wings as the traps let go. The field is so laid out that the entire course requires 25 shots. Up till now, only 15 men in this country have shot a perfect score over any regulation skeet course. The members of the Taftville club expect to start in at once laying out their skeet course in a vacant lot in Lisbon and hope to conduct their first shoot about the first of March. The following officers were appointed: President, George W. Weller, Jr.; vice president, Carl Krauss, and secretary and treasurer, Napoleon J. Benoit.

Because of the fact that a former local man, George P. Kean, is superintendent, there is Taftville interest in the financial report of the Nyanza mills of Woonsocket, R. I., which has been made public, showing that the company suffered a loss of $58,533 on account of the floods which caused so much damage throughout Connecticut and Rhode Island several months ago. On account of the floods, the Nyanza plant had to close for a brief period.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Sigrist and their litlte daughter have moved from North Fourth avenue to one of the apartments in the house owned by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cartier on Bushnell plat.

With this week's snow storm, flocks numbering hundreds of juncoes have made their appearance in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spellvogel and family of Bolduc lane expect to move this week to their new home in Lisbon.

The members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society are planning a series of lenten whist parties, and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader has been appointed chairman of the committee to take charge of the first affair.

It has been announced that the offering next Sunday at the Sacred Heart church is to be for the extension of home missionary work among the Indians and Negroes of this country. The taking of this collection is in common with other churches in the diocese of Hartford.

Thursday's heavy rain combined with the warm weather which melted the ice and snow cleared the highways but caused several minor floods about the village.

A meeting of the members of Court Wequonnoc, No. 88, Foresters of America was held Thursday evening in the courthouse in the Parish hall building on Merchants avenue.

Napoleon Lebeau who has been at the Ponemah house for the past few weeks has resigned his position with the local mills and has left town.

COLCHESTER WOMAN GETS JUDGMENT FOR $1,500 FOR INJURIES RECEIVED

Two judgments handed down Thursday by Judge C. L. Avery of the superior court were filed here with the court clerk, Judge George E. Parsons. Judge Avery finds for the plaintiff in each case:

In the suit of Rosie Katz of Colchester brought for $5,000 damages against Irving Weinberg of 1105 Lindley street, Bridgeport, Judge Avery gives judgment for the plaintiff to recover $1,500.

The plaintiff sued for injuries she received on September 7, 1926 while riding on the Meriden road in Middlefield in an automobile owned and driven by Samuel Katz, which was in collision with the defendant's machine which Rolan Evitts was driving.

The Katz car, it was claimed, was proceeding downhill and the Weinberg car was coming up the hill, when upon reaching a blind curve, the driver of the Weinberg machine attempted to pass a car ahead of him and crashed head-on into the Katz machine.

In her suit, which was brought in June, 1927, the plaintiff asked for treble or double damages as provided by statute. She alleged that she had received a permanent scar above the right eye, bruises and wounds in the right shoulder and chest, and had become nervous, suffering from a mental state of apprehension, anxiety and insomnia.

Suit Over Farm in Lebanon

In a suit in which all the parties are from Lebanon, Judge Avery renders judgment for $1,130 and costs in favor of Anthony Pionowski against Mike Pionowski.

In his memorandum of decision, Judge Avery says:

The evidence clearly shows that the plaintiff advanced at least one half of the purchase price of this farm, and that there was an understanding between plaintiff and Mike Pionowski that they would own the farm together. Judgment may be entered for the plaintiff to recover of the defendant Mike Pionowski $1,130 with the plaintiff's actual costs. I can enter no judgment against Alexander Pionowski because it does not appear that the substituted complaint was ever served on him.

Anthony Pionowski brought the suit against Mike and Alexander on the claim that he advanced $2,103.86 on Nov. 3, 1923 to Mike to buy a farm in Lebanon with the agreement that they were to be partners in the operation of the farm. They lived on the farm together and the plaintiff put in $2,000 more for upkeep and the purchase of equipment and stock, but Mike Pionowski took title to the farm in his own name. Later, it was claimed, with intent to defraud the plaintiff and to avoid an accounting, Mike Pionowski conveyed the premises to the other defendant in the suit, Alexander Pionowski, by a deed that was given without consideration of any kind and accepted by Alexander with full knowledge of these circumstances, it was claimed.

Anthony Pionowski sued both men for reconveyance of the farm to himself and Mike Pionowski and for an accounting of the operation of the farm between himself and Mike Pionowski.

TROLLEY RIDING HABITS UNDERGO DRASTIC CHANGE

Increased use of private automobile during the last fifteen years has been responsible for an almost complete reversal of trolley car use as between winter and summer seasons. In 1911 there were only slightly over 14,000 automobiles registered in Connecticut, and, due to pleasure riding, forty-five per cent more passengers were carried on trolley cars in summer than in winter. In 1927, over 235,000 automobiles were registered, affecting summer pleasure riding so that sixteen per cent more passengers were carried in winter than in summer.

Whereas the greater revenue from summer business was at one time counted on to meet the expenses for the year, reversed conditions now place this burden on the winter business. An open winter, such as the present, tends to greatly increased use of automobiles which results in withholding very much more revenue than the cost of track cleaning under usual winter conditions would amount to. The disastrous effect of those changes on the treasury of the Connecticut company is evidenced by the fact that in the period from December first to February fifteenth just passed, over 3,000,000 less people traveled by trolley than in the previous year.

Whether there are heavy snowfalls or not through the winter months, the Connecticut company must be prepared with both equipment and man power for any emergency so that trolley transportation, which is a very essential part of every day life, may be interrupted as little as possible.

FURTHER ADDITIONS TO FIREMEN'S PENSION FUND

Chief Howard L. Stanton has received a check for $25 from the Eaton Chase company and one for $15 from Wholey and Haggerty to be added to the firemen's pension fund. The checks were accompanied by letters of appreciation commending the members of the fire department for their efficiency in minimizing fire damage at the two stores in recent fires. The checks have been turned over to the city treasurer to be added to the pension fund.

Observed 93rd Birthday.

Miss Caroline B. Scarlett, of 46 Grove street, reached her 93rd birthday Thursday and was pleasantly reminded of the day by kindly messages from friends and presents of flowers and other gifts from a number who remembered the anniversary.

A few days ago she had the pleasure of an automobile ride, during which she was taken through the business section of the city, the first time that she has been downtown in a long period, so that the ride was an unusually interesting and enjoyable event for her.

'PHONE TYPEWRITERS MAKE CONNECTICUT POLICE NET

Connecticut is the first state in the nation to make maximum use of telephone service in the apprehension of criminals, and as a result possesses and makes daily use of what is believed to be the best statewide police net in the United States. Connecticut is the only state which can broadcast simultaneously by telephone typewriter, or any other method, to a number of cities within its borders, information concerning criminals and criminal acts. So efficient is Connecticut's system that many other states are considering the adoption of similar methods.

Throughout the state, approximately 5,500 telephone calls are made daily through the ordinary switchboard telephone system of the police department. In addition, most of the police departments have instituted the Gamewell method of getting in touch with the policemen on their beats through a system of lights and regular telephone calls to headquarters. Most of the important police organizations of the state lease from the Southern New England Telephone company electrically operated telephone typewriters. When a message is typed on one of those typewriters, it is immediately written automatically upon the connected typewriters in the other police stations of the state.

These cities and towns of Connecticut use the telephone typewriter in addition to regular telephone service: Branford, Bristol, Danbury, Hartford, Manchester, Meriden, Middletown, Naugatuck, New Britain, New Haven, and Willimantic. Ansonia, Derby and Shelton make common use of one telephone typewriter; and Bridgeport and Stamford may make use of the same service in the near future. Although Connecticut is the only state having a statewide service of this kind, Chicago has installed one for use within her city limits, and New York city will install the same system before long.

PUBLIC DEFENDER GIVES TALK BEFORE LIONS

At the Wauregan hotel the Norwich Lions club held its regular monthly meeting Thursday noon, with President William R. Frisbie in the chair. J. B. Caron was the song leader and Dr. Kopeland K. Markoff had charge of the entertainment program. Dr. Markoff introduced Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, county chairman of the child welfare bureau of the state, who gave a very interesting talk on the work of the bureau. She invited the Lions to attend, with other clubs of the city, a noon day luncheon to be held at the hotel March 6th, when the Child Welfare Bureau will have its annual dinner.

Senator George P. Hall of New Haven, chairman of the state finance board, and Miss Baldwin of Greenwich, Conn., a visiting teacher in the employ of the state child welfare bureau will be the speakers. A reception committee will greet and present guests to the speakers and out of town visitors. Mrs. Higgins was given a rising vote of thanks for her talk and for the invitation to attend the dinner.

Attorney Charles L. Stewart, who is public defender in the criminal superior court, spoke interestingly on the activities of that office and on the administration of the criminal law. He was given a rising vote of thanks for his talk. The meeting closed in the usual way, with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

REMOVING THE RUINS OF GRAIN CO. BUILDING

The Cutler company, owners of what was formerly the building occupied by The Norwich Grain Co., on Water street, have awarded to Patrick F. Sweeney the contract for removing the ruins. The building burned last Saturday morning with a heavy fire loss. Thursday morning Mr. Sweeney set a gang of men at work on the ruins and it is expected the job will require some days.

Contractor Sweeney stated Thursday that there is considerable wood in the ruins and that the wood will be given away to people who want it. Otherwise it will be disposed of in some other manner. As much of the unburned grain as possible will be salvaged. G. C. Bell, local manager of the company, stated that he could not say at the present time whether the company will rebuild or not. As the ruins are still smouldering constant watch is being kept to prevent the fire from breaking out again.

SUIT GOES TO JUDGE WITH NO DEFENSE OFFERED

Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court at New London Thursday took the papers and reserved decision in the $5,000 damage suit brought as the result of injuries received in an automobile collision by Mrs. Ida M. Maynard, Boxrah against Peter Sabiowski of the Greeneville section of this city. There was no defense to the suit.

Mrs. Maynard testified that on Dec. 4, 1926, while she and her husband were operating their automobile out of Water street, in this city, and into Washington square, the car operated by the defendant came over onto the extreme right hand side of the highway, crashed into their car and seriously injured her.

George C. Maynard, husband of the plaintiff, testified regarding the collision. Dr. Louis G. Cassidy testified as to her injuries and stated that her condition would be highly nervous for at least 15 to 20 years. He stated that she sustained a probable concussion of the spinal cord.

Attorney Charles V. James presented the plaintiff's case and Attorney John T. Barry, counsel for the defendant put up no contest having informed Judge Avery in court that there was no defense.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Maynard testified that Sablowski was intoxicated at the time of the accident.

Dahl of Norwich for the installation of additional toilet facilities at the Willimantic Practice school. The contract is for $2,174.

A large force of men from Stafford is engaged in harvesting the ice at the State Line pond this week.

GRAIN STORE FIRE KEEPS CALLING FIREMEN

About 10.15 o'clock Thursday night the West side company was called out by telephone to extinguish a small fire which blazed up in the ruins of the Norwich Grain Company's building on Water street. A line of 2 1-2 inch hose was laid and the blaze drowned out.

Shortly before 10 o'clock a New London fireman who was in Norwich noticed smoke issuing from the ruins and was about to pull in Box 161 when he was stopped by Officer Henry Fenton. The New London man had broken the glass and opened the door and was about to pull the hook when Officer Fenton stopped him and explained that a bell alarm was unnecessary. The New London man saw the smoke and thought that a good sized fire was in progress.

The fire department was notified that the glass had been broken and the door opened.

HOURIGAN POST ENJOYS PROGRAMME AT SMOKER

Another enjoyable smoker and entertainment was given to the members and their friends by Richard Hourigan post, No. 594, V. F. W., at their rooms Thursday night. The evening started off with a finely arranged program by the well known Norwich string orchestra, The Venice Four, which also accompanied their soloists in selections from Italian airs and popular numbers.

Through the courtesy of Don Houghton a number of United States signal corps pictures were shown depicting the different phases of the late war. It brought back fond memories to the boys who served in both divisions of the service. It showed the boys being transported across by the navy and the sinking of American ships by the German subs. This latter reel was captured from the Germans. The other reels showed the infantry going into action, the artillery firing their barrages, and the shelling of the allied territory by the enemy. It was a very entertaining picture and much enjoyed by all.

Four three round boxing exhibitions were also staged between members of the post which had the members on their toes throughout. An excellent supper of real homemade clam chowder was served which ended a perfect evening. Much credit and thanks must be given to the orchestra, the soloists and Mr. Houghton who so kindly donated their services which helped make the evening so enjoyable.

SAYS OZARK CHILDREN NEEDING EDUCATION

A vivid picture of life in the Ozarks was brought to the members of the United Congregational church by Dr. Malcolm Dana of Hartford Seminary in a talk which he delivered Thursday evening at the church Sunday school room. Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the church, announced previous to Dr. Dana's talk that the renovation of the church organ is nearing completion and that plans are underway for a re-dedication of the organ in the near future.

Dr. Dana was introduced by Rev. Mr. Abbott. Dr. Dana told of his experiences during a visit to the Ozark region. He told of the difficulty in getting into the interior of the region as there are no roads. He made the trip from the railroad in a truck loaded with provisions, farm implements, etc. The truck bumped up hill and down hill and through stretches of sand.

Dr. Dana told of the welcome he received at one of the Ozark villages and described in an interesting way the customs of the people and their family life. He said the people there want education for their children. They haven't it themselves but they will do anything they can to get education for the children.

Dr Dana said that in one county alone there are 1,000 children and not one Sunday school. The people of that region are neglected. There are no roads. Going 25 miles there is like making a trip of 125 miles here. Those boys and girls there are just waiting and hungry for education. You can do anything you want with them. You can make anything you want to out of them. They need leaders to go down there to teach and show them how to do things.

Following Dr. Dana's talk there was a social hour and light refreshments were served. The meeting had a large attendance.

HOOVER AND WILLIS OPEN FIGHT TO CONTROL IN OHIO

Both Have Declared to a Finish Fight For the Delegation to Republican National Convention—Each Has Filed His Formal Declaration of Candidacy With the Secretary of State—Both Contestants Have Entered a Complete Slate of Delegates in the Primary Contest.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 24—(AP)—United States Senator Frank B. Willis and Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover today declared it a finish fight for control of Ohio's delegation to the Kansas City convention and for popular endorsement of Ohio's voters.

Both not only filed formal declarations of candidacy with the secretary of the state, thus entering them in the presidential preference primary April 24, for popular endorsement of the republican voters but also entered a complete slate of delegates in the primary contest.

Secretary Hoover, by his action in entering the presidential preference contest thus made the first formal announcement of his candidacy. He previously had authorized candidates for delegates to pledge to him, thus informally announcing his intention.

Both Hoover and Willis headquarters held off decision to enter their candidates in the preferential contest until late today. Announcement of Mr. Willis entrance was followed immediately by word at Hoover headquarters that their candidate also would enter the race for popular endorsement. Regardless of which candidate receives a majority of the popular votes, the result will not be binding on any delegate. The delegates are elected individually.

Heading the list of Willis delegates at large is Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, Cleveland, the senator's campaign manager and former U. S. treasurer, while Congressman Theodore E. Burton, Cleveland, heads the list of Hoover delegates at large.

Each side also selected a woman and gave representation to the Negro race on their list of delegates at large.

While all the Hoover delegates are pledged second choice to James R. Garfield of Cleveland, son of the former president, who is not an avowed candidate but merely consenting to the use of his name in order to comply with the state primary law, a majority of the Willis delegates are believed to be pledged second choice to former Governor Lowden, of Illinois. Senator Charles Curtis also received a number of second choice pledges. Both Curtis and Lowden are avowed presidential candidates.

GANG OF BANK ROBBERS GOT OVER $50,000 IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24—(AP)—Armed with two sub-machine guns, three sawed-off shotguns, and several .45-calibre automatics, a band of bank robbers estimated at 10 to 15 in number, today shot up the City bank here and escaped with $50,737.

R. C. Kemper, president, in announcing the loss late today after a check-up, said the amount was covered by insurance.

More than a dozen shots were fired by the seven unmasked men who entered the bank. Several of these were fired point blank at officials and clerks, but it was believed the first shots were blanks, fired to intimidate. No one was injured.

The men escaped in two motor cars after a robbery conducted so systematically that police believe it had been perfectly rehearsed. The robbers rushed into the bank at 9:15 a. m., and under the direction of a leader, they scattered at once to various vantage points. All entrances were covered by shotguns. The 60 bank employes, all working within plain sight of the bank lobby, and a dozen customers, were forced to lie down.

Two bandits vaulted into the cashiers' cages, and scooped up currency and cash. Six cages were systematically rifled. About $25,000, locked in one cage, was overlooked.

Twenty employes, working within reach of revolvers, were forced to the floor before they could grab the guns.

30,000-MILE JOURNEY FOR PINT OF LIQUOR PRISONER

TOWANDA, Pa., Feb. 24—(AP)—Charles J. Budloff, Bradford county detective, tonight was nearing the end of an estimated 30,000-mile journey to and from Honolulu, H. T., and in his custody was Glenn W. Atwood, 25, who disappeared after $1,000 bond had been posted for his appearance in court following his arrest last May on a charge of possessing a pint of liquor. Atwood, under the name of Leo W. Atwell, was in the Hawaiian Islands as a soldier in the United States army.

The detective and Atwood traveled to San Francisco on a transport and then took a boat which went through the Panama canal on its way to Brooklyn, N. Y., where it arrived today. Tomorrow morning was the time Budloff expected to be back in Towanda.

Atwood deserted a wife and two children when he fled this city.

GIRL SHOT HER WAY FREE OF TWO MOTORCYCLE COPS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—A girl, riding beside a man in an automobile believed bearing a cargo of liquor from Southern Maryland for High Point, N. C., shot her way through two motorcycle policemen here today and escaped.

Tipped off that such a car was en route to North Carolina, officers stationed themselves near the district line early today and when the car approached, the driver ignored the commands to halt, ran into one motorcycle and knocked it over, and speeded up to about 75 miles an hour.

Two officers followed and the girl, in fleeing position, shot a rain of bullets at the pursuers, who emptied their revolvers but failed to hit the fleeing car. The police had been informed that the couple had been making regular trips to High Point with liquor.

"I come to you with no mission, but as one American citizen visiting American territories in the hope that I will know them better and they will learn to know me better," declared the New York mayor.

ONE MAN KILLED, FOUR INJURED BY EXPLOSION

RUMFORD, Me., Feb. 24.—(AP)—One man was killed and four others suffered severe burns when an explosion followed by fire, damaged the plant of the Continental Paper and Bag company, here today. CONCILIATION STRESSED BY CANADA AND GERMANY

GENEVA, Feb. 24—(AP)—Canada intervened sharply in the debate at the session of the League of Nations security committee today to save the principle of conciliation. Vice-Chairman Osten Unden, former Swedish minister of foreign affairs, who presided, in the absence of Dr. Eduard Benes, had already pushed through a request to the drafting committee to frame a general treaty of arbitration and conciliation, for which Sweden had submitted draft proposals. He suggested that conciliation was already covered and that a conciliation treaty was not necessary.

Opposition had been manifested to a general arbitration treaty, and Dr. Riddell, the Canadian representative, immediately jumped up and pointed out this fact, declaring that it was not certain a majority would support a general arbitration treaty. In this case, he contended, a great opportunity would be lost.

The Chilean delegate, Senor Valdes, supported Dr. Riddell, declaring that the committee had not taken a definite position regarding general or special treaties and therefore could not combine the questions of arbitration and conciliation.

The German delegate, Herr Von Simson, also gave his support to this attitude. Like Canada, Germany attached the greatest importance to conciliation, and the German delegate urged that a general conciliation treaty should be drafted, even though a general arbitration treaty was not accepted.

The chairman was forced to bow to the weight of opinion, and the drafting committee was asked to frame a model conciliation treaty, though the chairman explained that the committee was not then taking a position for or against such a treaty.

ARREST OF SLAYER OF REFORMATORY GUARD

HARTFORD, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Philip Rausch, sought since December, 1923, for the murder of Albert Hoag, a guard at the Cheshire reformatory where Rausch was an inmate, is being held for the Connecticut authorities in Jacksonville, Fla., according to word received by State Police Commissioner Robert T. Hurley today. Rausch, Commissioner Hurley was informed, has admitted his identity. State Police Superintendent Frank M. Nichols and State Policeman Paul Lavin will leave tomorrow to bring Rausch to Connecticut.

Between 15,000 and 18,000 circulars with the description of Rausch, including his finger prints, and the offer of $500 reward for his arrest have been sent out during the last four years, Commissioner Hurley said, and numerous suspects have been reported to the state police, but until Friday, there had been no definite word of Rausch from the time he was seen in New Haven a few hours after the murder on December 10, 1923.

ROMANCE ENDS IN MARRIAGE OF A 14-YEAR OLD GIRL

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—A romance that began over the desk of a Brooklyn hotel resulted in the marriage February 7 of Miss Julia Latimer, 14-year-old daughter of H. G. Sgatimer, Brooklyn furniture dealer, and Francis McLaughlin, 23, of Syracuse, law student and former clerk at the hotel it was learned today.

The girl disappeared January 31, the same night that McLaughlin went to Syracuse to tell his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McLaughlin of the coming marriage. The girl remained with school friends. A week later, with the consent of the parents of the couple, the wedding was performed by City Court Justice Fennelly in the Brooklyn municipal building.

The bride was said to be travelling in the south with her parents and McLaughlin is continuing his law studies. He expects to enter Syracuse university in the fall and they will make their home in that city.

FRANCHISE GENERALLY EXERCISED IN JAPAN

TOKYO, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Official figures for Japan's first general election Monday under the new universal manhood suffrage law, show that the new electorate has taken its privilege seriously. The total vote being more than 80 per cent. of those eligible.

The total number of votes registered was approximately 9,500,000, out of a possible electorate of about 12,000,000.

It is understood that the Tanaka government has decided to stay in office despite the fact that its plurality over the opposition numbers only a comparatively few votes, hoping to win the support of the independent bloc to defeat any motion of non-confidence which the opposition may propose.

DR. M'MILLAN FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 24.—(AP)—A jury today found Dr. Charles M. McMillan guilty of murder in the first degree for the slaying of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, his wealthy employer. The verdict carried a recommendation of leniency which makes it obligatory for the court to sentence the physician to life imprisonment.

Receiving the case for deliberation at 11 a. m. today, the jury of eight women and four men reached their verdict two and one-half hours later. Next Tuesday was the day set for formal passing of sentence by Superior Court Judge Douglas Edmunds.

The state charged Dr. McMillan with a plot to obtain control of the fortune of Mrs. Appleby, for whom he had acted as business manager. An estate at one time estimated at nearly $1,000,000, was inherited by Mrs. Appleby upon the death of her husband, Chicago inventor, several years ago.

Evidence against Dr. McMillan, who is 57 years old, was circumstantial. The physician was arrested and charged with the murder shortly after the body of Mrs. Appleby was found last December 26 in the San Fernando valley near here, tied in a sack.

Bits of canvas, which the prosecution claimed were identical with that in which the body of the wealthy widow was wrapped figured prominently in the trial which started February 15.

HOOVER FOR FLOOD CONTROL PLAN OF ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Secretary Hoover today backed up the administration's plan of flood control during 45 minutes of direct statement and cross examination before the senate commerce committee.

Under rather persistent questioning by the two senators largely responsible for his appearance—Hawes, democrat, Missouri, and Willis, republican, Ohio—the commerce secretary approved the floodway, spillway and levee strengthening plan of the war department and insisted that the policy of state participation in the cost should be adhered to.

Refusing to commit himself on the percentage of cost which should be borne by the federal government and the state of the Mississippi valley, Mr. Hoover urged consideration of the president's recent suggestion that a commission should be set up to study all factors and make its recommendations to congress a year hence.

The secretary appeared in a small committee room off the senate chamber which was crowded with spectators and newspapermen who anticipated a clash between this avowed candidate for the republican presidential nomination and Senator Willis who has promised him a fight without gloves for the Ohio delegation.

GUNMAN CHARLEY BIRGER TO BE EXECUTED APRIL 13

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Southern Illinois' notorious gunman and gang leader, Charley Birger, must pay with his life for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, the state supreme court ruled today in affirming his conviction. April 13 was set for his execution.

In jail at Benton, Ills., Birger smiled when informed of the decision, remarking "what is to be will be."

A veritable reign of terror in the south part of the state ended with the murder of Adams, whose home was said said to be a meeting place for the Shelton gang, a faction unfriendly to that of Birger. Because of this friendship with the Sheltons Adams was marked to die.

Two mere boys rapped on his door Dec. 12, 1926, and as the mayor was reading a note the boys handed him, they whipped out pistols and killed him.

One of the lads, Elmo Thommason, 17, was burned to death some time later when the Birger headquarters was bombed. His brother, Harry, two years his senior, is serving a life sentence for the murder. Both made a clean getaway at the time, assisted by Birger, the instigator of the crime.

SKYSCRAPER PLANNED FOR GRAND CENTRAL DISTRICT

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Visitors to New York are soon going to be able to get a stiff neck without going way downtown after leaving the station.

A whole grove of skyscrapers is planned for the Grand Central district and the plans are getting more pretentious all the time.

A few days ago a syndicate announced purchase of a site across 42nd street from the Grand Central terminal on which it was said a building higher than the now supreme Woolworth tower would be erected.

Today a company which had previously planned a 62-story building opposite the station on Lexington avenue, filed amended specifications, making its building 64 stories, that it may also outstrip the Woolworth building.

Another skyscraper is planned for the corner of 42nd street and Lexington avenue, the new Gray building towers above the station on its eastern side, and the New York Central itself is raising a lofty building just north of the terminal.

HOW CONGRESS CAN SOLVE UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Congress can solve the unemployment problem by passing four pieces of legislation, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor said here today before departing for Washington.

The four measures outlined by him are:

Passage of the flood relief measures; a reasonable naval building program; army housing measures, and the supplementary government building program.

13 Coal Miners Were Killed by an Explosion

Twelve Bodies Have Been Recovered From Mine Near Jenny Lind, Ark.—One Man Missing.

JENNY LIND, Ark., Feb. 24—(AP)—The bodies of 12 miners, killed when an explosion rocked a Mama Coal company mine near here early today, were recovered by searchers. Only one miner, Charles Newman, believed to have been in that section of the mine was unaccounted for tonight, and it was not determined whether he was in the mine at the time of the explosion.

Eleven of the bodies were found in mine No. 3 and one in mine No. 18 where the blast originated.

Those who escaped reached the surface through mine No. 2 which connected with the No. 3 mine. Those whose bodies were recovered and identified were:

Darcy Templeton, nephew of Supt. W. E. Templeton of the mine; Valentine Berzack, pit boss; Edgar Westmoreland, Bonanza; Joe Sodar, Jenny Lind; Forest Gibbs, Jenny Lind; Winfred Brown, Bopanza James Kimberling, Bonanza; Frank Durrott, Tahona, Okla.; John Kosmatine, Jenny Lind; Lewis Mohr, Bonanza; Walter Chapple, Jenny Lind, and Jack Williams of Missouri, who entered the mine for the first time today.

Rescue crews still were searching for Newman, although there was some doubt that he was in the mine.

The cause of the explosion remained a mystery tonight. Claude Speigel, state mine inspector, refused to advance any theory as to the cause before making an official investigation tomorrow.

Rescue work was extremely difficult because of the wreckage and heavy fumes left by the explosion.

The crews of rescue workers were forced to proceed slowly and did not reach the point of origin of the blast until late this afternoon.

BANK NOTES THE REWARD FOR PARENTS OF TRIPLETS

CARIGNANO, Italy, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A cluster of bank notes was the reward of a father and mother of this city who gave their new born triplets names that pleased Premier Mussolini.

"We'll call them Italo, for the fatherland, Benito, after the duce, and Romano for his own new son," said Michele Tondaturo to his wife after the trio came into the world. The names were announced, and soon after, the local governor, on Mussolini's instructions, called on the family. Learning that Tondaturo was out of work he left him a tidy sum to aid him in caring for the three new facists.

SENATOR KENYON OF R. I. FOUND FATALLY WOUNDED

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 24—(AP)—Senator Charles Kenyon, of Narragansett Pier, was found fatally injured in his automobile, on the Saundersville pike in Scituate late this afternoon with a bullet wound in his right temple and a new revolver clutched in his right hand. He died at 8:30 o'clock in the Rhode Island hospital here without making a statement. Medical Examiner Magill said death was the result of a bullet wound which was in all probability self-inflicted.

Senator Kenyon attended today's session of the general assembly. His colleagues said he was apparently in good spirits.

COOLIDGE IN ACCORD WITH CONGRESS ON FLOOD CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—President Coolidge is not disposed to demand that a portion of the cost of Mississippi river flood control be assessed upon communities benefited, if congress wants to place the entire charge upon the federal government.

While the president does not wish to set the precedent of having the federal government pay all the expenses of an improvement designed to benefit one section, he is willing, under the circumstances to compromise as to the Mississippi problem.

FAVORS HOOVER AND TILSON FOR PRESIDENTIAL TICKET

(Special to The Bulletin)

C., Feb. 24—Former Secretary to the President Bascom Slemp today stated that long ago he had said the best ticket to nominate at Kansas City would be Hoover and Tilson and had no reason to change his mind. Slemp referred to Tilson as doubly well equipped as a candidate, being born in Tennessee and educated in New England, thus qualified to ably represent varying sections of the country.

May Impeach Att'ney General of Bay State

House Leader Asserts There Must Be a House Cleaning in the Office.

BOSTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—The possibility of a move for impeachment of Attorney General Arthur K. Reading by the state house of representatives, was seen in a statement issued today by Representative Martin Hays, of Boston, republican house leader to the effect that "there must be and will be a house cleaning in the office of the attorney general." The republicans have a large majority in both branches of the legislature. Reading is a republican.

The house rules committee which yesterday heard the attorney general admit that he had received a $25,000 retainer and other fees from the Decimo Club, Inc., shortly after he had investigated the club's activities in this state, will meet next Monday noon. At that time action will be taken on the order introduced by Representative Roland D. Sawyer, of Ware, democrat, calling for an investigation of the attorney general's conduct.

Representative Hays was one of the committee members who questioned both Sawyer and Reading at yesterday's hearing. In his statement today Hays suggested that Joseph Wiggin, of Malden, who was personal attorney to Governor Fuller in the governor's investigation of the Sacco-Vanzetti case last year, be made attorney general.

Should the house impeach Reading, the senate would sit as a court with power to remove the attorney general. In the event of removal the legislature would choose his successor by joint ballot of the two branches.

Reading refused to make any statement today except that he "couldn't even dignify the suggestion" that he resign "by discussing it." Governor Fuller said that it would not be courteous for him to interfere in the matter until the legislature had passed on it.

FEAR HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE IN COLLISION OF VESSELS

DEAL, England, Feb. 24—(AP)—Serious loss of life was feared from the sinking tonight of the Italian steamer Alcantara after collision with the Russian cadet training ship Tovarisch. The collision occurred in a dense fog which blanketed Dover Straits off Dungeness tonight. Two other steamers were reported standing by.

The only account of the tragedy was pieced out from a series of brief messages received by Lloyd's North Foreland radio station from the British steamer Moldavia.

The Moldavia reported that after searching the vicinity of the crash for an hour and a half it had found only one man who died shortly after, and that it was convinced that no one had escaped alive from the sinking ship.

The messages from the Moldavia indicated that the collision occured about three miles southeast of Dungeness at eight o'clock tonight. In response to an S. O. S. from the Tovarisch which reported the sinking and said that the crew were probably on the water, the Moldavia raced to the spot. The only trace of the Italian ship was a lifebuoy with the name Alcantara of Catania and the nearly dead man floating amongst wreckage. The Moldavia finally resumed her voyage.

QUICK CAPTURE OF TWO ALLEGED HIGHWAYMEN

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 24—(AP)—Quick work and fine co-operation among the police department of Fairfield and New Haven counties tonight resulted in the capture of two alleged highwaymen after they had beaten and robbed Joseph De Franco, of 143 Capitol avenue, Bridgeport, when he gave them a "lift" while driving through Milford toward his home here.

Ben Alpert, 20, of 426 Chestnut street, New Britain, and Vincent Mondzeska, 20, of 2069 Chestnut street, New Britain, were arrested in Stamford at 10:20 p. m., an hour and ten minutes after the news of the attack and escape of the highwaymen was flashed by the Milford police department to all police headquarters in Fairfield and New Haven counties. They were charged with highway robbery, theft of an automobile and carrying concealed weapons.

De Franco was driving from New Haven to Bridgeport on the Post road. Coming out of the New Haven turnpike he was hailed by two young men who asked for a "hitch." De Franco stopped and the two young men sat in the car with him, one in the rear seat and the other alongside of the driver. Later the pair attacked and robbed him.

Never Again Say —

Is that all you paid for this . . . ?
Where did you ever find these . . . ?
Why, it cost me nearly twice as much!
Do tell me where you get them for that!
How do you ever manage so well on so little?
But aren't they awfully expensive?
I wish I could do it.

ILLINOIS GASOLINE TAX FOUND UNCONSTITUTIONAL

The State Has Collected From $700,000 to $1,000,000 a Month From Tourists Since Aug. 1, 1927—Decision Handed Down by the State Supreme Court in a Test Case Carried by the Chicago Motor Club—The Court Also Found That the Law Was Discriminatory.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Feb. 24—(AP)—Illinois' gasoline tax of two cents a gallon under which $700,000 to $1,000,000 a month has been collected from motorists since Aug. 1, 1927, was declared unconstitutional today by the state supreme court.

The measure was sponsored by Gov. Len Small and was passed in the last regular session of the legislature only after it had been on the brink of defeat repeatedly.

While the law provided only a two cent tax, in effect the tax became three cents a gallon since the fuel companies generally added an extra cent to defray the cost of collecting and turning over to the state.

The decision was on a test case carried up by the Chicago Motor club, which began its fight against the law even before it was introduced as a bill before the legislature.

J. H. Braun, counsel for the club, saw in the supreme court decision no possibility of a refund to those who have paid the tax. Any refunds probably would go to the gasoline distributors, he said.

"The tax was indirect so far as the motorist was concerned" said Mr. Braun.

In declaring the law unconstitutional the supreme court found that it also was discriminatory.

There was discrimination against motorists because the gas tax did not apply to users of gasoline for other purposes, because it differentiated in the treatment of kerosene and gasoline, both fuels, and because it did not affect electrically propelled vehicles.

The high court held the law violated the fourteenth federal constitutional amendment which guarantees equal protection to all, and that it imposed a double tax, the license tax being the other.

COOK FAILED TO PROFIT BY FINDING STRING OF PEARLS

CHICAGO, Feb. 24—(AP)—Peter Kyriakos, erstwhile bootblack and wrestler, and now a cook, today with a morose sich expressed the hope that he would find no more $20,000 strings of pearls.

His statement was made just after he had seen the pearls he found last May auctioned off to pay the fees of attorneys he hired to gain possession of them for him.

Kyriakos, then a bootblack found the string of 128 graduated pearls set with a diamond clasp in the Union station. He tried to sell the beads for $2,500 and found no buyer. Finally he took them to a jeweler who noted the value and called the police. The bootblack was arrested for stealing the pearls but no one ever claimed them or reported such a theft.

Kyriakos stuck to his story of finding them and was discharged only to find the police had the gems which finally were turned over to the public custodian. Kyriakos with visions of using the money to become a professional wrestler hired lawyers to regain the gems.

They obtained a court order for their return but Kyriakos spurned the pearls offered him, maintaining they were not the ones he found.

Today the pearls were sold at auction to pay his attorneys who had a bill of $1,500. Kyriakos wept as he heard the bidding start at 50 cents and wind up at $505, the auctioneer selling them to a real estate dealer whose attorney said that the real estate man bought the pearls as an avent and that there would be a private sale later. The lawyers expected to divide the proceeds of the sale in an effort to get their fees.

NO AUTHENTIC NEWS OF AVIATOR BERT HINKLER

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 24—(AP)—Late tonight authentic news was still lacking concerning the whereabouts of Bert Hinkler, who left Port Darwin this morning on a 900-mile flight to Cloncurry, Queensland. It had been reported that he had made a forced landing outside the latter city, but no confirmation of this was received. Colonel Brinsnead, director of civil aviation, was reported as confident that Hinkler had simply lost his way and would eventually arrive safely.

Since his successful flight from Croydon, England, to Australia in 14 days, using a baby plane which effected economy as well as distance records, Hinkler has been hailed as exceeding even the feats of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and the Australian government has announced its intention of awarding him a gift of about $10,000 as a memento of his great flight.

CHARGES OF PLAGIARISM AGAINST CECIL DE MILLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Suit charging plagiarism against Cecil De Mille and others interested in the production and showing of the motion picture, "The King of Kings" was filed in federal court today by Valeska Suratt, film actress, and Mirza Ahmed Sohrab, Oriental scholar. They said the ideas on which the cinema is based were stolen from a work written by them.

In the complaint which names Will H. Hays, and Miss Jeanie MacPherson, scenario writer, among the defendants, Miss Suratt says in 1924 she conceived a motion picture embodying the story, and engaged Sohrab as collaborator. Their manuscript, she says, in December, 1924 was turned over through Hays to De Mille who said he desired to show it to Miss MacPherson, credited by producers as the author of "The King of Kings." De Mille returned the manuscript in April, 1924, Miss Suratt said, saying he could not use it.

INOCULATED HIMSELF WITH ANTI-TUBERCULIN SERUM

ADRIAN, Mich., Feb. 24—(AP)—To support his contention that anti-tuberculin serum for cattle is not harmful, Dr. John Winters, Lenawee county veterinarian, inoculated himself with a full injection of the serum before a meeting of the Lenawee Farmers' institute here today. The injection was sufficient, Dr. Winters said, "to make a full dose for a 1,000 pound Holstein bull."

James Helme, former state senator and member of the dairy commission, took the opposing view in a debate with Dr. Winters before the farm session. He declared the serum harmful and ridiculed Winters' efforts to prove it of benefit to cattle.

LINDBERGH TO START FLIGHT EARLY TODAY

DETROIT, Feb. 24—(AP)—Mechanics at Selfridge field, tonight were ordered to fuel and prepare the Ryan monoplane of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh for a flight early tomorrow morning. At the same time the colonel sent to the supply office for maps of Ontario. It was believed Lindbergh and a party of leaders of the aircraft industry from St. Louis, who accompanied him here, planned to take off tomorrow for Buffalo, over the air mail route which cuts directly across the Canadian province from Selfridge field.

Major Thomas G. Lanphiers army pursuit plane also was being fuel for an early morning flight, and indications were he would accompany the party.

A three motored army plane from Wright field, Dayton, arrived at the field late today, piloted by Lieut. Albert Hegenberger and Harry Johnson, to take Mrs. Evangeline L. L. Lindbergh to Boston to attend the meeting of the National Education association. Mechanics were ordered to get the latter plane ready for an early morning flight also.

SEARCHING FOR CLUE OF THE TORCH-KILLER

BERNARDSVILLE, N. J., Feb. 24—(AP)—The torch-killer of Miss Margaret Brown was still at large tonight.

State troopers said during the day that his identity was known, that he was a middle-aged professional man of high social standing, but later Prosecutor Bergen denied that anything definite was known about the killer.

"If I knew him and where he was," said the prosecutor, "I would go out and get him."

In the afternoon, Miss Brown, whose gasoline-soaked body was found flaming like a human torch behind a hot dog stand on the Bernardsville-Morristown road Monday night, was buried quietly at Fort Lee.

Police investigation centered around clues furnished by a man and a woman. The woman told of seeing a blue sedan parked on Monday night at the place where Miss Brown's body was found, and there was some hope that she might be able to help in tracing ownership of the car. The man told of being near the scene of the crime last night and being questioned concerning the killing by a man who drove up in a blue sedan.

On the theory that this inquisitive automobilist might have been the killer, drawn back to the scene of the slaying by some morbid power stronger than his will, police kept watch over the Brown funeral today on the chance that the man they sought might attend. The ceremony was concluded, however, without any development in the man-hunt.

FEDERAL COURT ACQUITS FIVE COAST GUARDSMEN

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Five Coast Guardsmen on trial for the slaying of D. W. "Red" Shannon, alleged "king of rum runners," two years ago, were found not guilty by a federal court jury tonight.

The jury deliberated four hours.

Austin, enlisted men, were on trial charged with murder in connection with the slaying of Shannon during a chase on Biscayne bay two years ago tonight, when the guardsmen attempted capture him with his liquor-laden craft.

The men were indicted in the state court, but the trial was transferred to the federal court with the state retaining its status as prosecutor.

SECRET SERVICE BUREAU IN PROHIBITION DEPT.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 24—(AP)—The Milwaukee Journal says today that the existence of a "far-reaching carefully organized secret service bureau within the prohibition department, making virtually impossible the acceptance of bribes by federal agents," has been disclosed here by an official of the prohibition forces.

The dry workers, the newspaper said, are often followed as they make their rounds and if they make stops that are not noted on their daily report sheets they are liable to be "called on the carpet." Men unknown to the prohibition agents are used for this shadowing, the newspaper said.

The "secret service" has been so well organized, the paper quotes the official as saying, that now no agent can hope to continue "shady dealings" for as long as 30 days.

Flaherty, Robert W. Gardiner and Charles McDaniels.

It is probable that members of the fin family inhabiting the Shetucket river below Windham are enjoying a jag, as 4,800 bottles of beer recently taken in raids at Norwich and Taftville were broken at the edge of the river Thursday by officers of the eastern Connecticut federal prohibition enforcement department and men in their employ. This afternoon, 90 additional cases were destroyed at the river bank and as all of this beer has been in storage in the vault of the federal building here and therefore considerably aged, the waters of the Shetucket became quite potent as the brew was released. While the vault is now cleared of the 490 cases of beer the officers have yet to dispose of several kerosene stoves, copper boilers and bottling equipment seized during the series of raids.

NOANK

NIGHT COP HELPS STRANGER TOWARD THE CAPE AND A JOB

A stranger came walking into the village from New York with shoes all gone, clothes wet through and he looked as though he was worn out. At 2 a. m. Thursday he asked the night cop, Elmer Baker who was on the Prospect Hill avenue beat. "What does a fellow have to do to be put in jail here for a night's rest?" The cop said "Nothing! Would you like to be put in for the rest of the night?" The stranger was all smiles. "What is your name?" "Jesse Martin. I came from Harrisburg, Pa. I lost my job—cannot find any. The bread line was over 2,000 at home. I hit New York, and still found no jobs. Hunted all day, so then I took the road, bound for Cape Cod where my uncle runs a fishing boat. My money was gone and no place to hang my hat!" The kind hearted officer gave him a breakfast and a dollar and he started away happy. "When I reach Cape Cod I won't forget Noank and I'll pay you back for your kindness to a stranger!"

Plans were talked over for having a baseball team this season. At the next meeting a captain and manager will be elected. Two new scouts were voted in. At the close of the meeting Sterry Weaver blew the bugle as Leo Harris marched out with the Scouts' flag. All sang "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and "America." DANIELSON

G. E. DANIELSON, LIFE-LONG RESIDENT OF TOWN, DIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 24—Death came during last night to George E. Danielson at his home at the corner of Main and Maple street, where he had lived the years of his long life. Mr. Danielson was 74 years of age.

Born in Danielson November 22, 1854, Mr. Danielson was a son of Elisha and Sarah Ely Danielson and a descendant of Sergeant James Danielson, first of the family to locate in this territory. This community is named for the family. Seven generations of the Danielson family have been born in the house where Mr. Danielson died, and it is believed, with a possible exception, to be the oldest house in this place.

During his active years Mr. Danielson was engaged in farming on the ancestral acres that reach northward along the eastern border of the Quinebaug river. These acres have been tilled for generations by his forebears.

It is recorded that Sergeant James Danielson, one of the first settlers on Block Island, and who had fought in the Indian wars, shared in the distribution of lands in eastern Connecticut by a grant from the general court. He selected a location in what is now Voluntown. In 1706, when in his 58th year, he bought 300 acres of land in Pomfret and the following year purchased from Major Fitch the neck of land between the Assawaga and Quinebaug rivers here in Danielson. This purchase included 2,000 acres and extended northward to take in all of what is now Maple street and the Riverview section and all the territory between the rivers to a point above the farm now owned and operated by James Danielson.

The original buildings erected by Sergeant Danielson were on the acres where the present Danielson homestead stands, this home being built by Colonel William Danielson of Revolutionary fame. George E. Danielson being his great-grandson. Near where the home stands Sergeant Danielson built a garrison house, as there was need of such structures in those days. With the years he became one of the most prominent citizens of early Killingly. He died in 1728, in his 80th year. It is recorded of him that "he laid out a burial ground between the rivers for the use of the inhabitants and was the first to be interred in it." This is now Westfield cemetery and generations of his descendants rest there. Through his sons there came into existence several branches of the Danielson family and through the more than two centuries of this town's incorporated existence they have been prominent in its affairs.

George E. Danielson was a quiet, likeable man of most friendly disposition. His life was the peaceful, though vigorous one, of the man that devotes his time and talents to agriculture. He lived to see part of the original farm place turned over to the needs of industry and a great manufacturing plant, the Main street mill of Powdrell and Alexander, rise across the street from his home. He was a member and a deacon of the Westfield Congregational church.

Mr. Danielson leaves his wife, a son Thomas B., of Vancouver, B. C., who has been at home here during the critical period of his father's illness; two daughters, Katharine K., a teacher in the schools of Waterbury, and Ruth H., teacher in a private school at Buffalo, both here at the time of their father's death, and a brother, Walter, resident in Oklahoma.

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 24—Its work completed, the board of relief of the town of Killingly reports reductions of only $8,370 from the grand list as completed a few weeks ago by the board of assessors. The board of relief found very little demand for adjustments of assessments and the members have gone through nearly a month of hearings with no great prolems to vex them.

PUTNAM

LIVELY DEBATES ON WATER-TANK QUESTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 24—The question of Steel Tanks vs. Concrete Reservoirs was brought to the fore and publicly discussed at a meeting held in the city hall Thursday evening, with over 200 citizens and taxpayers present to offer their opinions. The meeting was called to order by Irving H. Miron, a local attorney representing a committee of citizens with their favor on the side of the concrete reservoir on Richmond hill. Mr. Miron moved that the citizens nominate and elect a chairman to preside at the meeting. Former Alderman Rogers nominated Judge M. H. Geissler. The motion was seconded and Mr. Geissler was unanimously elected. It was further moved and agreed upon that each spokesman be allowed to hold the floor for twenty minutes. (One citizen suggesting that a timekeeper be appointed).

The ice was broken by a review of the work of the water commissioners since 1916. This report was read by Commissioner Smith. The water commissioners favored a cement reservoir and they stated that they had engaged engineers to furnish them plans for a storage capacity of that nature. Mayor Richards, the mayor not representing the city council at this meeting read letters and figures on the cement reservoir and on the project known as "Symond's second plan" which would place a steel tank on Bates hill and a steel tank in Richmond hill, which the city council favors. When the mayor's letter and figures were read and the commissioner's side of the story was heard the fight began.

City Engineer George W. Perry told of Engineer Palmer of Norwich investigating and his recommendation for the improvement of the water system. Mr. Perry told of the trouble that other cities were experiencing with cement water storage tanks, and their continuous water seeping through. He spoke of one instance where a cement reservoir in Salem, Mass., had cracked and started to crumble. The commissioners answer to Mr. Perry's statement was that the tank contained an improper mixture of cement, sand and water. Mr. Perry asked, "If a large contracting firm had failed to make the mix proper for a city the size of Salem, where could Putnam obtain one that would take pains to properly mix the cement for a reservoir in this city?" Mr. Perry also stated that in his long years of experience as a city engineer he had seen many cement projects fail time after time, due to an improper mix.

Mr. Richard again obtained the floor and told why the water controversy had started. "It was because of the lack of pressure at the Putnam & Company fire a few years ago." The next question brought out was "What is the cost of a cement reservoir?" Chairman of the water commissioners, Alexander Gilman, answered, "About $134,000, was the estimated cost with all additional expenses, such as excavation of the land, piping and other expenses included."

Attorney A. Macdonald, Jr., stated that he was not a hydraulic engineer and he was not familiar with hydraulic engineering enough to argue in technical terms, but he wanted to know why another standpipe could not be erected on Oak hill, aside of the present standpipe, if the cost would be less and if it would not be just as practicable. Mr. Macdonald's view was an entirely new idea and it gave some discussion to the question, but it soon drifted back to the Richmond hill and the Bates hill argument still leaving the Oak hill out of the question.

Former Alderman Rogers introduced Mr. Small of the Chicago Bridge and Steel works. He spoke on the steel tank question, as to its efficiency and economy. Mr. Small told those present that he represented a concern that manufactures steel tanks, but he was not there to sell the city of Putnam tanks, but only there to give the citizens an idea of the work a steel tank will do. He said that a steel tank will last an indefinite period if it is properly taken care of, sing for example Putnam's present tank which has served the city for forty-two years. He stated that two steel tanks of 1,000,000 gallons capacity each would cost the city $118,000 erected. Mr. Small answered many other questions put before him in favor of the steel tank.

Water Commissioner Elliott introduced Mr. Fuller, a representative of the Portland Cement association, who came to Putnam to debate the issue. Mr. Fuller took the stand in favor of the cement reservoir and placed review arguments in its favor, and contradicted the statements of Mr. Perry as to the cement cracking and seeping through the walls.

A real live debate between Mr. Fuller and Mr. Small ensued and the question of steel or cement was argued out with much attention of those in the hall. Each man fighting in favor of his proposition. Mr. Fuller stated the cement was new and practicable and was fast gaining a reputation that the steel tanks have had for many years. Mr. Small told the public that cement could not both hold water and resist strain, but steel was necessary to keep the cement together, and that the cement only held the water that was contained in the tank. After the men had discussed cement vs. steel their argument ended with the public opinion slightly on Mr. Small's side.

Judge Henry N. Benoit arose and addressed the chair and delivered a fiery speech, closing with "Put aside these salesmen who are seeking to advertise their wares and prepare for the future now." Judge Benoit is a signer of the petition for the special city meeting and he stands in favor of the cement reservoir. His speech was well delivered, well received by those present and it was to the point. Byron D. Bugbee, Joseph R. Rivard and C. D. Sharpe, of the water department spoke in favor of the cement reservoir.

Before the meeting was adjourned Attorney Miron gained recognition and stated that the cement reservoir was the best plan and urged the citizens to vote for it on Monday. "It is a well known fact that it will be cheaper in the end, vote yes", Attorney Miron stated as he closed his address. Miron's remark again brought Rogers to the floor, he urged that the people vote in their own frame of mind but suggested that they use common sense.

Mr. Miron moved that the meeting be adjourned. The motion was seconded and Judge Geissler declared the meeting adjourned at 11 a. m.

The mass meeting ended up with the citizens going away satisfied that they had heard both sides of the question of the much debated water situation and were ready to go to the polls Monday, and vote to settle the question. If the majority votes "yes" a cement reservoir on Richmond hill will be erected, and if a "nay" vote is passed the Symond's second plan, which is a standpipe on Bates Hill and another one on Richmond hill will be erected.

THIEVES GET $8 IN CASH AT HIGH SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 24—Petty thieves again got an idea that they would like a thrill so they seized upon a window on the south side of the Putnam high school late Thursday evening and entered the building. The door leading out of the English room was locked, so with the aid of a knife they carefully removed a pane of glass and gained admission into the main corridor of the building and started to prey about. As it was late Thursday evening, no one was about to detect their presence and they successfully made their way through the building, removing glass from the doors leading to the stock room, library and office. When Principal E. L. Robinson came to the school Friday morning he investigated the panel of glass that had been removed from their positions. As yet only about seven or eight dollars in cash that was in Principal Robinson's office was taken by the man who has so far eluded the police. No books, supplies or other property was taken from the building except the money.

Captain Jarvis of the Putnam police was called to investigate the case, but his only clue to work on was a footprint on a window sill where the break was made. The school authorities believe it to be the same man who entered the Israel Putnam school a short time ago. No valuables were taken from that building.

The Knights of Columbus and the Odd Fellows played their regular tournament Thursday evening at the Odd Fellows hall. The games were hard fought by the losing Odd Fellows, but the Kaceys again proved invincible and won by a score of 9 to 3. This was another defeat added to the series of set ups that the Odd Fellows have received at the hands of the Kaceys. Their next encounter will be played in the K. of C. hall on Thursday evening, March 1. The summary is given with the names of the Odd Fellows first.

Bid whist—K. Andrews and J. Stombells lost to E. Phaneuf and M. Hannifan; I. Tourtellotte and Warren lost to Light and Lavigne; F. Morriarty and G. Gifford lost to Bove and Martin; Chandler and Shippee lost to St. Onge and Remillard; J. Gifford and C. Shaw lost to Bologna and Welch; E. Andrews and H. Morrarty lost to Bourgeois and Riley; Arnold and Adams lost to C. Bove and Giraca, F. Stombells and Talbot won from Irving and Igoe; Card and Ferns won from Montville and Renshaw; Campbell and C Tourtellotte won from O'Connor and Rice. The score in bid whist being 7 to 3 in the Kaceys favor.

Auction bridge—Combs and Carpenter lost to L. Phaneuf and C. Giraca; McIntyre and Brown lost to McGarry and L. Giraca. The Kaceys winning two straight here. The total score for the season now stands 106 to 57 in favor of the Kaceys again.

The funeral of Mrs. George Lizotte was held this morning from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock with a solemn high mass of requiem. Rev. U. O. Bellerose pastor of the church was celebrant, with Rev. W. A. Routhier, Deacon and Rev. Joseph D. Casey sub-deacon. The funeral mass was largely attended by the many friends that Mrs. Lizotte left. She was an active member of the society of St. Anne and representatives of the society were present at the funeral mass. Mrs. Lizotte died at her home on Wednesday morning at 9.30 o'clock after a long period of illness. She is survived by her husband, George Lizotte and one son Armand J., who resides in Putnam.

FORCING SAFETY

There are always those who are forever running for a car, just making a train or catching a boat by a fraction of a second and while they are doing this there are others who are trying to do the same thing but in the doing they make a slip and not only lose the train but their lives.

Because four commuters in Westchester county, New York state, have lost their lives in the past month, and two have been injured, while attempting to board a moving train the threat has been made by the police that all who attempt such action in the future will be arrested. Whether that will furnish sufficient reason for speeding up the commuters may be doubted, but it is worth trying.

However while the police are displaying so much interest in New York in preventing the number of accidents, fatal and otherwise, at railroad stations, it would seem as if they had an admirable opportunity for applying similar efforts at railroad crossings.

Those who run for trains, miss and go under the wheels are not forced to do such a thing. They know the danger and they know what has happened to others. If they think they are more adept than others and a bit cleverer in swinging aboard a moving train they of course assume the responsibility if anything happens. They contribute to the number of needless deaths but by no means any more so than do the large number of auto drivers who place their cars directly in the path of oncoming trains or crash into the sides of moving trains, as if to see how bad a mess they could make.

The prevention of deaths by restraining people from attempting to board moving trains is much to be desired, but the preventive work ought not to be allowed to stop there. If the threat of arrest will bring about a different attitude on the part of commuters concerning their own welfare by all means let the same method be put in effect at railroad crossings even though personal safety should be desired to such an extent that there ought to be no need of any such move.

PLACING THE BLAME

Congressman McClintic of Oklahoma is inclined to place the blame for the loss of the S-4 upon Rear Admiral Brumby. This doesn't have reference to the failure to rescue those in the crew who were found to be alive but the whole disaster. But that is apparently in keeping with the McClintic temperament for he is the congressman who wanted the submarines all sent south to a permanent base so that if any further accident happened it would be in warm instead of cold water, just as if there was any telling whether a sinking was going to happen off the Florida coast any more than off the Massachusetts coast.

The congressman from Oklahoma is credited with blaming Rear Admiral Brumby for the disaster on some confidential information he had received which was that the S-4 had completed all its standardization tests prior to December 17 but because they were made without an umpire reruns were required and it was during the latter that the Paulding crashed into the S-4.

Possibly this confidential information is correct and a repetition of tests was required, but if such tests must be under the eye of an umpire there is nothing to be criticized in the demands of the rear admiral. If he had accepted reports of tests which were not made under proper scrutiny he would most certainly be due for censure. That he ordered a retrial does not overcome the fact that the submarine was duty bound, as declared by Rear Admiral Leigh, to keep out of the way of surface vessels, whether it was engaged in a test with or without an umpire aboard.

The McClintic criticism would indicate that Admiral Brumby was being blamed for insisting upon a thorough compliance with the rules concerning the testing of the subs, that he was not willing to accept any half way measures and that he was fortifying the S-4 and the department against any claims that might have been made in the future had there been a failure to have the tests made and properly verified. Just why Admiral Brumby should be blamed for anything thus far has not been made clear. Certainly it isn't customary to be blamed for doing your duty and doing it thoroughly.

RUSSIA'S FOOD SHORTAGE

Food shortages and famines in Russia are not new. They have occurred under the existing and previous governments. Whether it will be possible for soviet Russia to prevent conditions from getting any worse is a question which many in that big country are seriously awaiting. It isn't a time for devoting the chief attention to making explanations and excuses; there is need for real action. It is in fact the time for doing something effective and letting the explanations rest with the future.

Russia is a country where it is possible to produce foodstuffs not only for its own people but for many others. There have been times when the government insisted upon the exportation of so much grain for the purpose of revenue that famines have been threatened. Those who are in a position to raise the grain have learned to look out for No. 1. They have found that big yields net them nothing, that the government gets the benefit and that it is just as well for them to raise what they need and stop as it is to try to do more. The result is that the government has not only been striking at itself but it is leaving those in the cities who are dependent upon the producers of foodstuffs in a serious position. It is a reaction against government methods which might have been anticipated but apparently was not.

Seven years ago when Russia had its last famine the heads of the government put forth the claim that civil war and foreign invasions were responsible for the situation. That was accepted at the time because it dovetailed with conditions, but it is quite evident that something new must be hit upon now in trying to tell the people where the trouble lies.

If the stories coming out of Russia are true there is a serious shortage of foodstuffs. The amount is so small that it is being parcelled out and not all who are hungry and anxious to buy can get their wants filled. The demands are much greater than the supply, all of which does not bear out the rosy pictures which are being painted of the conditions within soviet Russia.

THE RESULT OF NEGLIGENCE

Chicago has been pointed to for a long time as a center of crime where criminal tendencies were getting much less in the way of rebuke and correction than were needed. There has been gang warfare, shootings in the streets and frequent murders until now the gun and the machine gun have given way to bombs.

The Windy City authorities have resorted to the ordering of criminals out of town and claims have been made that the city was much misrepresented in regard to crime conditions. In a large city it is to be expected that there will be more murder cases and other cases of crime than in smaller communities, but Chicago has an unenviable reputation in regard to them all.

The use of bombs has created a new terror in the midwest city. Even though it might have been started in connection with the struggles between gangs for supremacy it has failed to remain within any such restrictions. Attacks by such a method upon the homes of members of the Thompson administration gave a different aspect to the situation and forced the authorities to employ different tactics. Even though it might be claimed that as long as one gang was fighting another the city was bound to benefit, yet when it comes to bombing private homes it called for action, and the action taken has resulted in such threats being made against the mayor and others that their homes are under constant guard.

That shows what the situation in Chicago is. The underworld proclaims that it is in control and it becomes increasingly evident that the idea of tolerating the crime of the past was a grave mistake. Chicago has made its task all the harder by giving leeway to the gangsters.

A CHANGE IN CHAIRMEN

From time to time those who hold conspicuous places in the national legislature are picked for more permanent posts. The bench gets not a few of them so that the selection of Congressman Green of Iowa for a place on the bench of the United States court of claims can cause no surprise, for there is no question as to fitness and it is evident that the change is agreeable to the representative. Inasmuch as it is a life job it means getting away from the uncertainties of political office holding.

It is inevitable that there should be attention given to the effect of this change for Congressman Green has been in the house for 17 years and for a number of years has been chairman of the ways and means committee, a most important post since that is the committee which has to do with tax policies and by law those must originate with the house. Congressman Green has been an efficient chairman, but he has been insistent upon certain policies which were not in accord with the administration's views. Thus his appointment to the bench and the succession of Representative Hawley of Oregon to the chairmanship bids fair to have an important bearing upon the revenue bill still pending in congress.

Although the president and Secretary Mellon have urged the repeal of the federal inheritance tax, a tax change which has extensive support throughout the country, Chairman Green has persistently opposed it. The appointment promises to have some influence upon that particular part of the bill as well as others which have not been in accord with what the administration has regarded as wise and needed changes.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Gentle reader, to be perfectly honest, wouldn't you like to see one of those big snow banks like those you used to slide down in your boyhood in Massachusetts or Vermont? Maybe you enjoyed them up in Moosup or Voluntown. The storm of Saturday night was just a reminder of what Nature used to do when she was in a heroic mood back in the seventies. Is it fact or is it fancy that the winter storms of snow years ago were as a general thing much bigger than they have been in recent years? In the writer's boyhood days there was not a single winter that did not produce, at least, one old whale of a storm that tied up traffic completely for awhile. This storm was usually accompanied with a gale that leveled the country roads from wall to wall, and it was sometimes weeks before the roads were all cleared. This rarely happens in late years in this latitude, which is another evidence that the world is improving.

Isn't there a justification in the celebration of Lent as it tends to break up the trend to monotony that most people experience? But this is not by any means the strongest argument in support of its celebration. Its main object is to keep in the forefront the memory of the most important forty days in all the history of mankind. The period of time from the cruel and violent death of the Man of Nazareth to his triumphant ascension near Bethany was fraught with the richest significance to man's religious welfare of any period within the range of human history. The worthy Puritans of Old England and New, in their mortal dread that they might do something that would savor of the mediaevalism of the establishment from which they had broken, bent altogether too far in the other direction. Their services were cold and severe. We are finding a truer level today.

It is a very blessed thing that knowledge is imparted [illegible] we are capable of receiving it and understanding it plus our [illegible] to get it. "Seek and ye shall find" covers a wide field of investigation. This rational theory militates against the idea that once largely prevailed in conservative circles that all conceivable knowledge in regard to spiritual things was thrown into the world in a solid chunk, after which the channels of communication were hermetically sealed, never again to be reopened. Human beings were expected to creep up to this deposit and gnaw away at it until it was all gone. That idea does not conform to the nature of man's inquiring capacity. The world mind like the human mind has to grow from small beginnings to apparently unbounded limits. To assert that the many things we know today on a great variety of subjects was even intimated in the Bible is to read into it what is not there.

The big naval increase suggested for our country started as a political question, but the people of our land are very just, making it more of a moral less[on] the trend of straight thinking [among] the more intelligent peoples of the world has centered upon the [possibil]ity of the elimination of war as a great world issue. The financiers of all the civilized countries are unanimous that another world struggle like the last one would mean the collapse of our modern civilization. Science has done so much to make the implements of war so terrible, that the destruction of life and property would be on such a mammoth scale that the contending nations would be blotted out. Throughout the world there is a feeling of shame that we do not slough off the cave man tactics. Young men have a right to rise up and say, "never again!"

While it might not add anything to our peace of mind to look forward ten thousand years—provided we were able—and see what world conditions are prevailing then, yet it would, at least, gratify a perfectly rational curiosity. Would there be as large a development of man towards perfection as there has been in the last ten thousand years? From that far distant standpoint would he be likely to look back upon man as he exists today in his supposedly exalted state, as we now, "the paragon of animals" look back upon the cave man, or some other lower form of life from which we were supposedly developed? This theory, rational as it is from the scientific standpoint, certainly introduces some doubts. For instance, is the average man today, stronger, bodily, mentally, or spiritually than in the age of Pericles? From Greek sculpture and painting the human body was just the same as it is today. From Greek literature we judge that intellect was as great then as now.

One sometimes wonders if life, taken as a whole, would be improved if there were no increase. This thought came to my mind the other night over the radio. We were getting one of the grand sonatas of Beethoven, when without any warning there came a blood-curdling whoop, which reminded on of the infernal yell of an old Indian chief just as he had scalped a white man. To say the least, it did not harmonize with Beethoven's music. I certainly hope that the great composer didn't hear it, for he was somewhat of an ill-natured man. If he did hear it, he surely said something, and if he didn't it was because he is (or least was when on earth) stone deaf. May it not be that there are howling dervishes in the air and while they are invisible they make up the lack of being anything but inaudible?

In a very delightful little pamphlet entitled Family Social Work the writer came across this suggestive article relative to aged couples keeping their own homes. It is something that was called to the attention of the Family Service Organization of Louisville, Ky. It suggests "that if an aged couple, owning their own home, becomes destitute, they might execute a deed turning over their property to the bank, to take effect after the death of both of them, and to pay no rent during the lifetime of either of them, and the bank to maintain the house in repair, pay the taxes, and keep up the insurance, getting its payment from the property after the death of the couple. In this way the couple would be assured their home until they died." It is a community sin to separate old couples because their home includes their total property. If they keep their home they have no money, and if they sell their property they have no home. The plan seems feasible.

One of the more modern developments of spiritual activity is in the line of religious education. We are still a very conservative people and do not take kindly to changes, especially along the line of religion. We are very apt to say "if such and such things were good enough for my father and mother they are good enough for me." When instrumental music was first introduced into our New England churches the remark was made by the opposers that "it was enough to make the founders writhe in their graves." Remarks of the same kind when quartets and choruses were introduced. We will tolerate almost anything in religion but something new. The program of religious education is something that supplements the ordinary work of the churches. It provides for teacher training, vacation schools, and better line of work for the ordinary Sunday School. It ought to be supported.

WHALES — THEIR ADAPTATION TO LIFE IN THE SEA

The "History of Whales—Their Adaptation to Life in the Sea" was the subject of an address given recently at Carnegie Institution by Remington Kellogg, Research Associate.

Geologic ages ago whale were land animals. For reasons not known they took to life in water—possibly fresh water at first and then the oceans. Although this change in habitat led to profound changes in body structure, nevertheless whales retain many of the typical features of land animals.

Like many land animals they breathe air direct and suckle their young. The fore limbs are present but modified to function as flippers. No traces of hind limbs have been found in any living toothed whales, but whalebone whales have one or two rudimentary limb bones which are buried deep in the flesh of the hip region. Like land animals also they are warm blooded.

For many years, under the auspices of Carnegie Institution of Washington, Mr. Kellogg has been studying the anatomy of present-day members of the whale family and the fossils of extinct species in the effort to trace the steps in adaptation to life in water. The following is based on his lecture.

Modifications for Propulsion.

Flippers of whales bear little resemblance to the fore limbs of land animals, for they are overlain with blubber and shaped like paddles with margins hardened by cartilage. Nevertheless they are supported by similar bones and muscles and nourished and controlled by similar blood vessels and nerves.

The hand has been remodeled to suit its new use. The wrist bones have lost their original shape and occasionally in old individuals fuse into a compact mass. Also there has been a multiplication of the bones in the fingers. In the typical hand of land animals the bones in each finger do not exceed three, whereas in the fetus of one species of porpoise as many as seventeen bones have been observed.

Whalebone whales apparently lack the thumb but it is present in toothed whales. The chief function of the flippers is to enable the whale to descend or ascend or to turn sideways. They are used mainly for steering and balancing, having lost their former rowing function.

The propelling mechanism is centered in powerful flukes at the end of the tail. Unlike the tail of a fish, these flukes are placed horizontally in relation to the axis of the body. The muscles and tendons which control these organs of propulsion act as levers which pull them in an up-and-down direction. The greatest velocity is obtained by alternate upward and downward strokes. When proceeding at a slower speed, the flukes cut the water laterally and obliquely downward.

Since the capacity of water for conducting heat is 27 times as great as that of air, whales would lose a vast amount of body heat were it not for a blanket-like layer of fat covering the whole body. Even in tropical waters this protection is needed, for the body temperatures are higher than the surrounding water; that of the Sei whale being from 95 to 97 degrees F. and of the common harbor porpoise 96 degrees.

The Breathing Mechanism

Adjustments and modifications in breathing structures to permit feeding below surface were necessary. Water would surely enter the lungs during the swimming with wide open mouth, so the nasal passages do not open into the throat as in land mammals. Instead they are connected directly with the trachea or windpipe by a single, continuous tube.

This arrangement enables the whale to swallow food while submerged without danger of filling its lungs with water. The popular belief that water enters the mouth when the whale is feeding and is spouted out of the "blowholes" on top of the head is erroneous. As a matter of fact, the "spouting" is produced by exhalation of air from the lungs. When the air is cold enough to condense the vapor in the whale's breath the "spout" can be seen rising high geyser-like, above the animal's head.

The blowholes or nostrils are themselves interesting adaptations to life in the water. In the long period of developmental change they have been pushed back from the end of the snout to the highest point of the head. In such position they are the first body part to appear above the surface when the whale is rising; thus breathing can be accomplished while the rest of the body is under water.

The closing apparatus of the nostril is equally interesting; this need for protection being differently solved in the two groups of living whales. Toothed whales have a single external nostril while whalebone whales have a double nostril. With the latter the nasal cavity is divided into pockets into which the air passages open. Between these pockets there is a series of valves controlled by muscles which apparently contract when pressure is exerted on the flap of cartilage covering the external nostril. In the case of whalebone whales the tubular nasal passages slope forward and upward and are furnished with spiral folds which fit into one another when pressure is exerted from without. In both groups the closing mechanism effectually excludes water from the air passages when the animals are submerged.

Adaptations in the Organ of Sight.

Most whales have such acute powers of hearing that it is an open question whether they see or merely hear the things which attract their attention. Nevertheless evidence is conclusive that the eyes of cetaceans are adapted to the specific functions which they have to perform. In general whale eyes differ from the eyes of land mammals in having immovable eyeballs, eyelids without eyelashes, no supporting cartilage or lubricating glands in the lids and a downward direction of the eye axis. Whale eyes also lack the power of optical accommodation.

As the eyes of the whale are adjusted primarily for sight under water, sight above water must be poor. Indeed, under atmospheric conditions the eyes of most whales are myoptic, that is, the light rays are brought to focus in front of the retina. Modifications of structure have also been made enabling whales to see at depths where the light is very weak. The bottlenosed, beaked whale which hunts for cuttlefish in the depths of the ocean has an eye with a pronounced corneal curve permitting more light to reach the outer parts of the retina.

Remarkable adaptations have also been made in the eye and socket to withstand the pressures of great depths. A blue whale carried a line straight down for 220 fathoms where it had to withstand a pressure of 45 atmospheres or 630 pounds per square inch. It remained below surface for 22 minutes. The bottlenosed, beaked whale and the sperm whale are said to descend half a mile and possibly a mile. Pressures at such depths are enormous, approximating 1175 pounds per square inch at half a mile and 2349 pounds at a mile.

The chemical adjustments of the whale eye are equally interesting, for, except for these, irritation from contact with sea water would quickly produce inflammation. The tear gland of the whale does not secrete a watery liquid as with land mammals but exudes, instead, a greasy substance which spreads over the cornea. This along with other modifications effectually protects the eyes from the chemical irritants of sea water.

As the cornea of the eye is in direct contact with the water, one might expect to find a protection against continuous cooling below normal bodily temperature. Curiously enough tests show that the freezing point of the liquid in the whale eye is somewhat lower than that in the eyes of land mammals.

Organs of Smelling and Hearing.

Although the sense of smell contributes greatly to the welfare of many land mammals, cetaceans apparently found less and less need for olfactory structures. While these structures are present in some of the living species they are, for the most part, undeveloped. However, in living toothed whales the olfactory organs have completely disappeared, though such structures have been found in embryos. From a study of fossils it would seem that the sense of smell possessed considerable importance in the case of certain extinct species. Apparently the loss, as one considers the evolutionary line, was a gradual one.

Life in water required, likewise, a remodeling of the organ of hearing. The initial stages in the transformation of an organ receptive to air-borne sounds to one responsive to water-borne sounds are unknown, for in the earliest fossils of record the bony portion of this organ are as highly developed as in any of the living whales. The ancestors of living cetaceans must have had functional eardrums just as have humans and other representatives of the higher animals but in the course of geologic time radical modifications were made in the hearing mechanism.

In man and other higher animals the vibrations of the ear drum are transmitted to the auditory nerves of the inner ear by a chain of three small bones of peculiar shapes located in the middle ear. Thus sound is perceived. It is in these delicately adjusted parts that greatest change has taken place. While most of the parts are present, at least vestigially, they do not now function as it is thought they once did. On the other hand resonance probably plays a much more important part in the hearing organ of the whale than in that of land mammals.

Indeed, even the external ear which whales at one time possessed has almost completely disappeared. In some porpoises a trace of the ear cartilage has been observed buried beneath the skin; while baleen whales still retain the two outer ear muscles. In whalebone whales the external auditory tube has been completely closed; while in porpoises this tube is so small that a probe of the size of the lead of a pencil cannot be introduced. However, with porpoises this passage enlarges in a trumpet-like manner as it approaches the ear drum.

Registing Pressure of Great Deaths.

The organ of hearing as a whole, in whales, and the soft structures associated with it appear to be especially well adapted for resisting heavy pressure at considerable depths. A system of reservoirs, capable of distension with air, have developed in the ear. If these reservoirs are blown full of air and the membranes dilated before the animal dives, the external pressure exerted by the water on the tympanic membrane could be equalized by muscular compression of the reservoirs which are all connected with the tympanic cavity. Thus pressure on the ear drum from without could be offset by pressure developed from within.

No matter how defective the cetacean organ of hearing may appear to be in comparison with that of land-dwelling animals, evidence is at hand showing that these modifications were present in some if not in all of the earliest known fossils. Evidently these structures met the needs of an aquatic mode of life and are adapted to the perception of water-borne vibrations, else it is unlikely that so many diversified types of cetaceans as now exist would have survived.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Year in the Norwich District

Mr. Editor: The year of the New England southern conference of methodism is rapidly closing and as news on evangelism, missionary itinerary, religious education, camp meeting, Epworth League institutes, and other district activities have been printed during the year, the general public may be interested in some general facts which are now being assembled and written into the annual report to be read at the annual conference.

General observations of the 56 different churches in this district, and requiring about 20,000 miles of travel a year for the superintendent, reveal gratifying conditions. Any expert of this denomination may discover excellent morale and steady improvement in worship, church schools, other religious education and men's organizations. The ladies societies have had unusual activities and financial gains, while the Epworth League institutes with several hundred young people meeting weekly, have eclipsed anything in the history of the district.

Just now there is an entirely new emphasis on stewardship, preparatory for every member canvasses in March. This technical report to be read at the conference later will show, several hundred dollars increase in salaries of ministers, new building projects completed or now in progress, thousands of dollars raised in debt reduction, large benevolence donations for flood relief, etc., in addition to the large gifts for our world service program and comparatively few changes are expected in appointments to be made. The largest church to be affected on this district will be at South Manchester, where the pastor has requested another appointment, and of course will honor his own request. Several useless or abandoned churches which came to my supervision from a preceding administration, have been sold and conveyed as provided in our church law.

There has been comparatively little illness in this district among our people, those at East Hampton and Portland being most affected by epidemics. This is also true of our parsonage homes with our spiritual leaders and their families, with the exception of Norwich Trinity, which is very unfortunate and which we deeply regret. However, the reading public may recall the statement printed in the press after the last conference at New Bedford, that this superintendent "could not and did not recommend this appointment." I insisted repeatedly in the cabinet to the Bishop and my district colleagues, that I would not take any responsibility for that appointment nor anything which should follow from it if made, and now feel that if it had not been made, the misfortune would not have happened here, and may not have come at all. That responsibility rests entirely upon those who made it possible.

The writer is cooperating with local committees in filling the pulpit of the church, from the time of the event to the annual conference, with no expense to the pastor, and in every other reasonable way known, to assist in relief and rapid recovery to normal life and future service for many years. The public should know these things, because of the large amount of loose and untruthful talk abroad and some of it by people who ought to know better.

A special cabinet session was held at Norwich Trinity church last Wednesday afternoon, when Bishop William F. Anderson of Boston, Rev. R. L. Roberts, superintendents of the New Bedford district, Rev. E. E. Wells, superintendent of the Providence district and the writer as superintendent of the Norwich district were present and gave attention to business preliminary to the annual session of the conference to be held at the large, new modern church at Fall River, from March 28 to April 2.

I thank you again Mr. Editor, for the very fine courtesies which you have shown me since coming to your region of this splendid commonwealth of Connecticut. Sincerely—ours,

MYRON E. GENTER,
Superintendent of the Norwich District, New England South Conference Methodist Episcopal Church.

Norwich, Feb. 24, 1928.

Religion

Mr. Editor: The writer understands there are over 600 different kinds of religion in the world at the present time, divided into the various denominations, sects, cults etc. What does this mean, just that there are about so many different places of worship, all differing (in creeds) and all are (supposed to be) traveling to that coveted place "heaven".

There is no wonder why the mind of the honest truth-seeker is so confused in trying to locate the one true faith (church) they give up in despair, to find that most religions are orthodox (Bible only) in name only, and still each claiming to be the one true way (church) that leads to heaven.

Some have wondered why the attendance of most churches is rapidly growing smaller, and that 'old time interest' is fast (but truly) disappearing. Why is it, as most every minister of the gospel knows, a number of honorable, noble, trustworthy people are in every community, who fear God and still standing aloof from the church. Perhaps they realize that the words of Fay Mills, in speaking of the church, are very true, when he says, "the church of the apostles, Puritans, and the early Methodists turned the world upside down, not by organization, for they had practically none, but by the irresistible power of God, deep moral conviction, unquestioning faith, and a spiritual unction that was the outcropping of a new and divine life. But today, instead of one chasing a thousand (evils) and putting 10,000 to flight, it takes a thousand church members to chase one evil, and then they don't catch it, unless there is something in it. The church is made the decoy of hunters of fortune, it is utilized as a screen of scoundrels."

How pleased, indeed, if we could say that the above statements were overdrawn, but, as every honest thinking person knows the above is the case. No doubt the Almighty, in looking down the stream of time, had reference to the present, when he spoke of conditions in the last days, knowing that many will "have a form of godliness," but "denying the power thereof."

We may ask, Is religion (Christianity) to have one's name on the church book? Is it to go to church on the Lord's day and the rest of the week live at variance with the neighbor? Is it to occupy some important position in the church, and the remainder of the time making it uncomfortable for the other members of the family circle?

Perhaps the reader is inclined to think that the writer is a heathen and does not believe in going to church, but the truth is, he attends meeting every week on the Sabbath, not forgetting a daily study of the "good book" and has great respect for the Sunday keeper, and those that worship on a Saturday and even those that observe Friday as a holy day, providing they practice what they preach and live up to their profession.

The "good book" says, "Our lives are known and read of men," for "by their fruits ye shall know them." Some of the best neighbors (and even strangers) the writer has ever known or dealt with, had no connection whatever, with any denomination, but who believed in principle and honesty.

Doubtless some of these very same people, and those that stand "aloof from the church," can truthfully be compared to the "common people" in Christ's time who followed Jesus, and "learned of him," while the Pharisees and Saducess were losing time by spying on the Saviour most everywhere He went.

And so it goes, that there are a large number of different kinds of religion but the very fact stands, that there is only one kind of Christianity, and that is inspired from above. This is not in theory only, but of that character shown us by the "good Samaritan."

The great hope of the church down through the ages, has been to witness the coming of the Redeemer, but He has not given us any assurance, that when He comes He will take "unto himself," some particular denomination, but He has promised to save that "little flock," the "whosoever will" those that "fear God and eschew evil."

Very true, there is a "church of the living God," which is made up of members who have been born again (converted) the record of their names being kept in heaven (Luke 10:20) and their creed (text book) is the Bible only."

Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter, pure religion and undefiled before God is this, to keep himself unspotted from the world. (Jas. 1: 27).

"The Cleansing Light"

SCRIPTURE: "Memory Verse: "God is light" (I John 1:5).

Read: I John 1.

MEDITATION: We commonly think that the chief function of the sun is to give illuminating. But light is quite as much for cleansing as for illumination. It is the sun that keeps the world clean. It destroys impurities and the places that breed impurities. There are germs and other causes of disease that cannot live in the sunlight. Sunshine is the great antiseptic. God gives illumination to our minds, but He also cleanses them. No evil thing can live in the light of His presence. We often wrestle with evil when the more effective way of ridding ourselves of it would be to let God shine in. God's presence will cleanse us of sin that may have defied all our efforts of will. "The Lord is my light and my salvation."

PRAYER:

O God, Thou great Light of life who shinest into every heart that opens itself to Thee, shine Thou into our hearts this day. Cleanse us from all iniquity and lurking evil. Purify our motives and make chaste our thoughts that the house of our souls may become sweet and wholesome. In Jesus' Name. Amen.

INCOME TAX TIPS

Salaries paid employes constitute one of the largest items of business expenses. To be allowed as a deduction such claims must conform closely to the wording of the statute, which provides for the deduction of "a reasonable allowance for personal services actually rendered." The test of deductibility is whether the amounts paid are reasonable and whether they are, in fact, purely for personal services. Money paid an officer of a corporation for which no services, or services inadequate to the compensation, are rendered is not deductible as "salary." Reasonable compensation is held to be an amount that ordinarily is paid by like enterprises in like circumstances for like services.

Bonuses to employes may be deducted by employers when such payments are made in good faith as additional compensation for services actually rendered, provided that, when added to the stipulated salaries, the total does not exceed "a reasonable compensation for services rendered."

When the amount of a salary of an officer or employe is paid for a limited time to a widow or heirs in recognition of services rendered by the deceased, such payments may be deducted.

Sunday Morning Talk

THE BOOK OF PSALMS

The Book of Psalms is perhaps the best known book in the world. No other portion of the Bible speaks to us, as it were, with a more familiar voice. It has an intimate charm which commends it at once to the affection. Critics and theologians have discussed in many volumes its origin, its interpretation or its authority, but neither comment nor controversy seem to affect the countless multitudes who love the Psalms. Men do not come to it with curious intellects, but with yearning hearts. What they seek in it is not learning or instruction but comfort, consolation and confidence or hope. It is to the sorrowful, the afflicted and the despairing that these sublime yet simple hymns make their constant and irresistible appeal. And they do so; they go home so to the heart because they come so directly from the heart.

They have that inspiration which is not less divine because it seems for the most part human, because it seems not so much a message communicated from without as an outflowing from the deepest springs of being or a revelation of thoughts written on the heart but the very "finger of God."

My voice shalt thou hear in the morning, O Lord; in the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee and will look up. Psalm 5. 3. "In the morning," there is the fittest time for intercourse with God. Let us give to God the mornings of our day, and the morning of our lives. Prayer should be the key of the day and the lock of the night. Devotion should be both the morning star and the evening star.

Stories That Recall Others

Fabulous Facts

A teacher found some unusual definitions in examination papers recently corrected. One hopeful student said "homology" is the study of homes. Another defined "recapitulation" as the capture of insects by biologists. The depth of the ocean was estimated by one to be about two feet while another said the greatest depth was nearly 25,000 miles.

Not If He Could Help It

The other evening a young married woman took her three year old son to a church supper. Her mother was a member of the organization that was giving the supper. As the daughter and her son were about to seat themselves at one of the tables, the mother, who was helping serve, said to her daughter: "If that kid were mine I would have cleaned him up a bit before I brought him here. Why didn't you wash him? His hands and face are a sight."

"I did want to wash his face and hands," said the young ultramodern mother, "but he didn't want to be washed. I asked him if he wanted me to wash him and he said, 'No.' Didn't you honey?"

"Sure! I don't want to be washed," agreed little youngster with an independent, self-satisfied tone of finality.

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters!

Don't mix a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, and takes the place of mustard plasters.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

POETRY

To Keep a True Lent

Is this a fast, to keep
The larder lean,
And clean
From fat of veals and sheep?

Is it to quit the dish
Of flesh, yet still
To fill
The platter high with fish?

Is it to fast an hour,
Or ragged to go,
Or show
A downcast look, and sour?

No; 'tis a fast to dole
Thy sheaf of wheat
And meat
Unto the hungry soul.

It is to fast from strife,
From old debate
And hate;
To direct ole thy life.

To show a heart grief-rent;
To starve thy sin,
Not inn;
And that's to keep thy Lent.

—Robert Herrick

In the Firelight

The fire upon the hearth is low,
And there is stillness everywhere.
And, like winged spirits, here and there
The firelight shadows fluttering go.
And as the shadows round me creep,
A childish treble breaks the gloom,
And softly from a further room
Comes: "Now I lay me down to sleep."

And, somehow, with the little prayer
And that sweet treble in my ears,
My thought goes back to distant years
And lingers with a dear one there;
And as I hear by child's amen,
My mother's faith comes back to me—
Crouched at her side I seem to be
And mother holds my hands again.

Oh, for an hour in that dear place,
Oh, for the peace of that dear time
Oh, for that childish trust sublime,
Oh, for a glimpse of mother's face!
Yet, as the shadows round me creep,
I do not seem to be alone—
Sweet memory of that treble tone
And: "Now I lay me down to sleep."

Several well-dressed men wearing earrings have been seen on Broadway, New York, besides a young man at the opera who had a discreet pair in his ears. Why not, if they want to, but why want to? In ancient times earrings and noserings were quite the fashion for men, also anklets for women. Besides the toilette of no self-respecting Elizabethan buccaneer of 16th century pirate was complete without a pair of earrings.—Capper's Weekly.

It is stated that its original home was in the Mediterranean region, but like many bad weeds it has become a great traveler.

"What are pearls?" has been decided in favor of the oyster by the French courts. The case was a test brought by defenders of Japanese "cultivated" pearls. These also are not "false," the court said but they are not "real" or "natural." The court ruled that they must be designated as "cultivated" or some equivalent description. This ruling, long awaited by jewel experts, was made on appeal. A recent jewel experts' congress, representing thirteen countries, decided the French court's verdict would be accepted as a trade rule.

Visitors to the British home office in Whitehall, London, still see a relic of the Cato street conspiracy in 1820 in a beheading ax which is kept in a glass case. The ax has never beheaded any one, but it was made to behead the conspirators. The five persons convicted were sentenced to be beheaded in the ordinary way but the authorities decided to hang them first and not take any chances. The beheading was done in public immediately afterward on the scaffold. It was performed with a surgeon's amputating knife by a masked "resurrection man" who was paid 24 guineas for his services.

Jean-Baptiste Tourenne, sixty years old, has for twenty years been drawing the pension of his dead father. When French government railroad officials learned that one of their retired employes, pensioned thirty-five years ago, would celebrate his 100th birthday this year, they began to arrange a public ceremony in his honor. In the course of arrangements officials found that Tourenne had collected his father's pension for so long that a new generation of cashiers took it for granted the man they paid was the pensioner himself. Tourenne, therefore, kept on getting paid and lived without working. A judge sentenced him to a year in jail.

OPENS LENTEN SERIES AT Y. M. C. A. NOON MEETING

The annual series of Friday lenten services was inaugurated at noon at the Young Men's Christian association. The parlors were filled with men who greatly enjoyed the occasion. Acting President Herbert B. Carey was in charge of the service which was held after the luncheon. The hymn used was "Hiding in Thee". Prayer was offered by the Rev. Dwight Stone of Hanover and Hugh Kinder sang a solo "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross. Mr. Carey introduced Dr. Marshall, announcing the topic of the series as "Taking Jesus Christ Seriously" Dr. Marshall took as his text Mathew 7:21:25 referring to the builder who builded his house on a rock. He mentioned that it was a pleasure and a joy to come and meet with Norwich men on this occasion, "as I recall Dr. Danforth's speaking of the joy he felt in meeting with you men on many occasions. He is probably thinking of this meeting on the other side of the ocean at this very minute. We take other things seriously and should take the matter of Jesuh Christ seriously. He commands our attention, our loyalty, our interest, our energy, and our very best efforts. He taught us that we should all bear a part in the every day affairs of our community and our fellow men. We devote a large amount of our time every day to papers, magazines, advertising and other things, why not give as much time to Jesus each day. What is the secret of a successful life in its broadest sense except taking Jesus Christ seriously and following his example. Let us not take him with a long face but instead take him with a joyous shout and with a glorious smile.

"Many fall short of their interpretation of Jesus—they do not take him out on the hill top and in the valleys—they do not follow him in his long journeys, they do not recognize his physical strength as He traveled over the country leading people to think of their God. He was a man of authority and yet his friendliness and cheerfulness was amazing. No human could possibly stand the work and rebuffs that Jesus could—no one could stand up to the physical test that he measured up to so gloriously. Physically he was strong, ruddy, with a keen voice and upstanding stature, of commanding personality and fine modesty, poise and assurance. Everyone from everywhere and from all stations in life came to him and he mingled with them and helped them. He was never at a loss for the right word or expression to show them just what he meant. He attracted the women and the children, the wrong and the right, the insane and the sane—whether sick of mind or body he served them all.

"He showed that he was a man of authority, he knew where he was going and he went straight ahead. He said I am the way. I am the light, I am the Good Shepherd, I am the truth. These claims present to us the terrible alternative that Jesus was what he claimed to be or that he was the greatest impostex the world ever knew. He was an authority and always after pouring out his heart all day he went to his father every night to be filled with the holy spirit and was back at his task the next day as usual. He was genuine, sincere, industrious, devoted, unsparing, considerate, patient, tactful and always adequate—He always knew just what to do and just what to say on every occasion. Men in this day and time, we need everyone of us to take Jesus Christ seriously and give to the study of his life at least as much time and thought as we give to other much less important things."

After the very impressive heart to heart talk, Dr. Marshall closed the service with a fervent prayer.

WITHDRAWAL FROM DOCKET AFTER SETTLEMENT REACHED

A suit brought for $5,000 damages by Sophie Wieczorak, a minor, of New London, against Oliver Brooks of New London, owner of an automobile, and Wells Geer, driver of the machine, has been withdrawn without costs. The case was scheduled to be tried before Judge Christopher L. Avery and a jury in the superior court at New London Thursday afternoon, but a settlement agreement was reached.

The plaintiff, who has married Dominick Golia since bringing the suit and whose name is now Sophie Wieczorek Golia, claimed to have been seriously injured on June 21, 1926 when she was struck by the automobile Geer was driving, just after she had alighted from a trolley car at the Max Pollock mill in Groton.

The suit was brought in March, 1927.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ANSWERS QUESTIONS ON RE-VALUATION

Some of the questions concerning re-valuation of property in Norwich which have come to the notice of the chamber of commerce are answered by officials of that body as follows:

Q. Haven't we got a local man who could do the work of revaluation as well as an outside concern?

A. This is best answered by Commissioner Blodgett, who states in a letter dated Feb. 3rd: "This is not to say that there is not someone in Norwich who may become competent to install a new tax system. However, before undertaking the work, he should visit many other cities and towns, and other states, and be afforded opportunity and time in which to educate himself. When Mr. Connelly undertook to install a new system in Bridgeport, he visited many cities in this and other states, and even then, in building his revaluation organization, he selected men who had had vast experience in such work. When Mr. Connelly was chosen tax assessor in Bridgeport, he was an instructor in accountancy and a student and writer on economic subjects in New York university. If a person so qualified is a resident of Norwich, that city, if it would pursue the same course as did Bridgeport, might come through with a very satisfactory revaluation of its taxable property. The real purpose of such work is to equalize the tax burden. Before anyone should undertake a task of this kind, he should study the most up-to-date method for applying the Connecticut law to land and buildings of home owners, buildings and stocks of goods of merchants, buildings and stocks of goods, including raw materials and finished products of manufacturers, as well as property devoted to agricultural purposes. There is no rule to guide assessing officials, except the statutes and the opinions of the courts. Thus, in order to apply the law, the assessor must become familiar with the law. * * * It is my judgment, after observing this problem for a number of years, that Norwich should employ some responsible company to equalize the value of the taxable property therein.

Q. Why is this issue brought up by the chamber of commerce at this particular time?

A. Because of two reasons: 1. The chamber of commerce members invested $1,500 in a survey of the community. The first recommendation of the engineer who conducted the survey was that immediate steps be taken to bring about revaluation of taxable property. In the opinion of the Babson organization, who conducted the survey, this is "the most important problem facing Norwich today."

2. Because the chamber learned through confidential and reliable sources that unless action was taken in Norwich during 1926, a more undesirable method might be pursued by the state of Connecticut in 1929. The sooner the people of Norwich appreciate the seriousness of this situation and take steps to have it corrected, under the most economic and efficient method, the better it will be for the town.

Q. Why does the chamber specify the company that is to do the work?

A. Because, after careful investigation and study of the recommendations on file in the chamber office, it was the unanimous opinion of the board of directors that Arthur O. Lamb of the Manufacturers' Appraisal Co., was the best qualified of any man available. In speaking of Mr. Lamb, Tax Commissioner Blodgett says:

"I have confidence in Mr. Lamb, growing out of an acquaintance covering a period of something like twenty years. Besides this, he has been successful in his work in Connecticut. He was formerly a successful manufacturer in Winsted and sold his interests there to one of his associates in business and thereupon took up this work. If you should go to Putnam, my impression is you would be able to see from what Mr. Lamb has done there that his plans are satisfactory. His carriage and mannerisms in installing tax systems are such as to smooth out difficulties without giving offense. The Putnam job was not done through a contract with the Manufacturers' Appraisal company, but it was done on Mr. Lamb's own responsibility."

Q. We understand that two-thirds of the chamber members have given their approval of the chamber's action. How many were opposed?

A. Up to date we have fifteen who have not desired to sign the endorsement. The balance about 100 names are still to be interviewed.

DEFAULT IS ENTERED IN $27,000 NOTE SUIT

Default for failure to appear was entered against Harry A. Cook, P. LeRoy Harwood, George H. Bathgate, William Z. White and Walter S. Garde of New London; W. Ellery Allyn of Waterford and James R. Maxson of Groton in the $27,000 damage suit brought against them by the Industrial Trust Co., of Providence following the hearing of a motion by Judge Christopher L. Avery at Friday's short calendar session of the superior court in New London. The fixing of the judgment will be made at a future hearing.

According to the allegations of the complaint, the Mystic Worcester mills Inc., of Stonington, gave its promissory note for $75,000 to Jarret Bros. Co., of Woonsocket, and all the defendants endorsed the note. The note was given Dec. 30, 1926.

It was further alleged that prior to March 14, 1927, the Jarret Bros. Co., endorsed the note over to the Industrial Trust Co., which claims that there is now due $22,600 on principal and interest.

OFFERING PALMER HOME FOR PRESIDENT'S USE

It was reported in New London Friday that Israel Sack of Boston, who recently purchased Westomere, 493 Pequot avenue, the home of George S. Palmer, has offered the place to President Coolidge for use as a summer white house.

Senator Hiram Bingham has been informed of the offer made by Mr. Sack and the New London place will be in a list which Senator Bingham will present to President Coolidge to show him what places are available should he desire to spend the summer in this section.

Westomere is classed by authorities as one of the 12 finest country houses in America. It is a copy of the famous Colonial house Westover on the James river in Virginia and was built in 1906. The house is furnished with Georgian furniture.

THERMOS FACTORY HAS GOOD SEASON OPENING

With the opening of this year's business for the American Thermos Bottle company, which has just started its 1928 national advertising campaign, a great deal of activity at the factory on Laurel Hill is promised, as the company is far behind with orders which have come in following the introduction of a Thermos bottle which retails for $1.

An official of the company stated Friday night that a very satisfactory business for the season is promised and that the factory has made preparation to meet the demand by accumulating a reserve stock and systematizing production so that at the present time it is prepared to take care of the business without any increase in the force employed.

News of the good business prospect for the company will be learned with considerable gratification by the Norwich public.

Mrs. Clara Roberts, 52, of Waterbury, dropped dead in the Grand street offices of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

POLISH CITIZENS CLUB MAKES MEMBERSHIP GAIN

The Polish Citizens' club held its regular monthly meeting Thursday evening with an estimated attendance of 400, in the meeting rooms in Pulaski hall. President Anthony Grzymkowski, was in charge. As usual, the meeting was opened with the singing of American and Polish anthems. After this, president Grzymkowski, spoke of the loss by death of two members, Joseph Rymsza and Mr. Wilicsewski. Out of respect to them, the members arose and stood in silent prayer for a moment.

Five new members were received in to the membership of the club and 15 new applicants were referred to the investigating committee. This brings the number of voters to 988. Considerable routine business was transacted after which the secretary of the club read a very interesting communication which was prepared for the Polish Daily Record by G. K. Spencer, director of Maritime Air Service, about Poles in the U. S. Navy, as follows:

"There are 6,000 Poles or Americans of Polish descent in the navy, including many officers. A goodly percentage of the cadets at Annapolis are of Polish descent. A touching incident is cited by the author regarding a Polish boy on the U. S. dreadnaught Mississippi, at the time of the explosion in 1923, during which 23 men were killed. The position of this boy's body when found showed that even as he was dying he tried to turn the water on the powder magazines. During one recent year the champions of the heavy and lightweight boxers in the navy were virtually all Poles. Among 223 athletic instructors employed by the U. S. Navy, every third man, according to this authority, is a Pole or of Polish descent. The same situation exists in the engineering department. During the last four years the chiefs of departments on the larger ships have been Poles. The U. S. dreadnaught, West Virginia, which has won a record as one of the very best units of the navy, has a very large percentage of men of Polish origin among both the crew and the officers.

"There are also numerous Poles in the U. S. naval aviation service. Lieutenant E. E. Doleczek, officer of the scouting fleet aviation squadron, who has won several international records, is one of the outstanding men in this service. Another well known name is that of Roger Warnowski, who is known as one of the best parachute jumpers and has to his credit over one hundred successful landings from the sky. It is interesting to note also that among the Poles in the navy there are approximately 1,800 men who previously served in the Polish army in France. Indeed, the descendants of the great Kusciusko and Pulaski, are a valuable asset to the United States of America."

This communication was received with great enthusiasm by the members of the club.

After the business meeting, Stanley Zawislenski spoke in his usual interesting manner on the value of citizenship, the power of the vote and other facts pertaining to good and law abiding citizens. He was followed by Mr. Fydrich, who spoke on the subject of politics. Both speakers received great applause. There were also other speakers who discussed politics and taxation as it is in Norwich. Mr. Romanowski, explained to the members what taxation is in Norwich, what it should be and how other cities levy their taxes. The interesting meeting was closed with the singing of America, and members departed at a late hour.

No. 2 of a series, "Piano Magic at Your Fingertips," will appear in The Bulletin on Saturday, March 3rd. At that time I will also present "The Truth Concerning Keyboard Harmony," quoting eminent musical authorities and challenging any music teacher or musician to refute my statements. On Thursday, March 1st, I will publish an article that will cause much comment among the musical fraternity.

In the meantime, let me suggest that the prejudiced teachers and musicians who are responsible for the bunk, to the effect that the undersigned cannot read notes, plays by ear only, never studied harmony, plays only jazz, cannot play nor teach classical—let me suggest that they put those statements in writing over their own signature and mail to the address below. I am often asked "Is it not jealousy that causes some teachers and musicians to condemn your instruction?" My answer is "No. It is not jealousy—it is Ignorance."

JIMMY M'LARNIN KNOCKS OUT SID TERRIS IN FIRST ROUND AT GARDEN

By Edward J. Neal
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 24.—(AP)—A new fistic sensation—Jimmy McLarnin of the baby Irish face and placid mien—came out of the west tonight and flattened Sid Terris, pride of New York's lightweights, with just two punches.

Labelled as the next lightweight champion and scheduled to battle Sammy Mandell for the crown next summer, the stocky little Celt from the Pacific coast stalked calmly into the Garden ring and before 18,000 spectators—the most doubting fights fans in the world—definitely established his fistic class for all time.

Just Two Punches

There was just a little feinting of the head, a little movement of the shoulders, and a short right hand punch to the chin that put a fear of forked lightning into Terris' heart. Then as Sid tried his left hook, another tiny bolt of leather-lightning, travelling so short a distance that half the spectators missed its flight, crashed full on the point of Terris' chin.

As if his legs suddenly had been cut from under him with a giant scythe, Terris dropped flat on his face, head pillowed in the glove of his right hand, while, the referee tolled ten and the largest crowd of the present indoor season howled in acclaim of an Irish warrior.

The bout lasted but one minute and 47 seconds and even in that short space of time there was little action until the crashing climax. Terris, a bounding, dancing bolt of speed, shot out to set the pace at the opening gong.

He did, too, for over a minute, while McLarnin stalked him carefully, rolling his head from Terris' leads with both hand cocked for the kill. Almost at the start, Jimmy sent a whistling right past Sid's ear that brought a pained expression to the bounding one's face.

Then Terris landed a left hook, his sole offensive contribution of the evening. A flurry on the ropes, the bound back to the center of the ring, and then the flash of leather—and the thud of Terris' fall from the front ranks of the lightweight contenders.

McLarnin Gets Great Ovation

For minutes after the battle was over, the huge throng pressed close to the ringside and cheered McLarnin who had just downed the Ghetto's pride. Finally, as Terris wept quietly in his corner, McLarnin was seized, placed high on the mob's shoulders, and carried away in triumph. Terris was unconscious almost five minutes from the finishing punch and had to be carried from the ring.

The downfall of Terris, came as quite a shock to the spectators. The New York speedster was a 6 to 5 favorite entering the ring. Both scaled 133 1-2 pounds for the battle, with McLarnin at that weight, settling all claim that he had grown out of the lightweight class.

The paid attendance was 17,930 and the gross receipts $91,935.25, setting an indoor record for the present season.

Preliminaries

Sammy Dorfman, East Side featherweight, slammed Chick Suggs, New Bedford, Mass., Negro into defeat in an eight round semi-final. Dorfman scaled 127 1-2, Suggs 124. Dorfmann dropped the Downeaster for a count of nine with a left hook in the first round and punished him severely throughout.

JACK DELANEY HAS HIS HEAVIEST WORKOUT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 24—(AP)—Eight rounds of boxing with three sparring mates combined with seven rounds of other work gave Jack Delaney his heaviest workout here today in the training grind for his bout with Tom Heeney, next Thursday. Billy Vidabeck was added to the list of sparring partners and went three rounds for the former light heavyweight champion. Paul Cavalier also went three and Pietro Corri traveled two.

Punching of the light and heavy bags, work on the weights and calisthenics completed the workout. It was announced by his trainer, Eddie (Doc) Casey, that Jack has reached his peak in condition and the tapering off process will go into effect today. Delaney will in all probability, work but little tomorrow, taking a jaunt through Seaside Park and he may not work out in the gym. Sunday will find him back again in the gymnasium, but little boxing is listed for the next few days.

Delaney weighed slightly more than 131 pounds today, Casey said, following the workout, and was barely breathing hard. The former light heavyweight title holder said he was feeling fine and believes he will knock out Heeney Thursday night.

'BOUT SPORTS

Windham went up to Rockville Thursday afternoon to play basketball. Before the game Coach Callaghan called attention to the fact that a Rockville player or two had played with an independent team the night before and were therefore ineligible to perform. The Rockville coach removed the one player that was around, (the other boy was reported sick) and went on with a changed lineup. It turned out, however, that the Rockville coach had wind also of Windham players, having performed with outside teams and he protested the tilt. What will come out of it is not known, but it tinges of the Academy-Chapman Tech game last March.

Action of this kind by Callaghan, Windham mentor is hard to understand when it is taken into consideration that his captain, Eddie Nichols performed many weeks with the Plainfield Pros or, at least, was on the squad, and played once in a while.

The defeat of the Gammas in the Senior church league was quite a surprise last night. This team of youngsters had been beating them all up to their tilt last evening. They were missing Stevens, maybe, that was the cause.

BASEBALL NEWS

PIRATE FLINGERS START CURVING THEM AT CAMP

PASO ROBLES, Calif., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Battery men of the Pittsburgh Pirates romped through a snappy two hour workout today, with both the regular and rookie moundsmen putting "something" on the ball.

Burleigh Grimes, acquired in the Vic Aldridge trade from the New York Giants, was throwing a nice curve, while John Miljus, another regular, worked a fast ball and a change of pace. Fred Fussell, recruit left hander, up from the Texas league, attracted attention with a fast drop ball.

Joe Harris, heavy hitting first baseman, was out on the field today. He is the first of the regular infielders or outfielders to report. Harris, who was ill during part of last season, informed Manager Donie Bush that his health is better than at any time in years. He weighs 187 pounds. The first slugger came here from Olympia, Wash., where he visited with Ira Flagstead of the Boston Red Sox.

The twenty-odd players in camp turned out for practice today with not a sore arm or case of illness in evidence, old timers with the team say that is a record for the number of days they have been training.

REDS EMBARK THIS MORNING FOR ORLANDO

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Manager Jack Hendricks and eleven players will leave for the Cincinnati Reds training camp at Orlando, Fla., tomorrow morning.

The group will include eight pitchers, Red Lucas, Eppa Rixey, Ray Kolp, Pete Jablonowski, Dick Wykoff, Jimmy Beckman, Larry Arnzen and Bill Miller; Charles Dressen and Clarke Pittenger, infielders; and Ethan Allen, outfielder. All except Beckman, Arnzen and Miller are of last year's team.

Rube Bressler, who makes his home in Cincinnati, has not yet signed and will not go with the initial squad.

The squad will reach Orlando Sunday afternoon. Several other players will join them there, going direct from their homes.

DEMPSEY "RETIREMENT OLD STORY" TO TEX RICKARD

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—The return of Tex Rickard, fistic impressario, to the familiar haunts of Madison Square Garden added new "color" to the surroundings today but little in the way of information.

Bearing a coat of tan "inches thick" from exposure to five weeks of Miami weather, Rickard seemed loath to discuss heavyweights and their eccentricities until fully acclimated. In fact the most important "revelation" he had to offer was that the "big news" of Jack Dempsey's retirement, revealed in Miami weeks ago, was in reality a matter of record before the promoter left New York.

Rickard made public a telegram received from Dempsey Jan. 14 in answer to an urgent plea that the former champion undertake his annual comeback against Gene Tunney in June. The answer received four days before Tex left for the south, said:

"Don't think it advisable to fight anymore."

A. A. U. MEET TONIGHT THREATENS SEVEN RECORDS

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Seven world's records are expected to take considerable punishment—and perhaps a finishing blow—at the Amateur Athletic union's national indoor track and field championships in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

The assault will be directed chiefly at the marks for the 70 yard high hurdles, 300 yards run, 1,000 yards event and medley relay but the records for the pole vault, 16-pound shot and running high jump also will be threatened.

PLAINFIELD PROS TO MEET RENAISSANCE WEDNESDAY

The Plainfield Pros will tackle the Renaissance Big Five of New York city for the second time this season next Wednesday night at the Plainfield Community House. The Harlem five beat the Comunity Housers in the first engagement but since then Plainfield has improved and hopes run high for a win.

The visitors will have all their regulars who have done so well against all kinds of opposition. The Buddies will meet South Manchester in the preliminary.

ARMY LOSES CENTER FOR PROBABLY LAST NAVY GAME

WEST POINT, N. Y., Feb. 24—(AP)—The Army's basketball team will be without the services of its star center, Flood, in the game with the Navy here tomorrow. Flood was called home today by illness in his family and will not be back in time to play in what probably will be the last Army-Navy court battle in some time, due to the athletic break effective after this season.

BUDDIES TO PLAY AMATEUR RULES ON PLAINFIELD FLOOR

In an effort to get the fans acquainted with amateur rules, the Plainfield Buddies will, starting Wednesday in their game with South Manchester campaign under this code. The Pros will still use the professional rules. The Buddies have done exceptionally well so far this year, winning 18 in 22 games, most of them under the pro playing system.

PITCHERS FOREMOST AMONG THE HOLDOUTS

ATLANTA, Feb. 24—(AP)—The problem of pitchers who might be classed as holdouts, usually the first thorn in the side of major league managers, continues to harass some baseball bosses as the initial week of the 1928 training season draws to a close, but so far as the Washington Senators are concerned, Clark Griffith has only one of his regulars to worry about.

Griffith was notified at Tampa today by Fred Marberry and Garland Braxton, both counted on for regular mound duty, that they had agreed to terms and were starting for the training camp to sign contracts. With Tom Zachary having signed earlier in the week, only "Sad Sam" Jones remains away from the fold.

He, however, with several other flingers from various clubs, has until March 1 to make known his intentions, an earlier managerial edict having pronounced that none would be considered actual holdouts until that date.

Among other pitchers from whom no word has been received and whose contracts are unsigned are Flint Rhem, of the St. Louis Cardinals; Jimmy Ring of the Phils; Dazzy Vance of the Brooklyn Robins; Waite Hoyt of the New York Yankees and Charlie Ruffing of the Boston Red Sox.

Possible holdouts in other departments will not begin to concern managers until full squads report after March 1.

Meanwhile, the training programme of virtually all clubs on the ground continues in preliminary stages and probably will not be accelerated for another week when second squads reinforce the Cardinals at Avon Park; the Braves at St. Petersburg; the Phils at Winter Haven; Athletics at Fort Myers; Senators at Tampa; Browns at Palm Beach and Red Sox at Bradenton. It will be Sunday before camps are opened by the Yankees at St. Petersburg; Robins at Clearewater and Cincinnati Reds at Orlando, although a small squad of Brooklynites is expected tomorrow morning.

Of the training activities so far, the Braves and the Cardinals have set the fastest pace, including besides the daily workout with medicince ball, batting and fielding practice, abbreviated games between patched up lineups.

Some of the other clubs are taking matters easy as a part of the schedule, but the Athletics have been somewhat handicapped thus far by the annual fair at their training grounds. Cold weather enforced another day of idleness today for the Cleveland Indians.

DAVIDSON SEES SUCCESS FOR NEW ENGLAND LOOP

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—President Claude B. Davidson, of the New England Baseball league announced tonight that the next meeting of the league would take place March 1, at Salem. He said that there was no doubt that the league would operate again this year and added that he did not expect any changes in the circuit.

Davidson, who acquired the franchise of the Waterbury club of the Eastern league recently and announced that he would transfer it to Worcester, said that the franchise had not been transferred to Fall River as reported. Davidson said that although he had given Richard Rudolph an option on the franchise, the option expired before any deal was made. Lack of a suitable playing field would be the only thing that would prevent Worcester from having an Eastern league club this year, Davidson said.

RECORD CROWD OF 1200 SEES BANNER CARD OF AMATEURS AT STATE ARMORY

The largest crowd that has witnessed an indoor show in town filled the Armory last night and was well repaid by an excellent boxing card staged by the Duwell A. C. About 1200 fans saw their Norwich favorites win their fights and the delegation from Worcester also coming through with a good percentage.

At a fast first round the bout between Young Luzzio of Westerly and Vernon Cormier of Worcester terminated at the bell for the second round when the Westerly lad was unable to continue due to a bad cut over the eye. Cormier dropped Luzzio for a short count in the first but Luzzio was going along good until his eye closed. Cormier won on a technical K. O. They were flyweights.

The second bout was also unfortunately stopped at the end of the second. Lon Patrone of Worcester entered the ring with a strip of adhesive tape over each eye, and in a mixup reopened the old cut which bled profusely and the bout was stopped, giving the fight to Al Dowd of South Manchester, the only Silk City lad to win his fight. Both boys were going at it at a fast pace with Dowd having the edge with a nicely timed right uppercut. Dowd weighed 125 and Patrone one pound less.

The feature bout of the card was the third go between Joe Bontempo of Jewett City and Frankie Adams of Norwich. And what a bout that was. The fans were on their toes throughout waiting for first one and then the other to drop. They started off with both boys throwing science to the winds and standing toe and toe and slugging sending home hard punches until both were rather weary. Bontempo with a fast left and a nice right cross set Adams back on his heels in the first and it was due only to his good condition that he didn't go down. The second round found him somewhat stronger and again it was a case of the survival of the fittest. First one and then the other would have the advantage. Adams somewhat solved Bontempo's style but couldn't get away from his left. Both boys were tired at the bell. The third round was somewhat slower than the first two but they battled every inch of the way, without a letup. The judges decided in Adam's favor which certainly met with plenty of disapproval by the fans, who did not hesitate to boo and jeer. It is said that they will be rematched at the next show. Both weighed 128 pounds.

Johnny Kop, the hard hitting Norwich featherweight, won handily from good looking Elner Hermans of Worcester who was not strong enough to take the Norwich boy's punches without going down. He dropped twice in the first round and again in the second and managed to last the fight out by bicycling around. He was game at that. He weighed 126 to Kop's 127.

The fifth go started off like it was doomed to be the comedy bout. Geo. Chase, a fat boy from Danielson, however fooled the crowd by winning from Manuel Rose of Stonington. The referee had to warn them to get going in the first and Manuel tried to get George to come to him to fight. Rose landed some hard punches in the first but Chase seemed to have the faculty of getting in side of them and landing a right slap to Rose's ribs. The Danielson lad started off in the second and set Rose on his heels and as long as he took the offensive he swarmed all all over Rose. He shot in some stiff blows to the rugged Stonington boy's midsection and which were not particularly relished and took many hard blows in return which did not apparently effect him in the last. The judges elected a draw at the end and the extra round went to the Danielson lad who was given the decision. His superfluous obesity notwithstanding, he was in very good shape at the end. Manuel tipped the scales at 169 and George 165.

The next go brought together Alex Soquet of Danielson and Charles Miller of So. Manchester. Miller depended on his right hand to land while Alex did about all the real fighting. He hurt his hand in the first but that did not stop him from left-handing Miller around the ring and crossing hard rights to the jaw. Soquet won by a big margin. He weighed 142 and Miller 146.

Frankie Visiglio of Westerly made short work of Harry Madden of So. Manchester. Madden's southpaw stance did not bother Frankie a bit and he swarmed over him and without giving him a chance to land a blow sent him to dreamland in the first round. Both weighed 118.

Al Koziol, the Norwich favorite, had his hands full with Ollie Koski of Worcester but managed to make him quit at the end of the second, after knocking him down for eight counts twice in the first and three times in the second. But while Koski was on his feet he made it interesting for Al. He got in some stiff right uppercuts to Koziol's jaw which staggered him on several occasions. But Koziol would not let his man get set. He kept right on top of him as is usual with his style and finally wore him down gaining a technical K. O. when the Worcester boy refused to answer the bell for the third round.

The next bout showed one of the classiest little men that has boxed hereabouts, Ero Peterson of Worcester who incidentally is New England junior champion in his class. He won over Rene Peloquin of Danielson who did not seem to fight his usual fine battle. Peterson kept a left to Peloquin's jaw who tried to rush to get close and land his right. Peterson also used a nice cross to perfection, and won without much trouble. Peterson weighed 118 and the former 115.

The final bout was also a slugging affair between Joe Bruno of Westerly and George Brusso of Worcester. The Worcester lad remaining cool and calm took all that Bruno had and after tiring him out outslugged him for the next two rounds to gain the judges decision. This was a good bout and had the fans on edge particularly in the first round when the Westerly lad had Brusso against the ropes and was rocking him with hard lefts and rights. They were welterweights.

Frankie Busch came down from So. Manchester to officiate as referee, and did the job in his usual excellent fashion. The judges were Mike Kelly and Jack Sweeney. Jack Carney saw to it that the rounds did not go too long. Bill Pedace, he of the golden voice, was the official announcer and he, too, made good.

Hank Gowdy Traded

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Hank Gowdy, former major league veteran catcher, was traded today by the Minneapolis American association club along with a cash consideration, for Firmin Warwick of the Rochester International leaguers. Warwick saw brief service with the St. Louis Nationals in 1926.

FAST CARD OF EIGHT BOUTS AT WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 24.—Some 500 fight fans sat in on a fast card of eight bouts given at the Al Pierre Tabarin given here tonight by the Windham A. C. The lust for punishment was given satisfaction in 40 seconds of the first round of the opening bout when Kid LaVallee of Willimantic, a tough ex-sailor, knocked out his opponent, Kid Sylvia. The bout was in the 122 pound class.

Jack Remer, 138, of Hartford, lost the second bout on a decision to Mickey Price, 135, of New London in a hard fought battle. Remer was losing blood during the three rounds, showing gameness but was outboxed. Referee Connelly of New London called for another round but Remer refused to go on.

The third bout was a classy exhibition between Leo Roulleite, 137, of Hartford and Vic Darr, 134, of Norwich. Roulette was awarded the decision on points.

The next bout brought together Young Bicknell, 126, speedly local boy and Jack Kapinsky, of Hartford. The Hartford boy proved aggressive and took the first round. In the second Young Bicknell went into slaughtering manoeuvers and was hurting Kapinsky. He fouled twice twice, however, with a clinch around the neck that threw the Capitol city fighter to the canvas. On the second foul Referee Connelly awarded the fight to Kapinsky.

Trenor Rice of North Windham entered as referee for the fifth and sixth bouts. In the fifth go Mush Moriarty, 142, Norwich battler, met a puzzling adversary in Young Mangual, 144, of New London. Mangua's style met with the approval of the fans. Moriarty fought hard and the three rounds was declared a draw. An extra round was called for and Mangual took the verdict.

Steve Polinsky, 122, a little whirlwind of Colchester, met his old ring opponennt, Young Burrows, 122, of New London, in the sixth bout. These two flashy amateurs were fighting to a draw until the third round when Polinsky let loose in a fierce attack and copped the decision by a wide margin.

A pairing of youthful fighting cocks were pitted in the seventh bout when Kid Lewis, 117 of Norwich, met Battling Dunk, 118 of this city. Captain Frank McLean, veteran ringmaster, went in as refere, but in following thes game boys boys around he discovered much to the merriment of the crowd that his footwork had slowed somewhat in the past 15 years. The three rounds were furiously fought and the crowd roared its approval. Sidesplitting laughter shook the hall as Referee McLean good naturedly took several haymakers on the button as he labored after the battling kids. The decision was awarded to Lewis.

The closing exhibition brought together the popular Mike Campanion, 158, of New London and Tony Marco, 152, of Hartford. Backed by the crowd the Whale City lad plowed in and worked out of Marco's many ring tactics. Companion took the decision.

The officials were: Danie F. Daly and H N Bullard, judges; W. E. Jackson, timekeeper; Albert Pichle, announcer.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Feb. 24—Connecticut ran rough-shod over Norwich university here tonight winning 39 to 17 in a one-sided and very uninteresting game. Connecticut so far outclassed the visitors that the varsity team was only in the game ten of the 40 minutes of play. The remainder of the game was played by the reserves who held the Norwich team in check. Close guarding and defensive play featured the Aggies' play. Norwich scored its first field goal after 27 minutes of play on a long shot.

This team won a close game from the locals at Colchester Thursday on a small court that worked all in their favor. However, tonight at the Y the Red and White is conceded an even chance of victory.

The locals showed poor basketball this week after playing one of their best games to down Deep River here last Saturday. Tonight there is a chance to redeem in part.

Both teams expect to start their strongest lineups. Bacon has run up quite a string of wins this year and she comes in high hopes of continuing on this road while the locals, with their backs to the wall, are determined to fight to the end.

A preliminary between the C. F. C. and New London Emeralds is slated for 8 o'clock with the main game at 9 p. m.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

TRUE FRIENDS ARE THE WHOLE WORLD TO ONE ANOTHER

FROM WESTMINSTER TO HAMPTON

Dear Social Corner Friends: I am going to try to recall names of people who lived from schoolhouse in Westminster and on road to Hampton and am willing to accept corrections. Right of schoolhouse stands a large house, used to be occupied by Rev. Mr. Hazen and Mr. Butts. Mr. Hazen had a son Steadman away to college who came home and died with measles. Their daughter Elizabeth used to wear a large leghorn hat with a strip of narrow ribbon fastened to crown in front and as she tripped across the green to church used to hold the ribbon in her hand, thus confining the front of the hat over her face. Think this ribbon was called a bridle. Mr. Butts had a son Ass.

From church on right side of street was a large house, the Carter place. It was a small house, and there were Carter girls. Across the road a nice house built by Peter Spicer for a tavern in the days when stages ran from Hartford to Providence via Westminster. It had a hall for dancing. The house of late years had been used for a parsonage. It was one of the best looking places in Westminster, and such a loss to the society when consumed by fire. Between the two roads still stands the Park-Spicer homestead, occupied by a granddaughterof Peter Spicer. Across the road stood the Waterman Brown house (since burned), but in the '60s there was a large building where Mr. Brown made wagons, sleighs, etc., giving employment to carpenters, blacksmiths and painters—really quite a business center. Passing the private cemetery of the Spicers, we came to the Burnett family. The children were Ella, Alice, Willie and Phebe. I sat with Ella in school and well remember the old-style desks and our seeing for the first time in our young lives what is called an inchworm, found often while huckleberrying. This one was on top of our desk and we had all we could do to keep from laughing out loud to see his peculiar action in traveling. Ella died with scarlet fever and the family moved to Greeneville. That house was afterwards owned by the Lovetts, with nice children.

Norman Appley occupied the house on left, always well painted and the outside kept up in neat and orderly condition. Sarah Gilbert came to school from this nice farmhouse. George Ray lived near, sending son George and Marion to school taught by T. K. Peck. Henry Green lived quite a little distance from the road—house recently burned. Sara, Hannah, Abbie and Amos attended school. Down the hill used to be a sawmill owned by Jeremiah Green, the house in after years occupied by his son Albert and wife, with eight children to be proud of. The place was sold and they are now living in Danielson.

Going up a little hill, we find the Mason Morse place. There used to be a short cut from this place over to Pudding hill. Over it once was quite sufficient. Rough hardly expresses the true condition of the road. Journeying on quite a distance to a lonely spot, but well kept, we find the Hosea Hibbard place, his son Fry remaining there to the end. Quite a little distance along the shady road we came to the Vaznum place, a small house, and the Wythe place, up high and dry on a rocky foundation. In a fine location stands the nice residence of Mr. Starkweather, whose son Henry attended fall school on Hampton hill. The Samuel Church place is next in line. He had a nice family to occupy the home and to make the world better, some of Mr. Church's descendants filling business positions creditably. Henry Snow and Giles Snow, his son, located near the historical Atwood tavern. Have a neighbor who still recalls the many hours of pleasure spent there in the old house. Here are four corners—but keep straight ahead, a fine shady road—and notice the small grove where the Sabbath school of the Congregational church held a picnic. It may have been on July 4. Passing on, we find quite a little sand. Up quite a hill we find a big white house occupied by Wolcott Carey. Josephine married Henry Holt. The sons were Julian, Clinton and Will. The last two attended fall school on hill taught by Edward Bennett and Rieni Rodinson. Mr. Cary sold the place to John Congdon of Willimantic and the Carey family moved on to the hill. After passing South cemetery, we find where Mr. Beers lived. There used to be a shop by the brook and a pattern of scallops which used to beautify a cottage on the hill came from the old building. Joseph Clark became the owner later. In the large house on the left side, only remember Henry Burnham and wife commenced housekeeping there. Judge Burnham in after years. The small white house opposite was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Abbott. He was a carpenter of whom the story was said to be true that going out of town to work and upon being asked his name by the woman with whom he was to board, replied: A, two bb's-o-two tt's. It was said she considered him peculiar. His son Henry lived in New York and in the '60s came to Hampton with a span of horses, carriage and driver. Mr. Troy and family lived in the next house. They held picnics in the grove between this place and the next, which was Lucius Greenslit's, with a son Edward. The mother always looked prim and walked with a measured tread in church. Over their garden wall was a pear tree, ever bearing, at least it always hung full in season of such delicious fruit, but never knew of it being molested. Children could look and see, but not touch. If you really wanted a taste, you must go and ask. When you did you were never refused a reasonable amount. Satisfied, you never asked for more the same season.

These were bright spots in childhood days.

Sorry Whirlwind's mother is ill, and glad to read letter from Foxglove. I enjoy all letters. To specify certain ones. I fear I might hurt the feelings of some dear members. The recipe I like. CRETIA.

"CALIFORNIA."

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editors: I wish I could send a map of California so you could see the distances I have traveled and more to come. My nieces drives an Oakland car and is very good to take us on trips when she has the time; her time is pretty busy with violin pupils.

Since writing I have been up to Ventura about 60 miles toward San Francisco, through mountain passes, canyons, fertile valleys and deserts up into the Simi mountains.

At Newhall we drove right through a mountain tunnel; past the home of "Ramona." Many of you remember the novel of that name we loved to read in our younger days; but most impressive of all we followed for some distance the 'old wagon road' traveled by the "Forty-niners." Believe me after nearly 80 years of progress to see that wicked road, so rough, so bleak, while just above a macadam road follows along as smooth as a floor, was interesting. Maybe some of your ancestors were among the prospectors. Way up high at "Ojai" (pronounced Ohi) was a gorgeous view over the loveliest fertile valley I have ever seen. Thousands of acres of oranges, lemons, walnuts, olives, apricots, peaches, avocadoes and all kinds of garden vegetables. While all the houses and hedges hung with roses and posies. When lilacs are in bloom it is said to be a fairyland, not our large eastern variety, but the lacy ones. I hope to see the desert abloom with wild flowers. By all descriptions they are wonderful.

From this point one would not think the calm Pacific near, but after threading our way around and around the glorious Pacific ocean opens before you. We stayed all night and came home by the coast road.

The last of the week an old friend from Massachusetts invited me to go on a "real estate land trip" to Dana Point about 60 miles towards San Diego. We went in a lovely Nash car over the same wonderful roads by "San Juan Capistrano Mission" where I hope to stop some day. I have just been reading of the missions along the coast 400 years ago and what wonderful things they did and endured in trying to uplift the Indians. It is very interesting to step into them and see what remains. Some are in good condition and some sad.

At Dana Point was a beautiful view of the ocean. Off here "Two Years Before the Mast" was written by Dana.

We were given a nice lunch but not like our Social Corner dinners and came home by the coast through many oil fields with hundreds of huge derricks pumping oil right out of the land and sea.

I was told I could stand and have the Pacific ocean at the "east" of me and it was true. Add to all these trips movies, plays, musicals, shopping and visiting and time flies fast.

I went to see Winona. She too is having lovely rides and trips, outdoing me in many ways. She looks fine and likes very much, but still clings to Rhode Island. It is a pretty good place after all.

I appreciate all the letters and cards I have received and tried to return one to everybody. I am glad so far you have had so fine a winter and hope to see you all in the spring.

BLANDINA.

MISS WRITERS OF LONG AGO

Dear Corner Members: Well we are getting what The Cloud Diger wrote we would get in snow toward the last of February. The old saying must be true. My mother used to say winter never rotted in the sky and it must be so for we surely got a good fall of snow this month.

What a nice meeting we had on Feb. 14. Everything went off fine, each doing her part. It did seem nice to see so many visitors who remained the entire program and visited after it was over. I hope that we do as well on March 13 as it usually is our anniversary of the Social Corner page, not club anniversary as a great many think it is. It falls to my lot with the regular duty to act as hostess.

Well I don't worry about that for each hostess always has plenty to come forward and offer to help her so that everything moves off smoothly. I hope to see a good many of our old writers writing during anniversary month.

I miss the writers of long ago who have set back for new ones to do their work. As one writer says: Sign your club No. so to see what club does the most writing to help keep our page full.

Everybody from here to yonder looks for the Eastern Voluntown correspondence letters and so they do the Social Corner letters, so don't disappoint them.

I was sorry today to hear of the sudden death of Melba (Mrs. Leonard Staubley). Our sympathy goes out to her husband and children as well as to the lone sister, Trula, who in her poor health must brave the shock of her sister's death, the second one of her sisters to pass away so quickly in a few years.

Onondague: Your letter I received on my return from Social Corner meeting. Glad you are feeling better.

Scottie: Hope you will be O. K and able to get to the next Corner meeting.

Cinderella: Also hope you will be up and able to be present. Was sorry to learn you were down and out. You are so active in everything, but guess this is a sick month. Son has been home a few days sick.

Old Glory: Be on hand to help me. Best wishes to all.

CALLA LILY. (Nov. 25. Club. No. 2.)

THANKS FROM EFFIE M.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to thank all those sending me cards on my birthday, also on the 21st, Princess Alice for the pleasant thoughts of the 16th and Alfara for card.

Country Sister: I think of you and violin.

True Blue: That just hit the spot, thanks also for card.

Y. Y.: Way down in Stonington, thanks.

Whirlwind also Foxglove: Come in March if you can.

Nema: You never forget. I look back at my little pigs with pleasure.

Euchre: Yes, I start the next mile with a smile but hope no surprises at the end.

Marigold: My thanks, and Elnore, you too remember.

Nannie Lue: Was glad to hear from you and thanks. In hopes to see you this spring.

Phillis: Thanks and the same for old man.

Freelove: You must get next always and then a good time.

Chocolate: Thanks for the silver anniversary card.

In hopes to see you all in March.

EFFIE M.

ATTENDS CLUB NO. 6 MEETING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I went to the meeting of Club No. 6 with Mila and Lucille Drew. I had a nice dinner and there was a fine programme, which meant work for all who took part.

Effie M.: I do not know about lye being used to make paper stick, but know it will stick all right if you get any on your flesh.

Whoever suggested building a new fire before dumping out unburned coal was a very good idea as I tried it and it wasn't half the work.

With best wishes for all who are in sorrow or trouble and sickness.

COSMOS.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

LEDA: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

TRUE BLUE: Information sent to Thread City.

BLANDINA: Many thanks. Most attractive.

MARTHA VEAZIE: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

IRIS: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

SANDY: You have been enrolled as a Corner member.

COULD NOT ATTEND CLUB MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: So sorry I had to miss the meeting of Club No. 3 this last time, but health comes first, so could not go. I thought of you just the same and know you must have had a jolly time as we always do.

True Blue: Many thanks for your kindness in remembering me and I know you must have been very tired.

Scottie: How are you? You and I can sympathize with each other in not being able to attend the Corner gathering, but hope you are recovering from your accident.

Chelsea: Thought you had forgotten all about me, but am glad you had not.

Chocolate: Hope you and son did not miss the bus that Sunday. Hubby had to go to Stafford Springs last week and how I did wish I could have ridden as far as your place.

My sympathy goes out to all who are ill at this time, or in trouble of any kind. Then is the time we realize just who our tried and true friends are. The old saying is a true one, "A friend in need is a friend indeed." What would we do without our friends to cheer and buoy us up when sickness or trouble comes. Of course we always cherish our friends at all times, but I think we appreciate them fully as much, if not more, when sickness and sorrow come to us, for it is then that we need close friends if we ever need them, and I certainly do appreciate all my good friends.

Will close with this little poem, which I think is very pretty:

"Little by little the time goes by
Short if you sing through it, long if you sigh,
Little by little—an hour, a day,
Gone with the years that have vanished away.
Little by little the race is run;
Trouble and wanting and toil are done.

Little by little the skies grow clear;
Little by little the sun comes near;
Little by little the days smile out,
Gladder and brighter on pain and doubt;
Little by little the seed we sow
Into a beautiful yield will grow.

Little by little the world grows strong,
Fighting the battle of right and wrong
Little by little the wrong gives way,
Little by little the right has sway;
Little by little all longing souls
Struggle up nearer the shining goals."

With best wishes to the Editor and all the Corner Sisters, I am as ever

WRITES BELATED LETTER

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Now I will try and write this letter that I have been going to write for more than a year. Yes and a good long one, I am ashamed to say. I know of several sisters and some that are not members have been looking for a letter from me. They said I bet you are writing under another name. But here the letter goes such as it is.

Honeysuckle: Don't you think that Cal Girl ought to get busy and write a letter? Also Golden Rod.

Red Cedar: Well, how are you since you had that fall. I hope better. I called up on the phone one day to hear from you but no one answered.

Eva's Girl: You have me guessing now. Who are you? I think I know but not sure, I will find you out some day.

Do any of the sisters have a house plant by the name Gloryloruna. It is an old plant I was told. I hear they are hard to get. I know a girl friend of mine had one and it died. She had a slip given her after the large plant died and she says they are hard to raise. I would love to get a slip and would be willing to pay for it. I have looked in all of my catalogues to find one.

Diana: You will receive the money as soon as I get it from that lady in the country. She has not been to the city yet on account of sickness.

Bonie: Do you know who I am? I know your sister. She may know who I am if she remembers my pen name. She asked me once what it was. I told her. How I would like to attend the Corner meeting in Putnam at the M. E. church. As I am Methodist I was in that church once to a convention.

Ted: I will make what you asked me for the next corner meeting, but don't say it will be first class. I think it will be some heavy to carry a mile. Sometime I am going to try and go to Club No. 6 corner meeting in Westerly. I have a girl friend there somewhere. I will have to look her up.

Lavender: Some day I am coming to the store to see you about something. I hope you will be in.

I am glad the lady that was remembered on her 81st birthday received so many cards and wish she could have had more. A lady friend of my mother's got up a birthday card shower the month before she died and she had 62 cards. She was 72 years old. She looked them over and over a good many times. I think it is good to remember old people at such a time.

Well I must close hoping all the sick ones are better and the sad comforted.

WHITE CLOVER. (Club No. 1).

WRITES SISTER READY.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: If I write once more I shall be writing quite often. We are having just a taste of winter weather here.

Anastasia: Aunt Jo's address is Peterboro, N. H. I know she will be pleased to hear from you. I thank you.

Scottie: I am so glad you are improving.

Rose of New England: I am glad you and the little one are doing so well. I will surely call later.

White Dawn: Hope you are better.

Arbutus: One more to love and think of.

Sweet William: Why not drop us a line. I know you are busy.

Georgette: Do come again. Perhaps I will have time to visit with you next time.

Aunty No. 1: That was one on me.

I trust all Social Corner members that are sick will soon be better.

Best wishes from

SISTER READY.

SALUTATIONS FROM IRMA

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I have not written lately, but I lay aside my work and read the Social Corner page every Saturday morning as soon as the paper arrives.

I attended Club No. 4's meeting held in Danielson and had a fine time.

Moses' Wife: I haven't seen Mr. and Mrs. Felix since you and I called together.

Hollyhock: Why don't you come and spend the day? The sausage are fine.

Fan-Tan: I thank you for the package received some time ago.

Avon: How about that Esquimaux belt?

Plum: Hope you are feeling better.

Sayrena: Hope you will be able to attend the meeting, March 1, in Putnam.

Aries: Thanks for the valentine.

Best wishes to all.

IRMA.

MEMBERS SHOULD WRITE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: What a nice day Feb. 21 was for Club No. 6's meeting. It was a little cool in the early morning but just enough to make you step lively.

I want to thank all for the liberal supply of nice food for the club dinner. I also want thank Topsy, Tish, Sumac and Pyrophregm for helping to serve the dinner and American Girl for the fine program in the afternoon.

I have a work basket, blue and white plate, a small white nappy, knife and spoon. I will bring them at the next meeting.

Bonnie Bell: You certainly gave the W. R. C. a fine time on their anniversary day.

Sumac: Have you found the lost letter yet. Sorry that you lost out on Monday.

Members of club No. 6 get busy and write letters for the Corner page. Don't leave it for two or three to do. Best wishes to all.

BEERS (Club No. 6

SYSTEM IN THE SEWING ROOM.

Dear Cornerites: Nowhere in the average home is there less system, perhaps, than in the sewing room. Patterns are thrust indiscriminately into a bag; tapes, lace and all the odds and ends required in sewing are stuffed into a drawer; buttons of every kind and sizes thrust all in one box, or, worse still, in a bag. Many precious minutes are wasted searching wearily the different drawers for various small articles which should be right at hand.

A great deal of this worry may be eliminated by applying system to the sewing requisites, as well as to the other household tasks.

A great improvement on the old fashioned pattern bag is a pattern cabinet. This may be made by any Social Corner member or a handy man. It is simply a series of pigeon holes 6x6x9 inches, the number depending on the size of the family and the number of patterns required. This may be made of light wood and hung by means of strong picture wire. Give it two coats of white paint and one of enamel, to match the table. Under each pigeon hole paint the name of a member of the family in black paint.

Then you'll be able to pick out Ruth's dress or John's coat without much trouble. At one side screw brass hooks for scissors; on the other side a small book in which each member of the family should have a page or pages as required, for bust and waist measure, skirt length, collar measure, etc. Then when you are rushing to finish Ruth's dress before dark, and cannot remember her sleeve length, you can consult your little book instead of wasting time calling her from her play, and waiting for her.

I saw once an up-to-date method that was a card board box that will fit in the pigeon hole and use the filing system cards may be bought cheaply in any stationary store and by keeping your records on them, you can tell at a glance what you wish to know. Children's measurements change at a most amazing rate and the cards may simply be thrown away when they out grow the measurements.

Hints for altering childrens clothes and sewing hints of all kinds that you may see in magazines may be clipped and pasted on these little cards thereby saving valuable information that would otherwise be mislaid or forgotten.

Spool boxes make good ones for buttons. Paste a piece of white paper over each end, and write plainly the kind of buttons each box contains. Have one for small pearl, large pearl, pants buttons, etc. These may be kept in the chest of drawers or in the cabinet as you prefer.

A good mirror is much needed; a dress form gives invaluable aid to the woman who makes her own suits and dresses and a shirt marker is a great convenience. Waist and skirt hangers should be provided to hold unfinished garments to keep them from crushing.

As a rule an ordinary chair is too low for the average woman therefore she tires quickly. I used to buy chairs to fit those who sewed for me for some were short, others were quite tall and the same style of chair doesn't fit everyone. A desk chair or a swivel is an ideal for the machine. Care should be taken that the machine is in a good light otherwise there is a strain on the eyes especially when working on dark colored material.

Cheese cloth makes excellent curtains for a sewing room, they should be tied back so as to let in all the light possible or hung straight at the sides with a balance across the top.

The floor should either be of hard wood or stained and varnished (light oak is good) linoleum is a good floor covering as a floor covered in this manner is so easily kept clean and threads and scraps of material will not stick as they do to a rug. A waste basket should be near at hand. You will soon learn the importance of having system in every part of the home.

One sister asked what is character? The dictionary says, "distinctive qualities, moral excellence." One of its synonyms is given as "reputation." I find that no one word explains character, for it includes many definitions. When we say a certain one "has character" Betty Cliff says, "We are groping rather helplessly for the right description; yet every one knows what we mean."

R. C. G: To remove water stains on a canton crepe dress the following method has been used successfully. Lay the garment on the ironing board right side up: over the stain lay a clean, dry cloth; over this cloth lay a damp cloth and lightly hold the iron of the same, (have the iron warm). The idea is to steam. I would try this on the hem the wrong side of the dress first.

I hope those who have requested answers will not get discouraged waiting.

KITTY LOU

FINE FRITTERS.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members:—I take great pleasure in reading the Social Corner letters each week. I hope the members are all ready for our next meeting, March 1. We had such a lovely time at Danielson and a wonderful dinner.

I hope all of the members of Club No. 4 will be present at our next meeting as I am anxious to meet them all.

I wonder if any of the members would like a fritter recipe. It's the best one of the kind I've ever tried. You can mix these the night before.

Fritters:—Yolks of 2 eggs beaten well; 1-2 cup milk, 1 salt spoon salt, 1 cup flour, 1 tablespoon butter and 1 cup clams ground course, add last egg whites. You may use bananas or any fruit by adding 1 teaspoon sugar. If you wish to mix them at night add whites in morning, just before frying. Fry in deep fat.

Fan Tan: Am all O. K. and will see you soon. Signing off at just 2.30 p. m.

WINTERING AT MIAMI

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Will write a few lines from down here in Florida at Miami Beach. It is fine here and am having a fine time. My health is much better. It is wonderful here with so many hotels and apartments all full, beautiful flowers and sunshine all the time. Miss the good times with the sisters in the Corner.

JOINS THE CORNER.

Dear Social Corner Editor: I have become interested in the Social Corner meetings through visiting, and reading the letters and would like to join the Corner and Club No. 6. I would also like to have a pin. I will take for my pen name

HOW TO CAKE FOR A COLD.

Dear Editor and Sisters—With Milky Way and Beers I attended the meeting of Club No. 3 last Tuesday and had a very nice time. A flat tire was awaiting us when we left the hall but a gallant young man came to aid of beauty (?) in distress and we were soon on our way.

I have read where several of the sisters were answering the 1928 roll call and I wonder if some one would explain what it is all about. I'd hate to miss anything.

What an ideal winter this has been for the smaller kiddies who can't be out doors when there is snow on the ground. There have been but few days that mine haven't been out this winter and it pays to keep them out as much as possible. They don't take cold as easily and when they do are able to throw it off more quickly. When there is a youngster in school he is very apt to take a cold from some other pupil and bring it home to the rest and it usually goes through the family if preventative measures are not taken immediately. At the first sign I use neo-silval 10 per cent as a nose and throat spray. From 1-2 to a whole aspirin tablet (depends on child's age) at bed time and a dose of caster oil. A mild laxative, given every other day, for three doses should follow the oil. They should sleep in a cool but not too cold room as the cold air irritates the throat and will make them cough. A menthol preparation inhaled will aid in clearing the nasal passages and a woolen cloth around the neck will keep the throat warm and prevent coughing. It should be removed at once on arising and the neck carefully washed and bathed in alcohol to close the pores. An egg white beaten stiffly with a little orange juice and sugar added to flavor, or orange juice, glycerine, equal parts, with a piece of rock candy added will relieve a cough caused by that annoying irritation in the throat. An onion poultice for obstinate cases is made by peeling and slicing two onions, place in a muslin bag about three by four inches, pound well with a wooden block and heat thoroughly in oven. It is better to try them on your own arm before putting them on the child's chest to prevent burning. This should be renewed every half hour until relieved. Some add oil to the onions but I never do as the onions seem to work all right by themselves. If a cold doesn't respond at once to this treatment of course a physician should be called without delay. We don't always feel we can afford to have a doctor when the ailment doesn't appear serious but it is oftimes less expensive in the end. An old saying is stuff a cold and starve a fever, but the less stuffing we do the better off we will be. A soft-solid diet, light foods that are easily digested with plenty of water, lemon or orangeade, a least a quart a day, is much better. Rooms can be well ventilated without draught by a board that has been fitted in just till the space. Plenty of air will come in between the top and bottom sashes. Coth covered screens are also good. An open fire place is a near perfect means of ventilation but few of us have them nowadays. Of course the children have to be taken care of but grown people could often prevent colds if they would only take proper care of themselves. By using a nasal spray and throat gargle (one aspirin tablet in a third of a glass of water is excellent) at night, by eating the proper kind and quantity of food, drinking plenty of water and not allowing ourselves to become constipated, we would keep ourselves fit and a cold would have hard work getting a foothold. And when unlucky enough to have one don't feel generously inclined and give it to everyone else. Try to keep it all yourself.

Kittie, Frances L., Bonnibelle—Saw you Tuesday but we were late in arriving so didn't get a chance to speak to you.

Brown-Eyes—Now that you are larger, I wonder what would happen if you and Kochia should meet.

Bay-State—Don't you hope you are as lucky as we were?

SUMAC.

SKIPPING THE RHEUMATIZ

Dear Social Corners It is time I tried to say a few words, or some of you will be asking if my pen is rusty.

Well, we have had a regular snowstorm this time, just to show us winter is not over. I think people would be better off with a little more snow than we have had before this. There is an old saying that "An open winter means a full graveyard." Those are not the exact words, but mean the same.

Nonesopretty: Mr. Dece and myself have not suffered from rheumatism so far this winter. "Praise the Lord!" I've not seen you in several days. Hope you're not ill.

Twice-Twenty: Grandpa has gone now. It doesn't seem possible we were all together two years ago. Hope you are well this winter.

Gingham Girl: Well, how did you enjoy the colonial ball?

Lilac Lady: Come on write, or did the whist lame your arm? I put the light out at 2 o'clock that morning.

Those who are ill have my heartfelt sympathy. To the shut-ins, a word of cheer: Spring is coming. The winter has sped along fast and Mr. Bluebird will soon be here. I stay close at home these days. One of my little girls has been sick a week now and little Sonny burned his four fingers bad with my electric flat. Am so afraid he'll catch cold in the burns that I don't take him out much. Pep dresses the burns and, believe me, she has my many thanks.

Well, I'll sign off now until next time.

INTERESTED IN HOOKED RUGS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It is not that I am not interested in the Social Corner because I do not write more often, but there are so many that can write so much more interestingly than I can, I don't feel like taking the space for my writings. I have been interested in the recent letters about hooked rugs as I have made only one, but am thinking of making another one.

If any of the sisters have made hooked rugs to sell, I would like to get some idea of the prices for those made from rags, and if any have made them with yarn, where do you get stamped patterns, etc.? I have had a price list from a rug concern in Massachusetts giving prices of patterns and yarn for hooked rugs, but I think their prices are pretty high. I wonder if there are any not as expensive?

Kitty Lou must be a wonder from the letters she writes.

Best wishes to all from

RHODE ISLAND.

LIKED FORT NED STORY

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: We do have very interesting letters of late. I hope they will continue.

Johnny Cake: I cannot begin to tell you how much I enjoyed your letter. I read it over more than once. Am thinking you are a "brother" all right. Keep on sending the letters.

Ann Tenna: You ask when George Washington first took a carriage. Was it when he took a hack at the cherry tree? You and Jack-in-the-Pulpit wrote about laughing and keeping troubles to ourselves. A friend sent me a little poem and so I pass it on when there is room for it to be printed. Spreading gloom is the worst occupation that I know of. JOAN.

CURING PROPERTIES OF PINE TREE

Dear Social Corner Friends: There are so many new members in Club No. 4 that we are getting to be quite a company. The pen name of Pine Cone reminds me what an old lady told me years ago about pine flour. This flour comes from pine cones gathered the very last of May or the first of June on soft pine trees. It is the finest flour you ever saw. So one has to be careful to gather it before it drops from the cones. It is very good for healing sores. This is an old Indian remedy, as an old Indian woman told this lady of it. The pine tree is a cureall for "more ways than one." I don't think there is any kind of tree that has so many curing properties as the pine tree.

Hope it will be pleasant March 1st. I hope I have written this so you can read it.

I will say goodbye for this time.

ROSALIND.

GOOD EXAMPLE SET BY JUST JILL

Dear Corner Friends: In spite of the drizzling weather that lasted most of the day, there was a good attendance at our Club No. 1's gathering—over 40—that was presided over by Just Jill and Frances, with their willing helpers, Lonesome Pine, Betsey Bobbett, Phoebe Ann, Olga and Alifern. The dinner was much enjoyed, consisting of beans, salads, chop suey, maccaroni, pies and cakes, also the valentine favors. Just Jill is a brand new member and at the first meeting she ever attended she volunteered to conduct the next meeting, with Frances' help, and her willingness and helpful service are highly commendable and are a good example to older members, or those who have attended the meetings longer, who decline to shoulder the responsibilities of the meetings we all so much enjoy. With our large club of over 100 members it is not always easy to find a chairman for the next meeting.

In February we have our Donation day, but for some reason it is to be celebrated in March at the time of the Social Corner birthday celebration.

Iola: Was glad to see a letter from you in last week's column. You always write such good interesting letters. Several years ago—ten or more—I had a bulb of the amyrillis family and eagerly watched for a blossom. Year after year it failed me, but the pot got full of bulbs, and I called it a breeder lily as it did nothing but increase and never a bud. I rested it and separated it and repotted it and changed the soil and cared for it about as you wrote; but all to no avail, till I lost it last winter, and that was one thing I did not mind losing, although I had hopes it would blossom some day. But I bet you would have made it blossom.

What has become of Persis?

I would like a recipe for a caramel pudding, as I have lost the one I had, although I sent it to the Corner once. I cannot tell the quantities of material used, but it began by half cup of granulated sugar carameled, then add milk and gelatin, and whites of egg last and ground nuts, and it was cooled on snow or ice. If anyone has a similar recipe, please send it in, and thank you. THEODA.

CLUB NO. 6 HAD GRAND TIME

Dear Social Corner Members: Well, Club No. 6 has had another meeting with over 70 in attendance. Beers, Scottie and White Dawn were sick. I hope they are better by this time.

Someone had to work hard to trim up the hall so nicely. It looked fine. I have been very interested reading about Ford Ned as I have been over that ground often, years back. I wonder if I know the writer of that article in Saturday's Bulletin? I would like to meet Iola. I went to her home at Westminster once and will never forget the nice flowers I saw in the sitting room windows. I don't have such good luck with mine.

Aries: I looked for you that day. You have not been to see me yet. I would like some of the sisters to try my Graham Nut Bread: Two cups graham flour, one cup white flour, teaspoon salt, one cup nuts, 1 1-2 cups sour milk, 1-2 cup molasses, one teaspoon soda.

Good luck, from

PRETTY SNOW STORM

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I received the calendar. As it is the first one I have ever received I was somewhat surprised and greatly pleased, not only with the plants symbolic of each month, but also the cheery message thereon. I have it over my desk. I thank you. What a pretty snow storm we had. Under my windows the barberry bushes are laden with snow, and the scarlet berries made a pretty contrast and the evergreens were beautiful.

Beers: Was sorry I did not get a chance to speak with you. I was so busy I did not find time to speak with many. Perhaps next time.

Lucy Acorn: Would you believe it, the velvet plant you sent me at Christmas is growing fine. Will be down to see you ht chicken time.

Scottie and White Dawn: Missed you and do hope you can be with us next month.

Sountry Sister: Tried the recipe and had fine luck.

Necia: Don't forget to bring what you promised.

Unomer: Oh, what a baby!

Best wishes to all and success to the Corner.

ENJOYED VALENTINE MEETING

Dear Social Corner Friends: I attended the last meeting Feb. 14 in Norwich and had a fine time and met some old friends. I was sorry to hear Scottie and White Dawn were sick. I hope they are better by this time.

THOUGHTS SUGGESTED BY JOHNNY CAKE'S LETTER.

Social Corner Editor and sisters: I was much interested in the letter sent in by Johnny Cake last week and wanted to know it that Fuller was an uncle of mine and if the forks of the road is what they call Fuldertown now. All cousins live there now I believe, though it is a good many years since I was there. When a girl I used to go up there walnutting with Aunt Lydia. This was a cousin of my mother's.

Was that Fillmore, Esq., Dave Fillmore? I heard my mother speak of him at the John P. Allen place. A family of Jacksons lived there. The mother died and the two girls moved to Norwich. I believe at the Deacon David Allen house. Don't remember when they lived there but Harry Alexander and his wife lived there. I worked there summers and Saturdays in the fall after school started, washing milk pans, also milk pails, scrubbing floors with broom and sand and soft soap, which she made herself. He wasn't able to work and had a hired man all the time in summer, some times 3 or 4 in haying time or to chop wood. Mrs. Alexander had one son, William. I believe he lived in Illinois and came on one summer with wife and little girl, and Mr. Alexander's daughter from Norwich were there. Betsy married a Sam Huntington I believe. Angeline I think was married to a Haskell that kept a hat store in Norwich. I think there was another one married to an Ashby, but have forgotten her name. They kept a lovely old fashioned flower garden at one side of the house. I thought it the loveliest place on earth at that time. After Mr. Alexander died, Nathan Witter moved there with his wife and two children, a son and daughter. A few years later I went to Eleazer Smith's house at a candy pull, also Lester Smith's. My folks having moved up just beyond there on what was called Woodchuck hill. Suppose it derived its name from the woodchucks that abounded there. That house is also burned down now. I worked for Mrs. Ethan Allen at Hanover after a few years.

I hope Johnny Cake will pardon me for these additions, but her letter brought up old memories, old faces and things that were forgotten.

While I was there at Mrs. Alexander's, Ethan Allen's oldest son was married to Miss Mattie Gordon. I remember the younger people never stopped talking about it, never having seen anything like it before, so stylish and it was so impressive. I can see the bride yet as she looked then. I don't know whether she is living now or not. What changes, since then, in people, attire and places.

THE BEST NEWS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: We listened in again this (St. Valentine's) morning to one who calls himself Cherelo who sends birthday cheer to somebody, somewhere, every day. Truly, he is a wonder. Tate was darning holes out of stockings (as little Benny says) and I was knitting, as I always do while I listen. There have been many good things this month to know about, but best of all is the safe arrival of Lindy at his home in St. Louis.

Lindy, "the hero of the air."
Lindbergh, "the dauntless."

I have followed him (in the papers) from start to finish.

For facing death and danger
Alone he took the sky;
A brave, stout-hearted eagle
Who dared to win or die.
All alone through the trackless night,
With only Death behind him,
All alone he made the flight,
Where only God could find him.
All alone he conquered space,
Modest lad of a freeborn race,
With a long gaunt ship that shuttled and whirled
Into the flaming heart of the world;
All alone through the trackless skies,
Bringing the tears to a million eyes,
He kept his course like a viking's son,
And kept his faith till the goal was won.

HEADING FOR SPRING.

Dear Editor and Friends of the Social Corner: The winter days are fast slipping away, soon we shall hear the peep frogs and get the smell of spring. It is wonderful to step outdoors at night and get the thrill that comes when we say to ourselves: "Yes, spring is surely here." Then in the early morning the cheery greeting from the song sparrow. He never fails to come back to the old rose bush.

"O, the world's running over with blessing and beauty,
And we as we pass along,
Will find on the green old path called duty,
Sunshine, flowers and song."

—Martha Veazie.

Ann Lenna: Have you started planning for your garden yet?

Queen Marie: Call and see me some time.

I wish to join the Social Corner and will take for my pen name

MARTHA ZEAZIE.

THE CLOCK OF LIFE

Dear Editor and Social Corner: I have a little poem which I think it is very nice to go by, as we do not know what time the hands will stop. It is called The Clock of Life.

The clock of life is wound but once,
And no man has the power
To tell just when the hands will stop,
At late or early hour.
Now is the only time you own;
Live, love, toil with a will;
Place no faith in "tomorrow,"
For the clock may then be still.

GREETINGS FROM SKINNY

Dear Social Corner Editor, Sisters and Readers: What a nice time everyone had at the last meeting of Club No. 4.

Peggy Alder: We missed you at the last meeting, and I hope you are feeling better.

Butterfly is the rugmaker and Peg knows how to make pie.

Hollyhock knows how to make brown bread very nice.

Try Again is some dressmaker.

Killingly Bud: You took very nicely at the party the other night.

Tricky: Your dress is too long. You will have to grow a little more.

Aries: You are quite a singer. I would like to hear you sing again.

Be True: What kind of a time did you have at the meeting the other night? Sorry you could not be at the dance the other night.

I have now answered to the roll call for 1928. Best wishes,

SKINNY.

GREETINGS FROM CHERRY BLOSSOM

Dear Sisters: I have wondered where you all got your pen names. I will tell you where and how I got mine. There was a row of wild cherry trees growing along an old wall so I couldn't see who was coming up the drive. No one would cut them for me, so one day I thought I would try it. So I took the hatchet from the block and went down and cut them. When the men came to the house they wanted to know who cut them, like George Washington. I told them I did, but never told them how many stones I hit.

Joan didn't know what the man's name was that rode on his casket. It was Oliver Wakidne. My grandfather saw him hung on Gallows Hill, this side of Brooklyn, Conn.

Harrie S.: Where are you keeping yourself? I am getting some better now; not well yet.

Butterfly: I am real glad to hear from you. Been sick all winter. Like to read letters from East Killingly people that I know.

CHERRY BLOSSOM.

RAILWAY SHARES SHOWED STRENGTH WHILE INDUSTRIALS WERE WOBBLY

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Railroad shares showed fairly consistent strength throughout today's stock market, but industrials wobbled erratically in reflection of the play of opposing speculative forces. Net gains in the rails ran from 1 to 4 points. Standard industrials showed little change but several of the industrial specialties ran up 3 to nearly 10 points and a number showed losses of 3 to 7 points. Trading was only moderate in volume, the day's sales falling slightly below 1,800,000 shares.

The unexpectedly large reduction of $91,000,000 in brokers' loans brought only a temporary flurry of buying. At the outset of the selling pressure was quickly renewed against International Nickel and some of the other vulnerable pool favorites with the result that the general market was headed downward before the end of the first half hour.

Heavy buying of the rails just before mid-day, based on unconfirmed, and in some quarters unbelievable, reports that eastern railroad executives had reached an agreement whereby L. F. Loree would abandon his proposed fifth trunk line system and transfer the control of Wabash to one of the other eastern trunk lines, steadied the market, and started a fresh buying movement. "Bear" traders nevertheless sought out weak spots among the specialties while pools continued to mark up others with the outside public apparently showing more of a disposition to unload on the rallies than to buy on the declines. Commission house comment seemed to lean to the theory that a further substantial reduction in loans was necessary to correct the top-heavy speculative position created by pool activities in recent months.

Call money held steady at the renewal rate of 4 1-4 per cent, despite the calling of about $25,000,000 in bank loans during the day. Other monetary accommodations were unchanged. Shipment of $2,250,000 gold to Argentina was announced by New York bankers.

There was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. The weekly mercantile reviews continued to report irregularity with no changes of importance. Bethlehem Steel raised its price on heavy steel products, meeting the earlier advances of subsidiaries of the U. S. Steel corporation and mid-western independents. U. S. Steel common continued to drag, closing 1-8 net lower at 139 7-8.

General Motors moved within a range of 2 points, closing fractionally higher at 136. Bayuk Cigars ran up 10 points to a new top at 131 1-2 and closed near the top. Substantial advances also were recorded by American Linseed common, Allis Chalmers, American Machine & Foundry, Equitable Office Building, Lambert, R. H. Macy, Mathieson Alkali, and National Surety, all of which advanced 3 points or more.

International Nickel opened at 77, advanced to 77 3-4 broke to a new 1928 low at 73 5-8 and rallied to 76 3-4, off 1-4 net. U. S. Rubber common and first preferred sank to new low levels at 45 5-8 and 92 1-4, respectively, in reflection of speculative fears for the safety of the preferred dividend. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe broke 8 points to 194 and rallied 1, and net declines of 2 points or more were recorded by Curtiss Airplane, Detroit Edison, Midland Steel Products preferred, United Drug, and Wright Aeroplane.

Commodity markets pointed upward. Cotton rallied $1.50 to more than $2 a bale on reports of an improved trade demand. Grain prices advanced fractionally on reports of crop damage in the winter wheat belt. Coffee advanced 7 to 12 points and raw sugar was slightly firmer. Fresh weakness developed, however, in the rubber market.

Foreign exchanges were slightly reactionary, with sterling cables again below $4.88.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Moving Picture at Y. M. C. A.

"Nanook of the North," a fine six reel feature moving picture will be shown in the big gymnasium of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

This is a thrilling life story of a real Eskimo and his family, going about their everyday affairs in the romantic, frozen land of the midnight sun. This enchanting film which has the great education advantage of being authentic as well, has marked new heights of the motion picture. Filled with scenes of pure adventure from start to finish, it impresses any audience. It has value to scientist and novice alike, and is excellent for church or social purposes. The picture was photographed by a scientist and explorer, Robert J. Flaherty, Fellow of The Royal Geographical Society, three hundred miles beyond civilization's most northerly outpost. Mr. Flaherty led five William Mackenzie expeditions into North Hudson bay regions; he lived for ten years in intimate association with the small tribe of Eskimos who inhabit the Ungava peninsula, one of the regions least accessible to white men on the North American continent. Nanook, the hero of the story is a real live hero.

The public fourteen and over is invited. Positively none under fourteen admitted unless accompanied by parents, and children under ten not admitted.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Mooseheart Legion held their regular meeting Thursday evening at Moose home with Senior Regent Minnie Smith presiding. The chairman of the entertainment committee reported a good sum realized on the recent whist and pinochle and announced another one to be held next week. It was voted that the chairman of the entertainment committee be allowed to buy whatever she needs and have the bills sent to the chapter.

It was voted that each member of the degree team give a whist at her home, the money to be used for the expense of the degree team.

Past Regent Teresa Watters announced her plans for the Junior Legion nearly completed, and asks all members to have their childrens' names with the $1 bill in, at the next meeting.

On account of the Loyal Order of Moose having their bazaar on the chapter's meeting night, it was voted to hold the next meeting on Wednesday, March 7. Communications from Moose Heart were read, announcing the coming of the deputy grand regent to open a school of instructions for the chapter, and it was voted to have a class instruction for that evening, called the Margaret Dahl class. All members are expected to get busy with at least one candidate.

Past Regent Teresa Watters announced the first of the whists for the degree team to be held at her home next Thursday evening.

After the meeting, the degree team was drilled by Brother Herman Bruckner and all members of the team are to be at the home at 2 o'clock Sunday for further instruction.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Georgia Tomanio, Past Regent Vera Sterry, Nellie Dorr and Annabell Cinback.

COMPANIONS OF THE FOREST

Nevins-Carver circle, No. 1855, held its regular meeting Monday evening with Chief Companion Teresa Watters presiding. It was voted to hold a whist and pinochle early in March and also to hold a leap year party, with the brothers as guests of the circle in March.

Deputy Ethel M. Hoelck held her new office for the first time.

EAGLES

The membership committee of Norwich aerie completed arrangements Wednesday night for the February special class initiation which is to be held at the Eagles home Sunday afternoon. State officers will be present, the principal speaker will be from the organization department, there is to be a roast pork supper, and a fine entertainment programme.

PYTHIAN SISTERS

Clover temple, No. 9, held its regular semi-monthly meeting in the Buckingham Memorial with M. E. C. Anna Ableman in the chair. In addition to the regular business, and ritualistic work, preparations were made for receiving the state officer and her staff, with other past chiefs from New London and Willimantic.

After the business part of the meeting the Mistress of R. and C. presented Past Chief Lillian Bowers a 25-year faithful service pin. This is different from a past officers pin. It is given to any Pythian Sister who has been a member 25 years, faithful in attendance and service. Through her membership Sister Rogers is a charter member of Clover temple and has made a record for faithfulness to her obligation as a member.

As far as known this is the first service pin presented to a 25-year member in the temple. It was secured through donations by the faithful members and she was much surprised to receive it but expressed her great appreciation and the hope that the same friendly and sisterly feeling would continue to exist in the temple.

After the meeting light refreshments were served.

FORTY AND EIGHT

The regular monthly meeting of Voiture locale 743, La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chaveaux, was held here at the American Legion rooms, Tuesday, February 21st. Chef de Gare Warren E. Wilcox presided. Four applications for membership were read and accepted. Tonight, Saturday, February 25th at the State armory, McKinley avenue, Norwich, a class of fifteen candidates will be initiated into the mysteries of "box car dom." The candidates or P. Gs. will once more travel through the intricate mazes of army life starting from the initial appearance before the "draft board" up to and including "the bloodless battle of the Marne." The degree team of Voiture locale 743 is to be on hand to give them all needed assistance. A large gathering of Voyageurs is expected from other Voitures of the state including Grand Chef de Gare Emil F. Schaal of New Britain and Sous Chef de Chemin de Fer J. Ronald Sullivan of Waterbury. Conductor Thomas P. Sears will be in charge of the working of the initiation. Refreshments will be served after the degree work.

La societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chaveaux or as it is more familiarly known the Forty and Eight is the honorary branch of the American Legion and is composed of members of the Legion who have proved by past service that they have done at least one outstanding work that has benefited the American Legion. It is sometimes called the playground of the American Legion and the occasional promenades or initiations is a time when the Forty and Eighters for the time being forget all troubles and cares and get together for an evening of wholesome fun.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich Grange, No. 172, met in Steiner's hall Wednesday evening with Worthy Master Albert W. Lillibridge presiding. The chairman of the entertainment committee announced a pinochle and whist to be held next month in Steiner hall.

The grange has an invitation to neighbor with Killingly Grange, Danielson, on March 5th, the lecturer to furnish a half hour program. After other business was disposed of the master turned the meeting over to the worthy lecturer for her program which was very patriotic to commemorate the birthday of George Washington. Mrs. Fred Bliss, a past lecturer of Norwich grange, had charge of this part of the program. My Country 'Tis of Thee was the first number on the program, played by the orchestra of four pieces and sung by the entire grange. This was followed by an address by Attorney Andrew B. Davies on Washington, the Statesman, which was very interesting and much appreciated by all. Next was a selection by the orchestra, Hail Columbia. Mrs. John E. Fanning read a paper on Washington as a farmer. A pantomime, School Days, by a cast of excellent players was very humorous and showed much talent. Yankee Doodle by the orchestra was followed by an original monologue written by Mrs. John E. Fanning, Reminiscences of Washington, and acted by Miss Belle Rathbone.

A recitation, My Flag, was given by Miss Marian Gibbs. A tableaux, the Goddess of Liberty, portrayed, by Mrs. Eva Higgins with orchestra selection; America the Beautiful concluded the program. A most appropriate lunch was served by Division A consisting of raspberry jello, whipped cream and cherries, buttered rolls, assorted cake and tea. Bro. Richardson then brought in the Washington cake made from the original recipe of the times of Washington when he visited at Lebanon. This large cake was made by Sister Bliss and prettily decorated with lighted candles, flags, stars and stripes, large enough to serve about 100 people. A rising vote of thanks was extended to Sister Bliss. At the next meeting March 14th, the grange is to have as speaker H. D. Larrabee, president of the chamber of commerce. Also a play and musical selections. The attendance was 92.

WOMAN'S BENEFIT ASSOCIATION

The W. B. A. held a social Thursday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Mary Pedace, Franklin street. Supper was served at 7:30, which consisted of spaghetti, roast beef, potato salad, roast pork, cake, doughnuts and coffee. Music was furnished by Misses Marion and Eva Pedace. Mrs. Manchester prompted for old-fashioned dancing, Mrs. Bounanna gave an exhibition of the Black Bottom and Mrs. Leona FaChette, the Tango; Madeline Pedace the Charleston. Mrs. Irene LaPre and Miss Lucy DiCarlo sang duets.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Buckingham council, No. 14, with the support of the Daughters of America, celebrated Washington's birthday on Wednesday with their first annual barn dance. The affair was staged in Eagles hall on Cliff street, which was filled to capacity, music being furnished by Swahn's orchestra and the prompting was handled by G. Austin, who is well known for his excellent work. Much fun was created during the dance, owing to the fact that all around the hall fruit was hanging from a wire and when someone was caught taking a piece, he was brought before a judge. This of course caused scores of laughter, as both young and old tried to get an orange or banana, without getting caught.

The regular weekly meeting was held, however, and presided by Councilor H. Bradford. The business was quickly transacted so as to get started on time with the social affair. There will no doubt be other dances of this kind put on by this council in the near future. After the first set of dances, the door prize was given, which was a choice selection, and at the end a large china set was given to the person holding the lucky number.

LADIES' AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

A large membership was present at the regular meeting of Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., No. 54, held Wednesday evening, Feb. 15. Miss Catherine Coughlin, chairman of the dance committee, reported that the dance held recently in the Waureegan hotel ballroom was a financial as well as a social success and a substantial sum was added to the treasury. Plans are completed for the annual St. Patrick's night dance given by the United Hibernians, and tickets were distributed among the members. After the short business session, a social hour of singing, dancing and games was enjoyed. Miss Margaret Slattery, chairman, served delicious refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Margaret Peterson, Mrs. Annie Brooks, Mrs. Alvin Barrows and Mrs. Patrick O'Neill. Mrs. Charles P. O'Neill presided at the piano.

NORWICH TOWN

TELEPHONE OPERATORS GUESTS MR. AND MRS. HARRY CARLSON

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carlson (Natalie Hamilton), 364 Washington street, Thursday evening about twenty-five operators from the Norwich exchange, of the Southern New England Co., were delightfully entertained at a house warming, in recognition of their locating recently in Norwich Town. The evening was spent in games and stunts prizes being awarded. Mrs. Carlson before her marriage was a telephone operator for some time.

During the evening the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. Irving Hamilton, librarian at the Otis library, served cake, ice cream and candy.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlson took up their residence here the latter part of January, upon returning from their wedding trip, both having formerly been residents of Norwich Town.

Mrs. Julia Butler and Mrs. Wilfrid Sabourin were hostesses to the Hi-Y club Thursday evening, eighteen members assembling at their home 13 Town street, Norwich Town. The evening was devoted to making lamp shades, one of the club members being the instructor. While work was in progress, Mrs. Richard Quinn gave several finely rendered vocal selections playing her own piano accompaniments. Mrs. Sabourin entertained in a pleasing manner with a number of piano selections. Mrs. Butler and her daughters, Mrs. Sabourin and Mrs. Quinn served delicious refreshments of angel cake, brownies, coffee and chocolate pudding with whipped cream.

The Hi-Y club meets weekly through the winter at the homes of the different members, the time usually being spent in sewing or in doing fancy work.

The Drop-in class of the First Congregational Sunday school, held a very successful food sale at the Boston store, Friday morning, from 10 o'clock on Mrs. David M. Dean was in general charge, assisted by Miss Jennie M. Case and Mrs. Michael Buckley. The tempting display of food comprised baked beans, potato salad, cabbage salad, bread, a variety of cakes and pies, cookies, etc.

The officials of the Boston store furnished the wrapping paper and twine, which courtesy was much appreciated by those who dispensed the food. A substantial sum was netted.

Willimantic state normal school having closed for a week's vacation, Miss Dorothea Buckley, a first year student returned Friday afternoon to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Buckley of Town street, to pass the next ten days.

The average married man attributes his successes to himself and his failures to his wife.

NEW LONDON COUNCIL WILL TRY TO UNRAVEL BANK STREET TANGLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 24—Acting on the request of City Manager William A. Holt, Mayor James A. May today issued a call for a special meeting of the council Monday evening next for the purpose of permitting the ordinance providing for the widening of Bank street to have its second reading in process of passage. The meeting will be brief, for at its conclusion, the council will sit as a committee to consider budget matters. The council meeting will convene at 7:30, a half hour earlier than usual so that the board can meet in committee. There is every probability that the petition of Bank street merchants that the one-way traffic on Bank street, between State and Tilley streets traffic was in one direction, all to the north. Merchants, particularly those on the west side of the street, now request that all traffic, automobile and trolley cars, be in a southerly direction. It is not believed that the request will be granted.

CECIL M'CAREY BROUGHT BACK FROM CITY IN MISSOURI

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 24—Cecil McCarey, formerly of Old Lyme, but of late residing at Kennett, Mo., was arrested in that city several weeks ago at the request of the Groton state police. They hold a warrant charging McCarey with non-support of his wife and children, who reside in Lyme. He will be arraigned in the Old Lyme justice court tomorrow afternoon. McCarey was brought back to New London today by State Police Officer John K. Smith, who left here over a week ago to take charge of the prisoner. McCarey waived extradition and for that reason much time was saved in bringing him back to Old Lyme for trial.

SUSPICIOUS GROTON DOG FOUND TO HAVE HAD RABIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 24—The second case of rabies to be reported to officials of the town of Groton, resulted today when Dr. Louis M. Allyn, of Mystic health officer of the town, received notice from the state laboratory at Hartford that the head of a dog recently sent to the laboratory showed positive signs of the disease. The dog was owned by O. K. Phinney, of Poquonoc Bridge and had been bitten by another dog that also had rabies. When Phinney's dog displayed signs of having rabies it was killed by Chauncey Ganung, deputy commissioner of domestic animals and the head was forwarded to the laboratory. In an effort of the town officials to cause the destruction of roaming dogs, Rowland Ketchum, of Mystic, has been appointed deputy dog warden, to assist Warden Charles Yerring in the clean-up of the homeless animals. The officials issued a notice several days ago that all dogs not registered would be slain as fast as picked up by the dog warden after today. Tomorrow Yerring and Ketchum will begin their task of rounding up the stray dogs and in doing so the officials believe that the cases of rabies will be eliminated. The officials have also given notice that owners of cattle or poultry have authority to shoot dogs when those animals enter farm yards and attack the animals or fowls.

John H. Kidley, 77, died yesterday afternoon at his residence in Niantic, death resulting from chronic heart disease. He is survived by his wife, three daughters, Mrs. H. P. Doods, of New London and Mrs Charles H. Swan and Mrs. William E. Taylor of Niantic and a son, H. P. Gidley of New London. He was a charter member of Bayview lodge, No. 130, F. & A. M. and a past master of the lodge. He was foreman at the Millstone quarry 60 years. Mr. Gidley was born in England, but had resided in Niantic the greater part of his life.

Since the board of relief concluded its hearings of property owners aggrieved at the assessments levied against their respective properties, many of the property owners have filed notices of appeals. As a result of the appeals the board today made personal inspection of several of the properties in question. The board, Michael L. O'Connell, chairman; Jerome J. Collins and William T. May made the inspections, touring the city in one of the city's automobiles. Whether any reductions in assessments will be made is not known. The board concluded its hearings Feb. 18. The law provides that the board must conclude its work on the last day of this month and that work will have been completed at that time.

Patrolman Walter Rehn, who has been confined to his home on Blydenburg avenue several months as the result of a fractured leg, is able to walk about the streets with the use of a cane. The child darted into the highway in front of a machine driven by Arthur Coombs, 48 Golden street. Coombs had the girl taken to the office of a physician where her injuries were found to be bruises.

An automobile truck driven by Sebastian Muscarella, R. F. D., No. 2, Waterford, struck Russell Cook, a youth residing at 102 Connecticut avenue, but a short distance from the boy's home. The child had been on the sidewalk and when he started to go to the opposite side of the street he ran directly in front of the truck. Muscarella endeavored to drive the truck around the chi'd, but was not successful, the boy being knocked down. When he was examined by a physician it was determined that he was only slightly bruised.

Arthur Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Reed, of Lee avenue and Miss Edna Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Jackson, 208 Montauk avenue, were married Tuesday by Rev. D. A. Kraft, pastor of Zion Lutheran church at the home of the clergyman, Willetts avenue. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents and was a combination event, for the wedding day also marked the bride's birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Reed will make their home on Williams street. Mr. Reed is employed as driver by the New London Coach company.

Earl N. Parks, of Raymond street, is a patient at the General hospital, Hartford, and this morning an operation was performed on his leg. The funeral of Mrs. Gertrude Fisher, wife of Louis Fisher, 579 Bank street, who was found dead Wednesday of exposure at Quaker Hill, was held at noon today at 15 Masonic street and was attended by a large number of mourners. The services were conducted by Rabbi Seldman, of Hartford. The body will be forwarded to West Roxbury, Mass., tomorrow and burial will be there Sunday.

Aranza Gale Young, 82, died at 2 o'clock this morning at his residence, 59 Jay street after a lingering illness of heart disease. He is survived by his wife. Mr. Young was for many years employed by the late Edward H. Caulkins, proprietor of a former State street grain store, who died less than two weeks ago. Laterly Mr. Young had been employed as storehouse keeper by the Central Vermont railroad, abandoning active labor only when the condition of his heart compelled him to do so. Mr. Young was born at Hemarset, N. Y., but had resided in New London the greater part of his life.

JUDGE-ELECT W. B. BURROWS RESIGNS AS PROSECUTOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 24—Warren B. Burrows, prosecutor of the Groton town town court 20 years, recently appointed judge of the United States district court, has tendered his resignation to Cornelius C. Costello, judge of the court. The resignation was dated Feb. 21 and was effective on that date. No appointment has been made to succeed Mr. Burrows, but in all probability Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Harry Brogan, who has been filling the office very ably for many months, will receive the appointment. Mr Burrows stated today that he had not taken the oath of office, but expected to do so next Tuesday. On that day the United States district court will open at New Haven and Mr. Burrows said that he would attend the session and undoubtedly would be administered the oath of office then.

STATE POLICE AUTOMOBILE STOLEN IN HARTFORD STREET

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 24—One of the state police automobiles was stolen in Hartford tonight and the police of New London as well as the state police, Groton barracks, have been requested to maintain a watch for the machine. The car is a Ford roadster and was parked alongside the highway while the officer was absent for a short time. That time was sufficient to permit the thief to steal it. The automobile is of 1925 model and carries registration 16935. All the traffic officers as well as the patrolmen were instructed to be on the lookout for the car.

SAID HE WAS AN AVIATOR—WANTED BY NEW HAVEN POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 24—A youth was locked up at police station last night, following his being arrested as being an itinerant, who would not pay his fare on the railroad. He was taken from a New Haven railroad train upon its arrival here because he did not have a ticket and because he would not pay his fare. Today he was turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, who arranged for the young man to secure transportation out of town. Tonight the New Haven police requested the New London police to hold the young man, as he was wanted in that city for theft, but the request came too late. The fellow was in New Haven recently and stole several garments used by aviators. He is described as being five feet, four inches in height and weighing about 125 pounds, of dark complexion. He wore corduroy trousers and had a brown cap. When arrested here the fellow said he was an aviator.

The street lights about the city were inefficient tonight for, during several hours of the early evening, there were numerous streets in darkness. Later the lights were in proper working order.

Albert Beckwith, night clerk at the Hotel Winthrop, has resumed his duties after having spent several days in New York, the guest of relatives.

The preliminary work of widening Bank street has started. Today a force of laborers was assigned to the task of removing part of the pavements at the corner of Bank and Tilley streets and corner of State and Bank streets. At these two points is where the widening begins. The work, which will not be concluded before early summer, will include the laying of a new street surface.

Local ice dealers are beginning to worry, for today but one or two dealers have been able to harvest a crop. These crops were obtained from ponds in Waterford, but not a single crop has been obtained from the New London ponds. Many believe, however, that before March passes a cold spell will prevail with temperature sufficient to insure the harvesting of ice that will fill the houses and furnish a supply for consumers during the summer. One dealer, who has ponds in Waterford has harvested 10 1-2 inch ice, while another in Groton has obtained a crop of about the same thickness. Because of the extremely mild weather there has been little skating and the city's ponds have not afforded that pastime for adults or juniors.

Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett tonight, in the council chamber, municipal building, addressed a large assemblage of men and women at a meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters of New London and Groton. The commissioner spoke at length, on different phases of the tax laws and the situation that confronts that department of the state relative to the collection of taxes. Commissioner Blodgett has made numerous addresses to civic bodies throughout the state recently, explaining the tax laws.

A young man, 19 or 20, went to the garage of Adams & Hillyer, 135 Howard street, this afternoon and requested permission to use the telephone. The telephone is located in the office, where a young woman bookkeeper is stationed. Permission was granted, but when a male employe entered the office the fellow left hastily. He was dressed shabbily and no other description of him was obtained.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

NORWICH OPPORTUNITY TO HEAR ROSA PONSELLE

It will undoubtedly prove news of great moment to all the music-lovers of Norwich and vicinity to learn that an opportunity is now being presented them to hear Rosa Ponselle, the world's greatest dramatic soprano and Connecticut's own great operatic star of the Metropolitan Opera company, in concert recital at Slater hall, under the usual Norwich Free Academy auspices.

By a most fortunate combination of circumstances a short-time option has been secured on the final date of her present concert season, viz.—Tuesday, May 22—a factor which has enabled the committee to effect an actual saving of exactly $1,000 on her regular concert fee for the new season opening Sept. 1. Needless to add that the new fee would altogether preclude the possibility of bringing her to Norwich and Slater hall, with its very limited seating capacity.

Fully outlined, the tentative course for season 1928-1929 is as follows:

Program

May 22, Tuesday—Rosa Ponselle, dramatic soprano.

Date to be arranged during fall and winter—Frances Nash, America's foremost woman pianist.

Date to be arranged—Andris Segovia, world's sensational guitarist.

Date to be arranged—Merle Alcock, leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company.

In this fine roster of artists, which the committee feels is one of the best ever presented, naturally the one great and dominant personality of the whole program is that of Rosa Ponselle. Ever since her debut in "Norma," one of the most difficult of all operas and but recently restored to the repertoire of the Metropolitan after an absence of more than 40 years and revived, be it stated, for her special interpretation, she has been universally recognized by the critics as possessing the finest voice of the present generation of singers.

Frances Nash, the second artist, who comes on the program, is one of our younger American pianists and is everywhere conceded to be in the very front rank of her profession.

Andris Segovia is the one great sensation of the current musical season in New York, having given in about as many weeks, six recitals to packed houses.

Merle Alcock, contralto of the Jeanne Gordon type, has been and is enjoying a phenomenally successful operatic season at the Metropolitan and is looked upon as the leading American contralto at this great institution.

In accordance with the [illegible] during governing the running of these concerts, individual passe[illegible] are absolutely necessary at this time if the course is to be made possible for Norwich. As, too, the option held on Miss Ponselle is of the shortest possible duration, owing to the advanced season, when most engagements are closed, it is respectfully requested that all desirous of taking the course tickets shall do so at once by sending in their pledges to the committee.

Course tickets, including all four concerts, $6 each (same rate as for present series).

Palace Theatre

Today will be the last opportunity to see the wonderful show that has been at the Palace theatre since Thursday. On the screen Florence Vidor in "Doomsday" is a picture that will long be remembered by Norwich theatregoers, and the stage presentation, which consists of five big acts of vaudeville is one of the best to be seen in town in a long time. On Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the screen attraction will be Charlie Chaplin in "The Circus!"

Peanuts, sawdust, pink lemonade, clowns, tigers, elephants, roaring lions, acrobats, wire-walkers, and Charlie Chaplin in his brand new comedy. Written, directed and produced by Charlie Chaplin, "The Circus" was two years in the making and it is the first Chaplin comedy since "The Gold Rush."

Charlie plays a wandering lad who is mixed up in a series of hilarious adventures, chases, arguments and ovations that land him in "The Circus" as a very fine fellow. Merna Kennedy, with red hair and just five feet two, with eyes of blue, is his leading lady; she makes her screen debut in the role. Others in the cast are Harry Crocker, Henry Bergman, Betty Morrissey and Allan Garcia.

According to officials of United Artists Corporation, which released the new Chaplin comedy, "The Circus" presents the Chaplin of old, the Chaplin of "Shoulder Arms," "Pay Day" and "The Pilgrim"—the thumping bumping little man with the trick derby and cane, the wriggling moustache and the feet almighty. Chaplin himself announced during production of "The Circus," which was made at his own studio in Hollywood, that his new picture would be "a lowbrow comedy for highbrows."

Manager Maxfield of the Palace theatre said that he felt "highly gratified" in being enabled to present at his theatre Charlie Chaplin's first comedy in two and a half years, especially so because he considers "The Circus" the funniest Chaplin picture he has seen in his 18 years of motion picture exhibition.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Several days of stormy weather, with a heavy rain and high wind, threatened Norwich with flood conditions 50 years ago this week. At one time during the week the Shetucket river rose at the rate of two feet an hour. The Yantic river overflowed its banks in many sections and a considerable portion of Central Wharf was flooded. Water flowed into some cellars of business houses. Interesting extracts from the files of The Bulletin of February, 1878, follow:

Monday, Feb. 18, 1878—A company of over 60 friends attended Gurdon Cady to the depot after the ball Friday night and gave him a serenade and a pleasant send-off.

Silver-plated quarter dollars are in circulation and they look so like the original that they readily pass. They have not got the ring of the true metal, however, and can be detected by sounding them.

Rural real estate dealers say there is quite a demand for farms of small value, this winter, caused by the lower rates of interest derived from other forms of investment, as well as by want of confidence in banks and in stocks and other securities.

Capt. Whaley keeps the tramps in the lockup so late nowadays that most families have finished their breakfast and washed and put away their silver. Such refreshments as the vagrants get at that hour are apt to be cold. The captain knows a thing or two!

Tuesday, Feb. 19, 1878—Mr. Lawrence, of Willimantic, spoke on temperance at the Central Baptist church last evening. He told in his earnest and impressive way the story of his life, the growth of intemperate habits, and their power over him, his reformation, and voluntary confinement at the Middletown insane asylum, pointing his words with advice to young men, drawn from lessons in his own experience.

A supper and social will be given by the Baptist church of Greeneville, at the Congregational lecture room, this and tomorrow evenings. Friend Bates superintends the affair.

Mr. William G. Abbott was chosen clerk and treasurer of Christ church, last evening, the office having been made vacant by the decease of Mr. Johnson.

One of the ice firms at Gales Ferry has secured several hundred tons of ice, which is soon to be sent on barges to New York.

The local dealers in valentines had a good trade this year.

Wednesday, Feb. 20, 1878—The supper and social of the Greeneville Baptists, held last evening at the Congregational lecture room, was a decided success, although the numbers present were probably not as large as they would have been, but for another entertainment in that part of the city the same evening. The supper was all that could be desired. A feature of the evening was the literary entertainment which consisted of select readings, solos, duets and quartettes. These were nicely rendered and well received.

The Greeneville Literary club had a masquerade at Union hall, which was very largely attended and passed very satisfactorily last evening. The arrangements were complete in every respect and the costumes were neat and attractive.

The town authorities think there is an unreasonable amount of prejudice among the poorer classes against the almshouse and are considering whether a change of name to town hospital would not tend to remove it.

The county commissioners have issued 100 liquor licenses, or about 25 less than were issued during the last license year.

Thursday, Feb. 21, 1878—The operetta that has been promised for several weeks past was put upon the stage at Breed hall last evening, and proved a worthy exhibition of what the best amateur talent in the city can produce. The operetta was written and arranged by Mr. H. V. Redmond, who gained a local reputation by his composition of the "Magic Mirror," which was brought out nearly two years ago and which was the subject of high praise.

The Universalist fair and dramatic entertainment proved a very gratifying success financially and the proceeds are larger than at any of the previous entertainments of the society for many years.

The masquerade by the Greeneville Literary club Tuesday night is pronounced the largest affair of the kind which has ever been held in that part of the city.

At the meeting of Park society this week, concurrent action was had with the church in accepting the resignation of Dr. Dana, and a committee was appointed to provide for filling the pulpit ad interim.

Friday, Feb. 22, 1878—A colony of 25 persons drawn mainly from Montville, New London, Willimantic and other places, left New London on Monday evening last for Lincoln, Neb., where they will locate and engage in farming pursuits.

It is rapidly growing evident that this will go down in history as a mild winter.

Lent commences one week from next Wednesday.

A large surprise party was held in Preston, Wednesday night, at the house of John Cobleigh, an engineer on the Norwich & Worcester road. A pretty good time was had and it lasted until an early hour in the morning.

The steamer Delaware went down the river, yesterday, bound for New York, where she will go on the dry-dock for further repairs, preparatory to making regular trips between here and New York.

Saturday, Feb. 23, 1878—The operetta was greeted last evening by a remarkably large audience, considering the most unfavorable weather and their appreciation of the play was manifested by numerous and hearty encores.

The several successive days of stormy weather culminated yesterday in a pouring rain, accompanied by considerable wind. The Yantic, which had been constantly rising, began to overflow its banks in many places and fears were entertained of an extensive flood. By 11 o'clock the water had flooded quite a portion of Central Wharf. Horses and pigs were removed to places of safety. At 1 o'clock this morning the water at Osgood's wharf was about two feet below the dock and goods were being removed from some of the lowest cellars, into which the water was pouring. The Shetucket was on the rampage and at one time rose at the rate of two feet an hour. Had the river been filled with ice last evening the city would have been visited with one of the largest floods it has ever seen.

Sailors who enlisted from Connecticut during the war are to receive a testimonial similar to that presented to the soldiers by vote of the legislature.

The Rev. John Davies of the Central Baptist church, is now the senior pastor in town by settlement.

Apples keep going up in price.

Clerk Park's case against the town of Norwich has been appealed to the superior court.

Some women age so young

YOU'VE known them . . . women who start out in life radiantly fresh and alive. . . . Then something happens. Almost before you know it—their bloom and freshness have gone. . . . Youth without health! What a pathetic thing it is! Pinched, wan cheeks and pain-dulled eyes when, by every right, they should be just beginning to live!

Constipation wrecks health and happiness for thousands of women and men. Stealing beauty. Thieving vitality. It is the cause of untold disease and suffering.

And more's the pity when it can be so surely prevented. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation safely. To prevent it ever beginning its deadly work.

It takes ALL-BRAN to be 100% effective

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is rich in bulk—and it is "bulk" that relieves constipation. It absorbs moisture and carries it through the alimentary canal. Gently distending the intestines—sweeping out poisons and wastes. In a part-bran product, there is seldom enough bulk to do this work effectively. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran.

Totally unlike habit-forming drugs

ALL-BRAN is infinitely better than dangerous pills and laxatives—which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased. A naturally healthful cereal. Delicious with milk or cream—with fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking too. Sprinkle into soups. Mix with other cereals. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, every meal. . . .

Be sure you get genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Don't risk part-bran substitutes which, at best, can be but partially effective. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation satisfactorily, we will refund the purchase price.

MUST REFUND $15,000 TAX PAID BY EASTERN CONNECTICUT POWER

Taxes amounting to about $15,000 paid to state by the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., of Norwich between July 1, 1919, and the present, were not due the state under the law, and the state cannot, in "good grace," retain this money, Attorney General Benjamin W. Alling held in an opinion issued to Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett Thursday. The attorney general holds that the collection of this money amounted to double taxation, contrary to the intent of the legislature.

Furthermore, the attorney general points out, the receipts on which the tax was levied, funds received from the sale of power to street railways, were not considered taxable by another company, which refused to pay the levy, while the Eastern Connecticut Power paid it unquestionably for years. This situation, the failure of the unnamed corporation to pay the tax being sustained by a verbal opinion of a former attorney general, is such that the state cannot, "in good conscience keep a tax imposed upon one taxpayer when it was ruled that such tax could not legally be collected from another taxpayer."

The question arose regarding the interpretation of Sections 1 and 2 of Chapter 249 of the Public Acts of 1919, providing determination of gross earnings of public utilities and authorizing the deduction of gross earnings from the sale of water, gas or electricity, to other public service corporations for distribution within the state, and proportionate deduction in cases of sale to companies doing business both within and without the state. The question, as the attorney general sees it, is whether power sold by the Eastern Connecticut Power company to a street railway company is an allowable deduction. His ruling is that such a reduction is proper. The street railways use this power for propulsion of cars, lighting, etc.

It appeared unfair to the general assembly, according to the opinion, that two public service corporations, one a buyer of the commodity produced by the other, should both be taxed on their gross income which, in the case of the seller would include the amount paid by the buyer, and in the case of the buyer would include the sum received from the distribution, use or sale of the commodity it secured from the selling corporation. "Our courts have uniformly held," the opinion continues, "that a construction which subjects property to double taxation should always be avoided if practicable and never adopted except to give effect to the manifest intention of the legislature."

"The conclusion which I am compelled to reach," the attorney general says, "is that the Eastern Connecticut Power company has paid to the state taxes upon gross income which was derived from the sale of power to street railways for distribution in this state which the state could not lawfully have collected at the time when such payments were made. This being true I am of the opinion that the state cannot in good grace retain that portion of the receipts from this corporation to which it was and is not rightfully entitled."

The attorney general then gives authority, Chapter 303 of the Public Acts of 1921, for making a refund by the comptroller in cases approved by the department head concerped and the attorney general and recommends the tax which he holds to have been collected without warant of law should be refunded to the power company in accordance with the 1921 law cited.

TWO WOMEN PETITIONERS ARE GRANTED DIVORCES

Judge Christopher L. Avery granted two uncontested divorces and took the papers in a third at today's short calendar session of the superior court in this city.

On the grounds of adultery, Viola Jennings Hoyle, of New London, was granted a divorce from George W. Hoyle, now of unknown address. The principal witness was Detective Sergeant John D. McSweeger, of the Hartford police force, who told of going to a rooming house in the Capitol City, upon complaint of a man attached to the state police department, and of finding that Hoyle had lived there for two weeks with another woman under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle. He stated that Hoyle was given six months in jail for the offense, while the woman was sent to the House of the Good Shepherd. This was on Oct. 19, 1926. Judge Avery also granted the petitioner permission to change her name to Viola Jennings.

On the grounds of desertion, alleged since September, 1923, Joan Heeps LeBlanc was granted a divorce from Jeffrey LeBlanc, a sailor, whom she married in Edinburgh, Scotland, on Nov. 18, 1918. The petitioner was also granted permission to change her name to Joan Heeps.

Judge Avery took the papers and reserved decision in the divorce case of May E. Damon, of Thetford, Vt., formerly of New London, against Fred Damon, of Groton. The suit was brought on the grounds of intolerable cruelty. The plaintiff seeks the custody of a minor child.

A temporary injunction has been issued in the suit restraining the defendant and L. H. Bean, Incorporated, and The Dell Motor company of Hartford from transferring any shares of stock in the corporation standing in the name of Dell J. Bonvouloir until further order of court.

HOPPE GAVE NAME OF MURDERED QUINCY OFFICER

HARTFORD, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Stephen Hoppe, in his bed at St. Francis hospital, where he is recovering from a bullet wound in his right lung, smoothly and courteously refused to give police any information about himself but the working of his subconscious mind as divulged by the police investigation, it is claimed has linked him with the murder of a Quincy, Mass., policeman last October.

Three days after the Quincy shooting, police say Hoppe came to Hartford and was attended by a Hartford doctor for a wound in the left hand, which apparently was a bullet wound which he said was caused by an electric drill. On his first visit to the doctor he gave his name as Wilcox. On his second visit, to the doctor he gave his name as Hollis, which is the name of the policeman who was murdered by a safe cracker the officer surprised in a Quincy store.

Policeman Hollis was found dead with a bullet in his heart, stretched out on a platform in the rear of the store. One bullet had been fired from his revolver. Police who are building the case against Hoppe have the theory that Policemen Hollis fired at his assassin as he fled from the store.

Information about Hoppe's wounded hand was obtained from the girl with whom he lived in this city and whom he took to Paris in the summer of 1927. Before and after that time he was around Hartford and lived in New Haven for a time. Massachusetts policemen, who are here investigating the Quincy murder and local police went to New Haven today to check up on the suspect's activities there. They refused to give out any information on their day's work but the Massachusetts men, State Detective Michael Fleming and Lieut. George Fallon, of the Quincy police, said they had enough to keep them here for nother day at least.

Hoppe has been moved from the first floor to the third floor of the hospital in order to make any attempted escape difficult. He is under constant guard.

According to Dr. John D. Greenberg, police surgeon, Hoppe's physical condition is good and his resistance is high. So far, X-rays have failed to locate the bullet in his lung. Until it is found an operation for its removal cannot be performed.

Dr. Greenberg said that there are at least five gun wounds on Hoppe's body and two scars behind the ears from the face-lifting operation he had performed in an effort to make identity difficult. Besides the bullet in the lung, Hoppe has been wounded on the left hand, on one leg and in the back under the left arm.

OCCUM CONSTABLE MADE DOUBLE-BARRELED ARREST

Constable Filligar of Occum made a double-barreled capture Friday night of two men accused of driving their automobiles while under the influence of liquor. He was on his way to police headquarters in this city with Joseph Haggee, 46, of Versailles as a prisoner when he found that there was a whole string of cars held up on the Occum flats because of the erratic driving of a machine at the head of the line, which was "all over the road." Getting past this machine and bringing it to a halt, Constable Filligar found that the driver was Arthur C. Tillinghast, 55, a lumber dealer in Plainfield.

Placing Tillinghast under arrest, Constable Filligar telephone to Norwich police headquarters for help and Officer P. Shahan was sent to Occum with the motor patrol wagon to bring the prisoners in. Upon their arrival at police headquarters, Dr. W. T. Driscoll, who happened to be there, gave each man an examination before they were held.

Haggee was arrested after the machine he was driving had collided with the Beauregard motor meat market. The Beauregard machine knocked down a mail box post in trying to keep out of the way of the other car.

Mr. Varley writes his former parishioners: "With the return of the Lenten season, we invite you once more into the fellowship of spiritual meditation and spiritual discipline; the fellowship of earnest prayer, and the devotional study of the Word of God. We know that life can be spiritually sound all through the year. Nevertheless the Lenten season comes as a special opportunity to requicken those spiritual qualities which make life a real expression of the divine. Life and its ultimate destiny is too serious a thing to be trifled with. So join with us, that together, for a while at least we may seek first the Kingdom of God. Sincerely your friend and pastor, Arthur Varley."

The lenten devotions at Sacred Heart church Friday evening consisted of the stations of the Cross and benediction of the blessed sacrament.

A letter is being held at the local postoffice for Mrs. Harjin, unknown to the postmaster.

FORD FLIVVER FELL INTO THE OCEAN OFF FLORIDA PILOT BELIEVED DROWNED

The Plane Has Been Located, Partly Submerged, a Half Mile Off Sebastian, Fla.—It is believed That Pilot Harry Brooks is Strapped in the Plane—Two Fishermen Attempted to Throw a Rope Over the Plane, But the Rough Sea Forced Them to Desist—Brooks Had Made a Distance Record For Planes of 40 Horsepower.

SEBASTIAN, Fla., Feb. 26—(AP)—The Ford flivver plane which fell into the sea last night while Harry Brooks was piloting it to Miami was found today partly submerged a half mile off shore near here. Such a stiff northeast wind was blowing, however, that it was believed that it would be many hours before it could be recovered and brought to shore.

Three seaplanes from Miami sighted the diminutive airplane about noon and Major M. K. Lee and Captain Harry Rogers, who were in the planes, said they plainly made out the name, "Ford," and also the number. Later two fishermen went out in a "sea skiff" and tried to throw a rope over the airplane but the rough sea forced them to put back.

The seaplanes reported that the tail only was above water but the fishermen said that it was the tip of a wing that could be seen. The sea was so muddy that even the fishermen, Theodore Davis and Karl Schurmann, could not make out the cockpit. C. F. Bowman, of the Ford branch at Jacksonville, had stated that Brooks was strapped in the plane when he left Titusville late yesterday and undoubtedly would be found still fastened to it.

The fishermen expressed the opinion, however, that the body was not in the cockpit, although they could not be certain. The water where the plane was seen is about 50 feet deep, and the location was about four miles south of here and half a mile off a marshy shore.

The seaplanes, which had been delayed by fog, arrived from Miami at 11:30 and found the flivver plane in a few minutes. After reporting that, they went on to Fort Pierce to send a fast boat back in an effort to recover the Ford plane. It was believed that it would take four or five hours to get a boat here from Fort Pierce.

Sam Baker, an official of the Ford agency at Ft. Lauderdale was left in charge of the search, as Mr. Bowman had returned to Jacksonville before the seaplanes sighted Brooks' plane. Fishermen said that due to the direction of wind and tide it was feared that the plane would be carried out to sea, unless recovered in a short time. On the other hand, the turn of the tide might bring it to shore late tonight or early tomorrow.

There appeared to be little chance that it could be recovered tonight, and after the experience reported by Davis and Schumann, others feared to try to row out to the spot.

Brooks, who had made a distance record for planes of 40 horsepower or less, in his flight from Detroit which ended at Titusville, instead of Miami, as planned, because of a leaking gasoline line, had been held at Titusville by a broken propeller for several days.

He took off from Titusville late yesterday to complete his hop to Miami and about dusk was seen off Melbourne, apparently seeking a place to land. Persons along the beach saw the airplane head out to sea a short distance, dip and then recover itself momentarily, then it seemed to dip into the water.

It was not certain for several hours that it was Brooks' plane, but as the night wore along and he did not arrive at Miami, or report from some other point, watchers became certain that it was the Ford flivver plane that they had seen go down. Melbourne, too, is on an airline between Titusville and Miami.

The small plane appeared to have been kept from going to the bottom by its relative lightness combined with whatever buoyancy was supplied by the partly empty gasoline tank. How long it thus could be kept buoyed was a matter of conjecture, fraught with deep concern to those on shore, since the craft was not designed to float.

A strong ebb tide was flowing, indicating that the disabled flying machine might be carried far to sea before a boat of sufficient seaworthiness could reach it.

There were no craft of sufficient depth here to cope with the rough water, causing rescuers to turn to Fort Pierce, 28 miles south of here, for the shrimp tug. Its equipment of derrick and grapples was thought to be necessary to secure the plane in view of the fishermen's failure to attach a line to the wing to bring it ashore.

At the time it was sighted the diminutive craft already had drifted some 12 or 14 miles down the coast from the spot where it was seen to fall into the sea, a mile or more off Melbourne. The latter point is 18 miles north of here.

Efforts to salvage the plane were brought to a standstill tonight because of a rough sea that made it hazardous for small craft to venture out, but will be resumed at dawn when a large shrimp boat from Fort Pierce is expected.

Rumors that Brooks' body had been washed ashore near Melbourne were declared by Ford officials to be without foundation.

FEAR WRECKED FLIVVER IS DRIFTING OUT TO SEA

SEBASTIAN, Fla., Feb. 26—(AP)—The wing tip of Harry Brooks' ill-fated Ford "flivver" monoplane which plunged into the ocean off Melbourne late yesterday and which was located a half mile off shore here today had disappeared tonight and grave fears were expressed that the wreck was drifting out to sea.

A Coast Guard patrol boat and a sea plane were standing by where the plane was last sighted and expected to take up the search again at dawn.

POPE DENOUNCES INMODEST DRESS OF MODERN WOMEN

ROME, Feb. 26—(AP)—The shameless immodesty of dress of too many modern women from which results "insults to the eyes of God and cause for temptation or disgust in the eyes of the world," was scored by Pope Pius today in his first Lenten utterance.

This denunciation occurred in the course of a ceremony in the Consistory hall of the Vatican to commemorate the virtues of the venerable Elisabetta Mora, a Roman matron, who was, during her lifetime, a member of the Tertiary Trinitarian order.

Altogether too many modern women are lamentably far removed from the Christian model of wife and mother, the pontiff declared. "There are so many poor daughters," so many young—and also not so young—he added, who seem to have forgotten the very meanings of the Christian name, and the first principles of Christian living and customs.

The pope called the example of the venerable Elisabetta most precious today when sanctification of the family is so necessary for the salvation of society.

Although in his early life, Mr. O'Brien had been threatened with consumption and although more than two years of his storm life had been spent in prison, he was more than 75 years of age at his death.

A leader during the Parell period of Irish history, remarkable for its severity on all, O'Brien was nine times prosecuted for political offenses as the result of his fighting faith in the home rule movement. He was always in the vanguard of those who strove for Ireland's liberty and was in constant conflict with the British authorities.

MRS. EVA DUGAN GUILTY OF MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

Mrs. Dugan, 50 years old and the mother of two children, confessed to participating in the killing of A. J. Mattie, a recluse rancher, more than a year ago.

Dirigible Los Angeles Is Flying to Panama

Making the First Attempted Non-Stop Flight of a Lighter Than-Air Craft.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The dirigible, Los Angeles took off from her hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., this morning at 6.15 o'clock in an attempted non-stop flight to Panama field, Panama.

This is the first attempted non-stop flight of a lighter-than-air craft to Panama Canal zone. It was undertaken as a training flight and to demonstrate the feasibility of such a service for commercial service.

If successfully completed, the flight of approximately [illegible] miles, will be the longest of the German-built dirigible since she flew from Germany. Two years ago she flew to Porto Rico.

Contemplated for some time, the flight to Panama was kept secret until the airship left Lakehurst at 6.15 a. m. and had cruised to New York at 9 a. m. before heading her nose southward towards the Bahama Islands, where, according to a radio message to the navy department, she expects to be about midnight.

It was originally announced that the Los Angeles was taking a cruise to Guacanayabo bay, Cuba, where the naval tender Patoka, which is equipped with a mooring mast for airships, is anchored. It was the hope of the navy department that she would complete her journey without stopping, but the Patoka was anchored in the Cuban waters, about 1500 miles south of Lakehurst, to be available in event weather conditions prevent the continuation of the flight.

Lieutenant Commander C. E. Rosendahl, commander of the airship, was given full authority over her and if he considers it discreet to moore the aircraft on the Patoka, this will be done. Then when weather conditions are favorable, the flight will be resumed.

According to the plans, Lieut. Commander Rosendahl will also determine whether he will return the Los Angeles in a non-stop flight from France field to her hangar at Lakehurst. Otherwise he must moor her on the Patoka where fuel and emergency machinery may be taken on.

For some time the Los Angeles, following her remarkable achievement of landing on the deck of the airplane carrier Saratoga, has been preparing for the trip to France field, where a stub mast of but 60 feet in height has been erected.

At 4 p. m. the big airship reported by radio to the navy department that she was cruising south along the Atlantic seaboard between Savannah, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla., about 240 miles out to sea. Everything was well aboard.

The navy department again heard from the Los Angeles at 8 p. m., when the ship gave her position at approximately 300 miles due east of Datona, Fla., and 300 miles northwest of Nassau in the Bahamas. No details regarding weather conditions of flying progress were given.

OFFER TO DEFINE AN "AGGRESSOR NATION"

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—An offer to define an "aggressor nation," to hasten ratification of the proposed international agreement to end war, was made in a letter to President Coolidge made public today by a group of prominent men.

The signers included former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, William Allen White, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Major General John F. O'Ryan, Samuel Colcord, George Haven Putnam, Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster and Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale.

Lack of a definition acceptable to France, Great Britain and the United States threatens to wreck negotiations toward adoption of the agreement, the later asserts. "The one way to avert failure," it continues, "is by the discovery and adoption of a definition of the aggressor nation in war which would effectively define and identify the aggressor nation and at the same time be acceptable to the governments joining the treaty.

"Some of us believe that the needed definition has been found. We await other possible offerings, if they are not forthcoming it is our purpose to give you and the public, within a week, the apparently sufficient one we have in mind."

FOUR MEN TO CROSS THE OCEAN IN 20-FOOT LIFEBOAT

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands, Feb. 26—(AP)—Four men today set sail from here in a 20-foot lifeboat on a voyage to New York which they hope to accomplish in forty days.

The boat is named the Shuttevaer after its inventor who was aboard as first helmsman. He claims for his craft that it is non-capsizable in the severest weather and hopes by this trip to demonstrate its importance as a part of the equipment of ocean liners. The others in the crew are Captain Smit, Second Helmsman Geissen, and Radio operator Stratetmans. The latter hopes to maintain communication through a short wave radio outfit with either Europe or America and will attempt to send daily reports of the boat's progress.

The three-ton boat is stocked with provisions sufficient for more than sixty days.

Passenger and Air Pilot Are Missing

They Have Failed to Return to Curtiss Field From a Flight 50 Miles Out to Sea.

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Search by air today brought no trace of Walter Hendricks, pilot, and an unidentified passenger, who failed to return last night from a flight 50 miles out to sea.

The two men in a Waco biplane, left Curtiss field at 1.0 p. m. Saturday, for a sea flight the purpose of which was not disclosed. A plane sent in search of the fliers today returned at dust reporting no trace of the airplane.

Pilots at Curtiss field expressed the theory that the engine of Hendrick's plane was affected by the cold weather and he was forced to land either in the sea or on a sand bar near Fire Island. They held little hope for either Hendricks or his passenger in the event they were forced to land in the water.

The searching plane, under M. Merill, service pilot, accompanied by a mechanic and a passenger, reported searching an area of 70 miles off New York, with a visibility of 100 miles.

Hendricks was 27 years old and a resident of New York.

Nothing was known at the airfield of his passenger.

Coast guard cutters, headed by the Seminole, took up the search for the missing plane this afternoon.

As no word was received from them hope that the plane may have landed on a sand bar vanished.

25 PERSONS ARRESTED FOR MAIL TRAIN ROBBERY

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Acting on tips, coming ostensibly from Chicago's underworld, city and federal detectives today arrested 25 persons, five of them women, in connection with the daring $132,000 payroll robbery of a Grand trunk train in the southwestern outskirts of the city yesterday.

Currency, totalling $17,155 and believed to be part of the mail train loot, together with two small bonds, was recovered at the home of Charles Cleavis one of those arrested.

Several arrests are anticipated and when all suspects are rounded up, complete solution of the train robbery as well as a dozen other major robberies during the past year is thought possible, Chief of Detectives Michael Grady announced.

The prisoners, taken in several raids, were held incommunicado tonight. Among them, the detectives said, were several with prison records, and the actual robbers of the train.

While only six men were believed to have committed yesterday's robbery, the others, the detectives said, will be held as accessories in the engineering of the holdup and escape of the six men.

The spot where yesterday's robbery occurred was just two city blocks from the scene of a similar robbery less than a year ago when $135,000 was taken. Detectives, however, were convinced there was no connection between the two holdups.

BOY HELD FOR THEFT OF A TAN LEATHER COAT

HARTFORD, Feb. 26—(AP)—Marvin J. Farnsworth, 17, of Washington, D. C., was arrested at Brainard field tonight for the New Haven police on a charge of theft of a tan leather coat and other articles from Captain R. D. Horton, at the second regiment armory in New Haven on February 22.

Farnsworth claims to be a son of Colonel Farnsworth, attached to Kelly field, Texas, and to have been living with a family at 2663 Pennsylvania avenue, Washington. New Haven police said they had checked this statement and found there was no such address.

The boy came to Hartford, he said, to fly back to Washington tomorrow on one of two bombing planes due to leave Brainard field. He said he had studied aviation and was about to take his examination for a pilot's license. The leather coat, alleged to have been taken from Captain Horton, completed an outfit composed of riding breeches, high shoes, leather helmet and goggles, and police believe Farnsworth is obsessed with the idea of being an aviator.

OBITUARY

Rev. Dr. Charles Francis Carter

HARTFORD, Feb. 26—(AP)—Rev. Dr. Charles Francis Carter, pastor-emeritus, of the Immanuel Congregational church of this city, died at his home here at 1 p. m. today. His death came as the result of a heart ailment which began in April of last year.

Born in Chicopee Falls, Mass., June 14, 1856, Dr. Carter attended Williston academy and was graduated from Yale university in 1878. One of Yale's outstanding athletic heroes, he played on the varsity baseball team during the four years of his course. As a junior in 1877, he pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Harvard, winning 5 to 0. Only 27 men faced him on that occasion.

He was one of the first college pitchers to use the curve ball and in his hands, this new device caused the defeat of a number of Yale's strongest opponents and traditional rivals. As a freshman he played second base, but during the last three years of his undergraduate career, he was the pitching mainstay of the team.

Dr. Carter is survived by three sons, Dwight Herrick Carter, of New York; Lyon Carter, of Lexington, Mass., and Frederic D. Carter, of New York; one brother, N. P. Ames Carter, of Chicopee Falls, Mass., and eight grandchildren. His wife died in this city, April 32, 1923.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Explosion of 13 crude oil stills of the Sun Oil company rocked a large part of Toledo tonight. Five men, including two firemen, were removed to hospitals. One is expected to die.

Flames shot high into the air and it was feared that many other tanks in the field would let go at any minute as the fire began to spread. Company guards were thrown about the field and reporters and camera men forcibly ejected.

Vern Sinclair, 29, and Earl Miller, both employes of the oil plant were reported as the most seriously injured. Hospital attaches held little hope for Sinclair who was burned from head to foot, when caught in a mass of oil flames that followed the first blast.

Every fireman in the city was sent to the scene when the flames spread to seven other tanks. Thirteen million gallons of oil were either endangered or destroyed.

Search was begun for an employe named Cruz, and two firemen who were reported missing. The plant employed 250 men and although a hurried check failed to show the number of men at work when the explosion occurred, it was believed all except Cruz escaped from it.

WESTERLY

BRIDGE WHIST SEMI-FINALS AROUSE LIVELY INTEREST

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 26—Interest continues to run high in the Westerly elimination bridge whist tournament, in which the semi-finals were played Saturday evening in the rooms of the Westerly Square and Compass club. Crowds continued to stand about the two tables in play and the outer fringe even viewed the play from the vantage point of standing in chairs.

The first table completed play amid loud handclapping when the team of R. Sparro-J. H. Hodgson, S. and C. club players defeated the Colonial club pair, F. G. Ahern-Dr. J. D. Barber, by the total points of 2338 to 1750 for a margin of 178 points.

Going into the fifth and last rubber, the Westerly team, Olcott G. Mills and Mrs. S. H. Davis, led their New London opponents, Grout and Beckwith by 291 points. In the final rubber Grout and Beckwith won out 2326 to 2400, amid the liveliest demonstration.

Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Square and Compass club rooms will be started the tournament finals when R. Sparro and J. H. Hodgson of Westerly, now sure of either first or second prize, will play the New Londoners, Grout and Beckwith, seven instead of the customary five rubbers for the elimination supremacy. Should Grout and Beckwith win, the tournament will end with them in first position, while on the other hand should Sparro and Hodgson win, those Westerly players would have first position, and in that case Grout and Beckwith of New London would on Tuesday evening play Ahern and Barber of Westerly for the title to second position. First prizes are electric bridge lamps and seconds are card tables and bridge sets of playing cards, pads and leather cases. A record breaking crowd is expected to witness the final play, which some observers Saturday compared to the thrill of watching a football contest, in the suspense involved.

WEDDING

A wedding of interest to Westerly residents and summer visitors alike was that at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at St. Bartholomew's church, New York, when Miss Mary Stuart Cottrell, daughter of Mrs. Agnes Clark Cottrell, and the late Calvert Byron Cottrell of 277 Park avenue, New York, and 18 Elm street, Westerly, became the bride of Ridley Watts, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ridley Watts of Morristown, N. J., and summer residents in former years at their cottage, "Sowanniu", Watch Hill.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Clifton Macon of New York. The matron of honor was Mrs. Randolph E. Chandler of New York, a sister of the bride, and the only attendance. The bride's gown was of white satin with court train which hung from her shoulders. Her veil of tulle was intertwined with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white orchid and lily-of-the-valley. DANIELSON

LAROCHELLE GIVES STATE POLICE PLENTY OF TROUBLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 26—Edgar Larochelle, 22, of 60 Mott street, New Bedford, spent today in the police station here with ample time to contemplate what is coming to him. According to his afternoon plans, he will appear in court in Jewett City Monday morning to answer to evading responsibility for an accident in which the car he was driving figured in that town on Saturday, and also for driving without having an operator's license. And when the Griswold court is done with him Fall River officers will make known that they want him for stealing a car in that city last Thursday. The car was in the custody of the state police at the barracks here this afternoon. At noon today inspectors Charles Westgate and Joseph Dufresne of the Fall River police department arrived here to check up on Larochelle and were in conference with Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart at the barracks.

It appears that Larochelle stole the car from where it was parked in a street in Fall River. He unlocked the ignition switch with a Yale key that apparently is for a house door or some larger lock than the one on the ignition.

Having stolen the car, he drove away into Connecticut, and it now develops that he had been in Plainfield, where he formerly lived, since the day he stole the car. No suspicion was directed against him until his machine hit another one in Jewett City Saturday and dashed off, evading responsibility, though an officer fired at the car in an effort to halt him. He recklessly drove the machine out on the rutted Hopeville route and, cutting across the Plainfield-Jewett City highway, inside another wild dash up an almost impassable country road leading toward South Canterbury. The impression gained that he was a hunted rum-runner.

State police headquarters here were notified of the episode and the number of the car Larochelle was driving given. A few minutes after 11 o'clock Saturday night, State Officer Elton Nolan was in a downtown restaurant when he caught a glimpse of the little green roadster heading south. He pursued the car, overtaking it at Wauregan, but waiting to Central Village until he halted the driver. Great was Officer Nolan's surprise when Larochelle greeted him with a familiar "hello, Elton," for, it so happens, the two went to grammar school together in Plainfield. Larochelle represented to the officer that a friend had let him take the car, but this afternoon he admitted he had stolen it.

NEW BEDFORD BOY IS ARRESTED FOR THEFT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 26—Another youth out of New Bedford—Henry Comier, 19—was locked up at the police station here today, awaiting appearance in the town court of Plainfield Monday morning. Comier was arrested by a state officer from the Danielson barracks in Putnam Saturday night.

The youngster is wanted to answer to a charge of theft, and it will be alleged against him in court that he stole two watches and two rings, the property of Uldege Lebeau, at the home of Joseph Varineau, in Plainfield. Comier, it is understood, had been in Plainfield only a week.

SNEAK THIEF GETS $163 AT DANIELSON FREIGHT STATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 26—State, local and railroad police spent Saturday in an endeavor to establish who filched $163.03 from the office of the freight station of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. company here last Friday at the noon hour. Outside police circles, practically no one knew of the theft until Saturday. There was no one at the office when the theft occurred, but the circumstances indicate that the thief was someone familiar with the freight station and more or less so with where money might be found and taken when no one was around. The money was in bills of denominations ranging from $1 to $20. There was a little change. It is believed that the thief reached in through a window and took the money. Police held one man for questioning for a time Saturday afternoon, but later released him.

PUTNAM

CITIZENS TO VOTE ON WATER QUESTION TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 26—The polls will be open for the voters of the city of Putnam to cast their votes to settle the much disputed water question tomorrow. As the leaders of the cement reservoir plan and the leaders of the steel tank plan know that this vote will decide the question they have been at work since Friday circulating flyers and other convincing literature about the homes of the city.

The mass meeting that was held in the city hall on Thursday evening gave all the citizens who cared to voice their opinions a chance to express themselves, and their views on the question.

The water commissioners and committee of citizens are favoring the cement reservoir on Richmond hill, and the cost to install the tank of 2,000,000 gallons capacity is $134,000, while Mayor Richard and the majority of the common council are supporting the steel tank which will contain 1,000,000 gallons, and which will cost $64,450,000, including the laying of the foundation and laying 9,930 feet of pipe. The proposed steel tank will be erected on Bates hill at the northern part of School street.

During the past week the water question has received more discussion than ever before, and the voters will be given their chance to settle the question when the polls open today (Monday) at 9 o'clock and remain open until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. A vote with a "yes" on it will indicate that the citizen favors the cement reservoir plan while a vote marked "no," will indicate that he favors the erecting of the steel tank. It is expected that each voter in the city will be on hand today when the polls open to cast his vote to settle the old question of what kind of material should be used in building the addition to Putnam's waterworks.

They succeeded in escaping with some cash that belonged to the high school paper that was in the office. After an investigation it was found that there are some Latin books and other text books missing from the English room where the break was made. The job looks to be the work of some amateur burglar who was acquainted with the lay out of the building, and who was striving hard for an education. The glass panels that were removed from the doors were replaced by local carpenters Friday. Further investigation of the case is being made by school authorities and every effort to run down the thieves is being made by Captain Jarvis of the local police.

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 26—Saturday afternoon at 4:50 a Pontiac roadster, Massachusetts registration, sideswiped a Rhode Island machine, near St. Mary's church. The driver made his get-away without stopping to see what damage had been caused. The occupants of the Rhode Island machine found Officer Veglard, and with him started after the Pontiac, the machine having gone down Ashland street. It came out on North Main, near the officer's home. His whistle signal stopped the machine, which beat it again, when the driver discovered that it was the machine he had struck. They chased him to the turn to Packerville where he took the country road. Officer Veglard firing two shots at the fleeing machine. After following him some distance, the Rhode Island men gave up the chase, on account of the condition of the road. Officer Veglard went to a nearby house and notified the state police at Danielson. At eleven o'clock Officer Nolan of the barracks caught the man at the crossing in Central Village.

The man was Edwgar La Rochelle, 22, of Mott street, New Bedford. He had stolyen the machine from Fall River February 22nd. He was accompanied to Jewett City by an uncle and nephew of Plainfield, the young man's former home. He had told them it was a borrowed machine.

Inspectors Westgate and Dufresne of Fall River came to Danielson when notified. Officer Veglard and Dolan went to Danielson and brought the young man to the local police station. Monday morning he will be tried on two charges, driving without a license and evading responsibility. He claimed that he had been at a party in New Bedford and was driven to Fall River by some one, and took the machine from where he did not remember.

Voluntown schools, churches and public hall are closed, on account of several cases of diphtheria. One child who has been very ill, is much better. Three more children have the disease, and another is under observation. A free clinic is to be held at Dr. H. T. Thurber's office today (Monday) at ten o'clock, for anyone to be inoculated, as a prevenative. Two of the children Marian Fletcher and Helen Magrey took part in the recital at Pachaug Grange hall at the Community club meeting Thursday night.

Priscilla Goodenough made a typical Indian girl, in a native costume, worn at the meeting held on the Day of International Prayer held Friday afternoon in the Baptist church.

Tuesday evening, Dorcas Circle of The King's Daughters is to hold a postponed valentine social at the Congregational parsonage.

Sounds like a mighty good ticket for president, Herbert Hoover and for vice president, John Q. Tilsoff of Connecticut. There may be better men than Hoover, probably there are, but Hoover has courage enough to come out flat-footed and tell what he wants and doesn't want. Smith appears to be the democratic favorite over in this corner, although Jim Reed has supporters who will stick to the end. There is one lunatic crazy enough to boost for Heflin.

MRS. SARGENT'S CHILDREN

"Keeps My Three Children In Wonderful Disposition"

Your worst enemy is constipation—especially is it a danger in children. Symptoms are: sour stomach, belching, offensive breath, heavy, dull eyes, constant headache, and general out-of-sorts, grouchy feeling. Let Dr. True's Elixir bring you proper, quick relief as it has Mrs. Sargent's children.

Mrs. William H. Sargent of 120 Forest St., Malden, Mass., writes: "On the recommendation of my doctor I started giving Dr. True's Elixir. I have the utmost faith in it. Whenever the children are cross or feverish I give it to them with wonderful results and it has been the means of keeping wonderful dispositions in my three children."

The True Family Laxative

Used Since 1851. Family Size $1.20; other sizes 60c & 40c

You do it without thinking, but this time—

THINK.

When you turn on the ignition and touch your foot to the starter you send the electric current flowing through the starter switch providing the power to turn the starting motor which engages the starting gear with the engine fly-wheel, turning over the crankshaft in its bearings and the camshaft which works the tappets, 8, 12, or 16 of them, to open and close the valves, as the 4, 6 or 8 pistons, joined to the crankshaft by connecting rods through the same number of wrist-pin bearings move down to draw in the charges of gasoline and up against compression—till the spark fires and the pistons give their first hot thrusts of power downward through the connecting rods to the engine main shaft, and the gears spinning in the transmission housing, ready for "clutch out" and your shift into low, to intermediate—and then to high.

Every movement depends on oil—on correct lubrication. It's an important responsibility. The means are provided in the design of the car, the rest is for you to decide. Think—and get good oil—

MOTHER

A Cross, Sick Child is Constipated! Look at Tongue

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

NAVAL CONSTRUCTION

One correspondent in criticising the attitude of opponents of the navy bill that was presented to congress and calling for an expenditure of $794,000,000 has expressed surprise at some of them and voiced the belief that it is due to a failure to understand what is being attempted. He gets the impression that the opponents of the bill have gotten the idea that more than three quarters of the bill would be spent by this congress for naval construction, when as a matter of fact that is not the intention. He directs attention to the fact that such an expenditure would be called for ultimately by the adoption of the construction programme but that it covers a period of years and the present congress cannot commit future congresses to expenditures which they do not approve.

There is no doubt but what the large sum involved in the naval bill has staggered many who have considered it. That many have the wrong idea concerning what is to be undertaken immediately is possible, but it is quite evident that if it is not necessary to give endorsement to a programme covering five or more years and providing for replacement of capital ships it might be just as well to either give a better explanation to what the bill means or resort to the modified plan.

In connection with this modified programme it will be noted that 15 cruisers and an airplane carrier are provided for to cost $274,000,000. This is about a third of the first bill, but even in this connection it is to be noted that the expenditure would be spread over a period of five to six years so that only three cruisers would be paid down each year and succeeding congresses would have a chance to increase or decrease the programme in accordance with the conditions that are faced. If there should be developments calling for a greater defensive fleet they could be met. If on the other hand there should be agreements among nations for further limitations it ought not to be necessary to go through with a building programme just because it had been voted some years ago.

STOPPING HITCH HIKERS

Within the past few weeks the question has arisen in Massachusetts concerning the advisability of enacting legislation that would prohibit hitch-hiking on the ground that it is an unwise practice from the safety and moral standpoint with boys and girls, as well as their elders, participating in it.

The Bay state has not gotten to the point where there seems to be any certainty that such a law will be passed. There is in fact much opposition to it because it is claimed that it is no crime to ask for a ride, but while Massachusetts is deliberating and others may be thinking about something of the kind there is a chance to watch the effect of such a law in operation, for Minnesota has been stirred to action and put a law upon its statute books prohibiting the solicitation of a ride upon the highways.

Minnesota has watched the changed situation until it believed the auto driver was entitled to relief from the responsibility of standing suit from those who, begging a ride, might be injured through an accident, that the temptation to children to runaway that was placed in the way of children should be eliminated and that the motorist should get such protection as possible from robbers who beg rides solely to carry on their business.

In every state it has long since become a practice for persons wanting to go from one point to another to line the highways leading out of the city and bid for every vacant seat that goes by, and in many instances it is a command with abuse instead of a plea that is made. It is a practice which has caused many motorists to turn a deaf ear upon all solicitations because of the adverse results accruing to many kind hearted drivers.

But while other states are considering similar action to that in Minnesota they will be quick to give close attention to the success which is attained in that state in enforcing the new law, which doesn't promise to be an easy thing unless there is full cooperation on the part of all motorists and that is something which is decidedly uncertain.

THE KANSAS BANK ROBBERY

From time to time we have heard much said about the unsinkable ship, the burglar proof safe and the robber proof bank, but we continue to learn through the news dispatches that ships continue to sink, safes are blown open and banks are robbed.

There is a bank in Kansas City, an institution with many employes, which had anticipated the possible coming of robbers to the extent of providing its clerks with revolvers and installing burglar alarms at all desks, which considered that it was impervious to attacks by robbers. In the past week, however, that bank was held up and the well organized gang of desperate characters, defying bullets and the authorities, got away with $50,000.

From all indications it would appear that that institution was basking in the shadow of a false security. Provisions had been made which it was believed would be sufficient to meet an emergency, but the officials had not figured upon the kind of attack that was made or the strategy that was used in carrying it out. The bank had been carefully studied. Presumably the robbers knew what provisions had been made to greet them and they so arranged their attack as to render them as nearly useless as possible. They at least so employed their number as to completely command the situation, convinced the people in the bank, clerks, guards and patrons, that they meant business and despite the small arsenal in the desks of the clerks and the alarms ready to call the police they did their job and got away with their loot without a scratch.

At the same time they disproved that the bank was proof against robbers.

Where does the remedy lie for such crime? Does it rest with the handing of applause to such an accomplishment and the extension of great sympathy and liberal funds for defense in case the perpetrators are caught; or does it lie in the prompt capture and quick and effective punishment for the participants? Are we giving encouragement to such crime by the tendency to more and more liberal treatment of those who plan to live by such methods?

FIRE APPARATUS ACCIDENTS

New Haven is interested just at the present time in the investigation of two accidents in which fire apparatus has figured. The desire is to determine whether too much speed is being used in driving the motor apparatus through crowded streets, or whether there is a failure on the part of the other motor vehicle drivers to yield the right of way.

When the New Haven aerial truck crashed into the side of a standing trolley car, it is stated by an eyewitnesses that it was caused by the driver of the truck trying to dodge another automobile, and in the case of the second accident one report has it that the driver of a coupe that was struck was paying more attention to a girl passenger than he was to his driving. The inference is that he was making no effort to get out of the way of the fire apparatus, although there are those who maintain that fire apparatus is driven too fast in that city and it is wiser to get to a fire a minute late than not at all.

In the investigation that New Haven will make it is to be expected that there will be a thorough inquiry into all angles of the situation. In these days of many parked cars, much traffic and the disposition of some to refuse to get out of the way there is much peril for the firemen. New Haven may find it necessary to adopt the plan which has been put into effect in Washington of assigning certain motorcycle police to busy fire companies for the purpose of promptly arresting those drivers who refuse to draw up to the curb or out of the way when they hear the siren of the fire apparatus. On the other hand, of course reckless driving isn't to be expected from those at the wheel of fire apparatus.

BATTLING LOBBYISTS

Lobbyists have always been the object of attacks. They have been responsible for much opposition that is shown toward them. Because they have been nuisances, of themselves they have created a demand for their elimination and by the bill which Senator Caraway has introduced and which has been favorably reported by the judiciary committee it is hoped to obtain some relief.

The measure does not prohibit lobbying but it would require all those engaged in lobbying in both branches of the legislature to register with the capitol clerks giving their names, the interests for whom they appear and the salaries received. This would apply to those who serve for pay in attempts to influence legislation or present the enactment of laws.

Those who have had experience in any legislature, whether it be state or federal, know the many who are acting for the advancement or the blocking of certain causes. They do not make the path of the legislator any rosier. They may mean trouble, inconvenience and annoyance and it is in the hope of making such come out from under cover and declare themselves that the new law is being offered.

It is to be remembered, however, that there are good lobbyists, even though there are bad ones. There are those who go before the legislators with worthwhile information and contribute to worthwhile legislation. They would be included if they serve for pay but they would have the assurance that it was not the kind of service they render which prompted the Caraway bill. Under the bill it is probable that many would quit, or be called off by their backers, rather than publicly proclaim themselves and their purpose.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Pea soup may be flavored with crushed dried mint.

Good coffee cannot be made without freshly boiled water.

Strips of pimento make a pleasing garnish for escalloped vegetables.

Stewed celery is fine served on toast with drawn butter sauce.

Boil potatoes which are to be mashed in their jackets and there will be no waste.

Two tablespoons of liquid equal one ounce.

For a change serve hamburg steak in a thick cream gravy.

Chopped celery, spinach or cabbage make good sandwiches, combined with whole wheat bread.

Seedless raisins are a pleasing addition to chocolate fudge.

Cabbage is best eaten raw. Most of its valuable properties are destroyed in cooking.

Empty the carpet sweeper on a damp newspaper to prevent the dust from scattering.

Wax the bottom of your rockers and they will not make marks on the hardwood floors.

To preserve left-over paint, melt paraffin over the top as you do for jelly glasses. The paint will stay soft indefinitely.

If you drop a stitch in a new silk stocking, it may be mended for a very small charge in nearly all the large dry goods stores.

Leaves of the house plants should be frequently washed, as smoke and dust from fires cover the leaves and kill plants.

Eggs that are fresh have dull shells. If you wish to keep a newlaid egg fresh, rub it over with oil or pure glycerine.

If canned chicken is used for creamed chicken or casseroles the flavor is improved by a can of chicken broth—not soup—as a basis of the cream sauce.

SANDPAPER THE STOVE

If the surface of your stove looks rough, it is probably due to an accumulation of stove blacking. Sandpaper rubbed over the surface will make it is smooth as when new.

FOR MATCH SCRATCHES

Marks made on paint by scratching matches can be removed by rubbing first with a slice of lemon, then with whiting, and finally washing well with soap and water.

A COOK'S TIP

When you are making an open pie bake it on a tin plate, and when it is done slip it on the plate on to a wire tray to cool. In this way it will be light. Cooked on an earthenware plate and left on to cool, so that the steam has no chance to escape, is a sure means of making pastry heavy.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

To reduce, eat nothing between meals, especially avoiding the midnight feast.

Pain from scalds and burns can be relieved almost immediately by applying a poultice made of oatmeal and good water. The meal has both soothing and healing qualities.

Both blonde and brunette who wish to preserve their youthful complexion must exercise the utmost care in bathing the face, never using hard water and discontinuing the use of any soap that produces the slightest drawing of the skin, for this shows the withdrawal of the greatly needed natural oils, which keep the skin soft and pliant.

At this time of the year the housewife must have some method of keeping her hands white and soft right in the kitchen, so that it can be employed after dishwashing, vegetable preparation, etc. A box of dry bran on the dresser shelf is one very good suggestion. After removing the hands from water, dry well and then plunge into the bran, rubbing it well into the skin. If this is done after each washing, the hands will keep in good condition all winter.

VALUE OF CHEESE

Cheese is one of the richest in calcium of all common foods. Many Americans do not get enough calcium in their foods to furnish the quantity of the mineral needed for building and repairing teeth and bones. Cheese made from whole milk contains a considerable quantity of fat also. The protein of cheese is the same efficient kind as that in meat.

A LIGHT MERINGUE

To make a light, tender meringue, one that will not fall, break the eggs to be used for the meringue and immediately set them on the ice and chill. When chilled add two teaspoons of granulated sugar for every egg white used. Beat the egg whites until stiff and dry, add the sugar and return to the ice to chill again. Spread the meringue over the pie when partly cooled, and brown quickly in a hot oven.

SILVER POLISH HANDY

Always keep a jar of silver polish near the sink. When washing dishes it is a simple matter to rub over any piece of silver that needs to be cleaned.

BOILED PUDDINGS

When boiling a pudding, line the cloth with oiled paper. This will prevent the flavor from boiling out of the pudding and save labor when washing the cloth.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Silk pique is a fashionable choice for the separate blouse to wear with a tailored suit.

A smart slip, nowadays, ends from four to six inches shorter than the long length of the full skirt of lace or chiffon of its frock.

Silks, distinctly original and very suitable for extremely young girls, are printed with small motifs which illustrate Mother Goose rhymes.

Eight-button gloves in delicate shades of kid, making an appearance for evening, suggest a possible return of shoulder lengths.

Black chiffon underthings with yokes of silver or gold lace and trimmed with matching lace are the most stunning creations of the season.

A most luxurious foundation garment is made of heavy black webbing and black lace. Although the effect is of great fragility, in reality the garment is extremely strong.

Slippers for evening, which may be worn with more than one frock, are a problem, but a pair made of silvered satin brocade, with a single strap, are the solution in many instances.

The smart woman can have a feather in her hat any time she wants it, according to the latest style. One cardinal red mushroom felt has a tiny feather stuck right through the top of its crown.

The newest tweed for sports wear is brushed to give a heavy wooly texture—and the newest wool coat fabric for formal wear is a broadcloth-like material of exceptional smoothness and a new lightness.

The slight formality of silk pique makes it an admirable fabric for the tailored frock for spectator sports [illegible] incoming frocks of this material in their spring wardrobes.

SMART HATS FOR SPORT WEAR

Society has honored the beret, the flat felt cap worn by people of the Basque country, with its favor, dignifying it into one of the smartest sports hats French milliners are making for spring.

The mannequins at Molyneux wear navy blue berets with sports suits. They favor caps slightly larger than the Basque variety and wear them pulled down over their ears and the back of their heads.

SPRING GLOVES HAVE BRACELETS

Whether you affect any jewelry or not, your new spring gloves of washable glace or chamois should wear bracelets. These bracelets may be braided thongs or tailored looking bands of self material trimmed with centerpiece and buttons of snakeskin.

SEWING SUGGESTIONS

It is wise to pull a thread crosswise of the short kitchen curtains to assure their being even.

Use the hemmer on the machine to fold napkin hems evenly; then they will be ready to hem by hand.

When buying underwear, work the buttonholes with heavy thread before wearing them and they will not tear away. This saves time, as it is more work and harder to fix them after they are torn.

Cut the strips containing buttons and buttonholes from discarded garments and use them under a fly in new garments. It saves time and labor.

AIDS BREAD-MAKING

What is said to be an improved method of drying skimmed milk has been demonstrated in a recent experiment by the United States department of agriculture. At present only a small quantity of skimmed milk powder is used, which represents only 2 per cent. of what would be available if all skim milk resulting from the process of the buttermaking were used. Ten pounds of milk make very nearly one pound of the powder, which is said to be an excellent food material, composed of 38 per cent. proteins, 50 per cent. of lactose or milk sugar, and 8 per cent. of salts, which are valuable addition to the mineral content, according to the department.

The result of the new process is considered by the department as highly superior for bread-making. Not only does it increase the size of the loaf by 10 per cent., but it also adds to the flavor and nutritive value of the bread, the department says. The increased cost of the powdered milk is offset by the number of loaves that can be made from a barrel of flour, so that a more general use by bakers is probable, the department concludes.

FLOUR SACK FOR LAUNDRY BAG

Laundry bags need washing almost as frequently as the soiled clothes which they are to hold. A new-style bag which has many good points over the old drawstring varity is made of a material which can be washed or even boiled. They are so inexpensive to make that there is no reason why every member of the family should not have his own bag. In fact, they cost but a few cents apiece, since they are made out of used flour bags which almost any baker will sell you.

First rip the bag and then cover the inked spots with lard or soak them over night in kerosene. By morning the stamping can be easily washed out in lukewarm water. Then fold the goods in half, and make a slash in front through which to put in the soiled articles. The bag is emptied by simply unfastening the flap at the bottom. The top of the bag has a beading and a casing in which is run a small wooden slat or rod which can be slipped out for washing. The sides of the bag and the slash are bound with some bright-colored braid tape. Use a different color for each bag. The word "Laundry" may be cross-stitched on the flap or the initials of the owner.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Rio de Janeiro boasts of two women city engineers.

The Kansas City flying schools number many young women among their graduates.

Warsaw has 1,500 drivers of taxicabs, of which number there are only two women chauffeurs.

Gladys Johnson of Portland, Ore., has deserted motion picture work to take up radio work, spending much of her time in program arrangement.

Indian women in the central provinces, Bombay, Madras, Assam and Punjab, now are eligible to vote and hold office on the same terems as men.

An engineering corporation has been organized in Great Britain with a directorate composed wholly of women. The corporation will specialize in providing the rural districts with electric light and power.

Mrs. Elliott-Lynn, the woman flying ace of Great Britain, has married Sir James Heath, a wealthy iron manufacturer. A week before her marriage she created a new record for light planes by ascending to 19,000 feet, carrying a passenger.

A year ago the city of Nottingham appointed a woman as official "peacemaker," with whom all women applying to the courts for separation orders must discuss their problems. As a result of these heart-to-heart talks she has been able, in that time, to induce 501 couples to "have another try."

TO STOP FIRE IN CHIMNEY

When the chimney catches fire it can be stopped by closing doors and windows. If an open fireplace, hold a wet blanket in front to stop the draught.

TO GET RID OF MICE

If mice are a nuisance in the house, sprinkle cayenne pepper near the holes, or gum camphor.

RECIPES

Special Prune Preserves: After soaking dried prunes for four or six hours, or over night, using two pints of water to each pound of prunes, drain off the water. Into the water put for each two pounds of prunes, one pound of sugar, one-half a cup of vinegar and one teaspoon each of cinnamon, allspice and cloves. Put the spices in a bag or cloth. Boil all together without the prunes for 15 minutes or 20 minutes, until syruppy, then add the prunes and cook slowly for about 30 minutes.

Molasses Doughnuts: Sift together two and one-half cups of flour, one teaspoon of baking powder, three-fourths teaspoon of salt and one-fourth teaspoon of cinnamon. Sift one-half a teaspoon of baking soda into one-fourth cup of thick, sour milk and stir until it foams. Add to one egg and yolk beaten light with one-half a cup of molasses and stir into the dry ingredients. A little more flour may be needed. Keep the mixture soft. Take upon the board in small portions, knead slightly, roll into a sheet, cut into rounds and fry in hot fat.

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

By Rev. Jay T. Stocking, D. D., Federal Council of Churches in America — Copyright 1928.

Topic for the Week
"RELIGION AND HEALTH"
"The Conquest of Worry"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse, "Be not anxious for the morrow." (Matthew 6:34).

Read: Matthew 6:25-34.

MEDITATION: Fear often assumes the form of worry. If we think of worry as fear it may help us to conquer this besetting evil. Jesus knew its devastating influence and continually preached faith as the means of overcoming it. In a recent book entitled "Fear," Dr. Oliver remarks to one of his patients, a nervous wreck: "I'll tell you the kind of people that I do not see in my office, not as a general rule. So far as my experience goes, the people who do not seem to be assailed and poisoned by fear, are those who believe and practice the Christian Religion"—the religion taught by One "Who is still present on earth, and still walks with men". Let us experiment today by practicing belief in His constant presence.

PRAYER: O God, to Thy faithfulness and good-will there is no end. Our fathers in their pilgrimage walked by Thy guidance and rested in Thy wisdom. Still to their children be Thou the cloud by day, the pillar of fire by night, leading us ever onward in Thy paths. Amen.

INCOME TAX TIPS

Taxpayers are advised by the bureau of internal revenue carefully to present their claims with regard to deductions for losses. To be allowed, such claims must conform closely to the wording of the statute. Losses are deductible if incurred in the taxpayer's trade or business, in any transaction entered into for profit, though not connected with the taxpayer's trade or business, or if arising from fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualty, or by theft, and if not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

Business losses result usually from the purchase and sale of merchandise. Such losses are usually ascertained by means of inventories, which are required whenever, in the opinion of the commissioner of internal revenue, their use is necessary to determine the income of any taxpayer.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Some Questions

Mr. Editor: I wish to submit to the readers of the Norwich Bulletin the following questions in regard to the promotion of higher ethical standards in the society of this section of the state.

What is being done for the distribution of sex knowledge amongst the working population?

As in other sections of our country, is anything being done to promote personality standards?

Is any conscientious effort being made to promote athletics amongst the young women similar to the movement started by Mrs. Herbert Hoover some time ago?

Aside from the ecclesiastical societies what is being done to promote higher ethical standards amongst the working people?

Very truly yours,
AUGUST BANNER.

Baltic, Feb. 25, 1928.

Bible Readers

Mr. Editor: There are many Bible readers, some when making statements more accurate than others. One of them in replying to my letter in issue of Bulletin the 21st. should have examined Chapters 25 and 27 of Book of Genesis before doing so. He or she, declares there was no woman's influence in the affair of Esau and his birthright. Let us see. In Book of Genesis I read, Esau returning from the hunt, weary, famished and thinking about to die, quite readily exchanged his birthright for a mess of pottage Jacob had already cooked. In Chapter 27 I find that Rebekah, mother of Jacob, mitigated and connived with him to secure the blessing that went with the birthright, clothing Jacob in raiment to deceive the smell of poor old blind Isaac, first giving him goat meat instead of venison which Isaac thought Esau had provided for him. Next decorating Jacob's neck and wrists with goat hide fur side out, thereby deceiving the touch of Isaac, for Esau was a hairy man. Isaac recognized the voice of Jacob, but touch and smell indicated Esau and he at once gave the blessing. No hand of woman here seen. Isaac loved both his sons. Rebekah loved only Jacob for whom she had aspirations. (Some of these scripture characters do not shine so brightly when exposed to the light of day.) In last chapter of Romans, St. Paul holds up those good women mentioned to honor and deference for good work in the cause of Christ, not defining their status. In other epistles he enjoins woman to love and obey their husbands but to keep silent in the presence of men. He also commands them to go with heads covered, their long hair being their glory. (Bobbed heads take notice). No sacrilege here intended. I have read the Bible, also history both ancient and modern, to some extent, but always invariably sign

In Norwich 69 Years Ago

Mr. Editor: I see by your paper that many people are sending you stories of the long ago, so I thought I would send you something that happened in Norwich in the distant past.

I well remember Norwich 69 years ago. There was a great gathering of Wide-awakes with the torch light procession. I lived in Westerly, R. I., and the company of widewakes from there went to Norwich to the great parade. There were many visitors to Norwich at that time. I was one of the number and it was a great day. It was the first time that I ever was in Norwich and we boys just enjoyed the day. Down by the river in the long dining room we sat down to a better dinner and it was a good one. Then we looked around the city and watched the different companies come in and parade around the city. As the night came on the companies assembled in the park for drill. There were two prizes to be given away, one for the best drilled company and one for the largest company. Westerly took the prize for the best drilled company, while New London took the banner for the largest company.

When the Westerly company was drilling Capt. Card gave the order, "Company form rail fence" and the company formed it. It looked like an old fashioned fence and then you would have thought that the heavens were shakened by the noise of the cheering. It was tremendous.

Both banners were on the same train to New London and such shouting and cheering. On arriving at New London both companies formed on Bank street and marched up the street with banners flying and torches lighted. There was much cheering and it was a great time for all of us.

I am an old man. I was born July 6, 1839, so you see on next July 6 I will be 89 years old.

YOUR HEALTH

GALL STONES.

By L. Winfield Kehn, M. D., New York —Member Gorgas Memorial.

The condition of gall stones is a very common one. In fact, it is much more prevalent than is ordinarily believed. The medical term for this ailment is cholelithiasis. People who suffer from this disease do not necessarily have violent attacks of so-called gall stone colic. The ailment may be characterized by other symptoms often regarded as merely dyspeptic.

It is believed that gall stones in most instances are preceded by inflammation of the gall bladder and that this is the basis upon which the stones will eventually be formed. The gall bladder in which bile is normally stored in concentrated form will, as a result of the catarrh-like inflammation, invite the formation of stones. The presence of catarrhal material may favor the precipitation of bile salts about it as a nucleus and in consequence stones develop. It is also possible that, as a result of the catarrh, the bile stored within this organ will lose its solvent properties and elements ordinarily kept in solution will precipitate out.

Certain other factors may favor the development of gall stones, such as cold climates and dampness. It is more common in women than men probably because of constipation, inactive physical habits, and pregnancy. It may occur in any age of life, especially after 40. Gluttonous eating and the indigestion of rich foods are regarded as an invitation for the disease.

Certain former illnesses, such as typhoid fever, may have affected the gall bladder in such a way as to favor the formation of stones. At times, stones may form in the gall ducts or channels leading from the liver as well as in the gall bladder. The symptoms may be many and varied. There is no typical picture. Some symptoms, however, are much more characteristic than others. An attack of colic in the upper abdomen with chills and slight jaundice is very suspicious. A pain in the upper right portion of the abdomen radiating to the back and shoulders is a common complaint. Often headaches and so-called billiousness are the featured symptoms.

Patients who suggest the possibility of gall stones should be studied thoroughly in order that the diagnosis may be definitely made. Resort should be made to complete studies of the excreta, stomach and bile secretions, the blood, x-ray observations of the stomach, bowels, and gall tract.

After the diagnosis is made, proper advice as to diet, medication, habits, and general behavior may bring about definite or even permanent improvement. Surgery is not necessary in the great number of cases. Main efforts should be directed to ridding the patient of his symptoms as far as possible and to make life tolerable. With those patients who do not respond to conscientious medical care, it will be necessary to resort to operation.

Stories That Recall Others

An Old Map

The family was enjoying a delicious pineapple dessert for dinner. A younger member of the circle inquired of his wise father, where most of the pineapple came from. The father explained that most of it came from the Hawaiian Islands in the "Atlantic" ocean. An older daughter told her father he was mistaken about their location. After a heated argument an old geography was found in the attic. The daughter soon found the Hawaiian islands in the Pacific ocean.

"Now dady, what you got to say? Who was right?" said the counterpart of father.

"That's an old geography. We'll have to buy us a new map," replied the invincible father.

With Exceptions

It must have been her birthday. The young couple stood before the counter in a jewelry store, looking over the stock that ranged from diamonds to cuff pins.

"Now dear," he was heard to say to his fair companion, "this is your present, so anything you want I'll get. You pick it out and I'll buy it; that's all there is to it. Just look everything over and then tell me what it will be."

She beamed on him. Could anything in the world be sweeter? Her eyes left his face and went back to the trays of jewelry. Suddenly with a gasp of delight she held up a frazile string of beads. "Oh, Harry, look! Could I have this? I just love it," she exclaimed. Harry, thus addressed, looked it over beneath drawn brows.

"Well, now I don't know, Mary," he answered slowly. "I really don't think you would care for that. You would probably break it first thing. Those beads don't last long. Let's look down the line farther and see if you don't find something you would really like."

ORGANIST H. L. YERRINGTON TO GIVE PUBLIC RECITAL

Members of the First Congregational parish, also his friends in musical circles, are looking forward with sincere interest to the organ recital, this (Monday) evening at 8 o'clock, by Herbert L. Yerrington, for nearly 55 years the faithful organist at this church. Organist Yerrington began his duties in May, 1873, since which time he has given 46 recitals, usually on New Year's day. The one this evening marks his 47th public recital.

When reaching his 50th anniversary as organist at this church, May 23, 1923, Mr. and Mrs. Yerrington were tendered an informal reception in the chapel by the parish. This was largely attended by members and friends. The reception committee, Dwight W. Avery, Mrs. Sarah W. Chapin and Miss Mary M. Bacheler, were assisted in the arrangements by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey. An interesting musical program was given at this time in which the participants were Maurice Wallen, tenor soloist, of Hartford; Miss Ruth Ray, violinist and Miss Alice Ray, pianist, of Springfield, Mass., also G. Avery Ray, tenor, a friend for many years of Mr. and Mrs. Yerrington. The receiving party included besides the guests of honor, Rev. and Mrs. Gurdon F. Bailey, Senior Deacon and Mrs. Dwight W. Avery, Miss Jennie M. Case and George F. Hyde. In appreciation of his long and faithful service of half a century, Rev. Mr. Bailey in behalf of the parish and interested friends presented Mr. Yerrington a gift of $120 in gold. To Mrs. Yerrington he presented a beautiful basket of flowers.

Mr. Sterry, who is to assist Mr. Yerrington this evening, likewise has many warm friends who anticipate great pleasure in listening to his numbers on the violin.

All interested in music will be privileged to attend, as the recital is complimentary to Mr. Yerrington's friends and acquaintances, also to friends of the First Congregational parish and others.

OBITUARY

Miki Czarnecki

After a short illness Miki Czarnecki died at No. 239 Palmer street. He was 47 years old and was employed at the Ponemah mill. He leaves a wife, who resides in Detroit, Mich. Mr. Czarnecki had been here for several years.

Mrs. Jamee Lewis Smith

Julia Leach Rogers, wife of the late James Lewis Smith, died Saturday noon at her home, 139 Broad street. Mrs. Smith's health had been failing for a number of months, although the cause of death was an acute heart trouble.

Mrs. Smith was born at the Rogers homestead on Wauwecus Hill, Norwich Town, the daughter of Ebenezer Hyde Rogers, of Norwich, and Margaret M. Leach, of New York. On Oct. 1st, 1890, at Christ Episcopal church, her marriage with James Lewis Smith, a manufacturer of Newark, N. J., took place, the officiating clergyman being the rector, Rev. Richard H. Nelson, now Bishop of Albany. After their marriage they resided for ten years in Newark, also for a time in Hartford, where Mr. Smith's business interests were.

They were accustomed to spend their winters at Green Cove Springs, Florida, and they also resided for a time in Greenwich, with Mrs. Smith's uncle, the late Robert M. Bruce, millionaire philanthropist, at his home, "The Castle." Several winters were spent in Washington, at the residence of Mrs. Smith's sister, Miss Carrie B. Rogers.

Following the death of Mrs. Smith's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Smith settled permanently in Norwich, occupying the Rogers residence, 139 Broad street. Here they exercised old-fashioned, generous hospitality, their chief pleasure consisting in having their friends about them.

Mr. Smith died March 30th, 1924. Since that time Mrs. Smith's nephew and niece, Lieut-Commander John A. Monroe, U. S. N. and Mrs. Monroe have made their home with her.

A member of Christ Episcopal church, Mrs. Smith was always active in different lines of parish work. She also aided the United Workers in various ways, and was one of the liberal donors to and collectors for the holiday fund of Uncas-on-Thames. As a member of Norwich Music association and Norwich Art Students' association she proved a patron of art and music in a quiet but effective way. Gifted, capable and efficient, she was ever thoughtful of and generous to others, broad in her sympathies, purse and heart ready to meet every demand. One of her last kindly acts was to make, while recovering from illness, a gift at the holidays for every member of the household at the Sheltering Arms.

Largely through interest acquired in the beautiful grounds at the home of her uncle in Greenwich, Mrs. Smith of late years had taken up the study and culture of roses, growing some rare and exquisite specimens each season. With characteristic thoughtfulness, these were in the main sent to cheer the aged, sick, or shut-ins.

Mrs. Smith is survived by her sister, Miss Rogers, of Washington, also by two nieces, Mrs. John A. Monroe, of Norwich and Mrs. Ella R. Lace, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Edward S. Hinckley

Following an illness of about a week, Mrs. Abbie Ford Hinckley, widow of Captain Edward S. Hinckley, died Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at her home, No. 32 Alice street. Mrs. Hinckley was born in Lebanon and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ford. Practically all of her life had been passed as a resident of this city. Her husband died some years ago. Mrs. Hinckley was a member of the United Congregational church.

Surviving her are two sons, Edward F. Hinckley and Leroy G. Hinckley, and one daughter, Miss Mary F. Hinckley, all of Norwich. There is also a sister, Mrs. W. B. Clark of New Haven. Mrs. Hinckley was well and favorably known to many Norwich people, and her many friends and acquaintances extend deep sympathy to the family.

Miss Sadie M. Stanley

Following a brief illness, Miss Sadie M. Stanley died about 11.30 o'clock Saturday night at her home, No. 10 Church street. Her death was entirely unexpected and came as a great shock to the family and her many friends and acquaintances.

Miss Stanley was born in Norwich and was the daughter of the late James and Sarah Moore Stanley. For some years she had been employed as a bookkeeper at the J. P. Cosgrove shoe store. She was a member of St. Patrick's parish. Surviving are two sisters, Miss Mary Stanley of Norwich, Mrs. Catherine Lawler of Hartford and two brothers, James J., and Frank J. Stanley. There are also several nieces and nephews.

Miss Stanley was of pleasing personality, always most cordial and agreeable. Her efficiency was recognized and appreciated in her business relations, and the many friends she had thus acquired gave expression to their sincere sorrow and their sympathy with her bereaved relatives, when the fact of her death became known during Sunday.

The less one has to say about a woman's keeping a secret the better.

SONS OF UNION VETERANS PLAN PILGRIMAGE TO GEN. LYON'S HOME

About sixty representatives of camps comprising district number five, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war, met at the Buckingham Memorial on Saturday evening as the guests of Sedgwick Camp, No. 4, of this city. Members of Sedgwick Post, No. 1, of this city and W. W. Perkins Post, G. A. R., of New London, were also present, the New London camp and their friends coming by special bus.

Supper was served at 7 o'clock by Clara Barton Tent Daughters of Union Veterans with the following menu:

Baked beans
Potato salad Cabbage salad
Cold meats
Brown bread Rolls
Assorted cake Coffee
Cigars

Commander John H. Barnes warmly welcomed the guests in behalf of Sedgwick Camp and kept the brothers assembled in good humor with his many stories and anecdotes.

Immediately after supper the business meeting was called to order by E. C. Babson of Danielson, the district chairman, and Arthur G. Rathbun of Mystic, the efficient secretary. Reports of activities in this district were discussed and it was voted to send a message of sympathy to Commander George C. Crocker of Sedgwick post whose wife died last week.

Five candidates were present for initiation and a degree team under the supervision of George Miller of Danielson performed the patriotic work in a commendable manner. Recognition of the heroes of the Civil war was discussed and it was voted that a patriotic pilgrimage to the former home of General Nathaniel Lyon at Eastford be made in September. The Grand Army of the Republic, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, the Womans Relief Corps and the camps of Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war in Connecticut will be invited to attend. The former home-site of Gen. Lyon is now a state park and comprises 60 acres about two miles off the state highway between Willimantic and Putnam, and just south of Pascoeisville. The only part remaining of the old homestead is the huge stone chimney, which will probably be repaired during the coming months. The burial place of the distinguished man is marked by a twelve foot shaft in his honor and is on the westerly side of the state highway at Eastford.

The following committee were named to arrange for the pilgrimage: Arthur L. Peale, Norwich; Charles F. Brown, New London; DeForrest Wells, Danielson.

Before adjournment it was voted to hold the next district meeting at Mystic in March. A social session followed and Frank T. Maples of this city was enthusiastically received rendering "Rip Van Winkle," and other selections and was recalled several times for encores. Prof. W. G. Banfield delighted his audience with sleight of hand and magic and was the recipient of much applause and praise. The committee: George E. Zimmerman, John H. Perkins, George H. Dolan, and A. A. Fairbanks were congratulated by the visitors present for the splendid entertainment provided.

CARL BROWN ATTENDED FRIGIDAIRE CONVENTION

A lightning calculator won't multiply much faster than live, active bacteria at certain temperatures, declares Carl W. Brown, local Fridigaire dealer, just back from New York where he attended a regional convention held by his organization. During the past few months, laboratory experts of Fridigaire corporation have made exhaustive studies of the growth of bacteria in foods, and have discovered some startling facts regarding how much faster bacteria multiply at certain temperatures than others.

"Twe ve degrees make all the difference in the world in food preservation," says Mr. Brown. "At 55 degrees in the laboratory tests, milk turned sour in 24 hours and the bacteria in it increased from almost none at all to 2,100,000 in a cubic centimeter. We know that with automatic electric refrigeration, the housewife can maintain a food storage temperature of 50 degrees or lower all the time. We do not know of any other means at her disposal which will provide such a temperature and insure her family's food from the rapid bacterial growth encountered at 55 degrees or above."

A new series of household Fridigaires was exhibited at the New York meeting having many improvements including additional insulation, stronger food shelves and a number of other mechanical refinements.

HELD OFF CONSTABLE WITH GUN AND DOGS

Threatening Constable Lucius Fenton of Norwich Town with a gun while two vicious dogs were an additional guard, Mike Murich stalled off his arrest by the constable late Saturday afternoon at the Pember place on Plain hill, but the man was caught Sunday afternoon by the Norwich Town officer and is charged with intoxication, breach of the peace and resisting an officer.

Murich had been butchering a pig Saturday afternoon, according to what the officers learned, and had Charles Zelinsky to help him. Both men imbibed refreshments and the constable was summoned to the farm on the report that Mrs. Murich had been badly beaten by her husband. Murich made his escape when he held off the constable with a gun, but Zelinski was arrested when Constable Fenton went back to the farm with Officers Shahan and Luppert.

Sunday afternoon Constable Fenton started to go to the farm again in order to see whether the man had cared for his stock, when he met Murich in a horse and buggy on the road. Murich was promptly hauled out of the buggy and arrested by the constable who was accompanied by Humane Agent F. H. Wyant. The Plain Hill farmer was brought to police headquarters and locked up.

J. B. MARTIN VELVET CO. BUSY AT THREE MILLS

The over 300 employes of the J. B. Martin company are busy, the mills in Taftville, Franklin street and Montville running full time—all because this is to be a good season for dress velvet. Sunday evening, while Manager Jacob Munz, of Norwich, would not admit that there was a prospect of overtime for the mills under his supervision, it is strongly rumored that that may be the next bit of good news in business Norwich.

Now if Fashion would only experience a sudden change of fancy and give the word, "Bricklebrit! Velvet hats are in!" business would boom. Millinery velvet is always a most important factor; but fickle femininity has been wearing felt hats so long that velvet chapeaux have been relegated almost to forgetfulness. However, some fashion leader may take a notion to appear in a velvet headpiece some fine day—and then the trick will be done!

TAXI CAB ROLLED INTO PATH OF TROLLEY CAR

When a Luxor taxi rolled backwards down a bank near the home of Charles W. Burton, at 744 North Main street, late Saturday afternoon, it landed on the trolley tracks just in time to be hit by the south-bound trolley due at the Greeneville barns at 5 o'clock.

The taxi driver, Levi S. Talbot, of 44 Perkins avenue, had left his machine on a slope with the engine running, it was reported, while he went into a house to deliver a package. The brakes apparently failed to hold the car and it started down the bank into the path of the trolley car. The damage done to the taxi, which was a Whippet sedan, was estimated at $50. The trolley car was in charge of Conductor Joseph Rubel and Motorman William Disco.

Nolled on Paying Costs

Charges of injury to personal property owned by others, on which George Watrous, 19, and Lester Perry, 25, both of Waterford, were presented in Waterford town court Friday afternoon, were nolled in each instance on payment of costs of $9.36.

The accused were alleged to have broken locks on gasoline pumps at Enos' and Brown's garages in Waterford. Watrous admitted breaking the locks, but Perry, who was with Watrous at the time, denied having any part in the breaking of the locks. It was claimed they were trying to get enough gasoline to get home with after the machine they were using ran out of gas.

Series scores for the first division players follow: M. Petrone, 52,670; E. J. Mulline, 51,650; Thomas Fields, 50,835; H. Marcus, 50,330; John Leirich, 48,125; John Shegoda, 47,485; W. R. Hastedt, 46,130; Tom Fields, 39,195.

Check For Firemen's Pension Fund

A check for $50 was received Saturday by Chief Howard L. Stanton from the Eldredge Hardware company to be added to the firemen's pension fund. The check was sent in appreciation of the valuable services rendered by the fire department in the recent fire in the building occupied by the Eldredge Co. on Water street.

RHODE ISLAND REDS WERE LEADERS IN WEEK

The first real snow storm of the winter failed to slow up the pullets in the Storrs laying contest, and during the sixteenth week they boosted their production once more. The score for the last seven-day period was 5,461 eggs, or a lay of 54.7 per cent. This is 234 eggs more than the production for last week and 569 eggs more than the score for the corresponding week a year ago. Total production to last Monday night was 76,877 eggs, which gives an average of 534 eggs for each of the 140 competing pens or 53 eggs per bird. In sixteen weeks a gain of 5,771 eggs has been made over the production for a similar period in last year's trial. This is an average gain of better than 544 eggs a week.

Rhode Island Reds owned by Charlescote Farm from Sherborn, Mass., headed the honor roll for the past seven-day period, and this makes the 4th consecutive week that these birds have led the field in the competition for high weekly scores. Their score was 63 out of a possible 70 eggs, and it falls short by only one egg of the 64-egg record for the present competition that was established during the twelfth week. From the thirteenth through the sixteenth weeks, the Charlescote birds have laid 62, 61, 59 and 63 eggs, all of which has enabled them to show a clean pair of heels, so to speak, to the rest of the pack.

Charlescote Stock Due to Rise

And that's not all. These Charlescote Reds have shelled out eggs enough to run up a score of 855 eggs in sixteen weeks, which has given them not only the leading position in the Red division but also third place among all the competitors. Another week will in all probability see these birds climb into second position for the entire contest, and if their present pace can be maintained they will later be in a position to make a strong claim for first place.

White Leghorns owned by Broadview Farm of Winsted, Conn., continue to outscore all other entries in total production, and their present score of 925 eggs is 70 better than the Charlescote score. The latter pen gained 10 eggs on Broadview last week, however, and if that continues for long an interesting struggle is in the offing.

"Aggies" Tie For Second

Two pens of Rhode Island Reds owned respectively by Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst, and Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, tied for second place on the honor roll with score of 56 eggs each. As they are popularly known in the field of intercollegiate athletics, the "Aggies" of Massachusetts and Connecticut broke relations a couple of seasons ago. So far as the contest management is aware, the only official competition now existing between the two institutions is in their respective egg laying contest entries. Moreover though both pens laid the same number of eggs in the past week, the contest management at Storrs must frankly admit that the Massachusetts entry has thus far shown to great advantage over its Connecticut rival. Another pen of Reds owned by George T. Purkis of Topsfield, Mass., and an entry of White Leghorns owned by Tip Top Farm of Waldoboro, Me., tied for third place with scores of 55 eggs each. The Hollywood Poultry Farm White Leghorns from Woodinville, Wash., finished fourth for the week with a score of 54 eggs. From the foregoing it may be seen that the Reds as a group enjoyed a banner week at Storrs. Not only were four of the six entries named of the Red variety, but they also took first and second places, and tied for third and fourth.

Only one change took place among the leaders and that was in the Red class. Fred H. Sampson's entry from Springfield, Mass., climbed into second position, displacing the entry of Homestead Farm of Newtown, Conn.

"Turkey Talk" will be the subject of the poultry dialogue to be broadcast next Wednesday, Feb 29, beginning at 7.15 p. m. This will be given by Prof. William F. Kirkpatrick and Henry T. Covell.

TIME SAVING STUB ON MOTOR DRIVERS' LICENSES

Motor vehicle operator's license certificates for 1928 carry an innovation, this year, that is calculated by the department to save much time and confusion in February, 1929.

Instead of the usual single slip of paper, pink this year and yellow beginning March 1, there is a stub attached to the certificate, bearing the certificate number and the name of the license holder. This stub, similar in size to the original certificate, is to be retained until the 1929 license is applied for, when it is mailed to the department with the application.

Branch offices of the state motor vehicle department do not keep files of the licensed operators, and people applying for renewals are inconvenienced by the necessity of checking each operator's license. Much added work for the clerks in the branches is made when operators fail to send their old certificates with their applications for renewals, yet few people send their applications, as they need them daily while driving their automobiles.

The new stubs attached to the 1928 certificates will alleviate the difficulty, and will give the necessary information to the clerks in the branch offices, according to motor vehicle department officials. If the application is presented personally at the department windows, the old certificate may be used instead of the stub.

LENTEN VESPER SERVICE WITH PASSIONIST PREACHER

Sunday vesper services, which will continue through Lent, were begun Sunday evening at 7.30 at St. Patrick's church, where a congregation that filled the body of the church listened with close attention to the sermon by Rev. Michael Rausch of the Passionist monastery at Springfield, who earnestly admonished his hearers that they learn hatred of all sin, and especially mortal sin, as a Lenten lesson. He spoke from a text in Isaiah, "Why is it that thy garments are red like those that tread the wine press? I and I alone have trod the wine press."

In a direct and appealing way the preacher spoke of the agony of Jesus in the garden of Gethsemane where He withdrew to pray when He was about to redeem the world. In His agony in the garden He was praying and fearing. Every mortal sin that had ever been committed or ever will be committed came before His eyes and He knew it was the will of His father that he should take these upon His shoulders before the throne of God. This is what brought the blood from the pores of His body, your sin and the sin of every one. And there was heaviness of heart and soul upon Him as He looked towards the future and what He was to suffer in the following day, the denial by Peter, the trial before Pilate, the crucifixion, and the death upon the cross. Returning to His disciples again He found them asleep in the hour of His anguish and as He returned again to pray, a still more fearful vision was before Him. He looks into hell and sees that in spite of His agony and suffering there will be men and women of those for whom He died who will be punished in hell. They will not make use of His sacred blood but die in their sins and are lost forever.

"Will you be the ungrateful men and women who will not profit by His blood," the preacher asked his congregation. For your sake He suffered and there are many lessons to be learned from His agony but the real lesson is to have a hatred and detestation of sin. Learn to hate and detest sin, especially mortal sin, and root out from your lives the particular sin to which you may be subject. Pray for grace to hate sin above every other evil and let not the passion of our Lord be in vain for you."

The Roseweig vespers were sung by the choir, with Mozart's Magnificat and the Veni Creator by Knabel, which was sung in excellent voice by Miss Sadie Driscoll. The vesper soloists were Mrs. Bernard Coyle, Miss Blanche La Pre, Miss Sadie Driscoll, Mrs. John Cantlin, and the male soloists included John Kelly and Walter La Fontaine.

FIRE CHIEFS AGREE ON HELPING IN EMERGENCIES

An agreement for mutual helpfulness in fire emergencies has been reached between Chief Howard L. Stanton of this city and Chief Thomas H. Shipman of New London.

The fire heads decided that in case of fire of some magnitude the city not in distress would send two pumps and wagon guns to the city that was in need of equipment, etc. When such help was sent, the city which had temporarily weakened its regular fire-fighting force would call in apparatus from nearby places.

When the apparatus mentioned is sent to New London, if needed on any occasion, Chief Stanton could call in four pieces of apparatus to fill in here. These four pieces would come from Yantic, Taftville, Baltic and the Norwich state hospital.

New London could call upon Groton, which has two pieces; as far east as Westerly, which would take in Stonington and Mystic, besides the apparatus at Niantic.

Help could also be sent to the small surrounding towns, which Norwich has done on many prior occasions.

The apparatus from the smaller towns of the county are capable of one good stream, but can be made to throw two ordinary streams.

ORVILLE WRIGHT SENDING HIS ORIGINAL PLANE TO ENGLAND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Orville Wright, pioneer aviator, explains in an article written for publication in the U. S. Air Services magazine, that he is sending the original 1903 Wright airplane to the British National Museum rather than keep it in this country "because of the hostile and unfair attitude shown towards us by the officials of the Smithsonian Institution."

He laid to the institution the beginning of "a subtle campaign" to take from him and his brother, Wilbur, credit for certain scientific calculations and give this credit to the late Professor Samuel P. Langley, one-time secretary of the institute.

Expressing regret that he felt his course necessary, Wright declared he did so with the belief that the work of him and his brother "will be impartially judged and will receive whatever credit it is entitled to."

No man ever gets discouraged in trying to live without working.

ACADEMY, WITH PINGREE BACK, DROPS THRILLING GAME TO BACON, 23 TO 22

The unexpected return of Les Pingree to the lineup was not quite enough to snatch a game from Bacon academy of Colchester for the Academy and they lost, 23 to 22, after the most thrilling 32 minutes that the Y gym will probably ever have to withstand. The locals lost but in the minds of some there still exists a doubt as to just what happened in those closing second Saturday night.

It was something like this: Bacon had the lead 23 to 22, Pingree snatched a pass from Buck LaCroix, who had intercepted it up under the Academy goal and started down the floor, with but seconds remaining to the final whistle. The Bacon defense formed hurriedly and apparently in haste a Bacon player came upon Pingree and fouled him. When? (that is the big question.) for in al the scrambling that was goink on Pingree let fly the ball and it dropped through the netting as clean as a whistle. Referee Whaples first raised his two hands aloft as referees are wont to do to allow a score and directed Pingree to the foul line. As he did the timers ran out on the floor and announced that the game was over. Whaples, it developed, had not counted the field goal, which would have given the Academy the victory and also was giving Pingree but one free try. Pingreg, naturally confused anyway at the finish of such a wild game, was even more ruffled on finding his basket not counting and he missed the try, giving Bacon officially the game by the one point margin.

There was considerable doubt as the crowd left the gym as to just what the ruling on that field goal should have been. The Academy had many supporters, including neutral players, officials and coaches, who sat in on the tilt. One in particular was the Tourtellotte coach, who journeyed down here for this tilt. He said afterwards that in his estimation the basket should have been allowed and he thought that was what Whaples meant when he raised both hands. The locals, of course, were rather down hearted over such a turn of affairs but Whaples stuck to his claim that Pingree had been fouled before shooting and as the affair was purely one of an official's judgment, the decision stood.

It was a shame, however, that Bacon's victory should have been clouded so for they showed as nice a little game for a Class D high school as Norwich has seen in some time. With Gyome leading the attack these boys battled gamely all the way, although they never had anything like a big edge at any time.

Academy Improved

The Academy showed improvement over their Stonington showing, their defense functioning better to a certain extent but on the offense they were below par. Several chances, some very easy, were muffed and as it later turned out these were mighty fatal.

Bacon scored mostly on long shots, her entire team, practically, being equipped with accurate shooting eyes. They couldn't negotiate the Red and White defense very deeply but they soon overcame this difficulty by continually firing away at the basket from half the length of the floor and even a greater distance out. The Academy got through the Colchester boys more frequently but at least, three or four times missed chances to pop one in from a very short distance away.

Les Pingree, who was declared eligible Friday night after successfully traversing two examinations in the afternoon, was badly off form. Les "officially" scored but one from the floor but tossed in four fouls for six points. Joe Viau was high scorer with nine points.

The first quarter was more defensive play than anything with the score at the end finding Bacon in the van by 2 to 1. The teams but slightly improved on their baseball second in the second canto, the half placing the count at 9 to 7 with the Colchester crew still ahead. Bacon had the lead by 19 to 18 at the finish of the third quarter and in the last quarter each scored four points.

Bacon led a god part of the way in the second half after finding the locals willing mixers at this game of setting the pace in the first two quarters. The score was tied three or four times during the tilt, the last time being toward the end of the third period before Bacon pulled out and took the lead, never to be headed again.

In the first half two baskets never came within a minute of another but once the clubs took the floor for the second half they started tossing them in in succession for a brief spel. That got the crowd started and it wasn't long before they were on their feet yelling, where they stayed until the end.

In the closing minutes the fans were almost on the floor and the gym was turned into a veritable madhouse.

The Academy blossomed out with a cheering section for the first time this year. Benny Steinman came down from Fitchville, borrowed a red sweater and got things moving. He with Shorty Hamil did good work on the sidelines.

C. F. C. Wins

In the preliminary the C. F. C. took another feverish battle from the New London Emeralds by 41 to 40. As in the main game things suddenly worked up into a torird contest toward the end. The locals showed improvement over recent games and although winning still showed mistakes that will have to be corrected for a win tonight against the Hartford Baptists. Brown led the scorers with 21 points.

INDOOR TRACK SEASON ENDS WITH THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—The indoor track and field season reached a climax this week with the stars who make it interesting in a record-breaking mood.

Before the week is out the Knights of Columbus games featuring a three-cornered struggle in the mile between Ray Conger, Lloyd Hahn and Dr. Otto Peltzer, and the I. C. A. A. A championships will have passed into history. Then the boards can take a well-earned rest for another year.

With the season nearly two months old, the nation's stars picked the Amateur Athletic Union's senior championships at Madison Square Garden last night to flash their best form of the year.

Two world's records fell and others were seriously threatened. Joie Ray, once America's greatest miler, returned to competition, and the Illinois A. C. regained the team honors it had relinquished last year to the New York A. C.

Sabin Carr, Yale senior from Dubuque, Ia., picked up his favorite bamboo pole, sped down the runway, lifted his body high in the air and soared over the bar at the dizzy height of 14 feet, one inch to shatter his own world's records for both the indoor and outdoor pole vault. Just before this leap which bettered by an inch his best outdoor mark, Carr had broken the indoor record with a leap of 13 feet, 10 1-4 inches, an inch above his indoor mark.

With the A. A. U. championships decided, interest now turns to the K of C. meet at the Garden Wednesday night when Hahn, Conger and Peltzer are scheduled to furnish the fireworks in the mile. Hahn has said for months that his one serious attempt to create a new record this campaign would come in the mile at the K. of C. meet. Conger and Peltzer should supply all the competition Hahn needs to get below the present mark of 4 minutes, 12 seconds held jointly by Ray and Paavo Nurmi.

The intercollegiates at the 102nd Engineers' armory next Saturday will bring the indoor season to an end. Every meet champion but Al Miller, formerly of Harvard, is down for a defense of his title.

AL ESPINOSA TAKES LEAD IN BELLEAIR GOLF

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 26—(AP)—Al Espinosa of the Illinois Golf club, Chicago, with a brilliant 65 over the number two course of the Bellealr Country club in the morning and a 75 over the championship links in the afternoon for an aggregate of 140, led the field of 68 professional and amateurs in the first half of the West Coast Open Golf tournament here today.

Espinosa's morning round was five under par, while his afternoon round was an equal number of strokes above par.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The work of John "Spud" Murphy as referee in the church leagues is drawing favorable comment from all sides.

The C. F. C. put everything they have into tonight's game with the Hartford Central Baptists. Although some of the color was taken off this meeting by the defeat from the Mebs a week or so ago still the locals are over anxious to avenge the defeat that Insurance City outfit administered at Hartford early in the season.

The C. F. C. have lost but two games this year, winning something like 14.

Danielson and Taftville mix tomorrow night and Parish hall ought to get a crowd.

Millville lost to the Pere Marquette at Boston Saturday night 21 to 12.

Conn. Aggies are making up in basketball for a none too prosperous grid campaign last fall. They beat R. I. State, their old rivals again Saturday at Kingston.

In the account of the Danielson-Taftville game last Friday in The Bulletin it should have a read that Burke played well in holding Harris to one point instead of Bitgood doing that stunt. Burke was the Danielson center.

'BOUT SPORTS

Here's a little dope on the coming pennant races:

"There's the Cleveland Indians with a new skipper who's liable to cause anybody a 'Peck' of trouble. Washington still has the game's best 'Judge' who is picking them to win. Pittsburgh has the wonderful 'Traynor' who may keep the team 'Wright' and put it over the 'Hill' again. The Browns may be feelin' a bit 'Blue' and things may look kinda 'Gray,' but the Boston Red Sox won't take a 'Ruffing' from anybody. The Yankees won't have to put up a 'Ruthless' battle to be in there and they're likely to cause 'Moore' trouble than ever. The Phils have plenty of 'Said' to throw on the track if they start slipping. The Brooklyn Robins ain't quite as 'High' as they might be but the gang is the sort that 'Flowers' out when least expected. Those Cincinnati Reds 'May' raise the very deuce with the race. The Athletics are lookin' pretty 'Hale' and their loud 'Speaker' is crowding out a lot of the other pennant chatter."—Sporting News.

DELANEY-HEENEY BOUT FEATURE THIS WEEK IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., and Tom Heeney of New Zealand will struggle over the 15 round distance in Madison Square Garden Thursday night in the first section of Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination series for the selection of a suitable opponent to pit against Champion Gene Tunney.

The other part of the elimination falls on March 12 when Jack Sharkey of Boston will go against Johnny Risko, the Cleveland rubber man.

There is a possibility that the winners of these two bouts will be matched for final elimination. However, the victors may be saved for two title affairs planned by Rickard for this year, one to oppose Tunney in June and the other to figure in another championship tilt in September.

Delaney has been training for the forthcoming clash at Bridgeport and advance reports indicate he will be in superb condition when he enters the ring on Thursday night. An official inspection of Delaney's training will be made tomorrow by members of the New York State Athletic commission.

Heeney conditioned himself during the greater part of his training at Atlantic City and with the exception of a slight cut over his left eye received while sparring last Friday, is reported to be in fine shape.

Delaney, one of the most colorful boxers in the ring, is favored by many of the fans due to his hard hitting attack and boxing skill which carried him to the world's light heavyweight championship.

On the other hand, Heeney's impressive showing in his bout against Sharkey which resulted in a draw has attracted a large following to the New Zealander.

Delaney Starts Tapering Off

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 26—(AP)—Jack Delaney started tapering off in his workouts today for his coming bout with Tom Heeney in New York. Five rounds were cut from the regular work as the Bridgeport boxer resumed his training after a day of golf in Stamford yesterday.

Delaney boxed with three sparring mates, going two rounds each with Billy Vidabeck, Paul Vavalier and Pietro Corri, in the order named. He also skipped rope for two rounds and took a turn at the light bag for two more.

He will work out in secret tomorrow before Deputy Boxing Commissioner Curry of New York and Bert Stand, secretary of the New York board, and newspapermen.

Several hundred admirers of Delaney were kept out of his little gymnasium as they attempted to watch him train today.

ACADEMY PLAYS TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

The Academy-Plainfield game originally slated for Tuesday at Plainfield has been postponed to Thursday, March 8 but the Red and White still faces a busy week with two games. Friday night the locals tangle with Windham at Willimantic in the second game of their annual series while on Saturday Stonington comes here. Wednesday night the squad goes up to Storrs to see the Aggies-Springfield game.

The locals were in poor form all last week, receiving three beatings although only one was anything like a walkaway. Now, with Pingree's return, however, hopes run high for wins in the remaining games on the schedule to salvage something from the present campaign.

The locals battled Windham to a standstill for the last three quarters of their game here but a margin that the Thread City crew had run up in the first quarter proved too much. Stonington gave the locals their worst trouncing of the year last Wednesday night in Stonington but with the home floor and Pingree present the Red and White is counting on giving this team a much stiffer fight. Stonington has been doing little until she won from the locals and she has done little since so that the Academy is figuring their showing that night as somewhat of a splash in the pan.

RENAISSANCE GAME TO BE BIG ATTRACTION

The coming of the Renaissance Big Five to Plainfield Wednesday night to battle with the Plainfield Pros bid fair to be one of the gems of the local basketball season. The New York team has a wonderful record to date, including wins over the Original Celtics, Washington and Chicago of the American professional basketball league and Lou Gehrig's All Stars.

The Harlem five has always been known to give the fans their money's worth every minute of the tilt, playing all over the country and from all sides are heard expressions of satisfaction over their showing.

They wil have all their regulars in action, according to present plans, while the Pros also intend to show their best front.

Plans for a banner crowd are being made by the Plainfield management.

LLOYD JARVIS SCORES LONE GOAL IN JEWETT CITY TRIUMPH OVER MARTINS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 26—The Jewett City Favorites nosed out the J. B. Martin soccer team here this afternoon at Ashland park by 1 to 0. Lloyd Jarvis, the clever inside right of the locals tallied the lone goal.

More than 100 fans watched the battle and were treated to everything that goes in a soccer combat. Jarvis was assisted by Gaudette, Tracy and Salinsky in executing the Taftville goal and although repulsed many times by Ed Murphy, finally slipped one through for a well deserved win. The rest of the locals also showed improved form, especially Eddie Cantara and Scotty MacDonald, whose general all-round play was superb.

Bill Grey, Eccleston and Hargreaves were the shining lights for the visitors. The Martins threatened seriously toward the closing moments but it was the same old story of Bill McCluggage, Jewett City goalie, by turning aside drives from all angles.

REDS AND YANKEES SWELL MAJOR LEAGUE TRAINING CAMPS

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 26—(AP)—Baseball's major league training camps were increased to ten today with the arrival of three additional entourages while those already on the grounds enjoyed the first day of idleness.

Jack Hendricks and his Cincinnati Reds reached Orlando during the day, while Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and the rest of the New York Yankees' sluggers reached St. Petersburg, where Rogers Hornsby and the Boston Braves have spent the past week shaking out the kinks and Wilbert Robinson's Brooklyn Dodgers pitched camp at Clearwater.

Each camp was augmented during the day as the truants began trekking in.

Danny Clark and Dan Hunt reached Avon Park in time to join the other Cardinals in celebrating Grover Alexander's 41st birthday.

One of Robinson's first tasks after arriving at Clearwater was to consult with Dazzy Vance, ace of his hurling staff, who is reported holding out for $20,000 a year. Vance, who has been at Clearwater for some weeks, getting into condition, recently reported that he was holding out for a salary advance, but declined to name the figure.

In the Red group arriving at Orlando were Donohue, Sukeforth, Rixey, Lucas, Wingo, Plitteinger, E. Allen, Kolp, Miller, Jablonowski, Wyckoff, Beckman, Arnzen, Ash, White, and Coaches Grover Land and Bobby Mulion. Hendricks announced his team would begin training in earnest tomorrow.

While these three camps were being established, the St. Louis Browns at Palm Beach, the Washington Senators at Tampa, the Boston Red Sox at Bradenton, the Athletics at Fort Myers, the Boston Braves at St. Petersburg, the Philadelphia Nationals at Winter Haven and the Cardinals at Avon Park, were loafing in preparation for more strenuous work the coming week.

EASTERN CONN. SEMI PROS HAVE ANOTHER BUSY WEEK

Several features round out the last week of February and the start toward the final stretch of the basketball season for eastern Connecticut fans among their three-semi-pro quintets. The Plainfield-Renaissance game, Wednesday probably carries more importance to some but the second game of the Danielson-Taftville series at Taftville Tuesday is also full of interest especially to these two communities, whose quintets always put up stirring battles in their annual meetings. Another game of interest is that between the Danielson Towners and the Hartford Knights of Lithuania Saturday at Danielson. A shift has been made in the home playing for Danielson, their games being usually held on Thursday.

Among the amateurs the C. F. C. meets their objective game of the year tonight, tackling the Hartford Central Baptists; Wednesday at Plainfield the Buddies meet the Waureg an team under amateur rules, an innovation for the Community House while here Saturday night the Y Emps, junior champs of eastern Connecticut grapple with the Stonington High school seconds while the first team of that school is playing the Academy.

BITTER TUSSLE SLATED FOR Y GYM TUESDAY NIGHT

One of the best games of the year is promised at the Y tomorrow night when the annual fat men-light-weights game comes off. Interest is running high concerning this game and plenty of action is expected.

The lineups as given out by Captains Gus Mullen and Frank Barber follow: Fat Men—Mullen and Chick Stanley, guards, Al Pinesult, center and Dutchy Hilderbrand and Pete Tombari, forwards. Lightweights—Barber and Reed McCrum, forwards, Spud Murphy, center and Jim Falcone and Al Grebe. This is the crowning event of the season for the Y. Seniors class and a large crowd is expected.

N. F. A. BATTERY MEN GET CALL TODAY

The first action of preparation for the coming Academy baseball season comes this afternoon when Coach Earle E. Brigham of the state champions sounds the call for batterymen to work out indoors. Little of any definite nature is expected today for plans have not yet been definitely settled for use of the gym. Instead, this afternoon's session will probably be devoted mostly to talk by the local mentor.

Those expected to report today are considered the mainstays of the team for this season, the first in which a Red and White club will sport the title of a state champion in over 20 years. Lloyd Jarvis, last year's captain, southpaw, Johnny Greene, right hander, his brother, Boots, Mish, and Louis Greene, another southpaw, are some of the pitchers expected to make an appearance while Capt. Mace Goldblatt heads the list of catchers, others of whom are Tommy Vitliano and Fontaine. There are expected to be others of whom little is known but who are intending to start early to make a strong bid for a position on the squad.

By Monday of next week it is thought that the Y can be definitely secured for daily workouts until the first assurance of spring when the entire team will take to the campus. The first game comes April 14, one week later than usual, leaving a bit over six weeks to prepare.

When the remainder of the candidates will hear the call is not known, although it will probably not be until the pitchers and catchers get well under way in their work.

AGGIES FACE CRUCIAL GAME WITH SPRINGFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Conn., Feb. 26—The Connecticut Aggies will make the supreme effort of the season to upset Springfield college when the two meet here in basketball next Wednesday evening.

This seems like attempting the impossible in view of Springfield's record of 15 straight victories but the Aggies are planning on the assumption that nothing is impossible in basketball.

Coach Louis Alexander of the Aggies will in all probability start the same lineup that has already this season won eight of 11 hard contests. This means Ray Ryan, of New Haven, and Harold Watson, of Hartford, will play the forward berths, Lux Ellevich, of Hartford, will jump center, and Captain Arthur Williams and Henry Schildgen, of Naugatuck, will play the guard positions.

Starting this five in practically every game, Alexander's quintet has defeated Tufts, Providence, U. S. Coast Guard academy, New Hampshire, Rhode Island twice, Holy Cross and Norwich university. Games were lost to Vermont, Maine and Holy Cross. After the Springfield contest, the Aggies will close their season against Trinity at Hartford next Saturday.

Connecticut has not been defeated on the home court this year, and the fact that the team will be meeting Springfield on the Hawley Armory court is considered a strong advantage for the Aggies. The Physical Directors have a court that is as long as Connecticut's, but their playing surface is comparatively narrow.

VIC ALDRIDGE'S DEMAND STERNLY MET BY GIANTS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 26—(AP)—John McGraw has written the riot act to Vic Aldridge, Giant holdout, the New York manager announced last night. In an ultimatum to the former Pirate pitcher, which McGraw said he had written, Aldridge was told he could accept or reject the club's proposal and that the club would hold no further negotiations with him.

Aldridge, who was traded to the Giants for Burleigh Grimes, has been offered $1,000 more than he received with Pittsburgh, McGraw said.

Aldridge is at his home in Terre Haute, Ind., and has consistently refused to report here for preliminary training.

McGraw said he wasn't worried about Jess Doyle, another holdout. Doyle wants more money too, but will have to prove his worth, the manager said. Doyle was obtained from Toronto.

SECOND GAME OF TAFTVILLE DANIELSON SERIES TOMORROW

The Taftville Crescents and Danielson Town team line up for the second tilt of their three-game series Tuesday night at Parish hall. The Crescents took the first game at Danielson last Thursday by a 35 to 22 score and are favored tomorrow night. Nothing can be taken for granted in one of these Danielson-Taftville affairs.

Taftville will be strengthened with Roy Dissenger at a guard berth while the rest of her lineup will find Jim Murphy at the other guard, Roland Harris at center, Mondi Normandin and Aubrey Brown at forwards. The Danielson lineup will probably include Billy Schofield and Bitgood at the forwards, Burke at center, Poirier and Godreau in the back court.

A. A. U. WANTS OLYMPIC TEAM TO EMBARK TOGETHER

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Opposition to the departure of American Olympic athletes for Europe before the sailing of the main contingent on July 11 was expressed in a resolution adopted by the executive committee of the Amateur Athletic union here today.

The recommendation for the contestants of the United States to leave at the same time on the S. S. Roosevelt will be forwarded to the American Olympic committee.

This action is contrary to several proposals that have been made by coaches of several track stars advocating an earlier trip so that the runners might get an early start in training on foreign soil for the Amsterdam games.

PASTIME A. C. TO RUN SHOW FRIDAY EVENING

The Pastime A. C. has another amateur card slated for Friday evening at Olympic hall. The entry list is now rapidly closing with boys entered from all over eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island.

The Farmer Steve-Harold Talbot return bout is expected to draw another packed house as their bout a week or so ago was pronounced by the many who crowded into the hall as the best thing ever in that line heresbouts. Both boys are hard at work training for their chance to get a clean cut decision in this meeting and plenty of fireworks should result.

TRAVIA WANER DUE FOR TRYOUT WITH PIRATES

PASO ROBLES, Calif., Feb. 26—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates took a day off from training duties today and deserted the camp for hikes and trips over the countryside.

Paul and Lloyd Waner got in today, having concluded their vaudeville engagement yesterday. Both are great boosters for a cousin, Travis Waner, who is coming Tuesday for a try out.

The brothers insist Travis is the best batter in the Waner family.

C. F. C. MEET HARTFORD BAPTISTS

C. F. C.	Hartford.
Brown, lf	lf, Potter
Lambert, rf	rf, McCord
Neil, c	c, Ross
Davis, lg	lg, Fulton
Moberg, rg	rg, Maxwell

The C. F. C. meets its arch rival, the Hartford Central Baptists, tonight at the Y gym in their objective game of the year. This is the second game of their annual series, the Hartford team getting the decision in their first meeting.

The locals have lost but two in 16 games this year, running up an impressive string of victories, until they now have a strong claim to the Eastern Connecticut Senior Amateur crown. Although falling into a slump a week or so ago, during which they lost their second game of the season and barely edged out a win in the other Saturday night they showed improvement and present indications are that they are on the come-back road in earnest now.

The Hartford team is up among the leaders in the Hartford church league and in Ross and Potter they present a strong scoring pair that will have to be very closely watched tonight. Both teams will have their strongest lineups for this game, which bids fair to attract a large crowd.

A church league game between the Keppas and 4-H club will start at 7:30 with the main tilt immediately after. The visitors will be served refreshments after the game.

Whitefoot Moves

Who moves when there is aught to gain
To better things will soon attain.
—Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

Whitefoot the Wood Mouse was much excited. He had made a great discovery. Whitefoot had made many discoveries in his life, but this he felt was his greatest discovery of all. He had discovered a beehive that he could get into. Now, perhaps you think that this wasn't much of a discovery. But then, you couldn't live in a beehive if you wanted to. So, of course, you cannot be expected to appreciate the advantages of that beehive.

"This is a perfectly good home I have here," said Whitefoot to himself as he snuggled down in his warm bed

Just as soon as he thought it was safe to do so he started.

in the little wren house which Farmer Brown's Boy had put up especially for him in an apple tree on the edge of the Old Orchard. "It is one of the nicest homes I have ever had. But it isn't as good as that home of the bees. That is, it isn't as good a winter home. It is warm, but that home of the bees is warmer. Of course, I couldn't live there in summer, because the bees wouldn't let me. But it is a dandy place to spend the rest of the winter. Then I can move back here. This will be my summer home and that will be my winter home. Could anything be nicer?"

Whitefoot was still asleep and dreaming of his new home. When he awoke that was the first thing he thought of. He was impatient for the Black Shadows to come creeping out, for through the Old Orchard, so that he might in greater safety run over to that beehive. He took with him a little of the cotton waste of which his bed was largely made. When he reached the hive he went inside and in no time at all he was very busy. The proper place for that nest would be up in one of the rear corners. To make room for it he must cut away and remove some of the comb built by the bees. Of course, it wasn't hard work to do this. Those sharp teeth of his had no difficulty in cutting away that waxy comb. Some of it was just empty comb, but some of it had honey in it and bee food stored away. So Whitefoot dined while he worked. It was rich living.

Of course, all that he cut away had to be removed. He must have a nice clear passage. He was a very busy mouse, was Whitefoot. He carried to the little entrance and pushed outside the bits of comb. That is, he pushed some of the bits outside. He didn't want to push too much out for fear it would be seen. He found that he could wedge some of it in between some of the combs. It took him a good part of the night to clear away a big enough place for his nest and get it fixed to suit him. Then he took in the bit of cotton waste he had brought with him. That was the beginning of his new nest.

Whitefoot was tempted to sleep there that day, but finally decided it would be wiser to return to his little home in the wren house. So, just before jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun kicked off his rosy blankets and began his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, Whitefoot once more reached his comfortable bed in the little wren house.

The next night Whitefoot was back again at the hive. As before, he brought with him some of the bed from the old house. But it was a long way from that house over to the hive, so Whitefoot looked about for other material. Not far from the hive he found a little piece of burlap, part of an old burlap bag. This just suited him. It was frozen down and he couldn't carry the whole piece. So, keeping a sharp watch, he proceeded to ravel out that piece of burlap until he had all he could carry.

So Whitefoot worked, and by the time the Black Shadows started to leave in the early morning Whitefoot had a good enough bed to spend the day there. He had moved in.

GRADUAL EXPANSION OF LEADING INDUSTRIES WAS NOTED LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—The gradual expansion of the principal industries, which has given a cheerful color to the business horizon since the beginning of the year, was continued last week, although there was considerable irregularities elsewhere. This "spotty" condition was due, in part, to the interruption of the past two weeks by holiday recesses, and partly to definite hesitation in some sections.

The recent advance of the steel trade was maintained to a satisfactory degree, largely owing to expanding needs of automobile makers and continued railway and implement buying. Further advances in steel prices were made in the so-called independent group, following increases recently by some of the U. S. Steel subsidiaries.

The automobile trade appeared to be moving with slower strides than had been expected, largely because operations of one of the largest producers have not expanded as rapidly as had been predicted. January production, as reported by the government, increased substantially over December, but fell off slightly from the January figures of last year.

Revenue freight loadings were below those of the preceding week, as well as those of one and two years ago. For the year to date gains have been recorded only in grain and livestock loadings, but most of the decrease in other lines has been in coal, production of which was at a peak last year because of the approaching strike.

The textile industry showed somewhat more irregularity than in earlier weeks. Cotton goods were slower, while rayon and broad silks continued to be the leaders.

Concern continued to be felt over the unemployment situation, the department of labor reporting factory employment at the lowest since the spring of 1923. The congestion of out of door workers, who gravitated to cities in the winter, showed some signs of improvement as spring approached.

Nonferrous metals moved generally downward in price, and further recessions in rubber were noted. Wheat, corn and oats showed an upward tendency.

The recent cold spell was not believed to have caused any damage to winter wheat, since the belt was well covered by snow. Needed moisture was received in the central states, with a beneficial effect on the growing grain in that region. Wheat exports fell off sharply from the preceding week, which accounted in a measure for the advance in price.

In the retail trade, somewhat better buying was reported from some sections, and prospects were improved with the approach of the farm employment season. The fact that retailers were calling for prompt deliveries was a cheering factor, particularly in the dry goods trade.

Little change was noted in the lumber industry, which has been expanding in anticipation of a brisk increase in building operations early in the spring. There was little change in the monetary situation. A decrease of $91,000,000 in brokers's loans was attributed in large part to the recent heavy liquidation of stocks.

Bank clearnings in the principal financial centers decreased slightly from the preceding week, but recorded a moderate advance over the corresponding week of the year before.

POETRY

His Silent Years.

(Cablegrams and news correspondences have announced recently the finding in Tibetan monasteries of hidden manuscripts purporting to give the life of Jesus Christ in India prior to His ministry in Palestine, and a summary of His teaching. The so-called "hidden manuscript" was discovered over 40 years ago by a Russian traveler, Nicholas Notovitch, who translated it. It was published in book form in this country in 1894.—Editor Churchman Afield.)

I know not where Christ spent the silent years,
Though some have claimed that in the Tibet mounts
He sought the Buddhist arts,
That in Benares He had learned from sages
Had talked with God by Ganges' mystic founts
And there won Hindoo hearts.

I do not know where Leh and Hemis are,
Where Christ perchance poured forth His soul in prayer,
I only know that He Walked Judea's paths, and that from near and far
The people came, His golden words to hear
Beside old Galilee.

I do not know what pain the Master bore
When treading heat-parched plains or coral strands.
I know not what He saw,
I only know He wearied and grew sore
From walking Jordan's dead and burning sands
Expounding sacred law.

I do not know with whom the Saviour went,
Nor why He searched for secret calm retreat
If maybap thus He hid,
I only know His later time was spent
With fisher-folk He gathered from the street
Who proved the work He did.

I do not know what sacrifice He made
When leaving home and humble childhood's place,
But eyes of Faith can see,
I only know that on the Cross He paid
The price of love; Himself He could abase
For us on Calvary.

Let scholars prate and delve in hidden things,
Enough for me to know He lived and died
And from the grave arose,
To know that now, He, with the King of Kings
Through all Eternity is glorified,
And love He still bestows.

—By Charles L. H. Wagner.

Man Is Like Old Shoes

How much man is like old shoes
For instance, both a soul may lose;

Both have been tanned, both are made tight
By cobblers. Both get left and right

Both need a mate to be complete,
And both are made to go on feet.

They both need healing; oft are sold,
And both in time turn all to mold.

With shoes the last is first, with men
The first shall be last; and when

When shoes wear out they're mended new
When men wear out they're men dead, too.

They both are trod upon, and both
Will tread on others, nothing loth.

Both have their ties, and both inclined,
When polished, in the world to shine;

And both peg out—Now would ye choose
To be a man, or be his shoes?

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"That Maud Sniffy is awfully uppish."

"Yes, made-uppish."—Boston Transcript.

"Why are you crying, little boy? Didn't you have a Christmas tree?"

"We did have, but it got so cold the day before that daddy had to burn it in the furnace."—Detroit News.

Mrs.—I won't be long, dear, I'll be ready in a minute.

Mr.—Well, for goodness' sake, do pick out a minute that's not more than half an hour, anyway.—Sydney Bulletin.

"That fellow Shaw is always lecturing, preaching or scolding." "We'll, we must give G. B. credit for one thing—he stays in England to do it."—Boston Transcript.

Husband — What, another new dress?

Wife—I got this one entirely on your account!

Husband—That's what I object to!—M. U.

"Do you think," he asked, "that you can learn to love me?" "I don't know," she stammered, "I might; but if I were a man I'd hate to think that I was an acquired taste."—Exchange.

He groaned and turned pale as he picked up the ticker tape.

"Ruined?" asked a friend solicitously.

"Yes," he sobbed. "I've just remembered that I was to get some ribbon for my wife this noon."—Life.

Gems of philosophy may come out of the kitchen as well as from the halls of learning. Witness of the fact is the following incident: A Springfield woman was explaining to the girl who comes on Fridays to do the household cleaning that she had been unaware of the girl's religious faith and accordingly had no fish to offer her for luncheon. "That's all right with me, ma'am," the girl who does the cleaning explained, "I don't care a bit. To my mind it's what comes out of your mouth that counts, not what goes in."—Springfield Union.

New York was virtually a blameless city for a period of 24 hours on Christmas eve and Christmas day. Not a prisoner was brought in between the hours of 9 o'clock Saturday night and 9 o'clock Sunday night and so made the first Christmas in at least 24 years that has gone without the blemish of a recorded felony of some sort on the police headquarters blotter.

A well-dressed woman entered a Kenosha, Wis., shoe store with a shivering newsboy and asked the clerk to fit the boy with a pair of shoes and to throw away the torn tennis shoes that he wore. "I can't bear to see that boy suffer with the cold," she said. The woman offered a check for $26.50 and received $30.50 in change. She gave the newsboy the 50 cents and left him while the store owner marveled at this remarkable display of true Christmas spirit. Next day the check came back marked "no such account."

TWO NEW HAVEN MEN REOPENING UNSAVORY CASE AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 26—Howard S. Buck, 110 Wall street, New Haven, an assistant professor of English at Yale college and James T. Gibbs, 1175 Chapel street, New Haven, a salesman employed by the New Haven Dairy company, who were fined $100 each in the police court here last Thursday on charges of simple assault, but who were arrested and booked at police headquarters earlier in the day on charges of indecent assault, now want their cases reopened and are willing to stand trial. Gibbs came to New London Saturday, accompanied by his attorney and after a lengthy conference with Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin, it was agreed to reopen the case during the coming week and in view of the fact that both Buck and Gibbs had demurred to the complaint and did not desire the services of an attorney to represent them. Gibbs and Buck were in New London Wednesday night and about midnight made the acquaintanceship of O. R. Hill and R. S. Hoffman, sailors. The latter accepted the invitation of Buck and Gibbs to go for a ride and the four went to the vicinity of the Connecticut College for Women, on Mohegan avenue, where the alleged assault was committed. Hill and Hoffman demanded money from Buck and Gibbs and the request was denied. When the sailors returned to State street with Buck and Gibbs one of the sailors alighted and made complaint to Patrolman John Sullivan, who arrested the two New Haven men. Hill and Hoffman were held as witnesses against Buck and Gibbs, but the case being disposed of by the New Haven men entering demurrers, no testimony was taken.

TEMPERATURE 6 BELOW ON THAMES RIVER BRIDGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 26—Saturday night was the coldest of the winter, for during the late afternoon the temperature dropped rapidly. The mercury registered in various locations anywhere from two to six below zero. The lowest temperature, six below, was registered on the Thames River highway bridge, which is exposed to the winds.

One of the double-truck cars of the Connecticut company was derailed this afternoon and for a brief time it was believed that traffic would be tied up on the main line, for when the car came to a stop both tracks were blocked. Fortunately one set of wheels remained on the tracks and the placing of the other truck back on the iron was but the work of but a short time. The trolley car was bound for Ocean Beach to the State street terminal. When the car rounded the curve on Montauk avenue, corner of Moore avenue, the rear trucks left the rails and before the brakes could be applied and the car brought to a stop it traveled nearly half a block. When the car finally was stopped the rear end had traveled across the avenue with the end extending over the sidewalk, but a few inches from an electric light pole. A telephone message was sent to the car barn and a wreck'ng crew was sent out. The derailed car was gotten back on the tracks by its own power and continued to State street but a few minutes behind schedule. There were but four passengers on the car. When the car left the tracks it was not traveling over 20 miles an hour. It is believed that fragments of the macadam highway had gotten on the iron and that when the wheels went over the substance the truck was derailed.

A witness of the accident, corner of Jefferson avenue and Bank street last Thursday n'ght when Mrs. Mary Rogers, 24 Ocean avenue was injured by an automobile has been found. According to the witness the woman was not struck, but walked against the rear of one of four autos that rounded the corner. According to the witness, Mrs. Rogers alighted from a Connecticut company trolley car and after waiting for three autos that entered Jefferson avenue from Bank street to pass, started to walk across the highway as the fourth auto rounded the corner. As the last of the machines was about to pass, Mrs. Rogers walked against the side of the car, but was not knocked down. The witness stated that the driver of the auto was unaware of the accident and continued through Jefferson avenue.

The state police are seeking the occupants of a Massachusetts automobile who opened fire on Jewett City citizens Saturday night, after the automobile had speeded away from the location of an accident. The auto carried markers, 260695 and was occupied by three men. The car collided with another automobile and the driver applied the gasoline and speeded away. Witnesses of the accident jumped into another auto and gave chase to the fleeing car, but were forced to discontinue the chase when one of the occupants started firing a revolver at the occupants of the pursuing car. When the state police were informed of the incident the New London police were requested to be on the lookout for the machine, but it was not found in this city. It was later revealed that the car had been stolen in Fall River, Mass., Saturday afternoon.

Balda Vaughan, 8, of Niantic, who was struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Silva, 145 Green street, last Thursday when the girl ran in front of the auto as it was passing through Niantic, was discharged at Lawrence-Memorial hospital Saturday. The girl was detained at the hospital two days for observation as it was possible that she had been injured internally.

The funeral of Frank Haversham, 18, late of 25 Douglass street, was held at 62 Washington street Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, the services being conducted by Richard W. Mansfield, superintendent of the B. P. Learned mission. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of Byron E. Wilkinson was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Quaker Hill Baptist church, the services being conducted by Rev. Herbert E. Hutchins. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Harry Wolfe, 1 Grand street, was in the police court Saturday charged with violation of the city's traffic ordinances. He was fined $5. Wolfe drove his automobile to Howard street where he parked on the side of the street restricted to parking. He was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin.

William D. Hurlburt, 18 Willetts avenue, was arrested Saturday by Traffic Officer Frank Linehan charged with violation of the city's traffic laws and will be in the police court Monday. Hurlburt parked his car on State street longer than 30 minutes and caused a congestion of traffic. The only other case scheduled for presentation is that of W. C. Jove, United States coast guard, state pier charged with intoxication. Jove was on Main street at 3:40 o'clock this morning and staggered against the window of Haddad's fruit and confectionery store, smashing the glass. Jove was arrested by Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Edward Riordan. Jove said that he would defray the cost of replacing the window.

An automobile owned by Ira S. Avery, 60 School street, Groton, cashier of the New London City National bank, was stolen in this city Saturday night. The car, an Essex sedan, carrying Connecticut markers, M-4442, was parked on State street, near the post office and there left for some time. When Mr. Avery returned he discovered the machine missing and reported the theft at police headquarters and at the state police barracks, Groton.

Patrolman George Cockell was unable to perform duty Saturday night, being confined to his home by a severe cold.

The city's fire alarm whistle went on a rampage, Saturday afternoon, when the mechanism became defective and permitted the whistle to be sounded continuously for 10 minutes, until Chief Thomas Shipman could go to the Connecticut Power company's building, Water street, where the whistle is located and adjust the mechanism.

Zero and near-zero weather having prevailed nearly 48 hours, New London, Groton and Waterford ice dealers anticipate obtaining another crop of ice. The cold weather has produced ice of a th'ckness on the ponds almost satisfactory to the dealers and if another day or two of the same temperature is experienced harvesting will be started without delay. The first crop of ice about a month ago was 10 1-2 inches.

Today marked the end of the first week of one-way traffic on Bank street, between State and Tilley streets and the police have caused the drivers of automobiles to realize that the enforcement of the new ordinance is to be adhered to and strictly. But few drivers attempt to drive southerly on the street and in such cases most of them do so through carelessness more than intent to violate the law. Police officers continue to be stationed at Golden, Pearl and Tilley streets to enforce the ordinance, while the regular traffic officers continue duty at State and Bank streets. Within a few days, weather permitting, the work of widening the street will have been started in earnest.

Hundreds of young people made the most of the favorite winter sport today, going to ponds on the outskirts of the city and enjoying the excellent skating that has resulted from the latest cold period. For the first time this winter ice, but not of sufficient thickness to hamper boats, exists above the Thames river bridge, the ice in some places extending from the New London to the Groton shore.

A mission at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church opened today, the first of the discourses being given tonight to the women of the parish. Next week the male members of the parish will attend.

An automobile driven by Mrs. Alice Douglass, 269 State street, was damaged tonight when struck by an automobile driven by Charles Sarin, 245 Mount Pleasant street, New Bedford, Mass., Mrs. Douglass' auto sustaining damage of the estimated amount of $25. Both Mrs. Douglas and Sarin reported the accident at police headquarters. Mrs. Douglass was driving northerly on Bank street and when the auto was about to pass Shaw street, the car driven by Sarin emerged from the latter street. Before Mrs. Douglass' machine had passed the intersection of the highways, Sarin's auto struck the former's car and bent and otherwise damaged the rear fender and side.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Charlie Chaplin is always a delight to audiences and "The Circus," which is being shown at the Palace theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday, is no exception, for it ranks with the best of his hilarious successes. The special matinees for children are making it possible for hundreds of school pupils to see this comedian in his story of a circus man and his joys and sorrows.

Henry Bergman, appearing as the jovial clown in Charlie Chaplin's new comedy, has long been identified with the comedian, first appearing in a Chaplin picture 12 years ago.

During his extensive career as a member of the Chaplin organization, Bergman has been seen in many different portrayals, but his character in "The Circus" is declared by himself to be his favorite. Bergman has been in the public eye since his early youth. He selected the stage as his following in San Francisco, the city of his birth, when he was 17. He had received his training in Europe as a child and gained his first prominence as a tenor with the Metropolitan Opera company. He was in the musical comedy field for nine years as a member of the Augustin Daly company, after which he spent three years in the Ziegfeld "Follies." After playing in support of Blanche Ring in "The Yankee Girl," he entered motion pictures as a foil for Chaplin and has been identified with the comedian ever since.

Strand Theatre

Trem Carr, producer of "On the Stroke of Twelve," lined up for this thrilling melodrama truly an all-star aggregation of players. And each and every one has contributed a marvelous performance. David Torrence, June Marlowe, Danny O'Shea, Charles West, Martin Turner and Lloyd Whitlock are in the cast. The story concerns a wealthy young man falsely accused of murdering his own father, but circumstantial evidence sends him to jail. Filled with swift action, breath-taking thrills on land and sea, and interwoven with a delightful romance, "On the Stroke of Twelve" is one fo the fastest moving melodramas now showing on the screen.

"The Vulgar Yachtman" is a humorous story of the sea and has a cast of clever actors.

"A Dog's Pal" is a Fox comedy and will amuse both the kiddies and the grown-ups with a delightfully funny story and plenty of action.

Breed Theatre

"American Beauty" is all that the name implies.

Which means that the picture of that name at the Breed theatre has beautiful Billie Dove, who richly deserves the title, in the starring role, a capable cast of supporting players and an excellent story in which an abundance of comedy and touches of drama and pathos are intermingled with skill and adroitness.

Adapted from a short story of the same name by Wallace Irwin, "American Beauty" is the whimsical story of a beautiful girl who has no money but conceals the fact behind a screen of pretense in order to catch a millionaire for a husband. When she finally has the millionaire in her net, of course, she discovers he isn't such a catch after all.

Lloyd Hughes lends his pleasant personality and masculine handsomeness to the leading role opposite Miss Dove. Walter McGrail, as the millionaire, gives a finished performance and Lucien Prival, a comparative newcomer to the screen, stands out in a comedy role of unusual nature. Margaret Livingston, Al St. John, Edythe Chapman, Alice White, Yola d'Avril, Loretta Young and others are in support.

This picture is a distinct relief from the flock of heavy, emotional dramas that have been flooding the cinema rialto for months and should prove popular during its engagement at the Breed theatre. Carey Wilson produced the picture, which was adapted from the story by Wallace Irwin.

All members of the Sodalitas are urged to report promptly in the junior department rooms of the church school at half past seven on Monday evening, for a brief business meeting after which surgical dressings will be made for a home missionary hospital.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SHORT OPTION GIVEN TO NORWICH FOR PONSELLE

That Norwich music-lovers will response immediately in registering their desire to bring Rosa Ponselle, the world's greatest dramatic soprano to Norwich on Tuesday, May 22, is the hope of those in charge of the Slater hall concert series. This will be Norwich's only opportunity to have Ponselle here as the date named is her only open one for this spring and with the coming of the fall season the price of her concerts rises to a sum that would be prohibitive with Slater hall's limited seating capacity.

The option on this one date expires within a few days, the close of which, it is hoped, will see enough pledges received by the committee to warrant engaging this very rare artist.

If Miss Ponselle comes to Norwich her concert will be the first of the 1928-29 series which, as tentatively planned, will be one of the finest yet enjoyed here and a very well balanced one. The three concerts to follow that by Ponselle will be given in the fall and winter on dates to be decided upon later. Florence Nash, the most outstanding of America's woman pianists, a young woman now standing foremost in her profession, will come first in the fall.

Following her concert will be a very unusual one, by Andres Segovia, guitarist, who is appearing in New York and other large cities before capacity audiences.

Merle Alcock, without doubt the finest American contralto singer in the Metropolitan Opera company, will come as the fourth artist of the season.

In view of the fact that the option on Miss Ponselle, which Norwich is very fortunate to be able to hold at this time, expires so soon, those intending to enjoy the course are requested to send their pledges for course tickets immediately to Archibald Mitchell, 4th, 89 broad street.

Course tickets, including all four concerts, $6 each (same rate as for this series).

See ad for further particulars.

WESTMINISTER

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Douglass have gone to Abington, Conn., where they will make their home with Mrs. Susan Griggs. The aged couple both over 80, have lived on their little farm in Westminster for the past 15 years. Deteriorating health has made it impossible for them to stay alone any longer. Howard Rix, a neighbor, has looked after them, doing their marketing and bringing supplies, getting in their hay and hauling up wood, that they might stay in their little home as long as possible. Mr. Douglass, who suffers from rheumatism, has been almost helpless for the past three years. Last summer he fell from a loft on a pitch fork and received injuries which further disabled him during the winter. Mrs. Douglass has suffered frequent attacks of heart trouble. There is no telephone nearer than Westminster Hill and several times during the winter Mr. Rix has made the trip in the night to summon medical aid for her. Mrs. Douglass is a member, and until her recent illness, a regular attendant of the Congregational church. Mr. and Mrs. Douglass are highly respected in this community and will be greatly missed.

As one of our old timers remarked the other day, it does beat all how the weather acts, and he was right. New England, noted for quick changes of weather, has been handing us out some remarkable samples lately. One day soft and balmy, with the essence of spring in the air we are looking over our garden plot, planning where we will plant the peas and the best place to put the early peas. The next we are making an appraising survey of our coal bin and wood piles and wondering if the Eskimo has anything on us.

Among the Westminster folks who attended the auction sale of cattle at Elliot Stanton's Monday was Howard Rix who bought several cows.

Harold Cunningham delivered a truck load of cows to Howard Rix Thursday.

A. T. MacLeod filled his ice house this week. Fred Lockett and Archie Green cut and Charles Grabbs hauled the ice from Hicks pond with his automobile truck.

The man who thinks that he is witty gets a lot of self-approval.

UNKNOWN MAN FOUND DROWNED IN BROOK NEAR SALEM TURNPIKE

The body of an unidentified man was found face downward in the brook running beside the Norwich-Salem highway, just a short distance west of Maplewood cemetery about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The body was discovered by a boy and Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve was notified.

The man had been dead for some hours. Death was caused by drowning and when discovered the body was badly frozen. It is thought that the man, while intoxicated, stumbled into the brook Saturday night and was unable to help himself when his head went into the water.

There was nothing on the body to identify him. He was about 50 or 55 years of age, and was probably a farm hand or woodchopper. He was about 5 feet 7 inches in height and weighed around 175 pounds.

He wore heavy underwear, two pairs of Blue Star overalls, blue jumper, gray woolen shirt, gray woolen socks, a faded brown coat and a brown soft hat, Mallory make. One glove was found with the body. The man was bald, his eyes gray and three of his front upper teeth were gone.

In the pockets of his clothing were found a new shaving brush, safety razor blades, two packages of tobacco, two pairs of 40 inch shoe laces, a spool of thread, a blue handkerchief and a small change purse containing two cents. There were no marks on the body. After viewing the body Medical Examiner Gildersleeve gave Undertakers Cummings and Ring permission to remove it to their undertaking rooms.

Norwich Dog First at Hartford

It is the unexpected, the dark horse, the upset that gives to any sport its real zest and appeal. And just such a happening surprised the eastern Connecticut dog fanciers at the fourth annual dog show of the Governor's Foot Guard association at Hartford Saturday.

Eric, the black wonder from Belgium, which had been a strong favorite to win, placed fourth with a jump of 8 ft., 6 inches. Chase Cliff's Brunolf, which for many scaling meets has been unbeatable, fought a losing fight in his illness, but succeeded in tieing Cheri for second place with a jump of 9 ft. However, the judge's decision gave Cheri second and Brunolf third.

Chase Cliff's Balto, a young dog of little more than a year old, and the least feared dog in the meet, pulled the unexpected by making the best scale of his early career, and winning first prize of $50 with a jump of 9 ft., 6 inches.

Compensation Award for Carpenter

Thomas Kenn of Maple avenue, Uncasville, a carpenter, employed by Robert Tetrault of New London, is awarded compensation in the lump sum of $210, according to a decision handed down by Compensation Commissioner Albert J. Bailey.

This award is made in final settlement of an injury incurred by Kenn while employed by Tetrault on July 25 last. The injury was to his lungs and rib.

HAD LARGE AUDIENCE FOR Y. M. C. A. SERVICE

A fine audience assembled at the 4 o'clock service at the Norwich Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. Hymn slides were used at the opening, and prayer was offered. The six reel motion picture, "Nanook of the North" was shown, and was greatly enjoyed by the audience. It portrayed in a most wonderful way the life of the Eskimo in the far north; the daily life of this strange people was pictured in their hunting and play as well as work. The picture was of real educational value, and was true to its purpose. During the service Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk, speaking of different fields in which great discoveries have been made, and went on to say that it is not in the physical realm that the greatest discoveries have been made, great as they are. This is the lenten season, and we do well to stop and think of Him whom lent commemorates, Jesus Christ. You recall the great discovery made by Philip when he found the Christ, and when he told Nathaniel about it, and how Nathaniel thought it impossible; but tactful Philip simply urged Nathaniel to "come and see" and Nathaniel was willing to investigate, and he also made the wonderful discovery of the Christ for himself. There have been comparatively few who have made great discoveries in the physical realm, but every one of us can for himself and for herself discover Christ and thus make the greatest of all discoveries. I urge every one here to explore and discover the Christ more fully than ever before." Hugh Kinder furnished the music for the service in an acceptable manner.

MAKES INTERESTING DISPLAY OF LINDBERGH AIR MAIL

In the Boston store window is displayed a series of 13 envelopes owned by a local stamp collector, each of which was carried by Lindbergh, the "Lone Eagle" aviator, on his recent air mail carrying trip from St. Louis, Mo., to Chicago, Ill., being received in Norwich Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 21, the start being Monday afternoon, Feb. 20. A feature that makes these doubly interesting is that part of the envelopes were issued by Uncle Sam in 1893 to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, and the postage stamps used to make up the necessary amount are unsevered blocks of unperforated stamps, showing how stamps look before being perforated for convenience in use by the public.

The series consists of four envelopes posted at St. Louis and four each posted at Peoria, Ill., at Springfield, Ill., the stopping places on the trip. Each envelope is stamped with a horseshoe, the official emblem for this air mail trip, each city having a different color ink used in stamping. The whole makes a display seldom seen in Norwich, at least.

FIFTEEN FOR INITIATION IN FORTY AND EIGHT

Voyageurs wearing the horizon blue chapeau with the box car medal attachment of Connecicut gathered at the State armory on McKinley avenue Saturday night from every point in Connecticut to witness the initiation of fifteen candidates or Prisonniers de Guerre into the Forty and Eight, or the honor society of the American legion. The working of the initiation was in the hands of a capable "mop up squad" in charge of Conductor Thomas P. Sears of Taftville. From the time of their appearance before the "draft board" up to the "armistice" these "rookies" certainly lived over their "pleasant" days of 1917 and 1918. After the "armistice" refreshments were served by a committee of Voiture locale 743 under the direction of Voyageur Patrick J. McMahon. The gathering was "dismissed" about midnight with all having agreed that the evening had been well spent.

The work assigned to the Forty and Eight for the coming year is the energetic assistance of every legion post in their various districts in bringing up to where it belongs the membership of the American legion. It is expected that when the national convention of the American legion meets this fall that the objective will have been reached—the largest membership in the history of the American legion. And in bringing this result the spirit of the Forty and Eight will be as usual in the forefront.

Prominent Forty and Eighters present at this promenade were Grand Chef de Gare Emil F. Schaal of New Britain, Sous Chef de Chemin de Fer J. Ronald Sullivan of Waterbury, Grand Chef de Train William A. Anderson of Waterbury, formerly of Norwich and a member of Voiture locale 743 and Grande Chef de Gare Passe Harry J. Fisher of Plainfield.

HORNED LARK DESCRIBED BY LOCAL BIRD LOVER

A Norwich bird student gives the following valuable information regarding the horned larks which have excited so much curiosity hereabouts:

Bulletin readers will be interested to know a little more about the horned larks which evidently are wintering on Preston Plains. The bird is a little larger than a blue bird. Frank M. Chapman, the noted authority on birds, describes it as follows: "Upper parts brownish and sandy; front and sides of crown, sides of throat and breast—patch black, forehead, line over eye and throat pale yellow, breast dusky, belly white and tail black."

Of course the distinguishing marks are the yellow throat and the black breast patch.

They are terrestrial birds, rarely choosing a higher perch than a rail fence. They do not hop as do most birds, but walk or run along the ground. They are to be found in winter along the shore or in open fields. They breed in Labrador, building their nests on the ground.

Other birds which have been seen this month include the chickadee, junco, purple finche, nuthatch, hairy and downy woodpecker, golden crowned kinglet, brown creeper, song and tree sparrow, meadow lark, blue jay, robin, blue bird, goldfinch, and the ever present crow, starling and English sparrow.

The latest reported and one of the first arrivals is the purple grackle. During the winter a yellow bellied sapsucker was seen and a mocking bird spent some time on Broadway near the Little plain but has not been seen for some weeks.

NORWICH MINISTERS WILL HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Norwich Ministers association will be held at the First Baptist church, Monday, Feb. 27, at noon.

Reports will be given by the committees on religious census and holy week services respectively. Lunch will be served at 12 o'clock.

CONTINUANCES IN TWO CASES BEFORE CITY COURT

Joseph Haggee, 46, of Versailles, and A. C. Tillinghast, 55, of Plainfield were presented in the city court Saturday morning on charges of driving machines while under the influence of liquor. Both cases were continued. Haggee's case until this (Monday) morning and Tillinghast's case until March 5th. They were arrested at Occum Friday night by Constable Fillingar.

NEW PURCHASERS SURVEYING G. & S. TROLLEY LINE

The F. B. Kingston company of Hartford, which recently purchased the Groton & Stonington Traction company, is making a survey of the traction company property with a view to making any improvements that may be necessary.

No decision has been reached relative to the replacement of the company's trolley cars by buses, it was stated at the Kingston company's Hartford offices. There have been persistent rumors that the Kingston company is to make this change.

Superintendent Hobart, at the Groton & Stonington Traction company's office at Mystic, said that no notice of any change in the company's means of providing service had been received. He vigorously denied a rumor that older employes of the company would be replaced by younger men if buses were to replace the trolley cars. Stating that many of the traction company's men had been with the company for a long time, Superintendent Hobart said that the older men would be given preference for positions on buses if they were placed on the line.

Mrs. Mabel Amburn took first prize in the series, 58,440; Lee Coles second prize, 56,320, and Mrs. Mary Mills third prize, 56,300.

Next Friday evening the players will meet at 6:45 o'clock at the hall from whence they will attend the theatre, after which they will enjoy a turkey dinner at the Mohican, where the prizes will be awarded.

ADVOCATES OF PROHIBITION MEET IN WASHINGTON TODAY

Representatives of Thirty or More National Temperance Organizations Will Participate in the Proceedings—Will Vote on Resolutions Calling For Specific Prohibition Planks in Both Party Platforms—Senator Borah Will Carry the Fight For a Dry Law Enforcement Plank Into the Republican Natiqnal Convention.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—The groundwork for an intensive campaign to put both the republican and democratic parties on record for vigorous prohibition enforcement will be laid here tomorrow at a one-day conference in which representatives of 30 or more national temperance organizations will participate. A demand also is to be made that the nominees for the presidency and vice-presidency must be men in sympathy with such a program.

Arrangements for the meeting call for expressions from dry leaders who have been active in Protestant, Catholic and Jewish church affairs, and for the adoption of resolutions calling for specific prohibition planks in both party platforms.

In their efforts to get such a commitment from the republicans, those who will confer here tomorrow will have the active co-operation of Senator Borah, republican, Idaho. He disclosed today that he would carry the fight for a dry law enforcement plank into the Kansas City convention itself.

Mr. Borah is expected to head the Idaho delegation to the convention and probably will be a member of the resolutions committee as he was in 1924. In this event he would be in a position to fight before the committee for a prohibition plank and to work against any attempt to cover the situation with a general law enforcement declaration as was done four years ago.

The Idaho senator, who has been indorsed for the presidency by the republicans of his state, is non-committal whether he would carry his prohibition fight to the floor if he loses out in the resolutions committee. He plans prior to the convention to set out on a speaking tour in the middle west and may deliver some addresses in the east.

Already he has obtained commitments against repeal of the 18th amendment and for the Volstead law from three avowed candidates for the republican presidential nomination—Curtis, Willis and Hoover—and within a few days he plans to send his questionnaire on the subject to Senator Watson, of Indiana, whose hat is also in the ring.

ROUNDING UP MAIL TRAIN ROBBERS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 27—(AP)—Two dozen men, two of them confessed participants, and six women, tonight were in federal custody as suspects in the $13,000 Grand Trunk mail train robbery last Saturday, and $17,126 of the loot had been recovered.

It developed today that the police were in possession of the robbers' complete plan for three days prior to commission of the holdup and that a squad of riflemen waited to shoot to kill immediately upon the descent upon the train. A mixup of instructions, however, sent the policemen to the Evergreen Park station, five city blocks from the lonely St. Maria station, where the train was halted.

An elaborate system of wiretapping, installed with a special switchboard in a downtown office a year ago by W. E. O'Connor, chief of detectives, revealed the entire plot to the police.

It enabled them also to raid the home of Charles ("Limpy") Cleaver, whom they identified as the leader and "brains" of the robber band, just after he had, in desperation, telephoned to other members of the band instructions to rush away to Cuban vacations.

The police said their wiretapping system permitted them to hear a woman friend of Limpy upbraid him because he had not given her enough of the loot for the purchase of a fur coat and threaten to "squeal."

Today also brought the release of five men and two women, arrested Saturday when the catch netted 14 men and six women, and the arrest of 13 more men who were turned over to the federal authorities.

Named with Cleaver as a leader of the robber band was William Donovan, also said to have confessed.

The arrests brought the partial solution of several robberies. Joseph Fekete, president of the Fekete Mortgage company, picked Cleaver andtwo others as the men who rifled 40 safety deposit boxes and escaped with $20,000 cash from the bank.

Donovan, confessed author of the robbery plan, told in his confession how the robbery was planned in minute detail, using a cardboard train and a cardboard station to represent that at St. Maria's. Only the retreat had not been rehearsed. At that the robbery was done so quickly that the policemen in the ambuscade at the wrong station arrived at St. Maria's a full minute after the robbers' automobile had roared away, although they raced towards it immediately upon hearing the crash of the explosive as it wrecked the end of the mail car.

After long questioning of the prisoners turned over to him, K. P. Aldrich, chief of the postal inspectors in the Chicago district, stated that none had confessed to him.

PENALIZED FOR FOREIGN CURRENCY SPECULATION

LONDON, Feb. 27—(AP)—The British government has taken prompt action against attaches of the foreign office involved in recent foreign currency speculations.

J. D. Gregory, assistant under-secretary of state in the foreign office, who had previously held important diplomatic posts at Vienna, Bucharest and other foreign capitals, has been ordered dismissed from office. St. Clair O'Malley, it was announced, will be permitted to resign, and Lieut. Commander H. F. B. Mazse is in for a severe reprimand, with the forfeiture of three years seniority.

The trouble arose out of a suit brought by a banking firm against Mrs. Aminta Marjorie Dyne, who, during the war, was Gregory's secretary. Mrs. Dyne was said to have cleared a profit of 34,000 pounds in a period of three months, but later to have lost much more than that. A verdict in favor of the bank of 32,925 pounds was rendered against her in the king's bench division on Feb. 1. She pleaded the "gaming act" in defense, but her plea did not hold with the jury.

HEAVY RAINS CAUSED 12 DEATHS IN RIO JANEIRO

RIO PANEIRO, Feb. 27—(AP)—Twelve persons were killed as the result of the heavy rain on Sunday, which approximated a cloudburst, according to police headquarters this afternoon. The four and one-third inches of rain which fell in a comparatively short time poured down from the Rio hills in torrents that turned streets into rivers.

Two children were killed when a landslide on Antonio Hill destroyed several houses. Two other children with their mother died when their home, which had ben undermined by the waters, caved in. The tragedies sometimes took a freakish form as when one man fell in a street through which the water was flowing so rapidly that he was unable to regain his feet and was drowned.

MOTHER FINDS DAUGHTER IN JAIL WAITING TO BE HANGED

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 27—(AP)—A mother, who had not seen her daughter for 11 years, found her today in jail waiting to be hanged with her husband for the murder of a taxicab driver.

Accompanying the mother was the foster-mother of the condemned woman, Mrs. Doris Palmer McDonald. They brought with them Mrs. McDonald's 29 months old son.

The mother, Mrs. Hazel Greico of Chicago, Ill., brought with her credentials to prove her relationship. Mrs. McDonald had told the authorities that her mother had died when she was born. The foster-mother, Dr. Francis Palmer, was accompanied from her home at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., by her attorney.

The relatives came to Montreal in the hope of aiding in obtaining clemency for Mrs. McDonald.

The young woman and her husband George McDonald were convicted and sentenced for the slaying of a Lachine cab driver whose body was found in a ditch the day after the McDonalds had hired him to drive them to the American border.

TENSION IN ITALY OVER AUSTRIAN AFFAIR LESSENS

ROME, Feb. 27—(AP)—Austro-Italian tension over the speeches of the Austrian chancellor, Ignax Seipel, and others criticising the Italian regime in the Upper Adige, Southern Tyrol was somewhat lessened during the day owing to the fact that Premier Mussolini decided not to address the chamber of deputies on the subject for the present.

The protest by Tyrolese deputies in the Austrian parliament on alleged restrictions of German speaking inhabitants of the Italian Tyrol, was to have been the subject of an interpelation, but Mussolini decided to have the whole situation placed before him by the Italian minister, Giacinto Auriti, who was summoned to Rome Saturday, before making his pronouncement.

Signor Auriti was closeted for a long time with Signor Grandi, under-secretary for foreign affairs, prior to making his explanation of the situation to the premier personally.

WILLIAMS NEGOTIATED SIX DIFFICULT "OUTSIDE" LOOPS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—With a tiny motor-driven camera strapped to the upper wing of his Curtiss Hawk biplane making a permanent record of stresses and strains, Lieut. Alford J. Williams, navy racing pilot, today negotiated six more of the difficult "outside" loops.

Disclaiming any idea of stunt flying, the flier took the air just a week after his first successful negotiation of the maneuver originated a year ago by Lieut. James H. Doolittle, of the army, with the intention of "taking all the mystery out of this business."

The cold day prevented him from attempting more feats to add to his already impressive record, and his attempts at an upside-down spin were halted when his motor repeatedly lost the necessary speed or stalled. He did execute a number of barrel rolls and invert loops, however, all of which were recorded by the accelerometer.

MAJOR LOUIS M. ULLMAN AT THE POINT OF DEATH

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 27—(AP)—Major Louis M. Ullman, a leader in city politics and prominent in republican affairs of the state for the past 35 years, is at the point of death here tonight.

Major Ullman has been in ill health for more than a year and his condition took a sudden turn for the worse last week. He was stricken while at his desk in the Strouse-Adler Corset company plant, of which he is production manager, and was removed to his home at 294 Livingston street.

Major Ullman, who is 63 years old, has, and his brothers, Colonel Isaac M. Ulman and Joseph Ullman, been connected with the Strouse-Adler company for many years.

ARE BETTING $5 ON EACH POUND OF HUMAN FLESH

WATERBURY, Feb. 27—(AP)—Alderman Charles Schitman is going to regain his youthful figure or die in the attempt. Today he bet Joseph Garber that he would reduce 50 pounds in six months or pay $5 a pound for every pound he misses the goal by. Garber agreed to pay $5 for every pound over 50 Schitman takes off. The official scales in the contest are located in the detective bureau at the local police station. Schnitman has already lost two pounds. Sunday he weighed in at 319 pounds and today he tips the balance at 317.

Proposal to Revise Immigration Quotas

Sent to the Senate by President Coolidge at Behest of Secretaries of Bureaus.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—A revision of immigration quotas affecting a number of European countries was transmitted to the senate today by President Coolidge on behalf of the secretaries of state, commerce and labor in response to a resolution by Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota.

Under the revision the annual quota for Great Britain and Northern Ireland is reduced by 7,185 annually, the new figures being 65,894 as against the estimate of 73,097, transmitted to congress in January, 1927. The new quotas based on national origin would become effective next July 1 unless congress meantime suspends the quota revision provision as it did last year. The largest single increase of quota is that for the Irish Free State, the new estimate being 17,427 as against the original estimate of 13,862, giving an increase of 3,565.

The Italian quota is reduced from 6,091 to 5,989; the Rusian quota from 4,781 to 3,540 and the French quota from 3,327 to 3,308.

All of the Scandinavian countries are given slight increases, Denmark's quota going up from 1,044 to 1,234; Sweden's from 3,259 to 3,399 and Norway's from 2,767 to 2,403. Poland's quota jumped from 4,978 to 6,090; Germany's from 23,428 to 24,908; Czechoslovakia's from 2,248 to 2,726; Belgium's from 410 to 1,328; Austria's from 1,456 to 1,639; the Netherlands from 2,421 to 3,083, and Switzerland's from 1,198 to 1,614.

The joint departmental committee appointed to arrive at the national origin basis for the quotas said an investigation by the American Council of Learned Societies indicated that the English element as given in the century of population growth was too larg and it was recommended that this element be reduced by ten per cent and distributed among other nationals represented in the population of 1790.

POLICEMAN SORRY SIGHT IN "PROVING" HIS VALOR

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—A patrolman who received $100 reward after reporting that he had rescued a drowning man in New York harbor on Jan. 2, last, nearly drowned himself today when he was asked to prove his story and his swimming ability in a tank.

The honor board of the police department, investigating the report of two customs men who said they had rescued the man, Patrolman Vito C. Serrarro had claimed he pulled from the water, put the patrolman in the swimming tank at the police academy.

The police swimming instructor said Serrarro floundered about the tank until a life preserver was thrown to him and he was dragged out.

The honor board reserved its decision on the patrolman's story of heroism.

CRISIS IN COTTON TRADE CONTINUES IN ENGLAND

MANCHESTER, England, Feb. 27—(AP)—Progress toward solution of the crisis in the cotton trade was made in a conference here today when the employers withdrew their demands for an increase in working hours from 48 to 52 and of a reduction of wages by 12 1-2 per cent.

They had previously contended that these matters should come within the scope of considerations by a joint committee composed of 12 representatives of each side, which they had suggested.

The trade unions still found themselves unable to accept the employers' proposal which was in lieu of a statutory commission appointed by the government which the workers had proposed. The conference was adjourned until next Monday for consideration of other points on which agreement has failed.

ENGINEMAN WAS KILLED AND FIREMAN INJURED

MARCUS HOOK, Pa., Feb. 27—(AP)—An engineman lost his life and a fireman was seriously injured here today when a Seaboard Air Line express locomotive jumped the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad and derailed four sleepers and a dining car. The train was bound from Pinehurst, N. C., to New York.

Pennsylvania railroad officials said that unconfirmed reports indicated the accident was caused by the engineman of the train taking a cross-over at high speed, although he had a signal to slow down.

Eighty-seven passengers were shaken as the cars crashed over the wooden ties. The locomotive overturned and was wrecked but the other cars did not upset.

Your flight carried out in strict accordance with pre-arranged plans is splendid evidence of commercial and naval usefulness of airships and desirability of energetic development here. Your arrival is the most important event in history of the Canal Zone since the first ship went through."

CONSIDERS CAVELL FILM AN OUTRAGE ON HUMANITY

LONDON, Feb. 27—(AP)—Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, who has been severely criticized in some quarters for his action in connection with the film "Dawn," depicting the life and execution by the Germans in Belgium of the English nurse, Edith Cavell, declared himself in the house of commons today as quite unrepentant, and ready to take the same course again. Sir Austen made a full disclosure of the motives which animated him in his efforts to prevent the exhibition of the film.

The secretary frankly declared that as an English gentleman, meaning not in his official capacity, he considered the film an outrage on humanity. Repeating details of the particular scene of the execution as it had been described to him—one soldier refusing to point his rifle, and being himself shot down, the other members of the firing squad levelling their rifles at her head, the nurse falling in a faint and being despatched by a German officer—he deemed it to be wholly improper. He felt it was an outrage on a noble woman's memory to turn to purposes of commercial profit so heroic a story.

STEPS FOR IMPEACHMENT OF MASS. ATTORNEY GENERAL

BOSTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—First steps toward the impeachment of Attorney General Arthur K. Reading were taken today by the Massachusetts legislature. The state official at a committee hearing last week admitted having received a $25,000 retainer from the Decimo Club, Inc., which has been under investigation in New York.

The rules committee of the house of representatives unanimously adopted an order calling for the investigation of the attorney general and his conduct in office since he took over the department. The order was later reported to the house and placed on the calendar for action tomorrow.

As soon as this decision had been made public Wellington Wells, president of the senate, called the members of that body together and warned them formally that they might be called upon shortly to sit as a court of impeachment.

She will try to wrest the republican nomination from Representative Louis T. McFadden, chairman of the house banking and currency committee, who is seeking his eighth straight term at Washington.

SENATORS REGARD THE COAL FIELDS AS THE SCENE OF AN "INDUSTRIAL WAR"

ROSSITER, Pa., Feb. 27—(AP)—Concluding a survey of what the senators themselves have termed the scene of an "industrial war"—the Pennsylvania bituminous coal fields—the senate interstate commerce sub-committee today spent the greater portion of its time inquiring into the phases of a preliminary injunction recently granted the Clearfield Bituminous Coal corporation by the Indiana county court. The coal concern is a subsidiary of the New York Central railroad.

After having questioned the judge who authorized the court order, which in part prohibited union miners from singing hymns on a church property near the mine mouth, the committeemen, headed by Senator Goodine, Idaho, discussed the injuction with officials of the company.

The injunction was described as a violation of constitutional rights and a breeder of anarchy by senators who questioned A. J. Musser, general manager. Senator Wagner, New York, said he did not hesitate to say that the court writ was an "absolute violation of free speech" and Senator Wheeler, Montana, declared "you are going to enjoin constitutional liberty and we no longer will have government."

The injunction, the senators also were informed, restrained union miners from picketing, marching and advertising in newspapers in an effort to persuade non-union workers to remain away from the mine.

The committee was told that Governor Fisher, of Pennsylvania, had been counsel and a director of the Clearfield Bituminous Coal corporation, but that he resigned when sworn in as governor. Indiana, near Rossiter, is the executive's home.

The committee, which came here from Pittsburgh yesterday, planned to leave for New York tonight.

SEEKING WHEREABOUTS OF THREE U. S. ARMY AVIATORS

A Fleet of Naval Aircraft Has Searched For Commander Ellyson and Two Companion Officers—Unheard of Since They Took Off From Hampton Roads For Annapolis Early Yesterday Morning.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—With Commander T. G. Ellyson and two companion officers unheard from since taking off from Hampton Roads for Annapolis early this morning, a fleet of naval aircraft spent the greater part of the day in an unsuccessful effort to determine their whereabouts.

Accompanied by Lieut. Commander Hugo Schmidt, of Brooklyn, and Lieut. Roger Ranschausen of Springfield, Mass., Commander Ellyson, who was the navy's first air pilot, hopped off at 2 a. m., with the idea of reaching by the quickest possible means the bedside of a sick son at Annapolis.

When at ten o'clock, Annapolis reported that the fliers had not arrived, seven planes were sent out to search from the Hampton Roads naval air station togther with a number from the aircraft carrier Lexington, which is at anchor there. Planes from Annapolis took up the search from the other end, and later in the day, two were ordered out from Anacostia station here.

Reports reaching the navy department said that Commander Ellyson was informed early today that his son was seriously sick at Annapolis. Becoming anxious over his condition and wishing to be with him the other officers agreed to accompany him.

Commander Ellyson was the first officer in the navy to qualify as a pilot of aircraft. He was trained in 1910 by the Wright brothers and Glenn Curtiss, and was the first aviator to be launched in an airplane from a catapult.

He was a member of the United States naval mission to Brazil from 1922 to 1925 and later served as executive officer of the U. S. S. Wright, the flagship of the aircraft squadron of the scouting fleet.

SEARCHING THE SEA FOR TWO MISSING AIRMEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—Airplanes and Coast Guard patrol boats searched the sea in a radius of 200 miles from New York today in a fruitless hunt for the plane in which Walter Hendricks and David Staggert flew out to meet an incoming liner Saturday afternoon.

Hendricks, a professional pilot, took Staggert from Curtiss field in a borrowed plane. Staggert had said he wanted to surprise a passenger on the liner by waving a greeting from the air. They had only four hours' fuel supply at the take-off. Hendricks' plane was not equipped for landing on the water.

Since the plane left Curtiss field a strong off-shore wind has been blowing. The searchers believed it would drive the wreckage of the plane many miles seaward if it had fallen into the water.

FLIVVER WASHED ASHORE; PILOT BROOKS MISSING

SEBASTIAN, Fla., Feb. 27—(AP)—A turbulent sea tonight apparently still clutched the body of Harry Brooks, who dived to his death off Melbourne, Fla., Saturday while trying to make aviation history in a "flivver" plane.

Spurred to greater effort by discovery today of the wreckage of his tiny craft where it had been tossed ashore by the waves, pilots of seaplanes and motor boats and motorcycle police redoubled their search for the body of the daring Ford chief pilot. The battered fuselage gave little evidence as to whether the young flier had managed to free himself before he struck the water, but the safety strap was unbuckled. Ford officials said the strap was buckled when Brooks took off from Titusville, Fla., Saturday bound for Miami, after his unsuccessful effort to make a non-stop flight from Detroit to Miami last week.

A beach patrolling policeman found the wreckage three miles from Sebastian across the Indian river this morning and notified R. P. Southard, Ford dealer of Jacksonville, leading the searching party.

35 PERISHED IN FIRE IN MOVIE HOUSE IN ITALY

MORIAGO, Italy, Feb. 27—(AP)—With 35 persons known to have perished in the fire which destroyed the only moving picture theatre of this hamlet of northern Italy, there was still doubt tonight whether others had not died. The little village, with so many of its residents, at least a score, burned, bruised, or recovering from near asphyxiation, was nursing its wounds while planning for the funerals tomorrow of the dead.

It was the familiar tragic story of a big wooden barn made over for the theatre, with only one exit, crowded by a holiday throng, and with an inexperienced operator on duty in the projection room where the blaze started. The structure kindled like shavings. Panic broke out in the audience and women and children were trampled under foot.

BORAH SENDS LOWDEN "DRY" QUESTIONNAIRE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27— (AP) — Senator Borah, of Idaho, today sent his prohibition questionnaire to former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, one of the candidates for the republican presidential nomination.

This questionnaire is the same as that sent to three other republican candidates, Curtis, of Kansas; Willis, of Ohio, and Secretary Hoover. In it Mr. Lowden is asked to say whether he favors a dry law enforcement plank in the next republican platform; whether he favors repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act, and whether he favors the states fixing the alcoholic content of liquor.

Holcombe, of Houston, took a hand here today in turning earth in preparation for construction of the democratic national convention auditorium.

The contract for erection of the auditorium probably will be let tomorrow.

VET. BUREAU OFFICIALS CHARGED WITH EXTORTION

BOSTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—Dr. Isadore Green, examining physician at the United States Veterans' bureau in this city, and Arthur Williams, a clerk at the bureau, were arrested today, charged with extortion. Both defendants entered pleas of not guilty before the U. S. commissioner and Green was admitted to bail in $1,500 for hearing Friday. Williams was committed to East Cambridge jail in default of $2,500 bail.

WOMEN WERE GO-BETWEENS FOR DIAMOND SMUGGLERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—Two women have confessed to serving as go-betweens for a ring of Belgian smugglers, said by the American Jewelers Protective association to have brought $50,000,000 worth of diamonds into the United States within the last few years, Assistant United States Attorney John M. Blake said today.

The women, Mrs. Leonie Schols and Mrs. Rion Lamell, he explained, received the stones wrapped in linen from employes of steamship lines, and held them until men called for them and wrot the password—"Sabina" or "Clara"—corresponding with that on the package.

By Thornton W. Burgess

Whitefoot is Lonely

To live too long alone is bad;
He little has to make him glad.
—Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

Now that Whitefoot the Wood Mouse had his home all fixed in one of Farmer Brown's beehives and there was no more work to be done, he began to feel a little lonely. In a back corner of the hive he had built a very comfortable nest. He had built a little tunnel leading from the entrance to it. He knew that inside that nest he would be quite safe from the bees should there happen to be a warm day and the bees awaken. He didn't worry about them at all. He used to chuckle to himself a little when he thought of how he was living there with thousands of bees just over his head.

"They could sting me to death in no time at all," thought Whitefoot, "if they should ever catch me where they could get at me. I wouldn't have even a teeny weeny chance. Yet, here I am and there they are. We're all living together in the same house. The only difference is they don't know I am here and I do know they are. I wonder what Mrs. Whitefoot would say to it up here."

This reminded Whitefoot that it was a long, long time since he had seen Mrs. Whitefoot. So many things had happened since the never-to-be-forgotten day when Black Pussy caught him and carried him up to Farmer Brown's. There Farmer Brown's Boy had rescued him and put up a nice little house for him in the Old Orchard and put out food for him. He had liked it so well that he had stayed. Whenever he thought of little Mrs. Whitefoot, somewhere back there in the Green Forest, wondering what had become of him, he had said to himself: "Probably she's all right," and straightaway forgotten her. There had been so much to do and so much to see that he hadn't been in the least lonely.

But now that he had established this fine new home in the beehive on the edge of the Old Orchard nearest to Farmer Brown's dooryard, he began to be lonely. He began by wishing that little Mrs. Whitefoot could see that fine new home. He wanted to brag to her about it. Yes, sir, he wanted to boast. But the more he thought of this the more lonely he became. After a while it wasn't to boast to her about the new home, but to have her there with him, that he wanted to see her.

"Oh, dear!" said Whitefoot, "it's a long, long journey back to the Green Forest. It is a dangerous journey, too, for a little fellow like me. I might meet Shadow the Weasel. I might be seen by Hooty the Owl or Spooky the Screech Owl or Reddy Fox or Old Man Coyote. It makes me shiver just to think of taking such a long trip. Yes, sir, it makes me shiver and it makes me shake. It makes me quiver and it makes me quake. I am scared to death at the very thought. But to go I really think I ought."

"Oh dear!" said Whitefoot, "it's a long, long journey back to the Green Forest."

Whitefoot tried to forget how much he wanted little Mrs. Whitefoot. The more he tried to forget, the more he thought about it. Often it is that way. The surest way of remembering a thing is trying to forget it. So, of course, the more he thought about it the more lonely he became. He was no longer getting any joy out of his new winter home. He wanted to share it. And the only one in all the Great World he wanted to share it with was little Mrs. Whitefoot.

Policeman, 'phone operator, housewife or millionaire—every one of us, no matter who we are, may offend unknowingly

Secrets about body odor everyone should know

THE secret behind many a failure is .... body odor.

People who offend are not wanted—either as employees or friends. You can readily appreciate why.

Yet, much as we abhor body odor, not one of us is safe from it. We have to perspire—or we'd die. And in winter, with activities indoors and warmer, stuffier rooms, body odor is more noticeable than ever.

Others detect body odor—the offender doesn't

Even on coldest days, our millions of pores give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste every 24 hours.

Whether we can see this body moisture or not, it is always odorous. And it shows no partiality. Without taking precautions, anyone—from day laborer to society leader—may offend.

	Body odor more noticeable in winter—due to stuffy rooms—closed windows.
1 Qt.	Pores give off as much as a quart of waste a day—even in coldest weather.
	Now, a purifying toilet soap. Its bland antiseptic lather keeps you safe from body odor.

No fear of embarrassment

And, curiously enough, once an odor becomes familiar to us, our own sense of smell becomes deadened to it. That's why, very often, even fastidious people think they are safe—while actually they do offend.

Yet it's easy to keep away body odor. Simply wash and bathe often with the most delightful toilet soap in the world—Lifebuoy—it deodorizes.

The same mild, antiseptic lather that helps protect health by removing germs—prevents body odor by purifying pores.

Complexions, too, keep fresh and clear with Lifebuoy. Millions find it ideal for every toilet purpose.

A hygienic scent you'll enjoy

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies, yet which quickly evaporates after rinsing. And Lifebuoy instantly works up into a thick, creamy lather—even in hardest water. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

DANIELSON

BARN AND POULTRY HOUSES ARE DESTROYED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 27.—Fire of uncertain origin this morning destroyed the barn and poultry houses of Armos Alkanol on his property near the Brooklyn-Hampton town line on the state highway leading from Brooklyn to Willimantic. The loss is estimated as between $2,000 and $3,000 and is partly covered by insurance. A horse, a cow and about 400 young chicks lost their lives in the flames. Neighbors who came to help succeeded in saving the hens that were in the poultry houses. Also included in the loss was the owner's carpenter's tools and much equipment stored there for the winter season.

The poultry houses and barn were a combination building, two stories in height where the barn section stood. They were comparatively new buildings, built within the past two years and shingled on the outside. Whether the fire started from defective electric light wiring or from a brooder cannot be determined, but the fire spread with great rapidity and eventually consumed the structures. Those who fought the fire with limited supplies of water could not hold it in check and were unable to rescue the 400 chicks, about three and a half weeks old, that were in one part of the poultry house.

During last night the death of Mrs. Jennie L. Westcott, 87, occurred at her home in East Killingly. Mrs. Westcott was a native of Southbridge, Mass., born September 2, 1840. She was a daughter of George H. and Clarinda Clark Law, and of a family that lived for years in the vicinity of Dayville and Attawaugan. December 18, 1879, she was married to Charles T. Westcott. They went to live, locating in Sioux City, Ia., where they remained for about 40 years, Mr. Westcott having in his long residence there built up a large undertaking business. He disposed of this that he and Mrs. Westcott might return to this town to spend their remaining years, and they came back in 1920. Mr. Westcott died about five years ago. Mrs. Westcott leaves three sisters, Mrs. Carrie Y. Goodall and Miss Clara L. Law, both of East Killingly, and Mrs. E. S. Mowry of Middletown, this state. A surviving brother, Charles F. Law, also is resident in Middletown. Following funeral services here Mrs. Westcott's body is to be sent to Sioux City for burial beside that of her husband.

This afternoon the semi-annual meeting of the Brooklyn Savings bank was held with nearly all of the members of the board of trustees in attendance. Treasurer Sidney W. Bard's report showed that the earnings of the past six months were especially satisfactory. The usual semi-annual dividend at the rate of 4 1-2 per cent. per annum was declared, payable March 1.

Following the regular business the officers and trustees were in consultation with representatives of the firms of architects that have prepared the plans for the new banking building. The plans are in final form. Under an agreement with Damase Boulais, who has purchased the old buildings on the site for the new building, these structures are to be removed during the course of the month of March, and the site cleared to allow construction work to begin right after the first of April.

Indications now are that the next state aid road work to be done in territory hereabouts will involve improvement of the highway running northward from near Brooklyn Center into the town of Pomfret, past the old Haskell stand and on to Pomfret railroad station. This is a route of historic interest, for on it is the old Putnam homestead, now known as the Lapsley place. Improvement of this road would give a new direct line of travel from the town of Plainfield into Brooklyn and to Pomfret, where present trunk line and state aid roads run on into Woodstock and across the border into Massachusetts. Building of the link between Brooklyn and Pomfret would give good highways all along this route and undoubtedly divert some of the travel now crowding present trunk lines in this territory.

Henry Comier, 19, of New Bedford, was before Judge Torrey in the town court of Plainfield today to face charges of stealing two watches and two rings from Uldege Lebeau in Plainfield the past week, and was sentenced to serve three months in the county jail at Brooklyn. Comier had been a resident of Plainfield only a few days when he committed the theft.

Today Miss Irene Blais of this town and Wilfred F. LaPalme of Palmer, Mass., were united in marriage at the rectory of St. James' church.

The meeting of Brooklyn grange scheduled for Tuesday is to provide an interesting program. DeForest Wells is scheduled for a talk on The Future of Agriculture, and Mrs. Elizabeth Lawton for another on Some of Our Great Men in Agriculture. Mrs. Ada F. Pratt is to present a travelogue and a stunt is to be provided by Dr. F. W. Page.

It was said today that the work of building the new route out of Danielson for the Providence route likely would be undertaken in the spring or early summer. This new route is to leave North Main street near Hutchins streets and cut through what are now private grounds and fields to a point near the junction of Stearns and Reynolds street. Practically all of this work can be done without any interference with traffic on the present route through Reynolds street.

The pilgrimage that the Sons of Union Veterans of eastern Connecticut, including members here, have planned to make to the last resting place of General Nathaniel Lyon at Phoenixville in the town of Eastford has recalled to the mind of old soldiers here that General Lyon was the first general officer on the Union side to give his life in the Civil war, and it is related that his funeral at Eastford was probably the largest since held in any section of the county hereabouts.

One of the things Edgar LaRochelle of New Bedford is said to have done to the nearly new roadster he stole in that city last week was to greatly weaken the springs on the rear of the car. This is accounted for by the manner in which he forced the car over almost impassable, rutted country roads last Saturday in trying to evade pursuers who set after him in Jewett City. Now a comparatively mild jolt sets the body of the car to bumping on the rear axle. The car has been driven only about 7,000 miles.

As to automobiles, these are hard days for many a man who has purchased one on a deferred payment plan. It has been difficult for some of these owners to meet more pressing charges during the winter season, and a result has been the seizure of many machines on attachments for debts.

Young women giving the names of Miss Jane Hurling and Miss Emma Plats, and claiming Boston as their home city, made Danielson today on a hitch-hiking project that is going to take them into southerly states and eventually across the continent, if all goes well. They plan to obtain work for a week or two from time to time to help defray their expenses. They are frank in their assertion that they hope for many automobile rides.

Attorney Arthur G. Bill recalled to-day that the death of George E. Danielson is the second from the membership of the first class graduated from Killingly high school in 1878, and the first death from the class membership in about half a century. There were five members of the class—Frank Stone, who died a few years after his graduation; Attorney A. G. Bill, Mrs. C. H. Pellett of North Main street, George Stone of Broad street and Mr. Danielson.

Edgar LaRochelle, the New Bedford youth who stole a car in Fall River last Thursday, and who was arrested, held here over Sunday and taken to Jewett City today for a hearing of charges developing against him there, was to be turned over to the Fall River police after today's hearing and returned to Massachusetts, where he will face the car theft charges.

It was said today that there had been no special developments that might aid in determining who stole $161.03 from the office of the freight station of the New Haven road the past week end.

This isn't going to be such a pleasant vacation week for numbers of children in Danielson who are confined to their home with mumps, cases of which continue to develop from day to day.

J. Carl Witter was in Woonsocket today on a business trip.

Favored by excellent weather conditions, ice harvesting crews worked at top speed in this town today, and at night fall had garnered a great quantity of tons—enough to insure Danielson a goodly part of its needs for the year.

A card tournament for the members was started this week at the rooms of Rose of Lima council, K. of C. The committee in charge is made up of Thomas Madon, James R. Walsh, Michael Dascoli.

Miss Alice Monohan was a visitor with relatives in Providence today.

Mrs. Sarah Nolan of Bridgeport returned to her home in Bridgeport today after visiting with relatives here.

Youthful boxers from the Peloquin stable of amateurs here are to engage in bouts at Willimantic Thursday evening of this week and in other bouts at Putnam on Friday evening.

MYSTIC

MRS. JAMES W. POLLARD DEAD AT HER HOME

Friends were saddened Monday morning when the death of Mrs. Julia Bindloss Pollard, wife of James W. Pollard was made known. Mrs. Pollard, who died at 11 o'clock Sunday night, had been up and around the house until Thursday night, when her illness took a serious turn. She had been in impaired health for the past three years but was able to keep about. Mrs. Pollard was born in Mystic June 25, 1856 the oldest child of William Bindloss and Mary Allen Park. On Sept. 21, 1882 she was united in marriage with James W. Pollard. One son, Thomas W. Pollard was born to them and when the son married he brought his wife home. They built a pretty home on the west side of the river. Mr. and Mrs. Pollard were both lovers of flowers and have had a greenhouse for many years. Mrs. Pollard was a member of St. Mark's Episcopal church, of Williams Woman's Relief Corps and when Mystic Grange was organized Aug. 8, 1908 Mr. and Mrs. Pollard were charter members and have been very active in the order, Mr. Pollard having served as master and treasurer. Mrs. Pollard was also a member of Old Mystic Social circle and was a member of the W. C. T. U. for over 25 years.

She will be greatly missed. Besides her husband and son she is survived by three grandchildren, Irene, Thomas W. and Robert Pollard, and by four brothers, William P. Bindloss of Stonington, Palmer, Dudley and Frank Bindloss of Mystic and by two sisters, Mrs. Kate Braman, of Essex and Miss Margaret A. Bindloss, of Mystic, who is spending the winter in Orlando, Fla.

The music committee of the Methodist church every year arranges a vesper musical service and Sunday afternoon, March 25 has been selected as the date, when John Stainer's Cantata, The Crucifixion will be given. The two solo parts, tenor and bass will be sung by Willard W. Keigwin, and Traffly A. Morin, members of the Viking male quartet and church choir singers. Mrs. Thomas W. Ryley of New Haven will play the organ. Mrs. C. W. Gildersleeve, pianist, G. V. Grinnell and F. J. Kahl, violins. Ira F. Noyes is director.

At the Baptist church Sunday morning Mrs. J. W. Johnson sang a solo. The flowers were given in honor of those baptized one year ago. Everyman's Bible class held its February supper, business meeting and social Monday evening. Russell W. Potter was chairman of the arrangements. Rev. A. W. Hylan, pastor of Pequonoc Bridge Baptist church was the speaker. It is planned to have the Father and Sons' banquet at the March meeting.

A large number of voters are planning to attend the Groton town meeting in Pequonoc this (Tuesday) evening when it will be decided if the town is to build a high school and accept the money left for that purpose by the late C. P. Fitch, the town to add $140,000 to it.

Miss Elizabeth Clay Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Mary B. Thomas of New York city formerly of Eastern Point and Thomas James Weir son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weir of Mystic were married in Welch Presbyterian church, New York city, Saturday at 8 p. m. They were attended by Miss Ethel Thomas, sister of the bride and John Weir, brother of the groom. After a wedding trip they will reside in Bridgeport, where the groom is employed by the Salts Textile Co.

Another instance of how government officials are using the airplane to facilitate their business will be given early next month when Assistant Secretary Davison of the war department in charge of aviation and Major General James E. Fechet, chief of the army air corps, fly from Washington to the Canal Zone on an inspection trip.

PUTNAM

CITY VOTES TO BUILD CEMENT TANK RESERVOIR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 27—With a vote of 700 to 490, the citizens of Putnam today decided in favor of building a cement reservoir on Richmond hill instead of the steel tank proposition as advocated by the mayor and city council. This settles the question which has been foremost in the public affairs of the community since last July. Meetings have been held and some weeks ago the council voted to have the steel tank erected. Immediately the Citizens' committee protested and demanded a vote. There was some delay until Attorney Irving Miron threatened to take the matter before the courts. The council then granted the city election with the foregoing result. The members of the Citizens' committee and those in favor of the steel tank proposition plastered the city with posters relative to the merits of the propositions.

Saturday, the mayor and the common council issued a signed flyer, quoting the cost of the steel tank. This flyer changed many minds that were in the opinion of voting "yes" for the cement reservoir. Early Monday morning another flyer was issued by the supporters of the cement reservoir plan, contradicting the statements made by the mayor and common council. The handbill stated that the saving of $70,570.00 was impossible. The cost of the steel tank as quoted in Mayor Richard's flyer, was $17,500, foundation $3,500, and the cost of laying 9,920 feet of pipe to connect the tank up with was to cost $48,430, making a total of $64,430.

The backers of the cement reservoir stated in a later handbill that it would be impossible to erect a tank at such figures, and went on explaining other costs that were not quoted in the mayor's statement. The distributing of the numerous handbills, all making different statements, put many voters on the fence, leaving them in a frame of mind so they did not know which way to cast the votes.

Officer Alpheri Sponcey of the Putnam police department has been transferred to day duty for a month's time. Officer Benoi Durand has resumed night police work. Each month Captain Jarvis shifts his men about so they may each have a turn at the day duty.

The board of relief for the town of Putnam met at the chamber of commerce rooms with Arthur O. Lamb of Hartford. The board finished last week on the work of hearing the petitions of local taxpayers.

Many signs of spring were seen about the city Monday that indicated that winter is probably retiring to the north. School boys have gotten out the marbles and are playing the ancient schoolboy game early this season. Snow is not to be seen about the city since the heavy rainfall last week. Although there are no robins or other spring birds that have ventured north yet, the weather has been exceedingly pleasing to all folks. Sunday's cold spell was followed by a warm south wind Monday that caused the thermometers to steadily raise, during the day.

The Cargill council of Knights of Columbus have completed plans for their annual Easter Monday ball. The ball this year will be held at the Wild Wood dance hall in Killingly. The music is to be furnished by Don Eisenberg and his Sinfonians of Boston. The Easter Monday ball is considered the largest and most prominent social function of the season. It will open the post Lenten season. James J. Charon is the general chairman of the arrangements.

Continuation of the investigation of the recent Putnam high school breaking and entering case is still being made by the police and school authorities. The only articles found to be missing are a few Latin text books and a small amount of money that was the property of the staff of the "Blue and White Banner," the high school publication. The thieves caused considerable damage to the building when they entered. They removed glass from doors that entered off the hall ways. The local police are still working on the case.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Blackmar were held from the home in Thompson, Monday. The services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Lyons, pastor of the Congregational church of Thompson hill. Mrs. Blackmar was well known in Thompson and Putnam. She was remembered by the large number of floral tributes that came from the many friends she leaves. Mrs. Blackmar is not survived by any children.

Boy Scouts of St. Mary's church and Boy Scouts of the Independent Troop 1, are busy raising funds for their summer encampment periods. Both organizations are to hold social functions during the coming months. Troop 1 is giving a whist party in their club rooms on Front street on March 2, while troops 2, 3, 4, 5 are to hold a social and dance in the new state armory on Harris street on St. Patrick's night.

At the Congregational church on Sunday evening many people witnessed the showing of the motion picture, "The Lost World," that was the feature of the Friendly Evening service. It was a masterpiece of the motion picture industry and its scenes dealt with the discovery of prehistoric animals that lived in the early ages. During the changing of the reels the congregation was entertained by the showing of slides that were taken in Putnam during the blizzard of 1888. One of the most interesting pictures was a slide, showing Bugbee's corner as it looked during the days when Putnam was buried under the heavy snow of '88. Another interesting slide gave the boys and girls of today an idea of how the business section of the city looked on a busy Saturday before the "horseless carriage" came into use. Next Sunday evening at seven o'clock there will be a service of communion.

Miss Ruth Shaw and Miss Edna Taylor, operators of the local telephone exchange are on a week's vacation. They will visit relatives in Jersey City and New York city before they return to Putnam.

Gilbert F. Perry, a civil engineer for the city of Worcester, Mass., spent the week end at the home of his parents, City Engineer and Mrs. George W. Perry of Providence street.

HANOVER

The old folks' concert given under the auspices of the Ladies' guild on Monday evening in the parish house was greatly enjoyed by the large audience in attendance. The old fashioned dancing by a dozen of the small children of the village, dressed as they also were in colonial costumes made for the occasion, was especially pleasing. We were glad to see Mrs. Angus Park in the audience, this being the first public gathering she had attended since her recent illness. She was accompanied by her two daughters, Mrs. Way and Mrs. Gregg, and their husbands. The display of small antique articles exhibited in the library room as an adjunct to the concert indicates that Hanover people are quite rich in the household furnishings of their early ancestors.

William G. Park attended the annual meeting of the South Congregational church, Middletown, recently, this being the church of which Mr. Rollason, a former Hanover pastor, is now the minister.

Rev. and Mrs. Stone drove to Mystic Saturday last to attend the funeral of Henry Charles Townsend, Mr. Stone having attended the funeral of Mrs. Townsend seven years ago at Stonington, assisted by Charles Eldridge, the acting pastor of the Road church, to which Mr. Townsend belonged, was the officiating clergyman.

The Hanover church was well represented at the closing session of the classes held by the Norwich council of religious education at the United church Tuesday evening.

None of the workmen employed in the building of St. Joseph's church are to be seen upon the outside now, as all are engaged upon the inside finishing, and it is expected that it will be completed and ready for worship on May 1st.

We are sorry to add the name of Miss Gladys Crombie to the list of those who are sufficiently disabled to be kept in the house this week. Miss May Gray is visiting her in her home.

Mrs. Harold of Meriden has returned home after a short visit among her friends and former neighbors.

Miss Eva Ashby of Noank, after an extended visit with Mrs. Webster Standish, has returned to her home.

Next Sunday morning at the Congregational church the pastor will give a presentation of Jesus as pictured by one of the Old Testament hymns, and in the evening at 7.30 he will give the first in a series of Lenten talks upon Jesus and the Christian Life. The church school and the Young People's society will hold their sessions as usual at 12 m. and 6.30 p. m., respectively.

TREAT ALL ALIKE

When established transportation lines which are under supervision of state and government authorities strongly urge the placing of motor busses under regulations of a similar character it is no more than should be expected.

Where bus lines are operated solely within a state they fall under the control of state utility commissions but when their service is interstate they fall to come under the control of the interstate commerce commission because that commission has never been authorized to assume such control.

Bus lines are in many instances establishing a competition with regulated services by steam or electric railroads and there is nothing unusual about the demand that all should be treated alike. With the numerous bus lines it would involve a tremendous lot of new work for the interstate commerce commisson, but if the authority to establish the regulations was conferred upon the state commissions with the right of appeal to the interstate commission there would be a reasonable solution of the matter. Commissioners who would be in touch with the conditions in the two or three states which might be involved could quickly dispose of petitions and agree upon requirements and in that way the rights of established transportation lines would receive the protection to which they are entitled.

It is in fact unjust to rail and electric lines if motorbus lines can start up for the purpose of taking away the business of the existing lines and not be subjected to regulations or even required to provide for the proper protection of the patrons.

It has been a long time since this matter was called to the attention of congress. The interstate commerce commission has had the matter under investigation and its investigator has reported concerning the situation and such legislation as would be needed to remedy the state of affairs. Whether it will get the needed attention at this session of congress is decidedly uncertain. The situation is one which ought not to be allowed to continue as it is indefinitely. Common justice to all calls for early action.

FIGHTING DOPE EVIL

The fight against the illicit drug evil is not a new war. It has been in progress for a long time but there is plenty of evidence to show that it must be waged for a long time to come unless greater success lies ahead.

Through the Narcotic Education week which ends with this month efforts have been and are being made to disseminate information as widely as possible concerning the dangers of narcotics in the belief that knowledge will result in overcoming the ignorance that is now responsible for many getting drawn into the practice of using dope. This week has the backing of the World Narcotic Defense association and the Narcotic Defense foundation which maintain that "narcotic drug exploitation, taking on new forms with the development of modern chemistry on top of the old forms of the opium traffic, now endangers the future of the human race. The victims of this 'living death' number tens of millions and henceforward the young people of the world must run the gauntlet of this new and deadly enemy."

Those who have made a study of criminal cases get startling information regarding the part which the use of narcotics has played in starting young men on the downward path. Not only does it fasten upon them with a grip of steel but they are unable to break away, go from bad to worse and become completely demoralized. The menace of the illicit drug traffic to the human race is serious. It is well that there are organizations which are making a determined fight against it. They deserve to succeed, but if that is going to result they should get all possible support from those who know the danger of narcotic habits and who have seen plenty of examples of what needs to be eliminated.

Waiting for individuals to profit from their experiences is too late when it comes to dope users. By that time they have gone too far and it becomes a difficult job to turn back. The need is to have the dangers so fully presented that there will be a complete avoidance of the temptations and while that is underway there should be such a thorough enforcement of narcotic laws that those who are responsible for the illicit sale of dope are driven out of business.

PROMISES MUCH FOR CANADA

In connection with the plan for the development of the St. Lawrence waterway by this country and Canada there has been a disposition in certain parts of Canada to throw cold water on it. They regard it as feasible, and they see where it would be a good thing for the lake territory on both sides of the border, but they carry the idea that it would prove detrimental to Montreal. That city is now a large shipping center and through the planned development they imagine that the shipping would not make that city a terminal.

Whether those who have been taking such a view are about to change their attitude is a question, but it is impossible to overlook the significance in the statement which has been made by Senator McDougald, chairman of the Montreal harbor board, who has became a booster for the waterway.

Senator McDougald is not only in favor of the improvement but he sees great possibilities for Montreal as the result of it. He believes that the completion of the waterway and the waterpower development would result in doubling the present port business of Montreal, that it will add a million and a half workmen to Canada's industrial force, that it will add nearly 8,000,000 to the present population of Canada and that the annual wage fund of Canada will be increased by $2,324,400,000.

Such enthusiastic support of the waterway cannot fail to start thought in a new channel and to allay some of the opposition that has been coming from the Montreal region. The chairman of the harbor board has been looking at more than the ships that actually come and go. He sees a bigger future for Montreal, a bigger one for Canadian lake ports and a bigger one for Canada itself. In other words there are substantial benefits which lie ahead for Canada and he is desirous of doing whatever is possible to obtain them. That this should be the Canadian attitude especially since this development will be for so great a part in Canadian territory is firmly believed.

STILL PUSHING AHEAD

There have been tests for speed, for endurance and altitude flying by airplanes. In the endeavor to establish new records these contests can be expected to go on and it can be expected that there will be faster time, longer stays in the air and soaring to greater heights.

But there has been opened up possibilities for a new contest by the recent flight of Bert Hinkler from London to Australia, a distance of 12,000 miles, at a cost of two cents a mile. That affords an opportunity for others to show how flying can be done at a lower cost. It is bound to be an effort in which many will be interested for as flying becomes more general there will be a demand for lowered costs quite the same as there is for greater mileage on a gallon by the motorists.

If Hinkler is able to fly at a cost of two cents a mile it is certain that his record will be lowered. There will be no peace until it is accomplished. It not only interests those who handle the wheel in a flying machine but those who make the airplanes. They will be concerned with this feature of new machines quite the same as the manufacturer of automobiles.

We may not be prepared to say how it is going to be accomplished but we can be certain that it will be. Even now we are informed of an airplane engine that will run without fuel. It may sound fishy and probably will be so pronounced, but in these days of new inventions and discoveries there's no assurance that the unheard of and the unexpected cannot be performed. Until it has been tried and proved unsuccessful it will be too soon to throw the fuelless engine overboard, even though that may be its destination.

PROTECTING HUMANITY

Statistics probably show that hotels as well as schoolhouses and other similar public buildings are consumed by fire quite frequently. Not many of them come to attention unless there is a loss of life or some other serious feature connected therewith, but it is impossible to overlook the menace to life in such structures where too little regard is paid to the safety of human beings and too few provisions are made for meeting just such an emergency as a fire.

It is an excellent thing to have wooden structures so safeguarded that protective measures will prevent fires, but it doesn't overcome the need of making provision for escape in case the preventive measures experience a slip.

In North Carolina, and not long ago in New York state, a wooden hotel was recently destroyed by fire. There were 65 guests and all got out safely except three who lost their lives, but the startling fact was that most of those who did escape did so by knotting up their bedclothing and using it for ropes, by fire escapes or by leaping.

This would indicate that while that hotel may not have been in the habit of having fires it had not overdone the job of providing for the guests who were shut off by flames and smoke. There are still some old time hotels which maintain knotted ropes for fire escapes, and even such a means would have been quicker and safer than being forced to use the bed clothing, but it can hardly be regarded as adequate protection for public places like a hotel unless there are enough fire escapes and exits while too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the safeguards against fire and fireproof structures.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—Senator Bingham last week made the records of the senate show that he is trying to stem the tide of wasted time and money, that results from what he terms turning the senate of the United States into a grand jury, instead of attending to its legitimate business. Senator Bruce had referred to the senate's "investigating mania" when Mr. Bingham rose and urged that "the senate should act in its proper capacity of making laws and in seeing that the laws are carried out." With every second senator in that body jumping up now and then to ask that the senate "investigate" a real or imaginary evil, Senator Bingham believes that many of the senate's normal functions are neglected.

Senator Bingham, like other senators, is being flooded with petitions for and against a navy of adequate size. The American Legion auxiliaries of a number of Connecticut cities this week petitioned the senator to work for an enlarged naval programme as a matter of national defense. As an off-set to this he received several small petitions from church organizations asking him to work against all such measures. One of the most remarkable efforts opposing a naval programme came to a Massachusetts representative from a clergyman, who in his letter, did not hesitate to use somewhat unclerical language in expressing his opinion of the "preparedness" sentiments of the representative. "Your course is outrageous," and it is "a damnable outrage" were among the comments expressed by the clergyman, who was decidedly "brash" in his utterances. But it is notable that absolutely no expressions against adequate navy and army have been received from veterans, or families of veterans. A notable instance of how war veterans and war mothers feel was put before congress this week, by the reading into the Record a letter received by Representative Edith N. Rogers, of Massachusetts. Mrs. Rogers was a war worker in the Red Cross both here and overseas and has been an ardent supporter of "adequate preparedness as a preventative of war." Today she received a letter from the Association of American War Mothers, congratulating her on the work she is doing towards a sufficient army and navy, adding: "We admire your course and hope and pray for your success in carrying it through. We do not want to be classed with pacifists, for we believe in an adequate army and navy."

Congressman Freeman today said he was strongly in favor of retaining submarines as a part of the naval equipment. Said Mr. Freeman, "I believe the ratio 5-5-3 for the United States, Great Britain and Japan should be strictly adhered to, and that submarine construction should keep pace with construction of cruisers." Mr. Freeman believes preparedness for defense is the only way to avoid war, and in this sentiment the Connecticut delegation stands solid.

Senator Bingham has this week asked that a joint committee of congress be named to study the problem of how best to control military and naval air craft for sea coast defense. He then introduced a concurrent resolution under which five senators and five members of the house would inquire into the subject and recommend legislation. The Bingham resolution is before the military affairs committee of the senate and a favorable report is expected.

A matter of great interest to the Connecticut delegation is that of getting the Fenn reapportionment bill before congress. Hearings have been going on for much more than a year, but no bill has yet been reported out by Chairman Fenn. This week, Speaker Longworth and Floor Leader Tilson urged Fenn to hurry along the bill, at the same time expressing approval of the expected measure, which will go before congress under the name of the Fenn bill, and will keep the number of the house as at its present limit of 435 members.

Under that bill some states will lose and some will gain, but the leaders believe it is better to suffer a loss in some instances than to increase the representation to unwieldy numbers. The Fenn bill calls for a 1930 census and the apportionment to be based on its results. Connecticut will gain one member of the house.

When asked his opinion of the Hoover candidacy, Congressman Merritt replied, "If I am correct in believing that Mr. Coolidge has declined to run again, then I think that Mr. Hoover is his logical successor and will best carry out the policies and methods that have been so beneficial to the country. I further believe that if Mr. Hoover is nominated he will be elected."

Mrs. John Q. Tilson, wife of Congressman Tilson, the republican floor leader of the house of representatives, returned to their home at 3 Loomis place, New Haven, from Washington, where she has been spending the winter with her husband at the Mayflower.

The chairman of the sub-committee of the appropriation committee has recommended the passage of a bill which will give New England as well as other sections of the country greatly improved hospital and housing conditions. It authorizes additional housing for 470 officers, 595 non-commissioned officers, 5,593 enlisted men and 138 patients in hospitals. Projects for many sections of the country are provided. Those for New England at Camp Devens authorizes $100,000 for 16 sets of non-commissioned officers' quarters, $150,000 for 12 sets of officers' quarters. The last congress authorized construction at Camp Devens, $800,000 for barracks to accommodate 970 enlisted men, $400,000 for a hospital of 105 beds. This completes the hospital and barracks for Camp Devens.

Statistics recently compiled regarding the number of women in state legislatures show a gain of two over the preceding year. The figures are now 126 over 124 in 1927. Maine elected a woman to its state senate, Mississippi lost one of its three women representatives, New Jersey lost two, Virginia gained two and West Virginia elected a Negro woman to its legislature, the first Negro woman in the country to hold such an office.

General Pershing was host to a large number of guests at a dinner given this week for members of the national committees of the Washington Cathedral, now in process of erection. The honor guests were Bishop and Mrs. Freeman, of the diocese of Washington. Connecticut was represented by Burton Mansfield, of New Haven. The purpose of the dinner was a conference regarding future work on the cathedral. A distinguished company was present. Later, General Pershing sailed for Europe.

The name and status of Camp Meade, Maryland, has been changed by the war department, into Fort Leonard Wood, in honor of the late General Wood, a native of New England. The former camp now becomes a permanent post.

The U. S. signal corps reports that New England has the windiest mountain top in the United States. That is Mt. Washington. Anemometers there have registered 111, 152 and 186 miles hourly velocity.

THE DAYS GROW SHORTER.

Mr. Tittleworth was deep in the story of the ball game. Mrs. Tittleworth apparently was absorbed in contemplation of a dress pattern. The head of the house sighed happily and hoped she was.

"The days are growing shorter," she remarked, abstractedly, and his hope vanished.

Though hope was gone, courage remained. Mr. Tittleworth said nothing in reply. He did, however, rustle the paper significantly.

"The days are growing shorter," she repeated.

A silence.

Mrs. Tittleworth suddenly put down the dress pattern and the note of abstraction abruptly left her voice.

"I said the days——"

"Are growing shorter," interrupted her spouse, hastily. "Sure. Maybe that's why some of our ball players can't see to catch a ball. Would you believe? In the second inning, with one man out——"

"No, I wouldn't believe, not even if I saw it. There's something sad about the days getting shorter and shorter."

"Worry won't help."

Mrs. Tittleworth picked up her dress pattern and Mr. Tittleworth unobtrusively plunged into the account of the third inning.

"And this daylight savings time," reached his ears. "I suppose they will be taking that away from us soon. Just when a body gets used to the idea. Can't you do something about it?"

"Eh?"

"Why can't you?"

"Me? I ain't in politics."

"Supposing you're not in politics. Can't you explain it to me?"

"Meaning?"

"I don't understand how it works. In the spring you sets your watches and clocks ahead one hour or back one hour, and then in the fall you sets 'em back one hour or ahead nne hur. That's what I want explained."

"You've come to the right place," admitted Mr. Tittleworth. "Let's be scientific. Suppose you take an orange——"

"Columbus took an egg, didn't he?"

"Supposing he did? Oranges was scarce in his day."

"How much are they worth now? The juicy kind?"

"Well, take a 5-cent orange. That represents the earth."

"Where is the north pole?"

"At the north end of the axle."

"I wonder why nobody has discovered a west pole."

"Never mind that, now. Take the orange."

"What next?"

"Next," continued Mr. Tittleworth, "is to take—well, let's say you take a washtub. That represents the sun."

"Is the sun flat on both sides?"

"No, but just consider the part that's round. Like a buggy tire."

"Why didn't you say buggy tire, then, in the first place?"

"I'm trying to make it easy and still be scientific."

Mrs. Tittleworth placed the dress pattern upon the table.

"Then suppose we leave out oranges and washtubs and buggy tires," said she, coldly. "Suppose we just talk about the sun and the earth, if you have to bring that in."

"Certainly, I have to bring the earth in. What would be the use of talking just about the sun when we don't live there?"

"Does anybody live there?"

"There are two schools of thought. One practical and the other inpractical. Now, the one school of thought holds according to the nebulous hypeople that the sun——"

"Let's get back to earth," suggested Mrs. Tittleworth.

"Good!" ejaculated Mr. Tittleworth.

"And let's get somewhere."

"Sure. Now, in the first place, the earth circulates on its axle."

"From right to left?"

"Generally."

"When does it go from left to right?"

"In the dark of the moon. Now, it circulates once every twenty-four hours—Sundays and holidays included. That makes day and night. Now, the sun travels in an orfice——"

"You're getting scientific again."

"Well, that makes winter and summer. And that makes daylight savings. And before long we'll be putting the clocks back one hour and we'll all have an extra hour."

"And pretty soon we'll be putting the clocks back and gaining an hour?"

"That's it," agreed Mr. Tittlelworth, heartily. "You caught on fast. Think what a blessing that extra hour will be! I hope you make good use of it. Time is money and, like money, should never be wasted. Kindly remember that."

"Kindly remember the hinges on the kitchen door that you have been promising all summer to fix," replied Mrs. Tittleworth. "There's a practical use you can make of that extra hour."

"Hold on!" cried Mr. Tittleworth. "Hold on! Maybe we lose an hour when the time changes. I'm not so positive."

"Maybe you're not," returned Mrs. Tittleworth, calmly. "I couldn't say as to that. But I can say that I'm positive you're going to fix that kitchen door."—Chicago News.

"Overcoming Sinful Habits"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Thanks be to God who giveth us the victory" (I Corinthians 15:57).
Read: Romans 7:15-25.

MEDITATION: St. Paul had been suffering from a divided spirit. The good and the evil were in a perpetual warfare, so painful that he spoke of it as "this death." The psychiatrists have found out that a prolific cause of mental disturbances is lack of self conquest and of inward harmony. It may consist of a secret sin, a wayward imagination, desires at war with ideals, or a wrong attitude toward life and other people. The way out is a central, dominating, unselfish purpose that brings life into harmony. We shall find the way out of conflict where Paul found it: "I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord." If Christ is supreme in life, there will be inner order, unity and health of spirit.

PRAYER: Almighty Father who dost heal both the bodies and souls of men, deliver Thy servants, we pray Thee, from all infirmities by the grace of Thy Christ. Let His spirit that giveth life and peace abide in us and unify our scattered souls. In the name of Jesus. Amen.

INCOME TAX TIPS

To be allowed, a claim for a deduction for a loss incurred in a "transaction entered into for profit," not connected with the taxpayer's trade or business, must have several distinct qualities.

The intent to make a profit must have existed at the beginning of the enterprise. A loss sustained in the sale of a house purchased by a taxpayer as his residence without intent to make a profit, and subsequently rented, is not deductible. A taxpayer who buys an automobile to be used for business purposes and sells it at a loss is entitled to a deduction for the loss sustained. But a loss sustained in the sale of an automobile purchased for pleasure or convenience is not deductible, the transaction not having been entered into for profit.

All losses are deductible only to the extent for which they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

YOUR HEALTH

WHAT IS BLOOD PRESSURE?

By L. Winfield Kohn, M. D., New York —Member Gorgas Memorial.

The taking of the blood pressure of individuals has been rather an ordinary procedure during the past 25 years. Previous to 1900 this was not a common practice. Today the value of blood pressure is definitely recognized and plays an important role in the diagnosis of disease and in the appraisal of the general condition of the patient.

Blood pressure implies the force or pressure of the circulating blood within the arteries of the body. It is in these vessels that the blood is contained and circulates. As it does so it exerts pressure against the vessel walls. The physician estimates two forms of blood pressure—a systolic and a diastolic. The systolic pressure is the greatest force within the circulation and exists at the moment of the heart contraction or so-called systole. The diastolic blood pressure is the lowest force in the circulation and exists during the moment of complete heart rest or diastole. The difference between these two pressures equals the pulse pressure or force necessarily exerted by the heart to overcome the resistance offered by the peripheral vessel walls.

The physician employs an instrument to estimate those pressures. The arm is bound around with a band containing an air bag which is inflated and depending upon the resistance encountered and upon the point at which the pulse is obliterated as well as the point at which it returns will result the recordation of the blood pressure.

The blood pressure will depend upon such factors as the contraction strength of the heart, the resistance throughout the vessels, the elasticity of the vessel walls, the volume of blood, the viscosity of the blood, etc. Other lesser factors also play a part, such as the state of the nervous system and the psychic attitude. Of course during disease additional influences may arise which make themselves manifest. Normally the blood pressure may vary within wide limits but significance should be attached to each form of pressure (systolic, diastolic and pulse) and only in so far as it is related to other general features concerning the case.

Normally, the systolic pressure may vary in adults from 110 to 150, depending upon the age and type of build of the individual. The diatolic pressure may vary from 70 to 90. The 40. The pressure is estimated in millimeters of mercury. As is well known, the pressure may be above normal, known as hypertension, and below normal, known as hypotension.

The ascertainment of the state of the blood pressure is exceedingly important from a health standpoint and may lead to the recognition of disease not suspected up to the time of its estimation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Churchianity and Christianity.

Mr. Editor: In reading your issue of Feb. 25th, I notice a letter on "Religion" by Mr. Fabel in the second paragraph of which he claims that each of the churches is claiming to be the only true way that leads to heaven. May I humbly suggest that there is a great difference between Churchianity and Christianity. Our pastors continually teach and pray for the coming of the kingdom of God in the hearts of men and women, boys and girls. Our pastors continually teach us that just going to church or having our name on the church roll will not get us into heaven. Our pastors continually preach and teach us that unless the love of Christ comes into our heart and we live the Christ life day by day, then we are not giving to the world the best that is in us. As long as people have the freedom to think, there is bound to be differences of opinion. The Bible says, "Come, let us reason together," showing there were difference of opinions then as now.

II Timothy, chapter IV, second verse a command is given to "preach the word; be instant in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with all long suffering and doctrine." So our pastors and priests are doing just that. If the people assemble to listen (as Jesus commanded people to do), I am sure they can learn something for their good and benefit to the community. There seems to be a lack of reverence for the Diety in the hearts of some people and I think that is just where all the trouble comes from. Psalms 51, tenth verse: "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me."

My advice to you would be to visit all the different churches until you find the one that suits your particular needs. If you don't find one start one of your own. You will always have a following if you preach the Golden Rule and live it also. Judge not; the workings of his brain and of his heart thou canst not see; what looks to thy dim eyes a stain, in God's pure light may only be a scar, brought from some well-won field, where thou wouldst only faint and yield."

L. L. W.

Moosup, Feb. 26, 1928.

Bible Readers.

Mr. Editor: Examples show us that some Bible readers get little information from what they read.

The more proof texts and references you give them, the more they will mix up your meaning in helpless confusion.

We cited Esau as an example of a man who on his own initiative committed a reprehensible act. We did this on the most secure biblical authority, taking the apostle's expressed opinion of the man and the act.

He alludes to Esau (Heb. 12-16) in accusing terms as a type of manhood to be execrated; as one who for a morsel of meat sold his birth right.

In the original narrative (Gen. 25-34) it is said in so many words, "Thus Esau despised his birthright." Our point was that no influence of a woman had to do with his trade. We were not treating of the blessing which he should have had afterward when his bad bargain was irretrievably fixed.

If Mr. Balkcom will re-read the story he will see that we are not alluding to Jacob and his mother. He might also see in other writings of St. Paul some corrections he gave to men's conduct and to their misreadings of scripture and of fatal interpretations.

Reading the Bible is a praise-worthy exercise and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction and instruction in righteousness but their purpose is not to teach the inferiority of woman. This was our opponent's contention.

Little Talks on Thrift

Strive for Independence

There is at the present time much thought being given to the question of old-age pensions. Efforts are being made in a number of states to secure the enactment of legislation which will permit those commonwealths to pay certain amounts to those who have become victims of the infirmities of old age and are not self-supporting. Similar efforts in Washington are being made to secure the enactment of federal old-age pension legislation.

It has been pointed out that the 55 foreign countries, six of our own states and the territory of Alaska now have laws permitting pensions to be paid to the aged.

The point has been made that the average dependent can be supported on a pension plan much more economically than through a system of public almshouses.

It is commendable that so much attention is being given to these matters and everything possible should be done to take care of those who are old and who wholly or in part are not able to take care of themselves.

The agitation should serve also as a lesson to the members of the younger generation. Independence in personal financial affairs should be the goal of all.

Strangely enough, a considerable percentage of persons are willing to drift along from day to day and take their chances on the future. Some of them may avoid old-age penury but the majority, when they shall have reached that peeriod of life when they can no longer toil for a livelihood, will find themselves dependent upon the charity of the public or of their friends.

It is indeed not a happy outlook for many. How much better it would be to deny one's self a few passing luxuries—even a few comforts—today and thus be assured that in the days of old age there will be an income that will mean complete independence.

Thrift is indeed the best and only dependable safeguard against one of life's saddest tragedies — old-age penury.—American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Yes, It Had a Mark

She was as mad as a hornet; and she vowed she'd have it out with them right then and there. So she called up the laundry and insisted on talking with the manager.

"You didn't send back one of my best towels this week," she snapped.

"Why-er-did it have any distinguished marks?" the manager stammered.

"Yes, it did. It had the name Pullman company woven right through the middle," she said.

"Oh," was the reply, "well, I'll look it up."

One More Tooth

During a reading lesson eight year old Jack seemed very much interested. After the teacher had completed the story he held up his hand, seemingly to ask a question. Visitors were present and the teacher was very much pleased that one of the children should be so very much interested.

Her pleasure was quickly turned to chagrin, however, when Jack said: "You know, Miss Smith, I can see one more tooth when you say "smile" than I can when you say 'mile.'"

Former Norwich Leaders

Capt. George. W. Rogers.

(From Norwich Bulletin, Aug. 22, 1890.)

We are pained to learn the death of Captain George W. Rogers, so long and so well known as a resident of Norwich. Friday, news of his illness was received by his family, and his wife immediately left for Savannah, but was stopped at New York by a second dispatch, giving notice of his demise.

For 12 years he commanded steamers on the Pacific coast from San Francisco to Valparaiso. He superintended the building of 13 vessels for the government and private parties, and had a command in the Bremen steamship line, and crossed the ocean six times in their employ. Since then he has commanded a vessel in the Boston and Savannah coasting line.

About a year since he suffered from a paralytic shock, from which he never recovered. His system was unprepared for the extreme heat of Savannah, and he rapidly declined after his arrival. His body is on the way home.

Ten men including seven officers of the Michigan National Guard, two regular army officers and a former national guard officer, were arrested in Detroit by federal agents on charges of perpetrating frauds mounting into thousands of dollars through a scheme of payroll padding and pay check forging.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

Mothers:

Next to the natural laxative from a mother's breast, a plain, old-fashioned preparation is always best for keeping baby's little digestive tract clean and sweet. When your little one doesn't eat, or can't sleep, give him a few drops of plain Castoria. It is purely vegetable, you know. Any doctor will tell you that it is utterly harmless to the youngest infant. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. Yet its gentle influence is soon felt all through the tiny system. Not even castor oil can compete with Castoria and how much better it is to use this milder means of regulating a baby! Never give baby paregoric or similar opiates, because, a few drops of Castoria are just as soothing, and no harm is done. That's the beauty of using pure Castoria; you can give it just as often as you discover any sign of colic, constipation, or diarrhea—or those times when you don't know just what it is that has caused an upset. Only get the genuine Castoria—bearing Fletcher's signature. It isn't expensive, and with every bottle comes the book, "Care and Feeding of Babies"—worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

NEW LONDON CITY MANAGER RESIGNS AFTER BANK ST. VOTE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 27—A special meeting of the city council was held this evening to take action on improvement of Bank street, estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $65,000. The work has commenced and to carry it along the city manager, William A. Holt, has routed all traffic in the northerly direction. It is proposed to widen the street by taking about two feet from the sidewalk on either side, to double-track the street and to place the telephone wires in conduits. Merchants have been contemplating asking for a change in the routing and the sending of all traffic to the south. The petition was presented by Mayor May and he advocated its adoption, saying that the councilors were the representatives of the people and they should conform to the people's wishes. Secretary George Gareiny of the chamber of commerce endorsed the petition of the sixty-six merchants who signed the petition saying that he spoke for the organization he was working for, but he believed the mayor had covered the situation so thoroughly that there was little he could add. Business in the stores has been below normal, and that if there was anything that could be done to improve it the council should proceed in that direction. He was of the opinion that the city manager viewed the matter from two angles, viz. engineering and public safety; but he believed the matter was one of dollars and cents with the merchants and that they were entitled to consideration.

Harry Hirsch, a merchant on Bank street, said he was instrumental in having the petition circulated. He believed that if traffic was directed in a southerly direction, that is from State street to Tilley, the merchants would be benefitted and their patrons would likewise be convenienced. He did not believe that the change would interfere with the work going on in Bank street.

He wanted the city and the merchants to work together in the matter. He said that if the change was made and traffic sent to the south the merchants would be grateful.

Mayor May suggested that the city manager adhere to the request of the petitioners and change the routing of traffic to the south. Mayor May said he had given much thought to the matter and had obtained the reasons of the merchants in asking for the rerouting. He had taken into consideration the convenience of the fire apparatus in going to the north when occasion demanded their services and believed that the firemen would not be inconvenienced in the least by the change.

City Manager Holt explained that he was responsible for the routing of traffic, actuated by the advancement of the safety of the public. Bank street is under repair and when the improvements are completed public safety will be enhanced. The changes will soon be completed and that then the convenience will be obvious. He represented that the S. N. E. T. company was to place its wires in conduits and that the double tracking of the street would be for the benefit of all who used it. The public did not all do business on Bank street nor did all reside there. It was the general public that he desired to serve and to protect. The work was to be hurried along and completed without delay. He said the council had delegated to him the arrangements for the work and that he had gone about his duties with the safety of the public in mind.

Charles J. Ducy asked that the trolley cars be allowed to go to the south, saying that the present arrangement interfered with the patronage of the theaters.

City Manager Holt expressed the opinion that the routing of the electric cars to the south would add to the complications, in that collisions might result and involve thousands of dollars in expense. He said the trolley company might use only one track as soon as that was laid down, but the purpose was to use two tracks.

As soon as the vote passed instructing the city manager to route traffic to the south, Mr. Holt inquired if that vote was to be considered as an expression of a lack of confidence in the city manager. Mayor May replied that it was the expression of the council in complying with the request of the merchants.

City Manager Holt then drew from his pocket his written resignation, which had been prepared in anticipation of what had occurred and handed it to the clerk to read. The document said in so many words that Mr. Holt desired to end his relations with the city as city manager.

Councilor Scott immediately moved that the resignation should lie on the table and that action was taken.

GIRLS' WORKERS COUNCIL PLANNING FOR RALLY

The Council of Girls' Workers held its meeting Monday evening at the First Baptist church as the guests of Miss Lynch and Miss Jones. The main subject of discussion was the young people's rally to be held in the United Congregational church Sunday afternoon March 11, when Miss Margaret Slattery is to be the speaker. The churches were divided into two teams, each team to aim at an attendance of 250. Arrangements were made for the serving of refreshments in the assembly hall of the Central Baptist church between the afternoon and evening meetings. The matter of a social for the girls of the cooperating churches was brought up and it was left with Mrs. Higgins to arrange a date for this social, which is to be held in the Park church parish house. Preceding the business meeting a devotional service was conducted by Mrs. Carlos Ricker and Miss Ida Beebe of the Norwich Town Congregational church, and there was a discussion of how leaders may assist girls in their problems. Delicious refreshments of tea and fancy cakes were served by the hostesses.

FARNAM BUILDING ON WATER ST. SOLD FOR $14,260 AT AUCTION

The three-story brick building at 31-37 Water street, owned by Theodore Blakely of New Haven was sold at public auction Monday afternoon for $14,260 to Louis, Max and Nathan Belt of this city under an order from the superior court by James L. Case as auctioneer.

The auction sale had an attendance of about 100 and lasted from 2 to 4 o'clock, when Mr. Case finally knocked the building down on the 65th bid to the Belt brothers, their bid being $7,260 above the mortgage of $7,000 which is on the property. The purchasers, who are in the meat business, said they had no immediate definite plans for using the building.

The property has a frontage of 48 feet on Water street and a depth of 166 feet to the Thames river where the width of the lot is 80 feet. The building on the lot was erected in 1859 by C. N. Farnam and has been used for many years by wholesale grocery houses, the last being the L. A. Gallup company. Since that company went out of business the two stores in the building have been standing empty for some time but the building has been used for storage. There is an 18 foot right of way to the riverfront on the westerly side of the building.

In opening the auction sale at 2 o'clock, Mr. Case explained that the property was in the tax list for about $7,000, that there was a $7,000 mortgage on it to Walter McCllmon, that the building has been appraised last week at a present valuation of $22,500 The purchaser, he said, would be required to deposit a binder of 10 per cent. of the excess of the purchase price over the mortgage.

The bidding started at just the amount of the mortgage, $7,000, and the second bid raised the amount $3,000. From then on the amount was raised slowly by bids of $50 to $300 till it reached $13,000. After that the bidding was slow, the raises being mostly in the amount of $25 or $50, and there were one or two times when the bid was a raise of only $1. Among those who placed bids at various stages were Harry M. Land, who made the first bid, Michael Levin, Joseph Sternlieb, Belt Bros., Mr. Schleifer, Benjamin Krieger, and John A. Moran.

After $14,100 was reached the succeeding bids were raises of only $1 at a time, Mr. Krieger and the Belt Bros. remaining in the lists at this figure. When Mr. Krieger bid $14,255, the Belt brothers raised it $5 and became possessors of the property.

VERMONT MAN SPEAKS BEFORE COMMERCE CHAMBER

James L. Taylor, secretary of the Vermont state chamber of commerce, was the speaker Monday evening at the Vermont night supper held at 6:15 at the Wauregan hotel by the Norwich chamber of commerce, which had an attendance of over 150.

Mr. Taylor's topic was "Flood Lights on Vermont," in which he spoke of experiences in the tremendous flood of last November in that state and said that the bitter medicine of disaster had brought on a new era in Vermont which could be seen in the spirit of the people. A programme of bridges and roads has been set up such as would never have been thought of for years had it not been for the flood, the people had come to realize the value and service of the public service corporations and there had been a demonstration of solidity in Vermont and New England such as had never been realized before.

Rev. John J. Reilly of St. Patrick's church asked the blessing, before supper was served, and during the supper hour William G. Park was song leader, while several baritone solos were rendered very acceptably by Frank Steinke. Henry La Fontaine was at the piano.

President H. D. Larrabee spoke briefly in opening the post prandial programme and announcements were made by E. O. Rodier and Mrs. E. W. Higgins of events taking place next month.

President Larrabee announced that a petition to be presented to the selectmen for a special town meeting to vote on the proposition of revaluation by experts to assist the assessors had been prepared and he asked that the necessary twenty citizens sign the petion. Mr. Larrabee said that only 15 of the members of the chamber of commerce did not endorse that plan.

Sheldon H. Fairbanks of Boston, who is to be in charge of the industrial exhibit to be put on here in the spring, was introduced and spoke a few words about the necessity for cooperation to make the exhibit a success.

President Larrabee then turned the meeting over to Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, chairman of the committee in charge of Vermont evening, who introduced President Earle W. Stamm of the New London chamber of commerce. The New London man spoke of the hoped for coming to that city of the four-day steamship line and the invitation that has been given to President Coolidge to make his summer home in New London. William W. Carrigan, vice president of the Vermont Association of Eastern Connecticut, followed Mr. Stamm with some brief remarks before the speaker of the evening was heard.

Following the address by the Vermont secretary, First Selectman William S. Murray was called on by Toastmaster Abbott.

Selectman Murray called attention to the fact that town and city had reached the limit of borrowing money by a bond issue and said he hoped this matter of revaluation will be settled satisfactorily and a system obtained by which it will be done and done properly.

Mayor Milo R. Waters was also called on by the toastmaster. He responded by saying that the tax rate in Norwich is very high, possibly the highest in New England, but in matter of dollars and cents paid we are low. Our per capita is only $27.10 In New London, a city of about our size, he said, over one and a half million dollars is to be raised by tax. In Norwich the amount is less than a million. The mayor said we should have a re-valuation, a real re-valuation, which he believed would show to New England that Norwich has an economical administration.

The meeting closed with a rising vote of thanks to Secretary Taylor of Vermont.

DROPPED DEAD WHILE AT WORK CUTTING ICE

Herbert Brown, 55, colored, of West Main street, dropped dead about 9 o'clock Monday morning while cutting ice at Ford's ice pond, East Great Plain. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve pronounced death due to heart disease. Mr. Brown had been working for a little less than an hour when the fatal attack came.

He was engaged in floating ice at the time of his death. Harry Ford, superintending the ice cutting, saw the man drop to his knees and hurried to his side. Before he got there, Mr. Brown fell on his face dead. Medical Examiner Gildersleeve was notified and, after viewing the body, gave Undertaker C. A. Gager permission to remove it to his undertaking rooms on Franklin street.

SANATORIUM SUPERINTENDENT SPOKE TO MINISTERS

The monthly meeting of the Norwich Ministers association was held at the First Baptist church on Monday noon. A bountiful lunch was served by the ladies of the church; grace was asked by Rev. G. F. Bailey of Norwich Town.

The speaker guest of the day was Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of the state sanatorium who sketched the history of the treatment of tuberculosis in both ancient and modern times and stressed in particular the agencies and methods of relief in Connecticut. A questionnaire followed and was much appreciated by those present.

The monthly meetings are developing a social survey to the end that community resources may be used more efficiently and public sentiment be stimulated.

In opening his talk Dr. Campbell said that a more or less specific history and explanation of the disease for the treatment of which the sanatorium with which he is connected was established would no doubt be of aid in arriving at some conclusion as to how it is related to the community and community life. Tuberculosis is an old disease. It has frequently been called a disease of civilization, he said, for it has not been known to exist to any extent either in the barbarians of the past or the uncivilized races of the present, except as both have come into contact with so-called civilized groups.

Dr. Campbell went on to give something of the history of tuberculosis which he said was mentioned by Hippocrates in 400 B. C., the supposed period of the Jewish return from exile in Babylon. Hippocrates, a celebrated physician of antiquity, gave a clinical description of tuberculosis as follows: "Suppuration, acute or chronic, of the lungs, resulted from blood, mucous or other morbid products." Isocrates, a contemporary of Hippocrates, considered tuberculosis to be a contagious disease, Arretaeus Cappadox, 50 A. D., a Greek physician, suggested sea voyages and milk and eggs, Galen in 130 A. D. suggested dry elevated resorts and milk diet. In the Old Testament, Duet. 28, 22, symptoms of consumption are given, fever and wasting. From the time of Galen down through the Middle Ages the sciences in general were neglected or their investigation curbed, and research in medicine suffered accordingly. Some sporadic advances were made in the 16th and 17th centuries in medical knowledge but the real beginning of our modern science occurred in the latter part of the 19th centuries. In 1882 Koch discovered the tubercle bacill us, tuberculosis germ. The communicability of tuberculosis has already been established by Klencke in 1843.

As early as 1754 Dr. Campbell said, the city of Florence in Italy enacted sanitary laws concerning Italy and in 1782 Naples isolated the tuberculous and their belongings. About the same time in Italy physicians who did not report their cases were fined 300 ducats, ($600-$700). The Saranac sanatorium was established in 1885. The first state sanatorium was at Rutland, Massachusetts. How successful has the method of attack against tuberculosis been? It is rather a difficult problem to figure in dollars and cents the value of a saved or even a prolonged life. So many factors enter into it that it cannot be estimated in ledgers and balance sheets. But if from the sanatoria of the state of Connecticut, with a bed capacity of 800, we can restore even for a year 50 individuals with an average wage of $20 weekly, that total earning of $50,000 is about the best 6 per cent. on an outlay of $800,000 that this state as a community can show. I know my figures are too low for I am quite sure the total number reclaimed is more than 50 yearly and the average wage given is quite likely low also.

Dr. Campbell brought out the economic viewpoint when he showed that in 1910 when the population of the United States was 92,267,080, tuberculosis was the leading cause of death with 147,627 from tuberculosis in all forms, a rate of 160 per 100,000. In 1922, in a population of 109,248,303, tuberculosis had dropped to fourth place, with 105,971 deaths a rate of 97. In 1926 tuberculosis was seventh in the causes of death.

The reasons for this decline, he said, are in propaganda, and through the sanatoria which have saved and prolonged lives, have removed possible sources of infection and have served as educational centers. It should be remembered in this connection that earlier diagnosis in tuberculosis and earlier treatment mean more cures and a greater income.

There is another phase of this part of my story. No ledger or balance sheet can take care of it, and no bookkeeper can estimate it. I refer to the joy and satisfaction given both to the patient and his loved ones by cure when possible, or that being impossible, by prolongation of life.

Not only do well regulated sanatoria recompense the community on dollars and cents for its financial outlay, but by taking care of the tuberculosis they prevent and have been preventing a more extensive dissemination of the disease. Though most of those engaged in tuberculosis work feel that tuberculosis will always be a problem, the hope is, and that hope is encouraged by the results of the last 20 years, that eventually it will be no more of a scourge than smallpox is today in civilized countries.

The hospitals and sanatoria as maintained by the state are a physical demonstration of practical Christianity. The community as a whole is again and again repeating with St. Paul "the greatest of these is charity." For charity is love, and in no way can the community better demonstrate that love than in this continual evidence that it is its brother's keeper.

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little 'Phillips Milk of Magnesia' in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." ACE HUDKINS IS WINNER ON FOUL IN FOURTH ROUND OVER MELLO AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, won on a foul from Al Mello, Lowell welterweight, in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-round bout at the Boston Arena tonight. Mello's hard right to the stomach when the round was 45 seconds old, landed low, and the westerner went to the canvas in great pain. Referee Brassil then awarded the fight to Hudkins.

Up to its premature ending the contest was hard fought and fairly even, although the westerner had a shade in the vigorous exchanges. Mello carried the first round by a narrow margin with his attack to the head, one of his blows sending Hudkins back staggering. The Ace scored repeatedly with heavy body punches.

Hudkins' body attack began to take effect in the second round. Midway of the session a terrific right to the stomach doubled Mello up, but he came back to score with lefts and rights to the head. It was Hudkins round by a wide margin, however.

The third was fairly even, both landing frequently with both hands. For a time they stood toe to toe and exchanged wallops, Hudkins specializing on the body.

As the fourth round opened Hudkins drove Mello to the ropes with hard smashes tothe head. Then came Mello's low blow and the end of the battle. The largest crowd of the season crowded the Arena and several thousand fans were turned away.

Billy Murphy, of Lowell, won over Scoops White, of Worcester when the referee stopped their scheduled 10-round bout in the second half to save White unnecessary punishment.

Lou Bogash Wallops Wilson

Lou Bogash, of Bridgeport, Conn., hammered Babe Wilson, of Boston so hard that Wilson's seconds threw in the towel in the second round of the scheduled eight rounder.

Jackie Donohue, of Boston knocked out Frankie Erne, of Medford in the first round of a scheduled six round bout. Arthur Flynn, of Lawrence, knocked out Johnny Monte, of New York in the second round of another preliminary. Paddy Sullivan, of Bakersfield, Calif., scored a six round decision over Johnny Glemmick, of Nashua, N. H., George Carney, of Boston knocked out Red Mountain, Bridgewater in the second round of a scheduled four rounder.

PHIL KAPLAN KNOCKS OUT ABIE BAIN IN FIFTH ROUND

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—(AP)—K. O. Phil Kaplan, hard hitting New Yorker, knocked out Abie Bain, of Newark, N. J., in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round fight tonight. Kaplan weighed 161, Bain 164.

Bain was no match for the ringwise Kaplan. The battle started swiftly, with Bain willing to mix it with his opponent. Kaplan got into high speed in he third and dropped Bain a short count, and the Newark entry was still wobbly when he came out for the fourth. He weathered that round but in the fifth Kaplan sent him down and out with a volley of punches to head and body.

In the semiwindup Jack Demaye, Jersey City, 195, won the decision over Arthur Dekuh, 214, Italy, in ten rounds.

CANNONBALL MARTIN GETS T. KAYO OVER PETIBON

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, former bantamweight champion, scored a technical knockout over Jack Petibon, French featherweight, in the third round of a scheduled six round match here tonight.

Martin put the Frenchman on the floor for a count of eight in the first round with a head salvo. Petibon folded up under Martin's body punching in the third and the referee called a halt after one minute and 45 seconds of the round. Martin weighed 128, Petibon 126.

In another scheduled six, Soldier Buckley, of New York, knocked out Carlos Martinez, of Chile, in two rounds. The weights were: Buckley 137 1-2; Martinez 134 1-2.

DELANEY CONFIDENT ABOUT HEENEY BOUT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Crammed full of energy, teeming with confidence, Jack Delaney bent today to the task of polishing the rough edges from a fighting machine that must withstand the desperate plunges of Tom Heeney, granite man of New Zealand, in the ring at Madison Square Garden on Thursday night.

Realizing full well that not only his fistic future but a shot at Gene Tunney's heavyweight crown rests on the outcome of the first of Tex Rickard's 15 round heavyweight elimination semi-finals, the Bridgeport raplar hammered his sparring partners for seven full rounds and exercised five more before calling it a day in the tiny band box gymnasium, pride of his home town.

After the workout, fastest and most gruelling of the present conditioning campaign, Delaney turned himself over to Dan Skilling, deputy commissioner of the New York state athletic commission, for physical examination. The big French Canadian, scarcely breathing heavily, from the grind, appeared in perfect shape, the commissioner said, with no evidence of "tennis elbow" or sprained hands such as appeared following Delaney's indoor failure against Jimmy Maloney last winter. Jack tipped the beam at 175 3-4 pound just a fraction of a pound over the light heavyweight limit. That weight is expected to lessen his chances against Heeney, a burly 200 pound puncher of the roughest type.

Delaney sparred three rounds with Billy Vidabeck, conditioning mate of Gene Tunney, after skipping rope two rounds and banging the light bag another pair. Paul Cavalier, an ambitious young heavyweight, fought the former light heavyweight champion on even terms for two more rounds and Pietro Corri, once a punching bag for Jack Dempsey, caught the Delaney slams in the last two. Still full of "pepper," the bronzed woodsman of the north went back to jumping rope again and clowned around until his trainer called a halt.

Although missing frequently with both hands in the sparring drills, Delaney drilled telling shots into the heads of his workers about as he pleased. Jack abandoned for the time being the straight right hand punches that have brought most of his hitting fame, and concentrated on lefts to the body followed by short but damaging right uppercuts to the head. He was in fine fettle, and ready for loads more work at the close of the day.

Delaney plans six rounds of boxing tomorrow and a light workout Wednesday before leaving for New York Thursday morning.

PELTZER, CONGER AND HAHN IN KACEY MILE WEDNESDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The boards were cleared today for the "Mile of the Century," with three of the best middle distance runners in the world playing the leading roles.

Dr. Otto Peltzer, German star, received formal permission during the day to compete in the Knights of Columbus meet at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night and will start in the mile against Lloyd Hahn and Ray Conger, the fastest of America's current middle distance crop.

Sanction for the Teuton's appearance came from the foreign relations committee of the amateur athletic union which voted, five to one, to grant Peltzer's application for a permit. The negative vote was cast by Joseph B. MacCabe, of Boston, chairman of the committee, who has been opposed to any international competition this year because of the coming Olympics.

While public interest has centered chiefly on the mile, another feature of the K. of C. meet will bring together Leo Lermond, of the Boston A. A., and Joie Ray, of the Illinois A. C., in a two-mile race. Out of competition for three years, "Chesty Joie" returned to the boards in the A. A. U. championships to run the mile leg in a medley relay. Ray demonstrated that he has retained much of the form that once made him the greatest of American milers, but in Lermond, he more.

BOB CANNEFAX DIES IN ARIZONA RETREAT

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Robert L. (Bob) Cannefax, for years the wizard of the three-cushion billiard game, died today near Pheonix, Arizona. The end to one of the most brilliant careers in modern cue history came after an illness of two years and in a desert retreat appropriately named "Dreamy Draw."

With only a three-year interruption Cannefax was world's professional three-cushion champion from 1917, when he took the title from the veteran Alfred De Oro in New York, until 1925, a year before he was forced out of competition by his health. In the opinion of Willie Hoppe, for years the monarch of balkline billiards, "Cannefax was the greatest strategist of them all at three-cushions."

Kaplan took nine of the ten rounds, Trabon holding the Meriden mauler even in the fourth round. Kaplan was in rare form and he swarmed all over his opponent with a volley of blows that had Trabon holding on most of the time. Kaplan weighed 134, Trabon 136.

Brown of the C. F. C. was high scorer with 20 points and was closely followed by Dixson of the visitors who threw in 18 points.

Glimpses of Sports of Other Days

HILTON'S RECORD-BREAKING RUN

The third in the "Old Timers" series deals with E. Clifford Hilton's record-breaking run from New London to Norwich. He shattered the mark by 17 minutes, doing the 14 miles in 1 hour, 44 minutes. The race was held on Christmas day, 1907.

The following is from the account in The Bulletin of Dec. 27, 1907:

"Seventeen minutes clipped clean as a whistle off the amateur running record from New London to Norwich was the sterling performance of E. Clifford Hilton of this city on Christmas afternoon. Hilton finished the 14 miles in 1 hour, 44 minutes, without turning a hair, beating out the best previous amateur record of 2 hours, 1 minute, made eight or nine years ago by "Chilly" Hazlehurst, and also the professional record of 2 hours flat credited to Sergeant Walsh last April.

Hilton's performance stamps him as the amateur champion for this part of the state and gets a mark that is a standing challenge to all the runners hereabouts, and looks good enough to break any but the best of them that go after it. After the race Hilton said that he thought it was one of the stiffest courses he ever bucked, for the hills were killers, but he believed he could better the time by several minutes. He finished in splendid form with a sprint like a quarter-miler as he came down along Main street and Broadway to the Y. M. C. A. association building here. William R. Frisbie, with his automobile, that made the pace, was right after him, enabling the officials in the machine to catch the time as he crossed the finish line at 2.38. More than a couple of hundred people lined up along the sidewalk showed their interest in the sport and cheered the game runner on for his final spurt.

Start at 2.06

To keep his promise with the home crowd to finish at 4 o'clock, the start from the New London Y. M. C. A. was made at 2.06, which was nine minutes ahead of the time previously announced. Steve Coffey gave the word and was referee and timer, while Clarence Maynard and Sporting Editor Whitney of The Bulletin were the judges. The route out of New London was down State street to Main and out Main to Allyn place, where the turnpike to Norwich was taken. Hilton swung along at a beautiful, easy gait, without any waste motion, as his feet were raised only just enough to clear the ground. The few people who were passed at this stage turned around in wonder to look at the bare-legged runner striding along through the nipping air. He wore regular running pants, shoes without spikes, a skating cap and carried moist sponges in his hands with which he occasionally moistened his line.

Hills made little difference to the runner and all were taken at the same easy lope, which carried him along at the rate of about 140 to 150 steps per minute. The miles were reeled off at a pretty regular rate, and Montville was reached in 46 minutes, covering the first 7 1-2 miles at the average rate of 6 2-5 minutes to the mile. In the next stretch to the finish, a distance of 6 1-2 miles, the long hills told against speed, and this was covered in 56 minutes, an average of a mile in about 8 8-13 minutes.

Tuckie Comes Into View

As the Montville car station was passed Thomas Tuckie, a Montville runner, swung into view from the place where he had been keeping warm while waiting for the Norwich runner to arrive. Tom was in running togs and trailed in after the Norwich man, soon catching him and traveling along with the Norwich man. Tom's style was quite a contrast to the man he was trotting with. Tom had a lot of shoulder and leg swing that was absent from the finished style of the man who was to hang up the championship figure.

Tuckie kept along with Hilton in good shape up the long grind of hills after Montville was left, but Jim DeWolfe's hill killed him off. Jim shouted an encouraging word from his porch as the runners swept by, and all the way up from Montville every house had someone out to see the runners.

Coming into Thames square, Tuckie was out of sight, but Hilton got a great hand as he swept around the bend and began to reach out for the home port. From Thames square to the finish was just 4 minutes, the final strides around the bank corner into Broadway being covered in dashing form.

"Chilly" Hazlehurst was on hand to see his old record smashed as an interested crowd of the local sports thronged in to the Y. M. C. A. after the runner. Among these was M. E. Ring, who pat on the race last Memorial day which was the first in which Hilton ran here.

In some spots the roads were soft and made traveling bad. A light snow began to fall as Fitch's Corner was reached, but not enough to interfere with the footing.

Tuckie finished about 10 minutes after the Norwich man. He ran to Franklin square and went to the hotel to dress.

Summary of Time Made

The following is a summary of the time made to different points on the road. Unfortunately, the speedometer which had been depended upon to catch the miles exactly broke down, making this timing impossible:

Allyn place corner 2.17; elapsed time 11 minutes.

Gallows lane 2.23; 17 minutes.

Waterford schoolhouse (end of macadam) 2.30; 24 minutes.

Foot of Quaker Hill 2.37; 31 minutes.

Jerome farm 2.47; 41 minutes.

Montville car station 2.54; 48 minutes.

Fitch's Corner 3.06; 1 hour.

Mohegan church 3.19; 1 hour, 13 minutes.

Trading Cove bridge 3.39; 1 hour, 23 minutes.

Thames square 3.46; 1 hour, 40 minutes.

Finish—Norwich Y. M. C. A. 3.50; 1 hour, 44 minutes.

Total elapsed time, 1 hour, 44 minutes.

MAL STEVENS APPOINTED YALE COACH

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 27. —(AP)—Marvin A. (Mal) Stevens, Yale 1925, of Osborne, Kas., was appointed head coach of the Yale football team for three years at a meeting of the board of control of the Yale University Athletic association, here today.

Stevens succeeds T. A. D. Jones, who resigned at the end of the 1927 season.

The new Eli coach played on the Yale championship team of 1923 and has acted as assistant coach under Jones for the past four years.

In his statement announcing the appointment of Stevens, Professor George H. Nettleton, chairman of the board of control of the Yale Athletic association said "since his graduation from Yale college, Mr. Stevens has been a student in the Yale Medical school where he is enrolled as a regular candidate for the M. D. degree. He has been a member of the Yale football coaching staff for the past four years. This appointment assures the direction of Yale coaching by a resident member of the university community."

Stevens played in the halfback position on Bill Mallory's team during his junior year but went to the coaching squad instead of into the varsity lineup, the following year. After graduation he enrolled in the medical school and is now in his third year.

He was nominated as coach by the new football committee headed by "Ted" Jones and the action of the board of control today ratifies that nomination.

WESTERLY

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY—PATROLMAN FIRED AT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 27—On both sides of the Pawcatuck river in the early hours today there were attempted robberies, in both cases the would-be burglars were driven off, in Pawcatuck by the use of firearms.

Members of the household at the Immaculate church rectory, 113 High street, were aroused about 1 a. m. when someone was heard endeavoring to enter the building. Electric lights were quickly switched on and the intruder made a hasty retreat. It is thought that the parties attempting to enter were in search of church money received over the week-end.

Patrolman Adin R. Sheldon, of Pawcatuck, was fired on about 3:05 Monday morning as he was proceeding up Mechanic street on his round of duty, just as he was about to step from the front of the auto salesroom of George O. Murphy. A bullet from a revolver fired by a young man from just behind the filling station of the Gulf company struck an air pump in front of him and next hit the sidewalk beside him as he sheltered himself behind the metal pump. Pulling his revolver, he fired two shots in return, which embedded themselves in a fence post while three men ran from behind the building where they had attempted to jimmy the rear windows, and down the alley to the coal yard of Frank N. Wilcox. Officer Sheldon sent three more bullets down the alley behind the men, but they made their escape.

The February term of Washington county superior court will be adjourned from Kingston to the Union street courthouse, Westerly, Wednesday morning at 10:30 with Associate Justice Arthur P. Sumner, of Providence, on the bench. The case of State vs. Henry N. Girard, Wickford coal and lumber dealer, charged with an attempt to procure the burning of a dwelling, was continued, owing to the enforced absence of counsel for Girard, who was engaged on a case in the U. S. district court in Providence.

Raymond H. Keegan, charged with breaking, entering and larceny, who had been taken to the Kingston jail following his plea of nolo last week, was brought before the court Monday, given a deferred sentence and discharged upon payment of costs.

Three cases of State, Joseph W. Marceau, complainant, vs. George C. Sherman, each charging the defendant with larceny, were continued.

Joseph D'Ambra, charged with reckless driving, pleaded nolo, when before Judge Sumner. He was fined $50 and the case was continued to the April session in order to give him time to raise the required sum.

In a special session of the Third district court Monday morning before Judge Oliver H. Williams, John Anderson, of Alton, R. I., was arraigned on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, charged with the possession of intoxicating liquors. He was arrested on Saturday night by Officer Frank E. Knight, when he had a bag in his possession which contained six bottles of beer and a bottle of Whitehorse. On his plea of guilty, he was given a suspended sentence upon the payment of costs.

In the canvass of the voting list for the selection of men for jury duty, Clerk Whipple stated that some time in April the council would have to select 45 grand jurors and 99 petit jurors from the present names as selected, all having to be sent to the Rhode Island jury commissioners. The exceptions also were noted.

The petitions in the form of resolutions as presented to the town clerk and town council ask for the repeal of chapter 1450 of the public laws passed by the January session of the general assembly A. D., 1916, entitled, An act creating a board of highway commissioners in the town of Westerly.

That the members of the town council of the town of Westerly be elected in the following manner:

"Three members of the council by and from the electors of the first representative district in said town; three members thereof by and from the electors of the second representative district in said town, and one member thereof to be elected by all of the electors of said town.

"That a committee consisting of qualified electors be named to study, look into, and report with reference to the establishing of voting precincts within the town."

At the last annual meeting of the stockholders of the Morris Plan Bank of Rhode Island, Senator Howard E. Thorp of Potter Hill, a member of Westerly board of tax commissioners was elected a director of the company. F. Samuel Nardone of Westerly has been a member of the board for some time and both Westerly men are members of the committee on discount.

The first of the steel work for the new Westerly central fire station being erected on Union street to replace the station destroyed by fire April 50, last arrived in Westerly by motor truck from Providence Monday afternoon. TOWN DEPT. CHANGES AND VOTING PRECINCTS ASKED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 27—The Westerly town council, with full membership and President Horace E. Burdick in the chair, met in special session at 9.30 today and canvassed the jury list. Following this, Joe Stedman and James O. Lynch, representing the Fair Play committee, presented two petitions addressed to the Westerly town clerk and the Westerly town council. Councilman Rogers E. Trainer moved that the petitions be received and the council adjourn to executive session for their consideration. The council then for over two hours deliberated upon them behind closed doors and upon adjournment it was announced that the council would again meet this (Tuesday) afternoon at 2.30 for further consideration. In presenting the petitions for the change of Westerly town departments and voting districts Joe Stedman announced that 271 names were signed and it was the desire that early consideration be given them, as it would be necessary to have the matter before the Rhode Island legislature before March 15th. According to the statute ten per cent. of the number of names of the voters participating in last election would be necessary as signers and Clerk Whipple announced that at that time there were 2474 votes cast.

A letter was read from John J. Dunn asking that the council give attention to the rebuilding of Granite street and that the matter be brought before a special financial town meeting when a resolution could be presented asking the town to appropriate a blank number of dollars for the purpose of rebuilding the street, on which resolution the qualified electors of the town could vote.

NOANK

The fire alarm was rung by Big Mike Passi Sunday afternoon at 1:30 for a fire in Bergman woods at Cedar Crest. On the red fire engine were 25 smoke eaters with Driver Earl Foster at the wheel. It proved a bad brush fire, burning over two large lots as the smoke and a blaze was going high. Foreman Walter Palmer led his men, through it with brooms and shovels, backfiring and working hard to check the blaze. Hoseman H. Bracci got caught in the thick brush, fell and his coat was on fire. The quick work of Edgar Schoolmaker got him out of danger. The fire burned a large hole in the coat and his right hand was slightly burned. It took two hours before everything was all right to leave. The fire company was given a check of $25 by the owner of the lots and house, who did not want to have his name in the paper. That night about 6 o'clock a call came over the telephone and was answered by Ladderman George Deveau. It was a woman's voice, "Come quick—a fire in the lot at the home of L. A. Brown!" The fire was near the chicken house and Chief Park said give it the heavy oil and the smoke eaters went at it and saved the chicken house. After 45 minutes of work the engine was taken back to the fire house.

Six o'clock was lunch hour and a wagon-load of ham and cheese sandwiches was brought to the ice workers from Mystic, with hot coffee.

Infant Care

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless and reliable, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill throughout the system. Fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

That's the beauty of Castoria: its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, and without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. Castoria is delicious! Your own tongue will tell you why "Children Cry for it." Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's the least sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea. Or whenever there's need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Only one word of warning: the above is true of genuine Castoria. Fletcher's is the original. Other preparations may or may not be as pure, as free from a single doubtful drug. Physicians tell parents to get Fletcher's Castoria, and no child of this writer's is going to test any other kind. I'll save a dime some other way.

*SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

STOCK PRICES DRIFTED LOWER ON RENEWAL OF GENERAL LIQUIDATION

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—The stock market drifted lower today on a renewal of general liquidation. Extreme declines of 1 to 3 points took place in a large assortment of active issues, but these were cut down, or wiped out, in a series of buying furries during the afternoon. U. S. Steel common, General Electric and some of the other leaders dipped to new low levels for the year. Trading was only moderate in volume, the day's sales falling below 2,000,000 shares.

There were no new developments over the week-end to influence the price movement, although commission house comment indicated that considerable uneasiness still existed over the brokers' loan and industrial unemployment situations. The slow pick-up in general business also had a rather depressing effect on speculative sentiment, but motor shares showed a tendency to respond to the recent improvement in that industry.

Call money appeared to be in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 4 1-4 per cent despite the calling of more than $10,000,000 in bank loans. Other rates also held steady, although the approach of month-end payments, heavy government financing and March 15 income tax payments is likely to have a temporarily disturbing effect in the credit market.

U. S. Steel common, after meeting splendid resistance around the old low of 138 1-2, finally broke through to 138 1-8, but snapped back to 139 1-2, off only 1-2 point net. General Motors recorded a similar loss at 135 5-8 after fluctuating between 134 3-4 and 136 3-8. Hudson, which is expected in many quarters to increase its dividend to $6 this year, showed special strength, climbing 3 points to 85 and closing within a small fraction of the top. Packard advanced 1 3-4 and most of the other motors improved fractionally.

Sloss Sheffield broke 7 1-2 points to a new 1928 low at 116 1-2 on one sale. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe dropped nearly 7 points to a new low at 190 1-8 on selling inspired by fears of foreign competition, but recovered half its loss. New lows for the year, or longer, also were registered by an assortment of other issues, including Air Reduction, American Telephone & Cable, American Water Works, Associated Dry Goods, Colorado Fuel, Curtis Airplane, Fisk Rubber, Gimbel Bros., common and preferred, Inland Steel, Lima Locomotive, Mack Trucks, National Distillers, St. Joseph Lead and Wright Aeroplane.

Montgomery Ward, which sold as high as 149 1-4 last month, fell more than 4 points to 128 1-8 and then rallied to 129 3-4. Vanadium, which had sold as high as 94 1-2, dipped to 74 1-4 and rallied to 76, off 3 1-2 net.

Selling of the rails was confined to a relatively few issues with Atlantic Coast Line, Canadian Pacific and Wabash showing the largest declines.

Foreign exchanges moved within narrow and irregular limits. Sterling Cables advancing slightly to around $4.88.

Except for declines of 50 cents to nearly $1 a bale in cotton futures on profit-taking, the principal commdoity markets displayed a firm undertone. Wheat opened reactionary but recovered the loss and closed 1 to nearly 2 cents a bushel higher. Other grains advanced in sympathy. Coffee continued its advancing by climbing 11 to 30 points. Spot raw sugar was unchanged, with the market for futures slightly firmer.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

A Prayer for Hunted Creatures

When the gallants turn home at the end of a run,
Thrilled with the joy of a brave task
done,
May the quarry set free on some shining trail
Where the habits of earth do not prevail,
Hunt, and be hunted, with never a doubt
That the odds are even, and death ruled out;
And the Master Himself shall say
"Well done"
To His whole creation at set of sun.
—Blanche Balfour.

On With the Hunt!

Pleasure, do you call it,
To chase the hunted thing,
Or to quench the joyous song
Of bird upon the wing?

Sport to kill and frighten
Harmless beasts at play
In the woods and meadows
All the summer day?

Hunting is an instinct
Not to be denied?
Well, let's hunt with camera—
In its shots take pride!
—Louella C. Poole.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES

The most despised of animals is no doubt the big brown rat. Little can be said in his favor. However, one of his relatives, the wood rat, is a most interesting little creature. He is often called a trade or a pack rat. This is because he will take what he wants when he finds it, but he never fails to leave something in its place. He is found all over the west and in some parts of the east and south. The wood rat is about two-thirds the size of the brown rat but of the same general shape. Otherwise he is totally unlike him.

His coat, a grayish brown on his back and white underneath, is soft and thick; his tail, unlike the usual rat tail, is covered with hair. His feet are white. He has round ears and big black eyes in which there is none of the ugly look one sees in the eyes of the brown rat.

When he is living in a rocky country he may live among the rocks, but very often he collects a huge pile of sticks and brambles on the surface of the ground, in the middle of which he builds his nest. If he lives on the desert he finds the queer cactus plants ideal for his purpose. When a cabin is deserted, he is likely to move right in, carrying great piles of sticks and trash.

It is not always things to eat that the trader appropriates. He is a great collector. He takes anything he can lift or drag. He seems to delight particularly in bright shiny things. Knives, spoons, buttons, thimbles, tinfoil, even money and watches have been found in his nest. A trade rat who never has access to camps and cabins of men has missed much of the joy of life.

In the Big Basin of California, among the giant redwoods, the little traders are so numerous, and so persistent in carrying on their vocation, or perhaps it is their avocation, that campers sometimes fail to see the humor of it. When one gets up in the morning to find stones in the place of potatoes, and a pile of sticks where only bread should be, he does not fully appreciate Mr. Trader's honest endeavors to pay in full.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

An Accident

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to you about an accident that happened at school a while ago. One afternoon about quarter of two, while the room I was in was having history, there was a loud crash. The teacher left the room for a minute. Soon she came back. "I will tell you what has happened," she said.

The large tree which stood on the east side of the school building has been blown over and has hit the house next to the school building. We had recess at half past two and we could hardly wait to see the damage the tree had done.

When at last the recess bell did ring there was a scramble to get into line and out to the fallen tree.

The tree was nearly three feet in diameter and it was as large as any tree on the school grounds.

As it fell it removed part of the roof of the house that it hit and it also made a large hole in the side of the house, and ten windows were broken.

As the tree was on town property, the damage was paid by the town. The damage was $225. The house has been repaired.

SYBIL KEACH, Age 12.

The Pine Tree

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. Far away in the forest grew a little fir tree.

The sun shone and the fresh air fluttered its leaves, but the little tree was not happy. "It wished so much to be like the tall pines and firs which grew around it.

Sometimes the peasant children brought a large basket of raspberries or strawberries, strung on straws, and rested themselves near the fir tree.

The tree grew taller every year. By the number of joints on the branches of a fir tree we can tell how old it is.

Taking Care of Little Teddy

Dear Uncle Jed: One day I went to see my aunt and her one year old baby. I went to play with Teddy in his playroom. In a minute or two Teddy started to cry. I could not stop him in any way from crying. I told my aunt that Teddy was crying. My aunt said: "He is crying because you are a girl and he is a boy." I put my Cousin George's suit on and went to play with him again. This time he did not cry, because I was dressed like a boy.

At the Farm

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. Last summer I went to the farm. I fed the chickens, milked the cows, then I went and played in the hay. When I finished I got my uncle's horse, Joe, and had a ride on his back, and I had a wonderful time.

EMILE GIRARD, Age 9.

The Snowman

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the snowman we built. School was dismissed for the day and a crowd of girls and I ran out for a frolic. We proposed to build a snowman, for the snow was deep. At least a dozen girls joined in the fun.

A large snowball was made which later took the shape of a man. We put two marbles for the eyes. His face troubled us very much, at least the nose. We put sticks for a nose, an old hat on his head, a cane in his arm and a pipe in his mouth.

At last the snowman was finished. He had a happy-go-lucky air about him, though his face in particular was not handsome.

For three days the weather was cold and our snowman was as firm as ever. On the fourth day the sun shone out brightly and the snowman began to lose his shape.

One day we came to see Johnny Frigid (I forgot to tell you we christened him that name) but all we saw was a pool of water, an old hat, a broken pipe and a cane. We are eagerly waiting another snowstorm, when we can build a new snowman.

Fun Sliding

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to tell you about the fun we have sliding. I take my sled and go up to my chum's house, which is on a very high hill. We get on at the top and come down the hill as fast as ever we can. My, but it is fun sliding.

HARRISON KELLEY, Age 8.

The Founding of Rome

Dear Uncle Jed: One day long, long ago, many years before Christ, a wicked uncle threw two babies in the Tiber river in a basket. These babies were Romulus and Remus. The basket got tangled with brush on the river bank. A few days later a shepherd found the basket, opened it and found Romulus and Remus alive there. He raised the babies into young men. Then the two brothers built a city. Romulus killed Remus in a quarrel and named the city Roma, which later was called Rome.

At Giant's Neck

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my second story and I am going to tell you about an afternoon at Giant's Neck. In the summer I spent a week there. I went about the 8th of January this time. The tide was out about a mile. A lot of sand had washed up. There were not very many shells. The water had dashed up against the rocks and froze there. There were many clam holes.

HELEN GILLETTE, Age 10.

Built a Log Cabin

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you and the Wide-Awakes. The story I am writing this time is about the building of a log cabin. A few weeks ago some other boys and I thought we would like to build a log cabin. We took our hatchets and went up into the woods behind my house. One of the boys got a saw to cut the logs even. Another had some mud to plaster up the cracks between the logs. Then we all set to work cutting down trees to build it. After all the trees were cut and we had put up the four sides we could not find anything for a roof. We then cut some branches and put them on the top. I got some tar paper to put over these, so no rain could go through.

HAROLD FANNING, Age 11.

Found Mayflower

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to the Wide-Awake Circle. One day last summer my cousins and I went in the woods. When we got there my cousin said let us see who will find the first mayflower. We were looking all around but we could not find any. At last we went near a swamp. My cousin saw something white and she bent down and saw that it was one. As I was running to look in another place she told me that she found one. So she found the first flower.

Biddy

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the third time I have written to you. I am going to tell you about my pet hen. I am a little farmer girl. My father keeps hens. I have a pet hen, too. Her name is Biddy. My father gave it to me on my birthday. She laid four eggs, so I said to myself, "I will let her hatch them." Friday she was out in the yard. My friend saw them and bought two of them.

IRENE ALLARD, Age 9.
Plainfield, Box 195.

Gold and Silver

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the third time that I have written to you. I am going to tell you about gold and silver. Gold and silver are called precious metals, but they are not so useful as iron and copper.

The richest gold fields in all the world are in South Africa, Australia, and our western highlands, Colorado, Alaska and California produce most of the gold in our country.

The United States produces the most silver.

A few years ago Mexico yielded as much as we did but war has led to the closing of many mines in that country. The three states Montana, Colorado and Utah are noted for silver.

Making a Cake

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to tell you about cooking. One Saturday morning my sister helped me make a cake. First I mixed some butter and sugar. Then I added two eggs, a cup of milk and two cups of flour. I nearly forgot the baking powder, but I put in four spoons of it. Then when I had them all mixed I added about a half of a cup of raisins. Then I poured it into a greased pan and baked it for forty minutes. I frosted it after it was baked and I sprinkled it with cocoanut.

We had the cake for part of the dessert that night and we all agreed that it tasted very good.

VIRGINIA TUBBS, Age 9.

Disappointed

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide-Awake Circle.

I paid 50 cents for a whistle. As my family did not like to hear me practicing, I went to a nearby field. I practiced a long time but could not manage to play it. I was very angry at myself for buying it. When I read advertisements now I remember the whistle.

PETER HOSPOD, Age 11.

Made Eskimo Village.

Dear Uncle Jed—In school we are studying about the Eskimoes. To make our lessons easier we made an Eskimo village. First we made three igloos out of clay. Then we colored some paper blue and put some glass over it. This made it look just like frozen water. The Eskimo people were little dolls dressed in furs. We also made a sled with dogs hitched to it, and a fox trap. Then we built the village on the sand table.

STELLA IZKOWSKI, Age 9.

Abraham Lincoln.

Dear Uncle Jed—This time I am going to write you about the life of Abraham Lincoln. He was born February 12, 1809 in a small log cabin on a farm in the back woods of Kentucky. In 1816, after having lived in several places, the family moved to Indiana.

After they had settled they built a log cabin. Abraham and his father. A year later his mother died and the cabin was lonesome most of the time. Lincoln went to school little by little, in a little log school not far from his home. He had no pencils or paper to write with as we have today, but wrote on an old wooden shovel and charcoal. He would walk many miles to borrow a book from some of his neighbors or friends.

Abraham could outrun any boy at school and could throw a stone farther than any of the pupils. Two years later he and the family moved to Illinois and built another log cabin. Lincoln never forsook a friend or lost an opportunity to do a kind deed. He also pardoned many soldiers who were ready to die. He went to Ford's theatre and was shot.

DORIS ARNOLD, Age 13.
Danielson.

Seals.

Dear Uncle Jed—This is the first time I have written to you and I hope you will like my story. I am going to tell you about seals. The animal from which the sealskin comes is not a true seal but a seabear. The true seal (family Phocidai) has has external ears and cannot walk and run. The fur seal (family Otaridae) has external ears and can walk and run. All seals are mammals. They are first covered with a coat of white fur. The young ones do not go in water before this new coat is shed.

The harbor seal or "leopard seal," so called because of its spots, is found along the Eiropean shores of the Atlantic and Orctic oceans. The young are born in early spring. The flesh and blubber of this seal is highly valued by the Eskimos. The skins are used for clothing and rawhide nets. Some weigh 300 pounds. Many seals are found off Nome, in Bering Strait and around the Pribiloff Islands. Large ships were sent out from Europe and the U. S. and killed about 10,000 every breeding season. Now little sealing is done.

MORRIS SELKOWITZ, Age 11.

A Valentine Party.

Dear Uncle Jed—This is the first time I have written to you and I hope you will like my story. This morning when we were going to school all the children were laughing and seemed to have lots of fun. We each had a bunch of valentines which we were very careful not to show our friends. When we came to school we put our valentines in a big valentine box.

In the morning we had some lessons, but nobody recited well because we were thinking about our valentines. In the afternoon three boys passed the valentines out and then we had a game. It was something like blind man's buff. The teacher had a heart drawn on the blackboard and whoever put a dot in the center won three candy kisses.

We all clapped our hands when the teacher told us that we would not have any homework tonight.

PAULINE DEUTSCH, Age 8.

Got 36 Valentines.

Dear Uncle Jed—This is my first letter to you. I hope you will enjoy it. I am six years old and I am in the second grade. I am in the third grade for spelling and reading too.

Tuesday we had a valentine party in school. Our teacher made a big valentine mail box for all the children to put their valentines in. My brother Freddie and another boy were the postmen. They passed out the valentines. I got 36 valentines. We had a heart hunt. Our teacher hid candy hearts at recess. Russell Lucy found the most. Then we had a nice lunch. We all had a lovely time.

Helping the Birds

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide-Awake Circle.

One day while I was walking with the other boys I saw a bird lying on the ground in its nest. I picked it up and put it on a branch of the tree near by. When I got down I had to run to catch up with the other boys, but I was glad that I helped the birds.

CAMELLO CHIARAMONTE, Age 12.

A Long Winter Nap

Dear Uncle Jed: How would you like to go to sleep and sleep through a whole winter? Of course, you would not like it because you would miss all the good times coasting and skating.

But Mr. Woodchuck does not mind sleeping all winter. In fact, he likes it so much that he never wakes up to take a walk or even to eat. So far as is known he never even turns over in his sleep. He burrows down underneath the ground, where he will not be disturbed by noises. He carries his blanket with him, too, his fur coat.

Of course, Mr. Woodchuck is hungry after his long nap but not nearly as hungry as you would be because he takes his pantry to bed with him. All summer long he eats just as much as he can hold. By the end of August he is so fat that he waddles like a duck when he walks, and can hardly run at all. Layers of fat are all over his body. This fat is his pantry, well stored with food for winter. While he sleeps he lives upon this fat until the warm days of spring come and he can start eating again.

EVELYN ST. ONGE, Age 10.

George and the Colt.

Dear Uncle Jed—I am going to tell you about my school. We are studying about George Washington. I am going on the stage Monday the day you will receive my letter. I am to tell about Washington and the colt. As I have time I will tell you the story. One day as George was out in the field he saw his mother's colt running about. George said, "If you boys help me put a bridle on him, I'll ride him." The boys finally got the colt in the corner of the field and slipped the bridle on. Then George jumped on his back. The colt gave his rider an unpleasant ride. Then George had a high ride. The colt gave one good jump and burst a blood bessel, then he lay dead! George won the victory. The same morning as George went into the house to get his breakfast his mother said to him, "As you have been to the field how is my colt?" George looked ashamed and replied, "He is dead." Then he told her the whole story. Then she said, "I'd rather have my son tell the truth than have the colt."

FREDERICK J. GAUTHIER, Age 9.

George Washington.

Dear Uncle Jed—I am going to write to you and the Wide Awakes about George Washington. He was born in Westmoreland County, Virginia, Feb. 22, 1732. His father died when he was eleven years old. From his youth he was noted for honor and truthfulness. He was excellent in athletic sports.

In the winter of 1753 and 1754 he carried a letter from the governor of Virginia, five hundred miles to a French fort near Lake Erie. He was a soldier in the French and Indian war. In 1759 he resigned and in the same year married Mrs. Martha Curtis. Soon after the Revolutionary war broke out he was appointed commander-in-chief of the American army (June 15, 1775). In 1781 his army beseiged Cornwallis at Yorktown, Virginia. The British finally gave up in 1783. He was the first president of the United States. He died at Mt. Vernon Dec. 14, 1799.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

With the issuing of four permits during the past week the total number of permits granted by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton was brought up to nine for the month of February. The permits however call for an expenditure of close to $225,000, chief among these being the new addition to the J. B. Martin plant on Franklin street which will cost approximately $12,000. The permits for February were as follows:

New frame house	1
New frame garage	1
New brick building	1
Alterations to frame buildings	4
Alterations to brick buildings	2
	9

Total estimated cost $24,560.

The permits issued during the past week were as follows:

To Mrs. Emma Welte to change front and alter store in Young block. Door will be moved to new location and a partition removed to enlarge present store of N. E. Fruit Co. Contractor Sweeney is doing the work which will cost about $1,000.

To Archibald Torrance to erect a one-story brick building for the J. B. Martin Co. in the yard at the Franklin Street plant. The building will be 45 x 80 feet with concrete footings. The floor will be of concrete while the walls will be of brick. The roof will be of the saw-tooth type with steel-sash skylights. The cost of the new building will be $12,000.

To Archibald Torrance to erect a 2-story frame house at 66 Boswell avenue for Antonio Colletti. The house will be 25x29 feet with stone and concrete foundation. The first story finish will be in clapboards with shingles on the second story. The interior will be finished in hardwood and plaster. The cost will be about $5,000.

To F. R. Pratt to erect a frame garage at 37 Prospect street for T. C. Coughlin. The garage will be 18 x 19 feet. The estimated cost is $200.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the week ending Feb. 25th there was one sale of real estate recorded as compared with eight sales for the same week in 1927. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $20,750 and $38,950.

In New London during the past week there were eight sales of real estate, three more than during the corresponding week in 1927. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $45,100 and $68,600.

Building Permits in State

Last week was the first time this year in which the totals of building permits issued in the leading Connecticut building centers fell below last year. A total of 202 permits were issued during the week calling for construction work estimated to cost $622,358. In the like week in 1927 the total number of permits issued was 214 and the estimated expenditure amounted to $735,035.

New London

Indications of an early start in building operations this spring is seen in the fact that a total of 22 building permits were issued by the council this week. Three of the 22 permits are for new houses, two of which are to be of the two-family variety, and one cottage. Of the rest, eight are for new garages of various dimensions, and the remaining 11 for alterations and additions of various proportions.

Contractors suffered their first real delay by winter weather during the past week with the first real snow storm and the cold weather subsequent. Rainy weather the latter part of the week also interfered somewhat with exposed work, but it is generally expected that work will be pushed ahead now without fear of setbacks by the weather.

The four-story front wall of the building at 50 Water street owned by the Arthur Gager estate has been razed to make way for the construction of a new wall, together with other repairs and alterations to the interior of the roof. The building was damaged by fire last month and the owner decided to remodel the building entirely.

Two pretty new cottages are under construction by Joseph A. St. Germain in Montauk avenue. The first, which has already been plastered, is of frame construction with a roof parallel to the street finished with natural grain shingles. The siding is of tan dipped shingles. An attractive front entrance enhances the general appearance. The new house contains eight rooms and has a stone foundation. The second house has been framed and the roof is now being shingled. It is designed with roof at right angles to the street, with dormer effect windows on the second floor. It will contain eight rooms.

Building Permits

Arthur Gager estate, rebuild building, 50 Water street, $10,000.

Harry Sharaf, dairy building alterations, 90 Main street, $5,000.

Abrams & Spitz, garage addition, 420 Bank street, $6,000.

Philip Sunn, addition, 33 Spring street, $2,500.

COLCHESTER

Basketball fans were jubilant Saturday night when the Academy team defeated the Norwich Free Academy team and the town team defeated the Goodwin Beach quintet, of Hartford, 57 to 18. The Academy rooters were especially happy as the game gave the locals two victories over their opponents. The Bacon academy team, coached by Professor Kendall, has developed into a fast team.

Sunday morning was one of the coldest of the winter, the registration ranging from 10 to 15 below zero.

Leon Broder has filled his ice house with 12-inch ice, which was cut on King's pond, about two miles north of the village.

Chancellor Commander S. H. Kellogg, of Oliver Woodhouse lodge, Knights of Pythias, and several members of the lodge, went to Salem Friday evening, as guests of Woodbridge lodge, and assisted in working the rank of esquire on a class of pages. A lunch was served.

Some of the members of the fire company went with the pumpers to the Ransom school building and pumped out the cellar in order that a fire could be built in the furnace. There was no school Friday, as the janitor was unable to get in to run the furnace.

The Perfect Leather company has moved its machinery and stock from the Lilley building on Norwich avenue to the Elgart factory, formerly the Colchester Shoe factory.

In the race for wealth too much money seems to be an impossible quantity.

COSTLIEST

Aileen Pringle

Hollywood, Cal.—Aileen Pringle, Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer star, who owns the costliest negligee in Hollywood, made of real lace from a shawl once owned by an Empress of Russia, gives her recipe for cleansing it.

"I always personally supervise the washing of it to make certain it is done in Lux suds," Aileen said.

And over at Paramount, Travis Banton, costume director for all productions, reveals that in caring for the thousands of beautiful costumes and the vast stock of fabrics in the Paramount wardrobes and sets, Lux is used . . . because it saves money by keeping all kinds of fabrics new-looking twice as long.

"We now use Lux for every bit of laundry in our vast wardrobe department. We no longer discard costumes which have lost their new look. We 'Lux' them. Lux doubles the life of sturdy fabrics as well as sheer materials," he said.

Millions of women also use Lux because its pure suds cleanse safely, keep fabrics new twice as long.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—Bond prices continued steady today, with an undertone of firmness. Trading, however, was in relatively small volume again, as the imminence of several large offerings combined with the approach of the government's March 15th financing to induce a measure of caution. Several large foreign issues are under negotiation, estimates placing the total to reach the market next month as high as $500,000,000. The money situation showed little change.

Interest in "Frisco" railway issues was a feature of the day's trading, four of them changing hands in large volume at rising prices. The $100,000,000 refunding loan of this railroad is expected to reach the market some time this week, taking the form of 4 1-2 per cent bonds to be priced around 97. This issue will exceed the largest railway loan in 1927, that of $95,000,000 Missouri Pacific 5s.

St. Paul mortgages also followed a firm trend, following announcement that the securities of the new Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific are ready for delivery. Erie General 4s were bought in considerable amounts, but the Seaboard issues turned reactionary again following a brief rally late last week. Public utilities and industrials attracted no more than nominal attention.

The foreign group was dull, chief interest being attached to the oversubscription of the $41,101,000 province of Buenos Aires 6s, offered this morning.

United States government obligations were unusually quiet.

Public offering will be made tomorrow of $15,000,000 Certainteed Products corporation gold debenture 5 1-2s, priced to yield about 5.6 per cent. Proceeds will be used to finance acquisition of the Beaver Board companies.

An issue of $11,000,000 Scranton Gas & Water company 4 1-2s will be marketed this week. Holders of Czecho-Slovakian 7 1-2s have been notified that the republic has elected to redeem on April 7, at a price equivalent to 105, all the outstanding $23,000,000 of that issue. The bonds, originally aggregating $25,000,000, were marketed in 1926.

REVIEW OF SERVICES IN THE LOCAL CHURCHES

"Salvation," was the theme at the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church, of the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, who chose for his text Ephesians 2:8. For by grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the Gift of God.

Miss Louise Avery, was leader Sunday evening, of the Young People's C. E. service, when the theme assigned was "How Much Does the World Want Christ?" Acts 16:8-15, 17:32-34, was the scripture reference.

At the Junior C. E. service of the Congregational church Sunday afternoon, when the topic was "What America Expects of Us," Nelson Ladd, was leader. The room was decorated with the Christian flag, also the United States flag, the children having given the salute to the former. At the close of the service another flag was brought forth, on which the juniors pasted stars to represent the several states.

The February birthday celebration was observed with greeting cards and songs. This month is significant for two of the leaders, Miss Hyde and Miss Corrigeau, also one of the juniors Durwood Webster. Among other features during the service were recitations and blackboard exercises.

The Congregational mid-week prayer service will be held Thursday evening, with Rev. and Mrs. Gurdon F. Bailey, at the parsonage, Elm avenue. The lesson for study will be "Service Preparatory to Communion." True Power for Life and Service, John 12:20-36. How Did Jesus Draw Men to Himself? What Power Will be Most Salutory and Efficacious With Us?

Preceding his sermon at the Norwich Town Congregational church, Sunday morning, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey conducted a religious service at Norwich state hospital.

And Jacob was left alone; and there wrested a man with him until the breaking of day. Genesis 32-24, was the text of the Sunday morning sermon at the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. A. E. Whitten, pastor.

The theme "How Much Does the World Want Christ?" was ably treated at the Methodist C. E. service, on Sunday evening, by the leader, Miss Florence M. Bennett.

The children's service usually held at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon, was postponed this week.

Miss Effie Ladd, president of the Methodist C. E. society is in general charge of the social to be held in the vestry Friday evening. This also will be the regular meeting for March.

At the Sacred Heart church Monday morning at 7.30, a month's mind requiem high mass, for the repose of the soul of Louis J. Lynch, of Norwich Town, was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn. At the offertory, Miss Mary Buckley sang De Profundis and for a waiting hymn, she sang Abide With Me. Mrs. William A. Murphy was at the organ. There was a large attendance of relatives, family friends and neighbors.

A member of the French chamber of deputies who failed to appear for his own scheduled wedding last year is being sued by the woman who was to have been his bride. She wants him to reimburse her for all the money she spent on her trousseau, for the new clothes and furnishings her mother bought in order that she and her home might look as elegant as possible on the wedding day, and for various other things. The deputy is Rene Chavagnes, who represents the Loire-et-Cher department. His bride-to-to-have-been is Mlle. Antonia Rura. She avers that she bought her own engagement ring—12,000 francs—and that it was an utter loss. Besides, she spent 10,000 francs fixing up the apartment so that it would be fit for a deputy to live in. And then there were her clothes and her mother's, in all 30,000 francs—about $3,000.

At the office of the coal company, Bradford ordered a ton of coal sent to a Franklin street address where there is only a vacant lot and paid for it with one of the checks, receiving in cash the diffirence in the amount of the price of the coal and the face of the check. At the shoe store he received a pair of shoes and worked another bad check in payment of them. Two days after the fraudulent acts of Bradford, the checks were discovered to be worthless, but Bradford left this city. He went to Pittsfield, where he continued his method of obtaining goods and money without working for them.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Slater Hall Concert.

Those who heard Rosa Ponselle in "Norma," that almost century-old opera recently revived after 40 years' absence from the repertoire of the Metropolitan Opera company, where she won the transcendant victory of her career, filling the role formerly sung by such as Pasta, Grisi, Lind and Lehmann, agree with Charles Pike Sawyer of the New York Evening Post and many others in saying that hers is "a perfect voice perfectly displayed."

In this very difficult role, renowned as the most formidable of all Italian opera, her singing towered aloft in glory of tone and perfection of art. Under the spell of her remarkable interpretations, whether portraying the simplicity and tenderness of the mother with her children, the nobility called for in "Teneri figli," one of the greatest airs in all opera, the ardor of the lover or the dignity and mysticism of the priestess, the audiences recalled her again and again with demonstrations seldom seen in the Metropolitan.

Roles of other operas have made her famous but in this her triumph has been supreme.

The assurance of the Slater hall course for 1928-29 which Ponselle would open here on May 22nd, now rests with the music-lovers of Norwich whose course-ticket pledges the committee is now waiting to receive.

The other three concerts of the course are full of interest, the list of artists comprising Florence Nash, foremost woman pianist; Andre Segoria, world's sensational guitarist, and Merle Alcock, one of America's finest contraltos.

Kindly send pledges immediately to A. Mitchell, 4th, 89 Broad street, as the Ponselle option soon closes.

The company has steadily used this means for making known the merit of Cuticura soap, ointment, talcum and shaving stick, until today the name Cuticura is a household word in millions of homes.

In commenting on the fact that Cuticura is today one of the most famous of all advertised names, Mr. Hamilton said, "Since the establishment of the business in 1878 by Mr. George R. White it has been the company policy to give the utmost in quality. Mr. White was a man of outstanding personality and business ability whose keen sense and knowledge of the consumer enabled him to establish an advertising policy, which without the aid of salesmen or any of the so-called high pressure methods, has placed Cuticura in the households of the world."

Today, the same purity and exquisite fragrance of Cuticura products are available. No stone is left unturned to maintain the high standard of quality which has been responsible for the remarkable continuation of Cuticura success. Upon the firm rock of worth-while products, sold at reasonable cost, resulting in public confidence, is built this outstanding advertising success—a landmark of modern American progressiveness.

New Hair Mode Seen in New York

The most beautiful girls in New York are doing their hair the new way. It's so lovely, but so simple. That's why it appeals to popular girls, who need to save time whenever they can. One of the busiest of them is attractive Mary Chandler, for three seasons a member of "George White's Scandals" and now appearing in "Artists and Models." She says: "I am so busy, I don't know how I'd take care of my hair, if I hadn't learned the new way so many of my girls friends are doing theirs.

"All I do now is put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush each time I use it. This wonderful preparation keeps my hair looking so lovely that many friends want to touch it. I set my waves with Danderine, too, and it holds them ever so much longer. All dandruff disappeared with a few applications, and my scalp always feels fine. I shampoo just once a month, now. Danderine keeps my hair so clean."

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It makes hair easy to dress and holds it in place. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. All drug stores have the 35c bottles. A delicately fragrance necessity for the well-groomed girl.

Palace Theatre.

Last night's audience at the Palace theatre had come to see "The Circus," Charlie Chaplin's "The Circus." And it was a circus they saw!

After two years, Charlie Chaplin, idol of masses and classes in every clime, has given his public a smashing comedy in this new United Artists Picture of his, "The Circus." It's the greatest entertainment picture the greatest comedian in the world has ever made,—and that is strong language.

Charlie Chaplin never disappoints. He is the one known quantity, the unfailing clown, the constant Northern star of films. In this story of circus life, of which Charlie accidentally becomes a part, his genius for fun-making is again clothed in the trick derby, over-roomy shoes, funny little moustache and flexible cane. And audiences, who have come to love this screen Charlie, roared louder than ever at the antics of their idol. Exclamations of glee from the kids each time Charlie did his stuff, whether on a tight-rope, filching hot dogs from a stand, or making faces at the baby, boomed from the first rows to the ceiling. Fearful "oohs" and "ahs" were crooned lest Charlie be caught by the strong arm of the law or fall off a slack-wire. But Charlie came out on top in every situation but one,—for he doesn't get the girl in "The Circus."

"The Circus" was written, directed and produced by Charlie Chaplin, as have been his earlier films. But "The Circus" is different. To be sure, Charlie is as wistful as ever, but in "The Circus" he seems to be old Chaplin, the Chaplin of "The Kid," "Shoulder Arms," and "The Floorwaker." Here there is the old spontaneous hilarity, timing and laugh-getting. Indeed, the comedian himself declared when "The Circus" was being made that it would be "a low-brow comedy for the high-brows."

Breed Theatre.

How lobbies of fashionable hotels are used by thousands of persons throughout the land as a means of maintaining a false front of wealth and affluence is pictured in "American Beauty," the First National production starring Billie Dove.

The picture, which closes tonight at the Breed theatre, is a whimsical comedy-drama based on the efforts of a beautiful girl of slim finances to impress her acquaintances with her social position.

That this is a common practice of both men and women in every large city of America is the declaration of hotel owners and managers who observe the more or less harmless deceit in operation constantly.

According to the manner of one of the largest hotels of Los Angeles, literally dozens of telephone calls for persons never registered come in daily, and the callers quite often become highly indignant because they "know" the person in question lives there.

The practice of many men and women of making engagements with new friends they are trying to impress in lobbies of hotels is a common one, and even more hackneyed is the business of having one's self paged as a means of creating an atmosphere of importance.

"American Beauty" was adapted to the screen and produced for First National Pictures by Carey Wilson and directed by Richard Wallace.

Lloyd Hughes heads an unusually large supporting cast in the leading role. Supporting players include Walter McGrail, Margaret Livingstone, Lucien Prival, Al St. John, Edythe Chapman, Alice White, Yola d'Avril, Loretta Young and others.

St. Mary's Players.

Everyone likes a good show. St. Mary's Players have one of the best that they have ever had in this year's play. It equals, and in truth, surpasses what you have seen this organization put on in the past. This is saying a good deal, but we think we are right. It is amusing, has a good plot, is quite true to life, and proves—to what degree you may decide for yourselves—that to speak the truth is not easy under certain conditions. In fact it is a hard job—but come and see for yourselves.

Strand Theatre.

"On the Stroke of Twelve," Joseph Le Brandts famous stage melodrama made into a photoplay, is now showing at the Strand. It boasts a splendid all star cast including June Harlowe, David Torrance, Lloyd Whitlock and Danny O'Shea. In brief the story tells of a young man who is accused of firing the shot which killed his father and circumstantial evidence threw him in prison. Because of his heroism in rescuing the governor's daughter, during a jail break, the innocent youth is pardoned. Then only does the real murderer meet his death—and an easier death than such a backguard deserved. There is a delightful romance interwoven throughout the plot and plenty of breath taking thrills, one of which is the death struggle in the sea of the convict and his enemy. Be sure to see this production for there is a wonderful treat in store for you.

"The Vulgar Yachtman" is an amusing sea story acted by a clever cast and will help you enjoy a pleasant evening of good comedy with some lively acting.

"A Dog's Pal" is an interesting canine story that each member of the family will enjoy, especially the children.

Alpine Yonkers Ferry

It was announced today at the office of the Alpine Yonkers Ferry that the date for the resumption of ferry services has been definitely fixed for Thursday, March 1st, and will render the usual schedule from 6 a. m. to midnight.

This opening is the earliest in the history of the company and is due to the open winter and ice-free Hudson river.

The boats have been overhauled and the automobile driveways were reconstructed so that about forty cars can be carried on each boat.

A recent survey made shows that the roads and approaches are in excellent condition.

A man seldom forgives an inquiry until after he has avaled himself of an opportunity to get even.

The Dreamers

Back of the beating hammer,
By which the steel is wrought,
Back of the anvil's clamor
The seeker may find the Thought,
The Thought that is ever master
Of lives and souls and steel,
That plans disaster
And tramples it under heel!

The dreamer may first and fiercest
Of labor will forever know,
But back of him stands the Thinker,
The clear-eyed man who knows;
For into each plough or spade,
Each piece and part and whole,
Must go the Brains of Labor,
Which gives the work a soul!

Back of the motor's humming,
Back of the belts that sing,
Back of the hammer's drumming
Back of the crane that swing,
There is the eye which scans them,
Watching through stress and strain;
There is the Mind which plans them—
Back of the brawn, the brain.

Might of the roaring boiler,
Force of the engine's thrust,
Strength of the sweating toiler,
Greatly in these we trust,
But back of them stands the Schemer,
The Thinker who drives them through,
Back of the Job—the Dreamer
Who's making the dream come true.

Outwards

Over the dim blue rim of the sea
Comes the pale gold disc of the moon;
The topsails slat as we pass the quay,
And the yard goes up with a tune.

We are outward bound for the west to-night,
And the yard goes up with a cheer;
And the bells will ring in the town to-night,
And the men in the inns will hear.

And the carts will creak in the lanes tonight,
And the girls will dance to the band;
But we shall be out with the sails to fist,
And the topsail-sheets to hand.

Although the card measured only 12 by ten inches, it involved six months' incessant work for the artist who produced it. PLAIN HILL FARMER FINED ON THREE COUNTS

Mike Murich, a farmer of Plain Hill was fined on three counts, intoxication, breach of the peace and resistance, at the Monday morning session of the city court. The fines, with costs attached, amounted to $133.95. Murich, it is said, threatened Constable Lucius A. Fenton of Norwich Town, with a gun Saturday afternoon. The officer went to his farm on Plain Hill, to arrest him for creating a disturbance on complaint of a neighbor. When he arrived at the farm, the constable told Murich he was under arrest and then Murich asked permission to go into the house for his coat and hat. Constable Fenton granted the man's request and he disappeared into the house. Shortly afterwards he appeared carrying a gun.

Murich held the officer off with the gun and then made his escape. Sunday afternoon Constable Fenton and State Humane Agent Frederick G. Wyant, started to the farm in order to look after the farm stock. On the way they met Murich driving a horse and buggy on the road and arrested him. Murich claimed that after the fracas Saturday he had hidden himself in the hay loft at his barn.

RESERVED DECISION IN SUIT OVER CONTRACT

Judge Charles B. Waller, in the court of common pleas at New London Monday, took the papers and reserved decision in the $1,000 damage action brought by John Mondelci & Co., of New London, against Gennaro Sabaldella, of that city, following a trial of the suit.

The suit arose out of an alleged contract wherein the plaintiff was to erect two stores and tenement, including the store fronts, in Bank street, for $4,560.85. The plaintiff alleged that at the request of the defendant changes were made to the value of $1,471.06, making the bill $6,031.91.

The plaintiff claimed that the defendant paid $5,200 and that he still owes the company $831.91.

The defendant denied that he agreed to the extra charges and claimed that by mistake he overpaid the plaintiff $540. The defendant set up a counterclaim for $700 damages.

PULLS UNION LABOR OFF JOB AT SAMUEL HUNTINGTON SCHOOL

All union men employed in the construction of the new Samuel Huntington school building at Norwich Town were called out Monday morning by Robert McNeely, business agent of the Norwich building trades, due to a controversy between the union and the heating contractor, Harold C. Dahl, over the painting or bronzing of the radiators in the building by the latter. Mr. Dahl, in fulfilling his contract, which provides that he paint the radiators, was using an air gun in bronzing the radiators. Union officials claim that a rule of the painters' union prohibits the use of the air gun in painting, by union men, on the grounds that it is unhealthful. It is also claimed by the union officials, that the painting should be done by painters, and not by Mr. Dahl who is a plumbing and heating contractor. Mr. Dahl maintains that his contract specifies that he paint the radiators.

As a result all the union men at work on the building were called out. During the afternoon union officials, and contractors met in conference with the town school board, at a hastily called meeting of the board to discuss the situation. The meeting was in the nature of a hearing accorded the union officials and contractors, to allow them an opportunity to explain the situation to the board members. The services of two stenographers were secured to make a stenographic record of the statements and general discussion.

Following the two hour hearing the school board went into executive session to further discuss the labor trouble. At the executive session the board decided to hold the matter in status quo. City Engineer Shepherd B. Palmer, who is also the architect who drew the school plans, was instructed to see that all work on the building is held up pending further action by the board. The board then adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

Present at the meeting were Chairman Lester, Secretary Thomas J. Kelly and James C. Macpherson, members of the school board, Robert McNeely, business agent of the Norwich Building Trades and also a member of the school board, Harold C. Dahl, the heating contractor, Thure W. Dahl, Mr. Dahl's brother, also a contractor, Patrick F. Sweeney, the general contractor, City Engineer Shepherd B. Palmer, and several union officials.

Chairman Lester of the school board stated Monday night that the board does not wish to hold up the construction work any longer than is absolutely necessary and that the school board is working for the best interests of the citizens of the Norwich whose money is paying for the new building. He said that the union officials stated that the board would be notified by the union when the men could go back to work. Mr. Lester said that the school board decided that inasmuch as the union had called out the men, the board and not the union would decide when the men could go back to work.

Work on the construction of the building was held up once before because of the carpenters' strike which lasted several weeks. At the present time the building is very nearly completed. It is understood that the carpenter work will require but two or three weeks more. Of the approximately 80 radiators installed in the building, about 60 have already been bronzed by Mr. Dahl, leaving only about a score more to be completed. In the meantime all work on the building is held up pending further action by the school board.

The situation was discussed Monday evening at a meeting of officials of the Central Labor union at Carpenter's hall. Following the meeting Mr. McNeely stated that the union had reached a satisfactory agreement and that as far as the union was concerned the men would go back to work this (Tuesday) morning. Mr. McNeely stated that he had talked with City Engineer Palmer, after the meeting, and had notified him that the controversy had been satisfactorily adjusted by the union.

City Engineer Palmer said late Monday night that the union, through Mr. McNeely, had submitted a proposition to him, which he would lay before the town school board. Asked if the men would go back to work this morning Mr. Palmer said that the town school board would have to act on the matter first. He stated that he would notify Mr. Lester, chairman of the board, of the union's action this (Tuesday) morning.

YERRINGTON RECITAL ON NORWICH TOWN ORGAN

A beautiful moonlight night, a rebuilt organ and the reputation of a half century organist brought out an appreciative audience of over 200 Monday, for the forty-seventh annual recital of Herbert L. Yerrington at the First Congregational church. Theodore Sterry, an aspiring musician of the local community ably interpreted the two violin numbers in which he appeared.

The opening number Concert Prelude in D minor Op. 28, No. 3 (A. Walter Kramer), was most interesting, having a variety of moods, while the second number Offertoire, (F. W. Batchelder) was a quiet meditative composition. This was followed by Legende Op. 17, (H. Wieniawski), beautifully interpreted on the violin by Mr. Sterry. This is one of the best known solos in the entire literature of the instrument and as popular today as when first written.

Mr. Yerrington's next number, Miniature Suite, was by James H. Rogers, composer and organist at Cleveland, who was born at Fair Haven, Conn., in 1857. The number which followed Toccata and Fugue Vol. 3, No. 3, is among the best of the works of Bach's middle period. The composition is a favorite with musicians and always impresses an audience. Canto Amoroso, (Mischa Elman) a delicate love song, was Mr. Sterry's second number. Improvisation on "Pilgrims," "Hark, Hark, My Soul!" by F. Leslie Calver, a familiar melody, was given a good rendering.

Mr. Yerrington's concluding number, Triumphal March, brilliant work by John Hyatt Brewer, eminent Brooklyn, N. Y. composer served to display the qualities of the organ.

It is the intention of the pastor of the pastor of the church and organist to arrange a simple dedicatory service to take place in connection with the Sunday morning worship period at an early date. A concert by visiting organists is also being planned.

The program in its entirety included:

Concert Prelude in D minor Op 28, No. 3 — A. Walter Kramer
Offertoire — F. W. Batchelder
Legende Op. 17, — H. Wieniawski
Charles Theodore Sterry
Miniature Suite — James H. Rogers
a. Prelude b. Intermezzo c. Pastorale d. Toccatina
Toccata and Fugue Vol. 3, No. 3 — Bach
Canto Amoroso — Mischa Elman
Mr. Sterry
Improvisation on "Pilgrims" — F. Leslie Calver
"Hark, Hark, My Soul!"
Triumphal March — John Hyatt Brewer

MOTOR TRUCKS ON ROADS CARRY 61,194 TONS

Commercial motor vehicles operating under Connecticut registrations in 1927 had aggregate carrying capacity of 122,389,000 pounds, or 61,194 tons, almost twice the freight-weight space afforded by trucks on the highways seven years ago. Since 1920, state motor vehicle department records show, the average single vehicle capacity has increased by 600 pounds, or one-fourth of a ton, and the total capacities of all vehicles has increased at the rate of 4,000 tons a year.

The gain in capacities of these vehicles is considerably beyond the rate of increase of commercial registrations. While capacities have nearly doubled since 1920, the truck registration increase has been only 38 per cent. Last year there were 43,620 registrations and in 1920 there were approximately 26,800 with capacities of 63,364,000 pounds or 31,932 tons. The average capacity for each vehicle last year was 2,800 pounds and in 1920 it was 2,300 pounds.

A considerable gain over the previous year is also reported for 1927. The number of commercials registered increased by 3,003, while the "tonnage" increased 4,331 tons or 8,661,400 pounds.

Approximately three-fourths of the commercial vehicles registered in 1927 were of one ton or less capacity. The total capacities of this group, however, including 30,387 vehicles, were less than 40 per cent. of the "tonnage" of all vehicles registered. The greatest carrying capacity was represented in the 2,140 trucks registered to carry five tons or more, the total for these being more than 21,500,000 pounds or 10,750 tons. In 1920 the trucks ranging from one to one and one-half tons capacity led, both as to the number registered and total capacities.

There were 19,690 vehicles registered last year as having capacity limits of 1,500 pounds, while the total capacities were approximately 28,000,000 pounds or 14,000 tons. The 1-ton trucks numbered 11,197. In the group with capacities of from one to one and one-half tons there were 5,245 with carrying space for 7,673 tons.

There were 2,207 trucks with capacities of two tons or selightly less and total capacities of 4,394 tons; 1,224 trucks of 2 1-2 tons or less with total capacities of 3,097 tons; 1,077 trucks of 3 1-2 tons with total capacities of 3,768 tons; 1,209 trucks of three tons or less with capacities of 3,617 tons; 470 of 4 tons or less with capacities of 1,880 tons; and 2,351 trucks or more than 4 1-2 tons with total capacities of 11,200 tons.

NOON MEETING TALK AT RICHMOND RADIATOR

At the weekly shop meeting under Y. M. C. A. auspices held Monday noon at the plant of the Richmond Radiator company, Rev. C. H. Ricketts gave an interesting talk to the employees. The topic of the talk was, "The Conquest of Fear," and Mr. Ricketts spoke in part as follows:

The subject of fear appeals to us all; we are all more or less fearful creatures; we are prone to fear. There are a great many fears we have that are purely imaginary; the thing we fear never comes to pass. This is particularly true of the miniature nations even now; they have a fear unfounded when a thunder storm comes up, and when there was an eclipse, they think something terrible is about to happen. There are many things we fear, when we face them squarely they seem to go away from us. We need to have a strong faith in an over-ruling providence. Everyone of us has feared things that never came to pass, and we have asked ourselves why have we been so foolish.

There is a fear that we have when we have done wrong, and we have reason to fear when this is the case. I knew a man years ago when eyes were becoming blurred, and he consulted an old country doctor who examined his eyes and then said, "I don't wonder that your eyesight is failing; you have too much rum in you; I am surprised that you can see at all." The man came to his senses, and vowed that he would quit drinking rum, and he did quit, but it was too late; the damage had been done. We have reason to fear the results of wrong doing.

There are fears that are not at all imaginary; they are very real, and the question comes to our mind, Is there not something that will help us. I believe, men, that my religion distinctly helps me; I mean religion without frills, just plain and sensible. If I do my part; my best, God Almighty will surely come to my help. I have had some hard problems to solve in my life, but God has helped me to solve them. I wanted a college education, and my father wanted me to have one, but how to go to college was the question. My father was a Methodist minister, with a very small salary. I did the best I could and in a very unexpected way God made it possible for me to get a college education. A friend of my fathers was the means, but God was doubtless back of it all. There are physical fears, and mental fears as well. There are imaginary fears and fears that are well based; the Christian man has his fears as well as others, but his religion helps, and the God whom he serves will come to his rescue. We must face our fears bravely. If a dog barks at us and we back away, he will bark the louder, but if you walk right along the bark ceases and our fear vanishes. I have no fear but that my God will stand by me. The great fundamental is that God is almighty, and He is with us if we will but trust Him. I am safe under his protection.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT BROUGHT FOR $10,000

Settlement out of the superior court was effected Monday in the $10,000 damage suit for personal injuries brought by Wladstan Plossay, of Salem, against Elmer P. Chappell and Theodore Chappell, both of Waterford, which arose out of an accident in which the defendant's automobile struck a wagon loaded with cabbages and chickens on the Hartford turnpike, destroying $48.75 worth of cabbages and $7.50 worth of chickens.

The action, instituted through Attorneys Perry J. Hollanderaky and Foster K. Sistare, counsel for Plossay, alleged that the accident occurred on Flat Rock hill in Waterford, when an automobile owned by Theodore Chappell and operated by Elmer, crashed into the wagon.

The complaint alleged that the plaintiff expended $110 for repairs to the wagon, $75 for harness and $14 for veterinary services to the horse. The plaintiff also claimed that he was seriously injured and for a long period of time was prevented from attending his work, that of selling products and wood, which would have brought in $60 a week.

LOWDEN OUT FOR THE REP. PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION

Former Governor of Illinois Has Filed a Personal Declaration With North Dakota's Secretary of State—The Declaration Has Been Placed on File as an Assurance That Mr. Lowden's Name Will Appear on the Ballot.

BISMARK, N. D., Feb. 28—(AP)—Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois announced himself as a candidate for the republican presidential nomination in a personal declaration filed late today with North Dakota's secretary of state.

The declaration is in the form of an affidavit made by Mr. Lowden in Maricopa county Arizona, Feb. 20.

Mr. Lowden previously had been assured a place on this state's presidential preference ballot in the March 20 primary through filing of the required number of petitions last Saturday. His own declaration is not required by law.

Robert Byrne, secretary of state received the declaration from F. L. Conklin, Bismarck insurance man, who said it had been forwarded to him by Harrison Garnett of St. Thomas, republican national committeeman from this state.

Officials of the secretary of state's office, in accepting the declaration, said it was not required to place his name on the ballot, but that it has been placed on file as an added assurance that Mr. Lowden's name will appear on the ballot.

Time for filing petitions nominating candidates for the presidential primary does not expire until midnight, March 1, the secretary of state's office said. No other petitions for the republican ticket have been received and political leaders here say none is expected.

HOOVER APPLICATION FILED IN MARYLAND

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 28—(AP)—Application of Herbert Hoover for placing his name on the republican primary ballot in Maryland for the presidential preference primary was filed today with Secretary of State David Winebrenner, 3rd.

The formal application and affidavit, filled out by Mr. Hoover, was sent to the secreearY's office from the office of J. Craig McLanahan, Baltimore lawyer, who had been selected as president of the Maryland Hoover-for-President committee recently formed. The application was accompanied by a check for $250, the fee required for placing a candidate's name on the ballot, the check being signed by Perry K. Heath, and having been received by Mr. McLanahan from Washington with the application.

The Hoover application is the first to be filed in this state for the presidential primary in either party.

DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES IS HEADED HOMEWARD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—Bucking a stiff headwind over the Caribbean Sea, the dirigible Los Angeles was headed homeward tonight.

Shoving off from her temporary mooring mast at France field, Panama, at 10:15 o'clock this morning after a 12 hour rest from her nonstop flight from Lakehurst, N. J., she buffeted the winds that yesterday increased her speed southward.

Although her flight down to the Isthmus required but forty hours, Lieut. Commander C. E. Rosendahl informed the navy department today that it would require about 30 hours for the Los Angeles to reach Guacanayabo bay, where the naval aircraft tender Patoka is anchored.

The distanche from France field to Guacanayabo bay is about 764 statute miles and it was indicated that Commander Rosendahl does not expect his craft to average much more than 25 miles an hour on this leg of the return flight. As the prevailing trade winds at this time of the year are from the northeast over the Caribbean, the dirigible was headed more toward the east and it may be that she will pass over the British possessed island of Jamaica, which she cleared yesterday by a scant three miles on her down trip.

The Los Angeles is scheduled to reach the Patoka about noon tomorrow according to her commander. After taking on fuel she might make a few lateral excursions over the Isle of Cuba before undertaking the longer voyage of about 1500 miles to her hangar at Lakehurst. Assistant Secretary Warner said the craft's commander has authority to take the airship where he sees fit and it is possible that she will be flown to Havana on one of the excursions.

ALBANY PREPARED TO ENTERTAIN LINDBERGH

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 28—(AP)—The capital city of New York state, which consistently refuses to become excited over its own notables or the visits of others, tonight was stirred to an unusual degree of enthusiasm over the prospect of entertaining Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh tomorrow.

Scheduled to reach here at 12:30 p. m. from New York city in a cabin plane bearing his St. Louis backers and Major Thomas G. Lanphier, flight commander at Selfridge Field, Mich., Lindbergh will be taken at once to the capitol to be officially welcomed to the state by Governor Smith. At 2 o'clock he will visit the capital again to attend a legislative hearing on the state's aviation program, the primary object of his visit.

With him at the hearing, which will take the form of a joint session of the legislature, will be Lieutenant Lester J. Maitland, San Francisco to Honolulu flier, Assistant Secretaries of Aeronautics William P. McCracken of the department of commerce, Edward P. Warner of the navy department, F. Trubee Davison of the war department, Porter H. Adams, president of the National Aeronautical association, and Major General John F. O'Ryan, president of Colonial Western Airways, Inc.

SEARCHING FOR BODY OF AVIATOR HARRY BROOKS

MELBOURNE, Fla., Feb. 28—(AP)—Rekindled by the sighting in the sea today of an object resembling a human body, hope flared on tonight as searchers continued their efforts to locate the body of Harry Brooks, Ford chief pilot, missing since his flivver monoplane dived into the ocean here last Saturday.

The object, sighted by watchers on the shore near the inlet, 15 miles south of here, was gone when a seaplane reached the spot after the pilot was informed that no boats were available at the inlet. Vessels later were brought to the spot.

Meanwhile, the land patrols paced the beach for a long distance in the vicinity of where the monoplane fell, and aided by policemen on motorcycles, kept watch for the possibility the tide may yet cast up the body as it did the plane yesterday and parts of its equipment last night.

"WALKOUT" OF DAUGHTERS RESENTFUL OF DISCIPLINE

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—A father reported to police to police today that his five daughters, ranging from 10 to 19 years in age, organized a "walkout" Sunday night after he had attempted to discipline one of them, and have not been seen by their family since.

James Tuscano, an ice dealer, said that when he tried to stimulate his Josephine, 12, to greater activity with her needles her sisters, Rose 19, Margaret 18, Frances 14 and Antoinette 10, objected to his methods and the five left home together. He asked the missing persons bureau to find the girls.

15 MEN WERE INJURED IN DISORDER IN MINE FIELDS

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Feb. 28—(AP)—Calm prevailed tonight at the Dorothy mine of the Youghiogheny & Ohio Coal company, where 15 men, including nine guards, were injured last night in a demonstration by alleged union sympathizers.

In addition to wounding 15 persons, the rioters, said to have numbered about 500, wrecked three company houses and smashed windows in others.

The march on the shaft, near Robbins, Ohio, was said to have been started as a result of reports that the mine would be opened today with non-union workers. Reports said that upward of 150 non-union diggers would be brought in but this morning only 20 men entered the workings.

Immediately after the crowd among which there were many women, set foot on the mine property last night, they attacked the commissary where the guards were quartered. Sticks and stones were hurled. Although machine guns and shotguns were stored in the building, the guards were able to drive the crowd away with tear bombs. Early today the crowd reappeared, but left when warned other measures would be employed to drive them away.

Seven men were arrested and taken to Columbus to be arraigned in federal court. The mine recently was granted an injunction to protect it from depradations at the hands of union sympathizers.

SAYS DRUNKENNESS HAS INCREASED UNDER PROHIBITION

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 28—(AP)—Although he said the increase in accidents was largely due to the increase in motor cars, Attorney-General Price, in refuting the contention that government sale of liquor had increased motor accidents, quoted to the legislature today figures to show an increase in motor accidents in the United States since the introduction of prohibition.

"It would be foolish to say that the increase is due to the Volstead act," he said. "But the fact remains that in a prohibition country you have the most appalling record in the world. The increase no doubt was largely due to the increase in motor cars, and so it has been here."

He said that crime in the United States was rampant and drunkenness had increased tremendously under prohibition. He read dispatches and statistics from the United States dealing with bootlegging, alcoholic deaths, crime, automobile fatalities, lawlessness and juvenile delinquency to support his claim that prohibition was a failure compared with government control.

ARGENTINE DELEGATE'S VIEW OF MONROE DOCTRINE

GENEVA, Feb. 28—(AP)—Argentina, through her delegate, Senor Cantilo, took issue today at the sitting of the security committee of the League of Nations over mention of the Monroe Doctrine in the league covenant. A deep impression was created by Senor Cantilo's declaration.

The reference occurs in article 21, which says that nothing in the covenant shall be deemed to affect the validity of international engagements such as treaties of arbitration or regional understandings, like the Monroe Doctrine, for securing the maintenance.

Senor Cantilo asserted that the doctrine constituted a unilateral political declaration by the United States and had never, so far as he knew, been explicitly approved by the other American countries. Therefore, it should not be cited even in example as a regional agreement.

LITTLE LIKELIHOOD OF A BALLOON RACE THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—The probability that there will be no national balloon race this year and that America's three entries for the Gordon Bennett international trophy event will have to be chosen on the basis of past performances was expressed today by Carl F. Schory, secretary of the contest committee of the National Aeronautic association.

"No applications have so far been received from cities able and willing to play host to the event," Schory announced following a meeting of the committee," and present indications are that it will have to be abandoned."

NOTED JESUIT SCHOLAR STABBED IN THE NECK

ROME Feb. 28.—(AP)—Father Tacchi-Venturi, noted Jesuit scholar, who has acted as chief negotiator between the vatican and the government on the "Roman question" was the object of an attack yesterday, which has given the authorities much concern.

The veil shrouding the circumstances of the mysterious stabbing of the learned priest in "the house of the Jesuits" was lifted only slightly by the police tonight. The authorities divulged that two days ago a man quite well dressed and calling himself "De Angelis," and by profession a bookkeeper, called at the house and insisted that he had urgent reasons to speak with Father Tacchi-Venturi.

The porter replied that the Rev. Father was extremely busy and could not receive anybody; the visitor then retired, promising to return. This man has been identified as the perpetrator of the assault, but it is not certain that he gave his right name or that he is really what he professed to be. The police assert that he already has been convicted in the Italian courts for another offense.

When the man returned to the house of the Jesuits according to the porter, he said he wished to confess and insisted that it was the priest's duty to hear him. He was ushered into Father Tacchi-Venturi's presence and almost immediately leaped at him stabbing him in the neck with a paper cutter.

The priest's quickness in recoiling saved him from a fatal blow, the blade of the knife merely glancing along the muscles and inflicting a painful, though not dangerous cut.

Other Jesuits present rushed for the police, who hastened from their post in front of the Japanese embassy. The man was quickly overpowered and placed under arrest.

Although up and about early today, tonight Father Tacchi-Venturi was taken to the Santo Spriro hospital to have his wound treated.

A BILL TO PROHIBIT COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—From South Carolina has come prospective protection for the District of Columbia fro mmodernism as it related to matrimony. A bill to prohibit companionate, or trial, marriages in the district was introduced today by Representative William C. Hammer, democrat, of that state, and a member of the house District of Columbia committee.

In its definition of companionate marriages the bill distinguishes them as marriages in which there is an agreement at the time of the wedding that the man shall not be responsible for the support of his wife.

Penalties, including fines of not more than $1,000, or less than $100, and imprisonment ranging from six months to five years, are provided for.

There are also similar penalties for anyone who shall "promote, encourage, bring about, or conspire to bring about any such companionate marriages."

SEARIES OF EARTHQUAKES NEAR BAKERSFIELD, CAL.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Feb. 28.—(AP)—A series of earthquakes shook the oil fields on the oustkirts of this city tonight. One of the shakes was accompanied by a roar resembling an explosion.

The severest shocks were felt in Oildale and Oil Center, two oil communities about three miles north of this city. Reports from those communities said there were eight or nine shocks.

The shocks began shortly after seven o'clock with the rattling of doors and increased like a violent windstorm, the final shock being accompanied by a roar like a tremendous explosion.

TWO OFFICIALS OF UNION MINERS SLAIN

WILKESBARRE Pa., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Alex Campbell, of Pittston, leader of the United Mine Workers faction at No. 6 colliery, Pennsylvania Coal company and Peter Reilly, treasurer of the local, were slain late today at Pittston.

The men were shot from ambush by persons as yet unknown, on Railroad street, Pittston.

Their deaths make four murders committed in the last six weeks with mine workers or their officials as victims.

TO ESTABLISH COOPERATIVE MARKETING OF BANANAS

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 28—(AP)—The legislative council passed on its second reading today the bill establishing cooperative marketing of bananas.

In securing preliminary passage of the bill its advocates held that it would allow the banana growers a chance to market fully half their product on England, Canada, and the United States free from "price dictation" by certain American fruit companies.

FIRST-CLASS MAIL BURNED ON BLOCK ISLAND BOAT

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 28—(AP)—All first-class mail was found destroyed by fire, and other classes of mail burned or scorched, when the mail boat, Champion I, arrived at Block Island this afternoon from Newport. The fire occurred between Point Judith and Block Island. Although the boat was not badly damaged, the postmaster refused to send out-going mail on the boat but placed it aboard the regular steamer to Newport.

Fail in Search For Three Naval Airmen

It is Believed Another Tragedy Has Been Added to Naval Annals.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—As dusk settled over the borders of Chesapeake bay, nearly two scor[illegible] army, navy and marine aviators [illegible] turned to their various stations [illegible] from a futile all-day search [illegible] missing naval aviators, [illegible] mysterious disappearance ye[illegible] believed to have added [illegible]gedy to naval annals.

A single report [illegible] plane was heard by a [illegible] keeper at Thomas Point, [illegible]d., two hours after an amp[illegible] plane carrying Commander T. [illegible] Ellyson, Lieut. Commander Hugo Schmidt, and Lieut. Roger Ransehousen, left Hampton Roads, Va., for Annapolis, caused the navy department to shift the major search to the northern regions of the bay. But the coast of Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina also came under the close scrutiny of fellow fliers until darkness prevented further observation.

For a short time hope was held that a report that a parachute was in a tree near Langley field, Va., might lead to the location of the missing airmen. But investigation disclosed the navy department was informed, that the rumor had no foundation.

Rear Admiral Robert E. Coontz, Hampton Roads, commander of the Fifth naval district, took charge of the search of the lower regions of the bay and extended the area of the searchers to the shores of Virginia and North Carolina.

Eighteen planes from the new aircraft carrier Lexington, to which the officers were attached, two army blimps from Langley field, four marine planes from Quantico, Va., five army airplanes from Bolling field and five naval airplanes from Anacostia, carried on the search in allotted regions.

The amphibian left Hampton Roads for Annapolis at 2 o'clock yesterday morning and should have arrived there at about 4 o'clock. The lighthouse keeper at Thomas Point light reported that he heard an airplane about 4 o'clock. If this was the amphibian, it was ten miles from its destination where Commander Ellyson was to meet his wife and visit his daughter, Mildred, aged 12, who is critically ill in the Naval hospital there.

CHARGES OF VIOLATION OF NEUTRALITY LAWS

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 28—(AP)—Charges of conspiracy to violate the neutrality laws, pending in federal court against Adolfo de la Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico; Louis Gayou, his secretary and Francisco Ferriz, were dismissed today on motion of the United States attorney's office.

The action was the result of the recent acquittal of the three men on similar charges in Los Angeles. However, it will not accept the status of Jose Gandara of El Paso, Texas, convicted on a charge of fomenting a revolution in Mexico. He was charged jointly with Bishop Navarette of the diocese of Sonora, Mexico and Esteban Borgaro, Jr., the bishop was acquitted at a separate trial and a mistrial resulted in the case of Borgaro.

PASSAGE OF TREASURY-P. O. APPROPRIATION BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—Congress, that frequently talks just as much as it did today with no legislative product whatever, almost unnoticed today finished and sent to the president a treasury-postoffice appropriation bill that provides all told, for expenditures of more than a billion dollars next fiscal year.

While idling over another money bill conference report—the independent offices measure—the house drifted into discussion of assorted subjects, including the political dryness of Secretary Hoover as a presidential aspirant, and the "nullification" in southern states of the disfranchisement of Negroes. Tillman, democrat, Arkansas, got into both tilts.

E. S. HARKNESS GIFT OF $$500,000 TO TAFT SCHOOL

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A gift of $500,000 to the Taft school, of Watertown, Conn., by Edward S. Harkness, philanthropist, was announced tonight by Samuel H. Fisher, chairman of the committee in charge of a drive for a $2,000,000 fund for new buildings and endowment of the school. The announcement was made at a dinner given at the University club to the members of the campaign committee by the trustees of the school, at which Horace B. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 28—(AP)—A 19 year old girl's ambition to set a new world record for a parachute jump, was prevented from ending in disaster here today, by her quick thinking pilot who brought his ship from an altitude of 15,000 feet to a landing on one wheel and a wing tip while the plucky lass dangled from the under-carriage.

Jeanne Durand, the girl, went aloft with Dr. R. L. Ellis, of Minneapolis and when at 15,000 feet she went over the side, but her parachute caught on the plane and left her dangling in midair, unable to climb back to the wing of the plane or to release herself.

Ellis, realizing what had happened, headed for the field, while the horror stricken crowd below watched the slender form of the girl swinging from the wing at the end of a rope which had prevented her parachute jump. Coming down to the field, Ellis tipped his machine over to one side, but the girl was dragged 200 feet before the plane halted.

PROHIBITIONISTS REGARD GOV. AL. SMITH AS THEIR FOE

Dry Leaders Launch Offensive Against the Governor of New York as Possible Presidential Candidate—Would Sacrifice Political Partisanship to Achieve His Defeat in Case of His Nomination—Pass Resolution Demanding Clean-Cut Prohibition Planks in Platforms of Both Major Parties—To Win Their Favor the Nominees, Regardless of Other Qualifications, Must Be Genuinely Dry

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—Two movements—one designed to put a damper on the presidential aspirations of Governor Smith of New York, the other to force both the republican and democratic parties to toe the mark on prohibition in the coming campaign—got under way here today under the direction of a group of dry leaders.

The offensive directed at the two political parties was launched at a conference in which representatives of thirty or more national temperance organizations participated. Resolutions were adopted demanding clear-cut prohibition planks and standard bearers genuinely dry.

While the meeting was in progress plans were disclosed for an Anti-Saloon league conference next month in St. Petersburg, Fla., in which friends of prohibition in nine southeastern states will be invited to have a hand. At that time, those in charge of arrangements predicted, a counter-offensive against Governor Smith will take definite form.

While reluctant to discuss for publication what will be done, they generally forecast a discussion that would include the advisability of urging the southern democrats to bolt their party in the event the New York governor is nominated at Houston.

The announced purpose of the regional meeting at St. Petersburg is to canvass the prohibition situation south of the Mason-Dixon line and east of the Mississippi, but a political airing also is regarded as inevitable by expected participants. The conference, which will continue for three days, will begin March 4.

One of those here for today's general meeting and a leader in arrangements for the Florida conference is C. A. Upchurch, North Carolina state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league. He minced no words in predicting that southern dry leaders will do their utmost to keep the democratic presidential nomination away from Governor Smith, and in the event of his nomination to work against his election.

Southerners because of their general adherence to the democratic party, he said, are particularly concerned about the selection to be made in Houston. He added that while dry leaders in that section intend to direct their fight primarily against New York's governor they also are hostile to Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Senator Reed of Missouri, both of whom figure in discussions of democratic presidential possibilities.

One of the men active in arranging for the St. Petersburg conference, who declined to permit his name to be used in connection with the prediction, said that a decision might be reached to put in the field a presidential ticket which dry southerners could support if Smith or anyone regarded as wet gets the Houston nomination.

There also were authentic reports that the Florida meeting might seek to "draft" William G. McAdoo either for the nomination to be made at Houston, despite his announcement that he is not a candidate, or to head a movement for the presidency on behalf of dry democrats.

McAdoo who is an avowed dry had the support of many delegations from southern states in his memorable fight with Governor Smith in the 1924 convention, and of late has been challenging the views of the New York executive on the prohibition question.

Dry leaders from Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky will take part in the St. Petersburg meeting, which will be in the hands of the Anti-Saloon league officials in those states.

At today's conference here Governor Smith's name frequently was mentioned as representatives of participating organizations in rapid succession emphasized the necessity of having both the democratic and republican parties declare definitely for prohibition enforcement and nominate known drys for the presidency and vice presidency. For the most part, however, speakers refrained from personalities.

Several hundred men and women attended the sessions, their religious affiliations including the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths.

A wooden leg now reposing in the Natural History Museum in London, England, has a queer history. It was worn by a wounded soldier. It began to irritate him. At last he took it off—and out came a dozen wasps. Analytical-minded experts discovered that eggs, from which the wasps hatched, lay in the wood before it was made into an artificial leg.

NOANK

The dance given in Unity hall by the Fire company recently attracted the largest crowd of the season. Hanpey's Snappy Five orchestra, the boys with plenty of pep from Niantic, gave the dance fans up-to-date dances. Floor Manager Sam Carson announced that he had a surprise for them. This proved to be a prize spot dance. The judges had a spot picked on the floor and when the music stopped as the committed waved the signal, the couple nearest the spot won. Arthur DeSlelzi and Miss Nellie Brooks were the lucky couple and received the prizes. Thirty couples were on the floor enjoying the dance. At intermission the Smoke Eaters' Trio, A. Brocky, bass, William Banks, tenor and Rolin Rathbun, baritone, sang The Little Red Hat That Belongs to Us. When called back by the fans they sang "The Girl in the Back Seat," written by Roy Abate. One bird did not have strength enough to eat, so the kind hostess picked it up and took it into the house, where it was warmed. Soon Mr. Bird was able to get around and went to help his pals out on the bread lunch.

A new fire engine coming from the way of Boston, bound for a small town in Connecticut, got off the course to New London, turning wrong, got down to the village. Several of the firemen looked over the engine with the crowd that gathered to see it. The driver, Sam Terry wanted to know the way to New London. His face was red as a summer beet from the cold wind, there being no wind shield on the fire truck. He was given a cup of Noank coffee to warm him up then waved to the crowd and started off for the town where the engine is to stay.

DANIELSON

CENTRAL VILLAGE WOMAN DROPS DEAD AT CHURCH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 28—This afternoon while she was helping to prepare for a supper at the Methodist Episcopal church in Moosup Mrs. Mary Edith Eyers, 63, wife of William Eyers of Central Village suddenly fell out of the chair in which she was sitting and died almost instantly. Heart disease was the cause of death. Dr. W. W. Adams of Moosup as medical examiner viewed the body and was later taken in charge by F. W. Tillinghast and Sons. Mrs. Eyers was a native of Hilliperton, England, born Aug. 3, 1864, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Matthews. She leaves her husband, who formerly was boss weaver in the Farnsworth Mills at Central Village, a son, Roy, who is employed in Moosup at the plant of the American Woolen company and two daughters, Mrs. Edit hWild and Mrs. William Shelley, both of Central Village.

INJURED WHEN THROWN FROM SPREADING MACHINE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 28—Frank Dubuz of Danielson, who has been employed this winter on W. F. Brown's Shepherd Hill farm near Wauregan, was painfully injured yesterday while he was driving a spreader in a field on the farm. He was tossed off the machine in the rough going and struck on his back, a stump of some kind penetrating his neck to the depth of about one inch. He was treated by Dr. J. L. Gardner of Central Village, who inserted three stitches to close the wound.

Letters are coming back home from operatives who have gone out of Danielson to figure in getting the new plant of the Connecticut Mills company at Albany-Decatur, Ala., on a smooth and efficient basis of operation. Their reactions to life in the sunny south seem to turn largely to the miracle of having summer weather in the winter time.

The majority of the local workers who are now in the southern town never had been out of New England until they went to Alabama a few months ago. Of course, this does not apply to all. It is proving just a wonderful thing to them to be about down there in February much the same as they are here in June. In other ways, life in the south does not hold such an appeal for they, they write. Things are so different in so many different ways. It is not unlikely that they will come north again; in fact, some of them went to Alabama with an understanding that they were to remain only three months.

One of the important matters to come before the March meeting of the Danielson chamber of commerce is that of improving the street lighting conditions in Main street. Considerable has been done along that line within the past few years. Larger lights than were in use have been installed and many electric signs have been added to business places to brighten up the section. However, it is felt that there is still opportunity for better lighting at no great expense. As the central business area is creeping northward, it is to be urged that the new lighting system begin at a point near the public library and be continued down to the bridge over the Assawaga river.

This evening in the vestry of the Methodist Episcopal church the Wesleyan circle gave a Colonial tea party that attracted many. The program and refreshments were planned to represent olden times, and the settings were also arranged to take one, in memory, back through the years.

Putnam's difficulties in deciding as to standpipes for its reserve water supply has interested a great many Danielson people because of the fact that this community gets its water through a gravity system and does not involve the use of any storage tanks on high points. Danielson's supply, always in ample quantities, come from the vicinity of East Killingly, and the reservoirs are in each instance on a higher level than points in Danielson and on the West Side. Flowing through the mains into Danielson in seeking its level, there are no defects in the piping systhere is always good pressure in case tems in the buildings served.

One is a bit puzzled whether to record that one of the students at Killingly high school will be four years old on Wednesday of this week or to state definitely that Wednesday will be her fourth birthday. It so happens that Miss Katherine Cogan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cogan is one of the elect born on a 29th of February, her advent into life being 16 years ago. Figuring birthdays, tomorrow will be her fourth.

Many a householder has remarked, as the winter draws to a close, that although the past four months have been more than ordinarily mild, and only a small amount of snow has come, that fuel used is little less than in winters of greater severity. In many cases the fuel used has been as much to date as during the previous winter to March 1. Here is a peculiar fact, but a true one.

The fact that so many men have been working there the past few days getting out ice recalls the story of a happening, many years ago, relative to a pair of horses attached to a heavy wagon breaking through ice on Alexander's lake and sinking into what some used to believe was a bottomless pit. That undoubtedly was stretching facts considerable, but men familiar with the lake from having fished it time and again assert that there are places where the water is from 80 to 90 feet in depth.

Attempted burglaries reported from Westerly today have again stirred police officers here to special alertness. Danielson is one of the few towns in this section of the state to escape garage or filling station robberies within the last few weeks, and a reason may be that both borough and state police in this community make such attempts more than ordinarily hazardous.

Another of Danielson's oldest business blocks has gone into the market and is to be sold. This is the structure known as the Windham County Savings bank building in Main street between the Dowe and Leavens buildings. It is the property of the Brooklyn Savings bank, which took over the assets of the defunct savings bank more than a decade ago. The building is one of the oldest brick structures in the business section, having been erected more than half a century ago.

Strange things find their way—legitimately—through the mails in these days of such wide use of the parcel post system. This morning's mail brought a package that undoubtedly contained a skunk's pelt. The office force were so certain about that that the package was placed outside for the time being. Under the circumstances, this seemed the only thing to do if they were to do their work with any comfort.

Captain R. L. Ford, recently returned from a sea trip, is at his home on Church street in Brooklyn for a rest.

A few suckers are reported have been taken by boys from the water near where the Assawaga river flows into the Quinebaug at Furnace and Main streets. The appearance of these fish is nearly a month earlier than in the usual season, but old-timers say there will be no real run of the fish until late in March or early April.

This week the Danielson Town team is going to have the Knights of Lithuania team of Hartford for opposition, and it will be the first appearance of the visitors on a basketball court in this town.

Do not forget to make your regular monthly deposit in the savings department of the Windham County National bank on or before March 5th.—Adv.

There being no basketball game scheduled here until Saturday of this week, the fans who are sufficiently enthusiastic followed the Danielson Town team to Taftville tonight to watch the series contest with the Crescents.

At the Goodyear church Sunday morning Rev. Charles A. Downs preached on the subject People With an Impedime tnin Their Religion. Special music for the service included a trombone solo by Joseph Green and singing by a quartet composed of Mrs. Arthur Longbottom, Mrs. Joseph Green, Miss Nancy Whitaker and William Norton.

Wednesday at midnight all motor vehicle operators' licenses expire, and new ones are required for the year beginning March 1.

A power shovel is now at work cutting through an embankment to eliminate a curve where the state highway from Danielson enters Brooklyn Center, near the Hyde place.

Chief A. P. Woodward has purchased 300 feet of new fire hose for replacements in the fire department. This hose is of an especially good quality and will resist pressure up to 400 pounds.

Abel Bernier was at Fall River and had the opportunity of a leisurely inspection of the area swept by the great fire of a few weeks ago.

Henry A. Bellair of Holyoke is visiting for a few days with friends in Danielson, where he formerly was a resident.

Members of the chamber of commerce are to gather for their March meeting Tuesday evening of next week.

Unless March proves particularly turbulent, protected game birds will have come through the most open winter in years in good condition, this fact holding the promise of increased numbers for the hunting season next fall.

The weather holding cold, harvestings of ice continued today, insuring in still further degree against an ice famine here next summer.

Harry Rosoff of Norwich was in Danielson on business today.

This evening pupils of the East Brooklyn school (West Side) presented in the Majestic theater a play entitled The Heir to Mt. Vernon. The play was based on the early life of George Washington.

PUTNAM

HEADQUARTERS CO. WILL START DRILLS NEXT WEEK

(Special to The Record)

PUTNAM, Feb. 28—The Headquarters company of the 43rd division of National guard met in the new state armory on Harris street Monday evening. The company could not drill in the new drill hall Monday, but will resume their regular military drills next Monday evening in their new quarters. This week the company had instruction in pistol care under the direction of the commissioned officers.

The new building is nearly completed and is in excellent shape for a meeting hall, the floors have been polished and waxed. The excellent bathing facilities and the meeting rooms for the enlisted men have met with much appreciation from the members of the company.

A stage has been erected in the main hall so that it will be possible for the company to put their dramatical talent to a test. Captain McGarry has stated that the company will arrange for an opening night soon.

The appearance of lower Main street has been improved by the erection of an addition to the Peloquin block at the corner of Main and Bridge streets. The new addition is built of stucco material and tends to beautify the street where formerly the site was a vacant building lot. The building will be occupied by a local grocery and fruit store.

The directors of the State Trade school have voted to hold their annual open night on April 24. Each year it is the custom for the Trade school to have one night open for the public to go through the building and inspect the work that the boys and girls are doing in the line of a trade they have chosen for a life work. Since the addition to the building has been erected the state has instituted a new department in the school known as masonry. This trade has appealed to a large number of boys from Putnam, Danielson and Norwich. Further developments for the open night will be given out in the near future by Director H. H. Ellis.

The regular weekly card tournament between the Elks and the Masons was held at the Elks club rooms Monday evening. The Masons tried hard to emerge victorious from the contest, so it could be evened somewhat after their long string of defeats. At the end of the play the tournament score was just another victory for the winning Elks. The score being 12 to 8 in their favor. What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

D. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 63

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Paul Whiteman Likes the Toasted Flavor of Luckies—His Favorite Brand

"It was but recently, when I started to act as master of ceremonies with my band at the Paramount Theatre, that I realized how vital perfect voice condition was to a performer. I have always been a consistent smoker and fortunately, Lucky Strikes were my favorite brand. I like their toasted flavor and, best of all, I can smoke as often as I like, without fear of irritating my voice, which is becoming a great asset in my work."

WHAT CHANGE TAKING DOES

When engineers take chances, disregard signals and escape without trouble nothing is ever heard of it. When such is the cause of a wreck it is inevitable that the blame settles back upon the man at the throttle, even though it has cost him his life. It is impossible to overcome the fact that had signals been respected there would have been no accident.

This is brought clearly to attention in the case of the wreck on the Pennsylvania road at Marcus Hook. The train of Pullmans was running extra and endeavoring to make up time. There came the time when it was desirable to switch it to another track in order to permit it to pass a local and signals were set giving warning of this change in tracks.

What the engineer thought will never be known, but it would appear that he thought he might accomplish the change over without reducing speed, although such a transfer is expected to be accompanied by a reduction of the train's speed to 15 miles an hour. There was apparently no change in speed. Possibly he had made such shifts before without going slower and thought he could do it again, but if such were the case he proved just what the warnings were for. Such changes from one track to another call for slower speed than the straight away track and safety in the operation of the trains can be assured only if proper respect is displayed.

There were nearly 100 lives placed in jeopardy by the failure of that engineer to slow down his train. Even if he was late it was far more important that the train should reach its destination than to force it to jump switches by driving it at a wild rate at a dangerous point.

There will come the time when all railroad systems will be equipped with the automatic controls whereby trains will be brought to a halt or reduced speed whether the engineer is disposed to be mindful of the signals. Considering the number of trains and the number of people transported there are not a startling number of accidents, but there are still too many that can and should be prevented through such a simple operation as obeying signals.

RAILROAD OR TRUCKS

From all indications the people of Hope Valley and vicinity have been able to convince the New Haven road that there is business enough to be obtained in that locality to warrant a further attempt to maintain railroad service over the six mile branch from Wood River Junction.

This was a case where the branch line owners, who have been hiring their rolling stock of the New Haven road were practically put out of commission by the rains and high water of some weeks ago. The staggering cost of restoring the roadbed, combined with the fact that the business over the branch line was not exactly a gold mine, made it a toss up whether the road would be abandoned and trucks be depended upon for future transportation service.

The inconvenience to several industries by the loss of the railroad would be considerable. Several villages would be badly affected by it, but for the same reason that the branch line was anxious to be relieved of the responsibility of operating it the New Haven road when appealed to to take it over was not interested.

But there is business from that branch line which feeds the New Haven. The freight to and from the mills depending upon the branch-line road amounts to considerable in the course of the year and the conference with the New Haven has resulted in that road agreeing to restore the roadbed and maintain it for a year, provide a gasoline tractor for the line which will be leased to the branch line for the purpose of determining whether its continuance is advisable.

Here is a case where much community interest can and should be aroused. If the road is worth having, even though it only transports freight, it is worth supporting. If the retention of industries depends upon such freight service the idea of having the towns themselves appropriate certain sums for the maintenance of the road is worth trying out. Upon what is eventually done will apparently depend the future railroad service from Wood River Junction to Hope Valley in southwestern Rhode Island. It is a case of railroad or trucks.

CAPE COD CANAL

It is only a matter of a short time now before the government will take over the control and operation of the Cape Cod canal. This will mean that this waterway, which saves coastal shipping 60 or more miles through narrow channels and by dangerous shoals will soon be thrown open to all users, unless present plans miscarry.

The canal was conceived and constructed for the very purpose that it has been used for, the accommodation and increased safety for coastal shipping. There have been limitations and in order to get any return at all rates have been charged which have not always caused vessels to use it. Nevertheless it means a valuable short cut for any and all who have negotiated Cape Cod in bad weather cannot fail to appreciate its advantages and every mile that it cuts off means just that much reduction in expenses.

Under the control of the government, this waterway should experience even greater use, for if tolls are eliminated all vessels which can make use of it will have no excuse for going elsewhere. That the canal will not accommodate all the vessels that it should is fully realized. In the acquisition of the canal no provision has been made for improvements but such cana be anticipated.

There is an excellent opportunity for deepening and widening the waterway. At present there is a depth of 25 feet, one of the despest artificial waterways in the country, but there is much shipping that cannot use it including warships, while there is need of widening it at points. Under government control such can be expected to come in time through special appropriations for such work.

The canal was constructed at a cost of $13,500,000. The government acquires it for $11,500,000, after a long period of inquiry and by this act insures the continuance of the waterway, for it was never a profitable venture for the owners and the interest on the bonds has not been paid for a term of years. The government buys for the purpose of public service and safety and the canal will be placed under the control of the war department.

WAITING UNTIL 11TH HOUR

Frequently it is pointed out that action of one kind or another ought to be taken in anticipation of future developments, either for the preservation of natural attractions or the prevention of destruction. Sometimes heed is given to such appeals and at other times, for different reasons, they get no attention.

At the present time there is being disclosed in the Yosemite park a situation which shows what is likely to develop in case of inattention or delays. Within the Yosemite National park there are various areas which are privately owned. So long as the owners leave them undisturbed everything is fine. The attractions are just as interesting as if they had been acquired by the government. But when the owners dispose of their property and destruction begins by the removal of timber there is a different and deplorable situation.

Already over 1500 acres of privately owned timber have been cut in the Yosemite park. This cutting hasn't disturbed the groves of giant trees but it operates to detract from the natural beauty of the park and the new situation creates a fire hazard which threatens the big trees.

Those who cut had a right to do so. That acreage might, however have been brought under government control at the same time that it acquired the rest. It wasn't done. The cut over area will be an excesre for a long time, but attention is now being directed to the fact that that area is not the only privately owned property within the park which may receive like treatment. It isn't too late to make some move in regard to these other areas by state or nation, but it should be done before timber is cut instead of bursting into tears afterwards.

ANOTHER LEAGUE JOB

No sooner does the league of nations get through with one problem than it is obliged to tackle another. Just now it is wrestling with the violation of the Trianon treaty by Italy and Hungary by the sending of five carloads of machine guns from the former to the latter. Following the discovery of that shipment Hungary proceeded to demolish the guns and offer them for sale as junk. That was evidence enough that such a transportation of arms should not have been made, but the manner in which the two countries have been inclined to regard the violation lightly is perhaps one of the chief reasons for other nations insisting upon some penalization.

Even though the plan was nipped and the guns have been destroyed, the affair has created a feeling of distrust among certain of the nations and it remains to be seen what pressure they will bring to bear upon the league in further treatment of the matter. The manner in which the countries involved have acted since being caught has not helped the situation. They have treated it in such a light mananer that it would appear that they looked upon the treaty as of practically no importance and not only to be respected if htey feel like it.

It is a case, of course, where if two of the nations involved are going to be allowed to play fast and loose with treaties others are going to acquire the same habit and before long the situation would get where the treaty in question became another scrap of paper. It is an unpleasant situation, to say the least, and it rests with the league to get whatever satisfaction it can out of trying to adjust it while the world looks on to note the results.

EDITORIAL NOTES

THE MATHEMATICS OF LEAP YEAR

"Leap year day, February 29th, is a reminder of man's bungling efforts through thousands of years to frame an accurate calendar," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "He hasn't achieved complete accuracy yet," continues the bulletin, "but he is much closer to properly measuring the passage of the years than his remote ancestors were, or than were the founders of the United State.

"It was twenty years after George Washington was born that the English speaking world changed its calendar from 'Old Style' to the 'New Style' that we use today, making a difference of eleven days. The infant George Washington first saw the light on February 11, 1732; but we celebrate February 22 as his natal day, since that conforms to the corrected date.

Mohammedan New Year Spins Through Seasons

"To see how far we have progressed in time measurement, one has only to consider the existing calendar of the Mohammedan world. In Christendom's calendar our New Year Day now stays pretty firmly fixed in the winter time. Not so the Mohammedan New Year. It spins merrily around the calendar, running the gamut of the seasons every 33 years.

"The first calendar was inevitably a moon calendar; for the changes in the phases of the moon marked the most obvious time cycle after the short one of day and night. This unmodified moon calendar is that used by Mohammedans today. Because twelve of these lunar months, taken as a year, do not equal the length of a true sun year by about eleven days, the calendar gains a year in the number recorded in approximately 33 years.

Our Arbitrary Months Originated in Chaldea

"The ancient Chaldeans started with the lunar year, but discovered the real years as measured by the revolution of the earth around the sun. Seeing the error when moon years were used, they took the first steps toward bringing the months and days and years into some sort of harmony. They abandoned the actual moon months and created the arbitrary months such as we have today. These were twelve months of 30 days each to the year, making a 360-day years. This, they considered to be five days short. The error was allowed to accumulate for six years and then an extra 30 day month was inserted to take care of the 30 accumulated days. Thus they let a given date slip gradually backward from its moorings for six years, and then suddenly brought it forward to its supposed proper position.

"As a matter of fact, the earth travels completely around the sun in 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, 45.51 seconds; so under the Chaldean method the odd hours, minutes, and seconds were ignored. But they could not be abolished. They piled up to plague the Magi, the priestly keepers of the calendar; and gradually, recurring events of the year, like the solstices and the equinoxes, slipped away from their proper dates.

Months Now Misnamed.

"The early Romans had first 10, then 12 arbitrary months, the latter alternately 29 and 30 days long. From the original Roman months we get the names 'September,' 'October,' 'November,' and 'December.' They mean 'seventh,' 'eighth,' 'ninth' and 'tenth' although they now relate to our ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth months.

"The twelve months of 29 and 30 days gave the Romans a year 354 days long. Then superstition took a hand: they added one day for luck. The year was still more than ten days short; so every second year an additional month was added, of a length decreed by the priests or pontiffs. And there is where graft entered into the making of the calendar. Days would be dropped out to favor some influential creditor; or months would be lengthened to increase some office holder's tenure.

Leap Year Appears

"In 46 B. C. Julius Caesar, with the help of astronomers, gave the calendar its greatest reform up to that time, by the creation of leap year and leap year day. He gave 31 days to each of six of the months and 30 days to the alternate months, except February, which ordinarily received 29. This gave a year of 365 days. He figured that there were 6 hours left, and that by adding an extra day—which we have come to know as leap year day—he would keep the days exactly in accord with the year.

"This approximation of Caesar's was the closest ever made up to that time; but the six hours which he took as the excess was just 11 minutes and 14.49 seconds too much to fit the facts. The year, which theretofore had been figured too short; became for the first time too long. The old year lasted a little longer than it should and so lapped over a bit into territory that should have been recognized as that of the new year. Astronomical events therefore, like the winter solstice, marked supposedly by Christmas, fell on earlier and earlier dates. The latter was separated more and more from Christmas Day. Similarly New Year's Day moved farther into winter and toward Spring.

"By 1582 the accumulated error amounted to 14 days. But it was only ten days in error from the situation at the time of the meeting of the church council of Nice in 325 A. D. So when Pope Gregory turned the calendar back in 1582 he turned it not to the position in Caesar's time but to that in 325 A. D. As a result Christmas still falls four days after the winter solstice instead of at the same time as it should.

Pope Gregory made a change in the leap year arrangements so that the calendar would not again creep ahead approximately 11 1-4 minutes a year. He arranged to have three leap year days omitted every 400 years. This was a much more nearly accurate calendar than that of Caesar, but still there is a slight discrepancy amounting to nearly three hours in 400 years or slightly more than 44 minutes per century. About 3261 years after the Gregorian correction the calendar, in spite of the usual inserted and omitted leap years, will be in error by one day, so that an extra leap year day will have to be omitted. It is probable, therefore, that the leap year 4444, although supposedly a leap year, will have only 28 days in its February if February and the present calendar survive that long.

"The English expression, 'leap year,' is rather an indirect one. It refers to the fact that after February 29th a given date 'leaps over' an extra day. Thus March 1, 1926, fell on Monday and March 1, 1927 on Tuesday; but March 1, 1928 will 'leap over' to Thursday. In the languages derived from the Latin, and in scientific circles in English, leap year is known by a variant of the old Roman derived term, 'bissextile year.' The extra day inserted by Julius Caesar was placed between the 24th and the 28th of March, the latter known as sexto calendas. The extra day was therefore known as bis-sexto calendas. One of the most picturesque expressions for leap year occurs in Swedish—'Skottar.' It means literally, 'sprout' or 'shoot' year, and carries the idea that an extra day has sprouted on the year as a green shoot springs from a tree trunk."

Fellowship of Prayer

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

By Rev. Jay T. Stocking, D. D., Federal Council of Churches in America — Copyright 1928.

"The Spirit of Thanksgiving"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits" (Psalm 103:2).

Read: Psalm 103:1-11.

MEDITATION: The spirit of thanksgiving is part of the religion of healthy-mindedness. One of the greatest causes of unrest and low spiritual vitality is the desire for things that we do not possess. The longing to keep up with others or to surpass them is a part of the spirit of our day. It is responsible for much inner and outer breakdown. One way to cast out this evil spirit is through a grateful review of all our blessings. The spirit of thanksgiving magnifies what we have and minimizes what we lack. No person who thankfully reflects on what he has can ever become a victim of self-pity. Dr. Lyman Abbott once wrote that in hours of insomnia he used to resort to counting his blessings. Long before he reached the end he fell asleep.

PRAYER: Almighty God, our Father, from whom cometh every good and perfect gift, we recall Thy loving kindness and tender mercies, which have been ever of old. We lift up our hearts in thanksgiving for the wealth of Thy gifts. "What shall we render unto the Lord for all his benefits?" Amen.

INCOME TAX TIPS

Losses arising from "fires, storms, shipwreck or other casualty, or from theft," are deductible and need not be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. If his home or automobile is destroyed by fire, or his summer bungalow damaged by storm, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained. The term "other casualty," within the meaning of the statute, is one arising through the physical force of nature—for example, a flood or frost.

Loss of property by theft of burglary is an allowable deduction, and need not be incurred in trade or business. Hence the loss sustained by the theft of jewelry or an automobile used for pleasure or convenience is deductible. Should circumstances attending a loss of jewelry leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen, misplaced or lost from his person, a claim for loss would not be allowed. It must be established that the jewelry was stolen.

A loss for embezzlement is deductible for the year in which sustained.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Woman's Sphere

Mr. Editor: In the account of creation given in Genesis 7:2 we read, "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul.. . . . And the Lord God said 'It is not good that man should be alone; I will make him a help mate for him.' . . . . And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept; and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh thereof. And the rib which the Lord God had taken from man made he a woman, and brought her unto the man. And Adam said, this is now bone of my bones and flesh of my flesh; she shall be called woman, because she was taken out of man."

In first Timothy 2:11 Paul says, "Let the woman learn in silence with all subjection. But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man but to be in silence. For Adam was first formed; then Eve. And Adam was not deceived but the woman being deceived was in the transgression."

YOUR HEALTH

Diabetes

By Elmer Hess, M. D., Erie Pa.
Member Gorgas Memorial

Since the discovery of insulin by Dr. Banting, the problem of the diabetic patient has been greatly simplified. However, a warning is necessary to those who are using insulin. This drug should be administered only under the supervision of a competent medical advisor, preferably one who has made some special study of this condition and who thoroughly understands the nature of the disease.

Diabetes, sugar diabetes or the sweet sickness, as it is ordinarily called, usually creates a voracious appetite and thirst, accompanied by the passing of great quantities of irritating urine. There is, as a rule, a rapid loss of weight; there may be various kinds of skin eruptions; there may be dizziness and headaches, and as the disease progresses the patient loses weight more rapidly, becomes more hungry and thirsty, grows weaker and weaker until finally he becomes mentally stupid and goes to sleep. This terminal condition is technically called diabetic coma.

With insulin, many of these patients can still be aroused from their coma, and the progress of the disease can often be stopped and the disease controlled. Do not forget, I do not say cured. Once a diabetic, in the majority of cases, always a diabetic.

I have been asked by patients who have no symptoms but whose urine is found to contain sugar if they have diabetes. If there is sugar in the urine, the most likely cause for that sugar is diabetes. There is, however, a condition in the kidneys which the scientific physician recognizes as a low threshold kidney and this type of kidney will, from time to time, spill over sugar from the blood. This patient will have no other symptom as a rule. Then I am asked how you can tell whether sugar in the urine is true diabetes and serious, or not diabetes and not serious. If a physician finds sugar in the urine, he is in duty bound to have the blood examined for sugar. If sugar is found in the urine and a normal quantity of sugar is found in the blood, obviously there is no diabetes but if sugar is found in the urine and the quantity of sugar found in the blood is above normal physiological limits, there is no argument, the patient is diabetic and needs treatment, care, and supervision. It is more important to make a complete blood sugar test on a patient than it is to do a sugar test on the urine, because many diabetics will have high blood sugar and be in grave danger and sugar will only appear at irregular intervals in the urine.

A complete sugar test is a very simple one to make, requires only a few drops of blood taken from a vein in the arm and in a few hours, at the most, a competent laboratory can present your physician with a report. This test has become so important that in a great many hospitals it is a routine test on all patients who are admitted.

The important thing to do, therefore, if you are at all suspicious of your condition, is to have a complete blood sugar test made. If sugar is found in your urine, it is imperative that this test be done and then, after the diagnosis has been made, it is more imperative for you to place your entire medical life in the hands of a competent physician and then to follow his advice as to diet and treatment to the letter.

Stories That Recall Others

Even Mother Laughed

The car was crowded when a couple entered with their five-year-old son and the father was forced to sit across the aisle from the mother and boy.

The boy was gazing out of the window when the car made a stop. Turning to his father he yelled, "oh, daddy, there goes a couple of red-hot mammas."

And even mother laughed.

In the Fast Wagon

Mrs. K. frequently takes her daughter to school in the family sedan. On the way back she frequently invited other children to ride with her who are going her way.

The other day she picked up a little chap about seven years old. When she let him out some of the children told him he had ridden in the policeman's car. His eyes grew big and he began to tremble. "Oh, don't tell the teacher they brought me to school in the police wagon," he begged, "or my mother, either."

Pointers For Parents

Adolescence is an age of extremes, of brilliant hopes and black despairs. Part of the boy is eager to live his own life, to be a man, to see the world; part of him longs to remain safe in the known protection of home and childhood. These two emotions if he is not sympathetically spurred on, and guided and guarded, drive him this way and that until finally he finds himself in a vague emotional haze in which he can't think clearly about anything. He plunges desperately into philosophy, or science, or pleasure.

A baby's education begins through his play. His mother is laying the foundation for a sound, smoothly working mind when she implants in her child the idea of doing one thing at a time and doing it wholeheartedly.

The young child is "bad" not because he takes delight in being harmful, but because he is not getting the freedom necessary for creative activities, or because he is not physically strong and well, or because he leads a life that seems hopelessly dull to him, or for some other cause which we have the power to correct or modify to some extent.

Mothers whose children refuse spinach or carrots should ask themselves: "Does your product appeal to the eye and to the taste of your customer?" If it does, and he still refuses, look over your sales force. Are both of you parents active, popular salesmen who use your own products?

Punishing a child for being selfish will not make him unselfish. You can perhaps by punishment make a boy give his sister half of all the candy he gets when you are there to see that he does it, but your threats of punishment cannot make him feel generous toward his sister. In fact, if he has to be punished before he will give the candy, this will almost surely keep him from feeling generous. So your punishment prevents his practicing the very habit you wish him to ubild. In such cases punishment does more more harm than good.

Children need joy. Growing up should not be a burden. Learning should be without tears. It is really important for boys and girls to have a great deal of fun and foolishness and laughter in their every day life.—Children.

UNION MEN HAVE RETURNED TO WORK AT SAMUEL HUNTINGTON SCHOOL

The union men, called off Monday morning by Robert McNeely, business agent of the Norwich Building Trades, returned to their work at the Samuel Huntington school building Tuesday morning. The controversy over the painting or bronzing of the radiators being installed at the new building by Harold Dahl, the heating contractor, was amicably settled at a meeting of the officials of the Central Labor union Monday evening. Mr. McNeely notified City Engineer Shepherd B. Palmer Monday night, after the meeting, that the labor trouble had been adjusted and that the men could go back to work Tuesday morning. Just what agreement was reached by the union men could not be definitely learned, but it is understood that Mr. Dahl is to discontinue the bronzing of the radiators.

The town school board, through City Engineer Palmer, on Tuesday morning, authorized Mr. Dahl to proceed with the heating contract and City Engineer Palmer also notified Patrick F. Sweeney, the general contractor, that the construction work could proceed, and the men returned to work. Mr. Sweeney said Tuesday night that he did not know just what agreement the union officials had reached in regard to the controversy. He stated that Mr. Palmer had notified his office Tuesday morning that the men could go back to work on the construction of the building.

Mr. McNeely said Tuesday evening that the union men had reached an agreement whereby the construction work was to proceed. He declined to authorize any official statement on the terms of the agreement. He did say, however, that the union officials had authorized the men to return to work.

City Engineer Palmer said Tuesday evening that he did not know just what were the terms of the agreement reached by the union. Secretary Thomas J. Kelly of the school board said that, as far as the school board was concerned, the matter had been left in the hands of Chairman Walter F. Lester of the board and City Engineer Palmer.

Mr. Dahl, the heating contractor, could not be reached by telephone, as he was out of town. The labor trouble arose over the bronzing of the radiators installed in the school building, by Mr. Dahl. He was using an air gun to paint the radiators and the union officials, claiming that the use of the air gun for painting, by union men, was prohibited by the painters' union on grounds that it was unhealthful, and that Mr Dahl could not paint the radiators, as he is operating a union plumbing shop, through Mr. McNeely, called all union men off the construction job Monday morning.

A very pleasant evening was spent playing whist and games, in which prizes were won by several of the girls, after which refreshments were served. A number of vocal and piano selections were rendered by those present and these were also greatly enjoyed, disclosing unknown talent possessed by the entertainers.

Miss Brock is leaving the employ of the Plaut-Cadden company this week to enter St. Francis hospital training school for nurses in Hartford. She will leave with the best wishes of all her associates, who, with her many other friends, wish her success in her chosen vocation.

COURT IN BERSIG CASE IS HELD IN HOSPITAL

In the narrow confines of a drab room on the third floor of the St. Francis hospital at Hartford, Judge Nathar A. Schaltz convened the Hartford police court Tuesday morning, to hear charges presented against Stephen Hoppe, alias George F. Bersig, who was shot by a Hartford policeman and is suspected of getting over $250 from the safe of the Palace theater in this city. The prosecutor wished to be able to issue a mittimus and have the prisoner removed to the City hospital where, it was felt, his chances of escape would be considerably diminished.

The court was adjourned at 11:30 and at noon the police ambulance was at the St. Francis ready to remove Hoppe to the City hospital. The case was continued to March 16 under bonds of $25,000.

Hoppe was shot by Policeman Daniel Hurley the morning of February 20 when he attempted to escape arrest. He is charged with having burglars' tools in his possession, but the police have further information indicating that the man is wanted in Vermont and Maine for escaping from prisons in those states; that he is suspected of the murder of a policeman in Quincy, Mass., as well as burglary in Willimantic, Norwich, East Hartford and other Connecticut towns.

Judge Schatz, who presided at the regular police court this morning, declared a recess at 10:20 and ordered that court be re-convened in Hoppe's room at the hospital.

After Clerk Breslin had read the charge Judge Schatz stated that the purpose of convening the court was to permit the prosecutor to ask for a continuance in the case. The judge remarked that it was unique in Connecticut court history to hold a session at the bedside of the accused, saying he did not recall ever having heard of such procedure.

Prosecutor Carlson explained to the court the desirability of having Hoppe presented so that the case could be continued and then, upon proper medical advice, the man removed to a place where he would be less likely to escape. The prosecutor pointed out to the court that the police have information linking the man with several previous crimes, and that the hospital authorities desire his removal to other quarters.

Defense Opposed

Attorney Covello stated that the court had no right to come into Hoppe's room at the hospital and make a disposition of the case and that in his opinion the police are adequately equipped to guard against the prisoner's escape.

Judge Schatz assured Mr. Covello that the court would be human in its treatment of the accused and that certainly he would not be moved without proper permission from his attending physician. As to the question of Mr. Covello that the court had no authority to convene in the hospital, Judge Schatz declared that his jurisdiction includes the city of Hartford.

Mr. Covello maintained that the prosecution had not given defense counsel proper notification of the intention to hold the court in the hospital and that it was unfair to the accused to present him. The court declared that no evidence was being taken in the case and that the session was merely for the purpose of securing an adjournment, which could not be done until the accused had been formally presented.

Throughout the proceedings Hoppe was silent. He glanced about the room, first fixing his attention on one occupant and then on another. Judge Schatz occupied a chair near the head of the bed while Mr. Carlson and Mr. Covello stood close by the foot and presented their cases. When attorneys were on the verge of lengthy debate the judge cut the arguments short, saying there was no necessity in tiring the man as long as the purpose of the session was clearly understood.

CATHOLIC WOMAN'S CLUB HAS MUCH WORK FOR NEEDY

Cold weather has created new demands on the charity of the Catholic Woman's club, the members of which work for the needy in St. Patrick's parish. Tuesday, the president, Mrs. Thomas J. McVeigh, issued a call for all members to join with her, not only in endeavoring to secure clothing of every description and to suit persons of all ages, but to be present at the February meeting of the club, from 2 to 6, Thursday, at the rooms of the Ladies of Columbus. Seventy blouses must be made and there is much altering of clothing to be done. The first Thursday of each month the club meets at the Broadway rooms; but every Thursday during Lent the members gather to sew in the assembly room of St. Patrick's school, where there are four sewing machines, two of which have been given to Mrs. McVeigh this winter to aid in the club's charity work.

COLLAR-BONE BROKEN IN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

Mike Caponi of Groton suffered a broken collar-bone Tuesday night about 9 o'clock when his Nash coupe was hit by another machine and turned over on the trolley track at a point south of the Uncasville switch. The operator of the other car, which was reported to be owned in this city, drove away after the crash and was said to have been caught on Mohegan hill and turned over to the state police. Late Tuesday night it was reported from the Groton barracks that they had not yet received report of any arrest made on the Montville road.

The Caponi car was badly smashed. Dr. John J. Donohue of Montville attended the injured man, who later went to the hospital.

CONCLUDES SERMON SERIES ON UNIVERSALIST BELIEFS

Concluding his series of sermons upon "The Five Points of Universalism Explained," Rev. A. N. Foster spoke Sunday morning at the Church of the Good Shepherd upon "What do Universalists Believe About Destiny." He used the following texts: "Isaiah 55:11: So shall my word be that goeth out of my mouth, it shall not return unto me void but it shall prosper and accomplish that which I please," and Luke 2:10: I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people.

He spoke in part as follows:

"The years of a generation have passed since John Fiske—not without eminence as a scientist—declared, 'if we are to think logically of the beginnings of things we must postulate God as the all sufficient Cause; and if we are to think logically of the outcome of things in the future we must postulate man's immortality. We can avoid such conclusions only by arbitrarily limiting the range of our thought. More than three score years and ten have passed since Tennyson—with the clear vision that comes from deep grief, wrote the words—'that nothing walks with aimless feet; that not one life shall be destroyed or cast as rubbish to the void when God hath made the pile complete.' Few thoughtful men would now wish these words forgotten; indeed, some would insist that the above words represent the advancing thought of the idealism and efficiency and fraternity of the great 19th century. The background whence the words came was one of darkness and oppression and cruelty—one of great tribulation. The Universalist had a worthy part in the protest and the rebuke of a great system of doctrinal thought whose oppression had darkened humanity's world for centuries.

"Today, a considerable number of people who have their share of modern prosperity express emphatic concern over the presumed dangers of certain economic theories taught by the 'Reds' as dangerous to the state. Yet such teaching is very fragmentary and spasmodic when compared to the systematic Calvinism which has shadowed the centuries and has expressed the authority of the educated classes. Its influence has determined the policy of the state; the authority of the church and the sanctity of the home; and it has presumed to speak the final and absolute word of God to man. And yet it is Calvinism which has called good evil and denied freedom to the growing life of man. Its cruel misrepresentations of God and man have caused untold suffering and agony of mind and heart to men of earnest thought and to women of contrite devotion.

"It was bad enough to lose the simplicity of the early teaching of Jesus; and to witness the absorbing contact with Greek and Roman and pagan elements which with the Pauline transformation, removed the Christian ideal and teaching so far from the life of Galilee. It was worse to witness the medieval developments of these factors as they were applied to the subject of death. Hitherto, on the part of Gentile and pagan there had been no thought of anguish and suffering and oppression and cruelty. Medieval Christianity made death a moral judgment and extended the power and authority of the church into the realms of the hereafter. The Galilean peasant prophet was crudely transformed into a stern and majestic and dramatic judge on high whose very word committed persons to everlasting bliss or to endless wrath. The emphasis in teaching was turned from the social problems of this world to sphere of the great beyond. And the judgment throne between life and death became the dramatic center of sustained and tense interest. In the thought of Christendom it is associated with fear and shrinking; terror and agony on the part of the subjects, and dogmatic authority and remorseless purpose on the part of the judge. The doctrine of endless punishment is an integral part of the Calvinism whose influence has shadowed the centuries. We do not realize the awfulness of this doctrine.

"The moral indictment against Calvinism is five-fold; it teaches infinite punishment for finite offense and that is unjust; it degrades human nature as inherently vicious and guilty; it brutalizes God by making Him a prison keeper and a torturer; it is actuated by motives of mingled fear and selfishness; the punishment is not remediable at all and so lacks the appeal or opportunity for repentence.

"In testimony, Henry Ward Beecher once declared—'If the great truth of evolution led to unbelief, it could not be so bad as that impious and malignant representation of God and His government which underlies all medieval and most of modern theology.' In the poem, 'Despair,' Tennyson makes the heart man on the shore call out in bitter grief and protest—'Infinite wickedness, rather, that made us; foreknew us; foredoomed us and does what he will with his own! The god of love and of hell together, they cannot be thought. If there be such a god, may the great God curse him and bring him to naught!' Verily, the hand of the God of Calvinism is shortened that it cannot save! If the most of mankind are doomed to endless suffering, what a perversion of terms it is to say that the ministry of religion brings glad tidings of great joy to all people!

"The early Universalists justified their belief in universal salvation by a reference to Scriptural texts; the spirit of the 55th chapter of the prophecy of Isaiah and the purpose of the New Testament parables of the prodigal son and the lost sheep and the doctrinal teaching of Paul 'that as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive' were all frequently used to illustrate inevitable and complete salvation in accordance with the very nature of God. That Scriptural argument found later reinforcement from the researches of modern science which tells of an intelligence that through skilled adaptation of means to ends, pervades and controls all nature. And further, modern sociology—in its investigations for truth and in its persistent and painstaking and systematic efforts to seek and to save the lost—exemplifies the nobler traits of character; through nature, we come to nature's God and through humanitarian service, we come to worship a God of compassion and love.

"To give the light of knowledge where the darkness of ignorance has prevailed; to change fear and timidity to conviction and aspiring faith; to save from worldliness into the ever enlarging life of the Divine constitute strong and lasting incentives to missionary effort. Such satisfaction is more than personal or local, for it blends our strivings with the work of the Eternal that maketh for righteousness. Following the guidance of the North Star; pulling with the tide and working with nature, our work assumes the grandeur and partakes of the assurance of those who are laborers together with God."

FRANK EDWARD JOHNSON WRITES FROM HAVANA

During Tuesday, letters reached Norwich and New London friends from Havana, coming from Frank Edward Johnson, who gave details of the sudden death of his mother, Mrs. Alice Thomas Johnson, of Norwich. Mrs. Johnson expired almost without warning on the train at Miami, while accompanying her son to Havana. Mr. Johnson states that his mother's body is in a temporary burial place at Miami, until spring, when it is his intention to have it brought to Norwich. Here there will be funeral services, the burial to be in Hartford.

There is peculiar sadness attached to Mrs. Johnson's sudden passing, as her son had had a pleasant home prepared for her at Marianao, in the Province of Habana, Cuba.

DANIELSON TOWNERS EVEN SERIES WITH TAFTVILLE, WINNING 26 TO 22

Going into the second half of the game with a vengeance and with an offensive that could not be overcome Danielson took a fast and exciting game, 26 to 22 from the Taftville Crescents last night in Parish hall to even the feud between them.

The Danielson boys came down with a reinforced team, plenty of rooters and a determination to wipe out their defeat of last week. In that last half they did just that, thanks to the wonderful sharp-shooting of Peloquin Danielson had their work cut out for them to stop the opposition and realize a win. The Crescents were in there every minute and playing for all they were worth. In fact the playing was so hard that both teams were guilty of quite a few fouls which only worked the fans ardor to a higher pitch.

Dessinger, playing left guard for the Crescents, tried for a field goal from the center of the floor hoping to start the scoring but he missed. Brown, the Crescent aggressive forward, however came through with a foul goal a few minutes later to take the lead which was held by the Taftville team for the rest of the first half. Then the duet of Harris and Normandin got to work. Harris on his jump from center tapped the ball to Normandin and after some superb passing, the ball was returned to Normandin, who made one of his famous back hand tosses for a basket. In the next two minutes of play Normandin made another pretty basket by the same route followed by another field goal by Harris. Malcolm made Danielson's first point by a foul and came through shortly after with another, and then one by Feldman on the next day Peloquin seemed to have the Danielson end of the floor to himself and taking the ball on a pass dropped it in for Danielson's first field goal.

Danielson tried hard to catch up and displayed some nice floor work and passing. The Taftville boys would not be denied and continued to keep the lead and the first half ended, after Dessinger shot two fouls one personal and one technical, with the score 13 to 10 in favor of the Crescents.

TRAINING CAMPS HUM ONCE MORE WITH ACTION

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 28—(AP)—Members of the big Landis outdoor carnival inhaled fresh Dixie air today after idling yesterday because of rain that descended in most of the ten Florida camps.

Sunshine spurred the conditioning activity to make up for lost time, in many cases two workouts being indulged in. It also brought renewed efforts of managers and owners in rounding up veterans for the real training grind that starts Thursday.

Sammy Hale, third baseman, notified Connie Mack that he was en route to Fort Myers, Fla., to begin work with the Athletics. Mack also let it be known that he probably would discuss terms with Ty Cobb within the next 24 hours.

The Washington Senators at Tampa received word that Sam Jones, pitcher, is leaving Ohio immediately for training. Ruel, Senator catcher, also is due in a day or so.

At Avon Park, the St. Louis Cardinals were awaiting Jim Bottomley, first baseman, who yesterday telegraphed his agreement to terms, to augment the squad of 38 already on the ground.

The Yankees had Chapman, an Alabama semi-pro, on second today. The Boston Braves expected to start Yannigan-regular games at St. Petersburg tomorrow.

Routine drills for batterymen constituted the work of the Cleveland Indians today at New Orleans. Buckeye, pitcher, and Shanks, catcher, both were confined to bed with colds.

NAUGATUCK WINS BUT ROXBURY LOSES AT PENN

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28. —(AP)—York Collegiate institute, of York, Pa., and Perkiomen Preparatory school, Pennsburg, Pa., today advanced to the semi-final round of the prep school division in the University of Pennsylvania interscholastic basketball tournament.

Perkiomen had but little trouble in turning back Roxbury school, Cheshire, Conn., claimant of the New England Prep school crown, 24 to 14. William Umholtz, Perkiomen guard was the individual star, with four goals to his credit.

Winners in the high school class included Holyoke, Mass.; and Naugatuck, Conn. Holyoke defeated Radnor, (Pa.) high 45 to 23 and Naugatuck eliminated St. Mary's Wilkesbarre, Pa., 36 to 17.

Hunter Trims Mexican

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Francis T. Hunter, American ranking number 2 player, successfully met international competition in the South Florida tennis championships today when he swept aside Victor Ponce De Leon, of Yucatan Mexican Davis cup player, in straight sets, 5-2, 6-0.

BASEBALL NEWS

Cubs and Pirates

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Because the Chicago Cubs were invited to attend the George Godfrey-Paulino Uscudun heavyweight fight at Los Angeles tonight, the activities in their spring training camp were cut down to one workout today. However, the morning session was a long one, featured by considerable batting, fielding and base running.

A number of the late arrivals in camp showed well in the morning workout. Woody English, youthful shortstop, made some sensational stops of grass-cutting bounders. In batting Cuyler, Hulgulre and McMillan, who are making their first appearance with the Cubs, tried to put the ball outside the fence. Two other outfielders, Stephenson and Wilson, succeeded in doing so.

Manager Joe McCarthy announced that he would put the rookies and regulars through a regulation game Saturday in order that they might be better prepared for an exhibition game with U. S. S. Tennessee Nine.

At Paso Robles, in the Pittsburgh Pirate camp, a chill in the air, due to the heavy overcast sky, induced Manager Donie Bush to call off the morning practice, but there was an afternoon workout.

Ruth's 48 Bats Arrive

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—Babe Ruth has a bat for nearly every homer he hopes to get this season.

A cargo of 48 choice warclubs have been delivered at the Yankees' camp in St. Petersburg for the Bambino to try out in preparation for his campaign to beat his home run record of last year, 60.

The bats average around 48 ounces each, six less than the size the Babe used to wield, the color schemes are dark green. The shade of his favorite "Betsy" last year, and the usual gold.

White Sox

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Recruit hurlers and infielders comprised the majority of the ten "active" members of the White Sox that left today for Shreveport, La., where the training season will open tomorrow.

Headlining the initial section was Bill Cissell, little minor league shortstop purchased for $123,000, from Portland, Ore. Others are scheduled to report at Shreveport for the opening workout tomorrow afternoon. The remainder of the squad, mostly veterans, will report March six.

Yale Squad Cut to 45

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 28—(AP)—Coach "Joe" Wood swung the axe on his unwieldy Yale varsity baseball squad today and reduced the total number of candidates from 60 to about 45. To date, the practice cage has been over-crowded and Wood intends to boil the squad down to the desirable material just as quickly as he can.

Braves Get Zach Taylor

HOT SPRINGS, Arizona, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Zach Taylor, veteran catcher of the New York Giants, has been released to the Boston Braves for the waiver price of $4,000, Manager John J. McGraw, announced today before the Giants departed for their spring training camp at Augusta, Ga.

TAFTVILLE TO HAVE AMATEUR BOXING TEAM

Al Beauregard, local bantamweight, will coach a Taftville boxing team to be formed shortly and which will have its base of operations at the Army-Navy gym at Taftville. Beauregard is to be assisted by his brother, Armand, and Leo Flynn, and this trio should be able to put forth a strong contender for honors at local shows.

Beauregard should be able to give local simon-pures plenty of ring knowledge as he is a veteran of over 50 pro battles. He is now under the management of Denny McMahon of Meriden who brought Louis "Kid" Kaplan to the featherweight championship of the world. Al has had plenty of experienced teachers, including Harry Kelly, who trained Jack Sharkey, Billy Carney, former welterweight champion of New London and Chick Suggs, bantam and featherweight contender.

The Army and Navy club has one of the best equipped gyms in these parts. The promoters have the names of several good boys and any boy wishing to join may get in touch with them any evening between 7 and 8 at the Army and Navy club. This, absolutely free, and done only for the sport of the game.

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS HAVE SEVERAL BIG ATTRACTIONS

The Taftville Crescents intend to give local fans some real basketball for the remaining weeks of the season, as the opponents booked would tend to show. Next week the St. Joseph's team from Webster comes back for a second game, while the following week the strong Millville Town team invades Parish hall. The Webster club lost by a matter of a few points to the locals about a month ago, while Millville, to date, holds two decisions over Danielson and one over Plainfield in four starts in eastern Connecticut. The Pros beat this team in their fourth showing hereabouts.

AL E. SPINOSA WINS FLA. WEST OPEN WITH 282

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Al Espinosa, of Chicago, won the Florida West Coast open golf tournament here today with a score of 282 for the 72 holes of play.

MOORE SIGNS BILL FOR DECISION 15-ROUND BOUTS

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 28—(AP)—Governor Moore today signed the Altman bill permitting championship boxing bouts to a decision in New Jersey and increasing their limit from 12 rounds to 15 rounds at the discretion of the state athletic commissioner.

GODFREDY WINS OVER PAULINO

WRIGLEY FIELD, Los Angeles, Feb. 28—(AP)—George Godfrey, 336 1-2 pound Negro heavyweight, took a ten-round decision from Paolino Uscudun, Spaniard, 192 1-2, here tonight.

Paolino forced the fighting from gong to gong but Referee George Blake of Los Angeles figured that the terrific blows of the mammoth Godfrey outweighed the rushing body attack of the Basque.

Godfrey was slow to start and seemed content to try and toy with his man for the first three rounds, but Paolino's rushing flailing blows stung his opponent into action.

AGGIES LINE UP AGAINST SPRINGFIELD FIVE TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 28— Connecticut Aggies will close their home basketball season here tomorrow night when the crack Springfield college quintet comes to Storrs for the annual game between the two institutions. The contest will get under way at 8 p. m. sharp.

'BOUT SPORTS

Eastern Connecticut gets two real basketball attractions tonight as a swan song of a waning season. At Plainfield the Renaissance Big Five of Harlem is furnishing the opposition for the Pros in what is regarded as one of the greatest attractions so far this season. At Storrs, the Aggies are battling Springfield college. Springfield comes to the Aggies with 16 straight wins and is now ready to claim hte New England title. A defeat tonight from the Storrsmen will hurt, probably seriously hamper their claim for this title, and the Aggies now on a rampant winning tear may turn the trick. Three of eastern Connecticut's high schools journey to Storrs tonight, Windham, the Academy and Killingly.

It isn't very often that you get three major sporting events crowded into one week as is the case in the three days starting last night. The Godfrey-Paulino bout, the Hahn-Conger-Peltzer race tonight and the Delaney-Heeney fight tomorrow night will give sports fans their fill for a bit.

AL MELLO SLATED FOR SUSPENSION IN MASS.

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Al Mello, New England welterweight boxing champion, presumably is under suspension in Massachusetts rings today pending an investigation by the state boxing commission of the fight he lost here last night on a foul to Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat.

Just when the commission will act remained locked in the brain of Gene Buckley, the chairman, who declined to be drawn into any discussion of the bout or decision pending a formal meeting of his board. Buckley did, however, indirectly admit that Mello was in bad grace by saying:

"The referee of that bout was told to tell both boxers—and he did tell them—that if either one committed a foul, he would be suspended. The commission has not yet met to discuss the fight and I don't know of any call for a meeting having been issued yet. That's all I've got to say and I don't want to be drawn into any controversy over the matter."

The commissioner's intimation that only the boxer guilty of a foul must face the music effectually spiked rumors that Hudkins would be suspended and required to forfeit his $20,000 purse.

FITCHVILLE ROVERS LOSE TO MYSTERY FIVE

The Fitchville Rovers lost their first game on the home floor Tuesday night bowing to the Norwich Mystery Five by 30 to 29. BASKETBALL BRIEFS

Plainfield faces its chance to add to its rep tonight in tackling the Renaissance outfit.

The C. F. C., although losing to the Hartford Baptists Monday night, still have a most formidable record, with 14 wins and three defeats.

The Norwich Eagles would like to challenge the Bishop school five for a game to be played under professional rules.

Conn. Aggies furnishes a sort of counter attraction to the Plainfield-Renaissance game tonight in meeting strong Springfield college.

The Academy and Windham squads, who incidentally meet Friday in the second game of their annual series, tonight will be at Storrs for this game.

PROS FACE RENAISSANCE TONIGHT

Plainfield	Renaissance
Brunso, lf	lf, Ricks
Dissenger, rf	rf, Field
Slavinitsky, c	c, Saunders
Madden, lg	lg, Jenkins
Bernot, rg	rg, Mayers

The Plainfield Pros tonight face the Renaissance Big Five from New York city at the Plainfield Community house for the second time, in what promises to be one of the best games of the season for this section.

This team comes with a wonderful reputation, having shown all over the east with remarkable success. It is a collection of nationally known court players, who also have made themselves famous in other lines of athletic endeavor.

In Cappy Ricks they have the champion colored tennis player while Jenkins is rated as the fastest man in baseball and one of the best colored diamond all-round performers. Mayers is the man who has held Nat Holman and Johnny Beckman and so on, each having a strong claim to fame.

Both teams expect to use their best and preparations have been made for a capacity house. In the preliminary the Plainfield Buddies will meet the Laural five of South Manchester. Admission for the game will be 50 cents instead of one dollar, as was charged on the last appearance of this team. The preliminary starts at 8 p. m. with the main game at 9 o'clock.

WORCESTER AND DANIELSON BOXERS AT WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 28.— That there ought to be some fast action and maybe a little slaughtering is putting it mildly when one scans the line-up of plucky amateurs that have been lined up for the eight-bout show to be given at the Al-Pierre Tabarin here Thursday night, March 1, under the auspices of the Connecticut A. A. U. The matchmakers of the Willimantic A. C., who are staging the bouts have succeeded in bringing together some real class in the amateur circles. Louis B. Peloquin of Danielson will escort to the local ring a quartet of four Danielson fighters including his son, Rene Peloquin, who has made a very favorable impression on local fans. George Chase, rotund battler, is another, to say nothing of Sydney Nichols, 112, and Joseph Billings, 135. There will also be a fast team from Worcester. Charlie Rayhall, who carries the well-wishes of Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard, will engage "Fannie" Connor, a former Windham High school athlete. They will weigh in at 150 pounds and as both have been pruning down to the pink of condition, the go should prove a treat.

JOE CURRIE CLEARED OF "FIXING" CHARGES

HARTFORD, Feb. 28—(AP)—Joe Currie, veteran New Haven boxer, was cleared of charges of participating in a "fixed" bout at a hearing before State Athletic Commissioner Donohue in the state capitol today. New Haven and Bridgeport newspapermen were witnesses, all saying that they saw nothing wrong in the fight. It was charged in newspaper articles that Currie and Ralph Coma, also of New Haven, had discussed fixing the fight. Donohue found the charges unsubstantiated after conferring with Assistant State's Attorney Johnson on the evidence submitted. Currie will be allowed to retain his boxer's license but has been removed from the list of referees in this state.

FAT MEN TAKE CLOSE ONE FROM LIGHTWEIGHTS

The Fat Men of the Y senior gym class took the annual game with the Lightweights Tuesday evening at the Y gym by 16 to 13 in a hard fought and interesting tilt. Lightweights: Capt. Barber and Goldstein forwards, Blinderman, center, Murphy and Kelly, guards. Montgomery and Evans did reserve duty for this outfit.

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The date for the annual New England A. A. U. boxing championships, was set for March 12 today with indications of the largest entry list in history.

Tom Canaly, of the Boston Athletic association, who was appointed manager, has issued a call for early entries to obviate possible necessity of refusing applications due to the unwieldy size of the entry list. The bouts will be divided into eight championship divisions.

HEENEY AND DELANEY WIND UP HEAVY WORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Tom Heeney, burly blacksmith from New Zealand, hung up his training gloves today after nine rounds of work and declared himself "top hole fit" for his fifteen round heavyweight elimination struggle with Jack Delaney in Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 28. —(AP)—Jack Delaney today wound up his heavy training for his bout with Tom Heeney in New York, Thursday night by working eight fast rounds. In six of these he sparred with three training mates and during the other two he skipped rope and punched the light bag.

Delaney was not worried over his comparatively light poundage as has been reported. He contends that his best fighting weight is around 175 pounds, and although he will weigh about 178 at the official weighing-in ceremonies in New York Thursday, he expects to lose about four pounds during the first few rounds of the battle and thereby fight at his best when he is warmed up.

PASTIME BOUTS BID FAIR TO DRAW BIGGEST CROWD YET

That a packed house will greet the promoters of the Pastime A. C. amateur show on Friday night is evidenced in the sweeping interest that is being manifested in the renewal of the Farmer Steve-Harold Talbot feud. This bout is being touted as the feature attraction of the evening, which no doubt it will be, but it is also supported by a strong cast, Norwich will be well represented on the card in Vic Darr, Mush Moriarty, Johnny Dosch, Batting Paulino, Kid Swift, Johnny Day, Young Hudson, Billy Brush and Young Yacka. The Norwich boys will range in weight from 112 pounds to 157.

Westerly will send up Young Metcalf, Young Lizzio and three others who have been fighting in the eastern part of the state during the past few weeks. As usual, New London, Willimantic and Colchester will be represented on the card.

Those who saw Farmer Steve and The Fighting Motorman battle to a draw will see two very different boys in the ring on Friday night. Talbot is training faithfully at the Pastime gym while Farmer Steve under the careful tutelage of Sidney Shabecoff is coming along fine. The Bean Hill boy was a little shy on ring experience in the bout last week but is being shown how to hit and follow up his advantage. He, like Talbot, had many openings but did not follow them up. Talbot on the other hand is finishing up his training in whirlwind style. He is boxing five and six rounds nightly with all the speed that he is noted for. His sparring partners are taking terrific punishment and the boy is really developing a punch.

"RACE OF CENTURY" TONIGHT AT N. Y.

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—The prospects not only favor a victory for Lloyd Hahn in the international mile at the Knights of Columbus meet tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden, but a record-breaking race, as well, by the rugged Nebraskan.

Both Dr. Otto Peltzer, the galloping German, and Ray Conger, the slim Iowa runner, who will be Hahn's rivals in the most widely ballyhooed foot-race of the indoor season, admit it.

This concession in Hahn's favor may not be taken altogether at its face value. Neither may it be stamped as an advance alibi, for neither Peltzer nor Conger, once the race is on, will concede anything before the tape is broken.

But the "dope" favors Hahn, anyway. Conger defeated Hahn at 1,000 yards in record-smashing time, shortly after conquering Dr. Peltzer at 1,000 metres. But there is a big difference between either of these distances and a mile. To be exact, the difference is more than one-third of a mile.

"It takes endurance as well as speed for the mile," says Dr. Peltzer. "I have the speed but about the endurance I am doubtful." As he said this, the slim, blonde and mustached German, yielding his muscles to the treatment of the veteran Jake Webber, shrugged his shoulders as if to say "why worry about it, anyway?"

Conger also has the speed. This 23-year-old youngster showed that by outfooting Hahn at Kansas City. But Hahn has both speed and endurance in abundance; more stamina probably than either of his rivals, and therein may lie the key to victory for him.

Peltzer has never run a competitive mile before. He beat Paavo Nurmi at 1,500 metres in record time but admits himself it was close to his limit.

PERFORMANCE

as different as the car itself

Were greater beauty their only advantage, the new engineering principles of Dodge Brothers Victory Six would still be epochal and revolutionary.

Were greater safety The Victory's only advantage, it would still command the gratitude of a life-loving world.

Were greater economy its paramount feature, the fact would still remain that The Victory has made possible 21 miles per gallon at 25 miles per hour FOR A SIX.

But these are incidental to the basic Victory achievement. You must DRIVE the car to know about that.

Victory design is unlike that of any other vehicle in the world—and Victory performance is equally radical and remarkable.

To examine the one and experience the other will prove an event that we urge you not to postpone.

STOCK MARKET PRICES DISPLAYED A STRONGER UNDERTONE YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—Speculation quieted down considerably in today's stock market, but prices displayed a stronger undertone. Most of the standard industrials and rails continued to move within rather narrow limits, but bullish demonstrations were staged in a select assortment of oil, motor, public utility, tobacco and metal shares, several of which ran up 2 to 4 points. With one exception, trading was the smallest of any full session this year, total sales running just over 1,500,000 shares.

The renewal rate on call money was advanced from 4 1-4 to 4 1-2 per cent, but this was expected in view of the heavy month-end demand for funds and the approach of huge government financing and March 15 income tax payments. Banks called about $15,000,000 in loans during the day.

The general market appeared to be waiting for some outside development to lift it from the rut in which it has been traveling for the past week or more. Rallies in the popular stocks invariably bring large offerings which check the advance while fresh buying power and short-covering keeps most reactions within narrow bounds. Apathy of many traders is attributed to commission house advices suggesting a cautionary trading policy.

U. S. Steel common opened fractionally lower today at 138 7-8, eased slightly below that level and then ran up to 140 3-8, closing just under that figure for a large fractional gain. General Motors moved within a range of 1 point, closing slightly higher at 135 3-4. Radio was in brisk demand in anticipation of a favorable annual report tomorrow, closing 2 5-8 points higher at 92 1-2. International Nickel was run up 2 points at the expense of an over-crowded short interest.

Hudson, which was strong yesterday, ran into heavy profit-taking and closed fractionally lower at 84. Packard also lost ground, but good gains were recorded by Pierce Arrow preferred, Mack Trucks and Nash. Gabriel Snubber sank to a new low at 18 1-2 on the announcement that the quarterly dividend had been omitted.

Buying of the oils was stimulated by the extension of recent gasoline price advances, with Pan-American issues and General Asphalt making the best showing. Strong support also was apparent for the American Tobacco issues, American Sugar Refining, Brooklyn Edison, Curtiss Airplane and Sloss Sheffield Steel, General Gas & Electric A and B, Kresge Department Stores common and preferred and Spear & Co., common and preferred all attained new peak prices for the year.

National Distillers common and preferred each broke about 5 points to new low levels for the year. Christie Brown broke 5 1-2 points to 112 and conspicuous heaviness was shown by Montana Power, Peoples Gas, Pressed Steel Car preferred and National Tea.

Rails showed practically no changes of importance.

Foreign exchanges held steady in quiet trading, with sterling cables ruling unchanged around $4.88. Spanish pesetas rallied about 5 points to 16.84 cents.

Reactionary tendencies predominated in the commodity markets. Cotton futures broke about $1.50 a bale. Grain futures yielded fractionally on reports of increased Argentine offerings of wheat. Coffee futures moved irregularly higher and sugar was unchanged.

WESTERLY

PETITIONS WITHDRAWN NOT ENOUGH SIGNERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Feb. 28—Members of Westerly town council met in an adjourned special meeting Tuesday at 5:30 to further consider petitions for a special Westerly financial town meeting. The meeting was to give further consideration to three petitions presented them Tuesday, from the Westerly Fair Play committee, asking for a change in Westerly highway administration, for a redistricting of the town to make Bradford in a separate district and the choosing of the council members from separate districts of the town, also to place before the voters of the town the proposition for the appropriation of a sum for the rebuilding of Granite street. The petitions were permitted to be withdrawn, as there were not enough qualified signers and the matter of calling a special financial town meeting was deferred until the required number of qualified signers was received. Monday next, the regular council meeting date, it was voted to have the members of Westerly highway commission meet with the town fathers.

Judge William A. Wilcox, of Pawcatuck, leaves Westerly today (Wednesday) for several days' business trip to New York.

Clarence A. Vars is a business visitor in New York.

Mrs. William Grant, of Norwich, was a guest of Westerly relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shea have returned to Norwich after visiting Pawcatuck relatives.

Probate Judge Frank H. Hinckley, of Mystic, Tuesday afternoon held a session for Pawcatuck of Stonington probate court.

Miss Susan P. Coy, for many years a teacher in Pleasant street school, Westerly, was taken Monday to the Margaret Edward Anderson hospital for treatment.

Rev. J. F. Vincent, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, left Tuesday morning for Boston.

Charles E. Dewey, of New London, was in Westerly Tuesday.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—The bond market today recorded the smallest volume of trading of any full day's session this year. Price movements were negligible in the main, and the air of hesitancy was emphasized by a spurt in new offerings, as well as the imminence of large amounts of new foreign and domestic bonds.

Public offering of the $30,000,000 Norwegian loan is expected early next week. Reports that the republic of Panama is seeking an advance of about $15,000,000 also were heard, while new issues for the state of Arkansas, $13,000,000, and the city of Detroit, $15,000,000 probably will reach the market within a few weeks. An issue of $12,500,000 Certain-Teed Products 5 1-2s, offered this morning, was reported promptly oversubscribed.

Rock Island liens were the day's leaders in the railway group, while some of the "Frisco" mortgages improved slightly, probably in preparation for the road's refinancing, expected early next week. Most of the Seaboard issues again declined, but less violently, one or two of them scoring fractional advances.

Industrials were quiet and mixed. East Cuba Cane Sugar 7s were offered in large amounts, but International Paper obligations followed a strong trend. One or two of the oils reflected increasing confidence in the industry's prospects, a point gain by Sinclair 6 1-2s standing out.

Foreign issues were somewhat easier than recently. Czecho-Slovakian 7 1-2s sold slightly above 105, the figure at which they will be retired on April 1. The proposed new financing apparently had no effect on Norwegian bonds.

Moderate liquidation of treasury securities developed, but losses were very small. Liberty bonds were dull.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 28—(AP)—Pressure to sell developed in the corn market today toward the last, and some big speculative lines were closed out. A forecast of colder weather was construed in various quarters as likely to permit more free country deliveries of corn.

Closing corn quotations were heavy at 1-2c to 1c net decline, with wheat 1-4c to 7-8c off, oats 1-4c down to 1-8c up, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10c.

Corn averaged higher in price during the first part of the day, weather conditions early seeming to indicate hindrance of the crop movement. The fact, however, soon became evident that buying orders were failing to follow the upward swing of the market. It was also shown that North American supplies of corn had increased 354,000 bushels for the week, and are now 46,601,000 bushels against 46,792,000 bushels a year ago. Meanwhile, reports gained circulation that the weather had become of a character more favorable for hauling of corn in the interior. Profit-taking sales on an extensive scale then set in, and the finish was at the day's lowest level.

Evidence of an insufficiency of buying power to absorb offerings of wheat today did a good deal to incite persistent selling from commission houses, and to keep prices tending downward the greater part of the time. There was talk of good export business, but the Seaboard confirmed only 300,000 bushels, although the Canadian pool was said to have chartered 20 full cargo boats, advices at han dtold of heavy expected arrivals of wheat from Argentina and Australia, and less was heard of likelihood of crop damage to United States winter wheat.

Oats were influenced chiefly by the action of corn. Northwest houses were credited with being sellers of oats.

Provisions sympathized with declines in the hog market.

MATCH-HEAD FLIES OFF STARTING BLAZE ON UNION ST.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 28—Mrs. Gideon R. Palmer, 63, alone in a second floor, Union street apartment, suffered burned hands in a fruitless endeavor to extinguish a blaze, about 6.15 o'clock this evening. The flames started on a couch covering when the head of a match flew off, as she struck it to light a lamp. Unassisted, she tried to put out the fire with a small pan of water, while smoke filled the apartment and nearly overcame her.

Antonio Arzinaro, who conducts a repair shop just below on the first floor at 8 Union street called Frederick R. Lamb from his market adjoining when the fire was noticed and the latter rushed up the stairs in time to pull Mrs. Palmer into the hallway. Later she was taken to the highway department offices in the basement of the town hall across the street for attention. Mr. Lamb was prevented from returning to the apartment by flames and smoke. Patrolman Joseph Owens saw the blaze in the upstairs window and succeeded in having the telephone operator turn in an alarm from Box 56, Dixon square. Three pieces of apparatus responded and Assistant Fire Chief Passetti directed the streams from the booster tanks of both pumps, taken up to the front windows and thrown on the blaze. The burned couch and charred furniture were thrown out on the sidewalk and the fire was extinguished. Hydrant streams were laid but were not used. Auto traffic was redirected. The damage from fire, smoke and water will amount to several hundred dollars. The recall sounded at 7.16.

NORWICH BOOTLEGGER WAS FORGOTTEN IN JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 28—State Trooper Corporal Ernest F. Stenhouse, of Westerly, a member of the Limerock, R. I., patrol, on Dec. 31st discovered a cargo of liquor in the car of Charles P. Green, 52 West Main street, Norwich, and the charge of transportation of four five-gallon cans of distilled spirits has been on file in federal court for some time. It was not until today that it was discovered that Green has been lodged in Providence county jail since his arrest Dec. 31, 1927. Just forgotten, Green would probably have remained in jail unknown to federal officials for some time had it not been for his wife who wrote to local authorities about his case. Accordingly Green was brought into federal court today before Judge Ira L. Letts. He was given his freedom after serving an hour in the custody of the United States marshal.

Two boys' bicycles arrived in Westerly Tuesday afternoon by New Haven baggage check, which bore a card on the bicycle frame, "Westerly, R. I., to Boston and Taunton. John F. Sullivan and Ben Richmond, Troop 1, B. S. A., 108 miles in 8 hours." Beneath the sign some wag had pasted the comment "Nit! Why didn't you ride back?"

Workmen from Providence began Tuesday morning placing in position near the foundation piers of the new Westerly Central Fire Station headquarters building on Union street the two 5 1-2 ton upper sections of the steel trusses which will support the second floor of the building. These steel girders arrived from Providence by motor truck Monday afternoon and were unloaded near the front of the basement foundation. Tuesday afternoon the other section of the trusses arrived and when assembled there will be two 15-ton trusses which will be hoisted to upright steel girders, to permit a clear ground space for storage of fire apparatus.

Tuesday the steam shovel at work on the excavation of Cook hill had proceeded through Union street to nearly in front of the manual training school, formerly the old Westerly town hall building. Sections of the east abutment wall on the Frank Coy property had been toppled and the big elm stumps undermined. The steam shovel was moved about noon to begin digging at the south end of the next section to the eastward of the one already excavated. Frozen ground prevented the rapid loading of large motor trucks which were kept waiting for loads to be taken to River Bend cemetery where the earth is being used for filling low sections.

The United theatre performance was largely attended Tuesday night for the third public offerings of the Westerly Players club, when George M. Cohan's comedy "Seven Keys to Baldpate," was successfull presented by a cast of thirteen Westerly amateurs. The conductress was Mrs. John Champlin, Jr., who assisted by William D. Critcherson and Miss Katherine Foster. In the cast appeared Mr. and Mrs. Joel P. Sherman, Mrs. William Bamford, Vigia L. Lippman, Richard J. Butler, Rose Bannon, Harold Nicholas, Chrales H. Cushman, Ralph Koelb, George Ward, C. Alfred Havens, George Chapman and William F. Donovan.

Tuesday evening in the assembly hall of Westerly library building there was given the first in a series of public lectures when Mrs. Althea M. Jencks, state supervisor of home classes for women, will talk on "Adventures in Americanization."

Thomas H. Robinson, head of the English department at Rhode Island College of Education, is to deliver the other two lectures, on March 27 and April 10. He will talk on modern trend in literature and review several new books. All three lectures are open to the public.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 28—Society here was stirred, although not especially surprised today, when it became known that Councilor Robert B. Chappell has been made the defendant in a suit for non-support and in which damages of $2,000 is sought by his wife, Elizabeth Camp Chappell, formerly of Norwich Besides her personal support, Mrs. Chappell seeks the support of their two children, Robert Bishop Chappell, Jr., and Katherine H. Chappell. The action is returnable before the next term of the superior court. The instrument recites that Councilor Chappell deserted his wife and children in October 1927, at the same time ordering the wife to take the two children and move from their residence. Since being ordered from the Chappell home, plaintiff declares she has been forced to maintain a home for herself and children. Mrs Chappell further claims that the defendant owns real estate and is financially able to support his family. Mrs Chappell is the only daughter of the late Frederic Sewell and Harriet Blackstone Camp, of Norwich. Several years ago she gave her friends in New London and Norwich a jar, by opening a smart shop in New London, also during the season maintaining a similar establishment at Fisher's Island, besides a gift shop at the Light House Inn. A few months ago she started a women's apparel shop in Norwich. As she had inherited her share of the estate of her mother which divided up so that each of Mrs. Camp's three children received about $80,000, it was the general impression that the daughter's ventures in business were sort of a fad. The fact of today's suit, however, proves that the former Norwich heiress is actually forced to make her own living, as well as to support her two minor children. There are two other children, a son and a daughter. All reside with their mother, who a few months ago purchased "The house with the blue shutters," opposite Light House Inn on the lower boulevard. Although reared in luxury, Mrs Chappell has proved herself a good business woman and the past year went abroad on a purchasing trip for her four business establishments. Just what line of defense the husband will put up, none of his friends could conjecture today.

The girl was reported today as being as comfortable as could be expected at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where several stitches were taken to close the wound. It will be several days before the child can be taken to her home.

Mrs. Annunciata Russo, about 47, wife of James Russo, of 24 Truman street, died last night at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, after a brief illness with pneumonia. GROTON CITIZENS VOTE TO HAVE NEW HIGH SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 28—At one of the largest town meetings ever held in Groton, attended by such a large number of citizens that many were unable to obtain admission to the hall at Poquonoc, it was voted almost unanimously tonight to accept the bequest of the late Charles P. Fitch of $62,000 for a high school building. The meeting further passed a vote appropriating $140,000 which will permit the construction of such a building as it is intended shall provide for high school needed for the town. Provision of the will was that the high school building shall be erected as near as possible to the town hall at Poquonoc Bridge, which is the central location of the town and shall be known as the Robert E Fitch high school. A building committee of seven was appointed to arrange for awarding the contract for the erection of the school, the committee being Dr. Charles Barnum, Miss Betsy Larrabee, Charles A. Marquardt, Wilson Greer, Mrs. Lois B. Shandoer, Dr. L. B. Alyn and Charles Gildersleeve.

NEW LONDON, Feb. 28.—Meyer H. Hollandersky has been made defendant in a suit for damages. Yesterday afternoon the Phoenix Indemnity company, New York, instituted legal proceedings against Hollandersky in the sum of $600 and property of the defendant on Nathan Hale street was attached. A record of the attachment has been filed at the office of the city clerk. The suit is returnable before the next term of the court of common pleas. The writ claims that Mr. Hollandersky last year acted as the company's representative in the writing of insurance policies and that as such agent he collected premiums belonging to the company in the sum of $514.16, which amount the plaintiff has been unable to collect although repeated effort to do so has been made.

BROGAN, ACADEMY GRADUATE, NAMED GROTON PROSECUTOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb 28.—Attorney Harry Clement Brogan, who has been acting prosecutor of Groton town court a year or more because of the prosecutor Senator Warren B. Burrows, being in attendance at the legislative sessions in Hartford, and recently being appointed a federa judge, today was appointed to succeed Prosecutor Burrows by Cornelius C. Costello, judge of the court. The term of office of Mr. Brogan will expire July 1, 1929. It was generally anticipated that the young man, who had qualified for the duties of the office more than a year would be tendered the office. Mr. Brogan has been counsel for the town of Groton for three years and has otherwise fitted himself for the office. Mr. Brogan is a graduate of Norwich Free Academy, class of 1916, and of Yale, class of 1920 and was graduated from Yale law school in 1922. He was born in Boston and has resided in Groton since 1911. During 1917-18 Mr. Brogan was second lieutenant of field artillery and was stationed at Camps Jackson, South Carolina and Taylor, Louisville, Ky

Albert L. Larsen and Everett C. Hall, soldiers stationed at Fort Wright, who deserted recently, were located in New York, brought to New London last night by Sergeant Burke and locked up at police headquarters, were taken to the island fort this morning and there will be given a court martial.

A horse owned by Max Zaslow, 27 West Coit street, a pedler, had its career ended this afternoon, the animal being permanently maimed by being struck by an automobile truck, owned by A. H. & A. L. Burr, Pequot avenue merchants and driven by Joseph W. Gillis, of 14 Ledyard street. The horse-drawn vehicle and the automobile truck were being driven in the same direction on Ocean avenue. At the corner of Gorton street, when Gillis attempted to guide the truck past the team, the horse was struck and received a fractured leg. The animal collapsed in the highway and when a veterinary was summoned the horse was put out of its misery. Patrolman Elwood Bailey who made an investigation reported that the injury to the horse was the result of an accident that did not involve reckless driving and no arrests were made.

Paul A. Robinson, of Waterford, was in the police court today charged with violation of the motor vehicle law. He was fined $5, but execution of the sentence was suspended. Robinson was driving on Bank street yesterday afternoon and in turning into Jefferson avenue, did so by passing the traffic beacon on the left hand side. Robinson's act was observed by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin, who ordered the driver to present himself in court today.

Catherine June, 5, of 103 Howard street, was struck by an automobile this afternoon on that street. Although knocked down the child escaped injuries of consequence. The girl had been on the sidewalk near her home when she started to go to the opposite side of the street. The child darted from behind a parked automobile and in front of the machine driven by Joseph Rozpnlewski that was about to pass. Before Rozpnlewski could stop the car the child was struck. The driver had the girl taken to the office of a physician where it was found that she had received only minor bruises.

Mrs. W. Harry Brooks is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Darling, 191 Montauk avenue.

Herman McKern, United States Coast Guard, a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

Frank P Alexander has sold a building lot on Ocean avenue to William J. Brady.

Edson H. Strickland, about 45, of 208 Broad street, died last night at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where he had been a patient about two weeks. Mr. Strickland is survived by his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Barrows Strickland and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Strickland, of Quaker Hill, Waterford. Until his health became impaired, Mr. Strickland was manager of the former H. D. Barrows store. When he was compelled to abandon active labor Mr. Strickland went to the hospital for treatment for a form of internal trouble. After a few days he returned home, but was compelled to go back to the hospital a fortnight ago.

Charles Banta, 63, of 12 North street, was in the police court today charged with breach of the peace. The case was continued to April 30 to determine just what Banta's behavior will be in the meantime. He has frequently been implicated in rows and petty disturbances and it is believed that he is not of sound mentality. Banta quarreled with a neighbor, Mrs. Julia Leitkowsky, formerly police court interpreter, yesterday afternoon and when Mrs. Leitkowsky requested the police to compel Banta to desist in his verbal attack Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin was sent to end the controversy. When the officer arrived he was the target for a flow of abuse from the man, who was taken to police headquarters and locked up.

H. E. Ritt, 142 North Bank street, was arrested this evening by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy charged with violation of the city traffic laws and will be in the police court tomorrow. Ritt parked his automobile on the east side of North Bank street.

A throng of members of New London lodge of Elks, 360, together with many visiting members, including a representation of Elks from Willimantic, Norwich and Westerly, attended the dedicatory session of the local lodge tonight when the meeting in the new lodge room took place. It was Past Exalted Rulers' night for all of the chairs were filled by past exalted rulers of the lodge, Frederick C. Burrows being the presiding officer. A class was initiated, a banquet was served and an elaborate vaudeville program was staged. The lodge room is one of the handsomest in the state, having been altered and furnished at an expense of $17,000.

Nothing new developed today as an aftermath of the resignation of City Manager William A Holt last night, at the special meeting of the council. The resignation was tendered to become operative "at the convenience of the council," following a verbal tilt between the city manager and Mayor James A. May, relative to the one-way traffic on Bank street, between State and Tilley streets. There is no certainty that the resignation of the city manager will be a reality for it was revealed through conversation with the city manager and Mayor May today that the simple act of City Manager Holt in tendering his resignation does not necessarily make his duties as a city official. Mayor May stated that the communication of the city manager would be given serious thought before the matter was taken from the table, the disposition of it by the council last night. Mayor May further said that in the absence of Councilor Streeter from the city and in view of the fact that Mr. Streeter would not return to New London before next Monday night when the next meeting of the council will be held, it was positive that no action on Mr. Holt's resignation would be taken until the councilor returned.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

"Broadway Nights," Robert Kane's fast moving and colorful film of theatre and night club life in the city where "dawn comes up like thunder," heads the double feature bill at the Breed theatre today and Thursday, with Lois Wilson heading a cast of Broadway celebrities through the peppy piece.

How an ambitious amateur served an apprenticeship in vaudeville, blossomed on Broadway in the gayest night club of the street, and finally became the toast of the town as the star of a big musical revue, serves as the strong plot against which are set colorful back grounds of Manhattan atmosphere.

Backstage shots peeps into the underworld and a strong theme of "mother love" are among the highlights of the film.

Lois Wilson, presenting a brand new characterization, as a jazz singing chorus girl, is the star of the hit with Philip Strange, Louis John Bartels and Sam Hardy heading the supporting cast.

"The Boob," a whimsical story of youthful dreams, is the added feature.

It has as its basis the story of a youth, Peter, who after being rejected by the girl of his heart goes into the world to prove to her that the spirit of knighthood is not dead. His travels supply many opportunities for both comedy and pathos.

George K. Arthur has the role of Peter, and the other featured players include Gertrude Olmstead, Joan Crawford and Charles Murray. Antonio D'Algy and Hank Mann complete the cast.

Palace Theatre

Charlie Chaplin, in "The Circus," which will be shown for the last time today at the Palace theatre, plays a tramp, a character which is but another phase of Chaplin's concept of man. To his friend, Thomas Burke, English novelist, the star of "The Circus" to-d the genesis of his own concept of a screen character, the bedecked, be-moustached, be-derbied Charlie Chaplin, with a laugh in either huge foot. Writing in an English newspaper, Burke thus described it:

"Chaplin described to me the first sudden conception of his figure of fun—the poor, ludicrous fool, of forlorn attitudes, who would be a gentleman, and never can; who would do fine and beautiful things, and always does them in the wrong way and earns kicks in place of acceptance and approval.

"At every turn the world beats him, and because he cannot fight it he puts his thumb to his nose. He rescues fair damsels, and finds that they are not fair. He departs on great enterprises that crumble to rubbish at his first touch. He builds a castle in the air, and it falls and crushes him. He picks up diamonds that turn to broken glass. At the world's disdain he shrugs his shoulders and answers its scorn with rude jests and extravagant antics He is sometimes a gallant Don Quixote, sometimes a gallant Pistol, and in other aspects a sort of battered Pierrot.

"All other figures of fun in literature and drama have associates or foils. 'Charlie' in all his escapades, is alone. He is the outcast, the exile, sometimes getting a foot within the gate, but ultimately being driven out, hopping lamely, with ill-timed nonchalance, on the damaged foot."

An exceptionally fine bill is promised for Thursday, Friday and Saturday; "Feel My Pulse," Bebe Daniels' latest screen attraction and five splendid acts of big time vaudeville will make up the balance of the program.

Strand Theatre.

Find, if you can, a more thrilling place to stage a fight than on the wing of an airplane thousands of feet in the air. This is just one of the many hair-raising breath-taking scenes in "The Phantom Flyer," Universal's great melodramatic air film now showing at the Strand. A. Wilson, film-dom's most daring stunt and trick aviator plays the role of an heroic air ace. From the sky he saw the terror-stricken girl being pursued by a band of horsemen. He pointed the nose of his airplane downward and swooped to earth between the hunters and the hunted; then flew with her to safety. The Nerveless King of the Clouds guards the western wilds and finds the song of love in the whirling of the propellers. Lillian Gilmore is the leading feminine player.

We are also presenting "A Night on Broadway," a clever musical comedy of fifteen artists. There are pretty girls, clever dancing and elaborate scenery and electrical effects.

Occasionally there is a man wise enough to think poetry without writing it.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

St. Mary's Players.

By this time considerable interest has been stirred up in regard to the forthcoming play of St. Mary's Players. If it is difficult to tell the truth at times, what about those who avoid the truth to the telling of lies? Are "business lies" all right? Are "white lies" proper? The truth against lies—this is the basis on which rests much of the comedy in Nothing But the Truth. The manner in which this plot is worked out is going to amuse you very much. Make it your affair to see this show.

$1,000 to Boston Woman!

Mrs. Fronie M. Hale of Boston was awarded the first prize of $1,000 in the recent Eastern Dairies' "New Name" contest, which attracted more than 40,000 replies from Saskatchewan to Georgia, and from Maine to California.

The second prize of $350 was awarded to Mrs. Margaret A. Dalton of Hartford, Conn.

Mrs. Charles R. Chase of Worcester won third prize of $100, and Hartford was fortunate in having another prize winner, Mr. W. A. Goodrich, whose suggestion received fourth prize of $75.

The fifth and sixth prizes of $50 and $25, respectively, went to Miss Alice R. Starbuck of Providence and Miss Lucille Hufaud of Southbridge, Mass.

The committee of judges was composed of eminent men and women in New England, each a specialist in his field, and its decisions should be especially gratifying to the prize winners in view of the fact that but six "names" could be selected from over 40,000 which were submitted.

Prof. Charles E. Bellatty of the School of Business Administration, Boston university, was chairman of the committee, and those assisting him were Prof. A. E. Nilsson of the department of political economy at Yale university, George F. Booth, treasurer of the Worcester Telegram-Gazette, Harry W. Cornell, executive editor of the New Haven Register, and Mrs. Elizabeth MacDonald, head of the bureau of consumer research, Boston university.

A little mental arithmetic may give you some idea of the magnitude of their task. If each name submitted had been but one inch long, the line of names would have stretched more than half a mile. It laid end to end.

The winner of the $100 prize for the best slogan will be announced soon.

An official of the Eastern Dairies made the following statement concerning the contest: "Although the prize-winning names will not be used for our product in general, owing to the merger with the General Ice Cream corporation of Schenectady, N. Y., and the fact that we shall have the opportunity to use 'Fro-joy,' we do hope to be able to use them as distinctive names for our brick ice cream combinations.

"We do not doubt that we shall also have opportunities to use these prize-winning suggestions in many other ways, and we assure the contestants that their efforts have not been wasted.

"We are especially glad of the opportunity to use 'Fro-joy,' because psychologists actively engaged as university professors and men who have spent their lives in the ice cream business worked together to evolve this word which, during the past two years, has come to signify quality ice cream throughout New York state and sections of Pennsylvania.

"Because it is easy to say and because it is pleasing as well, 'Fro joy' has become very popular with the dealers who sell the product of the General Ice Cream corporation, and with the public.

"The management of Eastern Dairies, Inc., is certain that the public of New England will welcome this announcement as enthusiastically as it has been received by Eastern Dairies' dealers, and 'Fro-joy' will soon be a familiar trademark in New England through our newspaper advertising, signs and trucks.

"We appreciate the co-operation of the public in this contest, and thank them for it."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Ponselle Recital Not Yet Assured

While many have responded, registering their desire to cooperate in bringing Ponselle here by taking course tickets for the series which her recital would open, the pledges of a great many more are necessary to bring the amount required for her engagement. As this recital must necessarily be a part of the 1928-29 series all pledges to be of any value in assuring Ponselle's coming must be for the entire course and not for any one part of it.

Although the promptness of those who have responded is heartily appreciated by the committee, all those intending to support and enjoy the course are urgently requested, in view of the fact that the option on this one and only date, May 22, when Ponselle is available for Norwich closes in a very short time, to send their pledges immediately to Mr. Archibald Mitchell, 89 Broad street.

Many of Norwich's music-lovers have often expressed desire that Ponselle, the world's greatest dramatic soprano, and a girl of our own state, might be brought here. Unless she is taken for May 22nd, this spring, she will probably not again be available for Norwich as next fall's increase of $1,000 to her price would be prohibitive with Slater Hall's limited seating capacity.

Much interest is being expressed in the rest of the Ponselle course and especially in the coming of Andres Segovia, guitarist. Segovia within a short time has created a very real sensation in the musical world. He is in great demand and is everywhere playing before capacity audiences. The price of his recital has also risen much higher for next fall but by engaging him very soon the committee would be able to put him into this fine series now hoped for.

Whitefoot Starts Back

Love knows no fear and all things dares
For those for whom it really cares.
—Old Mother Nature.

That little saying is almost true, but not quite. Love does know fear, but it overcomes it. Sometimes, you know, the so-called fearless are really very much afraid. It is not one who has no fear who is brave. It is one who is afraid, but goes on and overcomes that fear.

Timid little Whitefoot the Wood Mouse wanted to go back to the Green Forest to look for little Mrs. Whitefoot. That journey probably wouldn't have seemed any journey at all to you or to me, but the very thought of it filled Whitefoot with fear. You see, Whitefoot doesn't dare travel very far in the open. He travels by darting from one hiding place to another. Too many enemies are watching for Whitefoot for him to dare go far in the open.

The more Whitefoot thought about the journey back to the Green Forest the more fearful he became. But this didn't make any difference in his determination. He wanted little Mrs. Whitefoot to come and share this wonderful new home of his in one of Farmer Brown's beehives, and the only way to get her to do this would be to go after her.

There came a moonless night. Whitefoot decided that this was the night for him to start. He would be less likely to be seen by prowling enemies. So Whitefoot ran along the old stone wall, for at any time he could dodge down in between the stones. It didn't take any courage at all to run along the old stone wall. But when he reached the end of the old wall nearest to the Green Forest he stopped. He stopped and tried to muster up enough courage to venture over where there was so little under which, or in which, to hide. You see, that part of the Green Forest nearest the Old Orchard had been thoroughly cleaned up and kept clean. There were no piles of brush lying about. At just this season there wasn't even a dead leaf under which to hide, for snow covered all the dead leaves. No wonder Whitefoot stopped.

While he sat there wrinkling his delicate little nose a little night breeze wandering along that way brought him a scent which caused Whitefoot to shiver a bit. It was a strong scent. It was a most unpleasant scent. Can you guess who it was the scent of? It was the scent of Reddy Fox. Reddy had passed along within a very few minutes.

He felt comparatively safe running along the old stone wall

"Well, anyway," thought Whitefoot. "I'll know that Reddy has been along and isn't likely to be coming. If I wait here just a bit he'll go on and he'll soon be so far away that I won't have to worry about him. He won't spend any time hunting in a place where there isn't anything to hunt for."

So Whitefoot continued to sit there, trying to work his courage up. Presently back of him in the Old Orchard he heard the funny little tremolo of Spooky the Screech Owl. Then, far, far over in the Green Forest, he heard the hoot of Hooty the Great Horned Owl. Thus he knew where these two enemies were. It was now or never. Whitefoot jumped down from the end of the old stone wall and started off through the Green Forest. He ran from tree to tree, pausing behind each tree to look and listen and peer out around the other side. He didn't go in a straight course. He zig-zagged, taking advantage of every tree and especially of the hemlock trees with low-growing branches, and all the time his heart was going thumpety-thump, thumpety-thump, thumpety-thump! All the time he was wishing that he were safely back in his new home, but he never once thought of turning back.

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE
GO LIGHT ON LAXATIVES!

Everyone needs a laxative AT TIMES. But there's no need for making it a HABIT. If you have the habit, you can be rid of it in thirty days. Or less. And this is how:

The next time you go to take any strong cathartic — don't. Instead, take a little cascara. That's not a vicious drug, but the bark of a tree. The laxative made with cascara couldn't harm a child. It is, in fact, the one cathartic many physicians will approve for children. Gentle as it is, cascarizing is just as thorough in cleansing the colon as the more powerful purges that actually sap a person's strength.

Proof that there's no habit from cascara begins the very day after taking. Instead of being clogged worse than ever, the bowels are more inclined to move OF THEIR OWN ACCORD. You may have to take cascara several times to establish regularity. But the times you need this gentle stimulus grow further apart. And you NEVER find you must increase the amount.

Cascara's ideal form is the candy cascaret that pleases any palate, and you'll find them at the first drug store you ask.

PLAINTIFF LOSES $8,000 SUIT OVER MOTOR ACCIDENT INJURIES

A verdict for the defendant, John Maus of New London, was returned by the jury on the superior court there late Tuesday afternoon in the suit for $8,000 damages brought against Maus by Mrs. Alice B. Burrows of Mystic. Trial of the suit was started in court in the morning before Judge C. L. Avery and a jury, with Attorney G. C. Morgan representing the plaintiff and Attorney Thomas E. Troland for the defendant.

The suit arose out of an automobile collision on July 16, 1927 in New London near corner of Broad street and Jefferson avenue at noon time. The plaintiff, according to the allegations, was riding in a car owned by Mrs. Theresa Grinnell and driven by a chauffeur.

It is alleged that the car in which the plaintiff was riding was proceeding in a westerly direction along Broad street, when the defendant's car came out of Jefferson avenue and crashed into it.

Mrs. Burrows claimed to have sustained injuries to her left eye, breast and head; that her back was wrenched, causing a severe shock to her nervous system; and that her injuries are permanent.

The defendant was charged by Mrs. Burrows with having failed to grant the right of way and of driving in a reckless and negligent manner.

Robert Davey, driver of the Grinnell car testified that the defendant's car was prevented from making a short turn into Broad street because of another car travelling slope and therefore he had to swing wide to miss it, crashing into the Grinnell car.

Dr. George P. Cheney testified regarding the injuries received by the plaintiff.

The plaintiff next testified and she was followed by Edith W. Burrows and Kenneth Burrows.

The plaintiff rested just after noon.

The defense witnesses included Percy L. Allen, John Maus and W. J. Tryon.

The jury hearing the case consisted of the following:

New London—Alton T. Miner, Charles R. Ogden, Charles C. Appley; Groton,—Adrien C. Hewitt, Ernest W. Brown, Ernest Allen, Addison Gray; Stonington—Mason Manning, Everett D. Chapman, Walter C. Merrill; Montville—Frank Schofield; East Lyme—Walter Beckwith.

TUBERCULOSIS NO LONGER LEADING DEATH CAUSE

That tuberculosis has lost its hold as one of the six leading causes of deaths in the state of Connecticut, was the astonishing report revealed at the meeting of the state tuberculosis commission in the capitol at Hartford on Tuesday. Statistical tables prepared at the office of the commission showed a comparison of the principal causes of deaths for five year periods since 1900, at which time tuberculosis held first place, pneumonia second, organic heart disease third, nephritis, violence and cerebral hemorrhage following.

During the first ten years of this century tuberculosis and pneumonia ran a steady race to retain their high records of first and second principal causes of death, when in 1910 heart disease began to rise and tuberculosis was dropped to third place. This place was held until 1920 and then in 1925 tuberculosis dropped to its present standing of seventh place.

Attention was called by the commission to the fact that of the seven leading causes of deaths in this state, tuberculosis has the enviable record of being the only disease to show a steady decline.

The meeting closed with many expressions of thanks and appreciation to Miss Crutcher, who is a speaker of exceptional ability and a woman of rare personal charm.

BIG TRAPPING PROFITS FOR PELT COLLECTOR

Although trappers in this immediate vicinity report a thinning out in the numbers of muskrats and skunks, Edwin White, of the firm of Morgan & White, Groton, reports that this season he has done a greater volume of business than in each of two years previous. With the season having four weeks to go Mr. White says that he has done over $4,000 more business in muskrats alone.

Mr. White does much fur buying, scouring the countryside in search of furs. He says that he buys much fur from individual trappers and that a greater amount is secured from small buyers who accumulate sizeable quantities. Recently, from one dealer, Mr. White purchased $3,000 worth of furs which required one day's labor to grade.

RESERVES DECISION ON STRIKING FROM DOCKET

Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court at New London Tuesday took the papers and reserved decision in the motion to strike from the jury docket the case of Florence E. Lauridsen, of New London, against the General Roofing Co., for which she was formerly secretary. Attorney C. Hadlai Hull, who with Attorney Samuel Rosenthal, of Hartford, represents the defendant, made the motion.

Miss Lauridsen, who as secretary of the company, maintained offices in New London, sues for $2,500 damages for salary, claiming that the company violated a contract with her when she was discharged.

She also claims that seven per cent. of the profits of the company for a period of two years are coming to her.

Attorney Hull argued that the case involved accounting and therefore a jury could not very well fix damages. He also maintained that the case would be a difficult one to try before the jury.

Attorney Arthur T. Keefe, representing Miss Lauridsen argued that the case should be tried before a jury and after the jury had rendered a verdict, if it was favorable to the plaintiff, the court could order an accounting. He said that the issues were the important things to his client, saying that certain charges made in the pleadings by the company should be proven before a jury.

Judge Avery said that he should want time to consider the matter and therefore took the papers.

NORWICH TOWN

ORGAN-BUILDER W. C. ERFF, JR., AN EXPERT THOUGH BUT 25

Included in the attendance Monday evening at the organ recital by Herbert L. Yerrington, at the First Congregational church, were eight other organists, representatives from several Norwich churches, as well as one from New London. The skiled young man, as yet only twenty-five, William C. Erff, Jr., of West Haven, who rebuilt the organ at the church, returned to Norwich Town Monday, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. William C. Erff, and his aunt, Mrs. George Bescher, to attend Mr. Yerrington's recital. Mr. Erff received many compliments at the close, for his remarkable accomplishment. While in conversation recently with a member of this parish Mr. Erff stated that he commenced his career as an organ builder at the age of thirteen, having now reached the top of the ladder in his chosen vocation.

Due to the recent choose-up of men in the employ of the Connecticut Co., a few changes have taken place on the trolley route through Norwich Town, effective Monday of this week. Henry Savage is continuing on this route evenings, running opposite Earl Fitzgerald, who succeeds Charles Roessler. Charles Ladd continues on the day route, having taken over the hours of Charles Lyons. The new man Leonard Hoagland who succeeds Mr. Lyons, is running on Mr. Ladd's former time. While it is regretted that Messrs Roessler and Lyons have chosen other routes, it is gratifying to patrons that Messrs Ladd and Savage decided to continue on the Norwich Town route. At all times they, with the two men who have left have been most obliging and courteous to all who chanced to be passengers each day on the trolleys covering this route.

The work department of the League of Service, Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington chairman, of the Congregational church, has arranged a meeting for Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Skinner, Scotland road.

The March communion service at the First Congregational church, will be observed Sunday next, at which time the reception of members will take place.

Miss Marjory Merry who holds an office position in Hartford, returned to Norwich Town, to pass the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin F. Merry, of New London turnpike. She had as her guest, Miss Irene Carey, of Toronto, Canada.

ORGAN AT FIRST CHURCH IS MODERNLY EQUIPPED

Since the recent renovation of the First Congregational church, organ, electric action has taken the place of the old wood traction, affording much greater facility and smoother manipulation of the manuals and pedal console. The two-manual keyboard has been enlarged to three manuals, with modern arrangement of stops and couplers, and the whole set in a black walnut casement covered with latest design of roller top. The old reeds, which have done duty since 1857, were overhauled and those worn out replaced with new reeds from the factory in Erie, Pa. The former straight, horizontal pedal console has been replaced by a new console, circular and concaved.

The choir organ has been enclosed in a new chest and connected for independent expression.

A twenty-note set of chimes, of unusually sweet and mellow tones, can be operated from any one of the three manuals.

Another new feature of the rebuilt organ is the crescendo pedal, by means of which the organist may with one movement of the pedal throw into action the entire set of stops and full organ, or reverse the process. This convenience is greatly appreciated by the player, as it gives him full control of volume without interrupting the process of manual execution. The convenience of the crescendo pedal was demonstrated in the closing number of the program, The Triumphal March. The chimes were heard in an old melody, Hark, Hark, My Soul, which formed a part of the next to the last number, Calver's improvisation on "Pilgrims."

During the program of Organist Yerrington's recital Monday evening some of the possibilities of the organ were demonstrated in the variety of selections chosen for the recital. There was a mellowness of tone possible to be secured only from wood which has vibrated through seventy years of constant use. There was volume in abundance, furnished by an ample electric motor, and every contact of the many thousand wires was prompt and sure. The recital went without a hitch and the auditors were not aware that Mr. Yerrington was using an instrument while in some respects familiar to him for fifty years yet in its mechanical arrangements just completed.

As always, Organist Yerrington was most generous in his effort to entertain his audience by demonstrating the beauty of the instrument in every possible way.

Mr. Sterry showed himself a violinist of temperament, taste and refinement, playing with a big, virile tone, yet with noteworthy delicacy and restraint.

In compliment to Mr. Yerrington, organists of nearly all the Norwich churches were numbered in the audience.

Doctor Claims CAMPHOROLE Stops Agony of Rheumatism
How the New Discovery Brings the Marvelous Secret of a N. J. Doctor to Every Suffering Man or Woman.
Thousands are suffering from this horrible condition, which is mostly caused by deposits in the joints. The reason for these deposits is because the blood flows more slowly, and the little spaces in those joints where the arteries end, and the veins begin, are smaller than any part of the body. Therefore, the deposits in the blood are more liable to lodge in the joints of the shoulders, elbows, wrists, knees, ankles, toes, hands, etc.
CAMPHOROLE, the new powerful penetrating treatment of Dr. Bridgeville is rapidly absorbed in these areas and aids the joints in driving out these deposits that cause trouble. From the first application of CAMPHOROLE you will feel a soothing, healing sensation as it penetrates the tissues, going deep into the joints, easing the trouble and stimulating circulation.

An old Maine woods recipe gives the finest baked-bean flavor known

They have a unique way of baking beans in the logging camps of the Maine woods. They bake them in the ground!

The big round-bellied bean pot is filled with the flavor-rich ingredients—lots of brown sugar, molasses and prime sugar-cured pork. Then it is put to bake all night long in the "bean hole"—an oven in the ground.

This gives the finest baked-bean flavor known. A blend of forest fragrance, pungent wood smoke, fresh earthen oven.

And now this same wonderful woods flavor is reproduced for your own table. In Bean Hole Beans! You'll be delighted with this new achievement in flavor. It's so different! Enjoy it today. Ask your grocer to send you 2 or 3 cans. Two sizes —medium and large.

NO WOMAN CAN KEEP HOUSE EFFICIENTLY
Without Good Health

MRS. FRANK DINDORE
BOX 239, LANCASTER, OHIO

Four Walls Can Make a House, but it takes a Woman to Make a Home

To be a successful homemaker, a woman must guard her health. When mother is not well, the home is upset. Women everywhere are learning through their own personal experiences, as these women did, the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lancaster, Ohio.—"For ten years after my marriage, I had poor health. I was on a visit to my sister in Utica, Michigan, and she had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Her husband got me a bottle and I took it and felt so much better that I got a second one. Now, whenever I feel run-down I take the Vegetable Compound and soon feel all right again. I have had three little girls in the last six years and do all my housework, sewing, washing, and ironing. My time is pretty well taken up, but I will answer any letters I receive."—Mrs. Frank Dindore, Box 239, Lancaster, Ohio.

Sturgis, Michigan.—"I am very thankful for what your medicine has done for me and have recommended it to others. I took it to give me strength before my baby was born. I would have to stop work and lie down sometimes all the afternoon. I felt as if I did not care whether anything was done or not. I got tired out so easily. One day I found a little book on my porch and that night I showed it to my husband and he went down town and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The medicine has helped me so much that I was soon able to do my work, and when my baby was born, my nurse, Mrs. Forbes, said it was the easiest birth she had ever attended. I will be more than pleased if I am helping someone else by giving my testimonial."—Mrs. Edward Persing, 614 Sturgis Ave., Sturgis, Michigan.

If Dreams Were Sold in the Market

If dreams were sold in the market-place,
What kind of a dream would you buy?
The maiden answered with glowing face,
And the love-light in her eye:
"I would buy a dream of a gallant ship
Come dancing over the foam,
Of her captain hold in his stave of gold,
And her sails all set for home."

If dreams were sold in the market-place,
What kind of a dream would you buy?
"I would buy a dream," said a happy youth,
"Of honor and purpose high,
Wrought into the work of the coming years;
A dream of a loving bride;
Of work well done and home well won,
And my children by my side."

If dreams were sold in the market-place,
What kind of a dream would you buy?
And the mother lifted a tender face
And said with a longing sigh;
"I would buy a dream of my absent boy,
For what could be sweeter bliss
Than to clasp his hand in the land of dreams,
And give him a mother's kiss?"

If dreams were sold in the market-place,
What kind of a dream would you buy?
And the man lifted his calm, still face
To the light of the Western sky:
"I would buy a dream of my childhood's days,
A dream of the household band;
Of the hills and the rills, the vales and the dales,
Of my own dear native land."

So ever and on the soul will dream
From its first hour to its last;
Backward and forward in search of good,
In memory and wishing cast.
But, oh, the joy when we shall awake
In that land we are going to,
And find that the good and the beautiful dreams
Of our hearts have all come true.

Garden and Cradle

When our babe he goeth walking in his garden,
Around his tinkling feet the sunbeams play;
The posies they are good to him,
And bow them as they should to him,
As fareth he upon his kindly way;
And birdlings of the wood to him
Make music, gentle music, all the day.
When our babe he goeth walking in his garden.

When our babe he goeth swinging in his cradle,
Then the night it looketh ever sweetly down;
The little stars are kind to him,
The moon he hath a mind to him,
And layeth on his head a golden crown!
And singeth then the wind to him
A song, the gentle song, of Bethle'm town,
When our babe he goeth swinging in his cradle.

—Eugene Field.

"My dear, he clapped his hands—"

Parent (sadly)—No—the big account was sent to me!—Passing Show.

He—I should think your many activities would cause you to neglect your children.

She—Oh, no; I employ a governess to do that.—Wall Street Journal.

"I think I'll take this one. It seems to have a permanent wave."—Answers, London.

A rough looking fellow came up to the bank window and made a heavy deposit.

"Won't you join our Christmas club?" the receiving teller asked. "It's well to be prepared regardless of how well your job pays."

"Thanks, I have a club," the affluent one replied and walked out, leaving the teller stroking his chin reflectively.—Detroit News.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The most hazardous jobs in this country are, first, driving in coal mines; second, powder making, and third, being a railroad brakeman.

The "S" in the name of Dr. S. K. Wei, Chinese educator, stands for Sidney, and is taken from the Ohio town of that name. Dr. Wei adopted it when in his youth he went to Ohio as a student.

Once in a while the rich uncle dream comes true. When L. D. Gilbert of Hilt, Cal., handed his wife a letter from an uncle he laughingly remarked that there might be a check for $1,000,000 inclosed. Mrs. Gilbert opened the envelope and out dropped a check for $1,000. The letter explained that the uncle had suddenly become possessed of money and had decided to give each of his seven nieces and nephews $1,000 for Christmas.

For the first time in history an Egyptian woman recently appeared unveiled on a ceremonial occasion in the presence of the king of Egypt. This record was established by Madame Hackel, wife of the editor of the Egyptian newspaper Al-Siasa, at a reception given in Paris in honor of King Fuad at the Elysee palace by President Doummergue. Whatever the monarch may have thought, he received Madame Hackel most graciously, but other Egyptians present openly expressed their disapproval of her advanced ideas.

Bad colds are upsetting hat traditions in France. Public speakers at outdoor ceremonies are more and more keeping on their head coverings. Eminent men like Paul Bourget of the Academie Francaise are setting the fashion. Members of the Academie last year signed a round robin agreeing to wear their hats at cold weather funerals, an altogether revolutionary decision, for in France it has been regarded as a necessary mark of respect to the dead to uncover during the often long speeches and ceremonies at the graveside.

Nearly 4,000 years old, a loaf of bread, found in a middle Kingdom cemetery of Egypt, is on exhibition at the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago. The loaf was obtained by the museum through Prof. James H. Breasted, Egyptologist and head of the Oriental institute at the University of Chicago. The bread is believed to have been placed in its ancient grave in conformity with the belief of olden days that the dead need food. Made from coarse grain, the bread was wrapped in a mummy covering. Professor Breasted estimated that it dates back to between 200 to 1500 B. C.
